BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1922

HON. R. MONTY ADDRESSES CONSERVATIVES

HALLOWE'EN PASSED QUIETLY

NO SERIOUS DAMAGE REPORTED

The younger generations of Belleville were out in strength last night, and in costumes that betokened the spirit of the evening. Reports this morning showed that no damage of any moment to property had been done. The young people dressed as tramps, boys, sports, ladies, etc., paraded the streets and exchanged repartee with each other and with pedestrians. Some of the costumes were beyond description as no garment in line of thought was given in their preparation, and evidently these celebrants just collected a miscellaneous lot of discarded wearing apparel and "built" a costume. In these outfits there was often present a open disregard of the art, for which these children had originally been intended and the resultant effect was neither male or female, but neuter. There were many who had the burnt cork on their faces, while others purchased a ready-made facial disguise. One young man parading in toilet clothes, experienced great difficulty with his figure, as it was continually slipping and shifting. His mate, a youth with white trousers, sporting a large flaming red polish in the rear, was very gallant and considered "first aid" on several occasions.

In the residential sections children were out, using pea shooters on strangers, ringing door bells, and otherwise using up their superfluous energy. In a few instances front gates were unhinged, and sections of walks dislodged, but no serious damage was done. On George Street a lawn seat was seen hanging from one of the branches of a large tree.

There were a large number of pyrotechnic parties where taffy pulls, duckling for apples, and other appropriate stunts were pulled.

Chief Kidd and his men had no part in the celebration, as no calls were sent in, and they are glad to have had out of the fun they were naturally anticipating.

There was no lack of action around town last night, and it is a great credit to the city that there was nothing done to damage property or other wise disconcert citizens. No ill-minded individual could take exception to a Hallowe'en such as was celebrated last night in Belleville.

RAIL SHIPMENTS ARE BRISK AS IN WINTER

Fort William, Oct. 30.—During Sunday and today (Monday), from three two ports, from the many elevators at the head of the lakes, the enormous quantity of five million and twenty-five thousand bushels of grain was shipped out. All the elevators are working day and night, with a full complement of men on hand. Freight trains laden with all-rail shipments are continuously travelling east. The all-rail shipments, which in other years have been practically nil at this time of year, are almost as large as during the winter, season, after the close of navigation.

NEW HEAD OF C.N.R. WILL BE DETAINED

Sir Henry Thornton May Not Reach Canada Till December

Ottawa, Oct. 30.—A further delay in the return to Ottawa of Sir Henry Thornton, President of the new Canadian National Railways Board, has been occasioned by the necessity of him attending the final meeting of the directors of the Great Eastern Railways in London about the middle of November. At that meeting concluding steps in the amalgamation of that road with other Eastern Railways will be taken, and, as Sir Henry possesses an intimate knowledge of matters relating to that question, the Great Eastern Board has requested him to attend the meeting. Consequently Sir Henry will not sail for Canada until the third week of November. He is expected to arrive here on or slightly before December 1.

LLOYD GEORGE AND YOUNGER STRUGGLE FOR SUPREMACY

OLD-TIME POLITICAL BATTLE BETWEEN LLOYD GEORGE AND SIR G. YOUNGER

London, Oct. 31.—The general election campaign is increasing in bitterness. The events of the last few days prove that the old struggle between Lloyd Georgeand Sir George Younger—"the captain and the cabin boy," as they were called in former conflicts—is revived on an intensified scale.

To-night's revision of the list of candidates already in the field shows 462 Conservatives, 170 National Liberals, 208 Independent Liberals, 110 Laborites and 33 women running under various banners.

It is daily becoming clearer how all party lines are confused and obscured by the fact that mainly through "Lloyd Georgeism" both the Conservative and Liberal parties are divided into opposing camps, leaving only the Labor Party as a solid entity with a defined program.

The Whitehallgarden meeting on Tuesday, in which Mr. Lloyd George, the Earl of Balfour, Lord Birkenhead and Sir Robert Horne participated, it seems, was concerned in an attempt to persuade Premier Bonar Law to acquiesce in an informal meeting between Conservatives and National Liberals. Mr. Balfour had seen Mr. Bonar Law previously and the matter was discussed over the week-end at Whittingehame, but apparently Sir George Younger is irreconcilable and won't hear of any accommodation, and much as Mr. Bonar Law, who has been throughout a close friend of Mr. Lloyd George's, would like such a pact of co-operation with the National Liberals, he cannot run counter to Younger and the "die-hard" section who brought about the fall of the Coalition and who are determined at any cost to keep the Conservative party free of any alliance of the kind.

Although, as far as is known, Mr. Lloyd George has taken no action on his threat to run candidates against the Conservatives, it is believed to be impossible things can long remain in the present state. Mr. Lloyd George declared to-day he would not sit quietly and see his followers wiped out at the dictation of Sir George Younger or anybody else. Strong efforts are being made to induce the patching up of the quarrel, but apparently without result.

Winston Churchill, who has recovered from his illness sufficiently to be removed to his home, although he will still be confined to his rooms for a few days, sent a letter to his constituents today strongly opposing abolition of the Ministry and expressing the hope that Mr. Bonar Law will, on further consideration, withdraw from a position hastily taken; otherwise, Mr. Churchill believes, he will resist that decision in Parliament.

COMPLETE BRITISH MINISTRY

NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN APPOINTED POSTMASTER-GENERAL

London, Oct. 31.—Premier Bonar Law tonight issued the list of the remaining officers of his Government, in which there is seen a fair infusion of members of the House of Lords. His appointment of a Minister of Pensions does not necessarily mean that he has yielded to the Laborite clamor against the proposed abolition of that Ministry, but is considered more likely merely a formal appointment to carry on the work until the Ministry can be abolished by legislative act. Agitation against abolition of the Pensions Ministry, however, is gathering force.

Sir Montague Barlow, who was Parliamentary Secretary to the Labor Ministry in the Lloyd George Cabinet becomes Minister of Labor, and the Privileges portfolio is taken by Major George Clement Tyron, who was Secretary under the Lloyd George regime, being connected with the Ministry which he is now to be the head. Sir Samuel Hoare is appointed Air Minister and Neville Chamberlain Postmaster-General.

Other appointments have been announced as follows:

Commissioner of Works—Sir John Baird.

Solicitor-General—Thomas W. H. Inskip.

Civil Lord of the Admiralty—The Marquis of Lintithgow.

Financial Secretary to the Admiralty—Commander Bolton Meredith Eyres Monsell.

Secretary for Overseas Trade—Sir William Johnson-Hicks.

Secretary of the Board of Trade—Viscount Wolmer.

Secretary to the Ministry of Transport—Lieutenant-Colonel Wilfred Ashley.

Secretary to the Ministry of Health—The Earl of Onslow.

Secretary to the Board of Agriculture—The Earl of Ancaster.

Secretary to the Treasury—Lieutenant-Colonel Leslie Orme Wilson.

The following under-secretaries have been appointed:

Home Office, Lieut.-Col. George F. Stanley.

Foreign Office, Ronald McNeill.

Colonial Office, William G. A. Ormsby Gore.

War Office, Walter E. Guinness.

Air Ministry, the Duke of Sutherland.

Colonial Office, Earl Winterton.

Financial Secretary to the War Office, F. S. Jackson.

WAITING FOP CANADIAN CONSENT

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Chicago, Nov. 1.—As soon as Canada consents to the project for the St. Lawrence River-Great Lakes-Seaway waterway, work will be undertaken, United States Senator Charles Townsend of Michigan declared today in an address before the Chicago Association of Commerce.

CONFESSES MURDER THAT WAS NEVER COMMITED.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Woodstock, Nov. 1.—H. H. King, prisoner in Guelph Reformatory, has made a confession in which he states that he murdered a Woodstock druggist on December 29, 1920, when in company with the Maxwell brothers of Loudon, he robbed the store. The confession has been sent to the local police. As no holdup was committed and no one was murdered here at the time stated in the confession the local police are at a loss what to make of the case. They hold the view that he is suffering from a hallucination.

ALLEGED ROBBERY

STORIES CONTRADICTED

Canadian Press Despatch

Brockville, Nov. 1.—Both Provincial police and Crown authorities for Leeds County discount stories of alleged grave robberies in this district, in which the county asserts to pay a sum not to exceed $1000 to those directly effected by the closing of the road. It was stated on the road forthwith, and furnish the county clerk with the necessary bylaw.

KING GOVERNMENT LOSING GROUND

CONSERVATIVES NOT IN SUCH A MINORITY AS RESULTS SEEM TO INDICATE

Toronto, Oct. 31.—That the people of Canada made a very costly change when they handed over the reins of power to the present administration, was a notable statement made by Hon. Rodolphe Monty, K.C., who was Secretary of State in the government of Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, in the course of a rousing address delivered at the Luncheon of the Liberal-Conservative Business Men's Club held at the King Edward Hotel yesterday. There was a large attendance, the president of the club, Mr. H. C. Hamilton, in the chair.

Hon. Mr. Monty has the characteristic grace and charm combined with the occasional fire of the French Canadian orator. He held his audience in captivated attention for some forty minutes, during which period he covered a wide range of the political and historical field alike. He even reminded Toronto of its French origin, and ably developed his theme for harmony between the two neighboring provinces, so many of whose interests, he claimed, were of such an identical nature.

Agreed on Essentials.

Hon. Mr. Monty, who had an enthusiastic reception for which he expressed his gratitude, said that the history of Canada, while it recalled much of the strife which had existed between Ontario and Quebec, recalled at the same time the fact that on essentials they did always agreed, and that they had a common ground upon which to build a home common to them both. Why, he exclaimed, the very City of Toronto acknowledged its French origin, resulting as its name witness the fact that it sprang out of an old French trading post called Fort Rouille, built 175 years ago by Captain Portneuf. Then who did not know that the City of Kingston was at one time the celebrated Fort Frontenac?

Daily occurrences, in and out of Parliament, are proving to the hilt, with irresistible logic, that the people of Canada made a costly change when they gave the reigns of power to a party that is merely the name of what it has been in the past, and never put into execution a single one of its electoral promises.

A Sad Awakening.

"This is, indeed, a very and awakening," emphasized Mr. Monty, "and many are the Liberals today, awakening no secret of their hope in a future resetting of our political situation, who are sorely bewildered platforms tearing with other chances which have thrown to the winds century old principles, while carpenters and plasterers are decorating the historic house of their late chieftain."

LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE OFFICERS

On Saturday, Oct. 28th, a very successful meeting was held in the Oddfellows Hall when the degree of admission of the Moose was exemplified, there being a class of 20 members initiated into the highest mysteries; after which all partook of a dainty supper. After supper a selection of music took place and the following were duly elected.

Great Noble Moose—Bro. Charlton.
Assistant Herder Moose—Bro. Day.
Guoany Moose—Bro. Cochrane.
Custodian of Records—Bro. Bence
Argus Moose—Bro.Davis.
Auditor Moose—Bro. Green.

Roy, Quebec, manager Vivian Glass, of Manchester, England; Rev. F. Wood, Toronto, etc., and a number of others enroute to Europe from the Orient. Capt. Evans who is chief commander with the British Navy, has had a notable career, he succeeded Capt. Scott in command of the British Antarctic expedition, just previous to the outbreak of the war and commanded the famous "Mohawk," which bombarded the right wing of the Germa army from off the Belgian coast in 1914. During the last two years he was in command of the British ship "Cornlide" of the British Squadron in the Chinese sea and made his name famous by his rescue of three hundred Chinamen, who were shipwrecked on the White Rocks, near Swaton, in the steamer Hong Mah. In recognition of this act, the committee of Lloyds have just lately awarded Capt. Evans a special gold medal, which will be presented to the Captain upon his arrival in England. In addition to these, the King has conferred a silver medal upon him for saving life at sea, and silver medals are also to be bestowed upon Lieut. Commander Foore, and three members of the Carlisle crew. Capt. Evans who returned to England will endeavor to head an expedition to be set to the Horn Islands.

MASONIC LODGE DULY DEDICATED

DISTINGUISHED MASONS ATTEND AND TAKE PART IN CEREMONIES

U.S. GOVERNMENT IS CRITICIZED

Canadian Press Despatch

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 1.—Former Governor James Cox of Ohio last night bitterly attacked the Republican administration and its attitude on the Turkish situation. He also had strong condemnation for George Harvey, United States Ambassador to Great Britain, because of his public statements in England. The present administration, he said, had violated the fundamental principles of Government. He charged that certain favored financial interests had been given Governmental preferences. During the regime of President Wilson, he said America had its greatest prosperity while today it was suffering from its greatest depression.

WHY CANADIAN DOLLAR IS AT PAR

New York, Oct. 31.—(By Canadian Press).—The New York Herald, commenting on the fact that "the Canadian dollar is taller now by a fraction of a cent's width than the dollar of Uncle Sam," declares it is natural that Canada should be proud of this fact as it is also, in short, time since Canadian currency was at a discount of 16 or 17 per cent. in United States money.

"The change registers a story of prosperity and sound business conditions of which any country would have a right to be proud," continues the Herald, "Several things have combined to bring about this happy state of affairs.'

"In the first place Canada has turned an adverse balance of international trade into a favorable balance, and, of course, the very foundation stone of foreign exchange, is established in favorable balances."

"Again, Canadian Government and industrial loans have met very hopeful reactions in American money markets, with the result that flow in large sums across the border.

"Large amounts of money have been spent in Canada by tourists hedging outlaws. A substantial boost to Canadian prosperity came from this source."

"American motor car tourists have contributed to it importantly. In the last twelve months 697,000 cars and motor cars crossed the border into Canada. On the basis of an assumed seven-day trip and an expenditure of $25 a day for each car it is computed by Canadian statisticians that the total of American money thus left with our neighbor reached upward of $100,000,000. This is not a staggering amount, to be sure, in these billion dollar days, but it is a tidy sum.

"Canada may well be exultant over the recovery of her currency."

COUNTY BRIDGES TO BE CLOSED

LILY CREEK BRIDGE, RICHMOND, RENWARD BRIDGE, SMALL, WILL BE CLOSED THIS WEEK, SAYS ENGINEER

At 10 a.m. today, Ontario Road Survey and Municipal Board sat at the Court House. D. M. Mathews, K.C., was Chairman of the Board, A. B. Ingram, C.E., Toronto, and Wilbur Hall, C.E., Secretary.

The first matters to receive attention were the county bridges, and the first case dealt with was that of the bridges on the above road of the Provincial Highway near Richmond. The county engineer, Mr. Ketcheson, explained the bridge situation. The bridge leaving Belleville by Mr. McKinnon, through his property has risen from 6 to 8 feet. Mr. McKinnon, however, testified that the foundation of the bridge or question was firm in the country being a very hard gravel bed. The cost of a new bridge would be $6,000 and $10,000 with approaches if it were a 40-foot span.

The road is scarcely used and abandoned, is very hilly, and has many curves, several of which have many years unrepaired on account of the bridges. Mr. Mathews, in this locality, Mr. McKinnon testified to the poor condition of the road, and of his received permission to use Mr. Clemen's property (for driving his stock to pasture, he is not greatly inconvenienced.

John Clemens testified that Mr. McKinnon had no right of way on his property, and that he was content with his settlement with the county.

John Doyle was also willing to stand by his settlement with the county.

James K. McKinnon testified that he had 65 acres of land on the west side of the creek, 20 acres of which is tillable. Witness explained that he had no way of getting to that land, the bank with a load, except by trespassing on Mr. Clemen's property unless the concession was opened up.

Damages of $500 would satisfy witness so he stated, as he would swap the private bridges.

In giving the decision of the Board, Chairman McIntyre stated that it was their duty to allow the county to abandon this bridge, as Mr. McKinnon had no right of access from the west portion of his property to the highway except by trespassing on Mr. Clemen's property, hence he had no legal right to have the bridge maintained as a link between the two parcels of his land.

His property abuts the new Provincial highway, the latest and most up-to-date route, which privileges him to use, and which he also assists in paying for. In view of the ambition of the province, counties and townships to continue in the bridge of direct, and up-to-date routes, the abandonment of old roads should be discouraged.

GEDDES CORRECTS CURRENT REPORTS

'E IS NOT OPPOSED TO AP-POINTMENT OF CANADIAN MINISTER AT WASHINGTON

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—One of the subjects which Sir Auckland Geddes, in leaving to discuss with the Canadian Government during his two days' stay in Ottawa, according to reports received with the announcement of his coming, was the proposal that Canada secure direct diplomatic representation at the Republic of the South. Since his arrival here the British ambassador to the United States has described his visit as purely a visit one to Baron Byng of Vimy, the Governor-General. Sir Auckland has also denied emphatically the Washington reports that he was opposing the appointment of a Canadian diplomatic representative at Washington.

TUNISIAN ARRIVES IN QUEBEC

TUNISIAN ARRIVES WITH PROMINENT PEOPLE—INTERVIEW WITH REV. H. H. ASLAM

(Special to The Intelligencer by J. Harry Smith.)

Quebec, Oct. 30th—The Canadian Pacific 16,700 ton steamer Tunisian from Glasgow and Liverpool in command of Capt. D. W. Hodge, arrived in Quebec at 12.45 p.m. today with 781 passengers including 58 infants who were classified with the steamer to the number of 1,020, in splendid appreciation of British ports. Two were landed for immigration inspection and at five o'clock were transferred to their waiting destinations by C. P. R. special train.

Among the returned Canadians were Mrs. A. Adams, R.I.C. Bailey and Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. C. Brickles and the Rev. R. B. A. Haslam, M.A., Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. R. Anderson, Revelstoke, B. C.; Mrs. and Miss J. S. Bishop, Mrs. A. and Master W. Dunlop, Edmonton, Alta.; Mr. H. J. Bennett, Calgary, Alta.; Mr. A. Brown, Mr. C. Byrne, Mrs. A. A. Edwards, Mr. J. T. Greenwood, Mrs. and C. Monroe, Miss Monroe and Master Morrow, Mrs. McDonald and Miss J. McDonald, Winnipeg, Mrs. C. Chance and son, Ottawa; Miss M. D. and Miss E. M. Fraser, Mrs. C. Spicer, and Miss Mrs. Spicer Bloomsbury, Sask.; Mrs. Caldwell, Bothwell, Ont.; Mr. J. A. Campfield, Mrs. N. Boyle, Mrs. and Miss C. McCallum, Montreal; Miss E. McCallum, Montreal; Miss E. McCallum, Mimico, Ont.; Mrs. McFarlane, Vancouver; Dr. A. Newton Brady, Orillia, Ont.; Mrs. Nicholson, Smith Falls; Mrs. D. Pritchard, Parr River, B. C.; Miss M. D. Smith, Paris, Ont. Among the prominent cabin passengers was the Rev. R. H. Haslam, M. A., graduate of the Toronto University who spent nine years in missionary work in connection with the English Church at Pangesah, India, and returned to Canada in 1919 where he became secretary of the Upper Canada Bible Society and six months ago proceeded to England to carry out work in connection with the Colonial Continental Society work. To interest the Church of England at home in the need of training young men to come out to Canada and the Canadian West to work the new settlers. Rev. Mr. Haslam who was recently appointed rector in charge of the church in Saskatchewan, and also carry on work in connection with the Emmanuel College at that place under the jurisdiction of Bishop Lloyd is now returning to Canada to take charge of the church and the work in its connection.

Rev. Mr. Haslam in the course of an interview said he spent six months in India and during that time had a very interesting experience. Although evidently well posted on the political situation in the United Kingdom he did not care to discuss it for publication. He thinks he would however, say that Lloyd George was very popular with the masses of England who recognized the very strenuous work that he carried out for the Empire and the Allies during the war. But on the other hand he was not a favorite with the aristocracy. But in this regard there were very many changes in England of late. Of those who had a profound respect for Lloyd George and these nevertheless felt that he suffer the very active and strenuous work he had passed through he deserved a vacation to recuperate. Speaking of his future duties at large, the Rev. Mr. Haslam referred for example to the period of time in the history of Canada and the United States from 1628 to 1643 twenty thousand English immigrated for settlement in the Eastern United States at the Cambridge University and later the descendents of those immigrants had to make a choice as to whether they would remain loyal to the Crown of England or become citizens of the American republic. Those New England loyalists preferred to immigrate to Canada and many of their descendents are now supporters of the C.C.F. society.

It is an emulation of those loyalists that there is a strong determination today to carry on church work among the emigrants from the United Kingdom in all parts of Canada and the West that will maintain them loyal subjects of the empire or rather the spread and maintenance of the imperialism.

Speaking of immigration from the British Isles to Canada Rev. Mr. Haslam said: "In my judgment the Canada wants to bring British immigrants to Canada and the West more propaganda should be carried out than is being done at the present. Australia and New Zealand are making every effort to attract British settlers in the country and if Canada is not more active in its propaganda the current of immigration will be diverted to these two countries of the British Dominions.

HALF MILLION FOR OSHAWA HARBOR

Oshawa, Ont., Oct. 30.—Representative businessmen of Oshawa are thoroughly aroused over the auditor's report alleging irregularities in the town's affairs, this being shown by the fact that the Board of Trade which for some time had been inactive, met tonight to consider the best procedure in the town's interests and had the largest attendance present in the history of the Board.

Dr. T. E. Kaiser told of the fight the town had waged for 20 years to procure a Federal grant for a harbor, the sum of $50,000 had been placed in the estimates several times, but afterwards withdrawn, partly due to the war and changes of Governments. On his suggesting that a deputation be sent to Ottawa to interview Premier King, his proposal was adopted and the following men selected to comprise the committee:—Deputy Reeve F. L. Mann, George W. Annis, vice-president of the General Motors Company, G. D. Collast and A. E. Lowell. Before going these gentlemen will gather data as to traffic to and from Oshawa. It was pointed out last night that Oshawa will pay a large sum to Ottawa approximately $7,000,000 in customs and excise returns.

L. G. Clifford, M. P. for South Ontario, announced that he had been informed that included in the Government estimates was the sum of half a million dollars, which he had been assured had been appropriated for improvements to Oshawa harbor. This announcement was received with applause and cheers.

D. G. Clifford, who has been endeavoring for bring about the annexation of Cedardale to Oshawa, declared that Oshawa's future growth depended to a large degree upon the annexation of that village, and this was also vital to receive the full benefit from the $500,000 grant just foreshadowed. After discussion the Board went on record in favor of the annexation of Cedardale.

George McLaughlin of the General Motors Company, while approving the auditor's report, said that while there were probably irregularities, funds, especially the financial affairs of the town were sound.

SCHOOL and CAMPUS

The Ruxby season, being finished, the school has returned to normal times again. The exams. for the monthly report are now over and life is dull and fast, and homework is piling up high.

On Friday night the second of the literary entertainments will be held in the City Hall, at 8 o'clock. It is a splendid debate between the senior middle school and the junior middle school. The subject is an important one to the citizens of Belleville at the present time: Resolved, that capital punishment be abolished.

A short one-act play entitled "A Pair of Lunatics" and a violin solo and reading will be on the same splendid programme. There will be a silver collection. Everyone welcome.

ARCTIC WEATHER STATIONS PROPOSED

Washington, Oct. 31.—(By Canadian Press).—Canada, is to be asked to participate in an international project for the establishment of a chain of weather stations along the Arctic circle. The scheme has been launched by Prof. Eckerold, one of the foremost weather experts in Norway, and S. S. Westher Bureau in his plan, is now in Washington interesting the

The Arctic stations, expects say, would increase the period for making accurate forecasts from one week to two —in other words, double the efficiency of the weather service.

SINCLAIR'S

Afternoon Frocks Of Graceful Lines

Gowns adopt various devices to illustrate the trend of style. Pleated panels, lace draperies, embroidered net, beautiful hip ornaments—all have a definite part to play. The colors sometimes need a bit extra trimming—a Frock of Spark Canton Crepe is bewitchingly simple, as are several other models in Henna, Nile Green and Canna. Radium Lace combines charmingly with Velvet or Satin in Navy, Mohawk Brown and Black.

In all sizes. $22.50—$50.00

Salts' Plush Coats Are Guaranteed

Our Salts' Plush Coats have sold so fast that there are very few left. The Esquimette and Hudson Sealskin are represented in a number of styles. The sleeves are varied and the backs may be loose or belted. The coats feature roll or large cape collars, while one has cuffs and collar of Wolf-tail Sable. All have guaranteed linings in plain or brocaded silk.

Remember that the stock is limited. $32.50—$110

Beads from Southeastern Europe

From the leading glass works of Europe—Venice and Czechoslovakia they come. In many colors they add the finishing touch to an otherwise incomplete costume.

Cabochons Lead in the New Trimmings

If one would keep in step with Dame Fashion, one must be buckled. In metal and jet, large buckles for hip ornaments are very prominent.

90c. — $2.25.

Substandard Heather Hose

Colder days make warm stockings necessary, and though not very slightly imperfect, these Heather Hose are very satisfactory. 59c. pair.

PETERBORO ASKS FOR RULING

IN SIMILAR CASES TO CASE OF WAY MALLEN OF THE LOCAL CLUB

Now that the ball season is over and there is no danger of being accused of trying to take advantage of technicalities, it might be well for the Central Ontario League and the O.B.A.A. to take note of the case of Mallen of the Belleville team, who in accordance with the spirit of the Central Ontario League constitution, was certainly not eligible to play with Belleville, says the Peterboro Examiner. Mallen's home is in Morrisburg, and he did not arrive in Belleville until the first half of the league race was well under way. He was finland to be eligible under the O.B.A. Rule, which permits a player in a town or village where there is no organized baseball to play with the nearest affiliated league. That rule was never intended to let a Morrisburg man come as far west as Belleville to play ball, and if it is held that Belleville's opposition in the Mallen case is correct, it would simply mean that Belleville, being the furthest eastern O.B.A.A. centre, could bring in a player at any point between Belleville and the Atlantic seaboard. Similarly, Sudbury could have the whole of Western Canada at their reeking field and Belleville could demand half a dozen American States under the same ruling.

It would be well for the O.B.A.A. to pronounce on the matter before next spring.

Jack Bentley, Baltimore twirler, the "Babe Ruth of the International League," will wear the uniform of the New York Giants next season.

EX-PREMIER MEIGHEN SEES MENACE

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Ottawa, Nov. 1st.—Right Hon. Arthur Meighen told the University Club of Ottawa yesterday that Bolshevism was multiplying from beneath and contracting on top. For decades there had been the wording out of the highest cultural attainments and the spawning of lower classes out of all proportion, so that civilization was menaced. The superstructure of civilization was being heavily weighted while the pillars of support were weakening. There was a necessity for the production of a virile race that would accept its responsibilities.

TORNADO IN MISSOURI

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Webb City, Mo., Nov. 1st.—One woman was killed, fifteen persons injured and about thirty houses were demolished by a tornado which struck this city early today. One hundred persons are homeless. Four persons were unaccounted for, and it was thought they were killed and buried under debris.

Mrs. Dale Could Hardly Climb The Stairs

"I want to tell what Tanlac has done for me for the benefit of others," said Mrs. John Dale, 48 Catherine St., South, Hamilton, Ont.

"About three years ago I began to suffer from rheumatism, which kept getting worse until something over a year ago, when I found myself in almost constant pain. At times my arms up to my elbows became so swollen and painful I couldn't raise my hands above my head, and my fingers were so stiff I could scarcely hold a coffee pot to pour out the coffee.

I could hardly go up a flight of stairs on account of the stiffness in my muscles. I became so nervous the noises made by the children playing about almost made me frantic. No medicine did me any good, and I just seemed to be constantly growing worse.

"Seeing so many fine statements in the papers about Tanlac, I decided to get a bottle and see if it would do me any good. My rheumatism got better with the first bottle, and now that I have finished my second bottle, the last trace of it is gone. My nervousness is gone, too, and I am so happy over being free from pain I can't fully express it."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

—About the only thing cars lack now is an accessory to cuss pedestrians for getting in the way.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1922

AGE SHOULD INSPIRE YOUTH

Mr. Raymond, M.P. for Brantford, at St. Thomas replied to those who say that Canada should not undertake to operate her railways because it has never been done before. "If there is anything I hate it is to have people say that a thing should not be undertaken because it has never been done before or that would have stopped Columbus. If it has never been carried out successfully before, I have confidence that if any people can do it Canadians can."

A man in his seventies talking in that way ought to be an inspiration to younger Canadians. History adds weight to his words. It was in Canada that the idea of self-government for a British colony orginiated. Canada established the first British federation. The Canadian Pacific Railway was a Canadian enterprise, originated and promoted by Canadians, and generously aided by the Canadian people. We need to put this Canadian spirit behind the National Railways. Much is expected from the new board, but it ought to be supported by Parliament and by the Canadian people. Every citizen should do his bit to make the enterprise a success.

Too much is made of the alleged failure of Government railways in other countries. Australian railway management is hampered by the various gauges, which are due to the fact that railway building was well advanced upon States lines before federation. Neither in Great Britain nor in the United States has public operation of railways ever had a fair trial. It was a war measure, not intended to be permanent. In Canada the Inter-colonial, the only Government railway for many years, was laid out largely for military purposes, and passed through many miles of unprofitable territory. For a long time it ended in a field opposite Quebec, and even the extension to Montreal left it an Eastern line, able to obtain business in Ontario and the West only in an indirect way. Even with these disadvantages its record compares favorably with that of any private railway enterprise except the C.P.R.

Under public ownership the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Northern have done better than under private control, and they should do better still when combined into one national transcontinental system. The croakers should take heart from this history, as well as from the inspiring words of Mr. Raymond, and the youthful enthusiasm and courage which he maintains after three score years and ten.

Editor's Note—Mr. Raymond and his Liberal party associates very caustically criticized every act of the late Meighen Government previous to the elections last December, and they were particular to strongly denounce the Meighen railway policy. Within a few months we hear Mr. Raymond thus praising the foresight, and the faith in Canadians shown first by the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and his Conservative party, who had courage enough to act on his convictions.

MOTOR ACCIDENTS

With the number of motor vehicles in use on our highways increasing by leaps and bounds it is only natural to expect the number of accidents will also mount. These accidents however, are becoming altogether too common, and in a large percentage of instances the cause has obviously been carelessness. The number of cars has increased more rapidly than the driving public can be educated, or laws be drafted to control the traffic. It does however, appear to be high time that the causes of these numerous accidents should be more fully investigated. The law at the present time permits any person over the legal age limit to operate a motor without interference. No person should be permitted to operate a car without a license to do so, and these licenses should only be obtained after it is shown that the applicant is a careful, capable driver, and familiar with the rules of the road. Careful drivers will do more to reduce the number of accidents than all the legislation and traffic officers in the country. Thus if only careful drivers were licensed the number of drivers would be reduced somewhat, but on the other hand the number of accidents would be greatly reduced. Furthermore a driver's license should be subject to cancellation if carelessness was evidenced in driving. This requirement would be apt to promote the use of good judgment in driving. Such a form of legislation would probably be a hardship temporarily, but very soon we would have a nation of careful drivers.

By far the greater number of accidents occur at street intersections and probably a by-law that called for a reduced speed at intersections would reduce the numebr of collisions.

Apparently there is a large number of individuals who can, and do, insure themselves and their cars against all contingencies and then go out on the streets and highways and burn them up, much to the discomfort of other less adventurous individuals. Insurance is an excellent institution but it is sometimes abused.

The majority of drivers are careful, and it appears that this is another case of the minority causing the majority, to suffer.

Pedestrians themselves are not altogether blameless in many cases. Children are especially careless in this respect. Grown-ups too, frequently in pre-occupied moments are very careless crossing streets. Thus motorists are not always to blame. Even the most careful drivers occasionally meet with combinations of circumstances which inevitably lead to trouble.

OAT HULLS DANGER LIVE STOCK

When Their Inclusion In Feeding Stuffs Is Legal and Illegal

Oat hulls contain very little nutritive material for the feeding of live stock and are exceedingly difficult to digest, points out Circular No. 11, just issued by the Seed Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. In fact, the circular goes on to say, feeds containing a high percentage of hulls have not infrequently been blamed for causing injury and even death to live stock. Happily, since the passing of the Feeding Stuffs Act in 1909, the trade in such weight hulls has been gradually checked, and at present few manufacturers take the risk of using them in an unlawful manner. This is proven by a statement in the Circular that the percentage of oat hulls used in samples submitted to the Ottawa feed laboratory from various sources has fallen in the past four years from 40 per cent. to 25 per cent. A score of examples are given of the illegal use of hulls as compiled from the analyses of samples received in the ordinary way for microscopical examination at the Ottawa laboratory. These indicate that the practice has not been confined to any one province, but it is gratifying to be told that during the past two years much has been done to protect the public by officials of the Seed Branch with the enforcement of this Act.

In brief, the Act limits the classification of feeds to three main groups, namely, commercial feeding stuffs, chops, and mill stuffs, and requires a statement of ingredients to accompany each container of such stuffs or "chop" offered for sale. A summary in the Circular, which can be obtained free of cost by application to the Publications Branch of the Agricultural Department at Ottawa, explains that the hulls are generally used either unmixed or mixed with other materials. Unmixed they are usually pulverized, and appear on the market under the attractive brand names and frequently without the proper labelling required by the Act. Mixed they may occur with more or less ground oats, where they often pass as oat chop; with bran, one or more ingredients as commercial feeding stuffs, in which case their presence should be stated; or with mill feeds either with or without screenings. When sold in accordance with the Act their use in feeding stuffs is with in the law, but when used as an adulterant the seller and the manufacturer are liable to prosecution.

Some families just will spend their money for food when there isn't a good pair of silk stockings on the premises.

THANKSGIVING DAY

A large number of people could year take advantage of the long week-end holiday provided by Thanksgiving Day to visit relatives or take a trip to some place of interest. The Grand Trunk are expecting heavy travel this year on account of the holiday, and provision has been made accordingly. Additional equipment, coaches, sleeping cars and parlor cars have been arranged for in anticipation of this traffic and extra sections of regular trains will be operated from Toronto on November 4th in order that convenient accommodation may be provided for all passengers.

First section of Train No. 45 will leave Toronto 4.30 p.m. for Barrie or beyond if necessary.

First section of Train No. 139 will leave Toronto 5.45 p.m. running through to Palmerston.

First section of Train No. 15 will leave Toronto 5.45 p.m. to London.

Above trains will make same stops as regular trains and first section of No. 15 will also stop at Inarcrest.

The service of the Grand Trunk Railway, (the double track route) to such points as Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, London, Detroit and Chicago is particularly convenient and attractive. For full particulars of service and all information, apply to Grand Trunk Ticket Agents.

SWALLOWED EVIDENCE MADE HIM CROKE

New York, Oct. 26.—The time honored trick, beloved of fiction writers, of swallowing the evidence, almost caused the death, on Thursday of Dominic Pecora, an alleged bootlegger.

As two detectives approached him, Pecora stuffed several slips of paper into his mouth. One of them bolted in his throat and he was nearly choked before an ambulance surgeon arrived and removed it. The slip bore the notation "Stone Jug."

When he had recovered, he was arraigned and held in bail of $100.

HERE AND THERE

A "LEARNED" USE OF LATIN ROOTS

The use of Greek or Latin roots from which to form new words, required by the advance of scientific knowledge, is almost universal among learned men. On the whole the practice is useful, but it can be carried to absurdity. Dr. Brudenell Carter, the English oculist, in one of his books, protests against doctors who air their supposed attainments by coining horrible verbal compounds that are usually intended to express very simply conditions.

"I have, he writes, seen dacryoystosyringokatakleisis used to express obstruction of the tear duct, and amblisteiroicitis to express inflammation of the retina of the eye. I once met a country cabinetmaker who built wooden frames, covered with needlework, to protect polished fenders against the fect. He sought a name for his contrivance from his schoolmaster, who furnished him with antitribospodothecidion and with a literal translation—an against-friction-of-the soles receptacle!—Youths' Companion.

HIS FORTUNE

It appears that the depreciated currency is the great joke in Germany now. Music-hall comedians bring down the house with this kind of patter:—

"Have you heard that Fritz has retired?"

"What for?"

"Well, an uncle in America sent him a dollar!"—Daily Express.

TO LIGHT LONDON BY NOISE

The prospect of London being lit by the noise of its own traffic is suggested as the result of a new application of Piezo-electricity, a process by which sound is converted into power.

Piezo-electricity is the property possessed by certain crystals whereby they generate electricity when subjected to vibration. Two Cambridge undergraduates have harnessed this force to the needs of commerce and the invention is being shown at the wireless exhibition in London.

ANTIQUE PRINT OF BIBLE

An edition of the Bible nearly 400 years old, which was in a large collection of books recently presented to the Cambridge Municipal Library, is valued at $100,000. Identity of the woman donor of the collection of books was kept secret. The Bible, it was said, is one of four extant in the world. It was a product of the hand-press of Peter Wuentels in Cologne in 1527. The other copies are in the British Museum.

THE MAN WHO FAILS

Poems are sung to the men who have wrung
From out of the storm and stress,
From out of the strife and the struggles of life,
A goodly amount of success.

And it is quite true, much honor is due
To those who never have quailed;
But I'm singing a song in a voice loud and strong,
To the man who has tried and failed.

To the man whose aim would have brought him fame,
But fate gave a sudden twist
And he lost command, so I offer my hand
To the man who has shot and missed.

I do not despise the one who can rise
O'er obstacles in his way,
But my pity awakes and a strong grip it takes
On the one who goes down in the fray.

For he cannot get away from regret,
And circumstances holds him tight,
So my sympathy goes—I care not who knows
To the under dog in the fight.

WASTE NOTES

Thrift co-operation on the part of domestic purchasers made the 1922 Rummage Sale a success. Proceeds were about $175.00 for which the Union thanks all who attended.

Evangeline Booth, recently informed by the Central to be prepared for re-election of General of S.A. pledged in New Yorkers a drive for $500,000. Promised citizens composed a committee of which Jas. Speers was chairman. On learning that Mr. Speyer was vice-president of the "Citizens Against Prohibition," the Booth suggested that his name be dropped from the chairmanship. Despite the influence on Wall Street and well Tsarovo financiers, she affirmed the Army would sooner forego the $500,000 that have it succeed under "wet" influences. Consistency is more than money.

Satire may be dry but they talk. In 1914 streets were 14247 for vagrancy disorderliness and drink. In 1921 they were 6727. This for Toronto.

Thirteen had 1432 drunk in 1919, and 982 in 1921.

According to police court records, the Dominion had convictions for drunkenness in 1914, 60057; in 1921, 34362; a reduction of 42% in seven years, while in the same ten years our population has increased 2136%.

A Windsor butcher who feared his trade would suffer, when prohibition came in, now tells of three particular customers couples who used to have a credit of $60 or more. They have wiped out their debts, and now pay cash on each slump their orders being about double what they were in bar-room days.

HOUSEKEEPING HINTS

Children's Bedroom Slippers can be made from discarded felt peasants' hose, and old purses and check book covers for soles.

When Painting a Ceiling, cut a large rubber ball in half and push it up the handle of the paint brush as close as possible. The cup catches all the drip and saves unsightly spots on the floor or furniture.

Do Not Throw Aside the carpet sweeper because the wheels are worn. Bind the wheels with adhesive plaster to the former thickness and the sweeper will run smoothly again.

Small Children Going to School and able to dress themselves, usually have a hard time telling their right shoe and rubber. As they are taught their right hand and foot in school, paste a small piece of adhesive tape in the right shoe and rubber, and they never need ask "which is which."

I Keep a Wornout Phonograph Record in my dresser drawer to pull my silk-on cloth over when I take them off and they are always smooth when I need them again.

Here is a Substitute for Christmas candlesticks in spring clothespins. Melt one end of the candle and stick it on the clothespin, clamping the other end on the tree.

To Mend Fur Which is Torn or falling to pieces, apply adhesive tape to back of skins. This will hold the fur intact adding to its life and use.

Soiled Pillows Can Be Cleaned by soaking in gasoline in the wash-boiler for a short time. Turn it over and let stand, then shake the feathers about and squeeze out the liquid before pinning on the line to dry. Several can be cleaned in the same gasoline, and after the dirt settles the clear gasoline is good for further use. This process is good after contagious diseases and of course should be done outdoors and away from any fire.—McCall's Magazine.

The Daily Recipe

SPONGE TAFFY

Pour cups granulated sugar, ½ cup water, 1 teaspoonful cream tartar, ½ cup vinegar, 1 tablespoonful of glycerine, 1 teaspoonful of vanilla. Boil sugar and water, vinegar and glycerine together until leidenter will spin a heavy thread. Remove from fire and when is no longer boiling add cream of tartar and vanilla. Pour on a large buttered platter and when cool pull until white. Boil and delicious and makes two pounds of taffy. Also.

DAUGHTER HAD TO HELP MOTHER

How Can Do All Her Housework Alone Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Jasper, Minn.—"I was in the poorest about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took it because I was having so much pain in my stomach and thought my back was broke that I could not do my work. I had tried other medicines, but none did me like the Vegetable Compound. Now I am able to do all my work alone while her daughter is sick. I have told a number of friends what it has done for me and give you permission to use my letters at any time."—Mrs. JAMES PETERSEN, Route 1, Jasper, Minn.

There is no better evidence than that type-by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound than this—its help to suffering women. So if you suffer from displacements, irregularities, inflammation, soreness or are passing through the Change of Life women, get this splendid medicine. What it did for Mrs. Petersen it may do for you.

The Vegetable Compound stands upon a foundation of nearly fifty years of service.

TO MAKE GOOD TEA

An earthenware or china pot is without doubt the best utensil for making the perfect cup of tea.

There are many brands and brands of both green and black tea from which to choose. Some persons like a blend of the green and the black.

Water must be freshly boiling to draw out the flavor and to give the desirable sparkle. Tea must never be boiled, and should not stand long on the leaves, for the tannic acid, which tea contains in even larger quantities than coffee, is more easily drawn out, making a bitter as well as harmful beverage.

LINKED LIVES

By D. Kinmount Roy

"Then the chic failed until Monsieur our cane so strangely to our hamlet, bringing with him the fragments of the original documents in the notary's own handwriting. It was most and most wonderful, a strange civil fate which had been permitted, no doubt, for some wise end. These things are hid from us, but numerous devoutly crossing himself, and the gentle old man's voice broke for the first time, 'Madame murdered! and the child of the Lady Madeleine lost! Lost among strangers! Where will all this end! What sin of ours has wrought this web of wretchedness? Can it be protected, the hapless self. 'She was pure as the angels of God, and yet, she suffered, suffered, suffered to the end!'

Aynsworth sat still and stern. He had absorbed the upsiling story in the humility of his evil purpose, with fuller knowledge than the cure could bring to it. He was altogether content to leave the inscrutable to the All-Knowing, but for the present his concern was to see justice, pitiless justice, done upon the perpetrator of so many crimes. Aynsworth was not indeed the dare-devil of the past, but he was still a long way from the chastened, patient, piety, of the old priest. The world of human affairs is shaped by many influences, and it was clear that Aynsworth's work, whatever it might be would always partake of the earthquake and fire which ruled, rather than the pervasive power of the still, small voice.

Next day a little after dawn, Aynsworth left the hamlet carrying with him the fully-attested evidence of a well-planned villany, which lacked no element of passion, greed and treachery to make it wholly revolting in its calculated wickedness.

Fortune had favoured Eric Hardcastle so far, good success had smiled upon him, prosperity had crowned him with wealth and lands, his fellow-men looked up to him, and his son assured him that his name would continue, and possessions be handed on in lawful succession to his heirs.

He was well content with his own life. He knew all the highways and byways of a merry world, and had no serious regrets, nor unfulfilled ambitions." What more could a man desire? Certainly he at least had no ground for discontent, it was a pleasant enough world as he knew it. Had his wife lived it would have been altogether more satisfactory. Reginald was so young when she died, and young children, he told himself, really need a woman's care, and then there are so many ways in which a man's wife can be of use to him. Still, it might have been worse, yes, much worse; her death certainly made a tiny ripple of pain on the surface of his pleasant existence, and he was decently miserable for a short time. Perhaps we do him an injustice. He may have had real pangs of sorrow, for each man have a singular capacity for attachments that fit in with their plans and purposes, without clashing at any point with their dominant desires. And men of cool reflectiveness, like Hardcastle, age often look forward to the immediate break in the continuity of their lives, to the time when their grief, as it is, will have spent itself, and the world will be as gay and satirfying as before.

Besides, a great sorrow, or what ought to be a great sorrow, is in the nature of a new sensation; it makes a man interesting to his fellows and secures him their consideration. It calls a truce to all bitterness, save among the most debased, and the wave of human kindness flow over a man's blackest misdeeds for a time. True, the tide will ebb byandbye, leaving the slime, and once and fosthome things visible once more to the light of day. But that is not yet, and what is not yet, may not be, or may be, or may be different in kind or degree, and wise men like Hardcastle never make themselves miserable by anticipating events which at the worst may be modified or neutralized by circumstances that are still among the hidden things of the future.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Donahue, of Rear street, Campbellford, are visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Frank Fitzpatrick, of Belleville.

Mrs. Bryson Donnan, Charles street, leaves Saturday on the S.S. Megantic to spend a few months in England. We wish her a pleasant voyage.

Master Allan McKee, corner of Bridge and Albert streets, gave a very enjoyable Hallowe'en party last evening to his little friends.

Miss Doris Vermilyea returned to Toronto yesterday after spending several days in the city.

Mr. R. W. Boyce, son of Dr. W. W. Boyce of this city, landed in Southampton a few days ago and proceeded to London where he enrolled in a medical course in St. Bartholomew's College.

HAMILTON CONSTABLE SEIZES WEDDING PARTY AND GROOM PAYS $200 FINE.

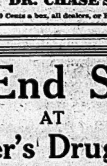

Hamilton Oct. 31.—Alfred Patrin, of Montreal, while passing through this city on his honeymoon yesterday had his experience with the O.T.A. that added $200 to his expense account. He was transferring a flask of whiskey as a wedding present, from a suitcase to a sweater coat when Constable Sindall saw him. As the liquor was filled with suitcase the constable took the party to police headquarters in the depot that he had made a big haul. Early this morning Magistrate Jelfs ordered that the $200 be added to pay the fine imposed.

MASQUERADE PARTY

To commemorate Hallowe'en, a masquerade party was held last evening at the home of Mr. George K. Graham, 169 Bridge Street east. Some fifty guests were present and the costumes worn by a number were unique and in some cases somewhat shadowy. During the evening an orchestra provided a programme of music that was much appreciated. The prizes were most hospitably entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Graham who were royal ideal host and hostess.

"I Was Terribly Weak After Baby Was Born"

Mrs. H. McClare, Norwood, Ont., writes:

"After my baby was born, I was terribly weak and run down, with pains across my back. I had heard so much of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that I decided to try it. Three boxes proved enough to make me quite strong and well again. I also used Dr. Chase's Ointment for a rash which broke out on the baby, and he was disappointed completely in a short time."

CANADIAN AUTHORS' WEEK Oct. 30-Nov. 4

SOME CANADIAN AUTHORS OF TO-DAY

FACING THE PUBLIC WITH NEW BOOKS

CANADIAN BOOKS FOR CANADIANS

In a circular entitled "Recent Canadian Books" just issued by the Department of Education of the Ontario Government, the names of 169 books written by Canadian Authors are cited as having proved popular in the circulating division of the Public Libraries of Toronto. From this publication it is evident that the writers of this country are not confining themselves to one field of literary activity, for the books are classified under the following subjects:-

Topics of General Interest	12	Platform Sketches	2
History and Biography	10	Nature Books	5
Travel and Description	10	Social and Religious	6
The Old Country Through Canadian Eyes	4	Educational and Psychological	6
The War	2	Fiction	62
Books Which Illuminate Our History	9	Poetry	21
		Drama	3
		Juveniles	15

No greater evidence than this could be produced in proof of the greatly increased output of and interest in Canadian books, for a few years ago the number of Canadian Authors whose names were known to the general public could be counted on the fingers of two hands.

Much of the credit for this increased interest is undoubtedly due to the activity of the Canadian Authors' Association, an organization which came into existence just eighteen months ago, but which already numbers nearly 1,000 members with branches from Halifax to Victoria, B.C. A notable achievement of the Canadian Authors last year was the plan of Canadian Book Week, which concentrated the attention of the bookreading public for six days last November by means of public addresses, newspaper and magazine articles and exhibits at libraries and book stores. The result was that the names of Canadian Authors became familiar to their fellow citizens, and the demand for their books rapidly increased. In quite a number of cases these authors were already known in the United States. One recent book entitled "Contemporary American Literature" lists five authors who are really Canadian.

"The success of the first Canadian Book Week has resulted in a decision to repeat the experiment, and a large number of addresses on Canadian Literature are featured in the current programmes of Canadian Clubs, Rotary Clubs, Kiwanis and other organizations. The movement is thoroughly national, as the French-Canadian Section of the Canadian Authors' Association has its "Semaine du Livre" with a similar programme of speakers, lectures and library exhibits. Last year, particularly fine exhibits of Canadiana, including manuscripts of the first French Explorers, attracted many thousand visitors to the St. Sulpice Library and the Municipal Library in Montreal."

MUSIC & DRAMA

ALL PRESENTING A "A TAILOR MADE MAN" AT GRIFFIN'S TONIGHT

"A Tailor Made Man," Grace Mitchell's famous Broadway success is being presented by the popular Hoss Company at Griffin's tonight. This delightful comedy with studded with humor, comedy, romance in numbers of intense interest to everyone, and the audience who have witnessed the performance of the first few evenings are a unit in declaring "A Tailor Made Man" to be one of the best plays he has so far presented in Bellaville. As usual reduced vaudeville will be presented between acts.

NORMA TALMADGE SCREENS "THE SIGN ON THE DOOR"

Norma Talmadge, in her latest First National picture, "The Sign on the Door," will be the feature attraction at Griffin's tomorrow night and Saturday matinee and night.

"The Sign on the Door," is a screen adaptation of Channing Pollock's stage play of the same name which enjoyed a long and highly successful run on Broadway with Jane Cowl at the head in the leading part.

In the stellar role of Mrs. "Lade" Regan, pretty young wife of a man of wealth and high standing, who becomes involved in a tragic situation by reason of an indiscreet affair before her marriage, Miss Talmadge has a part which gives her histrionic ability a wide range of opportunity.

Prominent in the cast are Charles Richman as "Lade" Regan, Lew Cody as Frank Devereaux, Hedda Hopper as Helen Regan, Paul McAllister as the district attorney, and Robert Agnew as Alan Churchill.

Scenes from "The Sign on the Door," were filmed at Palm Beach and New York. The production is said to be one of the most elaborate and interesting yet produced at the Normal Talmadge studio.

Larry Semon in a two-reel comedy titled, "The Show," Round Three, of "The Leather Pushers" series, and Pathe News Weekly will be exhibited in addition to the above feature offerings.

SPEEDY WESTERN FILM STARS "HOOT" GIBSON

A speedy western drama spiced with rollicking humor and an occasional blast of dynamite partly describes "The Loaded Dog," Hoot Gibson's latest Universal starring vehicle which comes to the Regent tomorrow or Saturday, matinee only. The story is of a band of smugglers trafficking in whiskey and narcotics across the Mexican border, hampered by none save a dinky county sheriff who is not equal to the task. Playing the leading role, opposite Gibson is Gertrude Olmstead, winner of a national beauty contest in Chicago, and one of the most popular of Gibson's "baby stars."

"The Loaded Dog" gives Gibson plenty of chance to fight and frolic through the whole five reels of thrills and humor. In this latest of his Universal starring vehicles, Gibson materially strengthens his reputation for being the finest horseman on the screen.

"Dark Horse," a two-reel Century comedy featuring "Queenie" the human horse, Vodevil Movies with its all star vaudeville program, Pathe News and a star comedy will also be exhibited on the same program.

THE "DUMBELLS" HERE FRIDAY

Four years ago today the last thought in the minds of the young men who are now presenting their new show, "The Dumbells Revue of 1922," from Victoria, B.C., to London, Eng., was that at some future time they would come to be recognized as one of the most successful theatrical organizations of the present generation.

For four years ago these same young men, then known only as The Dumbells, were toiling night and day in the trenches, never knowing on the morrow of the small rest hereby battled Canadian army on the Arras front. In the morning they went "over the top" and that didn't mean a Pullman couch either—it was literally a road to the case of what-dotted hell-way of France.

The afternoon was spent preparing the "theatre," usually a T.M.C.A. hut, at night they gave two performances to the war-weary troops either from the front line or in their way back after a few days' rest.

For three years after the war they continued to present, through Canada and the United States, various versions and editions of their original overseas revue. This period has included recruiting from such as thirty-four weeks in Toronto for a season in New York, where they were received with the utmost cordiality.

Now, they have forsaken war topics and war songs and have recently produced an elaborate musical comedy revue, fashioned along the most modern lines with every line and every song written expressely for them.

Their farewell appearance here will be staged at Griffin's this Friday night, and they have two more nights in Canada before they sail for the United States, where they will be seen for one night only.

OBSEQUIES

CHARLES BULPIT

On Tuesday afternoon many were present at the obsequies of the late Mr. Charles Bulpit of this city, who on Saturday last, met an untimely death at Kingston. After a brief service at the family residence, Grass St. James Street, the body was conveyed to the Salvation Army Citadel, where an impressive service was held, Adjutant Carnder of Deseronto, a former popular Army Officer in this city gave an address relative to the deceased and his worth as a man, and his allegiance to the Army. Adj. Cranwell also took part in the service. The Army band was present and rendered sacred selections. After the service the cortege reformed and proceeded to Belleville Cemetery, where interment took place. The band preceded the cortege playing a dead march. Bearers were members of the local Army corps. The floral tributes were many, and beautiful in effect, being as follows: Pillow from family; Gate Ajar from brothers and sisters; Wreath from Salvation Army Band; Sprays from nephew and niece Wesley Vollick and wife, Madoc; Spray from nephew and niece Russell Vollick and wife, Point Anne; Spray from nieces, Mrs. Ida Thompson, Toronto; Spray from niece, Chas. Beemer, Melville, Province Edward Co. Sprays from following: W. B. Hubley, City; Miss Peck's Class at Pine Street School; W. E. Parks and family, City; Mr. and Mrs. Wrightmeyer; Mr. and Mrs. Calder, Mr. and Mrs. W. Whiteman, Mr. J. Donovan, Mr. C. Hall, Mrs. Holton and family, Mrs. J. Lafferty, Mrs. B. Burley.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. Chas. Bulpit and family, Mrs. Fred Holmes and brothers and sisters thank all people for their kindness and sympathies in their sad bereavement in the loss of husband and brother; also thanks to the friends for their kind remembrances of flowers. nl-1td

Your eyes are linked up with every nerve of your body. They are a part of a number of co-ordinated parts. The brain has an inter-dependence with other organs of the body. Just as a watch, an engine or an electric motor, though in perfect condition, cannot function unless supplied with the proper energy, so it is with the eyes.

While almost any bodily disorder may somewhat affect the eyes, it is far more often that the reverse is the case, owing to the fact of the visual part having first call upon the brain—the source of the energy for the entire system.

INDIAN JAIL BREAKER

One of the latest additions to the Portsmouth penitentiary is Nelson Miracle, who was sentenced to St. Catharines to two years, and who is regarded as the silround prisoner escaping champion of Canada. Miracle a mild-looking Indian, thirty years of age, has a wife. His twice escaped Lincoln county jail, one from Grimsby, and once from the Milnico reformatory. He has served terms for horse stealing and for infractions under the military service act.

SPEAKS AT DESERONTO

Major-General Sir Archibald Macdonell, K.C.B., C.M.G., commandant of Royal Military College, Kingston, will be the guest of honor at the banquet to be given by the Deseronto and District Returned men's Club in Deseronto on Monday, November 6th, in celebration of Armistice anniversary.

SCARCITY OF EGGS

The farmers state that the shortage of eggs at this time of year is rather remarkable, as in other years there has generally been a fair supply until the middle of November.

STOLE AMMUNITION

Thieves entered by the rear windows of the 4th Class Room at the Public School at Campbellford, and got away with several thousand rounds of ammunition which was stored in Principal Hair's room. The ammunition was intended for the use of the Public School Cadets in target practice. The thieves made the entrance by breaking the small window with a stone and had no trouble unlocking the locks and swinging the window open.

FRIGHTENED AT ENGINE

Yesterday afternoon a horse attached to a democrat wagon in which were seated Mrs. J. Falconer of R. R. No. 4 Thurlow, and another lady, took fright at a shunting engine on Pinnacle street and ran away. At the corner of Front and Bridge streets the animal was stopped when it ran into an auto. Fortunately no person was injured and the damage sustained was slight.

PRESENTATION FOR THE BOYS

A meeting was held in the city building yesterday afternoon which was fairly well attended by Belleville baseball fans. Mayor Hanna presided over the gathering, the purpose of which was to arrange a reception and presentations to the members of the Belleville G. T. R. baseball team, champions for 1922 of the Central Ontario Baseball League and runners up for the O.B.A.A. Championship. A committee was appointed and a subscription list will be opened up for the purpose of giving an opportunity for all who desire to subscribe towards a fund to secure suitable gifts to the boys who did much for this city. The presentation will in all probability, take place at the same series and will be arranged for as soon as possible.

ALL SAINTS' DAY

Today being All Saints' Day it was appropriately observed by services held in St. Michael's R. C. church and Communion in the various Anglican churches.

A BRIGHT SPOT

The brightest spot on Front street last night was in front of Geen's Drug and Book Store where Mr. Geen burned some of the Red Fire prepared for another occasion (but not used as the procession did not take place). The illumination drew a great crowd of the wonderfully dressed youthful people to whom many friends of candidates were strictly forbidden to speak, on their way to the polls.

SOCIAL AT CHRIST CHURCH

Under the auspices of the Girls' Guild of the church, a very pleasant Hallowe'en Social was held last evening in Christ Church Parish Hall. Nearly everyone present was dressed in fancy costume and some of them were very effective indeed. The ladies' costumes especially were so good that the judges were forced to draw to decide the winner, who proved to be Miss Ethel Wilkinson, who was dressed as a Dutch girl. The prize-winners among the little tots were Margaret Grant as a Red Riding Hoodsta, and little Master Turner who made the prettiest "young lady" imaginable. A feature among the old boys was won by Albert Adams, as "The Sheik." At the close of the social, light refreshments were served. Everyone present enjoyed the evening immensely.

RETURNED FROM HUNTING TRIP

Mr. George Dean, of the Lingham partnership, has returned from his hunting trip much earlier than usual this Fall. Mr. Dean reports that the lake where he was hunting is frozen over. It must be much colder up north than here. Mr. Dean went as far north as Minden.

ADDRESSED LIONS' CLUB

There was a good attendance at the weekly noon luncheon held today at the Chamber of Commerce building by the Lions' Club. Rev. N. S. McKechnie, pastor of the Bridge church was the speaker, and he gave a thoughtful talk on Service. The Rev. speaker will give a hearty vote of thanks at the conclusion of his address.

As You've Always Wanted Her!

As the girl, the woman and the wife, mirroring the moods of each. In a famous play, thrilling with action.

In a role that calls for ALL her dramatic fire. Yes—and honestly—a veritable vaterpiece, so fine that it amazed even Chandler Pollock, the dramatist who wrote it.

BRITISH ADMIRALTY SCRAPS FOUR SHIPS AND BUILDS TWO

London, Oct. 30.—The Admiralty's plans for the construction of two modern battleships, in strict compliance with the terms of the Washington treaty, as announced last week, provide that four obsolete ships will be scrapped before the new units are commissioned. The plans take account of all the lessons learned through anti-submarine and anti-craft work during and since the war, with special reference to the bombing experiments carried out secretly here and with more publicity by the United States navy.

COUNTY BRIDGES TO BE CLOSED

THWAITES BRIDGE CLOSED.

Thwaite's bridge in the township of Tudor and Cashel will also be closed as it is reported from Toronto.

ABANDON THE FLATS' ROAD

The roughly-used known as "the Flats" road running from the East boundary of Madoc Township, over which work was of Elzevir to the boundary of Grimthorpe, will be abandoned according to the decision of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board. Mr. Blue, one of the said owners affected will receive $1350 for his 111 A. Jeffries and Mr. Groves, other owners will divide $1350 between them it being suggested that the former receive $500 and the later $850.

In this case, Mr. Jeffries was represented by Mr. A. B. Collins and Messrs. Hall and Groves by Mr. C. Alfred K. C. Reeve James Moore of these town hips testified that this road is an old and used many years ago by the lumbermens, but now abandoned. It was described as a bad road, rocky and marshy in places. On the north are ridges and several laketets.

When asked by Mr. Collins if he believed the road would be very essential in the event of the Provincial Government carrying out their reforestation scheme Reeve W. Wiggins, Chairman of the Committee of Roads and Bridges, explained the bad condition of the road and the bridges on it, it being described as quite the worst road in the county system. The road is used only for fishermen, fishing parties and berry picking.

Warden Wm. Kells told of the verbal agreement of Jeffries in the presence of Groves and himself to agree to accept $500 in lieu of compensation for the closing of the road; and forthwith made a written agreement to this effect which he signed. The agreement was submitted to the board and promptly decided the case.

This afternoon the city claims will be heard.

EMMANUEL CHURCH HALLOWE'EN SOCIAL

PLEASANT EVENING SPENT. MANY WERE PRESENT IN FANCY COSTUME

A Hallowe'en Social was held under the auspices of the Benevolent Society of the Emmanuel Church on Monday evening, the 30th of October, at 8 p.m., in the schoolroom attached to the church.

The president, Mr. R. E. Santer, occupied the chair and there was a good attendance of the members and their friends who all spent a most enjoyable evening.

The committees in charge of the decorations and programme are to be congratulated upon the way everything was carried out and their efforts left nothing practically to be desired and it was a most decided success and resulted in a large number of those present handing in their names to the secretary as members of the Society.

During the course of the evening the rector, the Rev. C. J. Marshall, in a few well chosen remarks commented on the results of the Society which are three-fold, namely, "To Let Good, To Be Good, and To Do Good."

The entertainment provided in the way of music, recitations, etc., was of a very refined nature and well carried out. Special mention must be made of the Hawaiian guitar duets rendered by Miss Emma Barnard and friend which were well received, an encore being demanded on each appearance. The rest of the programme consisted of songs and duets which were admirably rendered by Miss Hal Santer and Mr. Campbell. Special mention must also be made of the recitations given by Mr. Frank Findlay, the boy never was able interpretations of "The Groom's Story" and "Alaska" which both demanded encores.

A great deal of amusement was furnished by the appearance of Aunt Jemima and Uncle Joe, who fairly brought down the house with their many jokes and the rendering of "Dem Golden Slippers," a very old and well known negro melody. The two characters mentioned were very ably sustained by Mrs. L. Banter and Mr. Campbell.

Many of those attending the social appeared in fancy costume, some of which were very effective and in many instances showed great originality.

The following is a list of those present in costume and the characters they represented. It was not possible to get a full list as several present had to make an early getaway:

RAILWAY BOARD WITHOLDS FORMAL ORDER

CITY OPINION ON STATION STREET

CITY OFFICIALS GIVE THEIR OPINION ON THE PROPOSED PAVING OF THIS STREET

Alderman Greenleaf who gave evidence before the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board on, Wednesday afternoon, was in favor of the proposal, as the construction of pirmanent pavement on this thoroughfare would enhance the value of properties, he believed.

Alderman Donohue, chairman of the Board of Works, admitted, on being asked the straight question by the chairman, that the proposed $100,000 in improvement taxes on an assessment of $1,000,000 rather an imposition yet Ald. Donohue favoured the work, and indicated that some of the residents on Station street were wealthy, and not all struggling working folk.

City Engineer Chas. D. Campbell stated that of all the paved streets in the city except only the concrete base was 6 inches thickness, with a 2½ inch wearing surface. Cedar street has a 5 inch base and 2 inch wearing surface, similar to the recent work of the work done. All residential streets in the city are 24 feet wide meaning a 22 foot asphaltic surface and a 27 foot road would cost $8.806 per lineal foot.

The construction of a pavement will doubtless increase the taxes, admitted Mr. Campbell," as the street could not be in a worse condition than it now is." A reasonable residential proportion of the cost of construction should be borne by the property owners he thought, but it was the duty of the council to determine that proportionate costs.

SPECIAL MEETING OF COUNCIL

A special meeting of the City Council will be held tomorrow evening to consider the matter of paving Station street.

"FLATS ROAD" MATTER SETTLED

ALL LAND OWNERS AFFECTED BY CROSSING OF ROAD ARE COMPENSATED

At the afternoon sitting of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board on Wednesday, Edward Barrett, a former of the adjoining land to the "Flats" road which was the subject closed by the board, was awarded an $80 as his share of compensation. Mr. King, another owner of 400 acres of timber and pasture land adjoining the Crown lands and affected slightly by the closing of this road was awarded $200 as his share of compensation.

Mr. King maintained that his share should be $1,500 despite the fact that the 400 acres of land was purchased in 1908 for $300, and is now assessed at but $1.00 per acre. No claim is made by Mr. Barrett as he made but two days ago. His estimate was lowered from $1,500 to $1,000 and finally to $750.

Mr. King held that if the bridge was taken away, he would be unable to drive his young cattle over the Black River to his 400 acres of pasture land until late in the Spring, and the early pasture would then be wasted. The river is turbulent during the Spring freshets and afterwards, for some time, winds alleged, and the cattle would be unable to ford the stream. The conclusion the county has asked before the Board

AUTHORS IN THE LIMELIGHT

SIR HENRY, SAILS NOVEMBER 22

MUCH FETED AND DINED IN BRITAIN PREVIOUS TO DEPARTURE TO CANADA

London, Nov. 1.—Sir Henry Thornton, the new President of the Canadian National Railways, will sail on the Olympic on November 22, and will take up his new duties as head of the National Railways of Canada upon his arrival in the Dominion.

The former General Manager of the Great Eastern Railway has been much feted and dined since his return from Canada to wind up his business in England preparatory to taking over his new duties, indications and organizations eyeing with one another in giving him a good sendoff. Sir Henry's social engagements are keeping him pleasantly busy before he leaves for the scene of his new labors.

STATION St. VERDICT

"Harsh and burdensome," was the manner in which Chairman D. M. McIntyre of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, classified the proposed proportion of the cost of the paving of Station street, which was to have been borne by the property owners on that street, as designated by the City Council, when he gave the decision of the board, at the conclusion of the session of the board, at the court house this morning.

"These owners on the street would be burdened with a debt which would have to be met by taxes for the next twenty years and this is quite out of the question." Those were the exact words of the chairman.

In giving his absolutely fair and reasonable decision, the chairman pointed out that it was by one of three methods that public improvements could be made. Firstly, by a petition of the people, secondly, by the institution of the council, and thirdly, under section 9 of the Local Improvement Act. The board does not interfere with the decisions of any local and regularly appointed body such as a city council, except in cases of gross hardship on the property owners affected.

1. Station street is the leading street to the G.T.R. depot, carrying two, considerable highways, one of which is a Provincial highway, and in every way is an important street.

2. It needs a pavement, or some form of immediate improvement, very badly.

3. Owing to the heavy traffic, it will require a permanent and enduring pavement which will hence be an expensive pavement.

Under the provisions of the Local Improvement Act, a large percentage of the cost would fall upon the property owners. The condition of the street (which was visited by the members of the board), the ways in which to improve the board very favorably, it being designated as an unprogressive street of old buildings, residences of the poorer class, and a few, factories. The total assessment of the street, which is nearly one mile long, is but $214,420, which is exceedingly low. This approximates the actual assessment of the board, therefore and fairly. The total assessment against the properties, that can be assessed normally under the L. I. Act, is 27 feet, but there is a flexibility in the financing of the work, and the proportion of burden of the work they council may relieve the property owners of a corporation by assuming that portion of the cost of the work which will relieve the owners. The council have not done so in this case, however. If the work commenced under present plans, it would mean a matter of approximately $100,000 obligation to the property owners when the Court of Revision meets. The cost of the sewer was $52,000 and the pavement will cost $53,000 so that the total burden would be approximately $100,000.

"It is difficult for the board to work out a satisfactory scheme" said Chairman McIntyre, "after taking into consideration the occupation of the street, in which case I think the city engineer to regard the street as a residential street say, and decide upon such a type of pavement would justify the street if it were a purely residential street, and charge the property owners for a pavement suitable for a residential district in the city.

The property owners should bear some part of the common cost, which the superior cost of the pavement which will be laid, will entail, as the heavy traffic warrants the laying of a very permanent pavement, and this will doubtless tend to revive the street and increase its value. This would make additional charges on the frontages."

"I suggest that the city solicitor and the city engineer get together and work out a plan if possible. Formulate a scheme to meet the undoubted wishes of the residents, and proportionate to their capacity to pay. Inview of this proposal, the formal order will not be issued until 30 days."

"If you cannot work but a plan, appeal to this Board, and we will back up the council to the extent explained "The council had better meet in the meantime, and consider the matter further."

WILL THERE BE A NEW PROVINCE?

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Port Arthur, Nov. 1st.—The Board of Trade here last night asked the City Council by resolution to take a plebescite as to whether the citizens favored the formation of a new province, distinct from old Ontario, and with boundaries between the White River on the east and Manitoba on the west. The Board will also ask the co-operation of municipalities in Thunder Bay, Rainy River and Kenora districts and will request that they take a vote on the question.

WILL SOON BE ON HIS FEET

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—(Special).—Hon. W. C. Kennedy, Minister of Railways and Canals, who underwent two operating in Montreal hospital, is steadily improving. He expects to get on his feet in a day or two. He is in fine fettle, considering what he has gone through," said a Government official who saw him yesterday.

"DIE HARDS" STILL ARE DEFIANT

PLACE CANDIDATES IN FIELD TO OPPOSE GEORGIANS—LLOYD GEORGE STILL INDISPOSED

London, Nov. 1.—There is no doubt but that the Liberal Party Organization at this crucial time will be a decided advantage to the Conservatives. It is expected, however, that the little Welshman will have sufficiently recovered by Saturday to address a meeting in London.

It was expected he would give out a statement tonight on the distribution of seats and the alleged "agreement with the Conservatives about it. Two days have passed since he threatened to "spread the war," if die-hards contested seats where local Conservative Associations had agreed to support Georgians. In that time several die-hard candidates have been put up in such districts with the approval of Sir George Younger, chief Conservative whip.

Should Labor capitalize the present situation by failing to come to agreement with the Independent Liberals, dropping their capital levy program, the Liberal Party would be in a position that would tend to hold the Conservatives in check. But Labor and Liberals are pursuing each other's throats in many constituencies, and practically giving the seats to the opponents of both.

The woman's vote is still an enigma, but here the Liberals claim victories are signed. Mr. Baldwin will address a meeting "for women only" tomorrow, his appearances on the platform in London since he became Premier.

There has been no development today in the quarrel between Mr. Lloyd George and Sir Robert Horne, and political circles are agog to learn the upshot of the strange situation. Certainly is interested by the fact that Mr. Lloyd George alone, of all the party leaders, has not yet issued any election address. In the meantime, he is confined to his house with a cold. This prevents him from delivering two of his speeches; his condition has improved today, but he appears confident that he would be able to speak in London on Saturday.

If Lloyd George still intends to carry on his threat to run his own candidates against the Conservatives he must hasten his decision, because no additional candidates can be nominated after Saturday. Despite persistent official denials there is little doubt that underground negotiations are afoot, but nothing has been allowed to leak out as to their nature or success.

Premier Bonar Law is accredited with becoming resentful of the personal attacks on his ministers and colleagues and with intending to hit back vigorously, basing his position on the ground that Mr. Lloyd George has been more or less rejected by all parties and is banking on personal sympathy.

In a letter addressed to the British Legion of former service men, the Prime Minister explains his attitude in regard to the Pensions Ministry, reiterating that nothing is contemplated against the interests of the pensioners and that the head of the new Ministry of Pensions will not be removed until the House of Commons has had the fullest opportunity to discuss the pensions matter, at which time the views of former service men will receive every consideration.

MEETING OF POLICE COMMISSIONERS

A meeting of the Police Commissioners of the city, composed of Judge Wills, Police Magistrate Masson, and Major Hanna was held this morning. The contract for the making of overcoats and tunics for members of the police force was awarded to Mr. Charles Walters, tailor, of this city.

The Board had some other business before it in regard to the police, but nothing was done. Another meeting of the Board will be held within a few days.

LABORITES LOSE SEATS

YESTERDAY'S ELECTIONS INDICATIONS OF POLITICAL FEELING

London, Nov. 2.—Stunned by the heavy downfall of their candidates in the municipal elections yesterday, throughout England the Laborites intensified their political campaign today with the hope of making a better showing in the general election.

In yesterday's balloting they lost 149 seats, which they had previously held in London, and about 100 seats which they had occupied in eighty boroughs outside the capital, for most part in Manchester, Liverpool, Birmingham, Derby, Plymouth and Southampton. These local contests are generally regarded as an index to existing political feeling.

BIRKENHEAD SPEAKS FOR LLOYD GEORGE

Bristol, Eng., Nov. 2.—The subject of Britain's debt to the United States and the necessity for Britain from other countries was discussed briefly here today by Lord Birkenshead who addressed a meeting here today as indisposed. "Apparently the happy prospect with which we are confronted is that we are to pay everyone we owe and that no one is to pay us anything owed us," he remarked. "We do not admit America is in danger of quarelling with her good friend, Britain, when she politely reminds us that we owe her a considerable sum of money and I do not see why other nations should be so very sensitive on matters of business."

FAIR PLAY FOR LL. GEORGE

London, Nar. 2.—The Daily Mail says that today strongly urges fair play for Lloyd George, "many men who fawned upon Lloyd George in the 'Hall of his great power,'" says the Paper, "who sat on his doorsteps begging for office or favors, who found, through him, way to high authority in the past, are now content in despising the man through whom they gained name and fame. Some of them appear to want to hound him out of public life altogether or reduce him to a party of one."

SENTENCED TO DEATH

Port Arthur, Ont., Nov. 2.—Fred Sutton, convicted murderer of Constable Morton, his former employer, in Cloud Bay section, last May was this morning sentenced by justice Mowat to death by hanging on January 15th next.

ARGYLL CHAPTER MONTHLY MEETING

A VOTE OF $100 MADE FOR CLOTHING FOR FIRE SUFFERERS

The Argyll Chapter I.O.D.E. held their usual monthly meeting in the Armouries yesterday afternoon. There was a splendid attendance with Mrs. Roscoe Vanderwater, the Regent, in the chair.

An extensive and interesting report of the Convention held in Kingston on the 12th and 13th, touching upon educational matters, child welfare and other important and high essentials pertaining to the Order was read by the secretary, Mrs. D. T. McManus.

The disastrous fire in Northern Ontario was discussed and it was unanimously voted to send $100 to purchase clothing for the young children affected.

A motion was made to hold a social evening and Bridge between the offices of the Argyll Light Infantry and members of the Chapter to take place in the officers' mess on November 15th, the orchestra of the A. L. I. under Bandmaster Hinchey will be in attendance.

By request of the G.W.V.A. Belleville, the members of the Chapter will assist with poppies on Armistice Day 11th November.

PAVING OF STATION STREET SCORED BY RESIDENTS

Property Owners and Tenants on This street Objected Strenuously to Proportion of Cost They May Have to Bear—Petitioners Send Two Delegates to Ontario Municipal and Railway Board Meeting

Y.M.C.A. INDUSTRIAL SECRETARY HERE

Mr. George A. Gregg, Industrial Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of Leonidas, will be in the city over the week-end. He will address the Boys' Department on Saturday evening at 7-30 p.m., in the Assembly Hall of the High School. A men's meeting will be held on Sunday afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. parlors at 4.00 p.m. Mr. Gregg's subject will be "Workers crafts in the Far East." Mr. Gregg has been brought here largely through the efforts of Mr. D. R. MacLaurin, who is chairman of the Foreign Work Department of the Y.M.C.A.

Mr. George A. Gregg was born in Toronto, the son of a Presbyterian minister and Englishman. He was educated in the model school and collegiate institute and matriculated with honors in mathematics. He took his B.A. at Toronto University where he spent a year in further study. Bent on mechanical pursuits for which he had shown a decided aptitude, he served a four years' apprenticeship as a machinist and draughtsman and for a number of years was employed as designer of machinery in Detroit. After this he entered the Y.M.C.A. and for years he was active in the Young Men's Christian Association work, serving on committees and teaching in the evening schools. While employed as heating and ventilating expert in Montreal he was called to the educational directorship of the Hartford, Connecticut, Young Men's Christian Association, which he served there two years, then for three years as Associated Educational Secretary of the International Committee in New York City. During this period much of his time was given to field service, organizing, strengthening and developing Association educational work throughout the continent. He is an accomplished amateur photographer and musician. A member of the Presbyterian Church, he is generally recognized as a leader in young people's work.

In 1906 Mr. Gregg went to Seoul, Korea, as Industrial Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association which undertook to teach the Koreans the art of modern industrial handcraft. In his 16 years of this work, Mr. Gregg has seen it expand until there are now two special buildings in addition to large space in the main building of the Seoul Association. These splendid buildings are largely the result of many of them have gone into business for themselves. When the main building of the Association was increased to double its size, the contract was given to a Korean contractor who had received his training in the school directed by Mr. Gregg. Carpentry, machine shop practice, blacksmithing, cabinet making, wicker furniture making, photography, printing, are some of the main lines taught in the school. The best young manhood on the path to success.

PAVING OF STATION STREET SCORED BY RESIDENTS

Property Owners and Tenants on This street Objected Strenuously to Proportion of Cost They May Have to Bear—Petitioners Send Two Delegates to Ontario Municipal and Railway Board Meeting

The major portion of Wednesday afternoon at the meeting here of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board was devoted to the Station street matter. Residents on Station, a fair and large property owners on that street, object strenuously to the residents having been notified that they will be large percentage of the financial burden relative to the paving operations on the street.

Mr. S. Masson, appeared on behalf of the city, and Mr. R. J. Graham was leader of the Station street property and property owners.

Proof of the resolution to pave the street as duly made by the members of the City Council in committee, and the subsequent advertising of the proposals were submitted, as well as the petition of objection from the residents on the street.

Clerk W. Holmes submitted the report showing the value of each property and the buildings thereon, on Station street, according to the last revised assessment, and the total value of land and buildings proved to be $214,420. Mr. Graham called as witnesses, Messrs. Hope McGinnis and Charles Logue.

Mr. Graham pointed out that Station street is the main avenue from the country to this city, and certainly the vehicular traffic is heavy, and the heaviest traffic to and from the G.T.R. Station. It was described as being the most busy high street in the city, and also the heaviest traffic. The total assessed value of the land on that street is $62,000 only, the permanent improvements thereon and the land is practically rendered valueless to the owners if this pavement is put down. Of the property owners' shares, 50 per cent. is the proportion asked for.

The record of the cost price per lineal foot of the pavement on various streets was submitted as follows:

Dundas street—$8.82 (one portion).

George street—$5.80.

Catharine—$7.34.

Bridge—$8.82.

Campbell street—$6.85.

West Bridge—$17.80.

Coleman street—$6.85.

Pinnacle street—$6.75.

Church street—$6.80.

Ann street—$6.75.

Cedar street—$7.10 (another portion.)

Cedar street—$7.21.

Ven. Archdeacon Beamish, first witness sworn, testified that he was a member of his parishioners, that the houses along Station street were obviously the homes of working people, who would be able to stand the hardship of bearing their present portion of the burden, and that of the assessment. He was prominent on this street, and their properties will not be worth anything in view of the very high assessment.

Mr. Masson—"Have you any property along this street?"

Witness—"Yes I am part owner along with St. Thomas' Parish, of five houses along Station street, a is the residence of the sexton and one of the rectory."

Mr. William Deacon also testified that Station street had greatly deteriorated in the past 30 years as a residential street, and that any residence on it would be worth very little if sold for the purpose, and the erection of dwellings on this street would not be advisable. He thought, as Belleville widened beyond, should assume a large proportion of the cost of the paving of this street, and also pointed out why the Front street precedent should not be taken into consideration and the same obligations assumed by the city.

Chairman McIntyre—"Determine the value of the land—undeveloped—apart from the improvements. Those people should not pay extra cost of pavement to assist property

MUSIC & DRAMA

POWERFUL ROLE FOR NORMA TALMADGE IN NEW PLAY

Heralded as the most dramatic and fascinating screen vehicle yet given to that talented star, "The Sign on the Door," Norma Talmadge's current First National attraction, which will be exhibited at Griffin's tonight and Saturday matinee and night.

"The Sign on the Door" is the second of the Norma Talmadge productions to be directed by Herbert Brenon, one of the leading creators of silent drama. The first was "The Passion Flower," which has been acclaimed as one of the big screen successes of the season.

"The Sign on the Door" is an adaptation of Channing Pollock's stage play of the same name, in which Marjorie Rambeau appeared. In the cast with Norma are Charles Richman in the role of "Lefty" Regan, Lew Cody as Frank Devereaux, David Proctor as Richard Gaunt, Robert Agnew as Alec Churchill, Helen Weir as Helen Regan, Paul McAllister as the District Attorney, Augustus Balfour, Mack Barnes, Martinle Burnlay, Lew Hendricks and Walter Daniels.

The production is one which is declared to be specially suited to the histrionic ability of Miss Talmadge, a romance and tragedy flavored with clever bits of humor, figure in a highly dramatic and absorbing plot.

Larry Semon, in a two-reel comedy titled "The Show," Round Three of "Lasther Pasthers" series and a beautiful and interesting Travelogue are announced for presentation on the same program.

HOOT GIBSON STARS IN "THE LOADED DOOR"

A cowboy, self-appointed to the office of reverse sheik, is the hero of "The Loaded Door," the five-reel Universal attraction starring Hoot Gibson at the Regent tonight to Saturday matinee daily.

The story is of a band of whiskey and narcotic smugglers operating along the Mexican border with no other immediate aim of interference than the county sheriff who is unable to cope with anything of greater import than the hoboes who happen to drop in on his jurisdiction. "The Loaded Door," written especially for the star by Ralph Cummings and directed by Harry Pollard, is dynamic in action, breath catching in thrills and humorous in spots to relieve the intensity. Gertrude Olmstead has the leading role opposite Hoot Gibson.

In "The Loaded Door," Hoot Gibson has opportunity to further solidify his reputation of being the best horseman on the screen. Always ready for a fight or a frolic, he displays his ability to do both in fine fashion, to say nothing of his wondrous way in romance.

"Dark Horse," a two-reel Century comedy featuring Greenie the human horse, Vodevil Movies with its high-class vaudeville program, a Star comedy, and Pathe News will be exhibited in addition to the above feature offering.

"THE DUMBELLS" HERE TO-MORROW

Once again the Dumbells are to be with us, but this time in an entirely new show. "The Dumbells Revue of 1923." Those who visited Griffin's when these popular performers were here before can rest assured that a real treat awaits them, for the new show is absolutely up to the standard set by the first in every way, and in even has the advantage of being a little leaf "war-like."

Rose Hamilton seems to become more alluringly feminine all the time and he has two exceptionally good numbers in "Widows Are Wonderful" and "Say You'll Not Forget," the setting for the last being particularly picturesque. Moreover, he has acquired a wardrobe that is calculated to make many female members of the audience jealous—and rightly so.

Red Newman is best in his comedy impersonations, particularly in Albert Chevalier's old favorite, "My Old Dutch," to which he does ample justice. He and Charlie McLean also put in some good work in "Darkest Russia," which to say the least is extremely dark.

Al Plunkett possesses a personality which, combined with a pleasing voice, will always assure him an excellent reception whenever and wherever he appears before the footlights. One of his new songs, "K-K-Kiss Me Again," is nothing short of a classic. Another of his numbers, "My Lady's Dress," composed by the company, is well staged and full of humor. "That Coal Black Mammy of Mine" is his greatest sentimental number.

Jimmie Goode is a dandy delight, and "Sally Hal" with whom he and Freddie Fowler regale the audience should have long life. "I'm No Ordinary Fool," and "I Make Mine Myself," as rendered by Jimmie, are two of the best numbers of the bill.

Fred Fenwick is just as girlish as ever and he has a distinct tendency to border upon the "wicked vamp." Arthur Holland too, is a splendid female impersonator, and his song "Income" is well written, well staged and exceedingly sung.

The Dumbells in their new Revue appear at Griffin's tomorrow night, November 3rd for one night only.

SERVICE OF D. B. HANNA RECOGNIZED

Ottawa, Nov. 2.—Belated recognition of the great services of D. B. Hanna to the Canadian National Railways is appreciated by Sir Henry Drayton, one of the greatest authorities on Canadian transportation, who has in a letter to the Ottawa Journal called attention to this, and to the loss of Canada of Mr. Hanna's services to give employment to Sir Henry Thornton, ignorant of Canada, Canadian railways, Canadian conditions and with little or no practical railway operating experience. To supplant Mr. Hanna with Sir Henry Thornton was a blunder; to suggest Mr. Hanna serve under an inexperienced foreigner an insult. Sir Henry Drayton, in the following letter, to the Ottawa Journal, clearly declares public sentiment in matter:

To the Editor of the Journal News papers.

Sir: Those of your readers who love justice and fair play in the treatment of public officials, would read with satisfaction, the following words in your editorial of to-day on Mr. D. B. Hanna:

"Although a little belated tributes to Mr. D. B. Hanna's work for the Canadian National Railways are welcome. Mr. Hanna, no matter from what standpoint judged, was an exceptional railway official. He took over the National lines under the most unfavorable conditions. The labored to place them successful under the most discouraging circumstances, and often in the teeth of distrust, carping criticism and detraction. In spite of this, notwithstanding obstacles that would have been a load for a mule, he brought the roads within reach of being splendidly successful."

This tribute is abundantly merited. In my opinion it is much more than merited. The fidelity of Mr. Hanna to a task of colossal magnitude and difficulty, his rugged, unimpeachable character, his eminently recognized capacity to the composition of which his strong personality contributed so much—his big practical achievements—all these are now acknowledged and will probably, as time passes, be more and more impressed upon the people of Canada.

Was it necessary then to add this inexplicable sentence?

"The Journal would like to have seen Mr. Hanna as Sir Henry Thornton's chief of staff."

There is no Canadian—no taxpayine citizen anyway—who does not wish success to the new President and Manager. But it cannot be suggested that Sir Henry Thornton has any qualification not included in those possessed by Mr. Hanna and recited in your editorial. Very few of us indeed had heard of him until he was introduced by the Government's publicity coureurs. His Canadian experience is nil. The Great Eastern, which he managed, is a mere fraction almost a pigmy fraction in its total, when measured with the Canadian Government System. Nor has he ever been entrusted with any task comparable to that so worthily discharged by the deposed President.

It is a true accounting when you ascribe Mr. Hanna's removal as "a needlessly result of hostile politics."

The late President and his friends would, I think, prefer that his name be left in obscurity and his services forgotten rather than that a belated tribute should be entwined around a suggestion which does him injustice or worse.

Yours, etc.,
HY. L. DRAYTON.

School Days are So Hard On Frocks

And Mary Jane's wardrobe needs so much attention! But the Sailor-Maid Frocks of Serge smooth out many difficulties. The styles are many—wee Sailor Suits with skirts on detachable, washable waists or little one-piece Frocks, gay with embroidery, braiding and smocking, each one designed to make little eyes sparkle. In sizes 4 to 14 years. $2.50 to $14.00.

Sturdy Coats for every occasion

Such cuddlesome Coats that any little girl will slip into with happy satisfaction. In Navy, Copen, Brown, Grey and Scarlet, they are made of French Velour, Chinchilla and Whitney Cloth. Stitching, pleats and buttons make for delightful variety and very cunning are the little coats with French Beaver collar and cuffs. Sizes 2 to 14 years. $4.00 to $16.50.

Slip-on Sweaters in Rainbow Hues

How gaily do they dispel the dullness of Winter days with their shades of Geranium, Turquoise, Pumpkin, Mauve and Jonquil interwoven with a thread of White-Silk. Navy and Black are also represented. They are very new and have that handmade appearance so desirable in a Sweater. They have V-necks and long sleeves and are made of a fine Silk and Wool Mixture. In every size, they are priced at $1.98 and $2.50.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL REPORT

To the Editor:—

The attendance here during the month has been very good, 965 on roll with an average of 441, which is nearly 96 per cent.

94 per cent. of our pupils have been present every day. They believe this can be improved.

Quite a number of our pupils often come late. This is not necessary in many cases.

We trust that you examined very carefully the Report Cards that have just been sent to you. Many of the pupils do not occupy the positions which they should in their Grade. This is due to the fact that they are weak in one or more subjects. In such cases it would be well for those pupils to spend some time every evening on that particular work to enable that they may overtake their classmates before the next reports are sent out. This applies to the III and IV Forms more especially.

We expect your co-operation in this and in all other matters affecting the success of your boys and girls in school.

FALL WHEAT LOOKING WELL

IDEAL WEATHER PREVAILING FOR AGRICULTURAL WORK

Following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

The past week has furnished ideal weather for Agricultural work, and most farmers have taken full advantage of it. Root harvesting is practically completed, and a considerable acreage has been plowed under. Threshing and other rural activities have also been engaged in. Some farmers are now arranging to drop regular hands and hire men for the day or for days as the work may call for.

The new fall wheat never looked better, judging by the unanimity of the reports in this regard. There is little or no mention of injury by the fly, and as a rule the top is heavy enough to meet the snow.

Kenora reports an average of 600 bushels of turnips per acre. A cellar at Oxford threshed 300 bushels of oats from a 14- acre field, the grain running 39 lbs. to the bushel.

Welland states that apples range in price from $1 to $1.50 a bushel. Norfolk says that 65c a bushel orchard run is being paid in that county. Simcoe puts the average prices paid farmers at: Spy, $2.25 a barrel; Wagner, Snow and Pewaukee, $2.

Lincoln reports: "Large quantities of apples are being shipped in practically every kind of package known to the trade, boxes, baskets, barrels and a great deal in bulk. They are netting about $1.50 per barrel to the farmers of the trees."

Huron says: "Apples are being shipped in every conceivable package and are bringing all the way from 25c per bag for evaporator apples to 50c per bushel, for good domestic apples, shipped in bulk, and $1.50 per barrel for Nos. 1, 2, 3 when picked by the farmer. All told these prices are about as satisfactory as our farmers have ever received here."

Harvesting of the grape crop is now practically completed. The sales have been made by the Niagara District Grape Growers' Assn. at about $75 a ton latterly. About 95% of the crop has been handed by this Association and in a very orderly way."

Peel says: "The record sale of high grade Ayrshires, prices ranged between $80 and $95. A carload of Percheron horses, (all grey) was shipped from a local point this week."

Elgin states that a Purebred Short-horn Sale was held this week. Prices were very discouraging, many animals not bringing more than beef prices.

Leeds reports: "A sale of high grade pure bred Holstein cattle was held on Tuesday last near Brockville. The breeder is one of the best known cattle men in Ontario, and probably has some of the best stock in America. Fifty head were sold. The highest brought $1250 which considerably below the price which it was expected the best ones would bring.

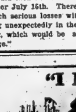

Welland says that a number of farmers in that county have been purchasing Western cattle to feed, paying from $3.35 to $4.35 per cwt. for same.

Kent remarks: "A number of stockers and feeders have been brought into the county, and the quality is high. Two car loads of Western cattle were brought in of real excellent quality. Of course, this stock was selected by the men intending to feed them. Three men went to Winnipeg and brought back five car loads which were placed in the vicinity of Kent Bridge."

Grade cows are selling around $40 in Glengarry.

Everywhere lambs are being delivered. Prices are maintaining well. Many buyers are in the ring for the best and castrated lambs which are selling for 50c to $1.00 per 100 more than uncured for stock. It is saying to dock and castrate this year. Lambs should be graded at Toronto; hogs will be. The uncastrated lamb would then be sold at heavy discount after July 15th. There would not be such serious losses with lambs arriving unexpectedly in the midst of winter, which would be another advantage."

"I Now Feel Fine"

Mrs. P. G. Murdoch, Box 433, Portage la Prairie, Man., writes:

"I was troubled for years with biliousness, constipation, kidney and liver troubles. I tried many different kinds of medicine, but nothing did me much good until I tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Now I feel fine, but am never without these pills in the house. Dr. Chase's Ointment has relieved my husband of piles, from which he used to suffer badly."

CANADIAN PACIFIC ANNOUNCES CHANGE

Montreal, Que., Oct. 31.—Mr. W. R. MacInnes, Vice President Canadian Pacific Railway, made public today the following changes in the freight traffic department of that line, effective November 15th, 1922. W. R. Lanigan, freight traffic manager of the Company's rail lines assumes the duties of general freight traffic manager; all lines, rail and ocean. E. N. Todd, general foreign freight agent becomes freight traffic manager of rail lines. M. Kirkpatrick, assistant freight traffic manager becomes general foreign freight agent of Atlantic and Pacific ocean lines. Geo. Stephen who received his training with the Canadian Pacific Railway, and was for many years in the employ of that company, returns to his service in the capacity of assistant freight traffic manager of the Company's Western Lines, with headquarters at Winnipeg. Mr. Lanigan who thus assumes the management of both rail and ocean traffic is perhaps the best known freight man in Canada. He has been before the public eye on many occasions as representing the Canadian Pacific in freight rate arbitrations, both before the Board of Railway Commissioners and in parliamentary enquiries. Mr. Lanigan was born in Three Rivers, Quebec, in 1861, and is a graduate of St. Joseph's College at that place. He has been in the service of the Canadian Pacific since 1884 when he began his career as telegraph operator. By 1900 he had become General Freight Agent of the Ontario Division, with headquarters at Toronto. In 1901 he was appointed General Freight Traffic Manager of all lines in 1918. Mr. Lanigan is a brother of the late George T. Lanigan, the brilliant newspaperman, who in connection with Lord Atholstan, founded the Montreal Star, Mr. Edwin N. Todd, newly appointed Freight Traffic Manager, Rail Lines, joined the Canadian Pacific staff in 1890 as a junior clerk in the foreign freight office in this city. With an interruption of six months, he served there until 1900 when he was transferred to Toronto, returning to Montreal in 1909 as Export Freight Agent. In 1911 he was appointed Division Freight Agent, and in 1912 General Freight Agent with headquarters in Montreal, in 1919 he became Foreign Freight Agent, exports and imports.

William MacPherson Kirkpatrick, who is perhaps as well known as the author of his war services, as of his long connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway, joined that company in 1892 as an office boy. He was transferred to the freight department at Toronto in 1898 as a clerk. He later returned to Montreal, but in 1903 became General Freight Agent at Vancouver. In 1905 he was appointed Acting Export Freight Agent at Montreal and later Assistant Freight Traffic Manager, and finally went to Toronto as Freight Traffic Manager of the Canadian Northern, which position he leaves to join the Canadian Pacific.

RURAL RELATIONS

The suggestion of Mr. Frank Littlefield of Toronto, that Rotarians take the spirit of good fellowship to the farmers would have been good advice to any organization in any city, but it is particularly applicable to our city. Belleville owes her origin and no little portion of her subsequent growth and success to the farmers who have filled the land in her environs for the last three or four generations, and there is no reason to suppose that the next three or four generations of local farmers will not be able to assist quite as much as their forefathers in furthering the interests of Belleville.

As any city grows it seems natural for the citizens to get out of touch generally with the rural residents. In Belleville we should acquire that habit. We should cultivate the acquaintance of the farmer on social and commercial lines, because there are many fine fellows among them. The farm is not so far away from town to-day, on account of automotive transportation. Thus the farmer can come frequently to town for business or pleasure. The same farmer derives a great deal of pleasure from our urban amusements, and we in turn can find a great deal to take our attention in the country. We have a good deal to gain through mingling with our rural residents, in a social way. Then, too, in business there is a great deal to be gained by trading with the farmer. His requirements are increasing and growing broader every year. Most urban residents would be surprised to learn how many pianos and pianists, how many victrolas, how many autos, how many bond holders, etc., there are among our farmers. Although residing within a few miles of us, they have many habits and practices that city people describe as peculiar. Now we city dwellers are peculiar to the country residents. Therein lies a certain attraction for one another. Our interests are interlocking and it would be good policy for both sides to get together and create common interests.

Some of the best men Canada has produced, have been farmers' sons, and true products of the farms. Belleville can aid her prosperity materially if she learns to better know her rural residents, and in this way she can steal a march on some of her less enlightened sister cities.

THE FREEDOM OF THE SEAS

Canadians have little interest in the fate of Canadian ships seeking to take profitable advantage of prohibition in the United States by smuggling liquor into that country. It is a business of which the country is not proud and the smuggler must run his own risks.

But the freedom of the seas is the heritage of the whole world. The operation of Canadian smugglers must not be permitted to stand as an excuse for its infringement. Great Britain refuses to have it so stand. As a result of her protests to Washington a Canadian vessel seized illegally, in contravention of international law, by vessels of the United States Government outside American territorial waters, has been ordered released and returned to the spot where she was taken. Thus Great Britain is shown to be still the guarantor of the freedom of the seas.—Ottawa Journal.

GOUIN—KING TEST(?)

Hon. W. L. M. King announces that the five Federal bye-elections will be a test of the strength of the Government.

And if it is a test the ingenuous Premier appears to have made arrangements for getting a favorable verdict.

Two of the vacancies are caused by the ex-members being appointed to more lucrative positions in the gift of the Government. These seats are considered sure or the appointments would not have been made. One other is in Quebec and can be depended on to vote for a continuance of Quebec domination. Still another is in Nova Scotia, recently held by a Liberal, which votes in the provincial elections and Conservative at the Federal elections, and will probably go Conservative again.

Even the Gouin-King Government, with the cards stacked four to one in its favor, should be able to stand the kind of test to which it is being put.—Toronto Telegram.

KINGSTON PLANTS NEED LOWER RATES

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 31.—J. M. Campbell and H. C. Nickle representing the council of the Board of Trade, had a conference today with the Public Utilities Commission and asked that a reasonable reduction be made in the local electrical power rate in order to encourage industrial concerns looking for locations. Mr. Campbell pointed out that the commission could very easily make a reduction on the financial statement of last year showed electrical power profits to be large.

Chairman Hewitt Bostwick explained that according to the Hydro-Electric engineers it was not the power users of Kingston should receive a reduction, but the commercial users, and Hydro had to agree to any deductions made. Mr. Nickle did not agree with the Hydro contention. He pointed out that it was the power section that showed the increase and power users should get the benefit of this. Mr. Hewitt said that the commission was strongly in favor of a reduction in the power rates. A statement was presented showing that Kingston's first rate of two cents was higher than that being in force in Belleville, Peterboro and other places in the West. It was decided that the chairman should meet the Hydro Commission at Toronto and take with him a committee to assist in presenting the matter and ask a hearing of the local rates.

The Civic Utilities Commission has placed itself on record as being opposed to Kingston becoming a party to the proposal that the municipalities of Central Ontario should relieve the Ontario Government of the Trent power system. At Port Hope two weeks ago, Mr. Campbell said he had announced to the convention there that Kingston would not be a party to such a move because it had a separate agreement with the Hydro Commission for power supply and because it owned its own distributing plant and sub-station. Chairman Elliott stated that at a previous convention he had brought up this matter and Sir Adam Beck stated at that time that municipalities with separate contracts like Kingston would be protected. On account of Mr. Hurst the position of the commission will be sent to the Gregory Commission.

WIT AND HUMOUR

The Irresistible.

A small boy came hurriedly down the street, and halted breathlessly in front of a stranger who was walking in the other direction.

"Have you lost half a dollar?" he asked.

"Yes, yes, I believe I have!" said the stranger, feeling in his pockets. "Have you found one?"

"Oh, no," said the boy. "I just want to find how many have been lost today. Yours makes fifty-five."—Western Christian Advocate (Cincinnati).

Help Wanted.

They pointed particularly to the need for placing more power in the hands of the police to rid the city of persons who often have defied in front other cities to do some criminal trade in the Capital, as advocated frequently in the past by The Post.—From a News Item in the Washington Post.

By Their Deeds.

Farmer—"Have all the cows been milked?"

Dairymaid—"All but the American one."

Farmer—"Which do you call the American one?"

Dairymaid—"The one that's gone dry."—The Passing Show (London).

A countryman with a local reputation as a vocalist attended a dinner and was asked to sing. Although he had no music with him, and was as hoarse as a frog, he consented to try, but broke down.

"Never thee mind, lad," said an elderly guest, trying to cheer him up; "never you fret your mind about it, for there's done thy best; but th' fellow as asked thee t' sing ought to be shut."—The Baptist.

Breaks of the Game.

"Yis, we work it some, but th' pay is a bit last Saturday that brought me a quoil."

"What, Pat, you broke the Sabbath?"

"Well, sor, it was me or the Sabbath. Wan of us had to be broke."—Melbourne Punch.

Norah—"How about your last name?"—Hailey's Weekly.

HERE AND THERE

AN ADVENTURE WITH LIONS

Having a savage lioness spring into a small car with one is an unusual experience even in South Africa. H. A. Snow, the naturalist and explorer from Oakland, California, who recently has been staying in New York, has given the following account of this adventure on his recent tour:

"About twenty-five miles from Nairobi, in British South Africa, I had placed two camera men in blinds a mile apart, and thought it would be possible to make a detour of five miles in my automobile, and proceeding in a circle gradually drive some game toward the blinds. When I was about two miles from the blinds and passing over low rolling hills bordering the Theka River, I fired at a herd of zebras and brought down a female. I jumped out of the car to get the animal when I noticed a lion stalking the herd.

"He was about fifty yards away, and presently disappeared. Thinking I had seen the last of him, I put the buck in the car. I looked again, and the lion raised his head. My blood was up and I made up my mind to get him. I made a detour around the hill, but coming over the top I found instead of one lion, six. They practically surrounded the car and I could not proceed. I halted the machine and left the engine running. Then I let fly at the biggest of the brutes. The shot went over his head, but the second shot brought him down.

"I had only two shots left and with them I brought down two more lions, and then saw behind me a lioness, evidently ready to charge. The only thing I could do was to start the car, and go straight ahead, for to turn around was impossible. But the first thing I knew the lioness came right over the top and light on the back of the car. I ducked under the steering wheel and trusted to luck. The car gave a lurch and threw the lioness out.

"I stood up and then, and brought her down, and then the next thing I know I was stalled on a hillock with, I feared, my car out of commission. I proceeded my journey and when all of the other lions would come after me, but evidently they had had enough of the fight. I finally got my motor started again, and jumped back to the blinds. There I got my son and the two camera men and we went back and picked up the lioness."

HOW THE BUTCHER'S BOY READ HISTORY

The subject in English history was the reign of Richard I. One of the pupils, says a Canadian contributor, writing of his boyhood days in England, had begun to read: "The king set sail with five hundred knives and one thousand skewers together with several thousand archers and foolmen."

He had got as far as that when the master interrupted him sharply. "Spell those words, 'knives' and 'skewers'!"

"Knights and squires," was the reply.

Then with a swish the cane descended on the boy's shoulders as the master gave him the correct pronunciation. Had the master's bump of humor been more fully grown, the fact that the boy was the son of the village butcher might have saved him from a caning.

The same boy, who appeared to have an unhappy faculty for misreading words, was responsible for a whole page in his copy book that read: "Hop on; hop over," instead of "Hope on; hope ever," which was at the top of the pages. And again the cane descended.—Youth's Companion.

"HOW'S YER WHEAT?"

Around the old postoffice stove they sit;
Three wise old men; sometimes they think,
Sometimes they only sit and sit.
And then again, perchance, they blink
Their aged eyes, and venture to remark
Their thoughts upon some question dark.

Their's not the wisdom of the mighty men,
Who in the world's great cities, dwell,
And with their mighty words and pen
The sum of earth's rich wisdom swell;
Their's but an humble life to live,
In lowly task their all to give.

Said one, "Well, now it seems to me
That here in this old world of sin
A Methydist you bee to be, if—
If glory's gates you'd enter in,
It seems to me the only way
To reach the land of shinin' day."

"Not so," another made reply,
"God's children only one way be
Who are ordained and do rely
On Presbyterian theory,
Come, Joe, you be the judge tonight,
I know you'll say that I am right."

Then Joe made answer, "Brothers, hear,
When I came down to the mill today,
Two roads there were, each jus as near
And just as smooth as t' other way,
From off my farm beyond the hill,
I brought my wheat to yonder mill.

"The miller didn't ask which way
I'd brought my wheat to town,
He didn't ask of me to-day,
If I'd come up or down;
As I sat there upon the seat,
The miller asked, 'Joe, how's yer wheat?'

"I reckon too, when I get home
And reach the shinin' glory land,
And then before the Judgment throne,
As there before my Judge I stand,
I reckon than His voice so sweet
Will only ask, 'Joe, how's yer wheat?'"

—By J. W. Carr in The Rotarian.

PRESS OPINIONS

HAVE TAKEN NOTE

(Guelph Daily Herald)

The cheap sneer which Premier Drury indulged in at Arthur with respect to Col Currie, the victor in Southeast Toronto, when he alluded to that gentleman as having gone over into France in 1914 and returned to Canada in 1915, is being widely resented, and by none more so than returned men.

One thing Col Currie did not be went overseas at the beginning of the war, and if he was compelled to be invalided it is only what thousands of others had to do during those awfully trying days. But what about Mr. E. C. Drury? What was he doing in 1914 and 1915? There is an record that he did anything to justify the cheap sneer at Col. Currie, a man who at least went "over."

INTERNATIONAL SPORT NO GOOD

(Guelph Daily Herald)

It sounds nice to talk about international contests, but experience has shown that such events do not make for mutual good-will and invariably end in some controversy that arouses bitterness. For that reason it would be better to put a stop to International races and contests of whatever kind and content ourselves with keeping championship events within national limitations.

Woman's Sphere

MY BOOK.

When life, like a book, I have closed on the shelf
And my friends of whom I never tire
Read these lines I've penned and shed a tear,
Will they look back on the friends I've met
With a smile or a sigh?
Will their strange spirit, Wordsworth sense and then
Mine levels of men,
Soar? Hovering, all, I've named not one by one,
Of those who came and go.

When the December of my life shall come and those that now I love be gone,
I shall not be quite friendless and alone.
Those whom dear ones shall be loving, youth and hope to me,
I shall be young with them and happy
I ween.
And who can tell? In that great afterglow.

I, by dinner grace,
May touch their hands and look upon their face
With happiness anew.

FINNAN HADDIE WITH CREAMED POTATOES.

Cover a cold finnan haddie with cold water, place on range. Heat slowly to the boiling point, reduce heat and let stand 30 minutes without boiling. Drain fish from water and place in a metal platter or one that will stand the oven heat. Surround with creamed white potatoes of a uniform size. Sprinkle with coarse salt and finely chopped parsley. Pour over 1 cup thick hot cream. Let stand in slow oven 6 or 8 minutes. Garnish with sprays of parsley.

PARIS ON SKIRTS

There is no battle on skirts this autumn. The French houses and the American buyers unite to keep the hem a trifle above the ankle for the gowns that serve the day hours. The hem goes lower for the new evening gowns, although there is no revival of the former train. There is less irregularity than there was last spring. There is slightly more fulness, but it is interesting that the designers, especially Jenny and Paul Poiret see that wings do not like that much of the weight of much material at the ankles, so they contrive to catch the godets together with simple cross seams, such as a tab of narrow braid.

No one omits the accent on the tightly draped skirt. The majority pull the drapery across the end of the spine and only the extremist in America will accept such disfigurement. Poiret and Callot have not scrimped in putting the fabric around the figure after the manner of a Joyasse earthen jar even Worth and Doucet in this particular manner; one does not expect it at so conservative a house. It is their drapery to remodel. Everyone for the fulness can be more loosely caught at the left hip to which all mothers and ancient drapery tends.—Mother's.

NO RECIPROCITY PACT WITH CANADA LIKELY

Washington Oct. 31.—No reciprocity treaty with Canada is likely to be brought about, according to Senator McCumber, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. He points out that the Tariff Act makes no provision for reciprocity and that a special treaty would be needed. He thinks whether this could be arranged or ratified by the Senate. Senator McCumber does not believe the tariff law will seriously call down importations, and predicts it will not increase duties Canadian trade from the United States.

THE KHAN IN TORONTO TELEGRAM

RICH, HAPPY AND FAT.

The man, M. Coss, the seeker, intrigues me. Not that he has said or done anything startling or new. Indeed, he has said nothing that a terrible centurion stands as Englishman, repeating to his people the tremendous things. There is nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so." M. Coss has simply recalled some of the stock, look, listen!

He proposes to set people's thinking at work. He puts a sick man in bed and instructs him to repeat twenty times before he goes to sleep the following little piece:

"Every day from every point of view I am getting better and better." His subconscious mind, remaining active during the hours of slumber absorbs the theme and when he wakes he is expected to repeat the formula twenty times with conviction.

There have always been Faith Curists. The Blessed Nazarene was the first, because "before Abraham was I am" is the accepted motto for His services, and in most instances got no thanks. He might have accumulated a great fortune and might have put His followers on Easy street instead of upon the Way of Tribulation. But He didn't put up the 25c. bottle of Pink Pain Killer made more money out of it than Matthew, Mark, Luke and John with Thomas thrown in for good measure over and Shakespeare might have enlarged his immortal saying by adding that there is nothing good or bad but some moistebeak will exploit it for gold. And that is why the people have not as much faith as they had some time ago.

There is a good deal of sickness in the world and much poverty. And there be millions of folks who are sick because they think they are sick and more millions who are poor because they think they are poor. Now, I am willing to team up with M. Coss and see what I can do for the poor. But I am afraid to some of the wolves will give you our Canadian poetry in condensed form. Of the new single volumes, one ought to read "Fires of Driftwood," by Isabel Ecclestone Mackay, "The Wood Carver's Wife," by Marjorie Pickthall, "Moonlight and Common Day," by Louise Morey Bowman, and "Over the Threshold" and Other Poems," by Katharine L. Johnston. These are all under $1.75, exquisitely bound and most fitting for a Christmas gift to your most cherished friend.

In fiction you will do well to read one or more of the following: "Pagan Love," John Murray Gibbon; "Neighbors," Robert Stead; "Cadr," W. A. Fraser; "The Dust Flower," Basil King; "Seeds of Time," Janey Canuck; "Renaissance," Beaumont Cornell; "Sunny San," Onoto Watanna; "Openway," Archie McKishnie; and "God's Green Country," Ethel M. Chapman.

Of the general works just to hand, you will enjoy reading "Over 'ere and Back Home," F. O. D.; "Canada's Cities of Romance," Kathrine Hale, "Encore!" a book of elocution readings, by Jessie Alexander; "Indian Legends of Vancouver," by Alfred Carmichael; "On the Rim of the World," talks on immortality, by J. CANADIAN BOOKS OUT THIS YEAR

This is the one week of the year when, in Canada, more emphasis particularly is the books written by our own Canadian authors. Some of the more noteworthy of the Canadian books published this year are given in this list from the Christian Guardian:

Poetry, say the poets, should stand first in order of precedence. Our poets are entitled to take their place beside the best of the world. We have had, recently, new editions of Miss Carman, our "Poet Laureate," Archibald Lampman, William Wilfred Campbell and Jean Blewett. Those are available for all of us in inexpensive editions. Those who prefer selections of our representative prose and verse will find such in a new publication, "Our Canadian Literature," in which the best we have produced is presented to us in an uncostly form, admirable for personal pleasure, study or for gifts. Garvin's) "Canadian Poets," "The Treasure of Canadian Verse," by Baird, and other similar works will give you our Canadian poetry in condensed form. Of the new single volumes, one ought to read "Fires of Driftwood," by Isabel Ecclestone Mackay, "The Wood Carver's Wife," by Marjorie Pickthall, "Moonlight and Common Day," by Louise Morey Bowman, and "Over the Threshold" and Other Poems," by Katharine L. CHAPTER VI.

VENGEANCE IS MINE.

Aynsworth had been fortunate in securing, through the good offices of two trusty guides, who undertook to accompany him on his way for at least three days' journey. Beyond that they could not promise, as it was by no means safe to be found outside each own district in these distressful times. In short, travel of all sorts was practically suspended, it being almost as dangerous as bearing arms in any of the great armies in the field.

This was owing largely to the fact that as the struggle proceeded, hundreds of men who grew weary of fighting in the regular way of business, formed themselves into lawless bands and set up on their own account. These terrible desperados raided whole districts at will, and executed summary vengeance all who made any show of resistance. In some cases these marauders shrewdly turned their military skill to account by fortifying deserted buildings, from which they issued forth in lordly style to levy tribute on the hapless and terror-stricken inhabitants. Aynsworth had no wish to fall in with any such unpleasant companions, any more than he had of running across any of the fighting forces of the many nationalities then in arms. The three excellent reasons he was able to follow any direct route, and indeed was compelled more than once, in spite of his disguise, to make a detour in due course according to the prevailing conditions of the district through which he was passing. Hence it was found necessary to retrace their steps, and finally they concluded it was best to confine themselves to unfrequented tracks, where they had to pick their way, painfully aside from the known lines of travel, over stones and splinters of rocks.

This made Aynsworth very anxious at the end of the second day, for the future of his journey. After the evening meal and some hours of rest, the guides proposed, as it was brilliant moonlight, that they should push on through the night to which he readily assented.

The country was new to him, but the guides were on familiar ground, and had explored the depths of these forest lands many times during their boyhood, and knew it, as one of them said, by inches. They had that day passed through some of the most picturesque scenery to be found anywhere, and it was an unspeakable delight to Aynsworth to feast his eyes on cascades, ravines, and mountain lakes around which clustered the legendary lore of many centuries.

Once out of the forest, Monsieigneur, the guides said encouragingly, 'we shall find a farm-house, where Monsieigneur may dine and sleep, and rest until other guides are found to show the way through the shortest and safest passes. Until Monsieigneur reaches that we where the English ships are; then Monsieigneur will soon reach his own country." These were situations delightful but they made no secret of their anxiety to return to their homes.

On they pressed through the night, one of them leading and the other bringing up the rear. Day was breaking in glorious glory, 'more with rosy hand unbarred the gates of light,' and suffusing lake, river and mountain with that many-tinted hues of early dawn; they had paused to take in the beauty of the scene, then without warning of any sort, several bullets whistled past them in close succession. The marksmen were far from true for but the moment indicated that they were unpleasantly near.

It was quite impossible to tell whether the shots were fired by friends or they blundered in some way into the line of fire. The guides indicated the way from the path they were on into the forest, with the silent tread of the practised huntsman, and settling themselves in the deep undergrowth, they waited further developments, a little anxiously it must be confessed. In a short time the shots about were fired, making all the echoes, and startling some wild creatures from their lair, but with no other result. After waiting for a time they concluded that whatever the firing might mean the marksmen must have moved away in an opposite direction, when suddenly a motley group of seven or more came in sight following the path they had just left, only moving in the opposite direction. Two of them appeared to be peasants, and one even looked like a priest. What could it mean?

The guides took them for Spaniards, but as Aynsworth had been so long cut off from all the ordinary channels of news, he was at a loss to account for the presence of Spaniards in that neighbourhood. They were all apparently in high good humour, and deeply laden with plunder. One of the party evidently played the role of clown, capering and dancing before the singular cavalcade, in a medley of garments, civil, military, and even feminine. Serious as the situation was the humour was in a measure contagious, and Aynsworth was divided between his perception of the comic side of things; and the desire to call the rufians to account- for their misdoings.

Prudence prevailed, and they remained safe in their hiding-place, considering it best, as they were so largely outnumbered, to run no risks. They had made a weary march during the night and were both fatigued and hungry, so that the sheltered rest was grateful to them. Their wallets still contained some food, which they ate in silence, keeping a sharp lookout on all the approaches to their hiding-place, and intending in a short time, to resume their journey but they were more exhausted than they realized while the strain and excitement lasted, and in spite of all their willingness drowsiness, so that in spite of all their efforts they were soon fast asleep.

How long they had slept they could not tell, when all three by some common impulse sat up, looking anxiously in all directions. Aynsworth was about to rise when one of the guides raised a warning finger.

'Listen Monsieigneur!' he whispered, and then there came a song clamal wail, the howl of a dog in terror or pain.

They waited no longer but pressed on in the direction of the sound. They had scarcely made their way out of the forest when they came upon the bodies of two French soldiers, stripped almost naked, and immediately recalled the clown's attire they had noticed. The recollection was not pleasant. When they reached the farm-house, it was deserted and partially pillaged. They had expected nothing less than to find that the family had been barbarously murdered.

CUSTOMS HOUSE SEIZED BY MAN WITH LOADED RIFLE

Prince Rupert, B. C., Oct. 31.—After holding the Customs House here with a loaded rifle since this morning, Captain Freeman, of the Launch Harbethbod, who claims he has a grievance against the Customs Department, surrendered officials this afternoon after a paper, signed by Fred Stork, M.P., had been sent to him, promising an investigation into alleged wrongs.

Freeman threatened to resist efforts to dislodge him. He took possession of the Customs House when H. T. Cross, appraiser and other officials arrived this morning, the buildings remaining closed until peace negotiations were concluded.

Good Speaker, Anyway.

A PRACTICAL PRESCRIPTION FOR SOUR, ACID STOMACH

Nine-tenths of all cases of stomach trouble nowadays are caused by too much acid. In the beginning the stomach itself is not diseased but if this acid condition is allowed to continue, the acid is very likely to eat into the stomach walls and produce gastritis with stomach ulcers. "Bisma rex" is a practical surgical operation necessary even to prolong life. Therefore, an "acid stomach" is really a dangerous condition and should be treated seriously. The excess acid or stomach hyperacidity can easily be neutralized by Bisurated Magnesia taken in teaspoonful doses in a glass of water after each meal. Larger quantities may be used if necessary as it is absolutely harmless. Be sure to ask your druggist for the pure Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for this purpose.

HORSES, CATTLE AND SEASON'S CROP VICTIMS OF THE FLAMES

A disastrous fire occurred on Monday night on the farm of Mr. John Shearer, at Harwood; Northumberland County. Mr. and Mrs. Shearer had been attending a church social at Harwood and did not return home until after three, when, on their approach they saw flames leaping from the barn, and upper-most in the whole building. In less than half an hour after returning, Mr. Shearer's attention was attracted by a bright reflection and he found the large barn completely enveloped in flames. Willing hands were soon on the scene, but with the exception of the automobile, very little was saved. All efforts to rescue the live stock were futile and four valuable horses, twenty head of cattle, a number of pigs and a large pea of poultry were burned to death. The entire season's crop and much of the implements were destroyed.

On the Night before Wash Day

DO this, and you will have a pleasant, easy, work-free wash-day—with wonderfully clean sweet clothes:

For each tub of clothes take half a package of Rinso, dissolve in just enough cool water to make a thick paste or cream. Then stir in two quarts of boiling water and stir well. When the bubbles disappear you will have a clear, amber-colored liquid that is the magical Rinso washing solution. Pour it into your tub of cool or lukewarm water, and put in the clothes and soak. For extra hard water or extra dirty clothes add more Rinso solution.

In the morning rinse thoroughly and hang out to dry—the washing is done! That's why Rinso is different from all other Soaps and Washing Powders.

JACK BRITTON NO LONGER CchampP.

DEFEATED IN FIFTEEN ROUND GRIND BY MICKEY WALKER

New York, Nov. 1.—Age and its wisdom fell before youth and its crushing determination tonight, when Jack Britton, nearing the forty mark, and the oldest living man to hold a world's boxing championship title, surrendered to Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N. J., after fifteen rounds of gruelling boxing. After twenty years in the ring, Britton, the sage and crafty master of defence, very the holder of the crown that toppled tonight, was a poor match for the aggressive Jersey man who displayed more than ordinary knowledge of the science of fisticuffs. Walker won all the way.

Throughout the last half of the battle Britton was on the verge of a knock-out. It was not his iron sides and steel jaw that averted that fate, but his stock of gray matter that, no matter how hard the punishment, was able to function. At one time Britton's eyes were glassy, but by a strategic retreat he managed to hold off his man until his brain cleared. There was something curious about the fight that was not satisfactorily explained to the crowd that filled the big Polo Grounds Bowl to capacity. When the contestants entered the ring it was announced on behalf of the New York Boxing Commission and promoter Tex Rickard that "all bets were off." This afternoon wagers were laid at 6 to 5 on Britton, but when the preliminaries began tonight the long end had been transferred to Walker. He was made favorite at 8 to 5.

Despite this unusual incident, the crowd seemed to believe in the contest. They howled as they watched the 21-year-old boy pummel Britton, they held their breath when they saw the coonest slipping off his head, and they applauded as each of the later rounds ended with the reeling champion still on the safe side of a knockout. As the last round began there were shouts of hopes that Britton could survive. They were unnecessary, for Walker, weakened from his efforts, and shorn of some power by Britton's earlier blows, was without the sleep-producing punch. Britton knew he was whipped, and without awaiting the decision he congratulated Walker, adding: "I wish you luck, boy." Walker replied that the champion was the gamest man he ever tackled.

The champion went to his knees nearly a half dozen times, first in the second round. After a demoralizing third he appeared strong in the fourth and fifth, and then grew appreciably weaker. He made desperate efforts for a knockout in the ninth, was most helpless in the tenth, and then in the eleventh made a flash that startled the ringside. But it was his swan song, and after that effort he had nothing left but his gameness. He showed quantities of it until the end.

THE DYING U.F.O.

Standing of the parties in Ontario Legislature, following the Toronto and Russell bys., is: U.F.O. 44, Liberals 30, Conservatives 26, Labor 11, Independent 1, and Soldier 1. It will be seen that the Government remains in a precarious position, dependent entirely upon support of the Labor group or occasional individual votes from the others, when it comes to putting through anything at all contentious. Predictions have been freely made for a long time that the Drury Government will not survive an election—if indeed it lives out the next session. And now we are given to understand that the business side of the U.F.O. organization—its backbone—is not in shape as to hold the farmers together. The latest and most striking contribution to the evidence in this connexion comes from J. C. Ross, former editor of the Farmers' Sun, and a personal friend of Hon. Mr. Drury. Mr. Ross, now editor of the Ontario Reformer, of Oshawa, writes, under the caption, "The Dying U.F. O."—

"One thing is certain, and that is that the Farmers' Party is doomed if it continues to be directed by Mr. Morrison, Gordon Waldron, Col. Fyson, W. L. Smith and men of that stamp.

"What are the facts? A very few years ago there were over 60,000 members in the U.F.O. in this province. Today there is only half that number, and if the present slump in membership continues there shortly will be less than a quarter. Ten years ago there were over 1,000 active Farmers' Clubs. Today there is probably not more than a quarter of these in existence, while not 200 are active.

"The United Farmers' Co-Operative Company was a prosperous organization. Last year they lost hundreds of thousands of dollars and seriously impaired their financial standing. It is commonly reported that another disastrous report will be made at the annual meeting in December...

"No institution, be it a political party, a co-operative concern or anything else, can always thrive on destructive methods and tendencies. There must come a time when destruction turns to construction, when building up takes the place of tearing down. That has never come about in the U.F.O., with the result that the better type of farmers throughout the province are growing weary of the tirades launched by Mr. Morrison and his little group of advisers, and are quitting all activities associated with the U.F.O.

Mr. Ross adds a paragraph attacking the Morrison theory of a distinct economic group, for the farming community, as another reason for the U.F.O. "going down hill." Farmers' Sun quotes the editorial as a "Challenge to the U.F.O.," without offering any particular defence. Toronto Globe comments: "If these statements are true, why should the Liberals of Ontario become a ball to the U.F.O.-Drury Government kite?" Curiously enough, the Globe can see plenty of reasons in favor of a Progressive-Liberal Alliance at Ottawa, so long as the Progressives furnish the tail to the kite. But what adequate reason can there be for Conservative hanging on to the tail of either kite?

London, Oct. 31.—The only Canadian-born member to take part in the recent debate in the House of Commons, which resulted in the removal of the embargo on Canadian cattle was Lieut.-Col. "Jack" Gretton.

Colonel Great Morden said that as a breeder in a small way of pedigree cattle in England, he hoped to export to Canada. He was firmly convinced that the removal of the embargo would not interfere with his farming operations or his breeding. On the contrary, by allowing Canadian cattle to come into England, in fact, sure that the pedigree cattle would be purchased by Canadians. The pledge at the Imperial Conference did not refer to the stigma only. To suggest that it did was to underestimate the intelligence of Canadian statesmen. If they were going to shut the door in this way to their own people, who had gone out to the Dominions, then he was afraid of what would happen. Suppose that pledge was not carried out in its entirety, was it possible to have another Imperial Conference? Would it not be humiliating if the greatest Dominion, invited to attend such a conference, should demand a guarantee that any agreement entered into by the representatives of the greats at the reception held at 11 Kensington Park Gardens after the wedding of Mr. H. Vernon Hunt to Miss Estelle Blumenfeld. Both the Colonel and Mrs. Grant Morden and Mrs. Duff-Frazer were amongst the guests of the Duke and Duchess of Northumberland at Syon House on the occasion of their recent visit to Canada and the Duke of York.

THAT EXECUTIVE

Ottawa, Nov. 2.—What an Executive for our National Railways! Hon. H. H. Stevens has charged, and without being refuted, that the British Columbia representative of the national executive was guilty of importing and distributing 1500 barrels of beer against the law. When the law officers sought to bring him to justice the Attorney-General of British Columbia reprimanded them for interfering with his friend somehow and guide. Will the Canadian National be turned into a bootlegging organization. Another member, John Sclobar has refused to serve for which the people of Canada should return thanks on Thanksgiving Day. Tom Moore is still in Europe at the government's expense. He will serve. A carpenter has been appointed to represent the railway unions. The King Government declared by this appointment that there is not an employee, conductor, telegrapher, fireman or trainman worthy of consideration. What an Executive! May the people do better or "God save the National System."

A Large Order.

"I want a dress to put on around the house," said the lady in the dress department.

"How large is your house, madam?" inquired the new clerk.

Mr. Eaton's Experience.

H. Y. Eaton, the newly-appointed president of the T. Eaton Co., Toronto, is laughingly telling his friends on the subject of his first experience after accepting the position as head of the big store.

Mr. Eaton was rather hurriedly given the big business the keys over and happened to be going through the invoice department in the basement when a foreigner, evidently mistaking him for a member of that department, accosted Mr. Eaton with: "Hoigel, say, have you a sort of dish you call a 'Jiffy' —no?"

"Sure, we have," was the quick reply, "but we probably have another name for it. What is it like?"

"Well, you see" (pulling a packet from his overcoat pocket) "the directions on this package of Alabastine says, 'Mix in a jiff with cold water.'"

Elephant's Intelligence.

Charles Mayer, who has been in the remote places of the earth stalking wild animals for various zoos, has written a fascinating book, "Stalking Wild Animals," in which he controverts with vigor the popular idea of the elephant's intelligence. This, he says, has been greatly exaggerated. The animal's gentleness, and its very serviceable trunk, gave rise to the myth. It is obedient and teachable, but its "reasoning" is far below a dog's. An elephant will stupidly fall into any pit lightly covered, though provided with a trunk capable of guarding against such an accident its fellows make no effort to assist the fallen one, but flee in terror. They are easily caught and recaught; lovable, stupid brutes. The notion that they are vindictive and retentive of injury is false.

"The White Feather."

"To show the white feather" is a phrase that has survived cock-fighting days. A thoroughbred game cock has only red and white feathers. A cross-bred bird is known by a white feather in his tail. As the slightest impurity of strain was said to destroy the bird's fighting spirit, the plume was adopted to show lack of pluck among men.

Guards Halifax.

The man who succeeded Beatty as commander of the battle cruiser fleet, the battle seekers of the grand old navy, is now in command of the North American squadron; that is to say, he is the defender of the Atlantic coasts of the fair and easy-going Dominion, now that the Canadian navy has gallantly sailed for dry dock station.

Everybody knows who succeeded Lord Jellicoe in command of the grand fleet. It was Beatty, commander of the battle cruiser fleet, which tried in vain to make Heinie fight it out at Jutland. Earl Beatty's promotion involved scores of promotions. Every vacancy at the top means vacancy below, although people seldom stop to think of it. That is why we do not know Pakenham, otherwise Vice-Admiral Sir William Christopher Pakenham, K.C.B., M.V.O., C.V.O., whom the books list as rear-admiral commanding the battle-cruiser fleet, 1917-1919, and commander-in-chief of North America and West Indies station since 1930.

The son of a rear-admiral, Sir William took to salt water naturally born in 1861, he entered the navy at the mature age of thirteen, in 1874, to be precise. He was naval attaché at Pekin and Tokio his youth and at Washington in his later youth. A Lord Commissioner of the Admiralty in 1911, he contrived to get to sea again in 1913 as commander of the third cruiser squadron. Promoted, he held until 1917, when Jellicoe was promoted. Beatty likewise and Pakenham ditto.

Births and Deaths in England.

While the death rate in England and Wales during 1921 was the lowest on record for the country as a whole, the birth rate was, except for the war years, 1914-1919, the lowest ever recorded for the whole country. The figures were 11.4 and 12.4 respectively. In the 96 great towns, including London, the figures were: Birth rate, 23.6; death rate, 12.3; and deaths of infants under one year per 1,000 births, 97.

98 Out of Every 100 Women Benefited

An Absolutely Reliable Statement Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Canvass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. 50,000 Women Answer

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: "Have you received benefit by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

Replies, to date, have been received from over 50,000 women answering that question.

98 per cent of which say YES.

That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it.

Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100.

Did you ever hear of anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

Such evidence should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98

THE LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO., Cobourg, Ont. and Lynn, Mass.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit the large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing.

It only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure-all—one that is made by the most scientific process; not from drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions.

You see, we have been making, improving and refining this medicine for over 50 years until it is so perfect and so well adapted to women's needs that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it.

It's reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in almost every country in the world—leading all others.

PAVING OF STATION STREET

traffic. A lower width would accommodate them."

Mr. Jamieson Boss, next witness, corroborated the evidence of Mr. Deacon and Archdeacon Macnish absolutely and testified that 1,000 loads of gravel were on Front street. was greater than on Bridge street for instance, because it was to take care of much heavier traffic. The situation would be similar on Station street as the traffic would be very heavy.

Mr. Hope McGinnis who circulated the petition against the proportion of the cost of the paving of Station street which the residents were called upon to pay, was the next witness, who also explained the proposal to pave a portion of the square at the Cannifton road junction for a distance of 80 feet. This will be a great expense to the only property owner affected by the paving of this portion as pointed out by witness.

Mr. Mansell Ketchum, the engineer, do away with the dust on this street and improve your property values."

Witness—"Not sufficiently to compensate for the cost of paving."

Mr. Chas. Lenge explained that a many as 22 car loads of cheese in houses passed along Station street o Tuesday, according to a record kept b a resident of Station street.

Mr. Logue was also keenly opposed t the paving scheme.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS GETS MANY APPEALS

THOUSANDS OF LETTERS, BOTH INTERESTING AND ABSURD ARE RECEIVED

Geneva, Oct. 2—The general offices of the League of Nations receive daily an enormous number of letters from pretty well all over the world, and in these contributions the crank is well represented. The mail clerks are busy individuals, for their is the duty of sorting and redirecting. Countries outside the League produce the largest number of correspondents. The United States is far in the lead, and the cranks in America who feel called upon to tell the League what it should do are enormous without number.

But Germany and Soviet Russia also send generously in keeping the mail clerks occupied. Africans and Asiatics, as well as Europeans and Americans, find the most extraordinary excuses for communicating with the League, showing there is a world-wide misconception as to what the League is and what it was set up to do.

The Secretariat gets a vast amount of mail matter that ought to go to the foreign offices of different governments, and it receives also a greater number of suggestions, applications and petitions that ought to go nowhere. Men and women bring to the League in all languages of the world their heart-aches, their head-aches, and the aching voids in their pocket books. The Secretariat is asked for the address of reliable doctors; beard, to find lost husbands, and appealed to settle domestic as well as other quarrels. The requests for funds come along in a steady stream. The League has not even been immune from the bequirements of the confidence men, several Americans of this species having tried to tap the Secretariat to help them out with their passport troubles.

Among the most frequent appeals are those that the League make the world done dry, that it suppress tobacco as well as all drugs and drinks; that it institute a universal religion; that it reform the calendar; that it adopt a universal language; and that it give votes to women the world over.

The suggestions are mostly, in the sure of the world's economic and financial ills, but some correspondents want to show the League how universal peace may be restored through the general adoption of their particular religion, want to design a new world flag, or make the League all over again after their fashion.

The League is often asked to settle feuds and to pacify divided families.

The latest curious demand was from a romancer who wanted material to write a sensational novel about the League; he was referred to the Near-East section.

HOG PRODUCTION DEMANDS GRADING

NEW DEVELOPMENTS REQUIRE CHANGE IN METHODS OF MARKETING

The purchasing of hogs in Canada has passed through a great variety of methods in the development of the industry. In the early days there were no public stockyards and as centralized packing plants became established, it was necessary, in order to ensure supplies, that they organize a system of gathering the hogs from the farmers and bring them to the plants. It also resulted in the establishing of packing plants at many points in the smaller towns and cities, convenient to the sources of supply. Many of these plants still continue to operate and are a very important factor in the marketing of hogs. As public stockyards developed, packing plants became more centralized. This is especially true of the newer parts of the country where, at the present, nearly all the hogs are slaughtered at central marketing points.

During the years previous to the great railway development which took place at the time of the building of the Canadian Pacific and Intercontinental lines, the Canadian export trade was a very important factor and the bulk of the export trade was in bacon. With the building of the railways, the domestic trade became the important part of the business. The general expansion resulted in a big immigration which overtook the surplus of hog production and turned the greater part of the industry into domestic trade. The character of the hog developed and the work done demanded a supply of rather heavy meats. This period was immediately followed by the Great War and the export trade again became very important, but it differed greatly from the early export business in that owing to the demand for any kind of meat, no differentiation in favor of the bacon type hogs was possible. The combined effect of the periods of domestic expansion and war conditions was that the production of hog suitable for the export trade as well as the domestic trade of today was largely lost sight of. The result has been that all types of hogs have been paid for on the same basis, regardless of quality.

Today, however, conditions have greatly changed. The domestic trade eaters largely to the urban population which either does not want the pork and the export trade has become very discriminating in its requirements. The bacon type hogs are the hogs required for both the domestic and export trade and as the domestic market is limited, the expansion of the hog industry in Canada depends on the export market. It is essential that the production of the bacon type of hog be encouraged. This can only be accomplished by payment of a premium for quality. This need was already felt by all interested in the development of the swine industry for a joint conference was called by the federal Minister of Agriculture in the fall of 1921, which resulted in the establishing of official grades for hogs and the passing of the hog grading regulations.

SENT BACK TO BELLEVILLE

The elderly man, who was before Magistrate Farrell, on Monday, on a charge of vagrancy, and who was ordered to return to his home in Belleville, was escorted to a train on Tuesday afternoon by a police constable. The man told the magistrate that he had about $100 in a bank in Belleville, and why he should loaf around Kingston and create a nuisance, the local authorities are unable to understand. But many complaints were received about the man using abusive language to people on the street.—Kingston Whig.

"I Was Run Down"

"Body was completely covered with Boils"

"If you have ever had boils, you know how painful and annoying even one or two can be. But imagine having your whole body covered entirely covered with them! I am a watchmaker by trade, making a specialty of repairing the highest grade movements. I'm probably one of most trying of any mechanical work, particularly the delicate kind I am like me. Working under great strain both day and night for three months, brought me almost to a state of collapse. I was so irritable and nervous that the slightest thing would 'send me up in the air.' If I managed to get a few hours of sleep at night it was lucky. I had no appetite and I became terribly run down. Incidentally my blood was miserable. During this time boils began to appear on different parts of my body and the pain from them made life a misery. My suffering was so great at times that I felt there was nothing left for me to do but to end it all. I consulted doctors but they all told me that if I didn't give up my work and live out of doors, I would be laid up for months. I had no money I couldn't do this. In fact paying doctors' bills was the last thing I could afford. I used up all the money I made. Finally in desperation, I decided that I would either kill or cure myself, so I began to study my case. I realized that I was accompletely run down as any one could possibly be with a broken down nervous. What I needed was building up. After reading descriptions of different preparations, the one which appeared to be the best for me was Carnol. It has simply performed miracles for me. Four bottles have done more than months of travel abroad. I feel like a new man and, I sleep eight hours every night and get up feeling good when I do. My skin is like a baby's, free from blemishes of any kind and I have entirely forgotten that I have ever had such things as nerves. I want everybody who is ailing to know about Carnol, because I have such faith in it I believe it will cure any human ill."

Mr. J. H. Lee.

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it has not done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money.

OBSEQUIES

SYLVESTER SMITH

Recently Mr. Sylvester Smith of Stamford, near Niagara Falls, came to Belleville to visit his sister, Mrs. Phoebe Smith, who resides at 32 Henry street, and was taken ill resulting in his demise which occurred last evening. Deceased who was 77 years of age was born on Front street, Belleville, in the year 1845 and was a son of the late Mr. Joseph Smith. In early life, Mr. Smith was a school teacher, having taught school in Hungerford Township. After living here for 24 years Mr. Smith went to Stamford, where he had since resided. Deceased was a veteran of the Fenian Raid of 1866, having done duty as a color-sergeant of the 15th Argyll Light Infantry. Mr. Smith was for many years a member of the Stamford municipal council and 40 years ago was appointed as a Justice of the Peace for Welland County. He was a man who was highly respected by all who knew him. Deceased was a widower. In religion he was an Anglican. One son, Thomas O. Stamford, survives, also one sister, Miss Phoebe Smith of this city. Nieces and nephews of deceased are living in Michigan. The body will be shipped to Stamford for interment.

FIND BODY IN WELL

Kinetton, Ont., Nov. 1.—Floating in the well on his farm, 1½ miles west of Yarker, the body of Fred McWilliam, a well-known farmer of this district, was found early this morning. The water in the well is but five feet deep and the man's drowning appeared to have been premeditated. The boards covering the well had been removed.

It is understood that the late Mr. McWilliams had been complaining of head trouble. Mr. McWilliams was about forty-five years of age and is survived by his wife and several children.

SECOND STILL IS SEIZED IN COUNTY OF LEEDS

Brockville, Nov. 1.—One of the largest stills yet to be seized in Leeds county was confiscated by Provincial Police and Inland Revenue officers on the farm of John Code, Kitley township. It was located in a sugar-house in an isolated spot. No liquor was found on it, but over 200 empty bottles were on the premises. Five officers took part in the search, which included other sections of the same district. The still was brought here for disposal. It is the second to be seized in this district this week.

SCIENTISTS TO STUDY SEAGULLS ON INLAND WATERS

Burlington, Ont., Nov. 1.—The migratory habits of sea gulls which year after year have made their Four Brothers Islands in Lake Champlain, their breeding place, will be studied by a party of scientists who plan to visit the islands next summer. Professor Harry F. Perkins, of the University of Vermont, probably will head the investigators.

Full and authentic information concerning the habits of the birds is lacking and, in an effort to secure it, a number of points on the scientists propose to attach small bands to the legs of the young birds to serve as identification marks during the migrating season. The task will not be accomplished without difficulty, as the gulls are known for their strongly any interference with their offspring, and the investigators will have to exercise the greatest care in order to avoid disturbing the birds.

The plan is in line with the aims of the National Bird Banding Association, whose members make a record of every bird banded, and send a copy for file to the headquarters of the association at Washington. Whenever a bird with a band upon its leg is captured by a member of the association, headquarters is notified, and in this manner information relative to the movements of birds is obtained.

How Basil King Became a Writer

During one week last November, the public of a number of Canada's large cities was treated to an extremely new interest in her writers. "Canadian Authors' Week" was the magnificent days when people were told to read and loyal books with at least meet in person their authors, discuss anything. Then, with this fine bookshop, lecture hall to drawing room, and carry away autographed copies for the treasured bookshelf. Perhaps the most outstanding figure among Canada Canadian masters of the pen was the presence from across the line of that world-famous writer of fiction and inspirational works, Basil King.

Basil King was born on an island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. He is an American, papers have it, as we know it, Charlottetown, P.E.I. Basil King is a cosmopolitan, however, as most writers are wont to be, and he is planning to spend a winter in Rome, if conditions permit. His permanent place of residence is an historic place in the United States—for he occupies the second old one-time home of William Dean Howells, the "dean of American letters," in Kittery Point, Massachusetts.

Circumstances by which Mr. King became an author are related by the writer, himself.

"I am sometimes asked how I broke into print. I never broke into it. Rather in his modest boundaries, at a time when I thought all writing beneath my notice, and an idea came to me, while on a train, which I thought might make a good short story. Failing before the temptation, I began writing the story that night, finishing it two or three days later. On sending it to the Atlantic, I was amazed to find it accepted and paid for at once, and published within a few months. My literary career was further precipitated by the fact of partially losing my sight. On the day when I realized my eyes were 'going' I bought a typewriter. If the worst came to the worst I knew I could manage to work it as a blind man plays a piano. The worst didn't come to pass, though it seems to people I had. During years of living as a semi-invalid, the House of Imagination proved a retreat from the House of Pain.

"From the first his inspirational hand of mind has colored his work and hand in hand with his great pleasure and talent have come three truly triumphant books and articles of his own life—of the spirit in wars of accomplishment, strength and conquest. The three books received were "The City of Comrades," "The Abolishing of Death," "The Thread of Flame," and his latest novel, "The Empty Sack," are those of his books which have brought him the greatest fame. That the trend of his writings differs at times from the usual path of successful fiction, has a remarkable popular appeal is demonstrated by the phenomenal success of his novels. The stories received when dramatized for the motion picture. His best work has been used on the screen, and his name upon any scenario practically ensures its successful reception, both artistically as well as the public. As someone said, "As Kipling is the poet interested in the writers of films as the actors, there is no danger of the movies becoming intolerable." The showing of Basil King's pictures in Canada last year proved that there was no danger of cinema-deterrence to the author, and many readers of "Earthbound" will not soon forget the picture. But King himself says, as someone told him when he was a boy, that there is no such thing, that like Jacob, he must serve seven years for his mistress, and seven years for Rachel, or success, and only then is he entitled to the fruits of his labor in the company of the bride—popularity.

During a gathering of friends in the bookwood a prize woman, who had recently recovered from a serious illness, spoke words that indicate the inside story of Basil King.

"Mr. King, I personally owe you a great debt," she said, drawing her chair toward his. "You have saved my life twice. Once when I had thought to go under completely. The second time, during my illness. I was given a copy of your last novel, 'Tangled Trails,' and the quotation you made a theme of in the book, carried me through my worst hours not only of suffering but actual fear, and, I think, saved me from that worst enemy of us all person, self pity. The quotation I mean is the one remembered from his Bible by Bob when he lay wounded in hospital, 'Thou therefore endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ.'"

Basil King interested in people for themselves, as well as his work as a humanitarian and student of life in every aspect, often takes him to the Pacific coast, to visit his brother, King Hing. He has two great friends there who have been invaluable, and as he naively puts it, "I murderer is just like any other, if he has friends to whom he particularly visits are exceptionally well-behaved." Among these persons, Mr. King admits that to speak, as he is often called upon to do, in the general assembly there, is terrific. The constant association with such others, he is decidedly fond of, most thorough punishment the criminals confined in prison suffer.

The sight of a conqueror is always an inspiring thing—but the achievement of the people of Toronto towards this outstanding Canadian and Canadian, who has so quietly and so nobly fought his good fight against failing health and blindness, must be great.

COL. CURRIE'S VICTORY!

Ottawa, October 30.—It is startling to statement to say that the victory of Col. A. Currie in South-east Toronto presages a return of the Toronto seats to the Conservative ranks. Four are still represented by Liberals. All kinds of curious factors entered into the provincial contest of 1919. Even such an authority as the Farmers' Sun now considers that "practically every other riding in Ontario was won by the big sweep of general election." The federal seats, of course, are already held by Conservatives.

Col. Currie, who represented North Simcoe in the Commons from 1908 to 1921, was always an active member, and became well known as a fighter. He will undoubtedly stir up things in the final session of the Ontario House. At present his majority in S. E. Toronto, over his nearest opponent, J. A. Callahan, Independent Liberal, is given at 2,000. Chuck Dare's "straight" Liberal, 238 Trevor Maguire, Labor, ran nowhere in particular. Yet the late John O'Neill had a majority of 4,235.

In Russell, a Liberal constituency, Alfred Goulet succeeds the late Damase Racine. His majority over Peter Blanchford, U.F.O., was 2,698. The farmers were divided about running a candidate, and it is interesting to note that Progressive and U.F.O. leaders did not stump the constituency. Urban subdivisions gave Mr. Blanchford little support. Cornwall is a safe urb of this city, and Rockland give the winner his big lead.

Speaker Raymond Brunelle, Premier Drury has delivered an address at Arthur, reiterating that there will be no general election until the fall. Then a series of office set-ups—unless the Government be defeated in the coming session of the Legislature. Mr. Drury makes an optimistic speech, and perhaps—than the chief issue in the general election may be the Ontario Government Act and its administration.

Probably the most interesting aspect of the Currie victory is that Southern Toronto may be taken as typical of other constituencies in Ontario—not urban—in which Conservatives were not running candidates supported by Liberal or U.F.O. candidates three years ago. Dewart-Raney-Hartley leadership has failed to hold them as results of the general election show.

RY COMMISSIONERS VISIT LEVEL CROSSING

O.T.A. HAMMER FALLS HEAVILY

FRED BROWN, COLORED FORTER, FINED $400 AND COSTS OR 6 MONTHS

At the police court this morning the spectators were present in such numbers as to fill the court room to overflowing. The attention of the court was occupied in hearing three cases brought under the Ontario Temperance Act.

The first case called was that of Fred Brown, colored, who was a porter on a C.P.R. train and the charge preferred against him was that he did on October 31st, 1922, unlawfully sell liquor in the city without having a license to do so, contrary to the provisions of the Ontario Act.

The accused, through his counsel, Mr. C. A. Payne, pleaded guilty. Mr. Payne made a plea for the imposition of the minimum fine as it was Brown's first offence. The accused was a married man and had lost his position on account of the transaction.

In answer to an enquiry from the Magistrate, Brown stated that he sold 16 bottles of liquor for which he obtained $74. The liquor cost him $63 and was procured at Toronto. The accused also stated his home was in Montreal and his run on the railway was from Montreal to Toronto. He denied having previously sold any liquor.

Mr. Carew said it might possibly be Brown's first offence, but liquor was coming in from some source. This was a wide open sale and the law would not stand for it.

A fine of $400 and $31 costs was imposed, or in default four months in jail at hard labor. Brown's wife who was in court stated that the money was not available but that she would endeavor to get it.

Fred Coon and Robert Burke were charged that they did on the 31st October 31st, 1922, unlawfully drink liquor which was purchased from one not having a license so entitling the same, under section 47 of the O.T.A. Both parties pleaded guilty and leniency was asked on the case of Coon who had given the authorities all assistance in the matter.

Magistrate Mason commented upon the cases stating that the penalty had by the Legislature been reduced to the party who disclosed where the liquor has been obtained. Coon had given a truthful statement of the matter. A fine of $100 and costs, he thought would be about right.

Mr. Carew—If the fine was made $150 it would be between the minimum and maximum.

A fine of $100 and costs was imposed or in default two months in jail.

In the case of Burke, the Magistrate stated that he had left the city which had caused some trouble in securing him for trial. In his case the fine should be heavier. A fine of $125 and $27.20 costs was imposed, or in default two months in jail. Mr. Payne appeared for Burke.

SULTANATE SUPPRESSED

Canadian Press Despatch

London, Nov. 3.—A report that the Turkish Nationalist Assembly at Angora has passed a law suppressing the Sultanate of Turkey and a law of succession, to the throne, is contained in a despatch of the Exchange Telegraph from Constantinople. Such action by the Assembly would mean, of course, that the Sultan is deposed. In future says the despatch, only the Caliph in Turkey will be permitted to exercise whatever Government prerogative, all power being in the hands of the assembly.

Angora, Nov. 2.—The Government at Angora has announced that it considers null and void all the treaties and conventions concluded since March 8, 1920 by the Constantinople administration.

FATHER WHELAN SINKING FAST

Canadian Press Despatch

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—The Rev. Father M. J. Whelan, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, was reported early this morning to be sinking fast. Reports of attending doctors held out slight hopes of his recovery.

IRISH LEADER COMING HERE

Rev. Father Michael O'Flanagan, an active leader in Irish republican ranks, and a former acting-president of the Sinn Fein, is soon to visit Canada.

LUNATIC RUNS RIOT ON TRAIN

Passengers on a westbound C.N.R. train yesterday morning had an exciting time, when about thirty miles west of Riviere Du Loup station, a madman, who appears to have been possessed with a sudden fit of insanity, ran riot all around one of those present, perfect strangers to him, with a knife. He was eventually overpowered when the train reached Riviere Du Loup and removed in custody.

An eye-witness of the near tragedy, Mrs. Puckett, of Newfoundland, who was on her way to Toronto, tells the story as follows:

"At about 9 a.m. yesterday, while about thirty miles east of Riviere Du Loup station, and dozing, in a first-class coach attached to the west-bound C.N.R. train, I was precipitously awakened by an unearthly scream from behind. Turning, I saw pinioning with one hand the partner of his seat and flashing a murderous-looking jack-knife with the other, a hitherto peaceable passenger and three ugly blows upon his unfortunate victim. Others there were, one a very bad neck wound, the second in the muscle of the right arm, and a third between the shoulders, which were turned towards him in the scuffle and the struggle which ensued. Not content with this, the marauder dashed to the opposite end and aimed a blow at Rowe's uncle, Fred Rowe, who fortunately had the presence of mind to duck the knife, soon entering his heart, at which it was aimed, by placing his hands there, which were stabbed through.

"In a few seconds the car was the scene of screaming, rushing and frightened people. An official of the company arrived and drew a revolver, which he placed near the madman's head and which had the effect of cooling him somewhat. He was ushered into the smoker and guarded by the same means, while instructions were wired ahead to Riviere Du Loup, and the train proceeded uninterrupted. Meantime the excitement had increased, the wounded men of whom by unconscious and bleeding profusely from the neck wound, were given first aid.

Dash For Liberty

"When Riviere du Loup was reached the prisoner made a dash for liberty. As a policeman stepped on to the car, the madman ignoring the gun held by the brakeman, made a rush to the alleyway, but was stopped by a blow on the head from a club, dealt by a police officer. At the same time he was further incapacitated by a shot through the arm from another policeman, who, witnessing the scene from the platform, fired through the window. The victim were then secured in Riviere du Loup Hospital.

"Enquiry revealed that the would-be assassin was a Russian and joined the train at Moncton, having a ticket from Halifax. He was fair-haired, strongly built and well groomed, and carried a wallet with ten $100 bills, besides loose change. He gave the name of Mikail Kryvitzky, and, with two both Americans, were returning from a hunting expedition in Cabada."

CANADA TO HAVE REPRESENTATIVE

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

New York, Nov. 3.—The Washington correspondent of the New York World, reports that he has learned authoritatively that Canada is to have either a minister or a high commissioner with ministerial powers as her direct official representative in the United States. This is regarded as significant, as the first step in what ultimately may mean like representation for the Irish Free State and other British Dominions. The general impression in Washington says The World is that Sir Charles Fitzpatrick is not likely to be appointed.

COMMUNIST QUARTERS SACKED IN BARI

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Rome, Nov. 3.—The quarters of all Communist organisations in the town of Bari, have been sacked and burned by Fascisti, says a despatch to Epoca. Attacks on Communists are also reported from other centres.

SERIOUS FIRE AT MAINFIELD

Fire completely destroyed the barn, drive shed, stable and the season's crop on the farm of Mr. Wesley Parks, who resides near the village of Stirling, shortly after 9 o'clock last night, according to a word received in this city today.

The cause of the fire was not known here today. The loss, which will be a heavy one, will on partially compensated for by insurance, which was carried.

ALLEGED FORGERY CASE DECIDED

MUCH INTEREST MANIFESTED IN A RAWDON TOWNSHIP CASE

Trial Guilty. The accused is discharged.

These were the words of His Honor Judge Deacha pronounced yesterday at the close of the case in the trial, that set Edward McInroy free. The feelings of his friends who had watched the proceedings during the trial could scarcely be restrained. Mr. Carnew, K.C., for the Crown, and Mr. Ponton, K.C., for the defence, prosecutor, H. V. Hoover, skillfully wound the threads of evidence around the accused, charged in the case of forgery and uttering a forged document. Verbal testimony, documentary evidence and expert testimony were utilized to support the case of the Crown, and at the close of the case for the prosecution it appeared to feel that a strong case had been made. Mr. Ponton, K.C., acting for the accused, took the objection that the documentary evidence put in could not be ruled against the accused. The fact was not a party to the documents, and they were self-serving and made behind his back. It was the duty of authorities to do away with or weaken the force of the evidence of the handwriting experts and called witnesses to contradict the evidence of the prosecution. Judge Deroche said at the conclusion that it was a most puzzling case but he was satisfied Edward McInroy did not commit forgery.

The case arose out of a purchase of pigs by the U.F.O. Club at Rosebank, in the township of Rawdon. Some time ago H. V. Hoover, the purchaser, sued Edward McInroy for the amount which he claimed he had by a cheque for the purchase money being raised. The action went against McInroy, who appealed, and the Provincial Court dismissed the appeal. Then Mr. Hoover had McInroy arrested, with the above result. The court house was filled with residents of Rawdon during the trial.

ACTION ENTERED FOR DAMAGES

THOMAS HOLLAND CLAIMS UNSTATED DAMAGES FOR INJURIES SUSTAINED

As the result of the collision which occurred on Tuesday morning of this week between the police car and a motor car driven by Thomas Holland, Mr. Thos. Holland, plumber, of this city, an action for damages has been entered. This morning Mr. Peter Hanna was served with a notice that Mr. Holland was claiming unstated damages for injuries he received in consequence of the collision. What action the Council will take in the matter has not yet been decided.

REPRESENTATIVE AT WASHINGTON

Canadian Press Despatch

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—Definite action in the appointment of a Canadian representative at Washington for which it is expected here, not be long delayed. If, however, a Canadian representative is appointed, his appointment will be a diplomatic one and not a political one. It

THE EAGLE AND THE LION

It is a fine thing to see another completed seaborn move by with the cordial courtesy existing between the United States and Great Britain unmarred, by a protest or an argument of any sort.

For when you come right down to ultimate cases, these are the only two great sporting nations in the world, and only two who can keep international sport going where it means anything dead.

Perhaps Germany and, but even France hasn't absorbed the spirit of the game, minded of the sense of decency underlying it.

Italy has some sense in her international sport. For forty years her shooters (and the only shooting we bother with is rifle shooting) have won 37 per cent. of matches. Italy has amounted to but little, Sweden and Finland have developed a better stake (in Olympic competition), but they have no delegations nearly for tennis, golf, polo and the rest of it.

PORT HOPERS ARE FULL OF HOPE

The Guide says: "Port Hope will be after the scalp of the Belleville intermediate hockey team this season. Last season Belleville cleaned out Port Hope, and the sting of defeat still rankles. Port Hope has several players to choose from this season, including last year's team, and a big garage full of ingredients as well as two fine boys from Kingston, who played with the Port Hope ball team a game or two."

WILL HOW TAY...

"CANADA BRAND"

Rumor has it that Johnny Evans and "Rod" Bastone now attending Queens University, Kingston, will line up with Cobourg next summer. Evans did the receiving for Oshawa this summer and Bastone played third for Hillcrest. Evidently Cobourg are through with importations from Uncle Sam's land.

There is no doubt but that the Central League will be stronger than ever in 1923 and that the brand of ball served up next year will surpass even that of this year. Managers are already on the warpath for players and it behooves all the clubs to work fast as there is no agitation on foot to have the residence rule made Jan. 1.

BATSTONE PRESENTED

Harry ("Red") Batstone, the star ball-back of the Queen's squad, had a very appropriate surprise on Saturday last, when he was waited on by teammates of the Hillcrests baseball team and presented with a fine travelling bag. The Hillcrest players were polling for Queen's and were elated at the performance of their erstwhile third-baseman.

CIGARETTES FOR QUEEN'S PLAYERS

The Kingston Standard soberly announces that the Queen's players were allowed one cigaret each after the Varsity victory. If they beat Varsity at Kingston a week Saturday, they will probably get a whole package of Bull Durham.

REMOVE JOKER FROM CONSTITUTION

Sir says Lindsay Post in referring to the action on the matter introduced by Peterboro, "electrical Mather" of Belleville. The Post says that action should be taken at the next League meeting and a set ruling made and enforced. As it stands at present, any player residing in a place without an organized league can play with the nearest affiliated league. Belleville has no class to the Ontario League players at any time of the season and Lindsay could pretty reliably step into the backwood's intermediate league. For the sake of harmony this joker should be removed.

"PAT SHOT"

The Tigers announce that after the game against the Winged Wheelers in Montreal last Saturday the players of both teams attended a dinner, and the Hamilton boys were told by their hosts that they were a stronger team than the Steelers. While not denying that they were told this, the Hamilton supporters are hereby cautioned that a lot of statements made and heard after a football game in Montreal these days are based on something else besides fact. Of course no immunities is attached to this statement, but entertainment has reached its apex in Montreal.—Mail and Empire.

HOCKEY NOTES

"Gunner" Arnott, last season with Belleville, is now living in Preston and will likely play with the Burlington's team. Arnott was Eddie Thomas' scoring ace in the Winter and tagged most of the goals for the Belleville team.—Mail and Empire.

Eddie Thomas threatens to retire as manager of the Belleville intermediate O. H. A. team.—Mail and Empire.

SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING

A special meeting of the City Council has been called for this evening for the purpose of considering what action will be taken in regard to paving Station Street.

FIVE OF CHAMPION TERRIERS TO SEE SIGHTS OF NEW YORK

Galt, Nov. 2.—The G.A.A.A. will give a banquet and make a presentation to the Terriers, Ontario's hockey champions, on Thursday evening, Nov. 16. On this occasion it is expected the Ontario Cup will be presented. The present plans are for a banquet and presentation at the Memorial Home, to be followed later by a reception and dance open to the public at the Armory. Today five of the Terriers, who have never seen the sights of New York, left for the American Metropolis by motor, the guests of J. J. Stevens, the local manufacturer. The boys making the trip are Bert Graham, Alex Watts, Joe Kraus, Wally Grove and George Hime, the latter two being accompanied by their wives. It is a honeymoon for Mr. and Mrs. Grove, they having been married while the team was battling for the championship.

OPEN AIR GOLF SCHOOL POPULAR IN LONDON

London, Nov. 1.—Just off the busy shopping center of Kensington in the spacious grounds of the Holland House, retired Admirals and Generals, government officials, American visitors, actresses, clergymen and just ordinary citizens meet on common ground. The place is an up-to-date school of golf.

A company, recently formed, has acquired the property and made it into an "all round" practice course with greens, bunkers, and a series of nets which measure the length of the drive. Cumberland turf has been provided for a perfect putting lawn and four professionals are kept busy all the time with their varicolored assortment of pupils.

The golf school has received a popular indorsement and there is a steady stream of pupils from dawn until sundown. It is even planned to install high powered electric lights in order to allow the city men to play after d ark. More than 2400 golf balls are used daily, and so ties are contemplated.

SCHOOL AND CAMPUS

Newsy Notes from High School.

To-night in the City Hall the citizens of Belleville will have the opportunity to hear four of the best debaters in High School debate on a subject that is very important to them at the present time, "That Capital Punishment be Abolished."

A recitation and a short one act play entitled "O Pair of Lunatics" will complete this splendid programme. There will be a silver collection; proceeds to go to the Navy League.

Yesterday afternoon the boys from form IV and 3 b were out canvassing on behalf of the Navy League.

A meeting of all the boys interested in a hockey team was held the other day and Mr. Mackay addressed the boys.

Great is the demand for the use of the grounds that the instructors' time is booked for many days in advance. Further extensions of the schools facilities are contemplated.

REVIVAL OF CON. PARTY

Ottawa.—Remarkable has been the revival of the Conservative party throughout the Dominion during the past few months, and activity in organization and propaganda generally is very prevalent. Such activity is most significant when it is realized that every provincial administration is hostile to our party, and that all are busily rallying under such conditions indicates clearly the keen strength of the party and the tenacity to principle which prevails. From Charlottetown to Vancouver the activity is marked and an optimistic feeling prevails.

Maritime Provinces.

In the Maritime Provinces this Conservative revival is most significant. There, except in New Brunswick, the Conservative party was annihilated less within eight months of that disaster. Nova Scotians admit that their Government, federally and provincially, are being seriously challenged. Conservative candidates will be in the field in every constituency for the forthcoming local legislature of P.E.I. before the New Year, and a Conservative victory is deemed as soon as the opportunity to appeal to the people is forthcoming. Nova Scotia, bitterly Liberal provincially, is now being seriously organized by the Conservatives. Dr. HAYES, K.C., prominent Conservative, has taken over the organization, and although the Conservatives have to face opposition thirty years they claim confidently will defeat the Murray government. Hon. Dr. Pelletier, Conservative leader, has completed a tour of New Brunswick, and was in Ottawa last week. In which interview with the press he remarked, "Hon. Liberals admit that the present Government will be defeated. All this work is done without outside assistance. It can be said that the Conservative Party in the Maritime Provinces is in better organized and in a better fighting spirit now than any time since 1911. Provincial victories are expected in all three provinces next year and Conservative victories soon after."

British Columbia.

Honourable Arthur Meighen and Hon. H. H. Stevens have just completed a tour of British Columbia. Mr. Stevens left Ottawa this week, predicts a sweeping victory for the Conservative party in the provincial contest in British Columbia. The oliver Government is discredited and doomed. "It has proven wasteful and incompetent and the people are in rebellious against it. British Columbia Conservative organization has been perfected by the efforts of Messrs. Bowser and Stevens. They would welcome a contest at once. The result is in doubt and that province will vote for old time allegiance as soon as the opportunity is afforded.

Quebec.

In Montreal there are two great and active Conservative organizations—the French-Canadian Conservative Club, Cartier Macdonald, and the English Conservative Association. The latter was instituted after the election and has an active membership of over one thousand. These associations are self-sustaining and their activity is remarkable. The English Association claims that under a fair redistribution they will elect three English Conservatives from Montreal. Montreal, it is said noteworthy that this association does not hesitate to defend the national railways. There is also an English Women's Conservative Association in Montreal of two thousand members. This is one of the most active and influential political organizations in Canada. Conservative interest is rapidly rebuilding the party on sound and effective lines and English Canadian and French-Canadian Conservatives are working, it is claiming that never again will there be a solid Quebec.

The Prairies.

The Conservative Party in Manitoba has an excellent organization and in the Legislature has the most brilliant group that has represented our party in many years. The Liberal party has outside of one constituency in Winnipeg ceased to be a factor, while in the country the farmers' organizations are embittered and inactional through Mr. Crerar's treachery on the Wheat Board and through his attempt to merge the farmers with the Liberals. Manitoba (Conservatives are active and the next government in that province will be Conservative. Little has been done so far in Alberta and Saskatchewan awaiting the redistribution. In the latter and lower our friends are active and as soon as the boundaries of the constituencies are obtainable they will organize an organization throughout the Province.

Ontario.

Of the one hundred and eleven provincial constituencies in Ontario, nearly ninety are thoroughly organized for the Conservatives and before the close of the next Session of the Legislature an organization and candidate will be in every constituency. Colonel Currie's great victory in South-east Toronto will stimulate activity. His great majority proves the contention that the defection in 1919 has been overcome and the party will present a united front in the next election. Liberals, Labor and Farmers are each factional while the only party that can bring stability, economy and progress is the United Conservatives under Hon. Howard Ferguson.

Volunteer Mobilization.

The great work in reorganizing party throughout Canada is done by voluntary effort. There is no "war chest" no patronage, graft or whisker ring contributions. Therein lies its strength. It is not a purchased organization but one founded on principle.

ENGLISH LABOR READY FOR ELECTION

Extensive Campaign is Planned of Speeches, Meetings and Demonstrations

(Associated Press)

London, Oct. 20.—The English Labor party will place more than 430 candidates for the House of Commons as compared with 361 candidates at the 1918 election, according to plans of the party leaders which have been announced.

The Labor leaders are elated over their successes in the last election and the increased number of votes which were forthcoming in many of the country districts of England. Some additional strength has been shown by Labor candidates in the by-elections held in various constituencies since 1918, notably by Scottish districts.

Preparations for the forthcoming election have been elaborated, and practically every district in the country has already been organized. In this organizing work the Labor federations and unions have been allowed a free hand, and it is largely on their efforts and strength that the attack for the campaign battles has been built.

The National Association of Labor Agents has been training agents throughout the country, and hundreds of volunteer workers are qualifying for agency work. There are, at the present time, at least 9,000 local parties of one kind or another, and more than 800 women's sections in connection with these parties. The individual membership of the Labor party, in addition to the affiliated trades and societies, includes 80,000 women.

Of the 75 Labor members in the present House of Commons, 71 will seek re-election, and candidates have been chosen to contest the remaining four seats. Ten women are numbered among the Labor candidates.

As soon as the election is announced the leaders will start an extensive campaign to include speeches, meetings, and demonstrations in the cause of Labor.

MILK SUPPLY SYSTEM TRIED

London, Oct. 21.—The city of Wellington, New Zealand, with a population of 107,430, has achieved distinction by establishing a municipal milk supply system. It is a system, moreover, which has earned good opinion from the public health authorities because of the purity of the supply, and from business men by the efficiency of its management.

The enterprise has been developed by gradual stages, and not without some mistakes and unsuccessful experiments. The attention given to infant welfare by the State Health Department and by the Society for the Health, of Women and Children has led to the milk supply in New Zealand cities being subjected to careful examination. Already dairies and herds throughout the country are subject to inspection by the Agricultural Department, but between the farm and the city dwelling there is room for adulteration and contamination for which no inspection system has proved a complete remedy.

As a first step towards a better state of affairs the City Council of Wellington, with statutory authority, made it compulsory for all milk to be passed through a clearing station, where it was filtered, pasteurized and tested. The Council also obtained by Act of Parliament a monopoly of milk distribution within the city limits. To use its power effectively, the Council found that it must become the sole purchaser of the milk from the farms. Contracts were made with suppliers, and a creamery in the country was acquired to augment the supply in winter and to convert into butter and cheese the summer surplus.

Under private enterprise there had always been a shortage of milk in winter. To overcome this difficulty the Council agreed to pay a higher price to suppliers who would guarantee to supply an even quantity all the year round. It also offered a bonus for better quality.

Having by this means assured a regular and pure supply, the Council gave its attention to improving the methods of distribution. Private vendors were formed into distributing companies on a guarantee of three years' tenure, and the city was divided into blocks—one company to each block—so that the loss arising from the overlapping of milk rounds should be ended. The three years' term ended last July, and the Council, being unable to obtain satisfactory tenders for future private delivery, undertook the distribution itself.

Two important departures were made in the method of distribution, and sale. First, all milk was delivered in sealed bottles, and second, all payments were made by coupons or tokens, which customers were required to purchase in advance. In spite of the natural difficulty of introducing the new system and of trouble with one company, which considered the Council to control the delivery earlier than was anticipated, the scheme was in working order in less than a week.

The people are now thoroughly appreciative of the purity and full measure assured by the sealed bottle system.

So far as can be ascertained by comparison with other cities in New Zealand, the economical method of distribution in Wellington have been sufficient to meet the cost of the measures taken to assure purity and good quality.

Says It Was Best Investment That He Ever Made

"The best investment I ever made was when I bought Taylac. I'st able to eat meat and other thing. I didn't dare touch before and I'm feeling like a new man," said Joseph Deschenes, tailor, who worked for his father at 2335 Notre Dame St., West, Montreal.

"It certainly was a big surprise to me how quickly this medicine took hold, gave me an appetite and toned up my stomach so everything agreed with me. When I began taking it I had been suffering for two years from stomach trouble in a bad form and almost lost hope of ever finding relief as none of the medicines I took reached my case.

"Taylac is certainly different from all the rest. I used to be so nervous I would get up out of bed way in the night and walk the floor for hours. Now I drop off to sleep almost as soon as my head touches the pillow and sleep all night long. Taylac is a grand medicine and I know what it did for me it will do for others, so I feel it is my duty to advise people who suffer like I did to take it."

INCONSISTENCIES

High taxes are not always an indication of inefficient municipal administration. As a village grows to be a town, and a town merges into a city, and so on, there are at various intervals, certain basic expenditures which it is necessary to make. True it is that these obligations can be deferred temporarily, but in the end they must be assumed. We cannot get anything for nothing in this world.

Belleville has developed rapidly in the last decade and has found herself requiring many new sewers, pavements, schools, etc., in rapid succession. Thus taxes at present are high. But what progressive wide-awake town or city in Ontario has a low tax rate?

High taxes always create an abundance of criticism for the Mayor and Aldermen. Now whether this criticism is deserved or not, is a question that it is not proposed to settle here. We cannot change what has been done, but we can to a greater or lesser extent, regulate the future. Now instead of citizens continuing to heap criticism on the shoulders of the city fathers of 1923, let them get in their good work now. Let us do most of our talking before election day. If the matter of future municipal taxes is of such great importance, then the only consistent thing to do is to put in men who are considered capable of handling such important business. There has been a notable lack of interest in the municipal elections of Belleville in late years, and at the same time a great deal of talk about high taxes. The rate-payers themselves are to blame. It is not too early to begin now to think about next year's council. Get good men in the field and familiarize them with the desires and requirements of the people whom they represent. Then everyone turn out on polling day and put in the best men we have. If you can believe what we hear on the street, taxes are one of our greatest burdens. Then in that case we need our best men to run our municipal affairs. It is up to the ratepayers to put these men in the field and elect them. Now is the time to do our talking and our criticising. It is the height of inconsistency, however, to ignore municipal nominations and elections and then "knock" all the rest of the year. Conditions to-day are not the fault of the Aldermen, but rather the fault of the electors. Let us be consistent and stand behind the men we elect.

SLACKING IS SUICIDE

"As a matter of general policy", says John D. Rockefeller, Jr., "subject only to the demands of occasional emergency, modern industry is justified in accepting the eight-hour day as a labor standard, towards which all the parties interested should steadily press." The twelve-hour day is already restricted to certain peculiar conditions of operation and output, and even Mr. Gary has intimated that the United Steel Corporation is soon to change to the shorter working day.

But this does not solve the whole problem. There must be a clear recognition that the shorter day's labor is faithfully performed. There has been of late a tendency to slacken labor as well as to shorten the hours. Citizens of Canadian cities may have observed the tendency as it was made manifest on the extensive street excavations during the summer and autumn. Jobs that could be done in a week were spread over two and even longer and those requiring a fortnight took a month or six weeks. Any observer could see that the men were "loafing on the job", and, of course, the foreman sanctioned it. The exorbitant cost of building is largely attributed to the same cause. It has been the cause of some indoor trades as well. The damage to the country of this tendency or policy is colossal and is borne by all workers in every form of activity. If the practice becomes general everyone must inevitably suffer.

PRESS OPINIONS

THEY FORGOT THORNTON

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

Yet, if the government is attacked by these considerations, did not place a Canadian in charge of the National Railways would a man be brought from the United States to rule over us? The opponents of the government were certain that the Canadian people would never, never submit to that. Of course both the C.P.R. and the G.T.R. had done this in the past, but it was felt—or it was said—the country would not stand for that sort of thing now, not with a native-owned service. So as North American railroading is a peculiar and highly specialized business, it looked as if the government were in a tight corner.

The critics forgot Sir Henry Thornton. But the government didn't. Thornton was a successful American railway man who was taken to England eight years ago to undertake big work there. He has made a success of everything he has touched, knows British railroading as well as American, is a British subject, and likes the job of taking charge of the Canadian National Railways and welding them into a smooth-running and successful system. His appointment rather upset the calculations of the critics. They stood ready to split the skies with protests if "a rank outsider" were appointed. But there is an outsider of rank, and that particular trained chorus which meant to do the shouting fell silent.

EXCUSE FOR INDECISION

(Winnipeg Tribune)—

All the talk about Parliament's position and authority in the Near East matter, and about the indeterminate status of Canada has been nothing but a smoke screen used to cover the fact that the government of Canada failed to make a decision which it is incumbent upon the Government of every free and independent country to make when the occasion arises.

THESE KNOW CANADA

(Vancouver Province)

Canada is not without friends and acquaintances in the Board Law pantheon. The Prime Minister is a native of Canada. The secretary for the colonies is a recent Governor-General of Canada. Two of the ministers in this country. The minister of war lived in Canada as secretary to his father, who was also a Governor General. The first lord of the admiralty has been a frequent visitor to Canada and his wife is a Canadian, a sister to Sir Hamar Greenwood, who is a Liberal and out of office. The wife of the secretary for Scotland is a daughter of Lord Duffaeln.

WIT AND HUMOUR

A well-known member of the Stock Exchange has a little daughter. One day her father called for him.

"My dear," he said, "this morning a man offered me this room full of gold if I would sell your kitty to him. Now that money is enough to fill this room from wall to wall and from floor to ceiling. If I let you mother be that size, shall I be able to buy everything in the world you want. Shall I sell him?"

"No, papa," answered the little girl, proudly and then, before her delighted father could embrace her for expressing so much unselfish affection, she went on: "Keep him till he's bigger. He'll be worth more then."

After not having met for a very long time, two friends ran across one another in the street. One of them noticed that his friend's nose and cheek-bone had taken on a decidedly ruddy hue, and he began, reprovingly, "Ah, John, I see——"

But John broke in, informing the other that he should not judge by appearances as he only took one glass that day.

"Ah, well," was the reply, "yer face perhaps, is like our gaermeter; it regaisters more than it consumes".

The tramp knocked at the farmhouse door and asked for the farmer. To that worthy he offered the sale of woe, and asked for a job.

"Yes, you can have a job," said the farmer, "You can gather eggs for me if you are certain you won't steal any."

The tramp choked with gratitude and demotion.

"Sir," he said, with eyes brimful of unshed tears, "you can trust me with any mortal thing on earth. For 20 years I was manager of a bath-house, and never took a single bath!"

An Englishman boasted that he had been mistaken for a member of the Royal Family.

A Scotsman, hearing him, replied that he had been addressed as the Duke of Argyll.

Whereupon an Irishman said he had been taken for a greater person than either, for as he was walking along the street one day, a friend came up to him, exclaiming: "Holy Moses! is that you?"

EXTRA SESSION FOR CONGRESS

(Canadian Press Despatch).

Washington, Nov. 1.—President Harding's purpose now is to call Congress back to Washington on November 20. This is the information which has been given members of Congress who have recently conferred with him. It has not been announced officially and there is as yet no certainty when official announcement will be made, but it is true that a number of leaders are still trying to induce the President to call the extra session.

Ship subsidy will likely be before the House as soon as the extra session meets. The Senate will consider it in the regular short session which opens in December.

While the House takes up subsidy, the Senate will consider the anti-lynching bill demanded by colored republican voters. A number of other important measures will be pressed for passage this winter, including a general overhauling of the existing law relating to railroad labor and the railroad labor board. The Harding administration wants to avoid an extra session next spring but the program of proposed legislation of the first order is so long that it is by no means sure it can be avoided.

PRINCE OF WALES MAKES EASTON GREY POPULAR

London, Nov. 1.—When the Prince of Wales took up his residence at Easton Grey, the country estate which he hired for the hunting season, he was followed by scores of persons who had succeeded in renting other property in the vicinity. The announcement that the Prince would hunt on Easton Grey was followed by a rush to this lovely section, and houses and estates which have been vacant for years will again be the scene of house parties and festivities.

Precautions have been taken, however, to allow the Prince as much privacy as possible, and the general public will be excluded from the estate. So far no invitations have been accepted by the Prince, and he will try as much as possible to be alone during his visit to the north.

Easton Grey lies just outside the old Roman "White Walls", and near the estate stands the famous abbey of Malmesbury, where the first opera built in England was erected, and the first man to make a flying machine lived as a monk.

HERE AND THERE

EXCELLENCE

All works of taste must bear a price in proportion to the skill, time, expense and risk attending their production and manufacture. Those things called dear are, when justly estimated, the cheapest. They are attended with much less profit to the artist than those which everybody calls cheap. A disposition for cheapness and not for excellence of workmanship is the most frequent and certain cause of the decay and destruction of arts and manufactures.—Ruskin.

MELANCHOLY AUTUMN DAYS?

The poet called them melancholy days. They are not necessarily such we the farm; in fact, on most farms they are jolly days, when the rewards of the season's labors are in evidence on every hand and the comforts of the farm home are emphasized by changing climatic conditions. The barns and the silos are filled and the cattle are beginning to look for the warm meal to supplement the grazing of the pastures. The fire in the kitchen stove crackles merrily, and no meal throughout the year is eaten with more relish than the autumn supper, for which the lights are turned on, for the days are growing short.

Melancholy days, says the poet, who allows his feelings to be swayed by the rustle of dead leaves that have served the purpose assigned them by Nature, and by the chirring of a crow that probably pulled some of the farmer's corn last spring and is now somewhat hungry and downhearted because the grain fields are empty.

Cheering, satisfactory days, says the farmer as he listens to the rattle of the cattle's stable chains while they munch the cornstalks from the pile left over when the silo was filled.—"Onlooker" in the Montreal Weekly Star.

WHEN MR. PICKWICK LOST HIS HAT

One of life's minor tragedies is to have your hat blown off; another is to slip on the pavement. Mr. Pickwick lost his hat on the parade-ground at Rochester, and this is how Dickens added insult to injury:

"There are very few moments in a man's existence, when he experiences so much fruitless disturbance as marks with so little charitable commiseration, as when he is in pursuit of his own hat. A vast deal of coolness, and a peculiar degree of judgment, are requisite in catching at a hat. . . . The way is, to keep up gently with the object of pursuit, to be wary and cautious, to watch your opportunity well, get gently before it, then make a rapid dart, seize it by the crown, and stick it firmly on your head; smiling pleasantly all the time, as if you thought it all a joke. Such as anybody who has a hat to catch would do, and Mr. Pickwick's hat rolled sportively before it; the wind puffed, and Mr. Pickwick puffed, and the hat rolled over and over merrily as a lively porpoise in a strong tide; and on it might have rolled, had not its course been providentially stopped, just as that gentleman was on the point of capturing it 'to its fate.' Even the artist's illustration is hardly needed to show us the scene; Mr. Pickwick's hat is blown against the wheels of Mr. Wardle's carriage, and, as our joy, he is blown into the

COLLEGE LIFE IN COLONIAL TIMES

College students of to-day and certainly the fathers who have college expenses to pay will be interested in this expense account of a young colonial student. The young man was born near Waltham, Massachusetts, in May, 1732. In the year 1751 his father decided that his son should go to the college at Newark, New Jersey. That he might be favorably received and made acquainted the young man was furnished with letters of commendation from clergymen and from honorable magistrates. Here is an extract from one of those important letters:

"Mr. . . . visits Newark college in order to qualify himself for work of ye ministry & to obtain ecclesiastical honors from that college, which I doubt not his piety and learning will soon merit."

The young man made out a list of things needful for his journey among theme were butter at eight and one third cents a pound and tea at four dollars a pound. Stopping at Newport, he supplied himself with a "red cedared essential vest, a cocked hat of imperishable felt with an embroidered silk button upon the front of it.

After twelve months at college the young student bought a horse upon which to ride home; he had sent his baggage by sea. He was on the road for four days, and though he stopped to rest each night his noteboook shows an expense account of less than five dollars for the trip. Here are his college bills for the whole year:

Clothing	$43.00
College bills, board at 30 and ¾ cents a week	42.00
Amusements	2.00
College bills propet	9.00
Rum	3.00
Cider	8.00
Travelling expenses	12.00
Fuel, hickory wood at $1.62 a cord, candles, barber and other sundries	11.00
	$145.00

How many young men nowadays spend as little as that for twelve months at college?—Youth's Companion.

A LESSON

Ofttimes in school the master with his chalk
Writes out a goodly precept on the board,
And leaves it there until its truth is stored
Within the mind to blossom in the soul.
Then quickly comes, erasing brush in hand,
And that fair line has passed forever out,
Leaving no trace of what it was about;
But on the floor there lies a film of sand.
So, when the tender Master of the world
Shall sit His will, on from Life's school we pass,
Leaving the spot I held so short a space
To drift in dust by random breezes whirled.
May there be something that my life has said,
That others reading, grow by what they've read.

Best Cough Mixture Is Home Made

Acts With Speed—Loosens the Phlegm—Stops the Irritation and Coughing Ceases

FINE FOR CHEST COLDS TOO AND IS CHEAPLY MADE AT HOME

When you can make in two minutes a world beating remedy that acts directly on the membrane and clears out right round stubborn coughs as even hard chest colds disappear, why trifle with things that will probably disappoint?

Hawking and snuffling and all soreness of the mucous membrane is end you will feel fine in no time and you will feel fine in almost no time.

Just get one ounce of Parmint (double strength) add to it a little sugar and enough hot water to make a big pint and you've got a pleasant cough remedy better than you can buy read to use.

Its soothing, healing action on the membrane is the reason so many people use it for Catarrh and Croup as well as colds.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS BUDGET

(From our Own Correspondent)

STRUCK GAS AT STIRLING.

While waiting for well near Stirling just east of Campbellford, on Wednesday afternoon, workmen struck a flow of gas which becoming ignited caused great excitement in the village—the fire department was quickly on the scene but their attempts were of no avail those gas wells have been known to burn for days. The entire section is cloudy, resembling a London fog.

PROPERTY TRANSFER.

Mr. Gowan Potts, of Campbellford has purchased the fine farm comprising 157 acres near Havelock from Jos Rykert.

CO-OPERATIVE DAIRY PRODUCTS

The Ontario Co-operative Dairy Products Ltd held a public meeting in the Music Hall at Campbellford on Wednesday afternoon which was well attended. The principal speakers were the Hon. Manning Doherty and Mr. Aaron Sapiro, the great California authority on Co-operation marketing Mr. Sapiro fully explained the advantages of getting together and outlined the wonderful strides the California farmers had made since adopting this system, they had representatives who studied the worlds markets, created demand by intensive advertising, and instead of allowing buyers to name the price they sought the most favorable markets and never allowed them to become glutted this applied not only to cheese, but also to strawberries, oranges, lemons, apples pears, dried fruits of all kinds, almonds and walnuts, and in fact any commodity which the grower produced was merchandised, and through this system of advertising certain lines such as raisins and oranges had become daily necessities instead of lunxe and holiday treats Speaking on the subject of eggs Mr. Sapiro stated that if the speculators could be done away with and the profits by the cold storage system, why should the farmers not benefit in the same way. It could be done by co-operation, the great thing was to grade the merchandise and keep up the standard of quality. Ontario Cheese should be branded as people in foreign lands like to know where such good quality comes from and you can make people eat cheese every day by a dvertising. Just the same as the demand was made for Ban Maid raisins, $200,000 was spent advertising this particular brand with the result that there were 60 million pounds sold in the United States last year. Mr. Sapiro stated that success would follow co-operation and strongly advised the farmers to organize. Mr. Sapiro is a splendid speaker and held the attention of an interested audience for nearly 3 hoins.

Hon. Manning Doherty was the next speaker and in a brief address said: "I heartily agree with everything Mr. Sapiro has stated." A system which have heard of from a man has brought the prosperity you who has been actively engaged in your position. The people of Ontario should adopt the plan of co-operation. I am here to try and make the province of Ontario prosperous and I believe we have reached the point where we must bring it to our country. Years ago in Guelph we met men here and there to instruct farmers and give lectures on scientific farming and production. I appreciate the power of scientific production, but don't you think that we paid too much attention to the province, and not enough to the markets, could we not envolve some schgme to show farmers a better system of profits? The farmers of California have been made prosperous through the co-operative plan, but have we not products in Ontario which should compete with any market in the world?

CHEESE BOARD MEETING

There were 584 boxes offered and all sold at the Campbellford meeting held in Ferrie Block on Thursday morning. The price paid was 21½. Mr. Morton, 307, J.C. Cook 153, Jary 245, Thompson 219.

BOWLING

CURLERS DEFEAT G.T.R. TEAM

At the Y.M.C.A. alleys at 2.15 last night the curlers met the G.T.R. team and a close contest resulted. The Curlers took the first game by 25 points only to have the Railroaders come right back at them and take the second by 26 points. The third and last the Curlers annexed by a safe margin, finishing up almost a hundred points to the good. Hurley rolled the steadiest game for the Curlers and Meagher of the Grand Trunkers was not very far in the rear.

THE REX STOCK COMPANY

The attendance at Griffin's Theatre the first three nights this week, was not quite up to expectations. The presentation this week, "The Man on the Box" was a first class play, the price of admissions was reasonable. There have been come rumors of late that some towns larger than Belleville have made advances to the Rex Stock Company with the idea of having them abandon the Kingston-Belleville circuit they are now playing. If Belleville appreciates the form of entertainment given by this company and its general policy, the city will have to offer them sufficient patronage to make it worth their while to remain here. There are many people in Belleville that prefer the spoken drama to the movies, and it is this class that should see that dramatic entertainment is encouraged. The Rex Company have been presenting clean plays at popular prices and if we are to keep them here, it is up to Belleville and Kingston to support them.

PROSPERITY RUINED HIM

London, Nov. 1.—First a private in the army; then winner of £10,000 in a Calcutta Sweepstake; cashier, gentleman in Surrey; in the Army again and promoted to a captaincy; sleeping, penniless, on the Thames Embankment—such, in brief, is the surprising history of Captain D. H. Penn, D.C.M. Captain Penn's fortune was ruined by good luck. The anticlimax to his years of luxury as a Calcutta Sweepstake winner is his unsuccessful search for unemployment in London.

If Penn had not drawn a lucky number in the Calcutta Sweepstakes of 1909 he would probably have had a successful and honorable career in the Army. His good luck brought him a few years of luxury and then left them penniless and workless. In 1888 he was a trooper in the 21st Lancers. at the battle of Omdurman in the north in the famous charge and was awarded the D.C.M. for distinguished conduct in the field. Later he went to India, where he was transferred to the 12th Lancers, and promoted sergeant.

In 1909 Penn and his comrades bought a Calcutta Sweepstake ticket between them. They drew King Edward's number, 8. Sergeant Penn's share of the prize was about £30,000. He bought his discharge and came home to England, where he purchased an attractive house and grounds, at Westcott, near Dorking. There he lived the life of a country gentleman, with ample money for his needs.

Penn bought a tobacconist's business in the West End of London, and for a time everything went well. He transferred a large amount of money in trust for his wife.

By 1914, following domestic and other troubles, Penn found himself a poor man again. He joined up immediately after the outbreak of war and was soon promoted Captain. Glad to be back at his old trade, he served throughout the war.

Now, as Captain Penn, D.C.M., the winner of £30,000, he tramps the streets looking for work, and finds his night's "lodging" on the Embankment.

though he said the wigwags were in use at some crossings to an advantage and at others to a disadvantage, for example the Bridge crossing. The wig wag might be obscured from sight by heavy traffic and the bell not audible now, in the season of closed cars.

City Engineer C. Campbell pointed out the heavy grade from the Bridge crossing as another hindrance to proper view of the crossing, until quite close The commissioners visited the crossing after the hearing of evidence.

GOOD YEAR IN BUILDING

Oshawa, Ont., Nov. 2.—This town is enjoying the greatest year in its history from a building standpoint. And the month of October when building returns generally taper off, has been a record breaking month this year. Twenty-five permits for the erection of buildings the total value of which is $368,450, were issued during the month. The value of permits issued last year was $316,355. The value of the permits issued during last month falls short by $60,000 equalling the total valuation of permits issued during 1921. To date the value of permits issued since January 1, 1922, amounts to $437,080.

GOVERNOR MILLER POSSIBLE NOMINEE

(Canadian Press)

Washington, Nov. 1.—Governor Miller of New York is suddenly beginning to command national notice as the possible nominee of the Republican party for President in 1924. If Governor Miller is re-elected and is able to conduct his administration of state affairs for the next year and a half successfully, there is every indication that a most formidable movement for his nomination, for president will be organized. This will be the case especially if President Harding says he will not accept another term in the White House. It may be the case regardless of President Harding.

There is said to be some little opposition to President Harding in his own party and it is quite conceivable that if he seeks another nomination there will be a fight over it. Should he drops out, and leaves the field wide open, there will be the hottest kind of a struggle. Many are not wanting that the movement for Governor Miller, provided he is re-elected, will be greatly quickened regardless of the plans of Mr. Harding.

Up to date, the Miller boom and the Beveridge boom for 1924 are the most conspicuous of the presidential movements, so far as the Republican camp is concerned. Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania may develop a strong following and there will be support for Johnson of California, Borah of Idaho, and former Senator Kenyon of Iowa.

NEW MOWING MACHINE.

revolving cutter operating on a star.

The standard type of mowing machine for mowing grass consists of a rotary horizontal blade. This type of machine is by no means perfect, as it does not cut very close to the ground and is also ineffective on very long grass. A British firm has introduced a new type which appears to be a great advance on any earlier form. The cutter of the machine consists essentially of two sickle blades, the sharp edges of which are brought together. The movement is such that the knives are practically self-sharpening, and the machine removes any kind of grass extremely close to the ground. Blades of this type can rapidly be attached to any mower, binder or reaper.

London, Nov. 3.—M. Venizelos, former Greek premier, who is just now very much in the public eye and is something of a mystery to the British public, has a pretty companion, young secretary, a tall dark youth, named Andrea Constantino Michelopoulos.

He was an undergraduate at Oriel College Oxford until a few months ago (always immaculately dressed and a brilliant scholar. His studies, however, did not prevent his participation in politics and he frequently obtained permission to spend a night away from college ostensibly on domestic affairs. It was discovered, however, that such trips included flying to Paris by aeroplane and returning the following day.

Michelopoulos left Oxford a few weeks before the Thso coup, but arrived in Greece only in time to escape on board Venizelos private yacht. Before coming to Oxford he had been Civil Governor of Lasonia, Prefect of Eastern Macedonia, and had served in the Greek Army.

BATTLESHIPS' KEELS

MUST BE LAID IN 1923

London, Nov. 2.—Great Britain must decide definitely before the end of the year whether or not she intends to build two battleships which were sanctioned by the Washington Naval Agreement. In the agreement it was stipulated that their keels must be laid in 1922. Reports that the new government might abandon plans for building the new ships could not be verified today. Orders for their construction have not been given, but Lord Beatty in a speech last week declared his country would not decrease her naval strength below the number of ships stipulated in the Washington agreement.

Three quarter-cup of sugar, 1-3 cup of water, 1 teaspoon of gelatin soften in two tablespoons of cold water, 1 egg white, 1 cup of cream, 1 cup of canned raspberries. Cook the sugar and water together until it forms a thread. Pour this syrup over the beaten white of the egg and stir until cold. Whip the cream until it is stiff and fold into the mixture, then fold in the berries and turn the mixture into a chilled, tightly closed mould. Pack the mould in equal parts of ice and salt and let stand for three hours. Turn out and serve with whipped cream.

SCHOOL and CAMPUS

NEWBY NOTES FROM HIGH SCHOOL

Tomorrow night the Literary Society will hold their second public meeting in the City Hall at 8 o'clock. The citizens of Belleville will be able to hear four of the best debaters in High School, debate on the subject that is very important to them at the present time: "That Capital Punishment be Abolished," form IV has the negative and Form 3 B has the affirmative.

A short one-act play, with a violin solo and recitation will complete this splendid programme. There will be a silver collection, proceeds to go for the Navy League.

This afternoon the boys from Forms IV and III B will canvass the city on behalf of the Navy League.

SOME RULES FOR HANGING PICTURES

Have the subjects of your pictures appropriate to the room and its furnishings.

In selecting pictures think first of their decorative value.

Never have white margins on any picture unless your walls are white.

When pictures vary but slightly in size make a point of having either the tops or the bottoms of the frames on the same line.

If one picture is to be hung over another be sure that uniformity and balance are preserved.

One large picture may always be balanced by two smaller ones.

The natural height for a picture is usually that of the eye.

Rows of pictures should not hang out from the wall, for this tilts them to an unpleasant angle.

Never have a triangle of wire above a square picture.

Hanging square or oblong pictures with one or two perpendicular wires or cords is the simplest method.

Screw eyes should be placed near the top of the frame, so that it will hang flat against the wall.

Never try to make a home into an art gallery.

Do not let your subjects glare at one another. A sporting print does not look well hanging by a Madonna.

Good photographs of old masters are better than crudities in oil.

The old idea was a picture rail near the ceiling. Nowadays we find it a foot or two lower, to save ugly lengths of wire.

All furniture and decorative objects below pictures must "tie together" the pictures and the room.—Woman's Home Companion.

MILD AUTUMN FOOLS NATURE

Winnipeg, Nov. 1.—The autumn season is unusually mild in Western Canada. In Manitoba there has not yet been severe frost, and several odd phenomena are reported. On Monday of this week, S. H. Summerscale of Selkirk, picked ripe strawberries in his garden. They were from the ever-bearing variety. Wild strawberry plants are in bloom in the country, and pussy willows have sprouted new shoots and buds. Today it is reported that cherry trees are in bloom at Fort William, several branches in bloom having been brought to a newspaper office there by Col. S. C. Young.

LINKED LIVES

By

D. Kinmount Roy

In this they were happily disappointed as the house was empty of life or death of any sort. The dog, a fox hound, greeted them with signs of pleasure, but continued to whine piteously and run around the building. Aylesworth followed the animal to the other side of the homestead, where he came upon a gruesome sight. A young, French officer was nailed by his hands and feet to a tree, a fire had been lighted under him which was still smouldering, but fortunately his sufferings were over. He had evidently died of his wounds. The dog evinced every sign of delight when the body was released from its frightful position, and laid upon the ground, but when it was placed in the grave the guides prepared for it, together with the bodies of the two men of his troop, the faithful creature became frantic once more and borrowed furiously in the soft earth, until, exhausted, it fell asleep, upon the mound which touched its dead master.

Aylesworth was much touched by the fidelity of the dead officer's dumb friend and curiously shy of showing how deeply he was moved he strolled into the forest a little way, to be, for a time, by himself with his own thoughts, unobserved. When he returned he was met by Denis Arsenault, the farmer himself. The family, it seemed, had time to withdraw into a safe shelter, known only to themselves, at the first sign of danger. but were unable to persuade the little party of French soldiers to accompany them. The farmer had even sent out Scouts at their hideous work, although unsuccessful to prevent it. The old man turned to discuss the direction the corpse and his family had taken, and the refusal coupled with their disappointment in not obtaining more valuable loot, drove the ruffians into a frenzy of cruelty, which they wreaked so terribly upon the unfortunate Frenchman. Notwithstanding his distress for his distinguished guest, Aylesworth could see that, of course, Aylesworth was quite sympathetic, and thereby won Madam's good will. Madam declared the ruffians would all come to a bad end, the vengeance of heaven would overtake them. The miserable wretches and also crossed herself devoutly in the sincerity of her faith and certainty of their swift destruction.—To be continued, however, necessary to eat, whatever might be the future fate of Mademoiselle marmalade and the preparation of the meal called the good woman back to the things of ordinary life, if only for a time the action of her painful recollections.

They had all had an unusually long fast since early morning, and were now through they ate with relish and appetite, and began to take a more hopeful view of the situation.

Evening was closing in, and it was necessary to make such a disposition of their little forces, as might be best obtained without too much anxiety. The farmer, La Fore, collected what he could, and with assistance of Denis Arsenault, they concluded, it would be possible to make a stout resistance in case of attack by any more wandering bands. Having put themselves in a position of defence as far as their limited means permitted, silence settled over the little garrison, and they were soon fast asleep.

A short time before day-break, they were roused by the dog whining miserably and then barking furiously. Everyone was soon awake and on the alert, and as soon as it was light the guides and the farmer went out to investigate. Aylesworth and Denis, the farmer's son, remained with Madam, giving her all the encouragement in their power. It was not long before the guides and farmer returned, bringing with them a limp and helpless-looking fellow, who had been labouring to explain to his captors how he came there. The fog continued so full of distress and fierceness that it was all they could do to save their prisoner from being taken by the infuriated simian.

His story was plausible enough. He had been the servant of a British officer, when he fell sick and had to be left behind.

He had his hospital discharge to show, in which he was described as James Lawson of His Majesty's Caribineers.

He told of the many hardships he had undergone in making his way through a strange country. Only the day before he had fallen in with a wild party of semi-savages, who robbed him of the little he had and took him as unceremoniously that they left him for dead.

When he came to himself, he made haste to travel in the opposite direction to which the robber band were going, until just before morning he came to the edge of the forest, when the dog set upon him. Fortunately, help came when he had given up all hope. It was a great mercy, he remarked piously, to which 'La Fore responded cordially enough. The dog, however, was quite implacable in spite of much coaxing. Lawson suggested that he should be shot, as he was hopelessly dangerous, but no one would hear of it. Madam said it would be nothing less than murder, and there had been murder enough already. She shared the dog's dislike of the newcomer, and Lawson soon became aware of it and prudently kept out of the way as much as possible. During the suspicion Madam entertained of the man, his coming was remarkably fortunate; with La Fore's help, it solved the difficulty of guides, and the men who had brought Aysworth so far could never return to their homes with a clear conscience. And this they were very anxious to do.

Are Your Corsets Comfortable?

They should be, for that is really why you wear them. True corset comfort comes only from accurate designing.

Fullness should be given where fullness is essential. Strong, but flexible, boning must come where it is needed to give easy comfortable support. Hose supporters must have the strength and elasticity to keep the corset always in its proper place.

Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets

are designed by Specialists who know the needs of the figure. Each pattern is fitted, revised, graded, and refitted on living models over and over before it is finally approved. And then, in order that the finished corset will keep its shape and give the service that it should, we hold to long-established standards of material and construction.

Consequently Warner's are not the cheapest corsets, but we believe them to be the most economical corsets you can buy.

There are models as low as $1.50, but it pays to buy better corsets, and we recommend $2.00 as a minimum price to pay on the market costs of to-day. At $3.00, $4.00, $5.00 and up, there are other Warner Styles, and at each successive price you will find value for the money paid—in Style, Comfort, Wear, and general satisfaction.

MAKE YOUR NITROGEN

Growing Legume Crops Will Help You Do It.

By E. J. Kraus

Clovers, Peas and Vetches Store Up Nitrogen From the Air—Good Methods Will Work for You—Determining the Need of Lime and Fertilizers.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Nitrogen costs money when purchased through the medium of the chemical fertilizer dealer, being about three cents a pound. Some of our farmers are spending front ten to forty dollars per acre a year for nitrogen to increase crop production. With five million pounds of nitrogen floating as a gas over every acre of land such expenditure may not seem to be justified. But nitrogen is highly valuable as a plant food—is appreciated by comparatively few of our farmers. If those who do appreciate its value are willing to pay twenty cents a pound for it, and these are the ones working on small areas with intensively cultivated crops, why don't they grow clover, of which we have a few million pounds of nitrogen floating about their farms every acre, and get at least a small quantity into the soil of their fields?

The Fertilizing Value of Clover.

Legume crops such as the clovers, peas and vetches, together with the bacteria that live parasitic on the roots of the crops or plants, form a link between the nitrogen of the air and the plant food nitrogen of the soil. This link is an important and very welcome to the farmer. A ton of alfalfa or clover hay or seed usually contains as much as fifty pounds of nitrogen. The seed that is sold with the alfalfa plants covering an acre may contain as much as three pounds of nitrogen. The roots of the red clover or vetch plant in the soil on an acre may contain as much as one hundred and fifty pounds of nitrogen from which we can get a large percentage an acre may contain twenty-five pounds of nitrogen.

The Bacteria Work for Nothing.

The plant is a great quantity of nitrogen is collected by the bacteria which alone work on the clover, peas, vetches and other legume plants. With one million dollars' worth of nitrogen over every acre of land would it not be good policy to make sufficient of the legume crops and their parasitic soil bacteria to at least supply the needs of the farm in crop production. The nitrogen accumulated by growing legume crops is taken largely from the air, while the small quantity accumulated by corn, oats or wheat roots is gathered from the soil.

All Yields Not So Load.

There is no loss of nitrogen in growing legumes but considerable gain. There is a distinct loss with all other classes of crops. Where we to use clovers, peas and vetches and thereby tap the fertility supply now waiting above the land for future use in the soil of your fields. If you an figure out a rotation to suit your own special needs and have legume crops growing two years out of four there will be little need to worry about the nitrogen supply.—E. Sterenson, Secretary Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

ABOUT SOIL FOODS.

Determining the Need of Chemical Fertilizers.

The appearance of the growing leaves and tissues are frequently be taken as an indicator for the presence or absence of nitrogen in sufficient quantity to satisfy the maximum demands of plants. A yellowish green or a dull green is an indication of abundant nitrogen. Drouth and excessive moisture may also cause the yellowing or weakening in the coloration of foliage. Failure of clover on lands that at one time produced good yields may be taken as an indication of a shortage of lime and phosphorous. A decline in the wheat grade after years of wheat production can generally be attributed to a shortage or failure in the phosphorous supply.

How to Make Experimental Plots.

However, these generally observed conditions are not sufficiently accurate to be a definite guide, and should be supplemented by a minimum soil test, using square rod areas with various chemical mixture applications. This is accomplished by applying each of a representative area one rod wide and six rods long, and dividing it into six plots. This done apply, before seeding on plot one, nitrogen; on plot two, phosphorous; on plot three, potash; on plot four, nitrogen and potash; on plot five, nitrogen, potash and phosphorous; on plot six, potash and phosphorous. The adjoining soil will serve as a check plot for all areas. By watching the plots during the crop season for the following two years, a fairly definite conclusion relative to the needs of the land can be secured.

Every soil area should be studied by itself, since the requirements of one field may differ from the requirements of the field adjoining.—H. L. Stevenson, Secretary Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

Gestation Period of the Cow.

The gestation period of the cow is two hundred and seventy-five to two hundred and eighty days. Sometimes a breeder figures it as nine months to the day, and then worries because it seems to run over a couple of weeks and does not let him know supposedly due. For example, a cow bred on January 1 would be due about October 7 and not October 1 as now set on February 1 would be due about November 8, not on November 1. The date of calving is found by counting forward the two hundred and eighty days from the date of service.

FORCAST OF N. S. ELECTIONS

FIRST GENERAL ELECTION IN HARDING ADMINISTRATION TAKES PLACE TUESDAY

Washington, Nov. 1.—America's barometer of political and public opinion will be read at the polls Tuesday, November 7, when another national House of Representatives, more than a third of the Senate membership, and 32 governors of states, together with state legislatures and local officials, will be chosen.

Nationally, the general election Tuesday is the first of the Harding administration, thus it is regarded by many as a test, bearing upon the next Presidential campaign. The republican "war" pp letters the country largely on the record of President Harding and the present congress, an issue accepted by their democratic and other opponents.

Emerging in Maine, where the elections were held last September, the next sixty-eighth congress of 435 members will be chosen Tuesday from all states. Thirty-seven Senators in 34 states also will be elected. The states electing governors are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Georgia, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

The battle of ballots throughout the country largely is between the two dominant parties, Republican and Democratic. The election is marked by virtual passing of the Progressive, or Bull Moose, party. Socialist, Prohibitionist, Farmer-Labor, Single Tax and other organizations, however, continue on the ballots here and there, with some independent and miscellaneous candidates designations. Also marking the local campaigns, and often affecting the congressional contests, are the liquor, Ku Klux Klan and other questions.

Congressional candidates mostly are for the Sixty-eighth Congress which will not assemble until December, unless a special session next summer should be called. Of the 31 Senatorial seats at issue, 32 are for the regular terms of six years beginning in the next Congress and five to fill vacancies in the coming winter session, two from Nebraska and one from Illinois.

Capture of control of the next House is the avowed objective of the democratic organizations or, failing this, material reduction of the present republican majority of 165. The House now has 296 republicans, 130 democrats and one socialist, with eight seats vacant. A turnover of more than 80 seats is required for loss of the next House by the republicans.

The Senate now has 59 republican-progressive and 36 democrats, with 17 republicans and 15 democratic seats to the next Congress at issue Tuesday. Democratic leaders have said they only a majority would change the political complexion of the next Senate at the election.

Republican leaders expect to increase the Senate majority by a few seats, and they also say they do

"THE KHAN"

By THE TORONTO TELEGRAM

CONCERNING FUSSES.

Wherein the Khan laments the Ancient Order of Fuss Makers, in which you must have a hereditary membership or you can't make fusses at all!

A correspondent writes me saying that there are no folks like the Sexagipara and the Dundern. He doesn't know what he is talking about. He lives in a great city and is seldom out of it. People living in the midst of dense population come to be like their neighbors. The individual in a crowd gets the rough edges and the sharp corners knocked off him. That's the way they polish glass. They put millions of them in a great cylinder, and it keeps revolving and revolving, with the result that each plate rubs and scours his brother smooth, and when they are dumped out they all look alike as two pins, two peas, two flappers or two clerks.

But this process of evasion does not take place in an entail in the remote places, and not at all on the Seventh Concession of Gumbo. The one type is never evolved. We are living in 1922 but the Sockdolagers are distinctly seventeenth century relics. The Spaldins on the next farm are 700 B.C., and the Duckundercuts who live further up the road are 1200 A.D. either. So Mist Bricken across the road from them goes further back. She is an embellishan. She says they are "old stock" to the good. Mister Noah, the good ole man, we will never see his like again, knows her tremendously. Bolsh! a drip in the middle of a meeting where they ain't no use, she considers plumb foolishness. She's the one to know why. Nose don't put wheels into it or under; it rather. When Shem came around and said that Violet she told Vi to have nothin' to do with him and Shem got his walking ticket. So Shem went out and married one of Sam Duckunder girls. Marriage is a lottery. Poor Violet will get crowded and the Duckunder will have the ball as goodlooking as she is won't even get her feet wet. That's the way it goes. We never can tell. The only satisfaction I can see in this is that Vi will cast it up to her Mrs Hill her drowning day.

I am convinced that in the early ages individuals were set aside for a purpose. It was their prerogative, their privilege, their duty to perform certain offices for the rest of the tribe. I am satisfied that there was a person in every community whose job was to make a fuss about it. If anything happened, great or small, he or she, as the case may be, was supposed and expected to make a fuss about it. If the conference decided that the proper caper was to stand up to pray the professional fusser had to make a fuss about it. If it was decided to have a surpliced choir he, or she, or it, made a fuss about it, of course. If Amelia was going to marry a Seventh Day Adventist or a Catholic Eer duty was to make a fuss about it and when Dorothy bobbed her hair there was a fuss made about that. When it was enjoined that women should wear their skirts trailing on the ground there was a fuss made about it; and when it became the vogue to wear them up to the knee there was a fuss made about that, too.

You may think that everybody makes a fuss. Everybody doesn't. Almost everybody goes about minding his or her own business, the fussing is done by folks who make a fuss because that's their business. When anything happens in a family or a community there is someone who feels the primal urge. She has just got to make a fuss about it. I took a girl to the show the other night and can laid to make a fuss. I use the word "laid" advisedly, because she just had to make a fuss. It had been in her for a hundred thousand years and she had carefully READ to make a fuss. She couldn't help herself.

You often hear the question asked, "What is he making a fuss about now?" Does it matter? He can make a fuss about anything, in fact. He can make a fuss about nothing. This here girl I took to the show made a fuss about nothing at all. I didn't do a thing. Young Pete Loser batted a ball through the school room window and as he explained to me the school-can made a fuss about nothin' at all. Our estimates of values are divergent.

On the Last Great Day many of us will complain that the Accounting of us is making a whole lot of fuss about nothing at all.

Today as I look about me I see people holding office and living on the fat of the land, in the pay and at the expense of the public, and I can't understand what they are there for unless it is to make a fuss. Each of them has to make a fuss in order to justify his salary. If he can't do something useful he can always make a fuss and when a public official is making a fuss we conclude he is doing useful.

That the fuss makers are hereditary is proved by the fact that some folks never make a fuss. Unless you belong to the Ancient Order of Fuss-makers you can't make a fuss. Try it and see.

MOULDY SWEET CLOVER

Is a Dangerous Feed, Especially to Young Cattle.

Investigational Work by Provincial Veterinarians — It Makes Cattle Bleed and Poisoning Risks Also Serious Where Sweet Clover Is Cultivated Extensively.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Recently considerable sickness and losses have been reported among cattle being fed on ensilage. In some instances only a few animals have been affected on a particular farm, but in a few cases the losses have been serious, as one farmer is known to have lost 17 animals out of a herd of 40 cattle. The symptoms and peculiarity of these losses has led the Department to have investigational and experimental work to determine the cause.

Investigational Work by Ontario Veterinarians.

The staff of the Ontario Veterinary College have been in close touch with the veterinary surgeons throughout the province, and reliable information obtained as to the prevailing circumstances where cattle have died. In all cases investigation has proved the fact that the losses have occurred among cattle fed ensilage made on sweet clover ensilage which had become mouldy. Samples of the ensilage were shipped to the Veterinary College, and experiments conducted clearly indicate that sweet clover ensilage was harmful to cattle. Previous observations and information available at the present time, it would appear that the harm is done when sweet clover ensilage which has become mouldy, and that the continued feeding of it is liable to cause death.

Young Cattle the First to Succumb.

It is an interesting fact that young cattle under three years of age are the ones whose heifer calves succumb and succumb the quickest. In illustration of this the case mentioned where in a herd of 39 cattle the 17 which died were all yearlings or under two years of age and in good condition. No sickness had been present in the herd until after the feeding of the ensilage commenced, and the losses occurred within a few weeks. Apparently mature cattle are not free from the effects but withstand the ill effects better than young cattle. However, continued feeding of damaged sweet clover ensilage may be harmful to cattle of all ages.

It Makes Castration and Dehorning Dangerous.

It is also interesting to note that operations such as dehorning and castration performed on cattle that have been kept largely on mouldy sweet clover ensilage caused sudden death in many cases, while the same operations similarly performed on cattle fed differently have not been followed by ill effects. The nature of the poisonous factor associated with the ensilage and the manner in which it produces harmful effects in cattle and to cause death has not yet been definitely determined, and any opinions expressed at the present time are based on practical observations.

More Research and Experimenting Required.

In fact a large amount of intense study, investigation and research will be necessary to obtain satisfactory explanations regarding the possible dangers incidental to the feeding of mouldy sweet clover ensilage, or as to whether sweet clover can be cut in certain stages and under certain conditions developes harmful properties as silage. In the meantime all the evidence is at hand to justify warning farmers against the feeding of mouldy ensilage to live stock in order to avoid losses, and under no circumstances should operations including dehorning and castration be performed on cattle which are being fed on sweet clover ensilage if it appears mouldy. Such animals seem to develop marked vascular changes which produces a tendency to internal hemorrhage resulting in death.—Dr. G. H. McGilvray, President, Ontario Veterinary College, Toronto.

Science Still Trying to Follow Lead of Alchemists.

A considerable sensation was recently caused by a rumor that a German chemist has discovered a method of producing gold from another metal or possibly copper. Later reports proved that it was only a rumor; the great secret of making gold is still undiscovered.

As most of us are aware, the chemists — alchemists as they were called — of the Middle Ages spent their lives in searching for methods of manufacturing gold from cheaper or basic minerals. Fifty years ago their efforts were regarded as merely ludicrous by the scientists of the day; but our views have widened, and today it is realized that it is only a matter of time and research before the transmutation of metals is accomplished fact.

So long ago as 1907 that great chemist, Sir William Ramsay, did actually effect a transmutation by means of a gas evolved from radium. Only in this case, what he did was to "degrade" copper down to the next member of its group of metals, namely "lithium."

About the same date three members of the Prussa Society of Modern Alchemy were announced to have succeeded in making a synthesis of gold. In other words, they had built up gold out of its constituents.

PRINCE OF WALES AT HOME IN ENGLAND

Turns His Attention to Social Problems of Lower Classes.

London, Oct. 31.—(By Canadian Press)—Now that the Prince of Wales has brought his series of visits to the Overseas Dominions to an end, except the prospective visit to South Africa, which is not likely to occur in 1923, he is anxious to turn his attention seriously to various social matters of outstanding importance in this country. He has been considering social problems rather deeply, according to a statement by the London Daily News, and is anxious to investigate them at first hand. He will probably spend a good deal of time there at next year.

The great amount of good that King Edward VII. was able to do as Prince of Wales is recalled by the present Prince of Wales, in the way of finding out things and then making plans for their purpose the splitting of the masses of the country as a whole, and he feels that in the career of his grandfather he has a worthy example to follow. He will certainly do, all that in his power to work along the same lines.

The Prince always has had the cause of the unemployed at heart, and as he has shown on many occasions. He has already discussed this problem with several members of the Government, as he realizes that this is at once a vital and pressing matter.

As he has so often declared in his public utterances the cause of the unemployed must be one that lies very close to his heart, and he would like to see these men more generally employed than is at present the case. He knows, however, that this question is surrounded by many difficulties, and this in particular would be a manifest injustice to dismiss workmen wholesale from the industrial life of the nation to be replaced by former sailors and soldiers.

Other things being equal, however, the Royal Highness is most desirous that no one who fought for his country should be left without employment. He has set a good example in this direction as an employer of labor himself, and at his farms on Dartmoor and elsewhere a large proportion of his workers are ex-service men.

The Prince has taken a leading part in promoting the British Empire Exhibition, which is to be held at Wembley Park, near London, in 1924 or 1925. Although the exact date has not been decided upon, it is certain to be one of the most important events in the history of the Empire, and the Prince is anxious to see that the Dominions are represented as completely as the number of men who were now engaged on the work, and how many would be engaged before it was completed. He expressed satisfaction on being informed that a large number of men previously out of work were then employed in preparing the Wembley Park for the great exhibition.

Water Supply Under a Metal Tank
Against Compressed Air—Various Methods of Working the Pump—Air Valves a Necessity — Seven Steps to Success In Poultry Keeping.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

In my last article I described how the mind could get a supply of water for the rural home. This system has given very good satisfaction where in use, but I doubt if it will be installed in many homes in the future, as there is now on the market something very much superior in many respects. I refer to the pneumatic water system, which I will describe in a few words.

The chief feature of this system is that instead of pumping into a storage tank, cylindrical metal tank against the entrapped air which is compressed in the upper portion of the tank, and the compressed air furnishes the power to drive the water out of the tank when a faucet is opened on the discharge line. This is the whole principle. The metal tank will be supplied by the pump in the manner described, but a common size is 6 feet by 2 1/4 or 3 feet. It should be about full of water and under air pressure varying from 40 to 44 lbs. when first installed.

As water is supplied to the tank by pumping the water in the tank is compressed, and when by pumping some air into the tank, it forces any water to pump.

A water gauge is attached to one side of the tank to indicate the height of the water in the tank, and on the discharge line close to the tank is a pressure gauge. The tank must be kept in a frost-proof place—in the cellar, or in an underground pit. The water keeps cool, clean and fresh and has a good taste.

Methods of Working the Pump.

There are many different ways of operating the pump in order to fill the tank. By hand, by windmill, by gasoline engine, or electric motor. A few minutes of pumping each day by hand will keep the ordinary home supplied with plenty of water. While the pump can be operated by windmill or electric motor, there is the need of some hindrance of automatic starting and stopping of the pump. The automatic electric water systems at the present day are very convenient and also very efficient, in case the wind ceases and electricity is off, the pump and motor can be located in the house, garage or barn. As farmers get electric current these automatic systems will become very common both for shallow and deep wells. The electrical systems require very little attention and are very noiseless. There are several styles or designs, but any of them of reputable firms will give good satisfaction if the installation has been done properly and if the outfit be given good care.

If soft water as well as hard water is required under pressure, two tanks are necessary, one for soft and one for hard. Only one pump is required for the double tank outfit.

Air Valves a Necessity.

Pumps used in connection with compression systems must be provided with an air valve for renewing the air in the tank because the air dissolves in the water and escapes with it. If means for pumping in air were not provided for, the tank would gradually become water logged and the system would be rendered absolutely useless.

The compression water system is described and illustrated in Bulletin 247, entitled "Farm Water Supply and Sewage Disposal." A copy may be secured without cost by dropping a line to the Department of Physics, O.A.C., Guelph, Ont. Give us a chance to help you to solve your water supply problem.—R. E. Graham, O. A. College, Guelph.

Seven Steps to Success In Poultry Culture.

1. Keep accurate records. Little progress can be made without this first step.

2. Feed a properly balanced ration. Such a ration furnishes nutrients for growth, maintenance, fattening and egg-production. The production of eggs must be a constant aim.

3. Give proper care and comfort by good housing and management. Discomforts are: Extremes of heat and cold, hunger and thirst, four air and dampness, and diseases and parasites.

4. Keep standard-bred, utility stock. There are five good breeds for the farm: Plymouth Rock, Rhode Island Red, Wyandotte, Orpington. Varieties of these have been bred for heavy egg-production.

5. Breed from the best, both male and female.

6. Sell unprofitable stock.

7. Market graded products. Maximum returns are secured from grade products. Markets demand a constant supply, and this calls for community co-operation.

Age of Cows.

It is more difficult to determine the age of a cow than of a horse, say the five stock men at the State College at Ithaca, New York. They agree that some estimate of a cow's age may be made from her teeth and horns. The number of "annual rings" on the horns, plus two, for example, usually gives the animal's age, but remember that the pairs of permanent teeth come also months of age, will help to verify it.

CITY COUNCIL GRANTS APPROVAL

TAKE FIRST STEP IN AGREEMENT WITH PROPERTY OWNERS ON STATION STREET

City Council on Friday night at a special session to take up the matter of the Station street paving proposition which has been held up pending final action by the Ontario Municipal and Railway Board on the petition of the property owners against the basis of assessment, approved of the basis of negotiations as suggested by that body. That is that the Council should assess the property owners on the basis of a residential street pavement of ordinary character, the latter to bear in addition a proportion of the added cost of a permanent pavement that might be satisfactory, considering the benefit to be derived from the improvement in the enhancement of property values.

Mayor Campbell outlined in the absence of Mayor Hanna the attitude of the board and after a little discussion the following resolution was sent up from the committee to the council, which later met and carried its proposals:

"That the basis of negotiations as suggested by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board to arrive at a method of assessment for the asphaltic concrete pavement on Station street be accepted and that a meeting with the property owners be arranged for Friday, November 10th, at the City Hall, the engineer to prepare the form of types of pavement and costs of same in accordance with the board's proposal and present same to this meeting.

Ald. Robinson hinted that Highland avenue people might start an agitation if the city were to bear a share of the cost of Station street+ pavement but he was told that it would be too late to take up the matter.

The members present were Aldermen Foster, Donohoe, Robinson, McCreary, Greenleaf, and French.

Ald. Robinson acted as mayor for the council session which was to prepare the official record, the time of the reading of the recommendation only elapsing before the adjournment took place after the vote had been recorded, perhaps one minute.

It now remains for the council and property owners to get together and find out if they can agree upon what should be done. The council has taken the initial step as it is felt the road should be paved.

POLICE COURT SESSION WAS UNUSUALLY STORMY

Counsel and Magistrate Masson Have Fiery Verbal Battle Over Assault Case—Man Charged with Assaulting Peace Officer Reverses Charge—Officer Reported to Police Commissioners

Quite the stormiest session witness ed in Police Court circles here in some time, terminated the two-hour session which occupied the attention of the court officials Friday afternoon during the trial of Philip Foster, on a charge of assaulting P. C. Wm. Evans on Sunday morning, while Evans was in the performance of his duties. The assault alleged, was committed on the stairway leading to the Hydro Electric offices on Bridge street East, where Foster, when arrested on Evans' allegation to have kicked the officer in the chest, and struck him on the face.

When C. A. Payne, counsel for accused attempted to place a witness on the stand to show alleged violence by Evans upon Foster when near the station house, Crown Attorney Carnew objected to that evidence as the assault alleged was under the information in the charge, occured on the stairway. Then the fireworks started between Mr. Payne, isolated upon swearing the witness, Mr. Carnew insisted that he could not, and Magistrate Masson upheld Mr. Carnew's contention. One word led to another until Magistrate Masson declared that if Mr. Payne persisted in the course he was not requested to appear in the case. Having been overruled, Mr. Payne consented to the withdrawal of the court, but requested an explanation in the evidence specifying the particular assault alleged to, and which the magistrate said the case was adjourned over until November 11th. Mr. Payne immediately filled out an information blank, charging P. C. Evans with assault, and now Crown Attorney Carnew of the opinion of the officer whom he defended Friday. The case presents a fine tangle now.

Police Court Report

The whole trouble started at 10:45 a.m., Sunday morning, October 29th, when Officer Evans arrested Foster for drunkenness, and through some reason or other, the latter did not like the idea at all, the pleasant. Foster had two black eyes, and pegled face plus, the next morning, but Evans claims he received the two, had been assaulted, although his facial appearance was much more natural and realistic than Foster's afterwards. Evans laid a charge against Foster of assaulting a police officer. Foster reported the matter to the Police Commissioners who will investigate the affair in the letter within the next few days, and now Foster has entered a charge of assault against Evans.

P. C. Wm. Evans ?

First witness sworn, testified that he had been a police constable for almost two years in Belleville, and had known accused for about one year. On the night in question he was told of having seen accused in company with another man at the corner of Bridge and Front streets, while he stood in Clarke's doorway at 12-16 a.m., on October 29, "I crossed Front street and witness ran, shouted, "stop I want to speak to you!" He turned and looked back, then went East on Bridge street. I followed them up. I do not know who the companion was, and I have not seen him since. The two men turned up a stairway. I followed them up the stairs, as I heard a racket on the stairs. I started up the stairs, and it was quite dark. I found a landing at the top and I found another stairway to the right. I took these steps, and they led me to another landing, I took my flash light out. I saw Foster standing there, and Foster swore at me, saying he was as good a man as I, and kicked at me the chest with his right foot. I told him he was under arrest before he kicked me. I then told him to follow him to the station and I said, "I'll show you", I continued up the stairs, with the flash light in my right hand. He struck with his right hand for my face. He did not hit me. I dodged, and kicked him on the face once and caught him by the collar, and said, "come on". He caught the door way and refused to come. I struggled much with him, and he swore at me and hung back. I finally got him down to the street, where he tried to get away. I took him down Market lane. He tried to trip me, and I struck him again with my fist. He then came along to the station door, but he swore at me again, and then opened the door and we scuffled in together. Finally I searched him alone, and I locked him up.

To Mr. Payne—"Foster was intoxicated and staggering. I was about 15 yards behind him on Bridge street. They kept looking around. The stairs are very light.

Mr. Payne—"Foster tells me he did not know you as he could not see you for the flash light in his eyes."

"He resisted me on Bridge street and in the alley and at the door of the station. I did not hit him once in the station, I handed him on to the coach and left. We put his face in the coachroom it is in order to get him into the station.

"You've been reported to the Police Commissioners, I am informed," said Mr. Payne, but Crown Attorney Carnew objected to any further reference to this matter.

Philip Foster,

Accused, told of having drunk some of the wine before supper and some after, and on returning home about 10:45 Sunday morning met a lad on the corner of Bridge and Front street. "I talked to him and then we went east on Bridge street, and I went with the man to the Hydro office where this man is employed. I was not trying to hide when Evans came up. I did not kick him in the chest and I did not make a pass at him either on the stairs. He said, "You are under arrest." I did not resist him. I said "I'll go with you, but you are not a good a man as you." He said, "Huh! you as good a man as me?" I walked right along but I called him a blankety bended Englishman" and he slammed me then in the eye, and knocked me down. I lost my hat as I fell and stopping outside the door Evans said, "Get my hat, and he said, "To—h— with the hat, and left it in the alley." We then went to the station and inside, where he proceeded to search me. I said, "Well you didn't get anything!" and he had searched me; and while I stood with both arms outstretched while he searched me, he struck me in the eye with his fist, knocking me down. I got up, and he knocked me down again. I got up again and he struck me in the jaw, knocking me down. I could not rise this time, so he grabbed me, pulled me up and gave it to me again. He threw me in the cell within the next few days, and now Foster has entered a charge of assault against me."

P. C. Wm. Evans ?

First witness sworn, testified that he had been a police constable for almost two years in Belleville, and had known accused for about one year. On the night in question he was told of having seen accused in company with another man at the corner of Bridge and Front streets, while he stood in Clarke's doorway at 12-16 a.m., on October 29, "I crossed Front street and witness ran, shouted, "stop I want to speak to you!" He turned and looked back, then went East on Bridge street. I followed them up. I do not know who the companion was, and I have not seen him since. The two men turned up a stairway. I followed them up the stairs, as I heard a racket on the stairs. I started up the stairs, and it was quite dark. I found a landing at the top and I found another stairway to the right. I took these steps, and they led me to another landing, I took my flash light out. I saw Foster standing there, and Foster swore at me, saying he was as good a man as I, and kicked at me the chest with his right foot. I told him he was under arrest before he kicked me. I then told him to follow him to the station and I said, "I'll show you", I continued up the stairs, with the flash light in my right hand. He struck with his right hand for my face. He did not hit me. I dodged, and kicked him on the face once and caught him by the collar, and said, "come on". He caught the door way and refused to come. I struggled much with him, and he swore at me and hung back. I finally got him down to the street, where he tried to get away. I took him down Market lane. He tried to trip me, and I struck him again with my fist. He then came along to the station door, but he swore at me again, and then opened the door and we scuffled in together. Finally I searched him alone, and I locked him up.

To Mr. Payne—"Foster was intoxicated and staggering. I was about 15 yards behind him on Bridge street. They kept looking around. The stairs are very light.

U. F. O. STORE CLOSES ITS DOORS

On Saturday the United Farmers' Co-operative Company closed its Toronto store at 130 King street east. This is the first store opened by farmers here gone out of the retail business. It is planned to carry on the jobbing trade at 89 George street, the new head office of the company.

WANTED FOR B.O.T.A.

Kingston, Nov. 3.—At the request of the Belleville police department Grand Trunk constables yesterday afternoon arrested from an eastbound train at Brockville and placed under arrest one Robert Birks, who is being held in the cells at the police station pending the arrival of a constable to accompany him back to Belleville. He is wanted on a B.O.T.A. charge.

WILHELM ACCUSED OF SMUGGLING

Berlin, Nov. 3.—The Ex-Kaiser is accused of smuggling a wedding gift of a diadem worth 800,000,000 paper marks, into Holland. The Socialist Wells and Braun have brought the matter before the Reichstag stating that a Berlin jeweller was the vendor and that no export permission was given.

ORNAMENTAL LIGHTING IN TRENTON

The installation of the new ornamental street lighting on the Westend business down town section is completed, and the lights will be turned on for the first time tonight, Saturday.

LECTURE AT CANADIAN CLUB

At the tea given by the Women's Canadian Club in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium on Friday afternoon, an address was heard which was particularly appropriate to Canadian Book Week, "The Cradle of Canadian Literature," the speaker was Dr. McMechan who occupies the chair of English literature in the University of Dalhousie, Halifax. Dr. McMechan at one time lived in Picton, Ont., but has spent most of his life in the Province of Nova Scotia, which he lores, and which he has made an extensive study.

Before dealing with the main subject of his address, the speaker made some general remarks about Canada, the difficulties which we have to contend with, geographical difficulties, the problem of the French-Canadian population, and the numbers of non-Canadian people in the Prairie Provinces. Dr. McMechan said that once he was strongly attacked in the press for having stated that Canada was influenced to too great a degree by the United States. His ideal for Canada was high. We can lead the world. Dr. McMechan spoke of Canada's glorious record in the war, when Canadian boys were found to possess unguessed qualities, and he remarked that it was a tremendous pity that after showing what we can do we should fail to fulfill that promise. "Our great need is unity. We in the Maritime Provinces want to understand you, you want to understand us. If you do not remember another thing which I have said, I wish you to remember that I came here pleading for an understanding of the French-Canadians." One little book "Maria Chapdelaine," by Louis Hegon, will probably give you a better understanding of French-Canading life than anything else." Dr. McMechan suggested that the Canadian Club take a definite, limited objective this winter, or to read and study Canadian literature. Mr. McKechnie, Rev. Mr. Malott, men's Clubs could do a great work for Canada and that they were accomplishing more than the Women's Clubs.

The best and truest Canadian novel yet produced was written by a woman, said the speaker, "The Imperialist," by Sarah Janet Duncan. The most beautiful book of verse ever written by a woman was written by a Canadian woman, the late Miss Marjorie Pickthall. "Miss Pickthall," said Dr. McMechan, "was in the world, but not of it. She lived in a world of her own. She was always sensitive to the spiritual influences of the universe." No great critical review of her verse ever spoke work. "The Bridge" is a failure," said Dr. McMechan, but "Little Hearts" was a beautiful piece of work; but her poetry is wonderful. It is a tribute to Canadian readers that the first edition of "Spells of Pinions" was sold out in three months. Dr. McMechan made no small claims for Canadian writers. Too often we only appreciate our writers after they have been noticed by other countries, as in the case of Archibald Lampman. We did not notice his good work until William

ANNUAL REUNION OF 21st BATT. MEMBERS

Large Gathering of Comrades at Banquet Held at Hotel Quinte—Address by Former Commanding Officer and Others Connected With the Battalion.

LARGE MARKET FOR THANKSGIVING

DRESSED POULTRY OFFERED FOR SALE IN LARGE QUANTITIES

Thanksgiving market, as was anticipated, was largely attended today, in fact it was one of the largest that has been held here for some time. Dressed fowls were offered for sale in abundance and good prices were realized for same. Other products from the farm and garden were also plentiful and remunerative prices were obtained for same.

Fresh dairy butter, owing to the advance in cheese, advanced in price over that of last week. The prevailing prices was 45c. a pound. A few lots sold at a slightly lower figure.

Fresh eggs commanded a rather high price, namely 55c. a dozen; basket lots were secured at 52c. and 53c.

Dressed chickens were more than plentiful, whilst ducks, geese and a few turkeys were offered for sale. Chickens sold from $1.50 to $2.50 a pair; ducks $1.50 to $1.75 each, 20c. a pound, geese from $3.00 to $3.50 each and turkeys at 35 to 38 cts. each.

Garden products were in abundance and reasonable in price. Onions sold at 4c. and 50c. a peck, potatoes 20c. a peck and 30c. by the bag; cabbage 5c. and 10c. each and celery 10c. and 15c. a bunch.

Apples sold at 25c. to 30c. a peck and were plentiful.

DEBATE AND PLAY BY HIGH SCHOOL

Last evening the first of a series of debates for the debating shield was held in the City Hall. To debate was splendid. The subject was "Resolved that capital punishment be abolished". Austin Walters and Agnes Gallagher, representing Form IV., had the negative side and William Deroche and Hazel Mitchell, representing IIIb, had the affirmative side.

All the debaters were splendid, and the debate showed long and serious preparation. After a lengthy session, the judges brought in the decision that the negative side had the best speech and the affirmative had an advantage on delivery but they failed to bring for the death sentence which was imposed for treason and dealt only with murder. While the judges were out, Miss Gertrude Ellis rendered a one-act play, entitled "A Pair of Lunatics" was presented. The cast was Mr. Percy Cole and Norman Bessie Holsey and they both took their parts splendidly. Mr. MacLaurin also gave a short speech while the judges were out.

The judges were the following: Rev. Mr. McKechnie, Rev. Mr. Malott and Miss Gardiner.

The proceeds from the silver collection, seventeen dollars, will be given to the Navy League.

MARY MACSWINEY ARRESTED

Dublin, Nov. 4.—Miss Mary MacSwiney was among the several persons arrested in the house of Mrs. Thumpkins in Aylesbury road here after a pitched battle between the occupants and the National army troops, who were presumably seeking to arrest Eamon De Valera, who is reported to be hiding in this city. A search failed to reveal the Republican leader.

CAPTAIN DISMISSED

Brockville, Nov. 3.—The steamer James W. Follette of the Hall Line is in port with a run of bituminous coal for the Ontario Hospital. Upon arrival here yesterday the Master of the vessel received notice of his dismissal from command of the ship, and the remaining members of the crew resigned, according to Montreal during the afternoon. The Follette is registered in Montreal.

One of the finest Canadian Battalions mobilized for overseas service during the recent great war was that of the 21st and since the struggle has not lost its identity as a unit. For the past four years since the remainder of the battalion returned home an annual reunion has taken place on November 6th. The fourth took place at Belleville yesterday and it was an event that will linger in the memory of all who attended for years to come. Like those upwards of 150 members of the original Battalion in the city and during the day many of them had the privilege of recounting their experiences overseas. In the afternoon at the headquarters apartment in the armouries a reunion took place and in the evening at Hotel Quinte the annual banquet was held. The spacious dining room was filled to capacity and it was certainly a jolly crowd when assembled within the four walls. Miss Mae Hanna of Belleville played a spread that was all that could have been desired. At a few minutes to 9 o'clock the Company headed by Johnstone pipe band paraded from the armouries to the hotel and marched into the dining room being headed by "Nan," the Battalion's white goat, (a) concert that went overseas and for overseas was in France. Bleming, was pronounced by Chaplain Ven. Archdeacon Greene.

The banquet was presided over by Major A. L. Johnson, M. M., of the Battalion who performed his duties in a manner that was befitting for the occasion. After supper a toast list was called out and the address given were received and to the point. The toasts proposed and responded to were as follows:

"Canada," proposed by Major Hanna who in his opening remarks referred to the pleasure it was to attend to the members of the Battalion once a reunion in Belleville and to offer them the freedom of the city.

Canada is a very large country, one of the largest in the world, it is approximately 3,000 miles across Canada. Let us here take a trip across Canada in a seaplane.

Imagine yourself in the harbour of Halifax. Everything is ready to start. The engine begins to roar, the propeller blades to whirl, and the plane glides forward over the surface of the water. Then it rises gently into the air and soars higher and higher as it gathers speed. The pilot has turned his machine westward across Nova Scotia, and we are off.

At last we reach a large river, running into the western sea, Lake of rock. This is the St. Lawrence, the greatest river of Canada. We have now left the ocean behind and are in the province of Quebec.

The St. Lawrence marks our course, We follow the river resting as we fly, the boats plying up and down it. The St. Lawrence is the great water-way of Canada. It makes a broad highway from the heart of the North Ocean, deep into the heart of Canada.

Soon we reach the city of Quebec, with its citadel perched high upon a lofty bluff over-looking the river. Here we stop, and as we can see several large ocean steamers perched at its docks.

Next we reach Montreal and continue our flight along the St. Lawrence to Belleville, the beautiful city of the Bay. The home of a contented satisfied people and the birth place of the famous Hotel Quinte. Thence to Lake Ontario lying a sheet of silver far to the left.

Toronto is our next stopping place. It is a city almost as large as Montreal and just as busy.

From Toronto our pilot heads northeast across the Lake Peninsula of Ontario, Georgian Bay, Muskoka, Ontario is from New Brunswick. In Southern Ontario nearly all the land is farmed, and large towns and cities are found everywhere.

After reaching Lake Huron, we settle down to a long and rather monotonous flight over Lake Huron and Lake Superior. After hours and hours of flying over the water, we reach the twin cities of Port Arthur and Fort William.

Leaving Fort William we pass over

Importance of an Adequate Supply of Hydro-Electric Power For Increased Mining Output

Its Provision Has Not Kept Pace With Rapid Development of Rich Mining Districts of Northern Ontario

If there is one conviction which should by this time be sinking deeply into the minds of people it is that Canada is on the verge of a great industrial development of mining wealth. The platitude that the area of country has only been scratched has been so frequently reiterated that it has become second nature to regard the scratching process as a sort of continuous performance with much in the way of prospects and little in the nature of concrete results.

But since the war, conditions have favored something better than mere scratching. While people have been going about their own private business with the main objective of getting back on a normal basis for everything that appertains to trade and commerce, others whose minds run to pioneering in fortune building have been getting under the surface literally to find out what there is there.

It is a fortunate thing that many are so constituted that they are attracted by the romance of hidden wealth. Many are not. They are contented with the humdrum of routine, assurance and what rewards are merely sent by surface indications and the relative safety which they imply. If all people were constituted alike there would be no departure from the beaten paths of existence and the ordinary methods of wealth creation. If the reverse happened to be the case there would be commercial chaos.

Secondly and stable enterprise must provide the means of seeking the hidden resources of a nation. Surplus wealth must find employment, and while it is desirable that a good portion should seek permanent and conservative investment there must be little in the way of pioneering accomplishment were it not for that spirit of romance which prompts so many to devote a portion of their surplus wealth to co-operation in mining enterprises.

Canada has entered upon a new era in that respect. Not only has the opportunity become decisively attractive to the spirit of adventure at home, but it is attracting millions from the people of other countries. The success which has attended gold and silver mining particularly in the northern part of Ontario especially, has brought to our doors the Great Opportunity of the century.

Never in the history of the country has there been such feverish enterprise in the staking of pits and shafts to get at sites of the riches which are believed to lie below. Canada has a few highly proven properties which are turning out prodigious quantities of wealth laden ores, but they are infinitesimal compared with the mines which must inevitably be the result of present explorations. The greater the number of these mines which are brought to production the greater will be the search for others, and the more readily will the necessary capital be forthcoming.

In gold production alone in the first half of the current year there has been a marked increase over any similar period and there is promise of an output exceeding $20,000,000 for the year, as compared with $14,624,500 in 1921. A few years ago silver production was at the maximum of its production, and is very substantial yet, but gold is now the big attraction and has so far demonstrated that it is now as firmly entrenched in some districts as many long established industrial enterprises.

In such districts the difficulty of obtaining hydraulic power at reasonable prices is being met with the demand has become one of the great problems incidental to mining on a large and profitable scale. In fact, many companies have been handicapped by the lack of sufficient power and were it not for this unfortunate fact some mines would be producing on a considerably larger scale.

This requirement is becoming so self-evident that already the foundation has been laid for a distinctive industry in the mining fields, where development has reached a definite stage of permanency. While a few strong developments, the tendency is to leave this to private initiative and this a new field is opening up in the realm of hydro-electric progress.

Fortunately, there are numerous water courses capable of being harnessed within easy distance of the mining camps and it is safe to say that many millions will be profitably employed in the next few years in providing the necessary equipment.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 2, 1922.

To the Editor:—

Dear Sir,—During the recent Near East crisis all sorts of suggestions were flung at the Minister of Militia about preparing for the training camps which would be necessary in event of war. Preparations for that war and the last war are two different tasks. We now have a potential army of more than 400,000 trained men" is said to have been the Minister's reply.

Here is an army of men, scattered throughout this broad Dominion but bound by the tie of the service they rendered in time of war, who might well be described as the backbone of the nation. Most of them are content to be considered only as citizens, and not a group apart, but their thoughts and actions are undoubtedly greatly influenced by their war experiences, causing them to look in peace for that leadership which carried them to victory in war days.

The Great War Veterans' Association of Canada, for five years past, has consistently endeavored to give constructive leadership, to foster the ideal of service continued in peace as in war, to teach the gospel of broad Canadianism whereby the advancement of the nation means the advancement of the individual. The 341 branches of the association distributed proportionately to the war enlistments from each province, is an indication that this leadership has not been in vain.

The only means of keeping the general public informed of the work of the G.W.V.A. has been through the medium of the press. Generally speaking, the co-operation given in this respect has been wholehearted, and is deeply appreciated.

A news letter, similar to the attached has been mailed to you from time to time, carrying stories of the general activities of the association. Care has been taken to develop the news possibilities of each story. Many papers have been made use of this material, in whole or in part. If yours is among the number, please accept our most sincere thanks. If you have been consigning it to the W.P. basket with the rest of the "free ad" seekers, would you hesitate with this copy, look it over and see if there is not a little merit worthy of mention.

In conclusion let me say that the G.W.V.A. has nothing to sell. We are working upon sixty cents per year per capita which veterans pay with the membership dues in the local branches. We cannot extend service —not only service to all who fought and the dependents of those who fell, but to the nation and to the Empire. The only object of these news letters is to let the greater mass of Canadians know what we are endeavoring to do.

Yours sincerely,

T. C. LAPP,

Director of Information,

G.W.V.A. of Canada.

The world's most beautiful production, a musical extravaganza of the Orient in fourteen scenes, who with its company of 100, orchestra of ten, and three carloads of scenery and magnificent costumes comes to Griffin's next Thursday night, November 9th. Same company that plays Toronto and Montreal. Mail orders with remittances filled now.

MUSIC & DRAMA

"THE SIGN ON THE DOOR" CONSIDERED ONE OF BEST NORMA TALMADGE PICTURES

In "The Sign On The Door," Norma Talmadge incomparable emotional vertom of the silent drama, is seen at her best in the most interesting and absorbing screen vehicle yet given to his talented star.

"The Sign On The Door" was projected to a large audience on Friday night and is receiving its final presentation at Griffin's tonight. It is a reversion of Channing Pollock's highly successful stage play of the same name, and to merely say that it is creditable would be putting the facts very mildly indeed.

In this production Norma takes full advantage of the opportunities for dramatic and emotional acting in wonderful fashion. The star has wonderful support. Charles Richman is seen in her leading man, and others prominent in the cast are Lew Cody, Helen Weir and Paul McAllister.

A two reel Larry Semon comedy, Round Three of the "Leather Pushers" series and a Travelogue are being exhibited on the same program.

REX PRESENTING GOOD COMEDY HERE MONDAY

"Behind The Scenes" is really and truly a departure from any other comedy that was ever written, because it is not only a comedy within a comedy, but it is comedy of the tragedies that paint the life of the actor and actress, the manager and the producer of a new play.

It deals with the trials of a young actress who is very much in love with a well to do young business man, but whose mother will not allow her to wed until she has had "Her chance" on Broadway. Max Breedamm, the manager produced one play with her, and it was flust. The third act shows a stage dress rehearsal in full blast at four o'clock in the morning with every one's nerves gone, and the stage only half set, the author having fits as each different scene is changed, and the artist of the leading man, who is only a amateur, in fact the young business man that the Star is in love with, who, for the reason that he is backing the show, is allowed to play the lead.

Rex plays the young business man of course, while Zaza is the star, and Florence Wintere is her mother, and a REAL stage mother—"When I was with the Great Booth"—Joe Kelly has written "Booth" just as the hotel clerk, while our Bill Yule is going to surprise everyone in a new role, that of the boyish good natured manager and producer, who when he sees broke with his shows says—"Oh that's all right, I didn't have the money long enough to get intimate with it". The play, aside from being a side splitting comedy, will be a revelation to those who think of "Behind the Scenes" being a fairy land of delight.

Seymour and Williams (Red Head) will introduce a gripy vaudeville specialty between acts.

"CHU CHIN CHOW" HERE NEXT THURSDAY NIGHT

"Chu Chin Chow" is really coming. The date is next Thursday night, November 9th, and if a five-year record in London, two in New York, and the guaranteed metropolitan production and cast, the same that has played Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Washington and all the other big theatre-going cities, mean anything at all to the theatre-lovers of Belleville, then this city is about to enjoy a festival of music and spectacle, of drama and comedy, which it will remember for many years to come.

Not in this generation has a production of such unanimity and interest been seen here. It is as if the good old days of the theatre were with us once more to stay.

The Pleated Skirt Demands Attention

Unassuming as they appear on the racks, how interesting are the Season's Pleated Skirts when their box pleats spread apart to reveal embroidered stripes in White. Or there are plaids with the up-and-down stripe prominent between the pleats. In Blue and Black they are very swagger and are made of fine Wool materials. The gay plaids and stripes are also represented.

ANNUAL REUNION OF 21ST. BATT.

the roughest country we have yet seen. It is rocky, hilly, and covered with trees. There are many rivers and streams and lakes, both large and small.

One scene, however, is almost due south, and it will not take us out of the forest. The trees become more scattered and at last we are flying over a flat, treeless country. Yesterday in the south and west farther than eye can reach. This is the prairie. Our first glimpse of it tells us that we have passed from Ontario into Manitoba.

Less than an hour's flight over this beautiful farm land brings us to Winnipeg. This is a large and busy city—the largest west of Toronto, and almost as far south as Mexico, we fly due west over great fields of grain and wide stretches of grass land. To this part of our trip we see nothing to change.

At last we reach Calgary, one of the largest cities of the prairies. Since leaving Winnipeg we have crossed the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and most of Alberta.

Now we must prepare ourselves for the most dangerous and thrilling flight of all. Even before reaching Calgary, we saw a wall of dark, cloud-like forms far to the west. Soon, however, were out-clouds. We were looking up the Rocky Mountains, and as we approached, could see black peaks soaring high into the air, we wonder how our pilot will ever be able to take us safely over them.

This flight over British Columbia made when we reach the city of Vancouver, on the shores of the Pacific Ocean. Here again we see docks and wharves and many steamers bringing goods to Canada and taking away others in exchange.

We have finished our trip across Canada. We have seen something of Canada's farms and farms, her cities and towns, her rivers and lakes, her mountains and mines, her railways and ships. We have seen only a little of Southern Canada. Beyond it is the great Northern forest, while still farther lands a cold, desolate treeless land along the shore of the Arctic Ocean.

Canada is a land of rivers and lakes to an extent unequalled by any other country in the world. One-thirteenth of the entire surface of Canada is water. The water-power of Canada still largely undeveloped, are surivalled, and are estimated at twenty million horse-power.

Agriculture in Canada, is our chief industry. In 1919 the value of agricultural products exceeded $1,000,000,000, which the value if divided equally among the people of Canada, every man woman and child in the whole Dominion would have received more than $300.

The forests of Canada are another great wealth, while hidden beneath the soil of Canada are stores of minerals which no man can estimate.

In 1914 Canada responded promptly to Britain's call for soldiers. Much can be said of Canada's part in the great war, and on account of the length of my rehrks, I leave that it be dealt with by the other speakers of the evening. Let us now rise and drink to the health, wealth and prosperity of the world's greatest Dominion—Canada—the land of the brave and the free.

Comrade Harry E. Fenn of Kingston, responded to the toast in a most appropriate manner referring to the 21st Battalion and its records. There were many prominent men in the battalion and all members did honor to it. Brigadier General W. St. Pierre Hughes was the commanding officer. The late Lt.-Col. Jones was also a valiant officer and one that was beloved by all. Another prominent member of the battalion was Sergt. Major Tom Jordon who was a right handed man at all times. The band of the 21st Battalion with bandmaster Hinchey at the head we are proud of. The battalion was a unique unite of which we were proud of. The speaker said he with all other Canadians pay their respects to such a great city, one of the greatest in the world. Citizenship was touched upon by Comrade Fenn. All should take a keen interest in our country to guard against the class of immigrants that come to this country. We desire to make all Canadians, who come here to make it their home.

THE BATTALION.

The toast of the 21st Battalion was responded to by Sergt. Col. H. Vandewater D.S.O., commanding officer of the Argyll Light Infantry of Belleville, in a befitting manner. He considered it a great honor to propose this toast. He remembered when the Battalion was mobolized and also sent the battalion overseas. The Lieut. Col. related some instances which transpired showing the comradeship which existed between the various units. The speaker spoke eulogistically of the band which was connected with the regiment.

Comrade Brigadier General W. St. Pierre Hughes responded and expressed the pleasure it was to meet those members of the 21st Battalion and the reception he had received, on the 19th of October 1914 he was commissioned to mobolize the 21st Battalion and at Kingston and all members were from other units. The Brigadier General gave a general resume of the mobilization of the 21st Battalion. All members were from 15 units. All members of the Battalion were volunteers. He then spoke and all members conducted themselves like gentlemen. The secret of the success of the 21st Battalion was that it was not camouflaged it always did its duty and the men were truthful. The boys had hard training before they went into the fighting line and did their duty when they arrived in France. The 21st went on and never did anything go that they undertook to do. On one day 122 prisoners were taken by the 21st Battalion members, a record that was only once beaten by a Battalion.

It was a sad night for him when he left command of the 21st Battalion. The esprit de corps of the Battalion was grand. All were possessed with a spirit that was grand and all members behaved in a manner that was all that could have been desired. Col. Haring-ton was referred to by the speaker who stated that he was the right man in the right place at Constantinople. The boys did well in the war and there was not a black mark recorded against the Battalion. He was proud of the fact that the members were still keeping united. Let us keep up this friendship. He would not speak of the friendship of any comrade of the 21st Battalion for the friendship of men in leading positions. Keep up the good organization. This was the best annual re-union of the Battalion and was a credit for those who organized carried it on. There was the right spirit alive and be leading individuals in the municipality where you live. Let us keep out of politics. Canadians are not true to the country and the British Empire. Let us stand for Canada and Canadians and be loyal to the British Empire. The British did not take all the credit but rather gave it to Canadians when they were doing their bit. Canadians did their bit and did it as individuals. One hundred and forty-one divisions of the British army on the western front against one hundred divisions of the British army, which was an evidence of what could be done, and do is winning the war. In conclusion the Brigadier General wished all members of the 21st Battalion God speed and urged upon all members to do what they could to uphold the Union Jack.

In a few well chosen remarks comrade Tom Jordon proposed the toast to Our Fallen Comrades. After the toast had been drunk in silence, Comrade W. E. Kidd, of Kingston replied in a feeling manner.

Operation Order No. 1 and general information to those attending the affair was as follows:—

NOTES

Miss Annie Jeffers, of Peterboro, is certainly a clever dancer. During the evening she danced a Highland fling and also an Irish jig. The talented young lady is the possessor of 76 medals and 4 silver won for dancing.

Members of the Battalion were present from Ottawa on the east to Bowmanville on the west.

Next year it is contemplated to hold the reunion at Ottawa.

CONTROL OF POLICE

A number of municipalities are joining in a petition to be presented to the Legislature asking for power to take control of the police force, rather than the Police Commissioners as at present constituted.

DIED

HAYES—Died in Belleville, Nov. 3rd, 1922, Mrs. Ellen Hayes, beloved wife of Mr. P. Hayes, 27 Catharine street. Funeral Monday morning from late residence at 8.30. Mass at St. Michael's Church at 9 o'clock. Interment St. James Cemetery.

"Would Wake Up Screaming"

"The Least Sudden Noise or Loud Talking Would Startle Him."

"Up to the age of eight, my boy was a strong, healthy child full of life and energy. While playing leap frog one day with some boys of his own age, and, while in a stooped position, a boy jumped on his back and in falling got a weight in his head in front causing and dislocated his hip. At this pain was so great that he fainted and the other boys were so frightened they ran away. For hours I suffered terrible pain and when found, and straight home was very weak with a big thigh and leg swollen twice its size. The doctor set the leg and eased pain and exposure were too much for the poor child and he became unconscious. A high fever set in and for weeks he lay between life and death saving for hours at a stretch. One day he opened his eyes and murmured 'my Mother,' but this is the only word he could utter as he was so weak, but I knew the worst was over. He got stronger but for months was in a serious condition. The treatments doctor or local skilled would startle him and he would begin trembling. He was quite lame and the swelling

"I Avoided an Operation Appendicitis Disappeared"

Mrs. Lorne Blake, Ukalee, Ont., writes:—

"I took a severe pain in my right side. It was very bad at times, I tried pills and tablets for relief but got no relief. The doctor pronounced it chronic appendicitis. I dreaded an operation and a friend advised Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I used them and got not only obtained relief from pain, but I believe it has completely freed me of appendicitis, as it is now over a year since I have had any of the old symptoms.

THANKSGIVING

In our inherited sense of security, on this continent, with our relative abundance of this world's goods, the festivities surrounding Thanksgiving have lost much of their significance, as far as most people are concerned. If one considers the chaotic conditions of Russia, the suffering of the Armenians and Greeks in Asia Minor, the unrest in the Balkans, and on down through a long list, there must come over one a feeling that right here in Canada, in the grand old County of Hastings, it is a good place to live. True it is that we all have our personal crosses to bear, but these in many cases are magnified by our mental conception. Crops all over Canada have been exceptionally good, prices of the necessities of life are coming down, business is improving, work is getting more plentiful, the coal famine is fast disappearing, etc. In view of all these things, we citizens of Belleville have a great deal for which to give thanks. We have a city, beautifully situated for commercial, social and sporting activities, up-to-date schools, beautiful churches and public buildings, and many other desirable features too numerous to mention. Compared with the lot of thousands of other human beings, ours is very desirable indeed and it would not be a bad plan for us to look upon our many big blessings and then our individual difficulties might appear less burdensome. Surely the most of us can face our daily problems with a smile if we truly inventory our stock of this world's good fortune.

This some time during the day, whether it be at church, on the golf course, at the family reunion dinner, or out in the woods, let us give the matter a few moments' thought. The vast majority will find many reasons for offering thanks, and by sincerely offering those thanks the day will assume a deeper meaning, those thanks the day will assume a deeper meaning, which, if we were perfectly candid with ourselves, would not spoil the day in the slightest, but would rather tend to add to the quota of the day's pleasure.

THE CREATORS OF WEALTH

To the claim of Labor that all wealth is created by it, Capital replies that wealth is created only when financed by Capital, and that, logically, it is the primary begetter of wealth. Both are probably wrong. Brains primarily create wealth. In the first place, this line of demarcation between capital and labor is thinly sketched and uncertain. Every one who owns anything is a capitalist. The man who went to the factory this morning and worked with tools which he owns is a capitalist, differing only in degree from the man who owns and employs complicated machinery and huge plants. Each and all are employing their brains to create something. The one who uses his brain to devolve an idea is he who produces wealth. The mechanic who thinks out some new use for the implements of his trade, or new tools to facilitate production is the real creator of wealth.

Graham Bell was a producer of wealth because he gave birth to an idea which benefitted the world.

Thomas Edison's fertile brain thought out its electric light, and capital and labor joined working forces to make that idea available for the advantage of mankind.

Marconi's idea of wireless transmission of sound has given the world more than all the combinations of Capital or the strikes of Labor.

Wood screws when first produced were blunt and the man who first thought out the idea of pointing them made a valuable contribution to the advancement of industry.

A recent writer stated it succintly when he said, "Thought is the only creator of anything. Both capital and labor are hired servants."—Kitchener Waterloo Record.

LAKE GRAIN RATES

It is estimated by The Manitoba Free Press that the saving on the movement of the Western grain through brightly reduced freight rates is already eight million dollars, and may be twenty-five millions, but what this is offset by "murderous rates" on the Lakes, the loss from which it puts at $8,500,000. It draws the moral that the coasting laws ought to have been suspended, and it wonders why this could not have been done by a Liberal Government which favors reciprocity, while it was done in 1912 and 1913 by a Conservative Government, representing a party whose traditional policy is restriction.

HERE AND THERE

SALVAGING CIVILIZATION.

Dr. Stanley Hall has a valuable article on "Salvaging Civilization" in The Century. He seeks to find a way out of the darkness which he briefly describes above.

He speaks not without chapter and verse, and gives excellent summaries of the sad and notable books which have discussed the sombre outlook for the world. Then he turns to some of the suggested cures, and has to make this confession:

"I confess that I can suggest no prescription for all these grievous ailments of humanity, grave and many as I believe are now the dancers to which it is exposed. I do, however, venture two suggestions.

(1) The first is that of the proper attitude for watchfully waiting intellectuals in a time like this. It should be one of hope and not of despair; of courage, not of cowardly inspiring perils.

"I should despair but for my invincible faith in the creed of evolution. How meanly we were wont to think of man! He was made de novo but a short time ago, and has been a failure. Now we see that he is not to be bad in a world where he had no kin. His achievements were given to him from without. What he learned for himself was false, and what he did was wrong.

BIRDS VERSUS BUGS.

A woodlot that is sufficiently protected to serve as a bird sanctuary is a beauty spot where wild flowers and wild fruits will flourish. Moreover, it would be growing valuable timber for future generations, and during the war we found our supplies of fuel of great importance. Sticks and industrial wars may make more valuable in the future. Even in Western Ontario there is much land that would be better if planted to trees than going on as weedy pasture. One might go on to a great length showing why what is left of our woodlots should be preserved, and, where the cattle have been allowed to run in them, why they should be fenced in and replanted with young trees to give them a proper start. But I do not think any better argument can be found for this reforestation than that it will provide farmers with insectivorous birds in the strenuous business of keeping down insect pests. Every once in a while the entomologists issue a warning that unless insects are kept in check, food production will rapidly become unprofitable, if not impossible. Some of the most eminent of them do not hesitate to assert that unless the insects are fought unsbotedically and strenuously they will render the earth uninhabitable for human beings. We have already developed all kinds of sprays and poisons as the munitions for this war, but I am inclined to think that the natural method is best. Start a back-to-the-land movement for our native insectivorous birds by providing the necessary nesting places and hiding places for them, and protecting them from enemies. If it were possible to start the opposite of a sanctuary for house sparrows and crows I think I would think twice before I would mind having one blazing in every township, but I hardly see how it could be managed. How would it do to start to work with a plan of "Bird sanctuaries instead of bug sanctuaries"?—Peter McArthur.

SAVING WESTMINSTER HALL.

The saving of the roof of Westminster, which has been described as the finest example of timber architecture in the world has ever seen, is a triumph of the ancient art of building. On account of the devastating work in the huge oak timbers, of the tiny grub known scientifically as xestobium tessellatum and commonly the deathwatch beetle, the gigantic timbers, though they outwardly appeared sound enough, were on close inspection found to be mere shells with the interior wholly eaten away. Some of the cavities could almost accommodate a man's whole body. It was discovered that at some time in the past the roof had settled on the average at twelve and a half inches. The main thing that saved the collapse of was the great curved arch that springs from the very foot of the wall posts and continues to the crown at the centre of the main collar beam.

The cost of restoring this famous roof of Westminster Hall will amount to about £100,000 or half a million dollars. But no one could begrudge the money for preserving such a monument which has from age to age been a mute but lasting witness to the greatness and wisdom, as well as to the tragedies, of the past.

Although 350 tons of steel have been used to support the roof, the general aspect remains what it was when the king's carpenter surveyed his work in 1399, and as Charles I. saw it when he cast his final glance around before going to his execution.

The whole of this magnificent structure rests on the original walls built by William Rufus in 1097 and which resounded to the coronation ceremonies of thirty kings.

TALE OF TWO MEN.

A young man sighed :"Alas, alack
There is no chance for me;
Good fortune is not on my track—
I'm sure I cannot see
Just why in this game rut I've stuck,
Or why it should befall
That some folk have so much good luck
While I have none at all!"

But as he pondered with a frown,
I saw he did it—sitting down.

Another said, "I'm doing fine,
And worry's far away,
For there is something in my line
To do on any day.
I have the best of luck you bet,
And to the world's race
I find no reason to forget
I've won a first-class place!"

But as he told his story, oh,
I had to listen—on the go!

I turned away and pondered there,
On what the two men said,
I knew that one was in despair
And one with pleasure sped;
I knew the same world held the two,
Good luck to both seemed bright;
But while one met and kept luck true,
The other missed it quite.

And so I said, "I do not doubt,
He meets his luck who hunts it out!"

PRESS OPINIONS

LOSING MOMENTUM

(Hamilton Herald)

That there is shrewd political sense in Premier Drury's "broadening out" policy is indicated by official reports as to the shrinking membership of the United Farmers of Alberta. The membership of Mr. Woodsworth's organization has diminished from 32,000 to 15,000 within a year—from September 30, 1921, to September 30, 1922.

The U.F.A. is the backbone of the Progressive party in Alberta, and indeed in the three prairie provinces. If the backbone weakens, the party is likely to come to grief.

It would not be surprising to learn that the United Farmers of Ontario are fewer in number than they were a year ago and when they secured fully stormed the political citadel at Toronto in 1919. Realizing, as he undoubtedly does that the farmers' political movement is losing its momentum, it is not strange that Mr. Drury favors such a "broadening out" of the movement as will enable other citizens beside farmers to take an active part in it, and to exercise such a voice in the shaping of its policies.

(Guelph Herald.)

Men who would do anything rather than earn an honest living, and some others whose imagination is easily bred a sensation during dearth, are multiplying with the approach of the winter season. As a result deeds of violence by banditry are multiplying in Canada.

Wherever caught these men should be given a dose of the lash as well as imprisonment. The latter at least will remove the halo which some of these misguided men may imagine attaches to appearance in court on a charge of being a "holdup."

Before the lash men of stronger courage than those who rob unarmed men have quailed, and we imagine that any pretence at heroism which these may have in the eyes of a certain class would be more than offset by the thought of the lash.

EUROPE WAS CURSED BY THE "PURSUIT OF A WOODROW WILSON PEACE."

Italy is finally suffering from the prolongation of Dr. Woodrow Wilson's war, says Sforza.

THE PURPOSE OF Dr. Wilson's stay at Versailles was idealistic.

THE EFFECT of Woodrow Wilson's stay at Versailles was illustrated in the removal of the foundations of law, order and contentment from the government of every allied nation on the continent of Europe.

A Woodrow Wilson peace would have made the government of law, order and authority impossible in France and Italy. The electorate of a stupid, conceited, self-centred college professor swore to kindle the fires of anarchy in Europe as the fuel of a nation whose own hide and health was sheltered by geographical isolation from the ravages of anarchy.

Long drawn out efforts to obtain a Woodrow Wilson peace almost ruined Italy. Similar efforts are in Italy, France, Poland and Roumania.

Europe has reason to bless the United States for America's share in winning the war. Europe has reason to curse the United States for Woodrow Wilson's share in wrecking the peace. European curses on Woodrow Wilson are no longer or deeper than patriotic American maledictions on the head of the same illustrious personage.

Dean Hewlett gave him an article in Harper's Monthly.

The Cradle Of Canadian Literature.

"I mean by the cradle of Canadian literature, the City of Halifax," said Dr. McMechan. He then gave a vivid picture of the province of Nova Scotia, with its 300 years of picturesque history behind it, and its great scenic beauty. The fogs of this province keep the grass an emerald green until late in the Fall, the hills are covered with the bright-green of the spruce trees and the leaves of the birches. Then all over the barren places are the huckleberry bushes, the leaves of which remain a brilliant crimson for many weeks. He spoke of the fact that Nova Scotia had built 6,000 deep-sea ships, and described the wonderful adventurous and dangerous life of the sailors, and also their wives, who in many cases go with their husbands. Dr. McMechan said that he had many freshmen in his classes at the University, who had seen just as much of the world as he had, having travelled all over the globe in their fathers' ships. "There is not a little port but what has its legends and adventure. The tragedies of the sea have left their enduring impression on the people. "I am trying to give you some idea of the extraordinary richness of life in Nova Scotia."

Halifax, Where Things Began.

The wonderful city of Halifax built like the ancient city of Athens with its marvellous harbor, its citadel, rising called "the warder of the honor of the North," was built as a naval station and a military post. In four great wars Halifax has been the pivotal point. So many of the "firsts" things in Canada came from Halifax. The first newspaper was published there in 1752. The province of Nova Scotia has given three premiers to Canada, and one out of the province gave Canada six college presidents.

The First Magazine.

The history of Nova Scotia is the history of the U. E. Loyalists. These Loyalists were an educated people to whom literature was a necessity. The first number of the first Canadian magazine was published in Halifax. He published a copy of it and also had a Loyalist for its editor. It was an 80-page double column monthly magazine, and was made up of articles clipped from other papers, but the fact that Halifax in 90 years had a new magazine about every ten years, shows the literary zeal and effort there was at this early date. In 1830 a new magazine was started, "The Acadian Recorder," which differed from the first in the fact that its articles were original contributions. Two years after then in the province who backed this publication were Howe and Haliburton. It was modelled on "Blackwood's" and "Fraser's" magazines. Dr. McMechan read a short excerpt from this magazine. A certain significant article which appeared in "The Acadian Recorder" was "Melville Isle," by Joseph Howe.

Joseph Howe.

The most picturesque figure in Canadian history," said Dr. McMechan, "is Joseph Howe, who won responsible government without shedding a drop of blood and who instructed Canadian statesmen in the principles of government." In 1829 Howe and Haliburton were associated in publishing "An Historical and Statistical Report of Nova Scotia." This was the splendid volume of history and a remarkable achievement for these two men. In this history Haliburton told for the first time the story of the expulsion of the Acadians. Longfellow used this history in writing his famous poem, "Evangeline." This history had the same motto as the magazine which showed how deep was the parochial feeling in Nova Scotia. "This is my own, my native land." Dr. McMechan reviewed the story of Howe's career, how he was sued for libel for writing in his paper a criticism of the ruling clique, how he defended himself in the famous speech, thus beginning his career as an orator. "We have never had another like him, his written speeches will stand longer than any other," said Dr. McMechan. "The people of Nova Scotia worship Joseph Howe, his sayings and views are still the subject of discussion, though he has been dead for fifty years. They will never forget him."

A series of anonymous articles appeared in the Acadian magazine which were later seized by an English firm of publishers, who published them in book form and they immediately became popular. This book was "The Clockmaker," by Thomas Chandler Haliburton, and was really the first Canadian book. In it Haliburton shows his discovery of the "Yankee" humour. Dr. McMechan spoke of Prof. James Demille, a former Professor of English in Dalhousie University, who wrote many splendid books and whose work was greatly praised as far west as Vancouver.

Most Remarkable Canadian Book.

What if considered by Dr. McMechan as the most remarkable piece of volume written by a Canadian is "The Book of High Romance," by Michael Williams. It is a spiritual autobiography. Williams was born in Halifax, went to work at an early age, and finally got into journalism. His life is a long story of ill-luck and ill-health. In this book he tells how he has tried all the modern fads and processes at last back to the faith of Christianity. Dr. McMechan said that if you had sympathy for a struggling human life you would read this book. The speaker closed his address by reading an extract from this book, which showed the author's great power of linking ordinary things of life which everyone sees and immortalizing them. Dr. McMechan in closing, expressed the hope that he had proved that the cradle of the real Canadian literature was the grand old City of Halifax.

Mrs. Affleck, President of the Women's Canadian Club here, tendered to Dr. McMechan the thanks of the ladies of the Club for his splendid address. The tea tables were prettily decorated with yellow mums and candles, and after the address a social hour was spent by the ladies present.

THE COMFORTERS.

When I crept over the hill, broken with tears,
When I crouched down on the grass, dumb in despair,
I heard the soft croon of the wind held to my ears,
I felt the light hum of the wind touching my hair.

When I crept down to my grave broken with tears,
When I crouched down in the grass, dumb in despair,
I heard the sweet croon of the wind soft in my ears,
I felt the kind lips of the wind touching my hair.

When I closed home by the cross, sorrow-dumb with tears,
When I went down the long hill, I cried and I cried,
The soft little hands of the rain stroking my cheek,
The kind little feet of the rain wet by my side.

Pimentos Stuffed with Mushrooms.—Line six buttered timbale moulds with pimentos, trim evenly around top. Wipe ¼ pound fresh mushrooms, peel, cut in small pieces, saute in 2 tablespoons butter with ½ small onion finely chopped. Add 1½ cups cream sauce, ½ cup fine bread crumbs and 1 cup finely chopped cold chicken, meat veal or pork and 2 finely chopped pimentos. Add the yolks of 2 well-beaten eggs, season with salt and paprika. Fill moulds, cover with buttered crumbs and bake (in a pan of hot water) until crumbs are brown. Set each in a ring of buttered toast.

The Daily Recipe

MOCHA SPONGE SQUARES.

4 eggs
½ cup of cold water
1 tablespoon orris starch
1 teaspoon lemon extract
Vanilla nut filling
1 cup sugar
1-4 cup pastry flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
Mocha filling
Orange filling
Orange icing

Beat up the yolks of the eggs until thick and lemon-colored, add the sugar and the water. Sift the baking powder with the flour and stir in, adding about one-fourth teaspoon salt. Beat up and add the lemon extract, then fold in the stiffly whipped egg-whites. Bake in four slim layers in square cake-tins. Remove from the pans when a delicate brown. Put the mocha filling between the top and bottom layers, in the centre put the vanilla-nut filling, and ice the top over with an orange icing.

CATTLE AGREEMENT

"18 SATISFACTORY

London, Nov. 2.—Before sailing from Southampton for home, Dr. Cronkite, Canadian Federal Deputy Minister of Agriculture, who took part in the negotiations regarding legislation necessary to remove the embargo on cattle, said an agreement would be published in Great Britain in a few days. It was, he said, satisfactory to both parties, though from the Canadian point of view the Dominion did n ot get quite all that was desired.

MAKES LONG TRIP ENTIRELY ON FOOT

ENGLISHMAN HAS INTERESTING JOURNEY THROUGH EUROPE AND ASIA.

(Associated Press)

Rangoon, Nov. 1.—Charles W. Blythe, an Englishman who is journeying on foot from Singapore to Calais, France, and London, recently arrived in Rangoon and is now on his way to Calcutta. He intends to pursue his way through northern India, Baluchistan and Persia to Shatel-Arab, whence he will follow the Euphrates to its source and make his way through Asia Minor and Europe. He hopes to arrive in England by the end of 1923.

Mr. Blythe, who has already covered 2,100 miles of his trip, thinks that the only way to see a country is to see it on foot. He intends to pursue his way through northern India, Baluchistan and Persia to Shatel-Arab, whence he will follow the Euphrates to its source and make his way through Asia Minor and Europe. Malaya and Burmana, the travelers says, are the most friendly people he has encountered so far. The Siamese he ranks last, although none of these have been definitely unfriendly.

Describing some of the adventures he has had since leaving Singapore last May, Mr. Blythe says, in part:

"My day to traverse Siam with all possible speed. From Nieer Nung my troubles commenced: Roads in the Upper Siam are non-existent. Even cartroads are termed by courtesy. For two days I travelled in the saddle, sleeping in farmers' houses, until I reached Patalung, which is a railway town not marked on the maps. Here I was being infested with mosquitoes, I requested the station master to allow me to sleep in the waiting room, which request he granted.

"Leaving Patalung I entered the Malay States. Although farms and villages are frequent. All this time I was guiding myself northward by the sun, every day or two taking courses to the railroad in order to keep the direction. There was but little fear of losing my way as the mountains ran parallel to the sea, leaving between a strip of plain, varying from ten to 40 miles in width. The large villages are located between the coast and the railway.

"It was remarkable that I encountered no wild animals and very few snakes, which sometimes I killed and sometimes avoided. The natives were generally friendly enough, although our intercourse was limited owing to my defective Siamese vocabulary.

"Some 40 miles north of Chumphon, I was very grateful to account for the fact that large expanses of the hillsides were cleared and used as grazing grounds for cattle, as I had not credited the Siamese with sufficient energy to clear large areas of hill jungle. I was told that some 60 years ago a terrific tempest swept across the isthmus of Kra and destroyed all the vegetation.

"From Prechuap Kirikan the country became Siam of the picture books, mountains on one side, precipitous rocks, native villages in brilliant-colored clothing; banana trees, cocoanut palms and monasteries; herds of, vicious-looking water buffaloes, and rice fields everywhere.

"I reached Bangkok July 23, exactly two months after leaving Singapore. Bangkok, the most large towns of the East, is a curious mixture of West and East, the old and the modern. Palatial residences, concrete buildings are jostled by wretched hovels; foul-smelling, wind ing canals by fine, spacious boulevards. Pagodas stand a stone's the row from churches.

"The wats of Bangkok are a fine example of the fortifications as understood by the Oriental nations. They are huge, averaging 20 feet in height by some 20 in thickness and built of massive blocks of granite, with a fine approach. The government houses are built of stone and are imposing structures. About half a dozen of the far-famed white elephants are housed there. The tramway service in Bangkok is the most comfortable of all I have tarried in Asia.

"At Ban Laya, my northern most point in Siam, I turned southward, and arrived in a relatively large town named Sewankalok. While taking lunch the restaurateur in jokingly remarked that I was a spy. The local chief of police immediately, accompanied with the idea, and I spent an uncomfortable 30 minutes relieving his doubts."

LIFE OF PRINCESS HERMINE OF REUSS

Ex-Emperor Wilhelm's Bride-to-be Has Regal Bearing—Only 35 Years of Age—Comes From Old German Family

(The Associated Press.)

The Hague, Nov. 2.—Princess Hermine of Reuss, almost unknown even in her native Germany two months ago, is today one of the most prominent women in Europe, for tomorrow she will repeat the words that are to unite her life to that of the former German Emperor, William Hohenzollern, and which also will make her the "Queen of Prussia," empty though the title be.

The new chapter in Princess Hermine's life constitutes beyond matrimonial venture, and comes when she has struggled for more than 20 years through the vale of sadness and misfortune that has pursued her unhappy family. But as man of ill-luck began when political differences arose between the House of Reuss and the government of ex-Emperor William, there are many in Germany today who, perhaps governed a mite by superstition their reasoning believes that marriage will break the long spell of misfortune, and that hereafter the Reuss household will be its ascendency.

Political troubles, however, have not been the only clouds hovering over the ancient friendly people who he has encountered so far. The Siamese he ranks last, although none of these have been definitely unfriendly.

The local chief of police immediately, accompanied with the idea, and I spent an uncomfortable 30 minutes relieving his doubts."

The Hague, Nov. 2.—Princess Hermine of Reuss, almost unknown even in her native Germany two months ago, is today one of the most prominent women in Europe, for tomorrow she will repeat the words that are to unite her life to that of the former German Emperor, William Hohenzollern, and which also will make her the "Queen of Prussia," empty though the title be.

The new chapter in Princess Hermine's life constitutes beyond matrimonial venture, and comes when she has struggled for more than 20 years through the vale of sadness and misfortune that has pursued her unhappy family. But as man of ill-luck began when political differences arose between the House of Reuss and the government of ex-Emperor William, there are many in Germany today who, perhaps governed a mite by superstition their reasoning believes that marriage will break the long spell of misfortune, and that hereafter the Reuss household will be its ascendency.

Political troubles, however, have not been the only clouds hovering over the ancient friendly people who he has encountered so far. The Siamese he ranks last, although none of these have been definitely unfriendly.

Describing some of the adventures he has had since leaving Singapore last May, Mr. Blythe says, in part:

"My day to traverse Siam with all possible speed. From Nieer Nung my troubles commenced: Roads in the Upper Siam are non-existent. Even cartroads are termed by courtesy. For two days I travelled in the saddle, sleeping in farmers' houses, until I reached Patalung, which is a railway town not marked on the maps. Here I was being infested with mosquitoes, I requested the station master to allow me to sleep in the waiting room, which request he granted.

"Leaving Patalung I entered the Malay States. Although farms and villages are frequent. All this time I was guiding myself northward by the sun, every day or two taking courses to the railroad in order to keep the direction. There was but little fear of losing my way as the mountains ran parallel to the sea, leaving between a strip of plain, varying from ten to 40 miles in width. The large villages are located between the coast and the railway.

"It was remarkable that I encountered no wild animals and very few snakes, which sometimes I killed and sometimes avoided. The natives were generally friendly enough, although our intercourse was limited owing to my defective Siamese vocabulary.

"Some 40 miles north of Chumphon, I was very grateful to account for the fact that large expanses of the hillsides were cleared and used as grazing grounds for cattle, as I had not credited the Siamese with sufficient energy to clear large areas of hill jungle. I was told that some 60 years ago a terrific tempest swept across the isthmus of Kra and destroyed all the vegetation.

"From Prechuap Kirikan the country became Siam of the picture books, mountains on one side, precipitous rocks, native villages in brilliant-colored clothing; banana trees, cocoanut palms and monasteries; herds of, vicious-looking water buffaloes, and rice fields everywhere.

"I reached Bangkok July 23, exactly two months after leaving Singapore. Bangkok, the most large towns of the East, is a curious mixture of West and East, the old and the modern. Palatial residences, concrete buildings are jostled by wretched hovels; foul-smelling, wind ing canals by fine, spacious boulevards. Pagodas stand a stone's the row from churches.

"The wats of Bangkok are a fine example of the fortifications as understood by the Oriental nations. They are huge, averaging 20 feet in height by some 20 in thickness and built of massive blocks of granite, with a fine approach. The government houses are built of stone and are imposing structures. About half a dozen of the far-famed white elephants are housed there. The tramway service in Bangkok is the most comfortable of all I have tarried in Asia.

"At Ban Laya, my northern most point in Siam, I turned southward, and arrived in a relatively large town named Sewankalok. While taking lunch the restaurateur in jokingly remarked that I was a spy. The local chief of police immediately, accompanied with the idea, and I spent an uncomfortable 30 minutes relieving his doubts."

The father decided after what had passed to leave his wrecked homestead, and after conveying his wife to friends who lived on the other side of the mountain, he promised to see Monsigneur as far on his journey as might be, and find him another trusty guide to take his place. Aywnworth was well satisfied with this arrangement, for in spite of seeming, he was things were turning out better-than he had dared hope when he first started. The guides took their leave of him, taking the dog with them, in the hope of returning him to his master's regionard; and so the last link with the little hamlet and the good priest, where he had made such fortune discoveries, was broken.

They decided still to continue their plan of traveling at night and resting during the day. It was far from pleasant, but it seemed safest under the circumstances. All the next day they heard the booming of distant cannon to the right of their course. Occasionally rattle rushed past them terror-stricken, and towards evening droves of them passed by, loving evidently that the hunter's son made use of the opportunity to procure new milk, which was plentifully re-loaded at intervals both food and drink, at a time when rations were running very near to the scene of slaughter.

Aynsworth was restless and impatient all day, sleep was out of the question. His own personal affairs had been suddenly pushed into the background, pressed as they were, by the sound of battle and the conviction that England was engaged in a life-and-death struggle. He longed to be back in time to report to the army restrained him and kept him true to his original purpose.

They had not as they supposed met their journey; still they were a long way from the coast, and the danger had not yet passed. Once they should have reached a point through a corner of French territory and more than ordinary care was necessary. If, after all, anything was to be detained for enquiry would have been a serious hindrance.

Lawson was invaluable; he could turn his hand to anything, and not the least of his accomplishments was his ability to converse fluently in most Continental languages.

"How did you acquire so many languages?" Aynsworth asked him one day.

"Picked them up, sir," was this ready answer.

"Oh, everywhere, sir; the world is but a little place to those who know, and a humble fellow can cover a good deal of ground, sir."

"You are a genius, Lawson," Aynsworth said, regarding the fellow almost admiringly.

"Yes, sir," was the prompt reply, at which his master loaded himself with.

Lawson got into the way of wandering about recklessly, as it seemed to the latter, but he always kept within sight and village if anywhere near their camping ground, and returning with abundance of news and plenty of food either for their larder. But how he came by such desirable edibles always remained a mystery which no one cared to scrutinize too closely. One day Denis, the farmer's son, followed him unobserved, but, pursuit to have a little fun at his expense. But Lawson was too shrewd a campaigner to be caught so easily. When he suspected he was under observation he doubled back and ran the lad into a thicket without difficulty. If the boy was joking, not so Lawson; he was in a frightful passion, his hand was on the knife thrust in an instant, while he shook him so savagely that he cried out in mortal terror: "O, Lord, I see death in your eyes. I see death in your eyes."

"And you see-sure, wholly," he hissed through clenched teeth. Then, reverting himself in an instant, he threw the boy from him and laughed. It was a most human unmirthful chuckle, which was far from re-assuring.

"Good acting, Denis, my boy; rare good acting," he said, in his usual way. "I suppose we take to the road, we two, when Monsigneur has finished this important journey of his! We might do worse, much worse, lad. But hark! taking the boy not too gently by the ear, "not a word of this fine fooling to any one."

Denis promised, of course: he would have promised anything just then to get safely away from his strange companion.

They were now in the Hautes Alpes, near the little mountain capital of Gap, where La Fee expected to be able to procure a guide who could see Aynsworth safely on to some convenient port. This accomplished him to leave Monsigneur for a day or more, his son remaining with his return.

During this time Aynsworth saw a little more of Lawson than usual.

"What do you intend doing when you get back to England?" he asked him one day.

"The Lord knows, sir," he answered, "I am a friendless man, and I doubt if I am any longer fit for service in the army. Providence has been very considerate so far, sir."

"Ah!" Aynsworth said, as though a point of special interest had been suggested upon. "Providence! I have proved that in a very remarkable manner, and I once thought there was nothing in it; absolutely nothing. But I was wrong; quite wrong, Lawson."

MRS. ELLEN HAYES

After being in ill health for some time, Mrs. Ellen Hayes, wife of Mr. Patrick Hayes, passed away last evening at the family residence, corner of Catharine and Cedar streets. She ceased was well known in Belleville and a deservedly popular lady. Mrs. Hayes was born in Ireland 67 years ago, being a daughter of the late Mr. Humphrey Ganey. All her life was spent in the city where she had a host of friends who will regret her passing. Deceased was a member of St. Michael's Church. In addition to her husband, one son, John D. Hayes, of Toronto and four daughters, Mrs. F. P. O'Connor of Toronto, and the Misses Margaret, Norah, and May of this city survive. To the bereaved will be extended the sincere sympathy of many citizens.

EXCITEMENT OF RUM-RUNNING ATTRACTS NORWEGIANS

Christiana, Nov. 3.—Illicit dealing in liquor in prohibition Norway has proved such a profitable trade that is estimated twenty per cent. of the population is actively engaged in rum smuggling. The excitement and adventure involved appeal to many people, and are by no means a small factor in causing them to enter the business.

The competition in the trade, at sea is so great that ninety per cent. alcohol from Germany is bought ab thirty cents a quart on the boats and sold ashore for two dollars. The greater portion of this stuff is rank, and contains a large percentage of wood alcohol and other poisonous ingredients.

Once ashore this liquor finds a ready market as many times its value, and it is sold under the eyes of the government in all of the cities and towns of the restricted districts.

The people of Norway agree that the situation is little short of a public scandal, but it is not able to offer any effective remedy as the revenue department should cope with the law violators. Meanwhile the government is losing millions of revenue, as the liquor brings no revenue into the state treasury.

BANKERS SCORE ANOTHER VICTORY OVER TIGER TIRE

The Tiger Tire went down to defeat before the Bankers in a very close game on Dominion alleys last night. Considering the Tiger boys are a new team, and lost two subs out they gave the Bankers a hard score to the first two games, but the Bankers found themselves for the Tire boys kept well with Wally Walsh and E. Phillips leading in the race for the top honors with J. Verge and O'Callaghan right on their heels.

BASKET BALL

Focus IC went down to defeat before a YMA form team in a girls' interform basket ball game on the High School campus on Wednesday night.

A 46-13 score tells the tale of a well-beaten up team The Frankenites had it over the YMA formers in the first "they could do it."

One more game will finish the series of semi-finals among the the girls' rivalry and will take place at the ... on a date not yet set.

Line-up for Wednesday:

IC—Forwards, Margaret Holway, L. Curry; centre, Margaret Bland; guards, Margaret Gover, Arleta Stevens.

Y—Forwards, Elsie Plobert, Laura Hall; centre, Cassie Hill, Lois Hallinet; guards, Betty Williams, Helen Scantlebury. Spare, Annie Coulter.

RUGBY NOTES

Queen's play McGill this Saturday. On the gridirons of the East this should be a game of common interest for the Gaels. McGill have nothing to win, very little to lose, and the tricolor should summon a resounding response in the Intercollegiate race after the game is over.

Ottawa Rugs will get a chance to see the Varsity-Queen's game, as the Queen's alumni have arranged an excursion via the C.P.R. It will be a one-day affair as the train will leave at 9 o'clock in the morning and return starting with the Varsity-Queen's game. 500 have expressed their intention of taking in the big game.

ERECTING MORE BLEACHERS

Arrangements have been made by the athletic board of control at Queen's University to erect a new bleacher stand at the Richardson stadium to accommodate the crowds who will attend the rugby games. S. Anglin & Co. have been awarded the contract and it is expected that, five hundred more persons will secure seats. The new bleachers will become a permanent part of the stadium and will be occupied by the Varsity students who will accompany their team to Kingston.

TO STOP COACHER

If Argos and Queens meet in the final for the Sculpion championship, Hon. Thomas the Queen's notable "war star, says he will stop Lionel Coacher, Argos' star. "Thomas made a pretty fair job of the last of stopping the big fellow last fall in the last game of the Big Four between Argos and Ottawa, and with just a bad weight this year, promises to make an even better job of it. However, Coacher is bigger and stronger this year. There is no gainsaying the fact that Thomas is a star outside wing.

COBOURG IN HOCKEY

Cobourg will probably be represented by two hockey teams this season, junior and senior. The material for an intermediate team is the best in years and if properly handled should produce results. The junior team will be made up of nearly all new players, only two of last year's timers being eligible. A meeting of the executive to decide on the entering of two teams will be held next week. Training will be commenced immediately.

COBOURG HOCKEY CLUB ORGANIZE

The annual meeting of the Waverly Hockey Club was held in the grand jury room on Monday night, when a large number of fans and prospective players were present.

Secretary-Treasurer W. Dalgar read a statement showing the financial position of the club at the end of the 1922 season. The total receipts amount to $851.55, with expenditure amounting to $790.43 leaving a balance on hand of $71.12.

A communication was received from Mr. C. R. Gummow, who audited the books. He stated that the books were found correct in every respect and were a credit to the treasurer.

The following officers were elected for the coming season:—

President—H. Greer.

Vice President—W. Dalgar.

Sec'y-Treas.—A. Cochrane.

Executive—Geo. Strong, W. Shiltch, H. Higginbotham, V. Butler, K. Payne and C. R. Gummow.

The matter of selecting a manager and deciding upon the number of teams to be entered in the O. H. A. this year was left for the new executive to select.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

A bit of news of the good work done by the Boy Scouts in the Northern fire is briefly told, particularly of Scout Moore of Cobalt, who worked on a refugee train between Cobalt and North Cobalt, while the fire was at its height. Moore was too young to fire the engine and as there was not a fireman available the regular engineer fired while Moore handled the throttle. Many more brave acts are recorded showing the value of Scout training.

Notes.

On Monday, Thanksgiving Day, a hike will be held to the woods. Scouts are requested to assemble at High School Grounds at 9 a.m. Bring your lunch. Scout meeting will be held Monday evening.

Troop Leader Bustard has been appointed Acting Assistant Scoutmaster of the Junior Troop. Secretary W. Soule has been appointed Acting Assistant Scoutmaster of the Senior Troop by Scoutmaster Hayes.

GRAND TRUNK SAVES $500,000 IN ONE YEAR

GRAND TRUNK HAS REMARKABLE PROCESS FOR RECLAIMING STEEL RAILS —SYSTEM AROUSING CONTINENT WIDE INTEREST

If you visit the Point St. Charles Shops of the Grand Trunk Railway at Montreal you will see in operation a remarkable saw that cuts, in twenty-five seconds, the end off a steel rail weighing one hundred pounds to the yard. The heavy steel rail is pushed up against the rapidly revolving saw, there is a "whirr" and eighteen inches of steel rail is shorn away, evenly and smoothly. This process is also in operation on the Grand Trunk at Belleville and London, and the result is a saving to the railway of more than $500,000 a year.

The story of this rail sawing is an interesting one. The rail used by Canadian and United States railways has gradually increased in weight from the standard of forty years ago, fifty-six pounds to the yard, until to-day railways are using a rail of one hundred pounds to the yard, and to a limited extent even heavier. Due to the fact that all rail, both light and heavy, is affected by the change of temperature, allowances must be laid with a space between the ends to allow for expansion and contraction. This space intensifies the hammer-blow on the end of the rail when the wheels pass over it and results in the pounding down of the ends of the rail, so that, while the remainder of the rail may be to all practical purposes unworn, the end of the rail, and for some inches back of it, is rendered unfit for use. The railways have disposed of enormous quantities of such rail at a scrap, price, replacing it with newly manufactured rail.

The Grand Trunk Railway has adopted the policy of reclaiming this rail at the three rail sawing plants alluded to. The idea of putting in a number of Plants was to minimize the hauling of the rail to and from the plant where it is to be sawn.

Here is an example of how this reclamation of rail works out. The railway has 200 miles of rail that has been in use for a sufficient length of time for the ends to become battered as described, and, in order to secure good riding track, these sections must be removed and replaced by new rail or reclaimed rail. Instead of buying two hundred miles of rail and selling the old rail as scrap they buy two hundred miles of new rail, and at two points on this two hundred miles they replace ten miles of battered rail with a new rail, sending the released ten miles from each point to the nearest sawing plant. These lengths of rail are sawn, redrilled and returned to where they came from, being used to release a further ten miles, and this is repeated until the rail for the entire two hundred miles has been replaced by twenty miles of new rail and one-hundred and eighty miles of the sawn rail. Plants such as the Grand Trunk now have in operation will handle a mile of rail on each working day. The rail goes back into the track quite as evenly, and in many cases more evenly, than new rail, and it actually gives a smoother riding surface than will the new rail when first put in. The life of the rail after sawing is quite equal to that of a new rail, that is, the main body of the rail may still be in good condition when the ends require second sawing.

Another interesting development is the fact that the scrap value of the scrap ends removed from the rail when sold as the low figure of $12.00 per ton as scrap, reimburses the railway for the entire expense of handling the rail at the mill, that is, unloading, sawing, drilling and reloading. The expense of removing from the track and haulage is about equal to the expense of handling a new rail, so that these items balance each other.

At present prices the net gain from the reclamation process, as against using new rail is $500,000 per two hundred miles of track. It may be objected that the railway has a secondhand rail in place of a new rail, which might affect the net gain, but the fact is that the 100 pound section rail, sawn the first time, and replaced in track, is as good, if not better than the new rail. It is a proven and tested rail, all cults and weak rail having been eliminated. The sawn rail gives a smoother riding track than does a new rail, and its life which is controlled by the end of the rail, or joint, will be just as long as that of a new rail. Hail hardens in use and wears more slowly as it becomes older and it remains to be seen, how many times the hundred pound section rail may be sawn. Judging from what is known of this matter, the reclaimed rail will stand at least a second cutting and go back to main line, and after being cut a third time be good for branch lines and after that for sidings and yards, so that the claim of a net saving of $554,000 on the 200 miles of rail may easily be only one third of the eventual saving on 200 miles of rail so handled. This brief description gives an idea of the rail sawing process on the Grand Trunk that is attracting Continent-wide attention among railroad men.

Avert Operations For Appendicitis —Internal Baths

Hundreds of surgical operations for appendicitis have been avoided by the timely employment of J. B. Lo Cascade. Most troubles arise from the accumulation of waste in the colon, or lower intestine, from which poisons spread.

Cleansing of the intestinal tract with pure warm water, applied with the J.B.L. Cascade, removes the cause of a large number of common stomach complaints; in digestion, headache, loss of energy and rheumatism.

Mr. James McLaughlin, 91 Avenue Street, Winnipeg, writes: "I bought a J. B. L. Cascade for the cure of a bad case of appendicitis. My doctor told me I must have an operation at once. I had spent more than half my doctor bills, but the Cascade in a few days completely relieved me of every trace of soreness and pain. I rest and sleep well now and have regained my former weight, and am in perfect health."

The J. B. L. Cascade is shown and explained at J. S. McKeown.

"Better than ever,"was the unanimous verdict of a capacity house at Griffin's last night, after having seen "The Dumbells Revue of 1922." From the rise of the curtain to the finale there was action, fast and plenty, and the audience was a very appreciative one, as the boys seem to have become favorites with the people of Belleville.

The revue is presented this year in two parts or acts preceded by a prologue. The original company composed of Ross Hamilton, "Red" Newman, Al Plunkett, Alan Murray, Arthur Holland, Fred Fenwick, Charlie McLean, Bill Tennant, Frank Brayford, Tom Young, Jack Ayer, Jimmie Goode, Ted Charter, Bert Wilkinson, Percy Campbell, Arthur Wilson, and Arthur Nicholson is still intact. Unfortunately Jimmie Goode did not appear last night as he was ill and one or two special numbers were given to fill out the program.

Jimmie Goode, made famous by his work as a colored comedian and noted for his special numbers, was missed by those who had seen previous presentations, but the boys last night delighted the audience notwithstanding.

Ross Hamilton, who achieved fame through his previous presentations of "Marjorie," is still as attractive as ever and held her audience well.

"Red" Newman as a comedian is one of the best and seems to improve with age.

Al Plunkett, Alan Murray, Ted Charter, Arthur Holland, Fred Fenwick, Tom Young and Charles McLean are all deserving of special mention. Yet it seems somewhat difficult to select any members of the company as being stars. They each have their place and are artists, all of them.

The prologue gave a very fitting touch of romance to the Revue. Alan Murray, as an old French shepherd, who was a native of the war-torn fields of France sits dreaming of those war days, and in his dream he sees the spirits of the Canadians' return to the battlefields and hear the old Dumbells of the war days. His dream request is granted and then follows the regular presentation.

Ted Charter as the private in the Plumly Battalion added another success to his list, while his impression of "Burlington Berty" in a political satire was just as greatly appreciated as his monologue "Kit Inspection."

Alan Murray in the Spanish dance episode as the Senorita was a distinct new feature. "Red" Newman in "My Ole Mammy," and "I'm a Daddy" was encored several times. Al Plunkett scored a big hit in "K-K-Kiss Me Again." Another new feature was the Stinson Siding Social which also was a big hit.

In the Oriental scene the costumes were specially batiked for the company and were very picturesque.

The production of the revue is distinctly Canadian throughout.

The costumes of the company were practically all made in Canada. The songs were also practically all composed by the company, and the whole production is a product of the boys themselves.

Differing largely from road shows these boys impress the audience with the fact that they are old friends, Canadians, our own returned boys. They appear to delight in their work and the audience is captivated and goes away feeling they have made new friends in the members of the company.

Owing to some difficulty with the electrical authorities in Canada, to elaborate electrical effects had to be left out. This somewhat detracted from the merit of the presentation, nevertheless it was a wonderful hit and Belleville will welcome again the company on its next appearance.

QUESTION OF CARS ON C.N.R. MAY BE PUT TO THORNTON

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—Criticism of car shortage on the Canadian National lines will, it is expected, be taken up at the next meeting of the board of directors.

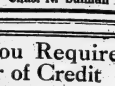

No definite date has been fixed for the meeting and it may not be held till after the return of Sir Henry Thornton, who is expected back towards the end of the month.

In explanation of any shortage in cars, it is observed here that present demands are extraordinary, due first to heavy movement of grain and coal, supplies of which were held up by strikes in the American coal fields.

A large number of cars, the property of the Canadian National system, are now on U.S. lines, their return having been delayed by recent American railway strikes.

HOW TO REGAIN YOUR GOOD HEALTH

IT CAN BE DONE THROUGH KEEPING THE BLOOD SUPPLY RICH AND PURE

There is not a nook or corner in Canada, in the cities, the towns, the villages, on the farms and in the lumber camps where Dodd's Kidney Pills have not been used, and from one end of the country to the other kind words have been said for this medicine.

You hear only to ask your neighbors whether they will tell you of some rheumatic or nerve-obstinate man, some suffering woman, ailing youth or anaemic girl who has been benefited by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For more than a third of a century these pills have been known not only in Canada, but throughout the world as a reliable tonic, blood-enriching medicine.

The success of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is due to the fact that they go to the root of the disease in the blood, and by making the vital fluid rich, they strengthen the organs and muscles of the body. Mr. A. M. Large, Victoria, P.E.I., adds his testimony to that of thousands of others who have found benefit through the use of this medicine He says:—"About three years ago I became dreadfully run down. So much so that I had to stop work altogether, and being a carpenter by trade, realized that the outlook was gloomy. I became so reduced that I would have to rest even after a short walk. My appetite almost completely failed. The doctor whom I consulted told me I would have to take a long convalescence. I used a bottle of medicine, which however, did not help me. Then a good friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I got a supply and before long felt an improvement. From that on I continued to gain and was able to resume my employment. I continued taking the pills to reome time longer and now feel as vigorous as I ever did."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Fall is the most severe season of the year for colds—one day warm, the next cold and wet, and unless the mother is on her guard, the little ones are seized with colds that may hang on all winter. Baby's Own Tablets are mothers' best friend in preventing the bandering colds. They act as a gentle laxative, keeping the bowels and stomach sweet and regular. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent colds, or if it does come on suddenly their prompt use will relieve the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Canadian Press Despatch

London, Nov. 4.—Lloyd George received a rousing reception from a great audience crowded into a common picture theatre when he appeared in support of his former colleague, Sir Hamar Greenwood, who opposed Liberal candidate Hogge, in the Liverpool Scotland division. Mr. Lloyd George declared that the policy of tranquility was dangerous. "It's not a policy, it's a panic," he said. The coherents of the late Government were not results of a mere negative policy. They were the results of initiative and hard work. "Avoid the extreme of socialism," he admonished," but let us also avoid the extreme of stand-stillism. A great nation like ours cannot stand still."

EX-KAISER WEDS; GREAT POMP AT CEREMONY

TRAIN POURS DOWN AS GUESTS ARRIVE. FORMER KAISER IN GEORGEOUS UNIFORM STANDS IN RAIN, THE FLOWING BEARD IS MISSING.

Doorn, Nov. 6.—William, dethroned Kaiser of Germany, has one new subject, since, according to the German ritual, the bride swears not only to obey, but "to be a subject" The ex-Kaiser received her and his guests standing at the doorway of Doorn pavilion. He was attired in the gorgeous uniform, with a yellow sash of the Order of the Black Eagle and all his decorations. He held his helmet in his hand, and with the breeze blowing through his hair, the ex-Kaiser took on a look of new youthfulness on his face, which no longer bears a full beard—only a small pointed beard remained. Three aides-de-camp flanked the ex-Kaiser. When rain started to fall he refused to enter the hall, and ignoring the umbrella held over him, he was manifestly disappointed at the absence of the famed Hohenzollern weather. Indeed there was a real, thorough Dutch rain.

Former Wife's Favorite Hymn.

A costly carpet strewn with ivy was laid at the entrance.

When the bride arrived the ex-Kaiser stepped forward and led her into the house, while the organ played the favorite hymn of the former Kaiserin. The big and most valuable prayer rug, given to the ex-Kaiser by another dethroned potentate, the Sultan of Turkey, formed the background for the altar, which served the first aktiserin at the Neue Palais in Berlin.

During the service the ex-Kaiser listened attentively to the sermon, which was not only an instruction to the newly wedded couple to abide in faith, hope and charity, but also an enthusiastic allusion to marriage of the former Kaiserin, telling the second one that love to her example.

The ex-Kaiser punctuated the sermon with affirmative nods, while the Princess listened demurely and with downcast eyes. At the end of the service the rings, which were lying on a historic gold plate of the time of Frederick the Great, were exchanged.

The priest said that no error in the rings could be made, since despite her apparent robustness, the bride has one of the smallest hands in Europe.

ASSAULTS WOMAN UNDER PROVOCATION

THANKSGIVING SERVICE ON MARKET STREET WAS REAL "GET-TOGETHER" AFFAIR

When the effects of "Oh-be-joyful" are in control of a man, and he is accosted on the street, and called a real, unparliamentary and bad name, he invariably starts something, even if it be a woman who "calls" him.

That's exactly what happened last night on Market street about 9 p.m. when a woman from the country in company with her brother, accosted a citizen with whom she had had previous friction, and the citizen started something too. The language used by the woman was as unladylike as could be, and it would be impossible for the citizen to be what he was called. He showed her away, so he said in court today when charged with assault. The woman in the case testified that he "shoved" her in the face two or three times, and threatened her brother, who accompanied her.

His Worship Mayor Hanna and Mr. H. F. Ketchenon presided in the absence of P. M. Masson, and found a mixed guilty of assault under provocation, and allowed him to go on payment of court costs of $3.

Besides that, he was fined $10 and $3 costs for drunkenness, as well as his companion.

EXCITEMENT IN CONSTANTINOPLE

Constantinople, Nov. 6th.—Exciting scenes are being enacted here following overthrow of the sultana government. The Allies have refused to comply with Kemalist demand to withdraw troops. There is danger that the violent enthusiasm of Nationalists may lead to bloodshed.

BRITISH PARTY CANDIDATES ARE READY FOR ELECTIONS

1,426 Nominees in Field for 558 Contests, With 56 Members Already Returned Unopposed—Twelve Additional Lloyd George Supporters Are Nominated Against Unionists—Premier and Ex-Premier Deliver Addresses on Saturday.

London, Nov. 6.—The latest figures of yesterday's nominations for Parliamentary candidates show that the position at the opening of the electoral battle stands as follows: There are 1,426 candidates for 558 contests, 56 candidates already having been returned unopposed.

The 1,426 candidates are distributed among the parties as follows: Conservatives, 474; Laborites, 414; Independent Liberals, 332; National Liberals, 152; others, 20. These figures, however, are necessarily only approximate. In places like Lincoln, Manchester and Salford there has been a reunion of Liberals, and the Liberal candidates, whether Independent or supporters of Lloyd George, are standing as Liberals, without any further label.

BONAR LAW AIMS TO WORK WITH OLD ALLIES

ADDRESSES AUDIENCE AT LEEDS —FOREIGN POLICY HARMONIOUS WITH FRANCE. AND ITALY.

Leeds, Eng., Nov. 6.—Additional details of the British Government's policy of "tranquility" were given by Prime Minister Bonar Law in an address before an audience of 9,000 persons here on Saturday.

While the main part of his speech was concentrated upon domestic policies and politics, he took occasion to reiterate emphatically that the Anglo-Irish Treaty would be given a fair trial, and that the root of his foreign policy would be to work with France and Italy.

Mr. Bonar Law said he had been bombarded with queries as to whether the British would leave Mesopotamia and Palestine.

"All I can say is that we shall examine the matter very carefully," he declared, "but we cannot, with honor, record as a nation, consider ourselves free in what we have to do; we must consider to what extent we are bound by obligations."

Stands by Leagues.

Referring to the League of Nations, he said it had worked under great difficulties, but had not done so badly, and that his Government would certainly try to give it scope for more effective action. He added that he had declared in a previous address that the British navy must be kept intact, but that he believed the whole centre of gravity was changing in the matter of national defense, and was being transferred from the sea to the air.

Referring to his predecessor he said: "Mr. Lloyd George is a man of amazing energy and astonishing vitality.

"Every difficult question at home or abroad he undertook to deal with himself.' I guessed do that, and if I had the wealth of Heralds and the wisdom of Solomon I would not try to deal with them that way."

Lloyd George Amazing.

The Labor party's program Mr. Bonar Law characterized as "amazing." If it had been a question of policies the Laborites would not have had a ghost of a chance in any constituency in the country. He was confident the Unionist party would have been in the majority, because the country knew that the pledges made by the Labor party were nonsense and could not be carried out.

"But now as we (the Unionists) are a united party it seems to me that we have a fine record of achievements to show itself—and I do not regret it—the tendency of the Liberals all the time is to draw together.

"To have tried to keep a party representing everything opposed to Labor against the Labor party and nothing else was the one way of making the Labor party strong, because it would have been the only alternative Government. But the workingmen who are not Socialists now have the choice of two parties, instead of having to choose between one and those supposed to represent them."

NEAR EAST SITUATION CAUSES ANXIETY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Nov. 7.—The surprising demands which the Turks have made upon the Allies in Constantinople since they took over the civil government there on Saturday, still cause a great deal of anxiety in London. The fact that the Nationalists has been intensified by the scarcity of news from Constantinople in the last thirty-six hours. The London newspapers treat the situation seriously and prominently.

CARS CRASH AT BUSY CORNER

"MAC" AND "MAX" COME TOGETHER ON SATURDAY EVENING.

On Saturday evening at 5.20 p.m. a Maxwell car owned by Mr. C. J. Bowell and driven by William Moy, and a Maxwell machine driven by Mr. Clapp of this city, came together at the corner of Front and Campbell streets.

The McLaughlin car was being driven north on Front street, and the Maxwell, which was being driven west on Front street, attempted to turn up Campbell when the smash occurred.

The side and the fender on the Maxwell were bent as a result of the accident, but no one was injured.

TOTAL DEAD FORTY

Spangler, Penn., Nov. 7.—Five more bodies were taken from the Berwind mine to the temporary morgue, this morning, bringing to the known dead up to forty. Rescue workers believe there are no more living miners in the mine. This would make the total dead sixty-one.

Belleville Chamber of Commerce Is the United Voice of the People Making for A Greater Belleville

Members of This Body Are Out to Promote the Success and Comfort and Happiness of Belleville Citizens, at the Same Time Reflecting This Condition in the Growth of Good Government, Good Laws, Good Fellowship and the Constant Backing of Fine Ideas Make This Body Essential in Every Community, and Belleville in Particular.

The Chamber of Commerce—what is its function—the benefits derived and how beneficial can this body be made to the community—what does it to a city and community?

These are the question asked by people outside the Chamber of Commerce, and the question of duty each commerce member must be fair-minded to. The leaders in business enterprises can be the leaders in civic big business. The men who are doing big things in a big way should devote a part of their time to doing good in their community in which they find their life's work and their field of progress.

A Greater Centre.

The Chamber of Commerce, can make a city a greater city. It all depends upon the make-up, alertness and the constitutionality of men of standing in the community sufficiently endowed with the pride of a city to glory in its achievements. To have love of city means not to stand idly by when there is progressing onward; to have faith in a city means to join in its upward to take an interest in municipal affairs. Cities can do little without the backing and influence of their men of prominence. Business men's measures fall by the wayside because of the inactivity of the best citizens. A city with a large population of paved streets and brick buildings beneath the blue sky, but is counted in the number of human hearts, and is gauged by the human things and needful for those of the and fireside.

Voice of the People.

A Chamber of Commerce in a city is the voice of the people and if the members of the body advance the views of the people, they can help to comfort the men and women within its circle. Comfort is the watchword of home and of industry. It is the keynote of success of every community.. The motto of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce has always been to "make Belleville a better place in which to live." It is always on the alert to secure new industries. But unfortunately economic conditions are such that building activities and business extensions are at a minimum.

Opportunity is Near.

With the return of trade a common basis for the business man and captain of industry with that of the men and those who go to make the Dominion the country that it is, a friendship for the promotion of industry and the neighborly feeling of citizenry in a municipality will make for every city a better and bigger family of stalwart citizens and defenders of British principles. The opportunity for doing onward movements is here. It is an organization such as the Chamber of Commerce must

FELL OFF BICYCLE, PAINFULLY INJURED

ALEX DUNLOP SUSTAINED GASH IN FOREHEAD AND INJURED NOSE ON THE HOLIDAY.

While riding a bicycle on Bridge street on Monday about noon, Alex Dunlop fell off the wheel when it skidded on the wet and slippery street, and was painfully injured.

The unfortunate lad was immediately carried into the barber shop at the Quinte Hotel, where he was attended until the arrival of a conveyance to remove him to the hospital. At the hospital it was necessary to close two ugly gashes, one on the forehead and one on the nose, after which the youth was taken home, having been in the hospital but half an hour.

Dunlop is an employee of the E. P. Dickens Ice Cream and Confectionery Company.

BRITISH TROOPS WON'T WITHDRAW

London, Nov. 7.—Authoritative sources say Britain will not agree to withdrawal of troops from Constantinople. British troops will remain in the neutral zone.

UNION SERVICE.

A Union Thanksgiving service was held on Monday morning at the Baptist church which was well attended. Rev. Ira L. Hawley pastor of Bethlaway Street church, delivered an appropriate sermon. The collection taken up was for the Children's Aid Society.

TAG DAY FOR BLIND DECIDED SUCCESS

MORE THAN $400 RAISED FOR NATIONAL INSTITUTE FOR BLIND

On Saturday last the citizens of this city were asked to contribute to the very worthy cause of the blind in the form of a Tag Day, and as usual the kind people of Belleville responded most graciously to this worthy appeal.

Those ladies in charge of the Tag Day announce that the Tag Day for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind netted the sum of $403.50. This is very much appreciated in helping this institution to carry on their wonderful work. Mrs. D. M. Waters was in charge of the arrangements of the work, and was ably assisted by Mrs. Coughlin, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Mitchell, Mr. Geo. Morse, Mrs. Dolan, Mrs. Blackburn and Mrs. Waters. Several special subscriptions are also coming in and with still more help increase the contribution from this district.

LLOYD GEORGE AT NEWCASTLE MEETING

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Newcastle, Nov. 7.—Lloyd George made some caustic references to the crisis which has arisen in the Near East, since his fall from the premiership, in the political address which he delivered before a large assemblage here today. The Near East he declared, is going to show symptoms of inflammation," he said, "and whatever happens, our flag must not be let down." Continuing with his speech he said that "we had gotten rid of the Turk, but he has looked at the list of new British Cabinet ministers and has come to the conclusion that this is the time to make increased demands."

"If the Government stands by the flag, my friends, I will be wholeheartedly behind them," was one of the statements made by the Little Welshman. "I entreat the Government to show the Turk that we will not be trifled with, and that the Turk must stand by the document signed at Mudania," was a sentiment strongly uttered several times.

TURK SOLDIERS MOBILIZE ALLIES REFUSE TO LEAVE

Demand That Warships Leave Straits One at a Time Under Permits From Angora Government Ignored—British and French Governments in Full Accord, Will Insist that the Terms of the Mudania Convention be Respected, and will Maintain Order and Security in Zones Occupied by Allied Armies.

ALLIES WILL NOT LOSE GRIP

Constantinople, Nov. 6.—Though the Nationalist civil power is located in Constantinople, the Entente does not intend for the present at least to lose its grip on the military authority. Great Britain and France are in accord on the point that the Turks must live up to the convention drawn up at Mudania and it is not doubted that the other interested countries will fall into line with this policy.

There is every desire, however, to treat the Turkish authorities with proper limit, and to this end the Allied commissioners to-day issued the following statement:

"The Inter-Allied High Commissioners are firmly resolved to observe strict, impartiality with regard to events which concern the internal policy of Turkey. The Allied generals will continue to exercise their control over the intervention and maintain order and security in the zones occupied by the Allied forces."

Replying to the last communication from Angora, concerning the Lausanne conference, the commissioners while announcing the wish to interfere with Turkish policy, express the hope that there will be no Turkish delay in relation to the conference.

London, Nov. 6.—The Allies have refused the Kemalists' unexpected demand for evacuation of Constantinople. It is stated in authoritative circles that in no circumstances will the Allies lose the point of view regarding the presence of Allied troops in Constantinople being changed. The British Government accepted the Mudania armistice agreement and remain in the neutral zone with their troops.

The Angora Government will be told, if matters are not changed, that the Lausanne conference will be postponed, chiefly because Italian Government states that they cannot prepare the desired data, by November 12, the date on which the delegates were to meet.

A Paris despatch says: "The French will insist that the Angora Government, and British Government, in the second, respect the terms of the Mudania agreement, and the decision by the High Commissioners in Constantinople based thereon up in that spirit. It is expected in French circles that the Kemalist authorities will accept the viewpoint of the Allies.

"This expectation was based upon the fact that the Turks, through excessive exactions, would risk the cooking of Kemalist agreements reached and ratified to them at Lausanne and, after Lausanne, when Turkey loses financial pressions.

AUTO ACCIDENT ON HIGHWAY

FOGGY WEATHER AND CONDITION OF ROADS OWING TO RAIN HELD RESPONSIBLE

The foggy weather which prevailed last night, together with the rather slippery condition of the roads owing to rain, which fell, was responsible for some car accidents, but fortunately so far as could be learned no one was seriously injured. Between the hours of 8 and 10 o'clock last night, Provincial police were called to investigate an accident on the Trent Road a short distance west of Jones' creek. No less than three motor vehicles were in the affray. It appears that an auto owned by Mr. Wm. Rose of this city and driven by Clement Shorey, was proceeding eastward towards the city when a collision occurred between an auto which was proceeding west, owned and driven by Mr. Ralph Gough, 616 Greenwood avenue, Toronto. The result of the impact was that Mr. Gough's car was smashed and Mr. Tower was cut upon the head and back by broken glass. Fortunately his injuries were not of a serious nature. The damage done to the Chevrolet car whilst considerable, did not prevent it being driven off on its own power.

A third Ford car which was following the Davidson car turned right around on the street - owing to the sudden jamming on of the brakes. The pavement at the time was slippery owing to the condition of the weather.

LOCAL PHYSICIAN IN CAR ACCIDENT

DR. TOWER CUT UPON THE HEAD AND BACK FROM GLASS OF BROKEN WINDSHIELD

At a few minutes before the noon hour on Monday, Thanksgiving Day, an automobile accident occurred on Front street resulting in damages to two automobiles, and injuries to Dr. Tower of this city. It appears that the doctor was in his Ford coupe which was facing north. He desired to turn around for the purpose of going south and whilst doing so, a Chevrolet car the property of Mr. J. E. Davidson of Toronto, being driven up Front street, side swiped the doctor's car with considerable force, the result of the impact was shattered the windshield of the coupe was smashed and Dr. Tower was cut upon the head and back by broken glass. Fortunately his injuries were not of a serious nature. The damage done to the Chevrolet car whilst considerable, did not prevent it being driven off on its own power.

A third Ford car which was following the Davidson car turned right around on the street - owing to the sudden jamming on of the brakes. The pavement at the time was slippery owing to the condition of the weather.

MEN'S LECTURE AT Y.M.C.A. MEETING

GEORGE A. GREGG OF KOREA GIVES INTERESTING TALK ON WORK AMONG KOREANS

On Sunday afternoon at the Y.M.C.A. a mass meeting for the men of the city was held, the speaker on this occasion Mr. George A. Gregg, who has had sixteen years' experience as Industrial Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. in Seoul, Korea, where he has labored among the natives, and was highly successful in teaching the Koreans to work with their hands.

Mr. Gregg spoke of the difficulty which Americans experience in meeting men of other races on equal terms. He tried, to show that as we live among them, and as we study them better, we find that at heart, they are much like ourselves. What is said and done, however, it is by no means easy to bridge the gap that separates the Oriental from the Occidental. One help in this respect is to learn their language. The missionary who masters their speech has already a wonderful grip on the people themselves. Another way is by simple friendship and hospitality. Taking part in their festivals and inviting them to our homes, will go a long way towards establishing closer relations and mutual respect.

Placing the native forward in positions of leadership and responsibility as fast as he is able to fill them not only serves to show us the qualities that are latent in him, but multiplies our efficiency by multiplying the number of workers.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.

Rev. A. S. Kerr, pastor of St. Andrew's church in this city, on Sunday at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Madoc village, preached anniversary and Thanksgiving sermons. There were large congregations at the and the discourses by Rev. Mr. Kerr were much appreciated.

AUTO ACCIDENT PROVES FATAL

A FORMER RESIDENT OF CANNIFTON KILLED AT MINNEAPOLIS

A telegram received in the city today conveyed the sad intelligence that Miss Agnes Walker was at Minneapolis, Minn., on Monday killed in an auto accident. No particulars of the unfortunate affair were given. Miss Walker was a former Canniftonian, being a daughter of the late Mr. John Walker. For some years she was engaged in the millinery business in this city and had resided in Minneapolis. An aged mother and two sisters survive. The sisters are Mrs. Chilvers, Chilvers, and Mrs. Thomas O'Hara of this city. Miss Walker was a member of the Bronson Cathedale church.

WORLD LEAGUE AGAINST ALCOHOL

(By Canadian Press)

Toronto, Nov. 6.—"That undoubtedly will be the greatest convention ever staged in the crusade against alcohol," said the forces of alcoholism in all its forms, will be held in this city from Nov. 9th to 15th, 1922, worldwide with about 6,000 delegates from practically every country under the sun, will be the biggest gathering which has ever the object in view of the World League Against Alcoholism, which has for its object the elimination by means of education and legislation, the total suppression throughout the world of alcoholism, which is the poisoning of body, germplasm, mind, conduct and society by alcohol.

Beginning a New Fight.

Representative of every known force in social reform, temperance organizations, churches, young people's societies, and Sunday schools, the gathering will mark the beginning of a new and intensified campaign against liquor traffic and be in expected that it will perfect large and complete plans for carrying on the international work. While it is being held under the auspices of the World League the gathering will be five great conventions in one: the annual prohibition convention, Dominion of Canada prohibition convention, Ontario provincial prohibition convention, the World's Student Federation and the International Enforcement Convention. Each convention will be attended by representatives of all the provinces of Canada, of the border states, and those particularly affected by run-running, together with National, Provincial and State enforcement officers with a view to arriving at a mutual understanding that will end the present outrageous border situation." The slogan of the enforcement convention is: "The run-runner must go." The convention of the Dominion Temperance Alliance will be an important one, as, aside from its relationship to the world-wide gathering, it will take steps in a new campaign for "a dry Canada," and it is predicted that no effort will be spared until the manufacture, sale, importation and transportation of liquor in any part of the Dominion have been made illegal by the laws of the Federal and Provincial Parliaments.

The three Joint Presidents of The World League—Right Hon. Lord Jones, York, England; Dr. Howard H. Russell, Westerville, Ont.; and Dr. Robert Hercod, Lausanne, Switzerland, will preside over the big gathering alternately, and the individual conferences of the various organizations which make up the whole will be in charge of their respective chiefs.

Objects Nearly Achieved.

In reviewing the work of the temperance forces in Canada for the suppression of the liquor traffic in a representative of the Canadian Press, Rev. Ben. H. Spence, Secretary of the Dominion Temperance Alliance and chief of the great convention, expressed his confidence that the object of his organization was coming its goal. Prohibition in Canada, he said, could never be effective while liquor is legally made and transported in any part of the Dominion. National prohibition could not be made safe in any nation while an adjoining nation permitted the traffic, and the campaign must be carried on with renewed vigor and energy until liquor was eradicated in every land and every clime, and the world side made safe against the ravages of "alcoholism in every possible form.

"This great movement has been given to us in Canada in trust," said Mr. Spence, "and so far as our experience will be of any help to others we are by our obligations bound to give it. This convention is the biggest thing ever put over in Canada and the greatest the temperance advocates of the world have ever attempted. We in Canada are particularly proud that this momentous gathering was given to Canada and that Toronto was the chosen city. It is a great honor to Canada and Toronto. But after all, in the sight of the league, "The world is my country, and all mankind are my brothers".

Speakers at Massey Hall.

The convention seat will be at Massey Hall, and the headquarters of the league at the King Edward Hotel. A truly remarkable program has been arranged for the gathering and outstanding speakers and temperance advocates from New Zealand to Japan and from Australia to Alaska will give at their time and their expert advice to the attainment of the objects in view. The list is a lengthy and comprehensive one and includes men and women from every walk of life. Special efforts have been concentrated in the interests of temperance and social uplift. Some of them are: Dr. W. G. Bakeman, New York, internationalist and physician; Rt. Hon. Lief Jones, York, England, President of the United Kingdom Alliance, and a joint President of The World League against Alcoholism; Dr. Robert Hercod, Lausanne, Switzerland, director of International Temperance Bureau, and joint President of the World League; Dr. Howard H. Russell, Westerville, Ohio, founder of the Anti-Saloon League of America, and a joint President of the World League; Dr. C. C. Weeks, Loydon, England; Dr. Robert S. Hammond, Sydney, Australia; Dr. P. A. Baker, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League and vice-president of the World League; Miss Anna Gordon, Evanston, Ill., president of the National W.C.T.U.; Miss Mary J. Campbell, of India; Miss Cora Frances Stoddard, Boston, Secretary of the Scientific Temperance Federation; Miss Agnes E. Slack, Derbyshire England, temperance writer and traveller; Rev. Gifford Gordon, Melbourne, Australia, Financial Director of the Victorian Anti-Liquor League; Tariel Prasad Sinha, Hindu temperance worker; J. Nijfel, Organizing Secretary of the Calcutta Temperance Federation of India; Wilson Stuart, London, England; Rev. Ben H. Spence, Secretary of the Dominion Alliance; Bishop James Cannon, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the World League; Dr. Wayne B. Wheeler, General Counsel of the Anti-Saloon League; Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, Grand Chief Templar, I.O.O.T.; Dr. Ira Landrith, president of the I.P.A.; Bishop; Mrs. Deborah Knox Livingstone, W.C.T.U.; Pastor G. Gallienne, of the Blue Cross Society of France; Dr. August Ley, Belgium, college professor and temperance worker; Dr. Albrechtsen, prominent temperance worker of Belgium; Pastor Van Kreveleu, Holland; Dr. E. J. Moore, Assistant General Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League; Larsen Lobet, Denmark, vice-president of the World League; Dr. H. A. Carre, one of the permanent International Committee of the World League; Rev. Dr. A. J. Barton, Secretary of Southern Baptist Convention; Dr. Clarence True Wilson, Secretary of the Temperance Board of the Methodist Episcopal Church; W. J. Allison, Glasgow, Scotland, secretary of the National Temperance Council of Scotland, and a member of the executive committee of the World League; Advocate G. Sidiropoulos, Greece; Rev. Epigmenio Velasco, Mexico; Takeshi Ukai, of the National Temperance League of Japan; Rev. John Dalley, of the Irish Temperance League; J. H. Carson, Montreal, president of the Dominion Alliance; Mrs. Gordon Wright, London, Ont., president of the Dominion W.C.T.U., and Hamilton C. Drury, premier of Ontario. The complete list of Canadian speakers has not been arranged.

There will be sessions daily—morning, afternoon and evening—and public mass meetings will be held on the opening Sunday afternoon and Monday and Wednesday nights. It is expected that large numbers of the delegates will occupy the pulpits of Toronto churches Sunday at morning and evening services. A great local choir will be tendered to the overseas delegates by the Canadian and United States delegates at the King Edward Hotel on the night of November 24.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union is holding its world and national meetings at Philadelphia during the first days of the world-wide convention, but it is expected will terminate in time to permit the delegates to attend the major part of the Toronto gathering.

For the accommodation of the delegates the Railways have arranged for special rates from all parts of Canada and the United States. The fares will be on the identification certificate plan. For the round trip, delegates from United States points and points in Canada outside Ontario, will pay fare and a half, and Ontario delegates fare and one-third.

KAISER'S CHOICE IS FORTUNATE

NEW WIFE DIFFERENT IN TEMPERAMENT FROM LATE KAISERIN

(Associated Press)

The Hague, Nov. 4—Gossip in Germany has it that the marriage (soon) now of former Emperor William of Germany and Princess Hermine of Reuss augures a far more wise and workable union than that between William and his first wife, Princess Augusta Victoria, which took place in February, 1881 and terminated just thirty years and two months later, when she died an exile from her beloved Potsdam.

There are many who are able to see much in common between the ex-Emperor and his bride-to-be, despite the difference in their ages; while both in 1881, when the whole German Empire was in festive attire to celebrate the marriage of its heir apparent, even the most optimistic were compelled to admit that the two royal actions could not have been farther apart had they been of different worlds.

Princess Augusta was shy, trustful, essentially feminine, a lover of home, and with no sympathy for pomp and ceremony. For more than twelve years of her married life she was a semi-invalid.

The bridegroom, on the other hand, was already feverishly active and possessed of insatiable ambition. He loved display, wore uniforms and was happy only when he could play a leading part before the whole world. Then were the differences that the world at large saw. Those who were intimate with either or both of the principals, however, knew that the private order of their lives was even farther from apartness.

In matters pertaining to love and marriage, Prince William had his own ideas, which he lived up to with almost noisy scrupulousness. He believed, first and always, that a man, whether he be exalted or not, should choose his wife as she would her gown—for qualities that would wear well. Intellectual strength or brilliancy, emotional vigor, and pronounced character were not among the qualities he looked for in a wife.

Fortunately, it was many years after her married life began that Princess Augusta had any important roles to perform, thus she managed to continue with her simple habits without provoking untriendly comment. She had no experience with Court life and knew little of anything about cities, therefore it was years before she mastered the details of her royal social status.

Yet with all their disparity of temperaments, those who had predicted an unhappy union for the Crown Prince, were forced, as the years wore on, to admit that their judgments had played them false. Never was there any well founded rumors of a separation, or even of disagreement. The political wiseacres, who never are able to assign a reason for all royal utterances or actions, were hopelessly at sea when one day Wilhelm issued a statement characterizing Empress Augusta as "a precious pearl; the type of all the virtues of the Germanic Princess. To her I owe it that I am able to tackle and perform in a cheerful spirit the difficult duties of my position."

Docile and understudied in affairs of state, Empress Augusta nevertheless was supreme within the palace walls. The accounts, the orders, the offices, the arrangement of the bill of fare, and the management of her seven children were under her immediate supervision. Once the Emperor told one of his officers that he wanted the young princes to learn the ex-Emperor was announced, still how to paddle a canoe. When the there are many households in Central officer mentioned this to the Emperor Europe which, profess to have an in-the refusal to hear of them taking timate knowledge of her character, such risks.

"But the Kaiser has already given the order," said the officer.

"That may be as you say," she replied, smiling, "he is the Kaiser of Germany, but I am the Kaiser of the nursery."

Princess Hermine, on the other hand, is understood to enjoy and respect all the royal traditions which Princess Augusta abhorred. While she is hardly known beyond the German borders, and seldom if ever was mentioned, even in the newspapers at Germany before her engagement to the Emperor, she is known as a woman of pronounced opinions and of a strong personality. She is a widow, and is said to be the richest woman in Germany. Her husband, Prince Heinrich XXVII, died in 1918, and left her a fortune estimated at $50,000,000.

CHAMBER COMMERCE IS VOICE OF PEOPLE

tance; the call fraternalism, as it were, for the betterment of all. It can be said that's city depends upon its business men for support. The city, no matter how large or small, is only as large or as small as the men of initiative make it.

Socio-Good Ideas

The duties of a Chamber of Commerce may thus be encouraging good government, to determine and help make laws, to comfort the worker and his family, to satisfy and promote good fellowship, in a civic undertaking, advancing the good of a community, and discouraging acts that retard the progress and the advancement of a municipality.

The growth of a city is the life of the city. The professional to the top rung of the ladder, SUCCESS, for the business and professional man in this world, is not solely gained by his financial standing, but by the deeds of home without the circle of his business.

All Work Together

Let not the spirit of unfair criticism mar the high standing of social life. Let there be a clear feeling of fraternalism. Let the employee bask in the satisfaction that he is the mainspring in the clock of industry, each man who stands at the lathe and the anvil plays the part with each blow of his sledge like the tick of the watch advances each second into the passing hour of the day.

To bring about benefits for the community as a whole, whether the community knows it or not, and to those things which no individual would attempt for lack of proper backing. Those are the things which a chamber of citizenship is built to accomplish.

Civic Spirit

You owe more than taxes to your town. Your taxes cover nothing but the minimum support necessary to governmental establishments. All that you add to this is what you owe to the community for what is spirit enable you to accomplish.

Belleville is dependent upon you. If you have vision, Belleville will grow rapidly, healthfully and satisfactorily. If you have not vision Belleville will largely remain the Belleville of to-day.

GRAIN GROWERS PASS FIRST DIVIDENDS

Reserves to be Tapped to Meet Losses—Position is Reported Unimpaired

Winnipeg, Nov. 5—No dividend is to be paid its shareholders by the United Grain Growers, Limited, for the financial year ended August 31, it is stated in a letter addressed by E. J. Fream, Secretary of the company, "to all shareholders," and published on Saturday in The Winnipeg Tribune.

"Your directors," it is said in the letter, "have been unable to declare a dividend for the current year, which is the first interruption in the payment of dividends since the company commenced operations in the year 1906. The reserves of the company will be drawn on to make good the losses."

Financial Position Strong

It is added that the financial position of the company "is still very strong and we have experienced no difficulty in arranging the necessary credits to carry on our business for the year," and that the shareholders "have every reason to look forward with confidence to the future of the company."

No intimation is given of the extent of the losses incurred on the year's business. Shareholders are told that balance sheets will be sent them in due course. The annual meeting of the company, of which Hon. T. A. Crerar is President, will be held in Calgary on November 23.

How Losses Are Explained

Explaining the cause of the losses, Mr. Fream reminds the shareholders that many of the company's shareholders and company elevators are located in districts "where the crops were especially poor last year."

"Substantial losses," it is added "were incurred in the machinery and supplies departments. The machinery has been revalued on a low basis, and no further losses in that department are anticipated."

Many important subjects will be under consideration at the annual meeting of the United Grain Growers, Limited, opening here on November 23. One—if not two—of its principal officers will tender his resignation. President Hon. T. A. Crerar, Leader of the Progressive party, may resign his position as head of the organization to devote his whole time to politics, while E. J. Fream, Secretary, has definitely signified his intention of doing so in order to become a member of the Alberta Public Utilities Board.

CANNING BUDGET FOR A YEAR

By L. F. Burrows, Secretary, Canadian Horticultural Council.

According to a certain announcement, certain nutrition specialists or Cornell College of Agriculture, are working on a canning budget that will serve as a guide for the amounts of canned fruits and vegetables needed to keep a family of five well nourished for a year.

The budget recommends the use of tomatoes four times a week, green vegetables six times, starchy vegetables, 130 quarts of green vegetables, 50 quarts of starchy vegetables, 220 quarts of fruits and 40 quarts of conserve, jam and jellies.

Because of the presence of anti-scorbutic and water-soluble vitamins, the budget says, tomatoes are provided in quantity, but the use of conserves at certain seasons of the year may somewhat decrease the amount of tomatoes used. Either oranges or tomatoes are desirable for children throughout the year.

The amount of vegetables stored, it continues, such as cabbages or celery, affect the quantities of green vegetables provided by the canning budget, and the amount of fresh or dried fruits such as apples, prunes and oranges used during the year, must also be considered in estimating the amount of fruit to be canned.

DEATH OF REV. DR. BRIGGS

WELL - KNOWN METHODIST CLERGYMAN WAS ONCE STATIONED IN BELLEVILLE.

Rev. William Briggs, D.D., former Steward of the Methodist Book Room, and one of the outstanding figures in the Canadian Methodist Church, died on Sunday morning at the residence of his son, A. W. Briggs, K.C., Port Credit. For the past two months the veteran preacher-publisher had been in failing health. Although he fought for life with all the resources of an unusually vigorous constitution, two weeks ago he was forced to take to bed. From that time on his condition gradually grew worse, and by the middle of last week friends and associates had recognized that the end was inevitable. He was in his 87th year.

Few men in Canadian Methodism were as well known as Rev. Dr. William Briggs, Toronto, preacher and publisher. His kindly smile and whole-hearted, backed up by a serene disposition and heartening wholesomeness made him and lasting friendships for him throughout Canada. The passing of William Briggs will be genuinely mourned from one end of the Dominion to the other.

Not only was Dr. Briggs possessed of a nature that made and kept friends; he was an eloquent preacher, and a man of business. His many years of service as Book Steward and Publisher in the Methodist Book Room, Toronto, brought him into contact with Church people in every section of the country, and in his later years of usefulness he was probably better known as the Book Steward than as a preacher.

When, owing to his advanced age, Dr. Briggs retired from this office a few years before his death, he also gave up preaching, though for some years previously he had occupied but comparatively few pulpits, and then only on certain special occasions. For many years he was a much sought-for preacher at Church Anniversaries in various parts of the country, and an announcement that Rev. Dr. Briggs was to preach was invariably followed by a crowded church.

Of Irish and Scottish descent, William Briggs was born at Banbridge, County Down, Ireland, on September 9, 1838. He was educated at Wesley College, Montreal, where he graduated from the College Institute. He afterwards acquired a commercial training in Liverpool. He came to Canada while still a young man. Mr. Briggs was received "on trial" in the Methodist Church at Durham, Province of Quebec, in 1859, and ordained in 1862. He was stationed at Cobourg, Ont., and Belleville, and again at Toronto, the Metropolitan Church here being his last important charge.

The special abilities of Dr. Briggs in church matters were recognized by the Conference in which he was at various times stationed, and he was secretary of several of them. He was President of the Toronto General Conference in 1885. He was a delegate to all Methodist General Conferences while he was in the active pastorate. In 1894 he was a delegate to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States in 1881. He was a delegate to the Methodist Ecumenical Conference in Washington, D.C., in 1891, and to the Ecumenical Conference in London, Eng., in 1901. He was also a delegate to the Ecumenical Conference in Toronto in 1911.

In the course of his busy life Dr. Briggs served as President of the Methodist Social Union of Toronto, and was also President of the Master Printers' Association. He was a member of the Senate of the Toronto University in 1886. He was a member of the committee of the Twentieth Century Thanksgiving Fund, 1898; a member of the Committee of the Ecumenical Conference in 1901; a member of the Board of Regents of Victoria University in 1906 and 1907; a member of the Joint Committee which reported on the Japanese Methodist Church in 1906; and Vice-Chairman of the Local Executive Committee on the Fourth Ecumenical Conference,

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

It seems to be common to all humans to desire to get something for nothing. It is this desire that prompts the sterner sex to "play the ponies" and lay wagers on various kinds of events. It is the same spirit that causes the ladies to flock around the bargain centres. We all have traces of this trait, whether we wish to acknowledge it or not. Even business men appreciate the fact, and offer in various ways to give away "free", certain articles. As time goes on, more and more methods are devised to deceive the consuming public, and as the public like to be fooled, the originators of these more or less ingenious schemes, prosper.

When the matter is finally sifted down to facts one comes to the inevitable conclusion that anything we get free is not of much consequence, except in very rare instances.

If a business house gave away its product, it is not likely that the average individual would place much confidence in that product. If a fair price was paid, the purchaser would more than likely make use of it, in order to get something in the form of a return from his investment. Thus down a long list of products we could go, but we would soon learn that we do not appreciate things that are free. An article that is purchased, no matter how insignificant it might be, assumes a certain importance if we obtained it through a legitimate transaction.

It is well that it is so, because the basic ideas of our financial endeavours are formed on the principle of obtaining fair prices for articles produced. To ensure continuing on sound economic grounds a price that gives a profit must be obtained. Free articles never produce a profit.

Thus it is well to investigate the conditions under which free articles are distributed. Some one has to "pay the piper," in every case. Invariably one finds that anything that is obtained for nothing does not possess much real value. Therefore it is wise not to depend too much on anything obtained in this way. It may disappoint you in the end.

LEVEL CROSSINGS

At a meeting of the Board of Railway Commissioners held in Belleville a few days ago, the Canadian Pacific Railway expressed a desire to replace with a mechanical device the watchman now stationed at the level crossing of the C.P. and C.N.R. Railways and the provincial highway running between Belleville and Trenton. Evidence was produced to show that the rail as well as the vehicular and pedestrian traffic was very heavy, and that there is not the slightest doubt but that all traffic will increase steadily The angle at which the highway crosses the railway is such as to screen the danger over that of an ordinary right-angle crossing. In short it was, without a doubt, shown that this crossing possesses many dangerous characteristics.

It seems folly on the part of the railways to attempt to show that a mechanical wig-wag and electric bell are less liable to failure than a watchman, "who might fail to hear the whistle of a locomotive," or to state that "an engineer might fail to whistle for the crossing." Locomotive engineers are trained men, whose personal safety depends on their obeying rules and regulations. They are keenly alert when on duty, and the failure of an engineer to whistle, should surely be such a remote possibility as to permit us to dismiss it from our minds. Now crossing watchmen should be chosen with the idea in mind of the responsibility they bear. They should be just as carefully chosen as locomotive engineers. Of course, if the railways simply comply with the letter of the law and have merely a man at the crossing, regardless of his qualifications, why, it is little short of criminal negligence on their part.

Now mechanical devices are usually electrically operated with apparatus MORE OR LESS susceptible to the elements of rain, water, and wind, which tend to disturb, if not put out of commission, these electric circuits. Then, too, the public has not been educated to look for the many odds and ends of warning signs to catch the eye. These should be standardized, before they are placed in general service in lieu of watchmen. Furthermore, at night a difficulty arises as the law requires the rays of auto headlights not to be projected more than 42 inches above the ground and thus these signals, usually placed high above the road level, are somewhat indiscernible. The above the road level, are somewhat indiscernible. The closed car has largely reduced the efficiency of the bell signals, and they are no longer considered adequate.

The public need a human watchman at such crossings and should never permit his removal. If the railways want to use electric and mechanical signals, let them use them to keep their own watchmen on the alert. We are told that more accidents occur from the failure of the human element than from the failure of mechanical contrivances. We do not think, in this case, it quite represents the situation, and we assured that maximum protection can only be obtained through the medium of a competent watchman.

PRESS OPINIONS

CANADA'S DOLLAR ABOVE OURS

(New York Herald)

As measured on its home soil, the Canadian dollar is taller now by a fraction of a cent's width than the dollar of Uncle Sam. A Toronto street car conductor has refused an American dollar on the ground that it was not worth its value. Canada and that he must protect his employer's interests. Is it true that the source of the story is that the owner of the disputed Yankee dollar complained to the railroad management and the conductor was reprimanded, "But the fact remains. Our dollar is below par in Canada. That our northern neighbor should be proud of this is natural. It is only a short time since Canadian currency was at a discount of 16 or 17 per cent. in United States money.

The change registers a story of prosperity and sound business conditions which any country would have a right to be proud. Several things have combined to bring about this happy state of affairs.

In the first place, Canada has turned an adverse balance on international trade into a favorable balance, and, of course, the very foundation stone of foreign exchange is imbedded in foreign trade balances.

Again, Canadian Government and industrial affairs have met very favorable receptions in American money markets, with the resultant flow of large sums across the border.

Large amounts of money have been spent in Canada by bootlegging outlaws. A substantial item to Canadian prosperity came from these two sources.

American motor car tourists have contributed to it importantly. In the last twelve months 600,000 American motor cars crossed the border into Canada. On the basis of an assumed seven-day trip and the expenditure of $25 a day for each car it is computed by Canadian statisticians that the total of American money thus left with our neighbor reached upward of $100,000,000. This is not a staggering amount, to be sure, in these billion dollar days, but it is a tidy sum.

Canada may well be exultant over the recovery of her currency.

HERE AND THERE

ICEBERG GIVES UP ITS DEAD.

Bidding for ten centuries through the uncharted seas of the Arctic Circle, traversing many thousand miles of snow and silence, perhaps pushed by the ever-grinding ice-cap to the North Pole itself, the body of a Viking a thousand years old has been returned at last to civilization. Encased from head to heel in a frozen winding sheet that preserved it more perfectly than any Egyptian mummy, the Viking's body was discovered by Danish sealing vessels upright in a huge iceberg cast up on the east coast of Greenland, says "Popular Science Monthly." It towered before their amazed eyes like an incredible phantom-ship, ten feet tall, clad in red ancient armour, gripping spear and shield, head crowned with the winged helmet of Norse Royalty, the features still visible within the transparent tomb of ice. Men with axes chopped away the natural casket. Then the Viking stood as unmarred by time as though he had died but yesterday.

He was not dried up or shrunken. The skin was white and firm. The hair of the head and the beard was golden and red as in his day. The iceberg had kept him imperishable for posterity. The body is being taken to Copenhagen. Three scientists will endeavour to perfect the process of preservation by the injection of chemicals. If they are successful the body of the Viking in the Copenhagen museum will be the most remarkable relic on earth. Millions will come to stare at the Norseman who lived and loved and fought a thousand years ago.

The Viking, with his royal winged helmet, may be no less a celebrity than Leif Erickson, "Erik the Red," famed in saga and rune as a dauntless voyager, believed by many historians (who base their assumption on authentic findings) to have even landed on the shores of America four hundred years before Columbus steered the Santa Maria into harbour at San Salvador.

THE TRAGEDY OF WISDOM.

The proverb has it that in the country of the blind the one-eyed man is king. This is a mistake. In the country of the blind the one-eyed man would not be a king; he would be an outlaw.

Superiority, of which we all strive, isolates.

Any man with more genius, more talent, more money, higher social position, or greater physical or moral strength than his fellows finds himself, to a degree, cut off from their sympathy.

This is one reason why we love the sinners and slump the saints.

We really are not above us.

Melville Davisson Post has written a most remarkable book entitled "The Mountain School-Teacher." It illustrates the point just made above. It tells of a young man who comes into a country-district in the South, and, among a population that is ignorant, prejudiced, and narrow, by himself wise, tolerant, and clear-eyed.

The result, as may be supposed, is tragedy.

In this story it is a very beautiful tragedy.

In the making of books there is no end, and it is

I regard Post, Harvey O'Higgins, and Herbert Quick as the three most characteristically American and three all-round best fiction writers in the country.

Of course, taste in literature varies, much as taste in tobacco and neckties, and all preferences of opinion are largely personal.

All I can say is that to me this book, "The Mountain School-Teacher," is an undiluted joy. It is simple, yet profound. The strokes are laid on the picture with the broad, sure brush of a master.

There is a story told, and the author tells it directly and with force. There are descriptions, but just enough to give atmosphere and not enough to indicate auto-intoxication.

There is no attempt at literature or fine writing.

And the theme is smashing. It is the tragedy of wisdom.

We have often wondered why the people crucified Jesus Christ, and why the mass of men just naturally seem to hate anybody that is supposed to be better, by nature, than they are. It really is not because such persons are better. It is because they are wiser. It is because they see, while the others are blind. It is because they think in terms the others merely juggle catch phrases. It is because they understand, and there is nothing so irritating to the tradition-bound mind as plain common sense.

This is not a religious book. There is nothing directly or indirectly said about religion in it. And yet it sheds more light upon the nature and character of Jesus than any religious book I ever saw.—Dr. Frank Crane.

THE RED CROSS SOCIETY.

Canadians had reason during the war to admire the efficiency, resourcefulness and energy of the Red Cross Society, which rendered such untiring and valuable service on behalf of Canada's overseas forces.

From what the Ontario branches of the Society have been able to accomplish in assisting the Northern Ontario fire sufferers, it is evident that the Red Cross is as necessary and as valuable an organization in the piping days of peace as it was during the war years.

No sooner had the news of the disaster "broken" than the Ontario division of the Red Cross offered its services to the Government, and the Society's director, Dr. F. W. Routley, and superintendent of nursing, Miss Laura Holland, went north with emergency organization kits on the first relief train to leave Toronto, taking a leading part in the immediate relief work. In a short time the Red Cross had placed a staff of eleven nurses on duty in the burned area and had established two emergency hospital outposts at Englehart and Haileybury. It is the intention of the Society to maintain a staff at these hospitals during the winter and to remain in the field co-operating with the official agencies and using every effort to enable the fire sufferers to maintain their health.

It is pleasing to note that this good work has been officially recognized by the appointment of Mrs. H. P. Plumptre as Red Cross representative on the personnel fail in order that he may marry the star. The prospective mother-in-law who has held other ideas for the future of her daughter, intervenes again and more complications follow.

The plot is unusual and is well connected throughout. Scenes not commonly shown on the stage are enacted and the versatile talents of the Rex Company are given ample opportunity. The presentation was well acted and was greatly appreciated by the large audience. The hilarious situations were fully capitalized by the company, as was shown by the repeated laughs they created.

Rex Beckmere very ably portrayed the part of the lover who never acted before. Zana Vaudie as Miss Dean, an ill- looking lady, perfectly interpreted the part of the love sick girl who did not want to act." Wm. Yule as Mac, proved the producer made the most of a very important character. Rex took every advantage of the many stations to play up the humorous side. The stage manager was played by Vic Seymour, who was in trouble all the time. Gloria Machan and Howard Brown as actors out of a job and who were taken on by their friend Rosenbaum added greatly to the merit of the play. The vaudeville between acts was greatly appreciated, and served to suit in the intermissions.

RICHES

Gone are the morning,
Gems of the wood,
Gold of the sun-painted sky,
Lilac & orange, who begs for my bread,
Or silver I've naught, but I've something
Many precious that money can buy.
The morning's soft gray,
The great, wooded way,
And rich gold in the flame of the sky.

Tone of the wild bird,
Lilt of the brook,
Song of the wind in the pine,
I own a lover who wanders afar,
Who earth is my bed and my candle
a star,
And where are there treasures like mine!
The wood thrush's tune,
The whistler's proud croon,
And the wing as it sings in the pine.

Sweet as red clover,
Fragrance of rain,
Perfume of new mown hay.
I who have nothing am richest of all.
The sunset, the blossom, the song-bird's clear call
Are mine, for the nothing to pay.
The breath of a flower,
A rain scented hour,
And the subtle, sweet odor of hay.

FEATURES OF THE MODE.

Long coats, to keep the pace with the long skirts. A prevailing straight-nese about. Emphasis on the sleeves. High-rolling collars. Short box coats, or blouses loose snugly banded at the hips. A coat many capes. So four fulness the fashion, while they attend to their ordinary business of keeping us warm. We are wearing coats of Hudson seal, broadtail, mink, squirrel and mole. Sports models come in raccoon and muskrat. And for around car necks, we still like whole fox skins.

A genius little poke made entirely of beads with twisted silver ribbon around it, is the last word in dance hair dress from Paris.

For evening the Parisienne now wears a wreath of velvet leaves scooped low forehead and hair and a front of diamond dust covers the leaves, while leaves of light-blue velvet hiding the forehead and the ends of formerly bobbed hair are "le dernier cri," particularly if the same blue shade is repeated in the sash and the little dancing slippers.

The Daily Recipe

CHOCOLATE CARMELS.

Once cup of sugar, one, also,
Molasses filled with one of milk,
Small spoon of butter these, you skew.
With Chocolate, grated fine as silk
Unsweetened, too, a quarter pound,
Are steamed by stirring 'round and 'round.
This mixture's boiled until it's done
Creaking in water proves true,
Then into buttered pans it's run,
Includ-ink or even less will do;
Now one thing more and all is told
Mark off in squares when nearly cold.

TIPS TO HOUSEWIVES.

Plain boiled macaroni makes a good sweet served with a delicately flavored custard.

When preparing to hem table linen carry the threads that are pulled in straightening the edge. Then, when the linen comes to the mending stage, use those threads you have saved to darn it with. The result is that the mended place is scarcely noticeable.

Never permit anyone to enter the house under the guise of gasman, inspector, etc., without showing proper credentials.

Never tell a stranger at your door that there is no one at home but yourself.

Never sign a paper of any kind for a stranger or alleged agent without a thorough investigation.

HOW WILL THE WOMEN VOTE?

U.S. Politicians Still Unable to Foretell the Feminine "Swing"

(Associated Press)

Washington, Nov. 7.—"What will the women do?" now is the question on the lips of innumerable political candidates and managers, and most of them admit that the answer will not be known until after the votes on November 7 are counted.

The "woman's vote" is a big factor in many campaigns, congressional and gubernatorial as well as local in the present campaign, and veteran political leaders, of the male persuasion at least, declare it remains an unknown factor in most cases. In many campaigns, the woman, it is said, hold the balance of power and the election will swing as the feminine votes fall. "Dry" candidates, for the most part, are relying heavily upon feminine support while in some congested centres the "wets" are claiming a share, or majority of the women vote.

Women have secured the ballot generally so recently that the male politicians, according to information here, have not yet "gotten a line" accurately on feminine action at the polls. Women's organizations have been built up within both Republican and Democratic parties and also the Socialist and prohibition, but these organizations have have not yet begun functioning. It is said, with the accuracy of the male element. Women speakers are numerous and women voters have been polled, card-indexed and otherwise corralled on paper, but astute politicians declare that it still remains impossible to forecast the "swing" of the feminine voters to any point of accuracy. Even the number of women voters on November 7 is uncertain, despite registration requirements. Heavy primary voting, it is declared, does not insure a 100 per cent. vote of women on election day.

Women cast their largest vote in the 1920 presidential election, after ratification of the suffrage amendment, but future feminine voting is expected to be much larger. The total popular vote cast in 1920 was about 26,660,000 as compared with 18,626,000 four years before. While politicians do not believe that the total increase was due to woman suffrage, they are sure that a large electors was of the feminine sex, previous presidential years showing proportion of the female vote of but comparatively small increases. The politicians doubt, however, that the feminine interest in the congressional by-election will be as large as two years ago.

LINKED LIVES

By

D. Kinmount Roy

After a moment's silence he said, looking kindly at the man, who was busy cleaning his master's pistols and in the act of snapping one of them to make sure that it worked smoothly:

"Would you like to enter my service permanently? I have much need just now of a faithful man like you."

"Yes, sir," Lawson answered, looking up with a smile of satisfaction upon his honest face.

"Of course," Aynsworth continued, "I will do the best I can for you, Lawson."

"I know that, sir," he answered with what might be a touch of feeling in his voice, and continued gazing at his master, though unobserved.

A few hours afterwards as it was drawing towards evening, Aynsworth, who had been occupied most of the day writing in his note-book, returned to their previous conversation. "There certainly is a Divine Ruler over the affairs of men," he said; "a Power, a beneficent Power guiding their blind and blundering footsteps and redeeming their broken lives."

"Yes, sir," Lawson answered as usual, watching his master meanwhile, with a curious intensity.

"I left England," he went on, as though reviewing his own thoughts, "with no real hope of ever being able to clear up a strange occurrence which concerns me more than the most unexpected way—by the mercy of God—I am returning with every proof possible in my own possession."

"Surely!" Lawson ejaculated, with evident interest.

"Yes, without doubt, his master repeated with a sigh of thankfulness as he rose and, reverently uncovering his head, stood a moment in silence amid the stillness of the forest. Lawson's hands worked at his task rapidly, nervously in fact, so intense was his interest in what he had just heard! he worked unconsciously, for his thoughts were elsewhere. A light breeze had suddenly sprung up meanwhile and sighed dreamily among the pines; still Aynsworth stood in deep thought, uncovered. Just then a weird wail in the trees above them startled both men, and presently something rushed past them, but in the obscurity of the dense undergrowth it was impossible to tell what it might be. Lawson started in extreme terror, and clutched at a branch to keep himself from falling, clinging to it with every sign of fear and misery trembling like an aspen. Aynsworth looked at him in wonder. "What! Afraid!" he said with a touch of haughty amazement.

"Was it a dog, sir?" Lawson gasped.

"Oh, no, I think not," his master answered with perfect indifference, though leisurely strolled on among the trees. The incident had no significance of any sort for him, but for Lawson it was like a warning from the abyss. He tried to speak his throat was dry, his lips parched, his whole frame quivering, he swayed for an instant like a man intoxicated, and would have fallen but for the branch to which he still clung. He tried to move after his master, but only fell back against the trunk of the tree. Had Aynsworth turned to look, he must have seen a strange and pitiable object. He was stretching out his hands imploringly in the direction of the retreating figure. His fingers worked convulsively, he put them to his throat and tore frantically at his neck-cloth, but no words came; his face twitched as though in the grip of some frightful spasm, then he collapsed, a dismayed and terror-smitten heap. The momentary upheaval, whatever it meant, had passed, and the man looked like a lost soul.

It was more than two hours before Aynsworth returned. The sun had set, and the after-glow in every shade of matchless colour glorified wood, waterfall and mountain. War was indeed abroad, and the vultures were feasting to the full; men were not only battling in arms, but with strong passions, in which they often suffered defeat; but nature, serene and undisturbed, was pursuing her own unfathomed destiny, unimpressed and unmoved, as she had done for countless centuries of the past, and as she will continue to do throughout all the centuries to come. And yet there is behind all this tangled web of human pain a Supreme Will and a Supreme Good.

Aynsworth met La Force as he expected, returning to camp, bringing a guide with him as he had promised. Julian Calliot, the new guide, was a man of about thirty, well-built, and compact of frame, with keen dark eyes and alert in all his movements.

Aynsworth gave him a cordial welcome. He was heartily sorry to part with the farmer and his son; they had lived a free, healthy life with nature for weeks, and man and man had been brought into sympathetic touch. The mere accidents of position, the artificial distinctions which grow up under other circumstances, had vanished, and they had become hearty comrades and friends; and now they parted with mutual regrets, believing they would never meet again. Lawson for some reason did not take kindly to the new guide, and more than once Aynsworth at the plans Calliot considered necessary to their progress. He reasoned about it, but was less communicative on his return than he had been. Occasionally Calliot met him on his way to camp, and although it was quite accidental, Lawson grew suspicious and complained to Aynsworth that his movements were watched, and that the

The Short Story Jr.

Ethel and Esther were twins. They had never been separated a day in their lives until Esther became ill and was ordered out west by the family physician. There was not enough money for both of them to make the trip, so Ethel had to stay at home with her mother.

At first Esther was miserable, and they began to think the change in climate would do no good. "Oh, dear," she would sigh, "if I could only see Ethel I know I would be better, what do you suppose she is doing now?"

One day she fell asleep and suddenly she and Ethel were together again. They were going on a picnic, jumping across little streams, racing through the tall grass, climbing to the tops of hills, building a fire in a hollow, and frying bacon and eggs over the blaze.

She awoke with a smile on her face, the first she had worn since she came west. After that all that Esther wanted to do was sleep. She would lie still all day and try to fall asleep, but without any exercise she found it very hard.

One day she heard the doctor tell the nurse, "If she would only exercise, then she would be able to sleep." The next day Esther was up and went for a short walk. Of course, she could not go far, and as she was very weak, but that night she slept again and dreamed of her sister, and again they went out in a wonderful dream picnic.

Every day Esther would exercise more and more and every night she went on longer trips with her sister in her dreams. Her sleep was an sweet and sound and the exercise did her so much good that soon the doctor said she was well enough to go home.

Esther came to meet her at the station with a large covered basket.

"Now we would have when you were well enough and came back I have made up my mind not to lose any time and then we are going on our first scout."

Esther laughed happily. "Those dream picnics are what cured me," she said, "but I believe I prefer a real one just the same."

Foreign Dolls — Lolly-Pop Folks for You to Make

No. 10. The Hawaiian Maiden

(This is one of the very quaint little people from foreign lands. You'll find them just the thing for party favors and table decorations, and while you're making them you'll learn a lot about those boys and girls of other countries dress.)

The Hawaiian maiden, in her fly-away skirt, can dance and play the ukelele and is a fine swimmer. Like all her people, she is very fond of flowers and makes lovely wreaths of them to hang around her neck or decorate her long hair.

She has a taffy-colored lolly-pop head with wire arms and legs covered with tan crepe paper. The ends of the wire are bent into loops to form her hands and feet. Her long black hair, made of fringed paper pasted to the lolly-pop head, hangs almost to her waist!!

To make her skirt, cut several narrow strips of brown paper, then crush the paper, stretch it out, and fringe. Use several thicknesses for the skirt; pasting it onto the bodice; which is made of flesh colored crepe paper. She wears a lovely wreaths of the same strips of narrow orange-colored paper braided together, and jingly bracelets of strips of gold-colored paper with the ends pasted to make circlets.

ARGOS AND TIGERS PLAY TIE GAME

CONACHER SCORES ALL POINTS FOR DOUBLE BLUE—6000 FANS SEE GAME

Hamilton Tigers playing with rare dash and confidence, battled to a tie with Argonauts to 13-13 score in Toronto on Saturday afternoon, and, even if put out of the running for the Interprovincial championship, went back to Jungletown satisfied that they had lived up to advance notices as being one of the best teams in the East. The fighting Bengals said Conacher, better than any other team has done this season, but they could not prevent him from proving that he is the peer of all backfield men in the land, as well as Conacher's wonderful playing which enabled Argos to escape without a defeat.

Previous to Saturday the Double had won thirteen consecutive games, and perhaps the "double number" had a lot to do with the even game. The locals may have had a shade in their favor, but this is debatable. The Tigers tore into the wing line with courage and reckless abandon, and the Double Blue front line cared in when it should have held tight.

QUEEN'S EASILY OUTPLAYS McGILL

Strengthened Red and White line-Up Loses at Kingston, 35 to 10.

Kingston, Nov. 5.—Queen's University remains undefeated in the Intercollegiate football series, scene. The locals won from McGill here Saturday afternoon by 35 to 10 without much effort, and put themselves in the lead of the league to such an extent that a loss to University of Toronto here next Saturday would mean a tie and a play-off. The McGill representatives showed great improvement over their previous displays this season, despite the loss of Flanagan, the star backfield player. The reappearance of Don Ballfie at quarterback stiffened the defense perceptibly and improved the attack, and it is safe to say that their steadier showing would have been much better under his generalship. The Red and White players put up a "game" fight against almost certain defeat and did their best during the full sixty minutes.

ARLESS FUND GROWS.

Montreal, Nov. 6 — Approximately $7,500 has been received toward the establishment of the Allan Aiken Memorial Trust Fund, according to the estimate of officials of the Montreal Football Club. Full returns from the sale of seats have not been made, but it is estimated that today's gate at the Argo-M.A.A.A. game amounted to about $5,800, while $708 was realized through the sale of programs.

FRANK ZUNA WINS ROAD RACE

WINS THANKSGIVING ROAD RACE FOR HERALD CUP.

Hamilton, Nov. 6.—Setting a pace which forced his opposition to drop in the rear after 15 miles of the journey had been covered, Frank Zuna, Newark, N.J., unattached, won the Hamilton Herald's annual Thanksgiving road race around Hamilton Bay this morning. He finished the nineteen miles, 168 yards in 1 hour 30 minutes and 30 seconds. Jimmy Dellow, Toronto, the little Gladstone Athletic Club contender, was second, two minutes behind and Arthur Scholes, Toronto, of the same club third, a minute later. Seven Gladstone Athletic Club color bearers finished.

When Albert Smoke was eliminated from the contest, through an injury to his ankle, while in training, it was expected that Dellow and Scholes would fight it out first and second. Zuna came with a good reputation, but he was not looked upon as the winner.

Off to a good start the field kept well together for the first few miles, when the weaker performers began to drop by the wayside. Five quit before the end was reached. Zuna, Dellow and Scholes were well together until the 11-mile post, when Scholes showed signs of tiring and slackened his pace.

DELLOW HUNG ON.

Dellow hung on gamely and raced neck and neck with Zuna as they rounded the 13th mile post for the home stretch. It was here that the American visitor showed his real class.

As foah almost as when he heard the pistol shot, Zuna increased his speed for the hill climb to home and gradually pulled away from Dellow, Scholes was able to hold the balances of the field safe.

Charles Morton, of Hamilton, finished fourth, after a good exhibition and won the special prize for being the first Ambitious City boy to cross the tape. Morton showed improved form.

It was the 26th race and attracted a field of 21 starters. For years the late J. M. Harris, president of the Herald Printing Company, had officiated as starter, but his place to-day was taken by R. B. Harris. P. J. Jones acted as assistant.

DISAGREEABLE TRIP

Bad weather made the long trip a disagreeable one for the runners, but the route was in fair condition. Zuna was about four minutes away from the mark of 1.40.15, made by James Duffy in 1912.

Of the sixteen to finish all were in the best of condition and fresh. The first three were presented with large silver cups by Mayor Copley at the Varsity Bowling Club game this afternoon at Scott Park.

Norman General, Brantford; Edward Ponce, Buffalo; Tom Ellis, Hamilton; Gordon Brand, Jordan and Harold Carter, Central Y. Toronto, did not complete the grind.

Those who finished and their time were as follows:—

Frank Zuna, unattached, Newark, N. J., 1.50.30.

James Dellow, Gladstone A.C., Toronto, 1.52.51.

Arthur Scholes, Gladstone A.C., Toronto, 1.53.27.

Charles Morton, Y.M.C.A., Hamilton, 1.55.51.

Frank Welling, Welton A. C., Buffalo, N. Y., 1.56.57.

Percy Wyer, unattached, Toronto, 1.58.06.

Emle Begley, Gladstone A.C., Toronto, 1.59.25.

Philip Granville, Y.M.C.A., Hamilton, 2.00.39.

Francis Hughes, Y.M.C.A., Hamilton, 2.02.17.

James Shaw, Gladstone A.C., Toronto, 2.04.20.

James Graham, Central Y., Brantford, 2.05.05.

Charles White, Gladstone A.C., Toronto, 2.10.58.

George Holland, Gladstone A.C., Toronto, 2.13.09.

Grant Hackett, unattached, Toronto, 2.16.19.

Cecil Johnson, unattached, Six Nations, 2.18.53.

Robt. Noakes, Gladstone A.C., Toronto, 2.24.28.

ATHLETIC COMMISSION FOR REGINA

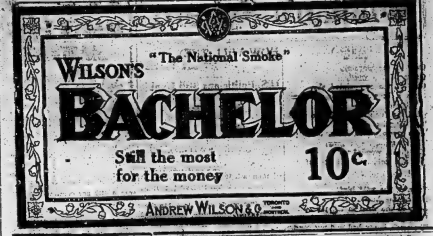

Regina, Sask., Nov. 3.—Amateur boxing and wrestling matches in this city and in future be controlled by a commission of five members. The city council recently adopted a by-law creating such a commission, but appointments have not as yet been announced.

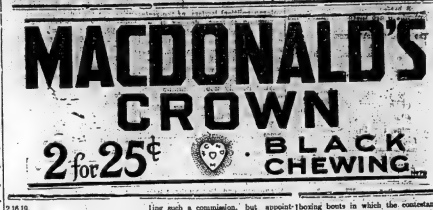

The commission will have complete control of all bouts and is given power to stop bouts which it may consider are not to be properly and openly contested and to order restitution of all admissions; to collect a percentage of the receipts to meet operating expenses of the commission and to pass on the application of contestants. All contestants must be examined by a physician 24 hours before the bout.

Six ounce gloves are required for all boxing bouts in which the contestants weigh under 148 pounds, over that weight eight-ounce mitts are required. No bout can be longer than 15 three minute rounds.

Their Limit.

Oh yes, the folks like to walk,
But they won't walk far;
They like a stroll from their front door
Just to the waiting motor car.

IRON CONSTITUTION.

The Leader, Regina: Though he has a couple of toes in a cast, broken teeth and other injuries, supporters of the Regina Club are pinning their faith on "Bucking" Bryan, a husky policeman, to render valuable service in the Thanksgiving Day game with the Edmonton Eskimos, the semi-final for the Western Canada football championship. Timmie plays left half and is captain of the Provincial champions.

A $30. MISTAKE

THEY were talking about Overcoats. One man said, "I see you have gone back to the custom tailor. Business must be fine if you can pay $80. to have an Overcoat made to order".

The other man said, "Business is good; but why should I pay $80. to a tailor when I can get $30. worth of style, fine fabrics, and hand tailoring, for $50. at Fit-Reform".

And he showed the Fit-Reform trademark and price label in his new overcoat.

HOW BELLEVILLE IS JUDGED

Belleville Needs the Chamber of Commerce

The Chamber of Commerce Needs Belleville

Directors' Meeting-Room, Chamber of Commerce

The Chamber of Commerce Building is a visible token and a monument to Belleville's new Spirit of Progress and Civic Unity. This splendid Home, originally erected by one of Belleville's men of enterprise and vision, the Late Hon. Senator Corby, is now the rallying point for the Builders of a Greater Belleville.

Every visitor to our City becomes enthusiastic over the Architectural excellence of the building itself and the remarkable beauty of the Assembly Rooms and Offices. It has frequently been stated that no other Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce in the Dominion has so fine and attractive a domicile.

Chambers of Commerce forhn the criterion by which modern cities are judged. They are the organizations that proclaim to the outside world whether a given community is dead, moribund or thoroughly alive.

When the representatives of outside manufacturing firms or industrial corporations visit Belleville, in a quest for new locations, with all essential information and endeavor to demonstrate that Belleville is indeed the wide-awake, go-ahead community that twentieth-century business demands.

It can be truthfully stated that Belleville's wonderful industrial progress, by which eleven new industries have been secured in the past eighteen months, (a record that no town, or city of our population in the Province can anywhere near equal) would never have been attained had it not been for the background of support and the favorable atmosphere created by the Chamber of Commerce. Spectacular evidence of Belleville's expanding industrial horizon was given by the recent Made-in-Belleville Exhibition.

When conventions are held here, when important visitors and public speakers come to our city, they are given every attention and courtesy by the Chamber of Commerce. Their friendship is cultivated and they go away enthused over their splendid reception here. They go to other places and make favorable comment, and thus Belleville's progressiveness is being heralded all over the Dominion and even to many parts of the United States and Great Britain. During the past year many visitors have been received and entertained from every province in Canada, from almost every state in the American Union, and even from China and Australia.

What other organization has the time, the facilities or the inclination to do these things for Belleville? Think it over.

OBSEQUIES

MARY A. WATSON

There passed away in this city on Sunday, November 5th, Mrs. Mary A. Watson, widow of the late Benjamin Watson, of Toronto. The late Mrs. Watson who was Miss Mary Lalay prior to her marriage, was born at Frankford in 1826.

One nephew and two nieces survive. They are Roy Lalay, of Cobourg; Mrs. Mc.Auley, of Frankford; and Miss Mildred Lalay, of Saskatchewan.

WILLIAM CORHAM

Early this morning the late William Corham passed to his eternal reward at the home of his sister, Mrs. W. J. Reid, Bridge street. Deceased who was in his 67th year, was born in Ingleside, Canboro, on June 16th, 1855. He never married, and had lived in Belleville for the past forty years.

Two brothers, Walter, of Belleville; and Arthur, of Michigan, U.S.A., survive, besides the sister Mrs. Ridley.

Deceased was a member of Emmanuel Church.

WILLIAM A. KELLAR.

On Saturday night, last, November 4th, there passed away, at his late residence at Consilton in Thurlow Township, the late William A. Kellar, in his 77th year.

Deceased was a member of Bleecker Standard church, is survived by his widow, two sons, two daughters, one brother and one sister. The sons are Levi, of St. Catharines, and Franklin, of Moira. The daughters, Mrs. J. Keller, of Quinte Road, and Miss Marguerite at home. The brother is Mr. Fred Kellar, of Madoc, and Mrs. Sam Wannamaker, of Sydney Township, is the sister.

JOSEPH PAUL.

Death came suddenly on Saturday evening to Mr. Joseph Paul who resided on South John street. During the afternoon Mr. Paul was about the house and on the street and whilst awaiting for the evening meal he fell to the floor expiring immediately from an attack of heart trouble. Deceased was 82 years of age and was born in the Province of Quebec. For many years he had resided in this city where he was well and favorably known. Mr. Paul for many years followed his occupation as a lumberman. He was a member of St. Michael's Church. A widow survives.

MRS. ELLEN HAYES.

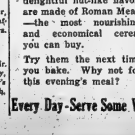

On Thanksgiving morning the funeral of Mrs. Ellen Hayes, wife of Mr. Patrick Hayes, took place, and the large number present was an evidence that the deceased had many friends. The body was conveyed from the family residence, corner of Catherine and Cedar streets, to St. Michael's Church, where Rev. Father Burke, of Toronto, celebrated the requiem mass. Interment took place at St. James cemetery. Many mass cards and floral tributes were tokens of sympathy. The bearers were Messrs. B. J. Black, C. Whelan, L. P. Hinbre, W. N. Belair, F. Lee and P. Donovan.

Modern Idea.

"Pa, what is a living wage?" asked Clarence.

"One that will enable you to have all the luxuries of life and live a little better than your neighbors, son," replied his dad.

The league winners last week were, W. Hart of the G.T.R. office and Strahan of the Ever Ready.

EVER READY WIN ONCE MORE.

The Ever Ready lived up to their name Saturday night at Domenico's Alleys when they defeated the U Go I Go Club by a neat little score. The first game both teams were rolling about the same but in the second game when the Ever Ready rolled 1013 it broke the U Go I Go Club's heart.

BELLEVILLE CHEESE BOARD.

At the Belleville Cheese Board on Saturday the offerings were not large, namely, 655 boxes of white and 190 boxes of colored. Mr. Gillespie made the highest bid, namely 22 1-8 cents and he secured the greater number of the boxes boarded. The board this week will be held on Thursday at noon after which the members will attend the annual dinner given to the cheese men of this section by Mr. John Elliott, Manager of the Standard Bank of Canada in this City.

Catch That Cough!

At this time of year a Cough is especially dangerous, because it is likely to hang on all Winter and may develop into a more serious condition.

Take Nyal Creophos

When the first symptoms appear. Creophos relieves coughs, colds and bronchitis, and at the same time builds up strength and vitality.

TELEPHONY CLUB ANNUAL "AT HOME"

ANNUAL THANKSGIVING DANCE WAS HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

At Bennett's Dancing Academy last night, the annual At Home of the Belleville Telephony Club was held, and was very largely attended. An excellent program of dancing was presented, the music being furnished by the Martin-Smith Society Serenade of Toronto and a most delightful informal time was spent.

The officers responsible for this highly successful event were: Mr. J. Marshall, President; Mr. H. Doolittle, Secretary, and Mr. J. Mc. Treasurer. Patronesses of the dance were: Mrs. J. A. Cokers, Mrs. C. Divinery, Mrs. H. Bonace, Mrs. P. J. Roach, Mrs. M. E. Hick, Mrs. E. L. Mooney, Mrs. W. A. Spriggs, Mrs. W. B. Doolittle, Mrs. F. A. Wright and Mrs. M. J. Shapero. The stewards were: Mr. J. A. Cokers, Mr. E. L. Mooney, Mr. W. A. G. Spriggs, Mr. H. Bonnes, Mr. W. B. Doolittle, Mr. F. A. Wright, Mr. B. McMurray, Mr. L. E. Turper, Mr. W. Rothwell, Mr. E. E. White.

BUSY FOSTER WARD.

The busiest spot in Belleville is the Wharf Street club house. The harbor is full of boats-dry boats and we are told that some of them make a trip to Mexico in seven hours. The Wharf Street Debating Club is becoming a real live house. Debates are in order especially on the municipal question. The Club is planning for their big annual inn feed. John Cornell says it will take a quarter of a ton of hot dogs to feed the overworked council at the Club's big banquet. Boss Rath has ordered ten thousand buns for the occasion and all the boys are looking forward to a big time and welcome their friends. Invitations have been sent out to friends and members of the Club in Chicago, Detroit, Rochester, New York and Rosamore. The boys think there's going to be something doing. Mr. Ben Sanford has painted his house and excels to have the band serenade him on New Year's night.

A special meeting of the Club has been called in order to arrange for the auditing of the books and also to start a campaign for new membership.

Jack Carr, the new harbormaster, has taken over his duties and John C. Weir is expected to take over the lighthouse soon.

Dad, Mother, Ironized Yeast for Rheumatism

Do You Realize What Ironized Yeast-Vitamines Will Do for Rheumatism and Lumbago?

Do you know that vitamines and iron are parts of your very life? Do you know that the uric-acid-blood factory in your body needs these two materials, and needs them badly? Do you know that if your body-factory does not get enough of those, that "Creeping" Rheumatism Pains and Aches and Pains Ironized Yeast Is Surely Wonderful.

queer poisons, bitter poisons, measles poisons, acid poisons, are left in the blood and the joints and muscles feel the poisons as they go by? If you hobble in your gait, if pains distort your body, if bending over is an unspeakable agony, if you have lumbago, sciatica, neuritis and sciatica, or any of the other forms of rheumatism of the way—smile sweetly, there is a rainbow ahead. Rheumatics are children now-a-days. Ironized Yeast Tablets, the ironic and vitamine combined drugs, and all have a member! The happy secret today is Ironized Yeast. Some of the world's body-building food-principles all in one. Take nothing but Ironized Yeast today. Beware of imitations and substitutes, because Ironized Yeast is not a mere combination of yeast and iron, but a great product, which is a substance of its own. MUSIC & DRAMA

Few producers of all-star pictures have been so fortunate as J. L. Frothingham in his selection of the remarkable cast for the First National attraction, "The Ten Dollar Raise", which was exhibited before a large audience at the Regent last evening.

Realizing the importance of good cast Frothingham scoured the available picture player world before deciding on the artists he desired to interpret Peter B. Kyne's famous Saturday Evening Post story. William V. Mong, for years a star of the legitimate stage, and later scenario writer, director and one of the best known character actors of the screen, was finally decided upon to portray the role of Wilkins, about whom the story revolves Helen Eddy was chosen not only because of her reputation as a leading woman but because of her wonderful ability and her type.

"CHU CHIN CHOW"

HERE THIS THURSDAY

The night of August 30th, 1916, in the city of London, will always be memorable in theatrical history, for then on thatnight, at His Majesty's Theatre, "Chu Chin Chow", began its remarkable run of three years. Then New York saw it for two years when produced by F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest. Then all of our leading cities had it; and now, in due course, it comes to Belleville where it will be seen at Griffin's Theatre this Thursday night, November 9th. 8-2td

Written by Oscar Asche, with music by Frederick Norton, "Chu Chin Chow" is a musical extravaganza founded on the Arabian Nights. Little was expected of it in advance. The late Sir Herbert Tree, lessee of the theatre, had no faith whatever in its success, and therefore stipulated that he could close the theatre and the contine the performance if the receipts ever fell below $15000 for one week. Oscar Asche and Lily Brayton, who created the leading roles, had every confidence in "Chu Chin Chow," however, and so they agreed to the clause in the contract. It was an enormous success in London from the first night. Sir Herbert's fears, meanwhile, increased and a thousand other detrimental influences, it continued to grow in popularity. Theatre-for five full years and has only recently ended its run, although enormously reduced in its Parthenon. Sir Herbert died a rich man as the result of "Chu Chin Chow." The structure in which the play was presented, but the new owners were unable to take it with them as it three years after they bought the play-house, assuming the management only when "Chu Chin Chow" was finally withdrawn.

RENEWAL CAMPAIGN CHAMBER COMMERCE

Just three years ago the Belleville Chamber of Commerce was reorganized. The three years have been characterized by one of the severest business depressions ever known in Canada, due to disturbed conditions following the war. Nevertheless, Belleville has come through the storm with flying colors.

Mercantile trade is rapidly getting back to normal and prosperous conditions and nothing like the extreme stringency has been experienced here as has been felt in many other communities. Commercial travellers give testimony that Belleville, is in a business way, the best city on the map of Ontario today.

Our population, as shown by the recent census taken of the Dominion census, has equalled the percentage of growth shown by Montreal and surpassed that of Peterborough, Toronto and other cities about which much is heard.

Our industrial expansion has been even more remarkable. Eleven new industries have chosen Belleville as their home in the eighteen months. No other town or city in Ontario, around our population, can boast so much. Many of these of the New Industries are branches of important American corporations and Belleville is decided upon after a prolonged search among the cities of Ontario and Quebec. No better evidence could be found of the New Era of remarkable industrial expansion than that afforded by the recent Made-in-Belleville Exhibition. It is safe to say that several of our important industries could not display their goods because of inability to get their exhibits ready to time.

More important, however, than mere business activity or industrial growth is the new spirit of co-operation and unity that has come over Belleville's citizenship. Belleville is no longer a collection of human beings each pursuing individual, and often selfish and mutually antagonistic aims.

The citizenship of Belleville has become a human unit, a powerful, powerful force because of the realization that getting together means the essential element of Community progress.

The Chamber of Commerce has supplied the directing energy and the means of expression for this body of earnest men and women who may fitly be called the "Builders of the new Belleville."

At a general meeting of the members held on Monday, Nov. 7, there was absolutely no difference of opinion as to the value of the work already accomplished by the Chamber of Commerce and the positive necessity for its continuance as a means for progress in the future of Belleville.

It was therefore decided to carry on a renewal campaign extending over four days, Tuesday, Nov. 14 to Friday, Nov. 17.

The Campaign will be ushered in by a Community Banquet at the Hotel Quinte, Mon., Nov. 7, and November 12 at 7.30 p.m. Some of the best speakers in Ontario on the subject of Commerce work and municipal affairs are being engaged.

The Renewal Campaign will be conducted entirely by Belleville volunteer workers. No outside help is being engaged. The large amount thus saved will be applied to a reduction of the membership fee from $35 to $20 per annum.

The new membership contracts will be for a period of one year only, instead of three years as in the old. Every member will have the privilege of terminating his membership at any time by sending notice in writing to the secretary, such notice to have effect at the end of the then calendar year.

"I Was a Fright!"

"Nothing I Could Take Made Me Any Fatter."

"Up to the time I was seventeen years old, I believe that I was the most unpopular and unhappy girl that ever lived. Honestly, I was a sight. I was the most unsightly looking creature you ever saw. I was thin and scrawny—straight up and down. My height was five feet nine inches and I weighed exactly one hundred and three quarter pounds. No matter what kind of clothes I put on I looked like a fright. I was clumsy and awkward. I used to stand before the glass and study my features. I found I had a good nose, good eyes and a good mouth, but my cheeks were sunken and my face looked like a skull with a piece of parchment stretched over it. But nothing I could do or take made me any fatter. Mother says I was glanced at me. Then they did, they merely gave me a casual, amused or pitying look, an expression which I am sure meant, 'why is a being like that allowed to live, large?' I used to lie awake at night for hours at a time wondering why there were so many beautiful girls in the world, and I was so hideous. I met a friend of mine one day, Rosie W. and I hardly knew her. While she had always been an object of pity a year or more ago she was on a close second. I thought at first she had taken on flesh and had developed into a handsome girl, but one of the prettiest figures I had ever seen I asked her what had caused the big change. She said Carnol. She told me she had been using it regularly for the last three months and that from the first bottle she could see a

TURKISH ACTS THREATEN WORLD'S PEACE

RECEPTION TO THE GRAND Z

MOIRA CHAPTER R.A.M., NO. 7, DO HONOR TO DISTINGUISHED MASONS

Moira Chapter Royal Arch Masons No. 7 last evening held what may be termed a rare convocation in the form of a reception to their Grand Z, Most Excellent Companion Richard H. Spencer, the first Principal of the Grand Chapter of Canada, and R.W. Excellent Companion Nathan E. Sprague, the first Superintendent of Prince Edward District No. 11.

There were present visiting Companions from Madoc, Trenton, Picton and elsewhere, filling the Masonic quarters to their capacity. Degree work was performed in a most creditable manner, calling for the eulogy of the Grand Principal and Superintendent.

A toast or token emblematic of that quarter of Masonic esteem to which the Grand Z is held was presented and a wonderful stuff of roses forwarded to Mrs. Spencer, the floral emblem of companionship of the Royal Craft. The roses were presented by Companion Mrs. Ellis, the evening was one of great joy, profit and pleasure of companionship. At the sumptuous banquet, Excellent Companion E. T. Cherry, the First Principal, presided, the visiting companions being the guests of honor. At the Principal's table, some two hundred were present. The Greene Orchestra furnished the music for the Royal Arch Mason banquet, Miss Dorothy Russell Wotten presided at the piano and led the community singing in royal style. Miss Dorothy Cone of Belleville's accomplished daughters, sang first an Italian song in Italian, and then, in response, rendered a Hawaiian melody with ukulele accompaniment played by herself. Each instrument brought from Miss Dorothy Cone Terwilligar again proving herself an accomplished artist of rare ability. Companion Belcher was at his acceptably, as he always does, and he was greatly enjoyed. Miss Lloyd re-elocutionist was wonderfully received. Master Stephens, the boy violinist, Belleville wonder, excelled himself in the presentation of a very classic selection.

The address of welcome to the Grand Z and the Grand Superintendent of P.E.I. District No. 11 and other guests of honor, was given by Very Excellent Comp. G. B. Reamsbottom and was one of the very best addresses heard in Masonic circles here for many years.

Miss Gertrude Terwilligar daughter of Companion L. R. Terwilligar, favored with a solo in song, "Carnival of Venice", a very difficult selection of high order and playing her own accompaniment, and her voice was equal to the high notes were simply grand, flexibility just marvellous. As an encore she favored with a Hawaiian number first in a Hawaiian song with a Ukulele, brought home with enthusiastic encore and that she did, has become such an accomplished artist.

The nature of the gift and mark of respect presented to the Grand Z, was an oil painting. An original master piece and engravers therein in pure gold the title of and the mark of the craft.

Miss Aileen Cherry the talented artist and daughter of the First Principal of the Moira Chapter the title being "The Motto." The painting, an unique view of the Moira River from a point where the Masonic temple looking to the east, from the west side of that river which ebbs and flows as it winds its way through that ancient city full of Masonic tradition and history. A city called Belleville the beautiful, discovered and founded more than one hundred years ago.

WILL NOT SUBMIT MOTION

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Toronto, Nov. 8.—Efforts to secure debate the City Council shortly after midnight defeated Alderman Risk's motion to submit the question of a water-front entrance for the Toronto radials to the electors at the next Municipal election. The vote was sixteen to ten.

OVER A HUNDRED NEW MEMBERS

Y.M.C.A. MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN PROGRESSING MOST FAVORABLY

The Y.M.C.A. campaign to increase membership is progressing in a satisfactory manner. Up to Saturday evening last 115 renewals and new members had been secured by fifty members. Mr. Major Marshall Treasure was first to fill up; Mr. F. V. Brock, 2nd; Mr. Post's team, 3rd; A. Armstrong's team 4th and H. M. Pearson's team 5th. These teams secured enough extra members to help out the five other boys who were in the rear.

The credit of getting the most new members fell to Mr. James Marshall, who secured 7; Mr. W. Pearson, 5; Mr. P. Duff, 4; A. Lapum, C. A. Moore, Fe. B. Smith, Jas. Alexander and H. Post, 4 each. There are yet some fifty-five members of teams who originally signed up and a new member who have yet to secure some. It is up to these derelicts to do their duty in this regard.

UNVEILING OF MEMORIAL TABLET

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH SCENE OF IMPRESSIVE SERVICE. MAJOR PONTON AND THE REV. DR. MACTAVISH ADDRESS THE GATHERING.

A handsome memorial tablet was unveiled, and an impressive service was held in the Presbyterian church, Adolphustown, on Sunday afternoon, in memory of Private George Whyte, a young Scot who fell in the great war. The unveiling and consecration of the church was taxed to its capacity, and some of those present were obliged to stand throughout the service. Rev. Dr. MacTavish, who is temporarily supplying the pulpit, presided. The choir from the Bethel Methodist church assisted with the music, and sang an anthem which was very effectively rendered. Mr. D. Poulter unveiled the tablet, but before doing so he delivered an exceedingly timely and inspiring address. The part of the present tribute to the men who had served in the war, their bravery, their loyalty and their readiness to serve no matter what the cost. Reverently he admitted that there were those who in the Canadian ranks had fallen back but they not been sustained by a higher power. Among the honour roll from this district a tremendous struggle he stressed the importance of organization, service and co-operation in Christian work. He said his hearers not to pay too much attention to a few agitators amongst the workingmen. They must exercise a deal of poise, but they did not represent the sentiments of the soldiers generally. In his opinion the work of the returned men were among the best citizens in this Dominion.

During the delivery of Major Ponton's address the consecration listened with the closest attention.

Rev. Dr. MacTavish delivered a short address on the words, "Fight the Good Fight of Faith." "Some of us said he, "are specially privileged to wear the King's uniform, but we may all engage in this fight. We should have enlisted under the Great Captain of Salvation, Jesus Christ, and then we should put on all the armour of God so that we may resist the powers of evil. The fight may be a long one, and at times it may be very strenuous, but if we are loyal to our Leader victory is assured."

MORE FIGHTING IN DUBLIN THIS MORNING

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Nov. 8.—The Irish Republican forces in Dublin opened heavy fire on the Wellington military barracks at 8.20 this morning and the Free State troops lost three killed and twenty wounded, while the irregular casualties were not known, according to Central-News despatch, the district surrounding the barracks has been cleared, and fighting is continuing, the despatch said.

LORD CURZON GIVES WARNING

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Nov. 8.—A special meeting of the Cabinet was called this afternoon to consider the Near Eastern crisis. General the Earl of Cavan, chief of the Imperial General Staff, was obliged to cancel a previous engagement, order summons to attend the meeting.

YOUNG WOMAN SENTENCED

THREW INFANT FROM TRAIN AFTER IT HAD HAD CONVULSIONS—HER PASTOR ON THE TRAIN

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Lindsay, Ont., Nov. 8.—Beatrice Nicholls, aged 21, of Bobcaygeon, was this morning sentenced to fifteen years penal servitude for killing her two-weeks-old baby when she threw it from a train while travelling from Peterboro to Lindsay on July 6th. She was found guilty last evening of manslaughter. In the confession which she made shortly after her arrest she declared that the baby took convulsions, stiffened and turned black, and that as her pastor was on the train and she did not want him to see her, she stripped the baby of its clothing and threw it from the train between Burketon Junction, and Lindsay.

REV. GEO. WORREL PASSES BEYOND

FORMER WELL-KNOWN DIVINE SUDDENLY CALLED AT PHILADELPHIA

Rev. George Worrell, minister of the Reformed Episcopal Church, was suddenly called from active service in Philadelphia to perfect rest above, on Saturday the 4th, at mid day. The news came in a short wire to his aged mother, brothers and sisters, who live on North Front street, of this city. Members of the family journeyed to Philadelphia in time to be present at the funeral which took place on Tuesday. Rev. gentleman was born in Fermanagh, Ireland, on March 19th 1865, and came to this country with his parents in 1862. He was ordained for the ministry at the Reformed Episcopal Seminary, Philadelphia and was, on the completion of his studies, called to the Parish of Grace Church, Collingdale then to the parish of Lancaster, and afterwards to the church of the Incarnession at Philadelphia which charge he held until his decease. Rev. Worrell was a most untiring and persistent worker in church and social life. He was instrumental in building a large House for Orphan children in Philadelphia. New churches at Collingdale and Philadelphia stand in testify to his consecrated energy and devotion.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his affectionate wife and four children, Margaret Laura aged 15, and Elizabeth, aged 10; his mother, three brothers and five sisters. The funeral service was held on Sunday evening, Sept. 3rd. A memorial service will be held in Emmanuel Church next Sunday evening.

EDITOR ARRESTED BY THE TURKS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Constantinople, Nov. 8.—Ali Kemal Bey, the editor of the Constantinople anti-Nationalist newspaper "Sabas," has been arrested and condemned to death by the Turkish authorities here, the Allies have been informed. Late last night the Allied representatives gave Pasha, new civil governor of the city, forty-eight hours in which to release the editor.

Three additional classes of Turkish soldiers have been called to the colors. It was stated this afternoon in Paris that Allied Sig. High Commissioners at Constantinople, have asked their governments for authorization to take all necessary measures to maintain order in Constantinople. The Commissioners, it was stated, will declare martial law if necessary. The British flagship Iron Duke will leave Toulon today to join the Allied fleet at Constantinople.

GREAT GAINS FOR DEMOCRATS

GOV. MILLER DEFEATED BY ALBERT E. SMITH—REPUBLICAN MAJORITY WIPED OUT —TWENTY SEATS TO HEAR FROM

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Nov. 8.—The Democratic gains in the United States national elections continued to pile up as the belated returns came in from all parts of the country today. The great majority rolled up for the Republicans in the Harding landslide of two years ago was gussed into by the Democrats in districts in all debatable States until there seemed a prospect that it virtually might be wiped out. With the defeat of Governor Miller of New York by Alfred E. Smith, the Republicans also lost 13 seats of the Empire State in the House of Representatives and Senator William was defeated by Dr. Royal Copeland, Democrat. The latest tabulation of the vote of the House of Representatives of this state gives Democrats 178, Republicans 171, Socialists 1 only, Twenty States States were then complete.

MARTIAL LAW IS PROBABLE IN CONSTANTINOPLE

BRITISH, FRENCH AND ITALIAN GOVERNMENTS GRANT FULL AUTHORITY TO ALLIED COMMISSION AT CONSTANTINOPLE

Paris, Nov. 7.—London, Paris and Rome Governments replied tonight to the demand of the Inter-Allied Commission at Constantinople, granting it full authority to proclaim martial law. The note will, however, exhort the commander-in-chief to resort to the last an expression of self-control and goodwill toward Rafet Pasha and the Turkish population. It is said that the provoking behaviour of the Kemal ists is merely a clumsy attempt to test the power of the Allies.

The Press was officially informed that this union remains absolutely secure to the extent, that, if necessary—of unanimous action. The council of some months ago—French troops will fire if interference with by a mob. Hence is laid on the hostile bearing of Rafet Pasha toward the Allied generals yesterday. He has set up a claim to independence and refuses to budge. It is expected that the Allied commanders will communicate the decision reached to him at their conference to-night. The news here is that the Allied position at Chanak and on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles remains unchanged, is as grave as that in the capital. Kemalist troops masquerading as gendarmeries are everywhere behind the British lines.

It is understood the new crisis, developed in the Near East conference, will be met by a prompt issue of a further joint allied note, stating the Allies' final decision, purpose to give Turkey at the peace conference. But before this note can be drawn up, Premier Mussolini's attitude toward Near Eastern affairs must be made clear. London. If he is equally firm with Bonar Law and Poincare it is hoped the critical few days ahead may be bridged.

Constantinople, Nov. 7.—The Allied Commissioners at Constantinople have been given full authority to declare a state of seige or take any other measures to preserve order.

This was in response of the Allied Governments to the called requests of the High Commissioners on December 2, when they visited a new speedy action. It is now certain that the Allied authorities here will deal with any further acts of violence and infringement of the Mudania convention in a drastic manner.

Britain, French and Italians are as one in their powerful movement which the Kemalists have set in motion. The British have at no time since the intentions of the Turkish Nationalists were made evident, relaxed to the least degree their vigilance and have kept the others informed as to proceed here or are on their way to strengthen the Allied authority.

Ceaseless Propaganda is Needed to Bring More Industries to the City

Centralized Effort Necessary to Bring the Many Advantages of This City Before the Manufacturers, and Attract New Industries—Belleville Has the Strategic Position, Waterways, Transportation Facilities, and Unlimited Supply of Cheap Electrical Power, and is Situated in the Midst of One of the Most Prosperous Farming Communities in Canada.

In the competition for industries which will come with the economic readjustment of the country and which is already begining to show itself through the increased activities of various civic organizations, the city which has the greatest organization for spreading favorable propaganda will gather the greatest rewards of industrial expansion.

Cities do not grow of themselves. Industries do not come as a spontaneous outcrop of every town and city in existence before they choose to establish. They are governed largely by the data which is accessible to them and which is made accessible by publicity.

Thus a city may have many advantages to offer industries and yet through lack of propaganda these advantages may remain unknown and the city suffer in consequence. It will not get the industries and it will not grow.

GREAT ADVANTAGES.

Belleville has every advantage in the world to offer industries. Its great and central strategic position that is unsurpassed by any city in Canada. She has the best waterways, the best transportation facilities and an unlimited supply of cheap electrical power. She is adjacent to a prosperous agricultural district and an undeveloped back country of unlimited possibilities which await development by men and money. In fact when one glances over the facilities and resources which Belleville commands it does not require much vision to see that a great future is in store if only we become the courage and optimism to lay our plans in a big way. All of these advantages exert favorable influences upon manufacturers when selecting sites for Canadian factories.

The only way these advantages can be heralded to the world's industries is through propaganda—through letters, personal solicitations delegations and the spoken word.

This is the purpose of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce. Through centralization, all the efforts of individuals are united into one compact whole which travels farther and exerts more influence than any number of individuals can possibly exert acting independently of each other.

To promote the membership and the larger the financial and personal support the chamber of commerce receives the greater will be the results gained and the greater will Belleville's industrial action grow and develop.

That Belleville through the Chamber of Commerce has actually attracted the attention of leading manufacturers as an excellent manufacturing location, is evidenced in the correspondence received from leading manufacturing firms.

PLANS FOR EXPANSION.

Industry has not been "standing" up to the present time in Belleville for the reasons why manufacturers were reluctant to branch out during the conditions of war-time, and which still exist to a certain extent. But these conditions are righting themselves. Industry is regaining confidence and is beginning to make plans for further expansion. Belleville has already had its share, and that liberally, but it is not satisfied. It is certain. The propaganda created by the chamber of Commerce during the past three years has started something that cannot be stopped. The propaganda must not rest on past publicity.

Now is the time: it is necessary to keep the many manufacturers now contacted efforts—only through individual co-operation brought together and held together by a strong chamber of commerce can this propaganda be most effective.

C.P. CONDUCTOR KILLED TO-DAY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Brockville, Nov. 8.—Anxiety on the part of William Barnett, Havelock, C.P.R. conductor, for the safety of his way-bills, resulted in his death in a rear-end freight collision at Smith's Falls this morning. Barnett's train was stopped at the yard limit, while another freight approaching in a fog plowed into the caboose which Barnett at a moment before had entered in an effort to save his way-bills.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

LARGE NUMBER OF ACCIDENTS ARE DUE TO CARELESS AND RECKLESS DRIVING—SOMETHING MUST BE DONE TO CHECK THE TOLL OF HUMAN LIFE

The large number of auto accidents locally have rather tended towards the belief that they had more than their share of reckless motorists. Unfortunately the thought is not borne out by facts. The number of accidents in other vicinities is growing also. It is high time to curb these reckless drivers, by licensing all individuals who care to drive.

The Ontario Safety League, of Toronto, sends out the following bulletin.

Automobile Fatalities for October.

There were three automobile fatalities in Toronto during October.

October is generally one of the worst months for automobile accidents.

In October 1921, there were 8 fatalities. In October 1920, there were 9 fatalities. In October 1919, there were 5 fatalities.

Comparatively, this is encouraging, but does it not mean that the public are getting tired of this unnecessary sacrificing of life, and that a strong public sentiment expressed in many ways, has resulted in increased prudence on the part of both motorist and pedestrian.

A few days ago, the following appeared in the columns of one of our papers:

"Port Arthur, Nov. 2.—Declaring the time had come when the killing of innocent victims by careless or inexperienced motorists must be stopped, Mr. Justice Mabee, presiding at the Supreme Court of Ontario, Fall Assizes, here today, sentenced Wasyl Koski, a young Finlander, to one year in jail, after he had been found guilty by a jury, of Manslaughter. Koski, in May last, ran over and killed six year old Olive McDaid, and in his address to the court, Mr. Justice Mabee described Koski as 'a fool with a new toy'."

If there not an undercurrent of public feeling demanding that the chronic infractor of our traffic rules, and the persistent speeder, be dealt with, following the example of Detroit, Cleveland and 200 other cities, and sent to jail? But not the time come to stop experimenting with law breaking which results in these deaths of our perfectly good citizens, both young and old?

BELLEVILLE LIQUOR IN HAMILTON

Hamilton, Nov. 8.—Belleville is believed to be the source of some of the illicit liquor seized into Hamilton, according to a discovery made by the officers of the License Department on December 5, when they raided a restaurant run by David Little. Inspectors Connor and Bleakly seized a quantity of whiskey and gin and six ounce bottle. When Dave pleaded guilty to having liquor in his illegal possession, he was given the minimum sentence of the second offence, two months in jail and fine of $200, or an additional three months. "Your Worship," said Mr. Connor, "this whiskey left the distillers at Belleville this year and we would like to know from the others in Hamilton secure it." "I got it from a man who brought it from Buffalo," Little said.

OSHAWA CAR WAS STOLEN

OLDSMOBILE EIGHT STOLEN AT OSHAWA LAST NIGHT.

This morning, Chief Hubbs received a phone message from the police department at Oshawa, notifying him that the theft of a motor car from that town at 11:15 p.m. Tuesday.

The stolen car is an 8 cylinder Oldsmobile automobile, green body, natural wood wheels with green leather trimming. License No. 159-436, serial No. 659 and motor No. 1213.

MEMORABLE DAY IS COMMEMORATED

ORANGEMEN GATHER AROUND FIFTY BONFIRES FOR GUY FAWKES DAY

In commemoration of Guy Fawkes Day, the 5th of November, the Orangemen of this city last evening had a chicken supped fifty bonfires on Front street. There was a large attendance of members and others, in fact too many to allow of being served. The repast provided was all that could have been desired. The partaking of supper was preceded by the singing of the doxology. After supper the company repaired to the lodge room, where an enjoyable programme was carried out. Rev. Bro. A. L. Geen presided and he certainly fulfilled his duties in a most creditable manner. The address he gave was much appreciated.

The toast to the King was heartily received and the National Anthem sung.

Mr. R. J. Graham gave an address which was both instructive and interesting. Addresses were also given by Rev. Bro. George Marshall and Bro. W. C. Mikel, K.D., and both did themselves credit. The addresses were interspersed with community singing in which all present participated. The affair was most enjoyable in every respect.

TURKISH DEMANDS CAUSE GRAVE APPREHENSION

Constantinople, Nov. 8.—This city is in a fever of apprehension of the gravest character, the consideration of Allied military and naval forces, extension of Nationalist routine here, the arrest of prominent Greeks and Italians, condemnation of the Sultan and indiscriminate arrest of prominent Constantinople Turks," it is understood that a conference of Allied Generals and Admirals last night considered the expulsion of Rafet Pasha from the capital in the event of continued defiance of Allied relations. It is remarked that these measures are unanimity on the part of the Allies.

RED MEN OF THE WEST

BLANKET INDIAN LIVED IN "LAND OF SUNSET."

Col. G. O. Shields, as Old-Timer, Writes Book in Which He Gives an Account of Fishing in British Columbia, and Also the Country Generally.

Col. G. O. Shields, an old-timer who has lived among the Indians, has written a large volume of study and considerable entitled "The Blanket Indian of the Northwest." This spectacular Indian is here pictured to array himself in a red blanket, beaded buckskin shirt and beaded moccasins over hosiery of bright colors, and who painted his face, his hands and body in bright colors.

Throughout the Indian country the great chief Seattle and Col. Shields witness himself or herself as descendants of such famous figured as Crazy Horse, Sitting Bull, Chief Sial and Hole-in-the-Face. These are the names that bring us back to the days of the "Long Hair," a frontier hero worship. "Long Hair" is a frontier hero worship. "Long Hair" was among the white men who knew him, and who painted his face, his hands and body in bright colors.

FARM LOANS HAVE A GOOD ANNUAL REPORT

Winnipeg, Nov. 5.—Regarded as very satisfactory in view of the difficulties experienced by farmers during the past few years the Annual report of the Manitoba Farm Loans Association, a government agency established by the Norris regime and handling the approval of the present administration, shows a profit of over $53 net of which $10,000 of the organization grant is repaid to the provincial government, for the nine months' period ending August 31, 1922. This compares with a profit of $20,186, for 1921, which covered a twelve months' period. Changing of the financial year by the provincial offices is responsible for only a nine months' period being covered for 1922.

In common with mortgage companies, the directors has found it impossible to collect payments in full, and there is now an amount of approximately $170,000 in arrears. It is not, however, anticipated that there will be any loss.

Mortgages made, with interest accrued to the end of November, 1921, stood at $3,853,950 compared with $7,-302,227 for the present year. Debentures on Aug. 31 of this year reached a total liability of $7,588,630 compared with $5,275,833 for the previous year.

It is pointed out that in comparing the profits of 1921 with 1922, the decrease is mainly accounted for by the increased interest cost to the association on borrowings, and while an expenditure of $5,000 was made owing to the difference in periods, it is not out of gross earnings for the period ending Aug. 31, 1922, were $322,277 against gross interest earnings up to Nov. 9, 1921, of $304,373, an increase for the nine months' period of $17,904. To offset this, however, the interest cost on borrowings for the year ending Aug. 31, 1921, was $230,700, an increase for this year of $30,444, which, together with increase in expenses not of the provincial part a net decrease in profit of $2,632.

The amount of sinking fund investments (war bonds) now stands at $331,432 as compared with approximately $140,000 as at Nov. 30, 1921.

"LEST WE FORGET"

Poppy Day, Saturday, November 11th, 1922.

On Saturday, November 11th, we will celebrate another anniversary of the termination of that great and ghastly battle which was waged and victoriously won for "Liberty and Democracy." In the midst of all the happy celebrations to commemorate this wonderful event, the Great War Veterans call upon the public of Belleville and surrounding district—NOT TO FORGET—the brave boys of ours who died heroic deaths in that great and noble cause and who today lie silent in their honored graves in Flanders fields, the Cream of Canadian Manhood paid the supreme sacrifice. Now we ask of you, with humility and faithfully by securing and wearing a Poppy "The Flower of Remembrance" on Poppy Day and by so doing show in a small measure the deep respect and glorious adoration we still possess for those brave lads. Men of ours who left their homes and dear ones to fight so gallantly for our land, our flag, our Empire and our Sovereign. Let us not forget—

"LEST WE FORGET"

Couldn't Milk Bicycle.

"Don't you know that to buy a bicycle to ride around your farm on?" asked the hardware clerk, as he wrapped up the purchase. "They're cheap now. I can let you have a first-class one for $25."

"I'd rather put $35 in a cow," replied the farmer.

"But think," persisted the clerk "how foolish you'd look riding around on a cow."

"Oh, I don't know," said the farmer, stroking his chin; "no more foolish, I reckon, than you would milking a bicycle."—Fruit Dispatch.

FOX FARMS INCREASING

SUCCESSFUL UNDERTAKING NOW REPORTED IN MIDDLESEX.

Climate of Ontario Was Found to Be Suited to the Production of Silver Fox, Says Report—Prices Are Now Just Prices—Over One Hundred Farms Have Been Already Established.

In recent years many farmers have entered the fur ranching industry and to-day there are about one hundred small ranchers in the province of Ontario, which provides climate favorable to the production of a rich clossy fur.

All domestic animals originally came under the control of man by appreciation from the wild state in time of need. As cattle, horses, sheep, and poultry have been domesticated, they adapted to their surroundings, and differentiated by careful breeding for specific purposes, so too will it be with the fur bearing animals.

This fox breeding industry, was first opened up in 1884 in Prince Edward Island, and Charlottetown claims this as one of its chief and most notable industries. In the early days of the industry about half a dozen Prince Island people tried to monopolize the business and not even the Czar of Russia was privileged to see the fox ranches. They were carefully shrouded in secrecy. The owners were shipped them in a package by parcel post from a distant city, and the only reports of the sales had been received in code. Prices were soon noted the improvement in the Canadian conditions, and Mr. Cashion was desired to participate.

Disclosure of the 1910 sales in which as high as $3,834 was realized for one pelt were the first of the first stage in the development of fox farming. Some enterprising Maritime farmers in order to enter the industry mortgaged their homesteads and invested the sum in a ranch. And so widely that one ranchman sold his first pair of cubs for $740 and other pairs successively for $1,000, $1,500, $1,900, and $14,000. In 1914, the speculative operations which were really unhealthy for the industry were stopped and there were got a better level.

In order to successfully raise foxes it is well to study their disposition and how they will conduct themselves. The death rate among the wild ones is lower than among those of pen bearers. The average life of a fox is similar to that of a dog, being from nine to sixteen years.

The average range of a wild fox seldom exceeds a five-mile circle in a life time, although a hound has been known to drift from one state to another in a few days. A female fox will raise a litter of seven of more per life within a mile of the same spot and preferably in the same den year after year. For pups are usually born in April and the average number is four. Occasionally there are litters of eight or nine pups.

Wild foxes pair in January and February, and remain together until the pups are practically full grown. The old foxes, however, hunt together more or less throughout the year.

In winter, foxes have a hard time to get food, with the deep snow and cold weather. They are known to eat anything they can get; old carcasses, birds, frozen apples, varying occasionally with a rabbit or partridge. When rabbits are plentiful they help themselves and it is surprising the amount they will put away at night. They scarcely average a square meal a week through January. During the autumn when game, nuts and berries are plentiful they get fat and round but by February they are down more than one-third of their October weight and are very thin and lean. The full-grown wild male fox averages less than ten pounds in weight, up to eleven pounds is a giant. The females seldom reach that weight.

The stomach capacity is about three liquid ounces. Considering these weights with the domesticated animals, we find the wild fox's range much heavier, males having been known to reach twenty-two pounds. The stomach capacity of a mare fox is five to six ounces.

Every den in pup time must have a water supply and exercising ground. Foxes are strong on rabbits, others on muskrats, some mice, but seldom poultry predominates. Some time I purpose of the foxes ever taste poultry, although so many have access to it for the disappearance of fowl.

The wild fox is remarkably monous high ground for their den, with a southern or quarter-south slope, among scattering trees and bushes, practically never in deep woods.

The type of fox that ranchers cavor to produce is the silver black, which has the richest fur in the world and only four other varieties. Massive furs can be considered competitors of this, the cross, the red, the white, Alaska Teel, and Chinchilla.

For Canada to have a young man's industry, and when the first pioneers who had entered the work enlisted and thus it was neglected, they are becoming discouraged at the drop in prices, disposed of their stock, but the men who kept on were the ones who became successful and reaped big profits.

One of the largest fox ranches in Ontario is that of John W. Cashion, concession 3, Lobo Township, Middlesex County, about one mile from the village of Komoka. Mr. Graham attributes his success to careful selective breeding, good site, and a careful study of fox nature.

In selecting a fox, Mr. Graham states that it is necessary to consider the disposition and a good constitution. Individual appearance is a quiet eye is also an important feature.

War Medals.

More than 7,000,000 British war and victory medals have now been issued.

No Joke.

"It may here helium is found in very minute quantities in sea and river water," remarked Ike.

"But you can find the first three letters of it in large quantities any old place," replied her husband.

CALLING THE CATTLE HOME

In the Mountains of North Carolina the Herd Is Led Home by Bell Heard.

I sometimes wonder where the cattle are," said Ike, "in the North Carolina mountains. Are they allowed to run loosely hatched down from one generation to the next, Winifred Kirkland writer in the Outlook.

Then they come scurrying and scurrying with sharp, horned shoulings across a pasture now with beech grey and shaggy as the mountains, the cry that brings them to the waiting "Co-o-o-ome, boss-y-y-y." When the cowbells are sent and tied, the intelligent clamor subsided by catching, and the cows, there is no need of calling the cows home, but when there are no cowbells to guide them, pasturage in the long-gold twilight, then the cattle call of the mountains is a cry long to be remembered.

Some mountain women standing by the barn suddenly straightens and breathes deep, then utters a rich yodel that rings and echoes far and far up the steep slopes. Then she waits, listens, calls, and on, at recurrence intervals, until full echoing response the forest, when another bird and the yodel of the whippoorwill issues from the wood like the wrath of an echo fairy.

Concrete.

While concrete is ordinarily thought of as a sordid, impervious material, there is in fact many small openings in it through which water can pass, and this property makes it unsuitable where a waterproof structure is desired. It is claimed to a search for some substance which can be mixed with the concrete to fill these tiny openings and make the concrete waterproof. One company doing experimental work has constructed a water tower, described in Popular Mechanics Magazine, in five vertical sections, two of which are made of ordinary concrete and the other three of mixtures containing some form of waterproofing material.

Shipping Eggs.

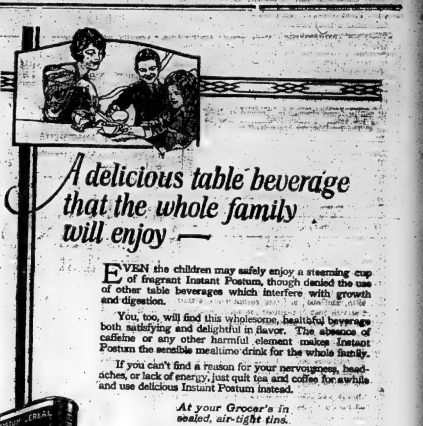

Because of the enormous loss occasioned by shipping eggs in the shell, of a design of an efficient carrier is being provided for research. As long do not work to any standard, the carrier must have a certain amount of flexibility, and yet be rigid enough to protect the fragile contents. In a recently patented carrier, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine, diagonal strips of cardboard, placed inside the usual rectangular openings, hold the fragile individual packages which are protected from the shocks received in shipment.

SAM THOMPSON

PASSES AWAY

Detroit, Nov. 7.—Attached by heart disease as he entered a polling booth here today, Sam Thompson, a famous old baseball player, died a few minutes after he had been hurried to his home.

A generation ago Sam Thompson was a sensational star of the first magnitude. He played right field in the Detroit National League team that won the world's championship in 1887. There were then as now two major leagues, the National and the American, though the latter was designated as an association. The St. Louis team was the pennant in the American Association. The Detroits, then managed by William H. Watkins, former President of the Huron-Sarnia team in the M.-C. League, with Jd. Hanlon as captain, were the pennant winners in the National League, which for several years immediately preceding had been captured by "Pop" Anson's Chicago White Sox.

To the Builders Of Belleville

Belleville has many advantages to attract industries. It has a strategic central location; it has great natural resources and unlimited power and transportation facilities. These have contributed much toward Belleville's growth and will continue to contribute toward its future development.

But natural advantages and resources alone, do not make a city. It is the people who make a community. With an organized Civic Spirit, a city may grow even without natural resources. Some of the world's greatest industrial centres have to import their raw material.

The Chamber of Commerce realize this. Its purpose is to organize and centralize all community efforts; to develop the potential powers of Belleville's citizens, which will eventually build Belleville into a metropolis. It is their purpose to advertise not only the natural advantages that Belleville possesses but also the great advantages an intelligent and united community offers to industry.

The FACT that Belleville has for three years had a Chamber of Commerce with three hundred and fifty members has caused more favorable comment all over the continent than any other fact or advantage displayed. Industrial heads are looking for LIVE communities.

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce has carried out a continuous campaign of propaganda to the outside industries. Not only by publicity but by personal solicitations have they endeavored to interest new industries. And this has received favorable hearing, and already produced big results notwithstanding the extreme depression. When economic conditions readjust themselves, and industrial expansion is resumed, BELLEVILLE WILL GET HER FULL SHARE. Belleville has greater opportunities for industrial expansion now than ever before.

But we cannot rest on past propaganda. We must continue with that publicity and only through centralized effort—through the Chamber of Commerce—can that publicity become most effective. Unity, and unity alone, draws the circle of progress around the dot that puts Belleville on the map.

SERVICE

Keen competition in the channels of business has led firms to attempt to market something more than the mere article itself. This additional something is commonly called "service." It has become a much abused term, and one is justly sceptical about the brand of service that is textured too prominently in sales talk. It is very unfortunate, that there exist today so many firms and men who still trade on the possibilities that the word suggests.

There is not the slightest doubt but that the original application of the term was inspired from an earnest attempt to place the business of some firm on a little higher scale. Today the kind of service that counts, is that brand which is represented by actions, and not by elaborate sales talk. This kind of service does not need any press agent. It commences as soon as an individual enters the doors of a business house or office, by the courteous reception, and polite attention given. It is present when a sale or deal is being made, by a mutual recognition by both parties, of a moral obligation which binds each not to take undue advantage of technicalities. Should difficulties appear after a transaction has been completed, a desire to adjust matters on a reasonable basis should be evident. If a firm is dealing in articles of a perishable nature, facilities for the obtaining of spare parts and the execution of repair work at reasonable charges should be accorded. All the things enumerated are well understood, but there is one step further which a man in business should be constantly thinking about, and that is that which he can present the people with unbidden. A little extra favor here and there may appear to be unnecessary trouble and extra expense, but it counts in the long run. Such little extras are the original lines in a successful business getter. Nothing like to deal with firms whose employees are happy and agreeable. Sunshine attracts us all. Such are the little things that add to the value of the goods and that joyful something that enables a firm to build up and hold a business. Personal grouches should never be injected into business, as the public is very fickle and is sure to shun a place that even remotely suggests gloominess.

The whole creed that the word "service" is intended to exemplify is easily boiled down to one golden rule: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." It is a simple rule of service and is perhaps one of the best permanent business getters in the world today. In addition it makes friends as well, and what more can a man want?

UNCLE SAM'S BEST CUSTOMER

Our neighbors are slated once the turn of commercial events which has again made Canada best customer of the United States. We had held that place for many years anterior to the war; but during the hectic period of high prices we found that our position was being captured to our disadvantage. Our money was placed at a discount out of proportion to the balance of trade against us, and on top of that came a higher scale of duties on our exports. We were doubly squeezed; and in that situation we very naturally turned to Great Britain. It was not practicable nor expedient to give that plan the character of permanency; but it had the effect during the year ended September last of increasing our exports to the Mother Country by $26,000,000 while those to the United States decreased by $66,000,000.

Nevertheless, for the year, the United States bought from us $11,000,000 worth of commodities more than did Great Britain. The fact is being faced across the line to suggest a more neighborly feeling than had prevailed during preceding years. But the hostile and unneighborly tariff remains.

THE SPIRIT OF ADVENTURE IN BUSINESS

To the spirit of adventure—that wonderful spirit of our British ancestors which sent them out into the four corners of the world and so largely contributed to the splendor of the Empire of today—was given credit for the initiative and the enterprise which are so important in the success of modern engineering enterprises and business undertakings, by A. Munro Greer, K.C., president of the Canadian Niagara Power Company, in an address before the Purchasing Agents' Association of Toronto. Mr. Greer emphasized that the upholding of a great nation was due in the last analysis to the efforts of individuals—men of vision and courage. In this connection he continued:

"When we contemplate such a thing, for instance, as Public Ownership—admitting everything good you like in its favor—there still remains this significant fact that we must take it 'pig' of it and of individuals and that to the extent that we curb the spirit of adventure of the individual, to that extent we curb the likelihood of our growing. And so I suggest to you that you lay hold with all the firmness you can to that great spirit of adventure which characterized the great Elizabethans and others following them and resulted in this great thing which we call the British Empire.

Mr. Greer did not use the word paternalism but he might well have done so. Paternalism is the menace today of society based on democratic ideals. Government-owned public service, government pensions for the unemployed, government pensions, etc., are all tending to destroy the spirit of responsibility of initiative and, as Mr. Greer emphasized, the spirit of adventure, with which these individuals who have set their mark on the march of progress have been imbued.

NEW PROVINCE FAD IS SHEER INSANITY

Manitoba may be too small, and Ontario may be too big.

Ontario should not fight a readjustment of boundaries between two provinces of the same country.

"If the residents of Ontario beyond Lake Superior would be happier and more prosperous as citizens of Manitoba than as citizens of Ontario their good ought to be Ontario's good. Ontario might be content to determine whether that Manitoba might prosper."

Ontario will never consent and Ontario should never consent to further the insanity that demands the establishment of a new province between Lake Superior and the eastern limits of Manitoba. The flood of all Canada's floods is one more province with a Lieutenant-Governor, a Government House, a Parliament Building, a Provincial Government, a Legislature, a Court of Appeal, a High Court of Justice and a hundred and one other sink holes for the country's money. The idea of building a new province out of the territory tributary to Fort Arthur, Fort William and Kenora should be hurried back to Bedlam, where the idea was born.

PENS AND OPINIONS

TOWN DRUNKARD VANISHES

More brickbats have been thrown at the Ontario Temperance Act than at any other piece of legislation in recent years, and they are still flying. It has indeed, vulnerable points but it has good armor too.

Under it the town drunkard has become extinct. A few years ago he was a conspicuous figure in every community. If he was married, his children were boosting, and his wife a washerwoman. If he was single, he was rent free, sleeping in odd corners. Innocent of vocation, he did odd jobs for odd personsand in general his means of existence was a mystery. He was the one man who had the secret of getting to the very bottom on the scale and it seemed inevitable that he should stay there.

But he is there no more. Today he works; he worked yesterday and he will work to-morrow. He wears decent clothes and he has money in his pocket. He respects himself, and other people respect him, too.

The town drunkard has passed.—Weekly Times.

LOOKS LIKE CARELESSNESS

(Stratford Beacon.)

Evidence at the investigation into the causes of the Scott, Ontario fires were burning for many days north of Haileybury before the big wind arose which turned the countryside into a furnace.

Undoubtedly there seems to have been carelessness shown somewhere in the investigation of these early conflagrations in seeking to extinguish them. The citizens of Haileybury were doubtless content to see smouldering in their vicinity what they very reasonably perhaps, considered favorable to the confinement spread-ing of these occasional wild fires which occur unless the danger is treated at its source.

The eventual eclipse of the Northern fire danger, of course, is settlement. As roads are constructed, and the population increased, the danger will be greatly minimized. But in the meantime other means must be found.

An order has gone out, head of the Postmaster-General's Department of Ottawa to every postmaster in the Dominion informing them that from now on they must not accept foreign money when selling stamps or issuing money orders or postal notes. Canadian currency only will be regarded as legal tender. Should any official accept American currency, he or she will do so at the risk of his own pile, and will probably have to make good any loss that may be sustained.

CIGARETTES

For fifty years Dougall's varnishes have been acknowledged by coach builders, by makers of the finest furniture and pianos, by motor car producers, by architects and master painters as of the highest grade procurable. "Universith" is the same standard, applied to household use.

Make your Thresholds Smile a welcome

SHINING floors and gleaming woodwork—what a tribute they render to the housewife! Nothing else can make a house look so well-kept, so—so immaculate!

How invitingly they reflect the sunlight streaming in through doors and windows; the soft glow of shaded lights! How they bring out the beauty of rugs and furnishings! How clean they are! How sanitary! And how easy to keep clean—if you can wash them fearlessly with soap and hot water!

Such shining sanitary surfaces are easy to obtain:—

A can of Dougall's Universith, a soft brush, and in a few minutes the scuffed, shabby, dirt-retaining roughness is buried under the clear, clean radiance of a protection to both health and surface—a protection that will not mar nor scratch white under the hardest wear; that soap, boiling water, alkali, even ammonia will not affect.

Dougall's Universith has an additional outstanding advantage. It alone is a stain and a waterproof varnish in one. With it, in one operation, you can change the appearance of any piece of furniture or woodwork to any one of six beautiful wood finishes; for Universith is made in light oak, dark oak, and bog oak, in mahogany, walnut and green, besides "clear."

HERE AND THERE

THE VALUE OF REFORESTATION

The great value of the systematic planting of young trees was fully demonstrated in Scotland during the late war, when thousands of acres of magnificent Scotch pines were available for the construction of railway ties and other military works in France and Belgium. Most of these trees were cut down and sawn up by Canadians.

Whole acres of standing timber were of necessity commandeered by the government, and the proprietors were paid good sums for the product. In one instance an estate in the Highlands had been denuded of its trees to furnish material during the Napoleonic wars, only a tree being left here and there for self seeding purposes. The result was that this forest, the forest of Glenmoke, sprang up again more vigorous than ever, and was again cut down for the Great War, almost exactly a hundred years after its demolition, the proprietor receiving for the timber about $180,000.

There is no reason why Canadian farmers should not put all their uncultivatable land into timber, and why they should not conserve their bush areas and turn them to the best advantage by removing dead and fallen trees, and otherwise putting to practical use what knowledge of forestry they have acquired. The government is beginning to wake up to this direction, but much remains to be done before a real start can be made. One difficulty seems to be to arouse the farmers to the potential value of their bush acreage and to a live interest in the importance of forestry generally.

EVERY-DAY PHILOSOPHY.

When weariness with life my spirit fills,
When deep disgust consumes me with my lot,
I take some store of comfort from the ills
I haven't got.

To find that fortune at your elbow flies,
That bankruptcy is death, in purse, the dead-enough; but I philosophize
I haven't got.

It might be worse.

Incessantly we make a rivet ado,
The mouth of Misery is wide agape;
But happier we, I fancy, if we knew
What we escape.

The common woes of life are bad enough,
Misfortune's fall as easy as the dew,
And still for every morning sleek that's tough,
There might be two.

This one is sick; his wayward soul cries out
Against the lench, the calomel, the boil.
O inconsiderate person, cease to pout,—
You might be dead!

And this one hath the mitten; he hath wooed
Vainly, alack, his woeing-it hath sped;
Well—even in this there's comfort, rightly viewed—
He might be wed!

And here is one who whines; his all is swept Away in panic; he has had to "fail."
He should, I think, be cheerful, that he's kept
Safe out of jail.

But here I lost a twenty-dollar bill,—
And did I wring my hands that I had blundered?
Not I, indeed—I'm very thankful still 'Twas not a hundred.

Sooth, should I e'er capsize when walks are bad,
And my good claricle involve in wreck,
Serenely I should say,—I'm very glad
It's not my neck.

O trust me,—better not to make ado
At the few miseries of our common lot.
There's millions of 'em, if we only knew!
We haven't got.

"RULES OF LIFE."

By Sir Roger Aly.

I live by the freeday to day,
The Past grows old, future
Crosses not my problems,
In the present I find my all
If sorrows come, what then?
They, too, must pass, and passing leave Behind them
Some experience, grave or gladsome,
Some seed to plant with faith
That it will grow and bear
Fruit in the years to come.
I find a life happier
Than those who live on hope to
Some day, I will.
I'm happy
Now. Help me to improve Thee,
Give simply but simply die.

WILLIAMS SIGNS WITH WHITE SOX

SO SAYS TORONTO GLOBE, ALTHOUGH NO WORD RECEIVED HERE

Regarding the decision of Jack Henry Williams, Belleville's good pitcher as to whether he would remain in the Central Ontario League or jump to the Toronto Leafs it is apparently shattered by the following article in The Toronto Globe, which says:

WILLIAMS TO CHICAGO

Evidently the Toronto Club has failed in its efforts to sign Williams, the Belleville Indian pitcher. Nothing was left undone by the Toronto Club to have the Indian sign a Toronto contract, and when he was last interviewed he evinced a willingness to join the Leafs. Last night the following despatch arrived from Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Jack Williams, a full-blooded Huron Indian, has been signed as a pitcher by the White Sox. Indians have figured prominently in the big leagues, but, so far as known, no club has ever boasted of a man who was left-handed in anything but his habits.

Williams was discovered by President Joe Page of the Eastern Canada League. He is 19 years old, weighs 175 pounds and is 6 feet 2 inches in height. Last season he hurled for the Belleville, Ontario, team, in the Central Ontario League, racking up the unprecedented record of 27 victories and one defeat. His one defeat was a two-hit affair in which an error beat him. He has nothing but a curve and a fast ball, but mixes them skilfully. He also has superb control."

LOCAL CURLERS ELECT OFFICERS

MAY SELL ADDITIONAL STOCK TO WIPE OUT MORTGAGE—CLUB DIVIDES NEW MEMBERS

Election of officers and other important business matters were settled for the coming year, at a meeting of the Belleville Curling Club held last evening. His Worship Mayor Hanna, Mrs. Hanna, His Honor Judge Wills and Mrs. Wills and Mr. and Mrs. F. E. O'Flynn were the patrons selected.

The officers for the club are as follows:

President—Morley Duff.
Vice-Pres.—Thos. J. Hurley.
Sec.-Treasurer—George Dean.
Management Committee—Rev. D. C. Ramsay, A. R. Symons, Bert Rackus, Herb Holland and Ted Clarke.
Ice Committee—Edward Gartley, C. I. White, R. J. Wray and W. A. Elliott.
Entertainment Committee—P. E. O'Flynn, W. Gilbert and Charlie Symons.
Representative to the O.C.A.—R. J. Wray, alternative John Kerr.
Representative to C.O.C.L.—Morley

An intimation was received from the Duff and Dean Rinks of the Belleville Curling Club Limited, re the selling of $2000 worth of additional stock, in order to wipe off the present mortgage. After considerable discussion, the following committee was named to confer with the Curling Club Limited, and formulate a plan to clean up the existing indebtedness:

President Duff, Rev. D. C. Ramsay, J. C. Calloway, John A. Kerr and R. J. Wray.

Election of Club, Tankard and District skips was deferred until the next regular meeting of the club.

The curlers are anticipating curling as early as December 15th and as there are openings for 25 new members, a cordial invitation is extended to all new comers to town to join the club.

EDMONTON LIKELY TO PASS A RATHER EMBARRASSING BY-LAW—ONE CANNOT EVEN GO OUT IN THE WOODSHED TO WORK IT OFF

Edmonton, Alta., Nov. 8.—Swearing at the Ford car when it refuses to start or giving vent to one's feelings to the chickens in the back yard is likely to become an offence punishable by fine law. While this is not the law at present, a proposed by-law which was up before the by-laws committee of the council passed will make swearing on one's own property an offence when the Committee discussed the matter recently there was considerable division of opinion reflected by some of the members the advisability of taking away one of the ordinary man's privileges was questioned, but finally the by-law was brought forward as there is nothing, current, the matter of swearing in the statute, and as magistrates frequently have to deal with such questions some definite ruling has been asked for.

BOWLING

ALL-STAR GAME AT Y.M.C.A. ALLEYS

The return bowling games between all stars representing the Y.M.C.A. and Dominion bowling teams took place last evening at the Y. M. C. A. alley and created considerable interest. During the game a number of spectators were present. In the first game the team representing Dominion's lead a decided lead when the Y.M.C.A. team endeavored to overcome last night but were unable to do so. Owing to the non-arrival of one member of the team it was decided to play 4 men a side. The game as a whole was one of the best seen here as ten over over the 600 mark for the era, went over the 50 mark for the three games. J. Yeras, a member of Domenico's team, was high for three string, namely 536, closely followed by Hill of the Y.M.C.A. with a score of 516. The latter four team rolled a total of 2203 whilst the score for the losing team was 2111. The players and scores were as follows:

BOWLING GAMES AT Y.M.C.A. ALLEY

There were two games played on the "Y" alleys Saturday. In the afternoon the Teachers met the Hydro Five and at 8 p.m. the Bell Telephone took up the G.W.V.A.

The afternoon contest saw the Teachers at the heavy end of the score column when the curtain rang down, having won two out of three games, but neither team was able to pass the two thousand mark. On the Teachers' team Messrs Watt and Anderson were tied for the high three string honors, while Munnings rolled the largest total of the Hydro men.

The G.W.V.A. quintette were the victors of the evening play, notwithstanding they cut away to a rather bad start. To make up for this they took the second and third games by a goodly margin. Shapper of the Bell lead the scoring for both teams.

LIBEL ACTION IS DROPPED

LIONEL CONACHER SETTLES LIBEL ACTION OUT OF COURT

The libel action brought by Lionel Conacher, that well-known athlete, against the Sport Publishing Company, has been settled out of court. The defendant journal has published in the Toronto press and unqualified apology signed by its managing editor. The apology will also appear in the next issue of Sport.

The libel complained of was to the effect that "Conacher's rang" was getting away with almost anything and that at one time "they" stopped these framed games and those unscrupling gamblers. "The Conacher crowd" stirred up an accusation that he was betting on games that he had fixed," said Frank Hughes, Conacher's counsel, "whereas he is in a position to prove that he never has bet on a game in which he has played. The charges are all wrong now after and we got what we wanted without any dirt."

Before apologizing, the defendants tried to have an order issued by the Master-in-Chambers for the security of costs from Conacher. The Master refused and the matter was taken before Mr. Justice Logie, who also refused the application. Frank Hughes, K.C., asked whether defendants had paid anything, asked leave to refuse the information. The journal had asked him not to divulge, he said.

Oshawa, Nov. 7.—A meeting has been arranged for next week by prominent local sportsmen for the purpose of organizing an amateur athletic association. The need for such an organization has been found to be essential in developing young players.

It is the intention of those promoting the idea to direct all branches of athletics in this city.

AN EVENTFUL CONTEST.

(Stratford Beacon)

A good many political leaders in Britain are finding that it is not as easy as they thought to remove Lloyd George from his pedestal. A few weeks ago his star was so thought to be in the decline that he almost seemed to have arrived, but the latest reports indicate that his ascendency is increasing, and that he is rapidly waning chances of the newly-formed Bonar Law Government.

Lloyd George is the only world leader whose power was maintained for so long following the war. Most of the leaders and figures of the early and even later days of that struggle have been relegated to comparative obscurity, but not so Right Hon. Welshman, whose remarkable virility and keen insight into the political situation of the times have proved an armour impervious to the blows that have shaken others less impregnable.

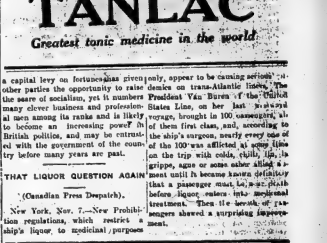

If Lloyd George wins out it will be a striking personal triumph. Indeed, the election will largely turn upon his personality, because the crowd is really interested in and votes for men rather than issues, even when the latter are unusually contentious, and he is a figure dramatic and vital enough to excite the interest of every citizen, pro or con.

As a matter of fact the present election in England, although the most interesting one in a century, is remarkably devoid of either issues or elegance. There is no marked difference in policy between the Lloyd George Liberals and the Bonar Law Conservatives. The only party which really offers anything new is the Labor party which has drawn up a regular program. Its proposal to make a capital levy on fortunes has given only, appear to be causing serious alarm other parties the opportunity to raise decies on trans-Atlantic lines. The fire scare of socialism, yet it numbers President Van Buren of the United States Line, on her last transatlantic men among its ranks and is likely voyage, brought in 100 canvassers, all to become an increasing power in of them first class, and, according to British politics, and may be entrusted the ship's surgeon, nearly every one of with the government of the country before many years are past.

MIXED COURTS ARE ABOLISHED

Repudiation Turkish Foreign Debt Feared—Peace Conference May be Abandoned

London, Nov. 7.—The Kemalist Turks in Constantinople have followed their demand for illegal evacuation by abolishing the mixed criminal court, increasing the customs loan to the low level fixed by treaty with the Sultan to the advantage of the Angora Government, and issuing new passport regulations which make it almost impossible for Greeks to leave the city.

Under the old customs regulations 3 per cent. of the receipts went toward paying the Turkish foreign debt. This provision is now abolished. Officially here fear it may mean eventual repudiation of the debt.

The closing of the British Court is a frank attack on the capitulations. Allied spokesmen have said these capitulations must remain if foreigners continue to do business or live in Constantinople.

In view of the attitude assumed by the Angora Government, it was declared in official circles here today that the Lausanne peace conference may be abandoned. The opening of the conference had been fixed for November 13.

A test of the allied authority is being made in the case of the Turkish fascist agent, and condemnation to death of Ali Kemal Bey, editor of the Anti-Nationalist newspaper, Sabah. The Allied High Commissioners have notified Rafet Pasha, Nationalist Governor of Constantinople, that no political persecution will be tolerated and that force, if necessary, will be used to liberate the editor.

A report today from Constantinople, which, however, was unconfirmed, was that Ali Kemal Bey had already been executed at Ismid.

CONTROL OF U.S. HOUSE IN DOUBT

New York, Nov. 8th.—At noon today twenty-five states had completed their congressional election returns but neither republicans nor democrats had yet gained much toward control of the House of Representatives. The vote at that hour stood: Democrats 167, Republicans 153, Socialist 1. The majority to control is 218. Iowa was the only state which has returned a solid Republican delegation.

LAXITY IN MARRIAGE RELATIONS

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Next to Japan, the United States is the worst nation with which the people regard the sentimental ties in connection, said Eli Jay Waller Jr., Governor of Oregon, who is visiting Chicago.

"Modern marriages are virtually nothing more than trial marriages," he declared, "and the United States is in danger of becoming the most divorce nation in the world."

The Mad Wonderful Motor Car

When you see a flock of birds all wing it seems difficult to believe that from millions of years ago, no accidents had the power of flight. It is believed that originally birds came from reptiles, which must have taken the form of small, light-like creatures. They probably had a great power of leaping from branch to branch of the trees or the forests where they took refuge from their enemies.

As time advanced these reptiles gained more axis in length, and they had forelimbs which would be said and still serve as gliding organs, and because more and more enlarged, while the covering scales would be transformed into some form of feather.

Longer and longer leaps would become possible as the animals discovered the secret of flight, and then finally a beginning was made in the active use of the primitive wings.

The great strides made in the course of these countless years are to be seen in the wonderful flying achievements of present-day birds, which have been known to travel as fast as, if not faster than, airplanes. Further-placed usually travel at a pace thirty to thirty-six miles an hour; crows from thirty-one to forty-two; small song-birds at twenty to thirty-seven; starlings at thirty-eight to forty-two; and ducks at forty-five to fifty-nine. A famous naturalist has the case of a flock of wild swans flying at 6,000 feet above Mosul, is unexplainable. In their ordinary pace they swan out-distanced the observer's airplane when it was doing eighty-eight miles an hour. When accelerated, their air speed was probably well over 100 miles an hour.

Although birds have been recorded as high as 15,000 feet, they are rarely met with above 6,000 feet, the greatest part of flight, including migration, probably takes place 2,000 feet from the ground.

The distance to which some birds can fly without stopping, many of the "world-exciting" power that flight has brought to them. Certain storks mentioned in the text in Rossinnis have been crossed annually westward across Europe to Syria, Palestine, and Egypt, and thence up the Nile through Rhodesia to Natal, the Transvaal, and Cape Colony. Similar journeys have been found in the south of France and in Portugal.

The power of flight has not always been preserved; over and over again birds have discarded the faculty. Everyone has heard the phrase "as dead as the Dodo," and this bird provides one of the best-known examples. Many other birds of the size of a swan; it lived in Mauritius. It was quite flightless, and the dogs which the Dutch sailors brought to the island in the sixteenth century were responsible for its exterminations. Now the Dodo is known from some remains in museums.

Among ground-living birds, the ostrich tribe and the penguins are the principal examples of flightlessness. The former are capable of running at great speed, but the penguin's wings have not fallen into complete disuse, as they have become adapted for swimming.

Not the Gulf Stream.

For many years we have been mistaken in the belief that England's comparatively mild climate was due to the Gulf Stream—a body of warm water that was supposed to flow from the Gulf of Mexico through the straits of Florida and circulate in the warmer of the Atlantic till it laved the shores of those islands and of those that lie in the North Sea—we must owe up the belief, as we have had to cast many others that progress and science have proved to be erroneous. On the testimony of no less an authority than Sir Richard A. Gregory, author of several text-books on geography, meteorography, physics, astronomy, etc., it now appears that England's climatic temperament is to be ascribed simply to warm wind than to warm water, the Gulf Stream being undiscernible "east of Newfoundland. Warm air is brought to England's western coasts from the tropical regions of the West, and the air is charged with an abundant moisture which sets free vast quantities of heat when the vapor is condensed to form rain. This theory, was recently endorsed at the annual meeting of the Science Masters' Association, and with such unquestionable support it must finally overthrow the Gulf Stream hypothesis, in the same way as the orange theory as to the shape of the earth overthrew the fallacy that it was shaped like a pancake.

Mysterious Race of Giants.

Some details of a mysterious race of giants, scarcely known to white persons, is given by Mr. R. E. Salkeld, medical commissioner, who writes from his office at Kismayo to the Geographical Journal. These mysterious people, the commissioner points out, are known by tradition to resemble all the local natives, but even unknown to Europeans. They must have been heard of, however, as their name appears on old maps. A War Office map published in 1903 records the name of the people. Meanwhile, Mr. Salkeld generally reported, he has talked, that this giant race cultivated large areas, conserved a local water supply, owned camels, lived in round huts, came from Abyssinia, and finally that they were Christian. Their bones, said to have been so large that a thigh of the present day could not fit one. The height of the bestatuing of the end of life race is that a man and girl quarrelled, the man beat the girl and cut her nose off; the girl's brother killed her insulter, and she quarrel spread.

New York's Stolen Cars.

It is estimated that there were 9608 automobiles, valued at approximately $7,000,000, stolen in the cities of New York State during 1920. Of this number 3,896 automobiles were recovered by the police.

ALLIES STILL STAY IN CONSTANTINOPLE

REPUBLICANS ARE LIKELY TO CONTROL HOUSE

Canadian Press Despatch

New York, Nov. 9.—Returns from all but three Congressional districts where results were still undetermined at noon today, show 224 Republicans, 205 Democrats, one Socialist, one Independent and one Farmer-Labor elected to new House of Representatives.

New York, Nov. 9.—Continued Republican control of Congress, but with the decisive majority cut in two and the House majority of 100 slashed to a scant handful, appeared today as the net result of last Tuesday's Congressional elections with the returns almost complete. Tight races in a few undecided districts not affecting the general picture, and delays in counting, however, threaten to postpone the announcement of the final figures until tomorrow. Reports of Saskatchewan returns, this morning, sent the Republicans over the top in the House control. The election of Mr. Scott Leavitt, Republican, in Montana, gave the Republicans the 218 votes necessary to control the next House. With seven congressional districts in Kansas, North Dakota, Washington and West Virginia to hear from, the roll in the next House stood, Republicans 220, Democrats 205, Socialist 1, Farmer-Labor 1, and Independent 1.

He was later taken out to be shown the Deaf-ness teaching to the deaf children, was exemplified. Hon. Mr. Motherwell expressed his pleasure in being able to visit the school.

WHERE ANDY HAS BEEN

HE ARRIVED IN BELLEVILLE OVER A WEEK AGO AND TURNED UP THIS MORNING

For the past week our popular funny pictures of Andy Gump have been missing. Many and many an inquiry came by mail from the young folk as to the cause of Andy's disappearance, just at the time of his election. Now we had not a few of the inquiries from our grown-up readers. The Intelligencer is very sorry to disappoint its readers but today we have secured the missing pictures and are running a whole page of them. Now we must explain just how the loss occurred. The missing pictures were mailed from Montreal on Monday, October 30th, and arrived in Belleville the next day. Down at the post office where they daily handle some twenty-five thousand pieces of incoming mail, the boys happened to get the parcel into the Daily Ontario box instead of The Intelligencer box. Such things only happen rarely, and considering the speed with which sorting is done, mistakes of this kind are few and far between, maybe only once in a hundred thousand times, and that is a better record than most of us can boast of.

Well, when the mail arrived at the Ontario office, last Tuesday, the usual pat it on the desk and it became covered with dust. Somehow they don't open mail there very regularly, and so it remained there a few days, all plainly addressed to The Intelligencer. However, this morning they got around to it and sent it up only nine days late. Now there is our explanation, dear readers. Don't think too hardly of the offenders. They did not mean to do it, of course, but only just a little slow. However, we may add that we will be more than ever on the alert, and readers have little to fear in the future of future disappointments.

A fast B. & O. train hit a piece of pipe which had fallen from a truck at Sutterville, Pa. The train was thrown from the track and the engine crashed through a fence. One man died and twenty were injured in the wreck.

CO-OPERATION TO ENABLE CITIZENS TO GET TOGETHER

Industry Needs the Workman and the Workman Needs the Industry, and the Chamber of Commerce is the Common Ground For Each

THE BEST TOWN IN ONTARIO

Expansion Campaign Now Being Conducted Intended to Cement the Citizens in Determination to Make Belleville Metropolis of Eastern Ontario

Civilization has been built in Canada as in every other country on the solid foundation of "Big Jobs." The Chamber of Commerce is a modern "Big Idea" and once the citizenry of Belleville grasped the idea the rest is fairly easy and certain.

In the fifteenth century Christopher Columbus conceived the big idea that the earth was round. One can see then, that had he not fought for his idea, the American continent would not occupy the dominant position in the world as it does today. Alexander Graham Bell conceived the idea that we might talk over an electric wire—result, the greatest Canadian invention—the telephone. In the past few years some one conceived the idea that we might talk to each other although hundreds of miles apart without even the electric wire, and today this is an accomplished fact.

Not many decades ago the idea was conceived that by putting an eye in the sharp end of a needle we could sew by machinery. So, on through the list, we have the gas engine, the electric light, the rifle, cannon, the reaper and binder, the steam locomotive, the aeroplane and a thousand other big ideas.

Desire for Knowledge.

Underlying all these big ideas and underlying all of the big ideas of today and the ideas that may be developed in the future, lies the fundamental desire for knowledge. There is something that everyone wishes for more than to fly, to sew, or to talk without wires—it is to KNOW. This desire for knowledge causes the public to examine closely things associated with their everyday lives. They wish to know things about their town and their vicinity, about their schools and their institutions, their stores and markets their industries and their municipal affairs. They wish to know what their representatives in the municipal council are doing, and can do, to lower taxes, to improve roads, to provide for industrial expansion, and to plan for the increased growth of Belleville, which lies ahead just as surely as it lay ahead in the ten years just gone by.

Co-Operation.

The big "get-together" idea or movement in Belleville aims at just these things and simply expressed, the big idea is co-operation, helpfulness, and happiness. The Chamber of Commerce movement calls for co-operation because nothing that is really worth while can be accomplished so speedily as when citizens with faith in Belleville and her future, work together, pull together, and come to a mutual understanding of the problems and difficulties which confront them. That is co-operation.

The movement spells helpfulness because citizens can "arrive" anywhere without the help of each other. They are dependent on one another; they need each other's town need the farmer and the farmer needs the town; industry needs the workman and workmen need industry; Belleville needs the chamber of commerce and the chamber of commerce needs Belleville. The aldermen and other municipal bodies are ever ready to welcome the help and assistance of any organization that seeks knowledge of civic conditions and ways and means for their improvement.

Common Ground.

The chamber of commerce movement develops happiness and contentment because it provides a common ground on which the citizens of every class—the workman, the merchant, the

McQUEEN TRIAL IN PROGRESS

PROVINCIAL OFFICERS TESTIFY IN McQUEEN LIQUOR TRIAL THIS MORNING

When the McQueen trial opened in police court this morning, before Magistrate Masson, all four charges in connection with the case were tried together, by consent, Mr. W. Carnew, K. C., for defendants, Francis Nephan, Licence Inspector, and Mr. C. A. Payne for the defendants.

There are two charges against Mr. Queen, the first under section 41 of the O.T.A. on a charge of having liquor in other than his private dwelling, and secondly under section 70, a charge of being an agent for the consignee. Then there is one charge against the Canadian Consolidated Distilleries Ltd., under section 41, O. T.A.; and a charge against James Boyle under the Carriage of Liquor Act.

Mr. Payne, appearing for all defendants, pleaded not guilty and the trial opened.

Provincial Officer F. Hughes, first witness sworn, testified as follows:

BOYS' COUNCIL NOMINATIONS HELD TONIGHT

Boys' Council nominations tonight at the City Hall. Every boy in Belleville is expected to be present.

Some of the questions to be considered by the candidates for the new Boys' Council:

1. Does Belleville need a new High School or Collegiate Institute?

2. Will the earning power of Belleville permit the spending of half a million dollars now for a Collegiate Institute?

3. Is the present site of the High School large enough and otherwise suitable for a Collegiate Institute?

4. If not, where is there a site suitable?

5. If it is necessary to go to the expense next end of the city to get a site, would it be wise to arrange to have Albert College take the Belleville collegiate students upon payment to Albert College of the present yearly cost of maintaining the High school, and save the half million dollars cost of the Collegiate Institute?

6. Should the city provide an athletic field? Where?

7. Should Zwick's Island and the Station Park not be made into parks and motor tourists' camping grounds.

8. Should the City Hall be reconstructed or should the city allow the $5,000 bequest of the late Senator Foster to lapse?

9. Should the Property Owners' Association publish a statement of their affairs?

10. Should the Property Owners' Association give its funds to the Boys' Council?

Then should the Chamber of Commerce be supported by the citizens?

BIBLE SOCIETY MEETING HERE

STIRRING ADDRESS DELIVERED LAST EVENING BY REV. F. E. MALLOT

"Let us give the Bible time and place in our lives, read it, and teach it to our children every day", said Rev. Mr. Mallot, Pastor of Bridge Street Methodist church, in his address, "The Book of Prosperous Nations", given at the annual meeting of the Bible Society of this city, held last evening at the Bridge Street church.

"Let us not read a scrap of the Scripture in a scrappy way for two or three minutes on Sunday afternoon," continued Mr. Mallot, "but make it a portion of our every day life. We should obey as well as eulogize the Bible."

Rev. Mr. Mallot also spoke in glowing terms of the Bible Society, which he described as being one of the biggest inter-denominational societies doing the most real work in existence.

Ever since the eventful day when the Indian Prince asked Queen Victoria wherein lay England's greatness, and she answered by placing in his hand a Bible, the Anglo Saxon race has been progressing rapidly as a result of the constant study and reverent obedience of the Bible.

John Richard Green, English historian, has said that the unbroken reading of the Bible has kindled a startling enthusiasm in Great Britain, and has not only given her affected English Literature, but has had a marked and lasting effect upon the character of the people. Queen Elizabeth and her successors attempted to silence the voice of the Puritan preachers, but their efforts were fruitless, because the whole nation had become a church, and has continued as such until the present day. That is the prime reason why we find such high ideals among the Anglo Saxon race.

In the ancient days, Erasmus wanted an open and intelligent Bible reading, but the fact that at that time, the read or translation of the Bible was punishable with death by the Romish church, as we all know, that the reading of the Book of Books is not only good for the Saxon's race but also for the Scotsman and the Irishman.

Samuel Taylor Coleridge, in his book, "Table Talk and Omniana" manual", states that our civilization is very largely due to the study of the Bible, the light of moral and intellectual character having been raised to its present standard by it. President Wilson of the United States Republic explains the immense superiority of North America over South America, by the fact that the Puritans came to the shores of the New England States with Bibles in their hands, while the Spaniards first came to the Southern country armed with swords.

The President of Princeton University says that he believes that the hymns written by John Wesley have done more good than all the English speaking people than anything else.

MINISTER MAKES SERIOUS CHARGE

Chatham, Nov. 8.—Hon. Manning Doherty, in addressing a large number of his constituents in East Kent last night at Dresden, reviewed his activities to have the embargo on cattle removed. He claimed he had kept silent in face of unfair and distorted criticism but now the present a controversy would wreck the chances of the removal of the embargo.

He gave full credit to all who made efforts in the past to have the embargo lifted, but said that he, alone, became their protests were made to the British Government.

He declared the successful results of the campaign were due to the fact that the appeal was made to the British people.

Mr. Doherty also declared that cablegram after cablegram had been received in Ottawa from importers of the move to lift the embargo urging them to forsake the scheme and pointing out that the embargo was lifted the Farmers' Government in Ontario would receive the credit.

UNITED STAND OF ALLIES IN REFUSING TO LEAVE THE TURKISH CAPITAL

Turks Expected to Come to Terms and Not to Precipitate Matters—Cable is Cut in Asia Minor—London Nervous About Ultimate Results—British Cabinet in Session

TURKS DESTROY TELEGRAPH CABLE

SITUATION AT CONSTANTINOPLE IS TENSE BUT ALLIES ACT TOGETHER

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Nov. 9.—Because of the cutting of the Eastern Telegraph Company's cable on the Kemalist side of the Chanak zone and their refusal to permit the company to repair it, the London morning newspapers failed to receive their usual quota of news from Constantinople today. So far as is known no overt act has yet been taken at Constantinople either by the Allies or Kemalists. But the situation is known to be extremely tense and the insistence of the Nationalists upon their demands for Allied evacuation have made the situation critical. Everywhere in British satisfaction is expressed over the recent evidences that the Allies are acting unanimously at Constantinople.

U.S. BATTLESHIP SENT TO DARDANELLES

Armoured Cruiser Ordered to Sail From Gibraltar to Constantinople "For Eventualities"

Washington, Nov. 8.—The armored cruiser, Pittsburgh, flagship of Vice-Admiral Andrew T. Long, commanding the United States Naval forces in European waters, has been ordered to proceed from Gibraltar to Constantinople.

Secret orders were issued to Vice-Admiral Long several days ago and he is understood to have sailed this morning. The should arrive by the end of the week.

At the Navy Department it was stated that the Pittsburgh is being sent to Constantinople "for eventualities." It was made clear, at the same time that there had been no change in the arding administration policy which is not to participate actively in a military or naval way.

It is entirely possible that sudden developments in Constantinople may require the immediate evacuation of the several hundred United States citizens now there. The Pittsburgh has a displacement of more than 12,000 tons, and in an emergency could accommodate all the Americans now known to be in Constantinople.

As soon as arrives, Vice-Admiral Long will take over the active commander of the twenty United States destroyers in European waters. They are a part of his general command, but have been under the direction of Admiral Bristol. Admiral, United States ish Commissioner, as senior United States naval officer in the Near East. The destroyers will continue the work of assisting refugees from Smyrna, as well as protecting United States interests.

MUSSOLINI ARE WITH THE ALLIES

Rome, Nov. 8.—Because of recent events in Constantinople Premier Mussolini is giving his advice to the British and French view for solution of the Turkish problem.

The new Premier has seen the British Ambassador here and a long, cordial talk thoroughly examined the Turkish situation and the effects of the Kemalist violation of the Mudania armistice agreement.

It is though Signor Mussolini will remain away from Lausanne on the other allies send their Premiers. Meanwhile he has retained the Foreign Affairs portfolio for himself in his Cabinet.

London, Nov. 9.—Lord Curzon yesterday defined the Turkish policy as "unchanged," and in the present difficulties, the Allies are making purely private problems and are presenting an united front in their present attitude the Turkish demand that they (the Allies) clear out of Constantinople. The Allies insist on the recognition and observance of their rights to remain in the capital pending a decision of the Lausanne Conference. It is felt this attitude will bring the Kemalists to terms and prevent a serious crisis and the "incidents" exploited.

Officials hope it will not be necessary to declare martial law, likewise they are prepared for it if the Turks insist on taking over the British court as threatened, or interfere with the constitutions.

It is asserted there are enough troops in Constantinople or nearby to enforce the Allied view. The allied commanders have full discretion on the spot have power to take any steps to meet the emergency.

The High Commissioners discussed what is tantamount to an ultimatum to Ismet Pasha, Turkish delegate to the Lausanne Conference, in the absence of the Mudania agreement.

It is speech delivered Wednesday afternoon, Lord Curzon said that they way to meet the emergency was for the allies to stand together. He did not think that Britain alone faced the menace alone.

A despatch from Constantinople says: "The Nationalist Government has reiterated its demand for the evacuation of Constantinople and the zones of the Straits by the Allied troops, according to information from authentic quarters here today. The Nationalists authorities declared that the presence of the allied troops and warships was incompatible with the Kemalist administration of Constantinople."

A special cabinet meeting was held this afternoon to consider the Near Eastern crisis. Lord Curzon, Earl of Cavan, chief of the imperial general staff, was completed to attend a private meeting of the present.

Cable is Cut.

Associated Press Despatch

Constantinople, Nov. 8, 7.45 p.m. (via Cairo, Egypt).—The Eastern Telegraph Company's cable has been cut on the Kemalist side of the Chanak zone in Asia Minor. The Turks refuse to permit the company to repair the line.

Continued insistence by the Nationalist authorities on the withdrawal of Inter-Allied control of the police, customs, railroads and censorship of Constantinople is causing considerable a recrudescence in the spirit it is believed here that it will be necessary for the Allied to proclaim martial law.

NEW APPOINTMENT

Mr. John Newton, Clerk of the Police Court, has just received word that his nephew, Mr. John B. Newton, K.C., of Toronto, had been appointed Director of Air of the Trans-Canada Telephone, and is the highest official in the Company.

Mr. Newton is naturally quite glad of such an important appointment.

TWO KILLED BY TRAIN

Canadian Press Despatch

Windsor, Nov. 8.—Stanley Spencer and Dominique Le Plante were killed instantly at 9.32 last night near Walkerville when their automobile was struck and hurled about 100 feet by a Grand Trunk mail train. Coroner Hanrahan said the accident occurred on a crossing on Pillette Road, Ford City, a suburb which town, now consolidated, is across the river from Windsor.

OPEN WEATHER AIDS FARMING

FRUIT AND VEGETABLES RUSHED; KEEN COMPETITION IN SLOUGHING CONTESTS

Following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives of their districts for the Department of Agriculture:

Prince: Generally open weather of late has helped on fall work. Fruit and vegetables rushed to clean up their crops while picking, packing and storing of fruit proceeds, of which there has been more than an average yield. . . .

Hastings: Early fine and mild weather setting at $5 a barrel and Greenings at $3.50. Good farmers in the county, however, said his apple crop at $3.50 the barrel to pick and pack.

Fall wheat is looking well, and practically no complaint has been heard of injury from the Hessian fly or any other pest.

Essex, north: "This week has practically completed the corn and bean crop. The corn is running a high grade of sound, and will be a large yield. Tomatoes have been reported as high as thirteen tons per acre, but a ton per acre over nine or ten tons.

Essex, south: "Fall wheat is looking dressed, has temporary relief from the threatened bankruptcy, even if the measure be not passed. The demand greatly exceeds the supply at present. . . .

Peterboro says: "The milk supply at the factories is low. Cheese sold on the Montreal market at $1.30 to $1.31 per lb. One of our cheese factories has turned to butter making for the winter, and is getting a nice supply of cream."

Grey reports: "Last one creamery has been buying cream and selling butter under a graded basis, and has received orders for all the pound prints they can make this autumn.

Brome says: "A local Shorthorn sale was fairly successful. Scotch heifers sold at from $150 to $200. Heifers three years old, from $100 to $150, while bulls ranged from $80 to $150, according to age."

Peel reports: "At a sale of good grade Shorthorns held this week, prices averaged about $5 a head less than at the Ayrshire sale last week. Cows sold at from $75 to $100. Two-year-old steers sold at $60. Some good yearlings brought $40. Several sales of stockers and feeders have been brought in during the past two weeks. One uniform load of stockers cost $6.60 per cwt., while a mixed load, mainly westerners, were purchased at $5.35."

Victoria says: "Live stock are coming in off the marshes and are in fair shape for winter. A good many are finding their way to the market but prices are not very encouraging. Hog grading is being put into effect at the different shipping stations, and is creating a good deal of interest and discussion."

Little pigs are selling at from $8 to $10 a fair in Lennox and Addington, but are bringing from $10 to $12 in Brome.

Lennox and Addington states: "Farmers realize that there will be no sale for poorly finished poultry, and as a result, many farmers are buying crates and crate fattening their chickens in order to market them to their best advantage."

Flowing is not a lost art in this Province. The Dundas representative says: "There is a marked improvement in the plowing of the younger men and boys through the district. In our recent plowing competition some of the contestants who did not stand very high last year, have come up strongly this year. Never before have we had such keen interest manifested, especially in the sod class."

CAN. MANUFACTURERS' TRADE ANNOUNCEMENTS

Impressions Gained by Mr. W. S. Fisher, Former President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association

Finds Conditions not the Up-grade.

Just returned from a business trip which took him from coast to coast, W. S. Fisher, St. John, N.B., past president of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, finds that general trade conditions in Canada are reflecting a healthy tone, and that the worst of the depression is over. His does not, however, look for any rapid improvement in conditions. In his opinion there will be a gradual stopping-up, which, after all, will be better for the country than any sudden advance towards prosperity. Referring to the Western wheat crop, Mr. Fisher said that the real effects of the fine crop will not be felt until the winter or next spring, when the farmer will begin to buy more freely. Still, on the whole, the fact that there are such large shipments of wheat is working out favorably, as it means greater employment in the cities, on the railways, at grain elevators, and in all those where the effects of wheat shipments are felt.

Canada at the British Industries. Fair

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce in London, which was organized two years ago and which embraces in its membership Canadian firms resident in England, has notified the Canadian Manufacturers Association that it is arranging for a Canadian section at the British Industries Fair, which takes place simultaneously at London and Birmingham, February 19 to March 2, 1923. This is an imimportant annual trade exhibition and, while Canadian exhibitors have been welcome, very little advantage has hitherto been taken of the invitation. The effort now being made by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to arrange for Canadian displays at the next Fair in a special Canadian section is a step deserving support from this country.

Comparison of the Ports.

Some interesting figures regarding trade through the port of Vancouver are contained in a memorial recently prepared by the British Division of the Canadian Manufacturers Association and other business organizations in favor of presentation to the Federal Government.

The gross tonnage of vessels entering the port in 1921 was 10,201,401 tons. This may not appear extraordinary, but when it is stated that the figure for the port of Montreal was 9,735,451 tons, or 465,950 tons less, the growing importance of Vancouver as an ocean port is apparent. Last year, at $197,405,322, and exports at $85,270,047, compared with $193,276,444 and $73,010,990 respectively for Montreal. Vancouver's customs revenue amounted to $12,999,075, against $13,572,085 for Montreal. Forty steamship lines are now using the port of Vancouver, compared with only thirteen ten years ago. All of which goes to show that Vancouver's position as a great national seaport is becoming firmly established.

Car Supply Situation.

The car supply situation in Canada, which had been causing some uneasiness to shippers, is showing some improvement, according to the latest figures issued by the Railway Association of Canada. For the period ending October 15, there was an increase of 2,000 in the number of cars on Canadian lines, bringing the total up to 170,035. There was still a shortage of 7,914 cars, but against this condition should be placed a decided betterment in the bad order car situation. On October 1 this was practically normal, there being only 58 cars under repair above the normal figure. On October 15, the number of cars under repair was 1,014 less than normal, showing that Canadian roads have done a great deal to improve their equipment.

Reports being received by the Canadian Manufacturers Association from members indicate that the greatest difficulty being experienced is in securing cars for shipments destined to United States points. This is due to the difficulty of obtaining American cars for the business, as Canadian carriers are reluctant to allow their cars to cross the border until some of their cars, now in the United States, are returned. While the railway companies have made very great efforts, to secure the return of Canadian cars, Association is not in such a condition that they are not returning cars in anything like the number they should. We're in hot for this condition there would be no difficulty on Canadian lines.

SWEDISH AUTO TAX WILL BUILD BETTER ROADS

Stockholm, Nov. 8.—Sweden motorists will begin to pay taxes on their vehicles and tires on January 1, 1923. Tourists from foreign countries, however, may still bring their own cars into the country and roam about at will for as much as twelve months without any charge whatsoever.

The new auto tax, which is to be applied to the repairing and improvement of roads in Sweden, is levied on cars and tires according to their weight. Each car using rubber tires is taxed 4 kronas for every hundred kilograms or fraction thereof, which amounts to about $1 per hundred pounds. The tires are taxed 1.50 kronas for every kilogram of weight. Tires in use at the beginning of next year will be exempt, and in the case of pneumatic tires, two extras will be taxed.

WILL COURT MARTIAL PREMIER AND CABINET OFFICIALS

London, Nov. 8.—The revolutionary committee in Greece has published a decree declaring the trial by extraordinary court martial of the former cabinet ministers and generals now under arrest, charged with responsibility for the Greek disaster in Asia Minor, says a Reuter despatch from Athens. The decree exempts former King Constantine from trial. It declares that according to the constitution, Constantine was not personally responsible for the disaster, but that the accused ministers have to bear his responsibility.

DRINK HABIT FALLING OFF

HOW THE 'VOLSTEAD OFFICERS KNOW THAT PROHIBITION IS WINNING

Austin, Tex., Nov. 8.—An odd way of determining the growing effectiveness of the enforcement of prohibition in Texas was adopted recently by Federal officers, who have this work in charge.

At stated intervals they gather data from the garbage collectors of the hotels of the principal cities of the State as to the number of empty liquor bottles taken from the rooms of guests for a given period. It is shown by this record that there has been a gradual decrease of empty bottles from hotel rooms of the State during the last several months, which is taken as evidence that the drinking habit is falling off and that bootlegging is no longer flourishing as it once was.

It is pointed out that in one of the larger hotels in San Antonio the waits formerly collected from the vacated rooms of guests an average of two and one-half baskets of empty liquor bottles daily, whereas now the collection is less than one-half basket.

Prohibition enforcement officers are also able to determine the kind of liquor that is mostly sold by bootleggers by the dregs in the empty bottles from hotel rooms. In Houston, San Antonio, El Paso, Austin and all of the towns in the Rio Grande border region the favorite beverages of Mexico are the favorites, probably because they are the cheapest and more easily obtained. These liquors include tequila, sonardiente, and mescal.

ADVISE TWO YEAR RESPITE

Berlin, Nov. 8.—The report of the experts who have been investigating economic conditions in Germany, Professors Kastan, Brand, Janke and Bissell, advocates a two-years' moratorium from reparations payments of Germany in kind and stabilization of the mark on the basis of 3,000 to 4,000 marks to the dollar by utilizing the Reichsbank's gold reserves. The report contends that the financial problems cannot be solved unless the mark is stabilized, and that stabilization would be impossible without a moratorium. The experts suggest that half the Reichsbank's gold would suffice, and should be devoted to repurchase of paper marks, the repurchasing to be restricted to German bank notes, especially those in foreign possession, but excluding exchequer bills.

The moratorium might need to be extended, and payments should not be resumed until Germany is able to discharge them from an real budget surplus, which the experts think may be attainable in two years. The stabilization would depend for success not on a foreign loan, but on development of the conditions of production and final settlement of the reparations problem.

They consider that their plans would be facilitated if in the meantime negotiations were started with a consortium of bankers to support stabilization by mutual credits, and also that a foreign loan cannot be expected until the reparations problem is finally settled.

Regarding an unfavorable trade balance, the experts state that statistics at present available cannot form a ground for adequate judgment and that Germany should have equal rights with other nations to impose customs duties on luxuries and the right to demand the most favored nation to treatment as regards exports the signatories believe that it is neither necessary or practicable to prohibit absolutely an increase in the floating debt, but that with the mark stabilized it would be possible also to allow just enough further increase to tide over immediate difficulties.

FIRM STAND OF ALLIES

definite menace to the peace of the world." He asserted that the Turkish protestations were without justification and could not be tolerated.

"There is only one way whereby you can make peace," declared Lord Curzon, "and that is by absolutely harmonious action between the principal powers.

"In the last 24 hours, however, events have dealt a rather rude shock to the expectations of the allies from the Mudania conference, and the forthcoming conference at Lausanne.

"The policy of the Turks is one of Nationalism gone wild, and is almost suicidal in its character.

"The pretensions of the Turks cannot be tolerated. They have no conceivable justification. They are a direct affront to the Allies and a challenge to Europe.

"There is absolute accord between the Allied generals and High Commissioners on the spot.

"Turkey must learn that there is a limit to the concessions which we are willing to make her. We cannot purchase peace at the cost of humiliation and of disgrace.

"Turkey must learn that the strength of Great Britain and the might of Europe are a rock against which she will hurt herself in vain."

Lord Curzon said the recent Smyrna action was complete answer to the openly fictitious agitation among the Indian Moslems representing this country as hostile to islam. The Turks had themselves done the very things Great Britain was reproached blaming at.

"If we are returned to power," he said, referring to the coming Parliamentary elections, "I shall wish to take up the questions of reparations, of Near East and Tangier."

In a further reference to the United States, Lord Curzon said:

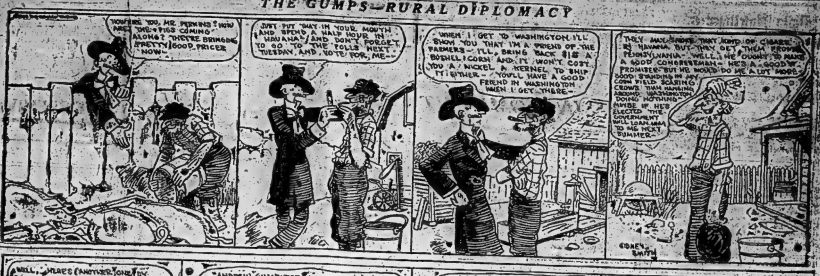

"America has got interests not merely political, commercial and financial, but moral, sentimental and humanitarian in a great many of the European problems by which we are at present distracted.

"We can never forget the part, both historic and practical, which she played in the war, and whenever she is willing to give her assistance in the establishment of peace she will find me, I still do a great deal of that respect, but she must do it in her own time and her own way."

STAY IN CANADA

Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador to the United States, on the occasion of his recent visit to Ottawa told the young Canadians, to stay in this country and assist in building it up. Sir Auckland believes that this country will have many difficulties to surmount, notwithstanding its wealth of resources, and to master such difficulties strong men will be required, the like of which Canada can produce. Sir Auckland believed that too large a percentage of youthful Canadians had sought fame and fortune in the States. He the sons of Canada, who in the last twenty years had gone across the border, had directed their efforts toward the development and building up of Canada, the country might have been much farther ahead to-day. Those Canadians who went away have, but in the majority of cases, succeeded beyond that point which they could have succeeded, had they remained in Canada. Only a few, with special qualifications, have developed opportunities that a smaller nation than have discovered opportunities that a smaller nation than Canada cannot provide. On the other hand, in the last few years, young citizens of the United States have been coming over to Canada in increasing numbers. They find more opportunities for them. For every good position the sons of States there are far more available most than in Canada. Then the efficiency ratio and driving tendency to retain good posts, is greater in the States.

How Canada needs the constructive services of all her sons and daughters, and in return she must be prepared to give them adequate rewards. Canada's field for future development is far greater than that of the United States. Thus the opportunities in Canada in the coming development and expansion will be far in excess of those of our American cousins.

All these lines of argument are applicable to our local situation in Belleville. Far too many of our local boys are educated in Belleville and drift away. It is not possible, nor is it desirable, to keep all our boys at home, because a little new blood in the community is an excellent thing, but the proportion of our boys who leave here is too large. In the last few years Belleville has made rapid strides and today presents less chance as many openings for young men as were present in 1912. As our city grows it is only natural to expect that a greater percentage of Belleville boys will find employment locally. Industrial expansion made to improve these conditions more than any other single factor.

Now a locality, such as surrounds our city, that is potentially rich in undeveloped resources, contains many rewards for youthful initiative and enterprise. After all, these two traits are the ones that command the highest rewards in the world of business endeavor, and it is seldom indeed on the part of young men and women to choose as a seat for their labors, towns and cities whose future is assured because of undeveloped natural resources. Such is one of the bright spots in the world-wide economic gloom, and the County of Hastings is one of the bright spots in Canada. Now neither Canada nor the county should have need to put their call to their youth to stay home, on the basis of duty.

HE'S NOT HURRYING

When the Ossin-King Government hired Sir Henry Thornton to handle the National Railways and sent him home to England to pack his trunks they evidently remarked with the last handshake: "Now, don't hurry."

Having waited all the time possible before appointing a board chairman, they would have been disappointed indeed if he could not have added his wee mite of wasted time.

That he is enjoying himself in England is as it should be. That he is being feted by his host of friends is conclusive proof of his popularity. But that a good whose knowledge of Canada was acquired in a few hours in Ottawa and one night spent in Kingston should tell in a column and a half how the National Railways can be made a success is even more than could be expected of a great railway man.

Moreover, Sir Henry evidently knows how to obey orders. He's not hurrying.—Toronto Telegram.

BANKS WARN PUBLIC

A great many stolen registered Victory Loan Bonds are in circulation and the banker are issuing a warning to the public to be on the lookout in buying bonds from persons they are not acquainted with, for the bonds are of no value for when presented at the general money transactions the alterations conveying them from registered to "bearer" bonds are readily detected. These alterations are, in every case, made by the use of chemicals and when the bond is held up before a strong electric light the alteration can be observed.

These stolen bonds are circulated mainly through shopkeepers who are warned against taking bonds from persons not known to them. The same warning applies to all individuals who may be approached to buy "bearer" bonds by persons other than their bankers, lawyers, or legitimate brokers.

PASSING COMMENT

Poets are born—and there's no remedy.

About the busiest thing on earth is an idle rumor.

Some men delight in telling the truth for the purpose of stirring up trouble.

The bread of idleness often causes mental indigestion.

After making a lot of good friends many a man goes into politics and loses them.

Premier Rosine Law told the women in his audience in Drury Lane Theatre, London, that he did not address them as women but as "citizens of this country with an equal interest in all that has happened." That's the talk—fifty, fifty.

The average housekeeper takes 260 steps in making an apple pie, announces a physician after careful observation. We're not strong on figures but statistics appertaining to and concerning apple pie—ah, that is something we can comprehend.

A contemporary remarks on the long list of persons ineligible to act as jurors, which includes the following: Firemen, millers, telegraph operators, editors and reporters, teachers, municipal officers, seamen, soldiers, druggists, doctors, lawyers, priests, ministers, registrators, judges, members of the House of Commons, senators and officials under control of Parliament, persons over 65 years of age and all women. With all these classes excluded no wonder Mr. Justice Lennox was impelled to reflect seriously on the intelligence of juries.

HERE AND THERE

THE MORAL FORCE OF ARTHUR GRIFFITH.

"Every great Irish leader has died in tragic circumstances since King Brian was slain at Clontarf in centuries ago in the very hour of his triumph over the invaders," writes Mr. Robert Lynd in The Daily Herald. "Those who sought peace died as tragically as those who sought war. O'Connell, Butt, Parnell and Redmond died broken-hearted amid the wreck of all their hopes as surely as did Hugh O'Neill.

"Arthur Griffith, who has died at the age of 55, was unlike any leader Ireland had ever had before. He may be described as a man who sought peace in the spirit of a man of war. He opposed for many years the use of physical force, but the moral force which he advocated was in spirit more nearly allied to physical force than to the moral forces of the constitutionalists.

"O'Connell, he once declared, had distorted 'the meaning of the noble term Moral Force . . . from passive resistance to despotism into passive obedience to tyranny.'

"It is one of the most remarkable facts in Irish history that Griffith originally invented the policy of Sinn Fein, not as a policy for his political opponents in the Parliamentary Party.

"He was himself a separatist, but he offered the policy to Home Rulers as the only means of getting the only sort of Home Rule that was worth getting.

"A seed had taken root in his own mind, however. He became his own most enthusiastic convert. He saw in the Sinn Fein policy a means by which the nationalism of King Brian and of Shane O'Neill might be fused with the nationalism of Swift and Grattan, and lead to a free Ireland in alism of Swift and Grattan, and lead to a free Ireland in which all races and all classes would be united.

"He may be said by his policy to have brought a new mind, as Thomas Davis had brought a new soul, into Ireland. There was not a corner of Ireland in which the coming of his little paper, The United Irishman, was not awaited every Thursday by young men and boys like the coming of good news.

"He taught them that every Irishman was himself Ireland in little, that each of them was personally responsible, and personally capable of, saving Ireland in mind, language and industry.

"Every Irishman and woman, he declared, must become an impregnable fortress of Irish nationality, and they must show their nationality not in their votes and their cheers, but in their daily lives.

"Day after day he sat in his little back room, naked of furniture, and with its bare, dusty floor scattered with the proofs of his paper, which Irishmen could read in papers, and worked out schemes by which Ireland could slowly take over the machinery of local government, set up arbitration courts to take the place of British law and the courts, establish shipping lines between Ireland and Continental and Irish consuls to all the great capitals, withdraw the Irish M.P.'s and let them assemble in Dublin as an Irish Parliament, withhold Irish taxes from the British armed forces, and withhold Irish taxes from the British Exchequer.

"The fact that the mass of the Irish people were persuaded by Griffith was from its beginning the inspiration of Sinn Fein. The idea was his; he made himself by his pen the leader of the national cause," says The New Statesman and Nation. "When the time was ripe and the path to success was open, his was the clear brain which saw the opportunity, his the indomitable purpose that refused to chase shadows and allow the substance to slip."

FUTILITY.

Wail not till Death has cloistered
The hearts whom you now forget.
To fashion resounding poems,
Bringing wreaths with tear-drops wet.

A fragrant rose for the living,
A deed that is tenderly wrought;
The kindly grace of a dulcet voice,
With peace to the spirit are fraught.

The day lyre ye tune to the sleeping
When the chastened soul has fled;
More potent thy songs to the living,
Than thy stately hymns to the dead.

PRESS OPINIONS

OSHAWA A PORT CITY
(Oshawa Telegram.)

For many years Oshawa citizens have been patiently waiting and waiting by turns for the new harbor which was promised them.

Since Mr. Clifford's election he has been right on the job and has not failed to place before his leader and the minister in charge of the department concerned, Oshawa's needs in this direction and he has wisely presented her rightful claims as well.

The day is not far distant, we should hope, when Lake Ontario will be something more than a pond and a mere failing pool. It is a great body of water, it touches the shores of two great countries; it is in the direct line of one of the world's greatest fresh waterways, that reaches over two thousand miles from the sea to the heart of the great continent, where millions of bushels of the finest golden wheat are grown.

We hope to see the day when Canadian and British ocean-going ships will find safe hold at the great elevators at the Twin Cities of the North, and when they will unload their cargoes at cozy, modern lake ports enroute, going or coming.

Not every hamlet on the great waterway will have its harbor, but those towns and cities which by their size, location and business importance would warrant a port of entry, a harbor of refuge, etc., should be provided with such.

If there is any lakeshore town or city in the Dominion that is entitled to a good harbor, Oshawa is that place.

We are enthused over the renewed activity of interest in the matter, our men are waking up to their position and importance and it is to be hoped that every legitimate effort will be made to place Oshawa in big letters on the seaboard map where she belongs.

And why shouldn't it be. Why should our automobiles and other factory products be shipped to the Montreal or St. Johns to be loaded into ships, when it could be done much more readily and expeditiously and cheaply right at our own wharves?

Nova Scotia, Welsh, English coal vessels and or any other kind of fuel could as well be unloaded at our own wharves as at others far distant, and at a much lower cost than as at present received.

DEATH OF DR. BRIGGS A LOSS TO METHODISM.

(Toronto Telegram.)

Rev. Wm. Briggs, D.D., who died on Sunday, was a soldier of the Cross who would have adorned apostolic profession.

He inspired respect for the cloth and for himself by his sterling character, his genial humor and his fundamental common sense.

He was an ornament to the pulpit and a journalist who regard as exceptionally clear-headed and shrewd business man.

The remarkable success with which he administered the affairs of the Book Room, originally a small denominational publishing plant, which under his guiding hand developed into one of the largest publishing houses in the country, made the name Wm. Briggs a household word throughout the country.

His death removes a distinguished citizen who enjoyed in an exceptional degree the good will of his fellowmen.

captain of industry, the professional man, the farmer and the laborer, that they may come together to discuss common problems, to secure a better understanding of each other, to help find remedies for municipal wrongs or errors, to straighten out misunderstandings in trade and commerce, to discuss educational problems, in short to function.

The possibilities are so many that it would be impossible to enumerate them all. This working together with men from all walks of community life can not but bring about a better understanding, a greater knowledge, and having this the growth of Belleville will gather momentum will nigh irresistible.

The Best In Ontario.

The big idea of a chamber of commerce has been proven in Belleville in the past. Then there probably Belleville is known as the best town in Ontario. Never before has there been the evidence of determination to co-operate such as has been displayed during this three-year period. To have gone ahead is to have even maintained its position in the municipal race during this period of depression is evidence of organization that the big idea can succeed.

Yesterday is gone. Prepare for to-morrow and to-day is now the time in Belleville and the big idea must go forward if the city is to realize its fullest possibilities and avail itself of the opportunities which the great world-wide work of reconstruction now presents. The expansion campaign now being conducted to cement a city-wide representative body of interested citizens must be completely democratic and must operate a scientific and efficient system if Belleville is to become the metropolis of eastern Ontario. The chamber of commerce is the only institution that should function for the best interests of all the citizens.

The time for definite action is now. Every loyal citizen of Belleville should make a larger investment of time, talent and material wealth in his city and in the chamber of commerce so that the big idea may be realized.

THE BEEHIVE — Chas. N. Sulman

1925 DUPONT AND HERBERT REYES AT REGENT.

Maude Annesley wrote the novel from which "Scattered Dreams" was taken. This five reel Universal photodrama which is the feature attraction at the Regent tonight to Saturday, matinee daily, exposes the underworld life of Paris and gives an insight into the life of Parisian artists. In addition to that it analyzes clearly the mental attitude of men who went through the recent war and restored home to find themselves unable to feel interested in the commonplace life of a civilian. Miss DuPont is the beautiful star of the photoplay and Herbert Heyes her leading man. "The White Messenger" a two reel Western drama featuring Eddie Polo. Vodevil Movies with its high class vaudeville bill, a Star comedy, and a beautiful Travelogue are announced for exhibition on the same program.

FOUND DEAD IN ROOM.

Finley Holt was found dead in his room in the Wyeott house, Picton, on Monday. Some time ago he was afflicted with a stroke from which he never fully recovered, although he was able to be about every day. The deceased was born in Prince Edward county but went to western Ontario when a young man. Forty years ago he was residing in a grocery store in Seaford. For several years he held a position in a store in Stratford. About five years ago he returned to Picton and has since resided there. He was sixty-three years of age.

CHEESE BOARD

At the Belleville Cheese Board held today, 879 boxes of white and 255 boxes of colored cheese were boarded and all sold at 22 1-2c., which is a slight reduction over the price paid last week.

CIVIC COMMITTEES.

A meeting of the various civic committees will be held this evening in the regular fortnightly meeting. There are some matters of more or less importance to be attended to.

I.O.O.F. MEETING HERE SATURDAY

On Saturday, November 11, the Grand Master, Bro. T. A. Sharp, of Midland, and Grand Secretary, Bro. W. Brooks, of the Grand Lodge, of Ontario I. O. O. F. will officially visit the Lodges of this District. Lodges from Odessa in the East, Brighton in the West, and Hastings to the North, will be represented. At 2o'clock in the afternoon a Lodge of Instruction will be held in the Oddfellows' Temple, when matters appertaining to the good and welfare of the Order will be discussed. The meeting will be continued in the evening, and at the close light refreshments will be served. The arrangements for the meeting are being made by a committee working with D.D.G. M., Bro. G. O. Wedding Bells

HEARNES—CLAPP

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 7th, at John Street Presbyterian Church Manse, the marriage was solemnized of Edna Mildred, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Clapp, of Corbyville, to Mr. Clarence Hearnes, son of Mrs. E. Hearnes, Camelton, the ceremony being performed by Rev. D. C. Ramsay. The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. B. Bedell. They will reside in Camelton.

ANDERSON—BLACK.

A quiet wedding took place this morning in Brighton at 10 o'clock when Miss Mary Black, daughter of Mr. Henry Black, of Trenton, was united in marriage to Mr. W. W. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shelley Anderson, of this city. Miss Evelyn Anderson, sister of the groom, and Mr. E. White, of Toronto, were the assistants. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left on the noon train for Ottawa and other eastern points.

OBSEQUIES
MARY A. WATSON

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary A. Watson took place from the residence of Mr. Harry A. Thompson, 38 Catherine street, yesterday afternoon. The service in Christ Church was conducted by Rev. Rural Dean Swayne. Interment took place in Belleville cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. W. A. Woodley, J. R. McCurdy, R. H. Ketchabaw, A. Guilliver, Webster and W. A. Clarke.

WILLIAM CORHAM

The funeral of the late Mr. William Corham took place this afternoon and was conducted by Canon Mackenzie of the Sons of England Society, of which deceased was a member. After a brief service at the residence of his brother, Mrs. W. J. Ridley, 20 Bonsell street, the body was taken to Emmanuel Church where the Rector, Rev. George Marshall, conducted services. A number of floral tributes were placed on the casket. Interment took place at Belleville Cemetery. Deceased was a past President of Orford Lodge, S.O.E., and six Past Presidents were bearers, namely, Bros. W. J. Savage, W. E. Armitage, J. E. Neale, Geo. W. Warham, R. H. O. Barbery, and John Fenn.

(Canadian Press Dispatch.)

London, Nov. 9.—The home office announced to the promoters of the Beckett—Siki bout scheduled for December 7, that the contest will not be allowed to take place.

McQUEEN'S TRIAL IN PROGRESS

"On Saturday, October 21st last, at 10 a.m., Constable Davis and I went down to the government dock. Everything was quiet there, but there were box cars and coal cars there on the tracks. Suddenly a motor launch came in from the north-westerly direction. That was the "Bonsor". Her motor launch about thirty feet long with upper deck. She was manned by Mr. J. R. McQueen, the two of them men. I then saw a party of men coming down the dock, having left a motor car apparently. There were four men, Mr. James Boyle being in charge. The vessel made fast to the west side of the dock. There were three large box cars at the north end of the track, a few feet from the resting position of the vessel. One of the men was carrying a case on his shoulder. There was a line of coal trucks there at the time. Boyle unlocked the car farthest to the north, and got into the car and received the case from the man who carried the case. The case was produced in court and identified. There was no letters or distinguishing marks on the box, and it was sealed. I investigated and found the box car contained liquor cases. I asked Boyle what was in the case. He said, 'Samples of liquor for the American buyers.' He said he did not know how many bottles there were in the case as the bottles were all packed in straw. I pointed out the irregularity, and asked if Mr. Hume knew about this affair. Boyle said a man higher up knew about it.

Boyle then took the case and placed it in the third car at the south end of the track and locked it. Then told him he laid himself open to the O.T.A. and just then Gray started to unload the liquor from the northerly car, the vessel having shifted around to the east side of the dock. Presently Mr. Boyle and the case of liquor in question from the southerly car and placed it on the "Bonsor". McQueen was watching there and the other members of the crew were on the boat. I sent a message to the District Inspector. McQueen received the case and placed it somewhere in the "Bonsor". Inspector Brunsdon and Inspector Morgan arrived shortly and approached Boyle on the subject. Boyle said that the case was transported to the dock by the automobile (a Ford sedan). Boyle asked if he were being put to the third degree, and he was told that the officers had the right to ask questions. When the case was requested, McQueen shouted to the mate, who produced the case to Inspector Brunsdon from the "Bonsor". The case was opened on the dock and it contained five bottles of liquor. The bottles were all different. There were as follows: one bottle Royal Palace whiskey, one bottle Royal Reserve whiskey, one bottle Old Kentucky whiskey, one bottle Pill on the Rock whiskey, and one bottle gin. The whole consignment of 174 cases was then seized."

MUSIC & DRAMA

"CHU CHIN CHOW," FAMOUS ORIENTAL EXTRAVAGANZA AT GRIFFIN'S TONIGHT.

"Chu Chin Chow," the wonder show of the universe, the mammoth musical extravaganza which only lately concluded the fifth unbroken year of its extraordinary run in London, which was presented in New York for a year and a half and afterwards was seen in many other big cities, will be installed before an appreciating Belleville public in all its original glory by F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest, at Griffin's Opera House tonight for one performance only.

"Chu Chin Chow" had a reputation in London of being the Napoleon's brook it seemed destined to run on forever. Its success there was phenomenal. Its presence in Daly's Theatre for five solid years. It has played continuously to the United States for five seasons and there is every reason to believe that it will continue playing in America and Canada for another five years. Such success for such extraordinary popularity is the fact that F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest have not permitted the production to be changed in the slightest, but steadfastly have maintained a star cast of the first magnitude, and each season have assembled the famous Oriental "fashion show" with new costumes designed and made in London, exact copies in fabric and design of the original models designed by Percy Anderson.

Written by Oscar Asche, with music by Frederick Norton "Chu Chin Chow" is a musical extravaganza of the Oriental, a gorgeous, vivid production of the glorious mystic tales of the Arabian Nights. There are fourteen scenes and twenty-four musical numbers ranging in speed a panorama of brilliant scenery and startling costumes, yet with well defined book and plot and a score of thrilling musical numbers, played by an orchestra of ten musicians.

BARTHELMES REMARKABLE IN "TOULABLE DAVID"

How love and adoration on the part of a carefree mountain youth for his big brother lifts him from boyhood to manhood in a single day and causes him to make unsurmountable heights in behalf of his brother is the story which Richard Barthelmes portrays to the public in "Toulable David," the star's first picture for Associated First National Pictures, Inc., which is to be shown at Griffin's Opera House next Saturday, matinee and night.

The play, replete with thrilling adventures among the mountains of Virginia, is full also of heart throbs wound around simple family life. Mr. Barthelmes, as David, reaches the hearts of his audience through his appeal for sympathy for the plight of the romantic country boy, and he thrills them with his revelation of indomitable courage and tenacity of purpose in the risk of his own life in defending these ideals.

A newsboy babe who pulls at the very heart strings with the message his entrance into the world carries, is among the characters. David's mother, a fragile, delicate, tender mother, pitiful pietes-in-the whose life is blighted by the tragedy which leaves her a hero-worshipper, all carry the same message.

The touching love theme which runs through the story, being the basis for many a delightful romantic scene, not introduced by comedy at times, furnishes a most beautiful contrast.

Mr. Barthelmes, who first appeares before the public as a star in this play gives a sympathetic and understanding portrayal of the youth "David," which will bring an answering heart throb from all who see him.

"Cheerful Credit" a two reel Brownie Wonder Dog comedy, Round Four of the "Leather Pushers" series, and Pathe News weekly will be exhibited as the same program.

SUN BATH CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

Paris, Nov. 8.—More extensive use of heliotherapy, or sun baths, in the treatment of tuberculosis has been urged upon the Academy of Medicine by Dr. Armand Delille. He reported that in favor of tuberculous cases, and also sufferers from peritonitis, had been cured by sun baths in various sanatoriums in southern France.

Dr. Delille said he believed the solar treatment would be effective in Paris during the early fall.

The sun cure was further praised by Dr. Maurice Benoit, who described his experiments with mice, where retarding effects have been achieved through the use of actinic rays and white light.

Experiments were presented to the institute to show that cancer is unknown in the tropics, and prevailed in colder countries in proportion to their lack of sunshine.

COAL IN ENGLAND BECOMING DEARER

London, Nov. 8.—Coal prices in England probably will reach the highest level in history during the coming winter, according to London retail dealers. A general increase of three shillings a ton has been made recently, and another will be announced, it is expected. (1)

The labor troubles and the forecast of an early and severe winter are given as the reason for the added cost.

Mr. Millet stated that during the past Great War, 350,000 Testaments were handed out to Canadian soldiers alone, as a result of having seen the result of the reading of the Bible not only in past wars but also in peace times.

Similar conclusions have been arrived at by such well-known men as Thomas Jefferson, Patrick Henry, Adams, W. S. Grant, Horace Greeley, Benjamin Franklin and even as early as the 5th cen' Gerhabdt.

Rev. Mr. Geen, President of the Bible Society, was the able chairman, and at the conclusion of the meetings votes of thanks were moved by Rev. Dr. MacTavish, and Rev. Mr. Millett, of the Methodist church, and a vote of thanks to the collectors was also moved by Rev. A. Kerr; of St. Andrew's church. Professor Hunt presided at the organ.

The following was the result of the election of officers for the ensuing year:

President—Rev. A. L. Geen.

1st Vice-President—H. W. Ackerman.

2nd Vice-President—E. R. McBride.

Secretary—S. C. Clapp.

Treasurer—L. W. Cook.

Representative form the various churches selected were as follows: Bridge street, F. S. Brown; Dundas-sacke, T. G. Bell; Holloway street, A. E. Bailey; St. Andrew's, Wm. McIntosh; John street, Rev. GIFT OF $500 FOR HOME FOR AGED

W.C.A. HOPE TO RAISE THE BALANCE BY PUBLIC SUBSCRIPTION

The regular monthly meeting of the W.C.A. was held Tuesday afternoon in the Council Chamber in City Hall. The meeting was opened with scriptures reading and prayer by the President, Mrs. W. C. Carman. Reports of the various committees were read and approved.

Mrs. G. F. Carman was appointed lady on duty for the Home for November.

The Belleville lady has very generously donated $500.00 towards paying off the thousand dollars still due on the Home for the Aged. When this has been made under the condition that the balance be raised in the near future. It is hoped that the citizens of Belleville will make it possible for the Home board on management to take advantage of the very kind offer and thus free the Home from the burden of debt. The following gifts were received for the Home for October:

CAMPAIGN FOR EVANGELISM

The Prince Edward County Campaign of evangelism opened yesterday with a large gathering from various parts of the County, every circuit being well represented. At the morning session Rev. John R. Mott, one of Architects, outlined the duty of Church worship lifting it to a high frame. The supreme value of family alter worship in the home was delivered by Rev. George C. R. McCusie, of Bloomfield. The closing session which followed brought out the necessity of home worship being personal to church worship.

The County convention of Evangelism was outlined by Rev. Howard Seymour, of Picton, who made the excellent fact that definite plans for Evangelism are now under way upon every circuit in the County. The splendid address on "Evangelism" was delivered by Rev. Joseph Barnes, of Milford.

The evening session surpassed all others and was the climax of a day of Spiritual uplift. The subject of "The Giving of our time and possession" was dealt with in a strong and masterful way by Rev. J. U. Robbins, of Wellington. Rev. J. J. Mellar, of Picton, gave a stirring address on "A call to service". The organization will long be remembered for its spiritual intensity.

Wind Breaks for the Apiary in Winter

(Experimental Farms Note.)

A good windbreak is of as much importance in the protection of bees during the winter as packing. Bees for comfort wished hives well protected from wind will stand a better chance of living through the winter than those in packed hives exposed to cold, chilling winds. A windbreak is also advisable during the summer, especially where the apiary is situated on a hill or in any exposed locality. The most perfect windbreak is an embankment of woods, as a natural windbreak is usually more extensive than man built for that purpose. An evergreen hedge serves or eight feet high makes the best artificial windbreak and wherever an apiary is permanently located this should be planted. A thicket of the same height is also satisfactory, but the boards should be set a short one inch apart to allow the wind to filter through. A solid fence is not so effective as one that is partly open, as it causes whirls which may strike some of the colonies hard enough to blow them. Quick growing shrubbery or vines are also suitable but if used they should be of such a nature that the branches are thick enough to make a good screen even when the leaves are off. Buildings alone cannot be relied upon for protection as they often divert the wind and make conditions worse besides giving no much shade.

The colony should be protected at least on the sides from which the prevailing winds come, usually the North and West. Sometimes, however, a cold wind may come from the East or South, especially during the spring after the buds have begun to foliage. fly and brood rearing has commenced. The bees are attracted out by the bright sun and many will be killed by the wind. At this time the colonies are weak and cannot afford to lose any of their working force, so need all the protection they can get; therefore, it is advisable to have the apiary secluded on all four sides. The fence should not be high enough to shade the bees until noon or they will not build up as quickly as those that get the morning sun, especially in the spring.

An apiary situated so that it is protected on one or two sides by a hedge and buildings on the others is fairly well protected. Often an apiary can be located so that it is partially protected by a natural rise in the ground on the north side but it would be better if a fence could be erected as well.

C. B. Gooderham,
Dominion Apiarist.

CUSTOMS OFFICIALS CONFISCATE CARS.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 7—The Canadian customs authorities here made a raid on all autos yesterday and last night coming from the American side, as hundreds of Canadians had gone across the river for Thanksgiving. Every car was searched, and considerable quantities of cigars and cigarettes were found. The following autos were confiscated: License 22-73, owned by Chas. Riches, Toronto; J. J. Fowler, Hamilton; W. L. Galbraith, Toronto; J. Walsh, Brantford; J. Jeffries, Hamilton.

The cars seized were all high-priced ones, including sedans, touring cars and

BRITISH SECRET SERVICE IN WAR

SIDELIGHTS ON THE SERVICE BY SIR BASIL THOMPSON BEFORE THE CANADIAN CLUB OF NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 7 (By Canadian Press).—Some interesting sidelights on the work of the British secret service during the war were told to the members of the New York Canadian Club recently by Sir Basil Thompson, the famous British criminologist, at a special luncheon given in his honor in the club rooms.

Sir Basil was at the head of the secret service during the war. Previously he was for twelve years commissioner of the Metropolitan Police Force at Scotland Yard. He described the methods of the secret service in dealing with German spies. The sinister espionage organization of Germany and its methods of operation were known previous to the outbreak of the war, but in order to secure further information as to its ramifications the German agents were allowed to remain at large under surveillance after war actually broke out.

"It didn't make any difference," Sir Basil remarked, "because the only reports which went to Germany were the ones that happened to be as their inaccurate."

Sir Basil told many amusing anecdotes of the days of the "spy" scare in London and the various rumors that the police had to contend with.

Expressing his pleasure at being among Canadians, Sir Basil in concluding his speech declared that in 1914 the British Government was in a quandary because of a shortage of rifles to furnish reinforcements for the "first hundred thousand." Then Canada poured her men over to fill up the gap," he said, "it's something that never will be forgotten."

Sir Basil plans to visit a number of Canadian cities before returning to London.

BIG BILL'S PHILOSOPHY

There use to be a feller in my home town that I bored alot about like a woman loves a mouse. In other words I didn't have no use for his stall.

It was not only his personal habits I didn't like but his face didn't suit me. How a face like that could ever cut me out of my best girl is a thing I can't figure out, but it did.

Well anyways, I hated him see, and then I went on a construction job, way out west, mostly because I wanted to get away from this feller,

After about a year or so this same guy came to the same job and I'm tickled if I wasn't half tickled to death to see him. Somehow made me think of home and the old folks. Everything and I fell on his neck like a long lost brother. Darn me if I didn't. I reckon there's something in the "home town" stuff after all.

GUN SLOW BUT EFFECTIVE, IS Japan Last Lecture Her Commercial Methods, Says Sir George Foster

Canada has its troubles and rivalries. Agnes Laut has just examined some of them in a new book, "Canada at the Crossroads."

For one thing Canada has acquired a small consciousness. Thus, says Miss Laut, it came to pass:

"Sir William Van Horne, one of the great builders of Canada, was up in his den, busy helping to transport troops for Earl Minto's visit to Montreal. Civil War. It was then he first met Lord Minto, the man who, during the wrest empire in the American Northwest. Once crossing the continent a group of us, all Northwesters, were sitting in his stateroom listening to his racy reminiscences of those early days, when he delivered himself of this somewhat astounding utterance: 'You can't line Hill who built the wheat empire of the northwestern states and it wasn't Strathcona or Mount Stephen or any of the rest of us, who opened the Canadian Northwest. It was the inevitable force of events.' Nor was it English bondholders who put up the money. All they will tell you what poured the population into the West. It was the civil war. The boys from Vermont and New Hampshire and Pennsylvania served shoulder to shoulder with the boys from the other territories — from Minnesota and the Dakotas and Missouri. They learned in camp talk of the West. They knew by map study of the Mississippi. They heard of the free land. They got the scent and what land would raise; and when they went west they would not go back to be boss hands on the East, not to slave on the old homesteads. They were restless and the call of the West was in their blood. That is what the Western West means. It wasn't the Pacific Slope but heavy-created by force of settlement.

"If we were alive to-day I wonder what we would say about the Valley of the great war as the Canadian West? Its making is by many times only on a larger scale. Over 500,000 Canadians were wounded in the service. About 150,000 have returned to Canada with a new vision of their own land, with a new sense of their own power, with a national consciousness and unity of purpose hardly known to themselves yet, but in a former period for the United States of Canada.

"But Canadians fail to see why the country grows so faster. They feel that something is wrong. They try to judge what it is. Here is somebody about one of them and his view: 'I wish I could get the canny Scot from Western man; but it might be used against Sir Basil Thomson, Scotland Yard. He's a provincial man, and I don't see for farmer law it must pay down $250,000 on filing, $500, 000 a year on finding oil, whether in pay quantities or not. Taxes are preposterous, terms. They simply keep capital out. Let them go in for nothing. Charge them nothing while they find the oil and begin to ship let us charge them a stiff but fair royalty on output, not on acreage. British Columbia was getting a royalty of 2 cents a stick, wouldn't $50,000,000 a year pay for better than the Dominion subsidy of $440,000 a year? Give to provincial resources. And as Premier Oliver of British Columbia recently told the Canadian Club of Vancouver, the Province of British Columbia would vote for that policy to-morrow.

Apparently it is a case of the Sleeping Beauty. Canada looks up the garden and gets the spell of relative underdevelopment, somehow, on the Miss Laut: "It would be laughable if it were not too sad to be pathetic to think that one of Canada's largest single items of imports is anthracite coal, while practically all of it were laid on straight to the Pacific Coast, which would make her independent of all foreign matters. Lack of railroads again. Capital doesn't know where it would be at if it began spending millions to get that coal out. Would it be 'national?' Would coop boo orators say: 'We'll take it back; it's ours!' Well, like the gold on Mount Selwyn, the pulp wood in British Columbia, the oil on Mackenzie, the potash on the Liard, it is all Canada's now. It is nationalised now to the dearest nationalist's heart's content; and what good is it all doing him, and what good is it all doing Canada?

"What makes Canada reaping a golden harvest from her coal mines in these four intervening years?

"Who is really being hurt by present conditions? The capitalist or the consumer, the profiteer or the householder? And who really is the profiteer?"

Duke Undecorative Prince.

The Duke of York is the best undecisely that the Prince of Wales could have, and is getting liked better every day. Although he chaffs his brother when he's a bit down about his success, and gives the tiniest imitations of his terrifyings whilst accepting the homage of the people, the duke is truly fond of his brother, and once H.R.H. is over the hills and far away, the "understudy" always feels it is up to him to do the very best he possibly can to replace the hale apparent.—London Mail.

PRECINCTS OF SCOTLAND YARD RAIDED BY THIEVES

London, Nov. 8—Scotland Yard, the world's most famous sleuth center, has been the victim of burglars. The thieves entered the lost property office of the bureau last night recently and stole a number of unclaimed umbrellas and overcoats.

Finley to the officer, which is on the top floor of the low building, was made through the skylight and the thieves escaped through a window on to the roof of an adjoining building.

"I did, indeed," replied the pedestrian as he took a tape measure out of his pocket.

WHY BABIES CRY

It's often hard to find the trouble —It may be teeth—it may be stomach—but oh! so often it is just a chafed irritated skin—on which your baby has been cursed!

The remedy for this is so simple! Hours of suffering—night after night of disturbance—have been avoided by mothers, who have insisted on—Baby's Own Soap. Of course it costs a little more, but very little more, however—than what is often bought and used—but four generations of Canadian Mothers are there to vouch for its purity, for the soothing healing effect on Baby's delicate skin, for the lovely pure flower fragrance it leaves when Baby fresh and clean is taken from his bath.

Don't you think, Madam, it's worth paying the like a cake, a little more for Baby's best cake when your dealer sets for Baby's Own Soap. Adv.

"A Terrible Experience"

I Recall My Experiences with the Burglar with Feelings of Horror!"

"How would you feel if you wakened in the middle of the night with a flashlight shining in your eyes and the gruff voice of a man threatening you, if you make the slightest move, 'I'll shoot?' That was my experience the end of last March when my husband was away in the woods and I was alone with my three children. Everytime I think of this experience a shudder passes over me and as long as I live I shall remember it. At the time I really thought I would die. It's a wonder my heart did not stop beating. I was so weak that ever if I had any desire to move, I could not. I was bathed in a cold, clammy perspiration. Even to recall the shocking incident now makes me shudder. As a result of this shock that I contracted a high fever and for hours at a time I was delirious. I got so bad that the doctor finally gave up hope of my ever recovering. After a painful nursing, I was finally pronounced out of danger. But I had not got out of the woods, that, for no reason whatever, I was suddenly seized with pains. All the life seemed to keep me there. I kept moaning, getting weaker and weaker, so much so that my husband and children thought I was delirious about me. Doctors prescribed for me and while I willingly tried their medicines, only very few of them did me any good, but strengthened the good fight of lasting. My family asked me if I would try Carnol and I said it was willing to try anything. I set fast that I would not do me any good. After a bottle of Carnol taken I noticed that I completely restored my former health and strength, and, to conclude, I had my experience with the burglar with feelings of horror, I am entirely well and strong as I have ever been. Carnol is the most wonderful preparation I have ever used for building and restoring health and strength. It has done wonders for several of my friends to whom I have recommended it." Mrs. McC. etc.

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 9-4-23

It's sound economy to wear DOMINION RUBBERS for Fall and Winter.

They are made in such a variety of styles and sizes that you can get the exact shape to perfectly fit every shoe.

You might not get these good DOMINION RUBBERS if you ask merely for "a pair of rubbers".

Always ask for them by name—DOMINION Rubbers.

DOMINION RUBBER

A few minutes at night putting the family wash to soak in the rich, cleansing Rinso suds saves hours of rubbing next day.

Do not put the Rinso direct from the package into the tub. Make the Rinso liquid first.

Mix half a package of Rinso in a little cool water until it is like cream. Then add two quarts of boiling water and when the froth subsides you will have a clear, amber colored liquid; put it in a tub of cool to lukewarm water and you have enough for a batch of clothes. If the clothes are extra soiled, use more Rinso.

JOINT ACTION BY VETS ORGANIZATIONS

BY G. W. V. A. NEWS SOURCE.

General satisfaction is being expressed by ex-service men throughout Canada at the results attained by the Dominion Council of the Dominion Veterans' Alliance in session at Ottawa last week. The first conference of representatives of all veteran organizations held in conjunction with the Dominion convention of the G. W.V.A. at Port Arthur a year ago has ripened into a federation which has functioned successfully. Practically the first resolution passed last week was to the effect that the Alliance had justified its existence, particularly in the presentation of the program for further re-establishment measures for all Canadian veterans, before the special committee at the last session of the federal parliament.

It was also decided to continue the federation until plans for more intensified unity could be developed. For this purpose a committee composed of prominent veterans from all parts of the country, was elected to examine into the details necessary for adjustment in order to effect a fusion of all existing organizations.

The legislative committee of the Dominion Veterans' Alliance will also assume the task of ascertaining the ex-service men's case for additional re-establishment measures before the Royal Commission appointed at the last session of parliament to inquire into the subject. A program of practical measures was approved unanimously. Evidence in support of those measures will be gathered in all parts of Canada. The Executive is expected to travel, so there will be a full opportunity to carry out this end of the task. The first sessions in the re-establishment investigation will likely be held at the beginning of the New Year.

A Significant Custom.

Those who wear the little silk replicas of the Flanders poppy on Armistice Day, November 11th, will be helping to attain three most worthy objects, according to statements of those in charge of the distribution at the Dominion headquarters of the G.W. V.A. In the first place they will be doing their part in keeping ever fresh the memory of the 60,000 young Canadians who remain in foreign soil as the eternal sentinels of Canada's farflung battle line. The dimes, quarters and dollars gathered as a result of the poppy distribution will permit, in the first instance, the creation of local funds to alleviate distress among veterans and dependents, and in the second instance will help defray the added veterans in the establishment of an industrial enterprise at which they will be able to make for independent livelihood in spite of their disabilities.

The Flanders poppy as the "Flower of Remembrance" bids fair to become a permanent custom, and the G.W. V.A. hopes to have the manufacturing of the silken flowers for the Armistice Day anniversary preserved as a non-competitive occupation for the disabled.

The "Heart-Ache" Bureau.

In a recent letter a correspondent described the Information Department of Dominion headquarters, G.W.V.A., as the "heart-ache" bureau. A glance at its operations proves beyond doubt that the term is well applied. Through the medium wives, mothers, sweethearts, brothers and sisters, men for some years of veterans who have dropped out of sight without leaving definite trace. With slight clues to work upon, sometimes, the search is carried in widening circles until it reaches points on every continent where the missing man might have travelled. Of course the great majority of successful searches are concluded in Canada and the United States.

During the past weeks six requests for information concerning missing men were received, and particulars concerning two veterans, previously reported, were secured. Anyone with knowledge of the present whereabouts of the following is asked to advise the Information Department, Dominion Headquarters, G.W.V.A., Citizens Building, Ottawa:

W. F. Lonsdale, late Driver, No. C63150, First Heavy Field Battery C.F.A., thought to be in Alberta (letter in England inquiring); J. W. Smith, late sergeant C.E.F., lost right eye on service, last heard of in Montreal, (friends in Kentucky inquiring); Thomas Moss, late corporal No. 428123, 4th Battalion C.E.F., last heard of in Edmonton; John Mitchell late private No. 13117 C.E.F.; Jack Howard, late 2nd C.M.R., C.E.F.; Hans Christian Madsen, formerly Canadian Engineers (friends in Brooklyn, N.Y., inquiring).

Strong Endorsation

Many of the claims for adjustment of pay and allowances and other army payments which are still being presented to the Militia Department at Ottawa, are due to a lack of information as to regulations, etc. Claim after claim have failed time and again to secure adjustments by writing direct have been agreeably surprised at the way they have placed the matter in the hands of the Adjustment Department of the Dominion Command, G. W.V.A. In instances where contentious points arise, the case is taken up direct by the G.W.V.A. adjuster with the Militia authorities, and often the missing link of information is thus presented.

The following extract from a recent letter is typical of some of the replies from veterans who have benefitted as a result of this work:

"I am writing to express my sincere thanks in helping to get my wife's War Service Gratuity and Separation Allowance, which amounted to four hundred dollars or more. I had written to Ottawa on several occasions and could get no satisfaction. I do believe as long as I am living, that I have had just as much for the V.A. I would have had as much chance as a snowball in hell of getting that money. I wish you all the good success in your work for what you have done for others and myself.

R. M. J. W., Nelson, B.C."

The adjustment work of the G.W. V.A. has been carried on for the past five years on behalf of all Canadian British and Allied veterans, regardless of membership in the association or not.

KEEP AN EYE ON ROOT PITS

CONTENTS OF PITS USUALLY SUFFER LOSS BY ROTTING—HOW TO REDUCE THIS TO A MINIMUM.

(Experimental Farms Note.)

It is seldom indeed that the contents of a root pit survive the fall and winter storage conditions without being affected by rot or being partially frozen. This of course means considerable loss in the quality and quantity of the roots stored. Our experiments with root pits at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa have given us a few ideas on rot and frost prevention that we gladly pass on to whoever may care to make use of them.

We use a simple type of pit consisting of a trench about 3 to 10 inches deep and usually about 4 ½ feet wide, lying on a dry, well drained site. We use a straight, sheet metal ventilator with an opening about four inches square, these are set at approximately five foot intervals in the root pit. After filling the pit we cover it up with four to six inches of straw and then put on about four or five inches of earth. This layer of earth we allow to freeze quite solid before applying the second layer of straw and earth. By allowing this first layer to freeze quite solid, not only is better insulation obtained but a supporting arch is formed which helps to withstand the weight of the succeeding layer of earth of the pitted roots, thus preserving better storage conditions. Normally the surrounding earth is frozen quite solid by the time the second covering is applied. To avoid this difficulty we put a few loads of manure around the pits to prevent the soil from freezing so fast when we come to put the second covering on the pits we only have to shovel loose earth.

To prevent the spread of rot if our pits we make use of a few chemicals. Ours suspended fairly well to the bed by the ventilators on either side of the one where the highest rise in temperature occurred. If the temperature rose at the ventilators. An even, fairly low temperature in all the ventilators indicates everything in good shape. A rise in temperature in a ventilator denotes the beginning of rot in that vicinity and this condition should be looked after immediately. The rotting of a single root is enough to raise the temperature three or four degrees in the ventilator near which it is situated. To locate the spot where the rotting roots are to be found, we check up the temperature in each of these in that the same it we safe to conclude that the root it to be found close to the centre ventilator. An unequal temperature in the two adjacent ventilators indicates that the rot will be found between the centre ventilator and the one on the side where the highest temperature is found. A small rise in temperature means that the rot is nearer the centre ventilator whereas the increase in temperature almost equal to the centre one indicating that the rot is freely located almost half way between the two ventilators in question. By checking the temperatures in the different ventilators in his way it is possible to locate a rot spot very closely. The pit can be opened at this spot and the rotting roots removed without the necessity of going over all the pit, just the procedure where the exact location of rotting roots cannot be determined.

In any case it pays to keep track of the condition of the interior of the root pit by means of a good thermometer.

Preservation of the Antelope in Western Provinces

London, Nov. 8th.—Foreign Secretary Curzon, in an address today, declared that the position in the Near East at this moment "constitutes most definite menace to the peace of the world". He asserted that "the Turkish protestations were without justification and could not be tolerated." There is only one way whereby you can make peace" he said, "and that is by absolutely harmonious action by principal powers".

"In the last 24 hours, however, events have dealt a rather rude shock to the expectations of the Allies from the Mudania Conference and forth coming conference at Lausanne. The policy of the Turks is one of nationalism gone wild, and is almost suicidal in character".

Leithbridge, Alta., Nov. 8.—Government plans to prevent the extinction of the antelope in Western Canada are proving successful and the reserve created at Foremost, Alta., in 1918 with 80 animals in captivity has now increased to 130, representing an increase of 30 head for the past year.

The reserve, known as the Nemiskam park, comprises nine square miles and the steady growth of the herd and the absence of disease is good evidence that the experiment is likely to result in saving this most interesting species from the extermination which otherwise inevitably awaits it.

Swifter than the greyhound is flight, exceedingly graceful and beautiful, the antelop has for many years been a prize for the big game hunter and its numbers have been diminishing of late years with a rapidity that has aroused the concern of all lovers of wild life.

Ten years ago Dr. W. T. ornaday, the distinguished American naturalist, estimated that there were 5,000 in Western Canada. Today there are regarded to be only about 1,000 in a wild state in Alberta, and 300 in Saskatchewan, while they entirely disappeared from the province of Manitoba some years ago.

Proficiency.

A city business man was very loud on having proficient clerks in his employ. Before a clerk could enter his office he was required to pass a written examination on his knowledge of business.

As one examination one of the questions was; "Who formed the first company?"

A certain bright youth was "a little puzzled at this; but was not to be floore d. He wrote:

"Eve successfully floated a company while the rest of the world was in liquidation."

He passed—London Answers.

—Do not constitute a hockey team. Before you can have a successful hockey team you must have back of it organization, management and leadership. And after the team has been organized it will not stand very high in the schedule unless there is teamwork, combination and co-operation. Every player must learn to co-ordinate his efforts with those of the other members of the team—to serve as a thinking, co-operating unit in a machine that acts in masterly unison.

Twelve thousand people located on three square miles of territory, do not constitute a live, twentieth-century, go-ahead city. A city must have organization, management and leadership and team-work, combination and co-operation on the part of its citizens, or it will be scheduled with the tail-enders.

Kipling expressed it well when he said,—

"It ain't the guns, and the armament, but the everlastin' teamwork of every bloomin' soul."

The Foundation of Belleville's growth and prosperity must rest wholly in the organized civic spirit of her citizens. Good citizens, by their individual efforts are doing much for the betterment of Belleville, but it is only by UNITED EFFORT that many big and worth-while things for the common good can be acomplished. The old maxim, "in organizatio mthere is strength," is just as true to-day as it ever was.

Belleville's organized civic spirit, crystalized and made concrete and usable in Belleville's Chamber of Commerce, represents a force well nigh irresistible as far as things relating to Belleville's welfare are concerned—a force which is always ready to align itself on the side of progress, to promote Belleville's welfare and efficiently combat everything which opposes it.

Every citizen who wants to see Belleville's progress continue; every red-blooded man and red-blooded woman who wants to help make Belleville a more prosperous city in which to do business and a better place in which to live should be a unit in Belleville's ORGANIZED CIVIC SPIRIT BY BECOMING A MEMBER OF THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

INDIAN SUMMER.
(By A. U. Brandon in The Canadian Magazine.)

NOVEMBER,
A month of sober grays,
Of shortening days;
Of morning haze,
Of dying leaves,
Of autumn winds,
That smother hints
Against my sense:
It is for thee,
To world aside,
By wasting days
So halcyon,
As in our Indian Summer?

DAYS...
The most perfect
Of the year,
And of this season
Doubly dear,
Days...
Of inimitable bliss,
When earth receives
The parting kiss
Of summer.
Though their stay be brief,
(Midway 'twixt snow
And falling leaf)
Have you inveighed
Time, the jilted,
To give us Indian Summer?

The Daily Recipe

CHOCOLATE CREAMS.

One heaping cup white sugar, ½ tablespoon butter, 2 tablespoon grated cocoa, 1 tablespoon of gelatine (dissolved in warm milk and not in milk when ingredients), Pour rice flour and place on the fire. Keep stirring until mixture boils, then remove from the fire and stir again until a bit of the mixture can be rolled into a ball. If not thick enough, return to the fire and boil again. Have confectioners' chocolate ready melted and dip the balls several times into it. Place on waxed paper to cool.

LINKED LIVES

By

D. Kinmount Roy

A single blow sufficed to make the murderer even, but the man that remained stood with him before he could strike again. It was a life-and-death struggle upon which the half-moon looked down: the struggle of a brave man with fatal assassins. Lawson had failed in striking the deadly blow he intended, but the dagger had not missed, and Aynesworth was wounded and momentarily growing weaker, although hardly yet aware of his own hurt. Still it was doubtful how it might end, for he was an exceptionally powerful man, and his antagonist was hard pressed. But just then, when the issue hung in the balance, one of the fallen men regained his wits, and taking aim as he lay upon the ground, watching the struggling figures as seen against the sky, he fired his last shot, and Aynesworth fell.

"It is an uncommonly bad business, the fellow said when he recovered his breath, as he glanced at his comrade, "and we are not likely to get much out of it after all.

"Ah!" was the comment as the man who was the latter tried to rise and fell back with an oath.

"What's the matter?" his comrade asked.

"Matter!" he roared; "Furies!—Devils!—everything the matter! Can't you see that I am broken, crippled, cursed with bad luck! Ruined! ruined! ruined! He bellowed out curses as he clutched at the ground in a paroxysm of insane passion, and he poured out a torrent of profanity at every dialect he could command. It seemed to give him such evident satisfaction to put every evil thought upon the surface of his mind that the words and hurt them into the night, that then clearly was no choice but he must needs exhaustingly himself, with a groan of misery against the rocks, that the fit was past, for no one liked to hear.

Presently he called: "Pierre."

"I'm, captain," the man answered, glad that the fit was past, for on one liked to come the captain when his hour was upon him.

"See if the guide is dead or shamming." And Pierre reported the guide was not dead yet, but past all mischief and past recovery.

Then finish him!" was the order.

"No, my captain. I have no quarrel with Callot; let the poor devil die in his own way and time."

"Finish him, I say!" the captain roared, in another fit of rage.

"I will not," was the brief answer.

"You fiend, you beast, you coward," hissed the captain, as drawing his dagger he raised it to throw at his companion. "Who saved you from the grip of the tall Englishman? Your captain saved you, you ingrate! and you refuse obey, because you think him powerless to enforce his will. I'll let you see! I'll let you see!' and he began to drag himself by inches toward Callot, holding the dagger in his teeth. To move at all must have given him intense pain, but he was on fire to complete his task. His eyes blazed in the fallit light, and his teeth gleamed like a wild animal at bay. He had almost succeeded in reaching the guide, a yard or two more and the deadly blade would have settled accounts once for all, when in a flash he became sane and sober. All his senses quickened by terror. For a few seconds he listened with his ear to the ground, and then, with a grightful rush, he hallglancing from the wounded man to sneed the dagger in his hand to throw, but the uncertain whom to strike, and then lunebled it at his fellow-conspirator with a snatch of hate, and rolled over to take cover in the brush by the side of the gorge. He had forgotten in the eagerness of his passion that he had changed his position, and instead of rolling out of sight of any one passing he was almost over the bank into the deep, swift torrent below. There had been but an instant's wild clutching at vacancy and a groan of horror, and Pierre was alone with the wounded man. "Ho! the fellow commented, unmoved, as he picked up the weapon and felt the edge with a grunt of satisfaction, "a clemente,' he said admiringly, 'even though he fails to make good use of them!' and he chuckled under the sting of his sense of his own shrewdness. Then creeping forward to the bank, he lay flat and cautiously peered over at the point where the captain had fallen; but there was no sign of anything, he had absolutely disappeared. 'So!' he commented again as he rose back. The truth was, Pierre was a little at fault, for the captain and Lawson kept their own counsels as well that their unobserving subordinate had no clear idea what to do. Still it was easy while to find out what the Englishman had done him; and if he could save him he might command a substantial reward, and retire into private life on the strength of it. In this frame of mind, he proceeded to the bride Aynesworth's pockets with great content, while his thoughts dwelt upon a cottage in the fertile valley and a welcome face at the window. Then he hummed the last song he had heard her sing, a song very popular just then in the French army:

'You leave me, dear, to go where glory waits you;
My loving heart accompanies your steps——'

He stopped, started up, thrusting his plunder into his pockets, and looked in to the shadow of the mountain and up the valley. Aynesworth had no lately travelled, where he soon found a narrow goat-track which led him up the heights and into a safe hiding-place. The captain had heard them, but gave no heed, he commented to himself. 'Ah, he expected Pierre would be caught.—Not so, my captain!' he murmured to himself as he patted his wallet, well pleased with himself.

Either Pierre never had a conscience or he had contrived to live far without troubling its acquaintance; anyhow, he was supremely happy with his own good-fortune, and had no fault to find with his night's work.

WOMEN ATHLETES OF FRANCE STOP PEACE COMPACT

Paris, Nov. 8.—Peace has been officially signed between the two warring factions of athletics in the women of France. A temporary truce was declared last July in order to hold an Feminine Olympic Games on record; to which the United States team carried off several honors.

Gaston Vidal, Under Secretary of State for Physical Culture and Sports, acted as peacemaker. Both factions elected officers to represent them in the Union of French Sporting and Athletic Federations, and henceforth they will be known as the Feminine Federation of France.

The new Federation comprises 124 feminine clubs and athletic organizations throughout France with a membership of nearly seven thousand young women and girls.

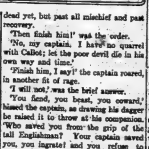

Fashion Fancies

THE SHORT TAILORED JACKET.

Tailored jackets are usually half-length—many shorter or longer—and are often quite straight being slightly buttoned about the hips. Some include flare from the shoulders; others flare about the back only, being belted across the front, and others fall to the knee or below, being belted all the way around at low waist-line or not belted at all. In the latter case the coat is tube-like or flares in shallow godets on the sides.

The waist-line remains at the hips for the most part, to the surprise of all, though a number of one-piece frocks show narrow belts at the normal waist-line and a few frocks are frankly high-waisted. The girdle is often dispensed with—the skirt itself tightly draped about the hips, replacing it. With this skirt the back of the coat may loosen slightly at the tight, flat skirt-back, a one-piece effect being retained in front where the skirt has the appearance of being buckled tightly across the prim-ness frock front—a very smart effect.—Good Housekeeping.

"SLIPPERS BY THE FIRE.

Mrs. Lewis sighed happily and sank into the worn leather chair by the fire. At last her house was spotless, her silver was all shining, and her tired and aching feet were comfortably encased in her old felt slippers. She picked up her knitting, humming "Silver threads among the gold" softly by herself.

Clara, who was seated at the table trying to get her Latin, watched her mother out of the corner of her eye. She had just returned from Belle's, and her wee still thinking of how beautiful Belle's mother had looked in her lovely dinner gown. Why wasn't her mother stylish and up-to-date like Belle's? Belle's mother had worn a soft dress of pale pink trimmed with gray fur. Her mother's old blue serge was shiny, and even when it was new Clara felt certain that it had never been stylish. Belle's mother had worn tiny high-heeled patent leather pumps. Clara couldn't bear even to look at her mother's old felt slippers.

Her eyes filled with tears. It is an awful feeling to be ashamed of your own mother. Belle had been so proud of her mother. Clara was glad that Belle could not see her now.

But what could she do? She couldn't say anything. Mother was a dear, in spite of her old-fashion ways. And wouldn't hurt her feelings for anything. Sometimes, though, it seemed like she just couldn't stand it to have her mother so old and dowdy. She stole out of the room and upstairs, where, burying her head in the pillow, she cried because her mother was not like Belle's.

At last she thought of her Latin which she must study before bedtime so she got up and washed her face. It would not do to let her mother see signs of tears there. She stole downstairs carefully and stopped short at the sound of voices from the living room. Her mother was laughing.

"Why, Belle," she was saying, "it's nice of you to say so. Sometimes I have been afraid that Clara was a little ashamed of her old-fashioned mother, and I know she hates my slippers."

"Oh," Belle sighed, "why how could you think such a thing? I'd give anything if my mother was just like you. Of course I love mother; she is so beautiful. But she is never at home, and she isn't a real mother at all. I want a real mother who will sit by the fire and knit and wear slippers."

Clara laughed happily as she slipped in and perched herself on the arm of the old, worn, leather chair.

"Mother is a real mother," she said, "and there isn't another like her in the world."

CARE OF CLOTHES IN WINTER MONTHS

Times have changed. Before the comparatively recent days of perfected house-heating every housekeeper had a cold storeroom at least for winter use, where hung in orderly rows or packed away in sewn-paper and well-repellents she felt reasonably safe so far as furs, extra blankets, winter woolens, etc., were concerned. But today it is not possible even in winter to forget the moth and the deadly Buffalo bug.

Unquestionably the commercial cold storage represents safety to valuable garments at a minimum expense. Even if you have to ship them some distance for this storage it will repay you during the summer months. Much of the damage is done in those between-season months when one hardly dares to be without the warmth that may be needed but often.

Closet care, both routine and occasional becomes a real issue. There is no better arrangement either for man's or women's garments than the pole suspended from the walls of the closet from which almost a limitless number of garments hangs may be hung. Be careful that this pole is changed in height in the children's closets so that it becomes easy for them to learn the tidy habit of hanging up their own garments.

Men's clothes are far more difficult to care for and protect than the average woman's. Possibly because they are alone, if not quit all wool, but also because an occasional grease spot often mixed in cleaning offers the most attractive of meals to the moth. My precautions have proved a real protection from moths, so I pass them on. Every closet holding garments has in lining of cedarized paper. Second, every closet has its monthly cleaning and airing with a plentiful hose insecticide. And finally every closet is equipped with the commercial moth-proof bags into which all seasonal clothes are placed after being cleaned.—Good Housekeeping.

GET RID OF INDIGESTION.

Few people realize the importance of keeping the stomach free from excessive hydrochloric acid. Yet Acid Stomach is the cause of nine-tenths of all stomach trouble. The cold snure acid ferments irritating to that delicate lining, bloating, indigestion, and the stomach pains that every sufferer knows so well. People add artificial digestants are not needed. They give only temporary relief and often do great harm.

Neutralize or sweeten the stomach acids after eating with a glass of warm or hot Magnesia water. A teaspoonful or four tablets of pure Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist, and try this for a few days. Eat what you want and when your meals.

OYSTER FRITTERS:—Drain twenty-five oysters and chop fine. Beat two eggs; when light add one-fourth cup St. Charles Milk and three-fourths cup water; then stir in a scant pint of sifted flour; beat smooth. Salt and pepper to taste. Stir in oysters lightly, adding one-half teaspoonful baking powder. Combine well, and fry by dropping tablespoonfuls into hot vegetable lard.

RISE OF GANGES BREAKS ALL RECORDS

INDIAN VILLAGES ARE SWEPT AWAY BY THE GREAT ANNUAL FLOODS

(Associated Press.)

Cawnpore, India, Nov. 8.—The great rise of the Ganges river, which has broken all records of its past thirty years, has led to the flooding of vast districts on the Unao side. Many villages on both sides of the railway line to Unao are under water, and hundreds of hamlets have been washed away.

The floods are on the decline now, but the rains continue intermittently, making the lot of those rendered homeless still harder. People whose houses have been washed away have taken shelter in neighboring villages, and some have been accommodated in railway cars. Virtually all the villages situated along the banks of the Ramganga river have been inundated. Houses and cattle have been washed away, and standing crops ruined.

In some places the rise of the river was so sudden that people who were in the fields tending their cattle or crops were cut off. Many were compelled to take refuge in trees until the floods subsided. Others were rescued by relief parties. Planks were tied together and let down from railway bridges on the Ramganga, enabling a number of people struggling in the water to be hoisted to safety.

The railway line between Kashgan and Got line has been washed out for about seven hundred feet, and cannot be repaired for some time. The railway connection with Delhi also has been cut. The Lucknow road is still impassable in many places, and no communication is possible with outlying villages.

Large supplies of food, sent by the citizens of Cawnpore, have helped to relieve the distress.

DOCTORS ADVISING PIPES FOR WOMEN

CIGARETTE IS STILL THE FAVORITE AMONG ENGLISH WOMEN HOWEVER

(Associated Press.)

London, Nov. 8.—English physicians are urging women who are addicted to smoking, to use a pipe and good tobacco instead of the cigarette. The doctors point out that the nicotine found in the cheaper brands of cigarettes is much more injurious to women than to men, and they declare that the perfumes and scents used in brands prepared for the fair sex also are injurious.

Two recent deaths of women have been attributed directly to cigarette smoking. While these cases have been due to excessive smoking, the physicians say that the same amount of pipe smoking probably would not have had fatal results.

Smoking among women in London is now almost universal, and one rarely goes to a theatre, dance or restaurant where the majority of the women present are not smoking.

Recently two young women appeared at an athletic meet smoking pipes, and many of the fashionable shops of Bond street have exhibited stocks of pipes designed for the feminine smoker. However, the innovation has made little progress, and cigarettes are still the lady's delight.

OVER 1,500 CHINESE IN BUSINESS

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 9.—Records of the City of Vancouver's license department indicate that 1,450 Chinese and Japanese are licensed tradesmen within the city limits. This does not include Orientals working for a salary.

Doted up and down the city and confined to no particular quarter, these Orientals are engaged in thirty-five separate lines of business, including one bootblack, 203 tobacconists and 31 Oriental floor-wed draughts.

PECULIAR WAR MEMORIAL

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT PLANS TO PLACE A BUGLER AT BELLEAU WOOD IN LIEU OF ERECTING MONUMENT.

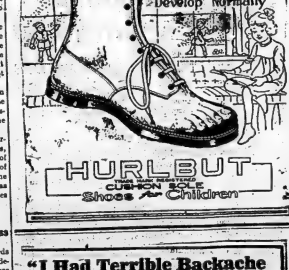

New York, Nov. 8 (By Canadian Press).—In view of the projects which are under way for the erection of Canadian war memorials in France and Flanders, it is of interest to note that a movement is on foot in the United States to have a bugler at Belleau Wood (where many U.S. soldiers fell) to sound taps every morning, this arrangement to take the place of erecting a monument. The idea is thus expressed in a letter to the New York Times:

"The more one reflects the more one is impressed by the idea, its novelty and beauty. In the minds of many thousands of thoughtful Americans, not all of them soldiers, the sound of taps on the night air awakens memories that will reinstate far better than could a mute monument something of that exalted spirit in which our country entered into and carried on the war. To these minds, who would like to apply that spirit in life itself were it humanly possible to sustain such an attitude, even the imagined notes of taps sounding over there' its nightly requiem would prove an inspiration. How could we more vividly keep alive our sense of gratitude to our dead and our consciousness of that which they symbolize than by the audible sweetness of the bugle notes in taps?"

A Giant Snake.

The Zoological Gardens, Regent's Park, has recently suffered a serious loss in the death from pneumonia of its snake—a reticulated python, presented, about the East Indies four years ago. On arrival it measured under 10 feet in length, and was placed in one of the second largest cages in the reptile house, where was a den consisting of rubbish, it appears, with a hole in the middle. Recent charters had to be found for this, after each skin was cast, for the snake exactly 24 feet in length. At the census of the concern of the giant reptile it managed to escape from Mr. Keeper who was endeavoring to move it. After some anxious moments it was recaptured.

MR. MEIGHEN CLAIMS NATIONAL RAILWAYS ARE BEING CRIPPLED

King Government Playing Politics in Big Issue—Tardy as to Turkey—Premier's Indecision in Near East Crisis Strongly Criticized

That the Mackenzie King administration had made the directorate of the Canadian National System a matter of political exploitation by appointing men to the Board in recognition of services rendered the Liberal party, was the charge made by Right Honorable Arthur Meighen in the course of an eloquent speech made at Massey Hall last night on the occasion of the opening of the Conservative Women's Bazaar. He wished the new manager, Sir Henry Thornton, every success, but thought that whatever advantages and capacity he (Sir Henry) might have, he would be years before he could possibly sufficiently acquaint himself with Canada and the railways. Mr. Meighen also scored the Government for its indecision on the crisis arising out of Turkey's flouting of the stipulations of the Allies, to which Canada was a party, and called upon Mr. King to summon Parliament if the Government was unable to arrive at any conclusion. He also accused the Government of laxity in the matter of defence, and of leaving all the burden on the taxpayers of Great Britain.

Mr. Meighen, after paying compliments to the women of Toronto on the success of the bazaar and their political assistance, then asked: "What is the position of the Conservative party in Canada today?" He said that in the last nine months its records had been analyzed and scrutinized, and the record of six years of loneliness times and turmoil re-viewed. Somewhat would remain unsaid this time. The task of leading an administration through years of war was one almost impossible without some error, but the Conservative party stood now with its whole administration clean and pure, which was something to be proud of. (Cheers). No insinuation or any other charge of scandal of any sort dare make from the Government benches last session.

Sponge to Stifle Empire

"Where," said Mr. Meighen, "let us acquire what the Government has done in the months of its power. He thought the first duty was to see to the defence of the state, a matter which had been left in large part to portion of the time of the administration, which had, indeed, fled from the exigencies altogether. The Government had, in short, placed this country in the position of a sponger with in the Empire, according to others (Continued on page eight.

FIFTH CHARGE IS LAID

JOSEPH JORDAN OF TANIWANDA, N. Y., IS CHARGED UNDER SECTION 41 OF O.T.A.

As the McQueen trial proceeded at Police Court all day Thursday, and developments continued to develop, a fifth charge was laid under the O.T.A. When William Hume, Distillery Manager at Corbyville, in his evidence, testified as cross-examination by Crown Attorney Carnew that all liability of the Consolidated Distilleries Ltd. was covered when the liquor was loaded on the railway cars at Corbyville and sent on their way to the south, Mr. Carnew's answer called a warrant for the arrest of Joseph A. Jordan, one of the chief Wingers of the trial who was the consignee in the transaction in question.

Mr. Jordan was charged under section 41 of the O.T.A. as having liquor in a place other than his private dwelling house. . . .

Immediately after court adjourned, Wm. Hume went bail for $1000 and secured himself also for $1000.

AUTO ACCIDENT AT TRENTON

DR. FAULKNER'S CAR STRUCK BY SHUNTING TRAIN—OCCUPANTS ARE INJURED

Dr. J. A. Faulkner, of this city, at a few minutes after midnight last night had with, two ladies who were in a car with him a narrow escape from serious if not fatal injuries. It appears that Mrs. Alexander McLean, of Trenton, was in the city last evening and in company with Dr. and Mrs. Faulkner attended the production of Clu Chu Chow. After the performance the ladies were being driven home by the doctor when the accident occurred. At a railway crossing at Trenton some box cars were being shunted. Dr. Faulkner thought the line was clear but as he drove over the crossing a moving box car struck the auto with considerable force. As a result of the impact Mrs. Rixon suffered a fracture of her right leg and Mrs. McLean was slightly injured. Dr. Faulkner sustained cuts about the lips and one of his knees was injured. The car was badly damaged but it was extremely fortunate that the accident was not of a more serious nature.

He lunched with Senator Hardy of Brockville.

MUCH EVIDENCE TAKEN IN LOCAL LIQUOR TRIAL

Joseph Jordan, Consignee, Testifies, and Proves an Interesting Witness—Liquor Billed for Nassau, British West Indies, But Never Left Govt. Dock Yet.

At the resumption of the McQueen trial at Police Court here on Thursday afternoon, Provincial Inspector, J. W. Dumstead of the Provincial Police, was the first witness examined, who, on being sworn testified as follows:

"I went to freight offices of the Grand Trunk here, and secured the bills of lading for cars 18545 and 32447, third car 102467. The way bill for car no. 18545 was entered on an exhibit. According to the bill, dated October 24th, the car contained 770 cases of liquor weighing 29,750 lbs.

To Mr. Payne:—"I do not know where the way bill is made out, nor do I know where the agent secured his information. The way bill is dated from Madoc Junction to the Freight agent at Belleville. I did not hear McQueen say he was the owner of the liquor in question before. Boyle did not say that he did not know what the case contained, at least I did not hear him say so."

Joseph A. Jordan

Or North Tonawanda, N. Y. State, clerk contractor whose office is at 8 Sweezy Building and residence at 348 Payne Ave., was next witness who testified that he was born in the States and had resided there continuously.

"I have purchased liquor from the Consolidated Distilleries, Ltd., Montreal. I wrote them a letter and gave the order on October 2nd, 1922.

Mr. Payne then submitted a typewritten letter signed by Mr. Jordan and dictated by him to Miss Rogerson, stenographer in his office. A draft for $7,420 accompanied the letter. The letter directed the Distilleries to ship the liquor to James Southern, of Nassau, British West Indies.

Southern in a fictitious name used by me, as I did not think it was polite for me to use my own name. I met McQueen here in Belleville in July of this year and arranged for the delivery at Londonon, N. Y., on the Delaware River. This order was accepted by the distillery."

Witness then submitted a letter from the distillery proving that the order had been filled, dated Montreal, October 4th. "I visited Mr. Queen by telephone to convey the liquor to me. I am the owner of the liquor. None of this liquor was to be

POLLUTING WATER OF RIVER MOIRA

COUNCIL WILL TAKE ACTION IN MATTER OWING TO COMPLAINTS

A meeting of the various civic committees was held last evening and considerable business was transacted. Some discussion took place relative to the pollution of the water of the Moira river and the recommendation was passed on to the Council that that body take such action in the matter, as it was apparent the Provincial Board of Health had failed to take action. Other recommendations as follows were adopted:

Recommended that the annual commission of taxes be granted the Y. M.C.A.

Recommended that failing action by the Provincial Board of Health to have the pollution of the Moira river stopped, that proceedings be taken by the Council in the matter.

Recommended that the G.W.V.A. be given permission to use the City Hall for a concert for an evening, proceeds to be used for their annual Christmas Tree.

Recommended that Mr. G. L. Harris be given a refund of $5, being half of a tobacco license issued for one year, but only in use five months.

Recommended that Mayor Hanna and Ald. Ostrom, be a committee to act with the Chamber of Commerce in making arrangements for banquet and presentation to Mr. W. H. Robb.

Recommended that a concrete walk be built on West Moira street from Harmony street on the south, as designated in a petition presented.

HON. T. A. CRERAR RESIGNED TO-DAY

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Winnipeg, Nov. 10.—Hon. T. A. Crerar announced to his followers in the Canadian Parliament today his resignation from leadership of National Progressive Party "I shall continue to fight as a soldier in the ranks" declared Mr. Crerar at the close of a long letter to T. W. Caldwell M. P., chairman of Cuocus, in which he discussed his own position, the political questions of the day, and the future of the Progressive movement. Mr. Crerar stated that business interests with the demand position made it impossible for him to continue the leadership and that had these interests not intervened before reelection of post would have depended upon a clear understanding and statement of the Progressive program. The rigid restriction of the Progressive Party to farmers would, Mr. Crerar declared in the letter render the party dangerous to country as a whole but to the very people the movement was created to assist. All people of good will are bound to organize definite principles as applied to public policies should be included.

Mr. Crerar makes no recommendation as to his successor. The retiring leader said farmers and Labor should be active and considered "any fusion with any party in the House". What was necessary was a clear cut platform for an honorable co-operation could not be reached. It was interesting to note, Mr. Crerar says, that for close co-operation had been opposed strongly by small but powerful reactionary elements in Liberal Party, but today appeared to be special custodian for time being of welfare of privileged interests, and also in Liberal Party, and today appeared but I believe mistaken motives" were looking more as interests of their group or close than of the Nation.

ASSAULTED POLICE OFFICER

PHILIP FOSTER FOUND GUILTY OF OFFENCE AND FINED $25.00 AND COSTS

Philip Foster was found guilty of assaulting P. C. Wm. Evans while in the performance of his duties, by Magistrate Ponton at Police Court, and fined $25 and costs of $3. Crown Attorney Carnew kindly refused to charge his expenses to the accused, saying that he could return his car.

In summing up the case, the Magistrate stated that he was more impressed with the police evidence than that of the defendant. The fact that defendant did not know he struck the officer, he knew, but he was struck at him, so that proved the assault.

For the benefit of citizens in general, it might be well to announce that the penalty for this offense may be two years in the Kingston Penitentiary as well as a fine, so that interference with a peace officer, as pointed out by Magistrate Masson, is a mighty serious charge.

At first the Magistrate thought the sentence for the fine and costs, but on request of Mr. Payne, counsel for accused, and consent of Crown Attorney Carnew, the fine was reduced to $25.

LIQUOR TRIAL LAID OVER

When the McQueen trial continued this morning at 10 a.m., George Robinson is Customs and Excise official at son is Customs and Excise official at the Consolidated distillery, identified his signature on the export bills signed on October 21st, and delivered to Boyle, after Munro had also seen it. These bills covered the 200 case shipment and the 1 case of samples.

Mr. Carnew—"Did you know anything about this sample case?"

Witness—"I never saw the case."

Counsel—"But you have certified according to this bill which you made out, that you knew what the case contained."

Witness—"It was not my duty to know what the case contained."

Francis J. Flanigan

Credit man for Consolidated Distilleries Co., of Montreal, remembered a shipment going through his office for Joseph Jordan of North Tonawanda, N. Y., and received shipping instructions covering an order on the distillery here, and sanctioned the transaction.

"I sent shipping instructions in writing to the distillery, and I telephoned the distillery here. (The shipping instructions are entered as an exhibit.) The Consolidated Distilleries paid the freight on the goods from the distillery to the dock. Our duty was to see the goods to the wharf (and on board the boat)."

John R. McQueen

Owner of "Sonora" testified as follows:

"I am a marine carrier, and have been for 12 years. I hold Mariner's papers as Master. I have carried coal, grain, whiskey, canned goods, etc. I was employed to carry liquor for Jordan. I know Jordan, but do not know personally where he lives. I arrived in Belleville about October 17th or 18th, having been away about 11 days up on Lake Erie with a load

Sixteenth Annual Banquet Tendered Cheese Board

Mr. John Elliott, Manager of the Standard Bank, Again the Host; Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Federal Minister of Agriculture, Speaker of the Occasion—Over One Hundred and Twenty-five Guests Present—The Value of Grading Products Fully Illustrated.

By far the largest and most successful of the long list of annual banquets tendered the Belleville Cheese Board by Mr. John Elliott was the sixteenth held yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Quinte. Over one hundred and twenty-five guests, from all parts of the country were present, the most distinguished of these being the Hon. W. R. Motherwell, the Minister of Agriculture in the Dominion Government. Others occupying chairs at the head table were the Hon. Nelson Parliament M.P.P., the Prince Edward and Speaker of the Provincial House, H. F. Ketcheson, J. W. Walsh, Dr. C. B. Coughlin, D. D'Eschambeault, Dr. J. Cooper, James Balcanquel, Lt.-Col. L. W. Marsh, Col. W. G. Ketcheson, W. H. Dawson, H. W. Cunningham, W. J. Schuster, W. H. Nugent, Rev. Mr. Swayze, W. B. Hayes, Col. D. Ryan, H. J. Wills, Dr. Wallace Simpson, M. P., Mayor Hanna, Warden W. H. Reid, H. K. Dayton, M.P.P., C. M. Reid, R. C. H. Coughlin, D. D'Eschambeault, M.P.P., W. J. Cook, Rev. Archdeacon G. F. Bowman, Rev. Wm. Johnston, J. C. Bell, Rev. Canon Bone, R. D. Ponton, G. K. Graham, F. J. Knight, C. O. Moss, John McIntosh and others.

About a quarter to two the guests and down and partook of an extremely tasty and delicious repast. Mr. John Elliott was chairman of the meeting, having had that honor for the entire period of sixteen years, or since the banquets were inaugurated. Mr. O'Flynn led in singing several patriotic songs during the meal. In his opening remarks following the banquet Mr. O'Flynn referred to the fact that it was a great evening's honor to have with them the Minister of Agriculture. The Belleville men were there and could be ornamental, but qualifications they were able to fulfill. Mr. O'Flynn reminisced about the early banquets and Mr. Elliott's great work in assisting the cheese industry, improving the banking facilities offered them, the shipping and the collecting etc. He read communications of regret from Mr. Cooper of the Canada Steamship Lines, Toronto; W. A. Coote, the Hon. Manning Doherty; W. E. Burke, traffic manager of the Canadit Steamship Lines, Montreal; Fred Newman, manager of Picton; H. W. Waddle, president of the Canadian Drawn Steel Co., of Hamilton.

MR. ELLIOTT SPEAKS.

Mr. Elliott was the speaker, and welcomed the minister. He referred to several subjects and then referred to the Northern Ontario Fire Relief Work and suggested how the local people could assist. In referring to immigration Mr. Elliott told how local agriculturists should co-operate with the new departmental policies about to be adopted. He regretted that Canada was getting the place to New Zealand in the cheese markets of Great Britain. The splendid recovery of the Canadian dollar was a symbol of Canadian financial stability, and while in some lines of trade there were taking in nursing along all lines of commerce. The great crop of 1922 was a wonderful thing for Canada, and it made it reasonably easy to keep cattle over this winter, as better prices would prevail in 1923.

THE HON. MR. MOTHERWELL'S ADDRESS.

Immediately after Mr. Elliott's address Mr. Motherwell was called upon. He reminded those present that he was an Ontario boy and then spoke of the importance of grading to the dairy industry. He was strongly of the opinion that cattle, milk, cream, eggs, butter and every other dairy product should be graded. In this way only could the business be profitable under present condition. Mr. Motherwell thought that when dairying first became an established industry in Ontario away back in the seventies, it was the means of clearing up a mortgage. Today we can repeat, but we must be interested in the Canadian herds and dairy products are not what they were twenty years ago. We must be introspective. In the raising of hogs we are behind Denmark, New Zealand is heading us out in the cheese industry, and we must not permit this. To begin with we must not have hogs that we must grade, and Provincial feed is finished product. The cold storage plants were dealt with and the Government removed to the dairy industry, especially for export trade.

We should have trade representatives in foreign fields to look after these interests, advertise them, foster good will, study foreign needs, and encourage consumption.

OTHER SPEAKERS AND SOLOISTS

Mrs. Wilmot and Mr. John McIntosh each rendered solos that were much appreciated.

Mr. W. H. Kells warden of Hastings County; Mr. C. O. Moss, President of the Belleville Cheese Board; each spoke a few words on the dairy and cheese industry of Hastings. The latter drew attention to the fact that the local product commanded the highest prices in Ontario.

Mr. H. J. Graham spoke on the local industrial activity. He referred to the general good conferred on the community when a firm took a new product from the raw material and doubled or tripled its value, and by so doing gave employment to the boys at home. He drew attention to the American capital which had recently located in Belleville. The latter the motor car and bodywork have largely assisted in the intermingling of the rural and urban populations. Modern facilities of speed these relations to be more cordial. He welcomed to the city all visitors to Quinte and wanted them to mingle in the city activities.

The last speaker was Mr. Schuster, who conveyed the greetings of the Chamber of Commerce to the Cheese Board and was glad to know that there as manufacturing in Belleville to the extent of millions annually.

TEXT OF THE SPEECHES.

Mr. Elliott's address was most interesting. He welcomed the Minister of Agriculture to Belleville and touched on his first meeting with the Minister at Ottawa, when he and Mr. Cook, M.P., and Mr. Mark Sprague represented the Belleville, Picton and Madoc Cheese Boards. At that conference where cheese and grading problems were discussed. Mr. Motherwell was so well posted in dairy matters that there and then he made up his mind to have him present at this banquet.

A very kindly reference to the death of Mr. P. A. Shannon, President of the Shannon Cheese Co., was made. Mr. Shannon was the only member of the Board who had passed away during the year.

The beauties of North Hastings was touched upon, and Mr. Elliott felt sure that these northern parts of the county were more picturesque than any other spot in the world.

A request for a sympathetic consideration of the destitute in Northern Ontario, caused Mr. Elliott to draw attention to the Relief Committee Fire Relief Committee. The fire had brought almost complete destruction of 3,000 square miles and 1,000 houses were destroyed. The property loss was over $1,000,000, and 10,000 people are practically in a destitute condition. Some of the gifts to the committee were $100,000 donated by Dominion Government; $100,000 donated by Belleville Cheese Board.

Prizes were being rapidly built and when these were built cheers would immediately arise a need for 500 comforters and other furniture and cooking utensils as a cost of over $100 each.

Appeal for assistance will be made to the Women's Institutes and the Rod Cross Societies throughout this Province. Belleville's Red Cross Society has offered to give $100 for relief purposes.

H. J. Graham introduced at the disposal of the committee a portion of his cold storage plant whose goods may be delivered by local agencies, and at the proper time he addressed to Northern Ontario, as large lots of potatoes and cured food if shipped in larger quantities than immediate requirements would freeze before consumed.

Referring to Immigration, Mr. Elliott continued: It is the intention of the Dominion and Provincial Governments to encourage an increase of immigration from Great Britain to Canada during the year 1923.

the great majority of whom will be placed on farms. Great Britain has appropriated $75,000,000 to aid those desirous of emigrants from the British Isles to settle in other British Dominions. Canada intends taking advantage of this offer. Fifteen million dollars annually will be extended until the appropriation is exhausted. Canadian farmers will be asked to deed in trust one or two acres of their farms to a committee, who will, on their property, erect a laborer's cottage at a cost of $1,500; $750 of which will be provided by the British Government. At the end of five years the original owner of the property will have the privilege of re-purchasing his house and land for $1,000. This step is being taken with a view to assist farmers to permanently employ their own sons. New Zealand and Australia are in active competition with Canada for desirable immigrants.

The development of Canada is shown by the figures herewith submitted, which are taken from Government reports and other authentic sources, and may be relied upon as being approximately correct.

Bank Deposits.

Sept. 30, 1921	$2,080,000,000
Sept. 30, 1922	$1,988,000,000
Decrease for the year	$107,000,000
Deposits in 1922	$1,985,000,000
Deposits for 1914	$1,094,000,000
Increase in 8 years	$891,000,000

Invested in Government Bonds, $1,000,000,000.

Total increase in savings by Canadian people in 8 years as represented by bank deposits and investments in government bonds, $2,791,000,000.

Net National Debt

Sept. 30, '22	$2,364,000,000
Sept. 30, '14	$ 336,000,000
Increase since 1914	$2,048,000,000

Total savings as represented by bank deposits and War Loan investments, Sept. 30, 1922—

Deposits	$1,985,000,000
Bonds	$1,000,000,000
Total	$2,985,000,000

Net National Debt

Sept. 30, 1922	$2,364,000,000

Leaving surplus in the people's savings from the above items, after deducting net national debt, of $1,501,000,000.

Regarding immigration it was interesting to show the number of immigrants entering Canada during April, May, June, July and August in the years 1921-22:

	1922	1921
April	8,598	15,092
May	11,198	14,143
June	7,295	12,277
July	7,737	8,456
August	6,629	8,547
Total	39,477	56,775

Cheese Statistics.

The receipts of cheese at Montreal from May 1 to Oct. 30, 1922, was 1,-429,850 boxes; from May 1 to Oct. 28, 1922, 1,079,081 boxes; making a shortage in 1922 of 350,149 boxes.

Canadian cheese in Great Britain as at Oct. 2, 1922—

	1922	1921
London	88,000	199,000
Liverpool	36,200	40,000
Bristol	21,000	33,000
Total boxes	145,200	271,000
New Zealand and Australia—
London	34,500	49,000
Liverpool	550	4,400
Bristol	400	7,600
Total crates	35,450	60,900

Canadian and New Zealand cheese imported by Great Britain from June 30, 1913, to 1922, inclusive (tons)—

	Canada	N.Z.
1913	68,000	29,000
1914	60,000	39,000
1915	32,000	32,000
1916	70,000	32,000
1917	88,000	24,000
1918	71,000	25,000
1919	49,000	37,000
1920	43,000	72,000
1921	55,000	69,000
1922	53,000	69,000

Usually the price of Canadian cheese is in advance of that of New Zealand on the British market, but recently some sales of New Zealand cheese have been made at 2c. per cwt. over what received for the Canadian product.

In reading Mr. Elliott Haviland's Queen's Hotel (Toronto) menu card for the Thanksgiving dinner, "Belleville Cheese" was on Hors Oeuvres. This hotel used exclusively Belleville cheese all the year around.

Exports and Imports.

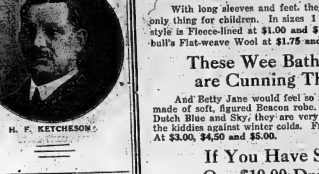

Then the Exports and Imports were touched upon. The official figures showing total export and import of the trade of Canada for three years ending July 31st, the figures representing millions of dollars were—

	1920	1921	192
Exports	1,364	1,079	785
Imports	1,253	1,080	730
	11	56

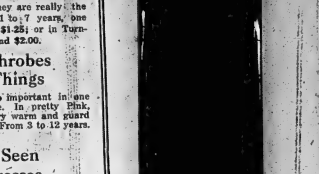

Some of the Speakers at the Cheese Board Banquet

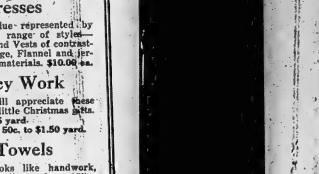

MR. JOHN ELLIOTT

R. T. GRAHAM, Esq.

MAYOR HANNA

H. F. KETCHESON

"From the figures above quoted it will be seen that during the three years under review, the exports exceeded the imports by $131,000,000. We must look at exporting more than we import, and if successful, we will be in a position to reduce our national debt without serious inconvenience to ourselves.

In December, 1920, our Canadian dollar was at a discount of 19 per cent. in the United States. Today, I am pleased to say, the American dollar is at a discount in Canada. Of all countries engaged in the great war Canada is the first whose currency is backed by gold.

"This country has just cause to be satisfied with its banking system. Branches are scattered throughout the Dominion, there being seventeen banks with nearly 5,000 branches and of the latter nearly 7,000 are operated and owned by five banks. Just here let me say that the Canadian people may rely upon receiving reasonable assistance from Canadian banks. While speculation will not be tolerated, every worthy enterprise will be aided financially. This applies particularly to the farming community, whose valuable services in the development of Canada are recognized by our banking institutions.

"Canada in 1922 has harvested an abundant crop. We have enough and to spare of the excellent grain, fruit and dairy products this wonderful country produces, but just at the moment ready cash is not easily acquired. Prices for cattle and grain are low, but likely to improve towards the spring of 1923, therefore I would caution the farmer against sacrificing his stock. Do not have too many sales; feed your grain. In order to carry out this suggestion it may be necessary to consult your banker, who will, I am sure, receive you sympathetically and render the necessary assistance. While banks are pleased to see every loan paid once a year or oftener, and which custom is in the interests of the client as well as the bank, yet under circumstances such as exist this year, they will not be found too exacting.

"In conclusion I desire to thank all those who have assisted me in making these annual gatherings a success. I am especially grateful to the Hon. Mr. Motherwell for favoring us with his presence today and am sure his address will be a great treat and inspiration to us. We shall long remember with pleasure his visit to this city. Originally these gatherings were attended by agriculturists only. Still they are chiefly intended to aid the dairy industry, but today we have an audience composed of all classes, representing not only agricultural, but including religious, educational, professional, mercantile and manufacturing leaders, all co-operating to improve the welfare and community spirit of the city of Belleville, and Bay of Quinte district and make this portion of Canada worthy of a place and name in the great British Empire."

Mr. Motherwell's Address.

"As you all know, I hail from one of the Prairie Provinces, Saskatchewan. Originally I was a Lanark boy having been born and brought up near Perth where we made a 10,000-pound cheese for the Chicago Columbian Exposition. In Saskatchewan we are in the a. b. c. of dairying. Most of us had some experience in the east but still we are novices in the west. I believe it was about fifty years ago in Ontario when agriculture was languishing, that dairying became a big factor in farm life. It was then that mortgages were cleared and a much better complexion put on the occupation. But I have risen at 4.30 a.m. to milk cows, and have felt such requirements to be a great cross. However, the acute conditions of the late seventies and early eighties were removed by the general introduction of dairying pursuits. Now that fifty years of dairying in Canada have elapsed, we find that the reputation we had twenty-five years ago is being challenged. We need a little introspection. We cannot live on old glory or reputation, long. Conditions in British dairy markets today show we are resting on our oars. Our position in Britain used to be unassailed. New Zealand today is challenging our position. Now Canadians, twenty-five years ago, under Mr. Ruddick, started New Zealand into the game. Over there grading was introduced the first time, and today our little sister colony is beating us out at our own game. We cannot pretend that. Probably during the war when the demand was great, prices good, and quality not a factor, we developed careless methods. Since the war keen competition has changed all this and we find we are challenged in the first position in British markets. Introspection is necessary. Quality must be recognized. Out in Saskatchewan a few years ago New Zealand was beating out Saskatchewan in the British Columbia market, the first outside market that was covered. New Zealand butter was then controlling the market. Saskatchewan butter didn't keep, because methods were primitive. The butter was overcoloured, the milk was not pasteurized, etc. The conditions were studied and the factories changed to suit conditions and gradually the market was taken from New Zealand. The grading system was inaugurated, that is to say milk and cream were purchased on the basis of butter fat and then the product was graded. Graded milk, cream and butter meant better products all along the line and a better revenue by all. Saskatchewan butter is now on the British market and grading is present all along the line. The Dairy Products Act, passed a year or so ago, deals with the grading and export of dairy products, but has not been enforced owing to its being somewhat ahead of public sentiment. This grading practice is spreading by contagion. A great deal of grading for export is done in the new Montreal cold storage warehouse at present. It will, no doubt, be generally adopted next year.

"Our trade and our good reputation is at stake at present and grading is the logical remedy. This statement applies to the constituents of bacon, grain, cows, etc. Grading cheese in several communities increased the volume of No. 1 select from 10 per cent to 30 per cent of the total amount produced.

"Grading of bacon hogs in Denmark has inaugurated a better study of breeding and today a Danish Wiltshire side is six inches longer than a Canadian one, all due to breeding. As this is the most expensive cut, the gain is evident. We can do the same at the Dunes, and as we have every advantage over them, except a geographical one, we ought to beat them out. They buy feed, and have tremendous other handicaps. Live hogs are being graded in Canada since October first. This is the only place on the American continent this is done. We can't blame the abbatoir man if we do not produce good ba-

SUPERVISED RECREATION

What makes a boy steal green apples?
What makes a boy like to jump?

Those are some of the questions put forward when the topics of recreation came up at the all-Canada children's week conference held in Toronto recently.

The importance of recreation for both young and old is becoming more and more important, but just how the recreation should be carried out is still a problem.

Dr. Lamb, professor of physical education, McGill University, Montreal, says that recreation should as far as possible be supervised, else it may be carried on in a way that is not good for the individual or for the community in which he lives.

There are some interesting features of this subject. What makes a child play, for instance? The consensus of opinion is that play is an expression of the pursuits of our ancestors away back in primitive days. The child's liking for climbing, climbing and chasing things is an evidence of the savage state. The child's liking for bows and arrows indicates his ancestral associations with forest and stream, caves, hunting ground, etc. Besides the kind of play a child is interested in shows something of his racial development.

Why do boys as a rule like to steal green apples? Dr. Lamb thinks it is mostly due to their love for excitement, especially if in getting the apples they have to outwit some crabby old man who guards the orchard.

One thing to be kept in mind in preparing recreation facilities for children is that some sort of supervision is best. In this way truthlessness can be discouraged instead of deceit, kindness instead of cruelty, justice instead of injustice, honesty instead of dishonesty, and courage instead of cowardice.

In every kind of recreation the point to be kept in mind is participation rather than observation: In other words it is much better for all the children to take part in games than for the majority of them to watch a few of their number, such as is seen in a school football match.

In the whole domain of child development nothing is more important than recreation. It has a most powerful influence on the future man or woman and on the building of character, as well as of health, sound recreation must ever be given a foremost place.

THE NEW TURKISH THREAT

While the British Premier has been preaching tranquility, pleading for it, and promising it, another tempest begins to roar in the Near East. The Nationalist Turks are dictating to the Allies with the air of a conqueror. They are trying to override the Mudania agreement and forestall the Lausanne Conference by demanding control of the Dardanelles and by ordering Allied troops out of Constantinople. Their stipulation that the warships of all nations must ask authorization to pass the Straits and must salute the new Turkish Government adds a final touch of insolence.

President Kemal Pasha hopes to match an advantage from the downfall of Lloyd George, in the belief that the new British Government will not be so resolute. The representatives of Britain, France and Italy at Constantinople immediately rejected the Turkish claims, and have asked their Governments for authority to take all measures necessary to keep order in the city; but, understandably, they have no military forces on the spot adequate to cope with a Turkish uprising. At present they could protect only a fraction of the Christian population from a Moslem outbreak. The British troops at Chanak could not leave their zone without risking a Turkish seizure of the vital point of the Dardanelles, and other Allied soldiery have been sent to Eastern Thrace to withdraw the bonster of the civil authority from the Greeks, to the Turks. In the meantime the Nationalist Governor of Constantinople is showing his teeth and claws by arresting the anti-Nationalist Turks, some of whom are reported to have been hanged or shot, with the result that terror is spreading through the Armenian and Greek quarters.

The most reassuring feature in the unlucky set of circumstances is that Great Britain, France and Italy in opposing the new pretensions of Kemal Pasha and in insisting upon the letter of the Mudania agreement. The French Government has sent a dreadnought to join the Allied fleet in the Straits. Acts of this kind may convince Kemal Pasha that the situation has changed since France and Italy deserted Great Britain in the face of his former threats.

HERE AND THERE

CITY PEOPLE AND TREES.

If you stop to think of it, you will realize that the city man and woman are far more concerned with what happens to the forest than the farmer or the mountaineer. It will be the city people, not those who live in the shadow of the trees, whose standard of living will suffer from the lack of wood. It takes more wood, used in more ways, to feed, clothe, and house the city dweller than those who live where the food and lumber come from. For after the raw material is produced it must be shipped, manufactured, and distributed, and all these are impossible without wood.

ENJOYING LIFE AT 85.

"Do not take sleep. Eat meat and other sustaining foods; smoke and drink in moderation. These are the only dietary rules I ever followed, and they are the rules I recommend to anyone who wants to live long and be healthy," said that wonderful old sailor, Admiral John Moresby, now in his 83rd year, to a London Daily Mail reporter. "I am not a teetotaller—in fact, I had a glass of grog today," he added, with a twinkle in his eye, "but I was always moderate in drinking."

In spite of his 83 years the admiral enjoys good health. He still goes for long walks, and is very active, both in body and mind. "I can read my newspaper all right," he said; "but my hearing has become very defective. That is not due to age, however, but to my having been blown overboard from a junk when we were fighting the Chinese pirates. My eardrum was injured on that occasion and my hearing has been impaired ever since."

Perhaps the one thing to which the admiral looks back with the greatest pleasure in his long life is that he secured New Guinea for the British Crown. "For doing this I should have been court-martialled and turned out of the service if my admiral had had his way, as I acted against orders. But I took the precaution of sending a report to the Admiralty as well as to him. Owing to the circumstances I got no reward for what I did, but within the past few years I have had a warship named after me, and that is an honor that has never fallen to a British naval officer in his lifetime.

FATHER AND SON SOLILOQUIZE.

The Father:—

It's a great job—this matter of being the father of a boy. So great that some men never discover how big a job it is. I wonder if I have rightly measured it.

It is great in its responsibilities. I am responsible for my boy being in the world; he had no choice but to be and to him I owe his future life; it's yours to do with as you will." I said to the world: "Here's a boy I've brought to you; he is yours to buffet, to exalt, to tempt, to help to succeed, to drag to failure." I stand responsible for this new life brought into the old struggling world.

It is great in its privileges. His life unfolds under my influence just like it. He is myself, but starting over new again. And I have the privilege of starting him in the right way.

It is great in its possibilities. He is my boy now; just my boy. But twenty, forty years from now—who will he be? Will he be honored, in a small area or a large one, for honesty, for kindness, for skill in his vocation, for wholesome influence? All this may be; have I aimed it? Have I let my imagination picture what it is possible for him to be?

It is great in the price it costs. If I have not eliminated the cost of being a father to a boy, God help me! If I think that a mother can take my place, or the school or the church, or the Y.M.C.A., or the Scoutmaster—well, if I think that, then I have no right to be his father. I may fit him up to all these; but my father's job still remains. It is pathetic to see a boy who has lost his father by death; it is even more pathetic to see a boy who has lost his father by indifference.

It is great in its dividends. There is no investment that pays so well. He may cost me time, and energy and money; but these are all counted as nothing when I see him grow to youth and manhood with his head high and his clear eye and his face set toward things that are worth while. But I can't get these dividends unless I first make an investment.

In fact, this being a father to my boy is the biggest job I've got. I belong to a half dozen organizations. I am an officer in three of them, I'm on a dozen committees. I've got a business load to carry, I have definite civic responsibilities—but, after all, what do they all amount to if I fail as a father?

How will my success be estimated? Will they say, He was a great business man; or, He was a great organizer; or, He was a great churchman; or, He was a great father?

God help me!

The Son:—

Say, my dad's all right.

THE UNKNOWN VOTE.

"What does this crowd of women mean?" the Nervous Voter cried.
"Brush up your wandering wits, my boy" Old Politician sighed;
"These are our new constituents, who thus triumphantly
Have come to exercise their rights, as per the law's decree—
Lord knows just what they'll do to us, or what results will be!
I cannot sleep one wink till 'lection's over.
"How will they vote, do you suppose?" the Nervous Voter cried.
"No living soul can prophesy," Old Politician sighed;
"That one's a Democrat because her dad before her was,
Another votes Republican because her husband does—
But lots of them will back and fill, and how their tongues will buzz!
To change her mind is every woman's birthright!"
"Suppose a house divides itself?" the Nervous Voter cried.
"That's just my own predicament!" Old Politician sighed;
"My erstwhile happy home is now the scene of tragedy,
Since wife and daughter both declare they'll vote 'gainst me—
Son and me—
Which makes our ballots null and void, as any dunce can see!
The words I fain would utter are not scemly!"
"The situation's critical!" the Nervous Voter cried.
"I'll say it is! I'll say it is!" Old Politician sighed;
"We men who deal in politics invariably stand pat,
We men who deal in politics invariably stand pat,
'Tis like a weather-vane she veers—first this way, and then that—Since Mother Eve they've kept us all a-guessing!"
—Marie V. Carothers, in New York Times.

Gains 35 Pounds; Rheumatism Is Gone

The wonderful reconstructive power of Tanlac are again very forcibly demonstrated in this instance. The grateful beneficiary is John H. King, locksmith, living at 129 14th Ave., West, Calgary, Alberta, who declares Tanlac built me up to good health, with a gain of thirty-five pounds in weight, over a year ago and I have been feeling fine ever since. Just after coming back from overseas, about two years ago, I was taken down with an attack of rheumatism that crippled me up so I couldn't work and sent me to a hospital for about ten months.

"During this long siege of rheumatism I lost fifty-five pounds in weight, going down from one hundred and sixty-five to only one hundred and ten. I was just a shadow of my old self and had no strength or energy left. I was terribly run down and felt tired out and exhausted all the time.

"Finally I resorted to Tanlac and got back on my feet so quick that it surprised me. It proved to be so well suited to my needs that by the time I finished the fourth bottle I was feeling a hundred per cent. well. As a medicine and tonic to build a person up and make them feel right, I don't believe Tanlac has an equal."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

CHU CHIN CHOW SCORES BIG HIT

GORGEOUS PRODUCTION PRESENTED AT GRIFFIN'S OPERA HOUSE LAST EVENING

One of the most gorgeous stagesettings and spectacular productions ever seen in Belleville was that of Chu Chin Chow, a musical extravaganza of the orient written and created by Oscar Asche. The story of the play told briefly is as follows: Abu Hasan, the robber chief-tain, enters Bagdad disguised as a Chinese Mandarin, visiting Kasim Baba, the rich miser. Here he meets Zahrat Al-Kuhli, the desert woman, who has been his slave for many years, secretly sending him news of those whom he can rob with his band of forty thieves. As hostage for her good behavior he holds Zahrat's desert lover in his cave, which opens only by means of a secret word engraved upon his amulet. Through Zahrat's information, he raids the slave market. Meanwhile, Ali Baba and his son, Nur-al-Hods, discover the robbers' cave and escape with much wealth. Ali Baba becomes rich, and weds Alcolon, the head wife of the miser Kasim Baba, who is killed in the robbers' cave. Zahrat foils the plans of Abu Hasan and the robber chief meets an end richly deserved.

From the commencement of the performance at a few minutes after 8 o'clock until 11.15 it was a never ending panorama of color and beauty. Beautiful women gorgeously costumed, striking scenes, delightful music and catchy songs all combined to make Chu Chin Chow one of the greatest stage attractions ever presented to a Belleville audience. The production showed a unique scenes and possibly one of the best and most sensational of these was the Bagdad bazaar. The costumes in this scene are magnificent and in fact are most extravagant. Many of the striking beautiful ladies in the caste are adorned with brilliant headgear of sandals, plumes, etc., which are most striking.

Bagdad with its colors, its gayety and its exotic scenes is admirably portrayed in the production.

Each member of the large company did his and her part with supreme ease and skill. The principals were the gifted Lionel Braham, who took the part of Abu Hasan and as Chu Chin Chow the robber chief. Don W. Fernadou who impersonated Ali Baba Kasim's poor brother, a wee bibber. He has a clear voice which is heard to advantage at various times. Hannah Toback as Marjanah the singing slave girl has a difficult part to take but by her acting and singing won her way into the hearts of the entire audience. Charles Jones made a great hit with his cobbler's song and his portrayal of Baba Mustafa, a robbler of Bagdad. Virginia Howell exemplifies most realistically Zahrat Al-Kuhli, the desert woman and her voice is heard to advantage.

During the performance a number of catchy songs were rendered which were most pleasing. Among the more popular were: "Any Time is Kissing Time", "The Cobbler's Song", "I Am Santa Claus", "The Song of the Scimitar", and "When a Pallet is Prune it is Tender".

Altogether the production was thoroughly enjoyed by an appreciative audience which thronged Griffin's opera house and many complimentary remarks were extended to Mr. Geo. Forbes, manager of the opera house, who was instrumental in securing Chu Chin Chow's appearance in this city.

RICHARD BARTHELMESS AT GRIFFIN'S TO-NIGHT

"Tol'able David," Richard Barthelmess' first starring vehicle for Associated First National Pictures, Inc., produced by Inspiration Pictures, Inc., which will be at Griffin's to-night and Saturday, matinee and night, is remarkable in several respects.

Not only is the story an unusual one, but it marks a new era in the selection of stories for the screen. It was written by Joseph Hergesheimer and from the time he read it, Mr. Barthelmess longed for the opportunity to enact the role of David, because it was such a sympathetic character of youthful ambition. However, Hergesheimer had heretofore refused to permit any of his writings to be utilized for the screen.

Mr. Barthelmess met Mr. Hergesheimer. After that the story was purchased by D. W. Griffith, but when Mr. Barthelmess signed to appear for three years under the management of Inspiration Pictures, arrangements were made with Mr. Griffith, so that his proteges could have his desire of starring in this picture realized.

In order that Mr. Hergesheimer's conception of the story should be carried out, Mr. Barthelmess, Henry King, his director, and Edmund Goulding, the scenario writer, conferred all one night with Mr. Hergesheimer and gave him an insight into the Donnybrook with which a story is considered and viewed from all angles before it is adapted for the screen.

"The mountaineers are intensely religious," said Mr. Barthelmess, "and the Bible is their favorite literature. We soon learned that in his idea of David, the author had in mind the biblical story of David and Goliath. The chief villain in the story is a giant and it will be recalled that in the biblical story David slew him.

"We were fortunate in having Mr. Hergesheimer with us during the filming of the story, as he picked out the locations and was of great assistance in aiding us in getting the local color."

Mr. Hergesheimer had said that he "would only spend a couple of days on Location with the company. However, he became so interested that he was there virtually throughout the entire filming of the story in the Virginia mountains.

"Cheerful Credit", a two-reel Brownie Wonder Dog comedy, Round Four "Leather Pushers" series, and Pathe News are being exhibited on the same program.

Mothers who have used Zam-Buk say it is so fine for the many little accidents of daily occurrence in the home—and especially where there are children—that they would not be without it. Not only so, but children who have had Zam-Buk applied to an injury or sore, when again injured, cry for Zam-Buk to be applied. They know that Zam-Buk stops pain. Nothing ends the pain of a cut, bruise, burn, or skin disease like Zam-Buk, and nothing soothes, draws out the soreness and heals so quickly.

Mrs. I. Wilson of Sarnia, Ont., says: "I could not do without Zam-Buk for my children. It is the best ointment we have ever used for burns, sores and cuts."

Mr. L. B. Andersen of 1407 E. 22nd St., Minneapolis, Minn., writes: "When any of the children, my wife or self have any skin accident, we immediately apply Zam-Buk. It has saved us many a doctor bill."

Mrs. C. B. Piercy of Riverport, N.S., writes: "Our baby had sores on her face, caused by teething. Zam-Buk completely healed them."

Zam-Buk is also good for eczema, ulceration, rodent ulcer, abscesses, piles, blood poisoning, ulcers, boils and abscesses. All druggists, 50c. box, or Zam-Buk (No. Toronto), send 50 cents for first trial.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Mrs. Gordon Wright, president of Canadian W.C.T.U. advocates a crusade against the cigaret habit. Men, women, boys and girls in Canada, last year consumed over fifty billions cigarets, which injure the physical and moral health, particularly of children, and are the chief menace to the teen age boy.

"Tobies" mimic tobacco cards "Tobacco trappers". A New York firm secretaining names and birthdays of youths, sends out a letter accompanied by "birthday presents". Tomorrow is your birthday, and all your friends will want to help you enjoy it. For one week we are sending you, under separate cover, a carton of Tobies—cigarettes. And we are not going to trouble you with a long letter explaining how good they are, just smoke 'em! We hope they will win your friendship, and that you will agree with us that nothing else will do." These are not only to boys who do not smoke, evidently in the hope of making nicotine converts.

The Christian Endeavor World tells of another trap—bill-board pictures showing boys and girls lighting their cigarettes, the one from the other, smoke.

From the Reform Bulletin we hear of a non-smoking movie hero receiving $1,000 per week for rolling cigarettes in his plays.

Premier King deplores the fact that women neglect their homes for afternoon bridge parties, and young girls drink cocktails, smoke cigarettes, and spend evenings at movies and dance halls. If these things are deplorable in Canada, what about the boys and men. The W.C.T.U. recognises but one standard in morals for men and women.

Miss Ella Boole, of England, World's Vice Pres. now in Canada, contrasts the whiskey bill of our London hospital forty-five years ago $1400, with last year's bill, for medical purposes, which was 3 shillings.

Before the war public houses were open seventeen hours a day; now only eight hours. Drinks in the British Isles last year were 91,000,000 gallons, the pre-war figures were 92,000,000 gallons.

HOOT GIBSON AT REGENT IN PEPPERY WESTERN

Hoot Gibson adds another to his long string of successes with the showing of "The Galloping Kid," his latest Universal starring vehicle at the Regent theatre.

The story is one of the "Misfit" series by William H. Hamby, and depicts the wanderings of a hobo cowboy who is a gentleman's gentleman's daughter and the Galloping Kid suddenly realizes that work is not so bad after all and proceed to make good on his new assignment. It is distinctly a Gibson role and the popular Universal star does it to perfection.

The leading feminine role is played by Edna Murphy, who, playing ingenue parts but two years ago, is knocking to-day at the portals of stardom. Others having important parts in the supporting cast are Lionel Belmore, Leon Barry, Percy Challenger, Jack Walters and Steve Clemente.

When the exterior scenes for the "The Galloping Kid" were filmed at the Montezumas castle in the Arizona desert, history was made, as never before had the famous Inca strong hold been photographed for a motion picture production.

CLOSED SCHOOLS.

Nat Rose, who supervised the filming of "The Galloping Kid", is one of the younger types of directors who has risen to his present position from the ranks and whose wide to the prevalence of scarlet fever.

BELLEVILLE'S COMMUNITY CENTRE

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BUILDING

The Chamber of Commerce is Belleville's Community centre. The beautiful rooms and offices are placed at the disposal of any and every civic organization, at all times, without money and without price.

It is not merely for accommodation for the office staff, and as a meeting place for the directors at their weekly sessions that the building is used. The Lions' Club now meets there every Wednesday for its "jungle feed." The manufacturers hold monthly luncheons. The Belleville Medical Association, and the Insurance Underwriters of the City also hold occasional feasts. In addition, the Country Club, the Yacht Club, the Horticultural Society, the Amateur Athletic Association, the Motor League, and a host of other societies, too numerous to enumerate here, assemble at the Chamber of Commerce regularly or occasionally. It adds a stimulus to these organizations and activities. All are welcome.

The Chamber of Commerce is an organization of co-operation and mutual understanding. The buyer and the seller, employer and employee, the business man and the professional man—all meet on a common basis of equal citizenship.

It is essentially democratic. No preference is given to any one individual or organization; all are equally welcome for all are equally representative of Belleville's citizenship.

It is Belleville that is being discussed here and Belleville is for everyone. What is good for Belleville is good for us and good for you.

The Chamber of Commerce is the Community Centre of Belleville. It brings together all "Belleville-ians" that they may know each other better and understand each other better.

Come to the Chamber of Commerce Building and receive the "Belleville" smile and the "Belleville" handclasp. Be one of them. Join the Chamber of Commerce and boost "For a Greater Belleville."

Whiteman and His Orchestra.

An advanced type of fox-trot in slow, sumptuous time, but full of pep. Banjo and piano furnish a perfect background for the lazy saxophone melody. "You Remind Me of My Mother" is a good dance for a large room, as the pleasant, lively melody disarmed on a full-voiced saxophone.

Those Longing for You Blues—Fox trot 19048
The Benson Orchestra of Chicago

This is a perfect gem of dancy melodiousness rendered in splendid time, a whole lot steadier that you'd expect. A rich-toned piano sets off the melody. "Those Longing for You Blues" is slow in time, but a sporty little saxophone flutters and trills and blends harmoniously and a contrabass drops so low you look around for something to hold on to.

When the Leaves Come Tumbling Down—Fox Trot.
Clyde Doerr and His Orchestra
Zanda—Fox Trot Zez Confrey and His Orchestra 19045

The brasses carry most of this melody with an acrobatic obligato on the saxophone. Bits of Mendelssohn's "SPRING SONG" are beautifully interwoven while the leaves are tumbling. "Zanda" being featured is "The Fiancee of Zenda". It is a smooth fox-trot with a striking piano background.

"PHAR" TO COACH QUEEN'S TEAM

With Two Charges on Monday Owing To Illness of Avery—Gandy Absent, Rugby—Varsity Is Expected Condition For Game Saturday in Kingston

From Kingston comes the report that Frank Shaughnessy, of McGill, had been engaged to take charge of the Queen's team on Monday for the balance of the season, via or loss against Varsity on Saturday. The reason for this is that Coach George Avery is out of commission for a couple of weeks owing to illness. "Chas." McGill leaves Jim Hyslop outside of the M.A.A.A. team, in charge of Queen's for the week. Avery has a severe attack of rheumatic fever.

EXPECT 8,000 FANS AT QUEEN'S GAME.

Kingston, Nov. 9.—Queen's Intersity seniors sit down to work again this afternoon at the stadium in preparation for their battle against University of Toronto on Saturday. The Queen's players are all in the best of condition, with the exception of Harding, but he will practice this week. All workouts will be held behind closed doors.

Reports from Queen's this morning were to the effect that the demand for seats has been such a tremendous one that it is expected that seats will have to be put on the cinder path all around the track in the stadium to provide accommodation for all who apply.

WILL CONSIDER REDUCED FARES

Kingston, Nov. 8.—The question of railway passenger transportation rates out of Kingston over the C.P.R., Canadian National and G.T.R. lines will be taken up on Friday afternoon between representatives of the various city organizations and Mr. Webster, of the Canadian Railway Passenger Association. The conference is the direct result of the strong feeling aroused throughout the city by the refusal of the railways to grant the same excursion rates to those desiring to go to Toronto with Queen's football team to watch the Queen's-Varsity game that are given to residents of Toronto and Montreal who come to Kingston.

The senior Rugby schedule will close in the three leagues on Saturday, and on the outcome of the Varsity-Queen's game depends whether the Parkdale team will meet Parkdale here a week from Saturday, or whether it will be Argonauts and Parkdale in the C.R.U. semi-finals. Argonauts and Parkdale are champions of their respective leagues and are ready for the play-off. The C.R.U. semi-final draw for this season brings the winner of the Intercollegiate and O.R.F.U. together on the latter grounds, with the Interprovincial getting the bye. Should Varsity defeat Queen's it will mean a play-off for the Intercollegiate championship, and the O.R.F.U. to facilitate matters, has agreed to have probably decided the O.R.F.U. and Interprovincial winners to meet a week from Saturday. Towards the end of next week both semi-final and final games this year, thanks to Parkdale and Argonaut's winning.

Up around Varsity they realize they must defeat Queen's to make a big thing. A tie game would not be sufficient, as the Intercollegiate, like the Interprovincial, is not going to be a round robin participating in a tie game. Supporters of the Blue and White are confident that the old team will rise to the occasion and make another game necessary before the championship is decided. Coach Jack Hazzard has his players in excellent condition. They demonstrated this on the holiday, and therefore they have no excuse to offer. The first meeting between the two teams created that Varsity were superior to the line but the Blue and White offset this by their inability to cope successfully with the Queen's end runs. Since that game the backs have been coached thoroughly in this part of defensive work, and Saturday's game should be a corker, the Varsity outsiders will not be found playing in as close as in the game here. Who will start for Varsity has not yet been decided by Coach Hazzard, but it is pretty well understood that Saving, who played on the line in the first game, will be found at his old place on the backfield. The team will leave to-morrow for Kingston.

Some Short Anecdotes About Georges Clemencau

(Associated Press.)

Returning to Paris after being a guest at a hunting party given by President Loubet, in the Forest of Fontainebleau, the chauffeur of Georges Clemenceau lost his way. A luminous blazonry be-gemed by a well known financier happened by and the chauffeur halted it.

Recognizing Clemenceau, the knight of high finance, moved by a desire to be agreeable to the Minister of the Interior, said:

"Just fall in behind our car and follow us."

"You've heard him," whispered Clemenceau to his chauffeur, "follow that automobile but be prudent, keep your distance, it might lead us to La Sante prison."

As a matter of fact, six months later the financier went to jail for a long period and the minister of the Interior was greatly responsible for the guilty manner in which the case against him was prosecuted.

Deputy Alexandre Varenne, meeting Georges Clemenceau in the lobbies of the Chamber of Deputies the other day heard reminiscences.

"When you were Premier I was in the opposition," said the deputy from the Loire.

"So was I," replied Clemenceau.

"How could that be, when you were President of the Council?" asked Varenne, surprised.

"Well, I was always in the opposition against my own ministers", the "Tiger" answered.

Rodin, the famous sculptor, was a great admirer of Georges Clemenceau. For many years he urged the old statesman to pose for a bust "which would transmit his features to posterity."

"Never mind about the posterity part of it," the "Tiger" finally said one day, "if you desire a bust of my ugly face as a souvenir, you can have it for yourself."

The sculptor found Clemenceau a very trying model. Once, when the Premier chattered, turned his head on all sides, never remaining quiet long enough to model. Rodin to get the right angle to the light.

But the bust, was at last completed, and Clemenceau was asked to come to the studio and have a look at it.

In critical mood, the "Tiger" surveyed the magnificent work, a perfect living likeness.

"Who is the old Mongolian general?" snapped the "Tiger" in a surly mood.

Rodin was greatly pleased at the lack of appreciation, and until his death the malicious lesson sculptor and statesman were never as cordial as they had been previously.

Georges Clemenceau never had any patience for the Germans, and his famous correspondence Gabriel Voisin, the motor manufacturer was explaining to the Premier one day the invention of a new motor destined to increase the speed of airplanes twenty per cent. Clemenceau asked many amateurish questions.

"You evidently don't understand the thing after what I am saying," said Voisin finally declared with some impatience. "You're right, and I don't want to," replied Clemenceau.

Intimidation is a word missing from the vocabulary of Georges Clemenceau. During the diplomatic incidents of Casablanca in 1908 the German Ambassador called on the "Tiger", then Premier of France, and after adopting an unconcerning attitude, finally declared that if Germany was not given satisfaction, he would be compelled to demand his passports.

"The Berlin express leaves at nine; it is now seven o'clock," replied Clemenceau looking at his watch, "you'd better hurry or you'll miss it."

MUCH EVIDENCE IS TAKEN

consigned to, Quebec, was the case of samples of liquors (exhibit 1) for a Mr. Egan, of Newtown, Que. on my freighter (the "Scott Burns"). I was carrying this liquor for the Consolidated Distillerie. I had no instructions from Mr. Egan as to this case. I arranged with Mr. Hume about this early in October."

To Mr. Carnew—"I do not know whether the "Source" is a British or American vessel. I first met McQueen in Belleville in July of this year. I was on the dock down here and I met him along with 3 or 5 other men there. McQueen was to carry my liquor for $2.50 per case. I paid him advance $400 by cash, I believe. I did not get a receipt. I paid him here all I had, I left the money at the Distillery office here for him as he was out of the city the day I was here to pay him. This was not McQueen's first trip for me."

To Mr. Payne—"I have employed other carriers besides Mr. McQueen."

Thomas Coppin.

G. T. R. freight agent here, testified that one car of liquor was billed from Madoc Junction because you cannot bill a car from Belleville to Belleville, as the rate from Belleville to Belleville rate, though the car is billed from Madoc. The way bill is prepared by the agent at Madoc and the shipping bill is sent to said agent from which bill he receives his information to make out the way bill. Before the shipping bill from the distillery. The the agent at Madoc and the shipping of the bill of lading.

To Mr. Carnew—"There was no way bill issued for the car seized on October 31st, until October 31st."

Stewart Turnbull.

Secretary of the Consolidated Distilleries Co., Ltd., of Montreal, swore that he had received the letter from Mr. Jordon because the letter is stamped with the company stamp. I identified the letter after receiving it on October 4th, 1922," said witness who also identified the handwriting accompanied the order and answered the letter. I turned draft and letter over to sales manager and he returned it to me with the draft. I kept a copy of it, the order is forwarded to the distillery."

Thomas Wittles, J. Sergeant.

Distillery Manager here, testified that he had had a telephone conversation with Mr. Hanley, of Head Office, Montreal, Sales Manager, and as a result a received a letter next day. As a result of the correspondence, this bill of liquor (exhibit 1) was ordered sent with the Jordan shipment for Mr. Egan at Newtown, Que., as Mr. Jordan had been in my office, October 5th. (This evidence was all taken subject to the objection of Mr. Carnew). I was asked to carry this liquor to me to North Taniwanda, N. Y. The samples were prepared by Mr. Boyle.

An excise permit from the Excise Dept. was submitted to Mr. Boyle for preparation of sample liquor (exhibit 1). The permit was signed by Mr. Sprague, Collector of Inland Revenue for Ontario.

To Mr. Carnew—"We know the liquor was not going to Nassau, British West Indies, as we are paying Mr. Queen a sticker for his work and Mr. Queen was acting for Jordan and not for us. We had no bargain to pay the liquor on the boat."

John P. Bowes.

Assistant Distillery Manager here, said witness, stated that regulations upon receipt, are made over to Mr. Boyle, who, by Mr. Peacock, who is in charge of this work. I expedited the case in question, prepared by Mr. Boyle and put in charge of the Bottling room. It was duly prepared and I instructed Mr. Boyle to place it in Mr. Jordan shipment on board the "Bonbra."

To Mr. Carnew—"Mr. Boyle should have labelled this box and addressed it. Boyle had the export papers covering the 200 case lot and the specific case, 20 cases of the 200 lot was addressed."

James Boyle.

Shipping Clerk at Corbyville corroborated the evidence of Mr. Munro with regard to the special case of samples, and witness testified that he did not know what was in the case other than "samples" which he had heard Boyle tell the officers. I thought," said the witness, "That probably the case contained commercial samples of no value." "It is my duty," continued witness, "to check the shipment, and warn the vessel is all ready to clear, I ask the Clearance office that morning for the Customs official, Mr. Phillips, and delivered to him documents which I had received from Mr. Munro.

Ernest L. Phillips.

Customs and Excise Clerk here, stated that on October 31st, he received the export papers and O.T.R. invoices, covering 200 cases of liquor and 1 case of samples at the Customs House. The "Source" reported in and clearance papers were issued for Louisson, N. Y., but she was not cleared and as the shipment was seized. I went down to the dock with Boyle and his men.

Witness corroborated Mr. Boyle's evidence with regard to his conversation with the Provincial officers. The vessel had no connection with me whatever."

To Mr. Carnew—"I examined all papers and stamped them in the office before we went down to the dock.

Mr. McQueen reported in from Louisiana, N. Y., with no cargo, previous to October 31st last, the day of the seizure.

Witness was closely questioned by Magistrate Masson regarding the case that might have been a case of ordinary water sold as high-priced liquor, and if so, it would pass the Government official very easily."

Since the seizure of the barge of liquor from the "Sonora" on October 31st, she has cleared from the dock here. This the magistrate could not understand, as the clearance papers for October 31st had never been completely signed and delivered to the captain. Payne explained, the witness, that a new clearance paper "issued with a new cargo and that boat cleared. This preceding, Mr. Hayes pointed out, is quite legitimate.

15th Annual Banquet

Concluded From Page Two.

Scott: It is particularly in the breeding and grading that quality is produced.

"Our schools are teaching our boys and girls the fundamentals of these studies and our efforts will increase.

We want to procure the ten per cent. premium paid for selects. A rough-neck hog is as bad as any other rough-neck.

"The same condition exists in cattle. We have two milked herds to one thoroughbred herd. British market claims the best and we have little supply them. We must breed better cattle for this trade, now that the embargo has been taken off. Good cattle only are profitable for raising in foreign fields. The poor trash won't bear the carrying expense and must be marketed at home. Our best cattle must go to Britain, and our balance must be marketed at home. It is harder than ever now to make a profit out of cattle, and the only way to do it is to breed the best. The high standard of living now demanded, requires high grade stock, efficient methods, and more production per man through the medium of machinery. Keep the young fellows on the land by efficient methods so they do not slave fourteen hours a day. High grade stock and efficient methods will pay enough profits to keep them there, and let them enjoy life, too. Don't make dairying a side line. Get into it deep enough to make money. Cull the poor animals. Get rid of mixed herds. The average cow should be give 4,000 pounds of milk a year. How many are getting it?

"Those who are not are losing money on their investment in feed, pasturage, stall room, etc. Dairy farmers pets say they can breed herds to give 10,000 pounds. Well, there is where the profit lies. A poor cow costs as much to keep as a good one. Why keep them then? We cannot afford to keep them. They make a fellow hate cows as the 'devil hates holy water.' To make cattle-raising pleasurable and profitable get the good breeds.

"The cold storage man is no profiteer. He is a necessity to the profitable distribution of all perishable articles, and increases manyfold the sale of the available markets. We are twenty-five years behind in cold storage facilities.

"We need better trade representation in British markets. We have hope enough the Trade Commissioners. Our products do not get the same reception, the same advertising, or the same care as those of other nations. The consumers' side is not studied, and complaints rarely get back. When these things are done we have no fear of competition.

"Middlemen, producers, and consumers are invited to conferences at Ottawa and the Government wants to assist in every way. Harmonize all interests. Do not ramp on the banks, as they are your best friends.

"Let everyone get together and work for better stock. We are always learning and always ought to be profiting by past experience."

Mr. F. J. Graham.

Mr. Graham put in a plea for the manufacturers. He thought the firm who took raw products, farm or any other kind, and increased the value of them, was doing a double duty. He was creating wealth, he was giving employment to the boys who were educated in Belleville schools at tremendous cost. Every United States dollar invested here in factories was a great gain. It increased the capital invested, it brought population, increased employment and developed a larger home market. He was proud of Canada. He was buying New York drafts with Canadian funds above par, a thing unknown to him in his thirty years of business life. Our finances were at the top pinnacle of world's finance, and the manufacturing interests were responsible largely for it. Agriculture was a basic industry and was one of which we were all proud. Keep the boys on the farm or in the home town, says Mr. Graham. Make it worth while for them to stay.

Mr. Elliott is to be congratulated on holding such a unique and important function. After yesterday it had become almost a national affair. The success was wonderful, the attendance representative, and the speeches full of interest. One can hardly credit the fact that the energy and initiative of one man could have had such a wide-spread influence in the short space of sixteen years. Belleville looks upon the banquet as one of the national red letter days. The city is proud to have had the idea originate and prosper here.

GAS STRUCK AT STIRLING

During the operation of boring a well for the purpose of obtaining a supply of water for Stirling High School, flames suddenly burst forth from the ignited gas pouring out from the mouth of the well. As the drill was only a few feet from the school building and as the flames rose and fell there was the most intense excitement lest their beautiful High School building should be destroyed. The only effect of drying water on the flames seemed to spread the flames and intensify the heat. Practically the whole village was drawn to the scene by the unusual sight of a burning well. All efforts to extinguish the flames were unavailing until a mixture of salt and water was applied and the bore corked.

MR. MEIGHEN CLAIMS NATIONAL RAILWAYS

burden of defence. The country itself had the sole right to decide what should be the form of our defence, and what the obligations should be. That right had been exercised through the life of the Dominion.

The time to decide the lines for future co-operation for defense did not come to the late Government. It could not come until the whole obligations of the Empire were made known after the disarmament conference at Washington had taken place. When that was through Great Britain knew what she had to do, and how far she could go in the matter of defense. Did anybody know what the Canadian Government of today had decided? asked Mr. Meighen. It had abandoned the defense of the sea and said to Great Britain: "Under your arm we live, and we will leave the already over-taxed people of the Old Land to bear the burden of the defense of its sea."

"We are at present in something of a crisis," continued Mr. Meighen. "The Foreign Secretary said, indeed, that the British Empire faced a definite menace." Could anybody say how the Canadian Government stood then to that responsibility? The last information was that questions were being asked of the Colonial Office. What the questions were the people of this country ha dnot yet been advised. The crisis arose because the stipulations made by the Allies, joined in by Canada and the other Dominions. Those stipulations had been signed and adorned by one of the defeated nations—Turkey—and in the face of that defiance Canada had refused to answer any call to stand by. "We are told that Parliament will decide," said Mr. Meighen. "What is the case then it is the duty of the Government to make known to the people of this country all the facts of the present crisis. I am aware that governments in periods of strain cannot make public certain facts. It is just because of that that governments must decide, must take responsibility and direct the nation by their leadership.

"It," emphasized Mr. Meighen, "the Government takes the view that they cannot decide but must leave it to Parliament, then they must uncover the truth to the people of the country and to Parliament and I call upon them to do so. And at the moment I call Parliament if they are afraid to decide for themselves." (Cheers).

Efforts Must be Centralized to be Successful at All

Creation of a Community Spirit Which Exalts the Community Above the Individual, Means the United Effort of Individuals, Straining Toward a Common Goal—In Union There is Strength.

The reasons why an active chamber is needed in Belleville are so obvious that our school children can understand them; then one considers the many things that are needed in Belleville, when one considers how slowly civic improvements are made, unless there are centralized efforts made to push them through, it stands to reason that a strong chamber of commerce is of more importance to Belleville than any other organization.

The very fact that the citizens of Belleville organized the chamber three years ago and gave it the finest sport that has ever been organized efforts fail. It has remained friendship between business and professional men created a better understanding between individuals and firms. In short it has created a community spirit that exalts the community above the individual. If nothing else had been done, this alone would have justified the organization of the Belleville chamber of commerce.

There are far more tangible results than this. To enumerate the many activities of the chamber during the past three years would be to review all the civic affairs of Belleville for that period. Every citizen of Belleville who has followed the events taking place in this city knows how the chamber has boosted, advertised and actively and financially supported every movement that would help to increase the growth of Belleville or help to make Belleville a little better to live in.

WORK REVIEWED.

During the campaign for members- hip three years ago, questions were asked for by the chamber through which it might ascertain just what was most needed in Belleville. These suggestions were drawn up and a program of work outlined for the three years.

This program has been closely followed and it is encouraging to note how many of the objectives set three years ago have been attained today.

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce is fortunate in the support it has received and is still receiving from the citizens of Belleville. Practically all of Belleville's prominent citizens realize the need of a central organization to unite individual efforts in community affairs. The desire to do something for their community is vocally expressed by everyone but the true value of that desire may be judged only by the action that follows.

To join the chamber of commerce and to work actively and boost for a greater Belleville is a far higher form of service to Belleville than any amount of "lip-service" no matter how eloquent that "lip-service" may be.

BIG BILL'S PHILOSOPHY.

Brown and Jones lived in the same town as they were both of them electors. But that's the only thing they had in common. They hated each other like "poison." One was a Liberal, the other a Conservative, and they didn't agree on religion nor nothin' else neither.

To get Jones' "cost" you'd say "Brown" and to get Brown's you'd say "Jones." It was great fun.

Then some pink comes along and shows 'em how they could both make more money by buyin' together in larger quantities—and how if they didn't get to be chicken's thieves before the year was up. Funny, isn't it?

A HOUSE OF MYSTERY.

Why Did Wealthy German Locate In Vancouver?

In 1919 Vancouver society was all agog over the wonders of a recent house warming given by a Mr. Alexander Albanesben, who had come to British Columbia some years before, had worked at whatever he could get to do—a mine, a lumber camp, then on agriculturist, on steamboats up and down the coast, in short a man of financial offices and at whatever came his way. He was poor, true enough but though reported a decent agent in his own right, was not believed to have had so much money as long as it turned him an honest living.

He became well known, and, in a word was his countrymen's faith in him, and so well had he advertised his resources and possibilities in British Columbia, that Germans of high and low degree—but lots of money—manifested their faith in his reports by sending much money to Vancouver for him to invest, also not only that, but members of the family came themselves, purchased land on high lots overlooking wide seas of mist and city, built fine homes and settled down to become citizens of Vancouver and, eventually—so they said—naturalized Canadians. The German colony in Vancouver had become so interested in Mr. von Alexandeben's reports about the city and the whole province of British Columbia, that he had invested largely in various parts of it.

It sounded like a fairy tale, but when passing a large business block opposite the post office, and seeing great plate glass windows inscribed with the name "Apro von Alexandeben," and dressed with plate of gold and observe of bank notes, while a multitude of clerks and a crush of customers could be seen beyond the vast cash evidence of wealth and security, the idea of fairies vanished. Select luncheons, teas and dinners were arranged for the discussion of so juicy a social topic.

Those who had not been invited greedily searched for the words Albanesben that fell from the lips of the favored, and, repeated on all sides, were delicious tit-bits.

"Magnificent view. Yes, with a telescope can almost see the people walking on Vancouver Island."

"Commands the whole Gulf, can see every boat that comes in."

"—but the tennis courts! Wonderful—all cement—"

When war was declared Vancouver people stopped to think. Why did the Germans made themselves so agreeable? Why had they always been built where it could not be seen from the land, but where, from many outlooks, a view of every movement in the city could be had?

"Why the cement? For long range guns, they said.

"Yes! Alexandeben was interned in United States camps, during the war, and has never been allowed to return to Canada since.

"A low stone wall surrounds the property and, from Willson road, on the north, where street cars pass all day long, only a rather large stable and garage can be seen, and a corner of an ordinary-looking square house. From Blenheim street a wide motor road enters between evergreens of great growth, and no house is visible at all. From the bluff on Forest trees have not been felled and gables of a country manor house are seen, and, on the eastern boundary nothing can be seen of the garden but an account of dense shrubbery, but the windows of the stables are visible. Many people look at the boundaries of the near by Alexandeben place and wonder who made up the mystery tales about it.

The place is now the home of Mr. R. J. Cromble, owner of the Vancouver Sun newspaper.

Lower Higher Than Upper.

"Let me have sleeping accommodation on the train to Ottawa," I said to the man at the window, who did not seem at all concerned whether I took the trip or stayed at home.

"For a single passenger?"

"No," I replied, "I'm married but I'm not taking anybody with me. A child will answer."

"Upper or lower?" he asked.

"What's the difference?" I asked.

"A difference of fifty cents," came the answer. "Our prices to Ottawa are $2.50 and $3."

"You understand of course," explained the agent, "the lower is higher than the upper. The higher price is for the lower berth. If you want lower, you'll have to go higher. We call the upper lower than the lower. It didn't used to be so, but we found everybody wanted the lower, so in other words the higher the lower."

"Why do they all prefer the lower?" I broke in.

"On account of its convenience," he replied, "most persons don't like the upper, although it's lower, on account of it being higher, and because when you occupy an upper you have to get up to go to bed, and then get down when you get up. I would advise you to take the lower, although it's higher than the upper, for the reason I have stated, that the upper is lower than the lower because it is higher. You can have the lower if you pay higher, but if you are willing to go higher it will be lower."

—Exchange.

More Birds Wanted.

"There are not enough birds, experts say, to clean up the enormous invasion of grasshoppers such as the western farmers have come to dread, according to the Forestry Magazine, but the birds assist materially in the efforts by man to control the pest. Grasshoppers in spotes of birds examined, twenty-five were grasshopper eaters. In nineteen of the species all of the individual collected had given grasshoppers a place on their bills of fare. The birds having the best records are the lark, sparrows, meadowlarks, bobolink grills, Arkansas kingbird, crow, blackbird, and the common kingbird.

FOOTBALL IN BRITISH CLUBS

THE APPROACHING INTERNATIONAL SERIES CREATES A GREAT DEAL OF INTEREST.

London, Eng., Nov. 8 (By Canadian Press).—The International Soccer Tournament threatens to become farcical, according to a sporting writer in The Daily News. He says that for years Ireland and Wales have been agitating for fixture dates for their matches with England, and they were granted a concession in that direction at the last International Board meeting. To get Saturday dates they had to promise not to approach any players with English clubs before obtaining the permission of the clubs concerned, and apparently they were thoroughly content to do that. The result, however, cannot be described as satisfactory.

The Irish selectors have met with several refusals. Liverpool, because of injuries to players, intimated that the club could not spare its Irish players. Hamill, of Manchester City, begged off after being chosen, and Reeves, of Burnley, and McCracken, of the Crystal Palace, also had to refuse to play for Ireland at West Bromwich. Burnley has several injured players and as the English selectors have called upon Watson, Burnley's captain and left-half back, to act as reserve, the East Lancashire Club officials felt that they could not also spare Emmes from their important league match against their local rivals, Blackburn Rovers. The Crystal Palace club is doing badly and could hardly be expected to let its best half-back off.

Thus Ireland has been put in the position of having to make a third choice for right half-back and get another left-back.

A victory for England under such circumstances would be no great accomplishment, the Daily News writer says, and the International championship is robbed of much interest as the result. In fact, he says it is farcical to describe it as a championship unless all the countries concerned can claim the players they consider the best no matter in which country they are playing.

It may seem unkind on the part of clubs not to release Irish players, but in these days of fierce competition, when the slightest weakness of a player may mean the loss of two points, and probably lead also to serious consequences for the club, the Irish and Welsh authorities are unwise in holding out for Saturday dates. The financial side is an important one, of course, but that might be overcome by the "predominant partners" agreeing to pool all gate receipts in the Internationals. The Daily News correspondent is strongly of the opinion that only the English vs. Scottish match should be played on a Saturday.

Clubs would not object to players being called upon for mid-week matches, and as the Irish and Welsh would then be able to command their best players and there would be real championship matches. So long as England can force all players who are chosen to play for them, and deny the two countries named the same privilege, public interest in the International in England will be only lukewarm.

Carr, of Middlesbrough, will be unable to play for England this season. This is regarded generally, for Carr is looked upon as the best outside right in England at the present time, and would have gained the distinction of having played for his country in two positions, for he figured as inside right against the Irish at Belfast in 1920. Mercer, of Sheffield United, chosen to take his place, is regarded as a very good substitute.

MOSCOW COVERING UP SCARS OF REBEL BULLETS

Moscow, Nov. 8.—Futility and content by the ton are being used in Moscow in an effort on the part of the government to blot out traces of the 1917 revolution.

There is scarcely a house in the Soviet capital which was not bullet marked, more or less, in the fighting, and some of the larger buildings were peppered with lead and steel from rifles, machine guns and shrapnel. Within the last few weeks hundreds of workmen have been engaged in the task of filling the bullet holes with cement and putty, and in many instances the walls have been painted, thus wiping out the visible scars of the days of terror which swept the Bolshevik into power.

DECLINE IN JAPANESE MILITARY ACTIVITIES

(Canadian Press.)

Tokyo, Nov. 8.—Naval and military preparations in Japan appear to be definitely on the wane, the new decline being influenced by economic conditions as much as by anything else.

The great Yokosuka naval dockyard dismissed 3,000 workers in October, and 3,000 more will be dropped from the payroll in March, although the government is making an allowance for them in the form of employment insurance. It is announced that 5,000 men will be dismissed from work in the army arsenal next spring.

Unemployment in Japan is now about 10 per cent. of the normally working population, and it is expected that at least half of those thrown out of work by the closing down of the naval and military programmes will be absorbed by the farms.

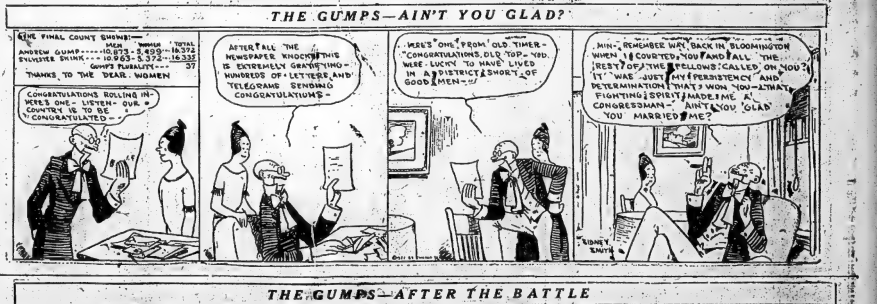

"My Heart Would Palpitate, I Had Weak Spells"
Mrs. L. Whiting, 202 King St. West, Brockville, Ont., writes:—
"I took very sick with my nerves and stomach, and seemed to be all run down. At times my heart would flutter and palpitate so, and I would take such weak spells in the night, my stomach that I cannot sometimes thought I would never get better. I had almost given up hope when a friend advised me to use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I did not stop until I had taken twenty-five boxes. It has done wonders for me, and I want to recommend it to everyone."

Your Corsets and Theirs
For many years Warner's Rust Proof have been the largest selling corsets in the United States. For many years also they have been worn by discriminating women in all corners of the civilized world. At the outbreak of the War they were sold in 56 different countries or Dominions, and were made only in the United States.
To-day they are also made in Canada, cut from the same carefully designed patterns, and made to the same standards and specifications as the United States models. Corsets which are imported by other nations are offered to women of the Dominion without the costs of duty, ocean freight, etc.
You can, for instance, buy in Canada Warner Models for which your friends in England gladly pay almost double the price—and Warner Corsets are solely sold in Canada. You can buy comfortable corsets that represent the last word in Style at prices which mean true economy, and Every Pair is Guaranteed Not to Rust, Break or Tear
Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets
MADE IN CANADA
Are not the cheapest, but we believe them to be the most economical, corset you can buy. Priced as low as $1.50, but for the added value at $7, $3, $4, or $5 is well worth the extra cost.

AUSTRALIA'S DEBT SHOWS AN INCREASE

TOTAL NATIONAL DEBT IS FOUR TIMES PRE-WAR FIGURE

(Associated Press.)

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 9.—In his annual speech to the House of Representatives, Federal Treasurer Bruce, of Australia, disclosed that the Australian national debt on June 30th totalled $4,210,000,000 as compared with a pre-war debt of $1,086,000,000.

During the course of his speech Mr. Bruce said:

"The estimated revenue for 1922-23 totalling $326,667,260, includes $146,000,000 customs and excise; $7,350,000 income tax, and $46,850,000 Post Office, Telephone, and Telegraph receipts.

"The estimated expenditure is $310,116,468, showing an estimated surplus of $7,672,792.

"Of the accumulated surplus, estimated at $34,542,000, $16,000,000 will be used in the reduction of taxation and the encouragement of agriculture and manufactures.

"The proposed remission of taxation includes the increase of the general exemption from $300 to $1000 for all taxpayers."

Mr. Bruce announced that income would be reduced in the near future to reduce the salary of members of the House of Representatives from $5,000 to $4,000.

Speaking on the national debts Mr. Bruce declared:

"The gross Commonwealth debt totalling $3,080,329,545, shows an increase in the year ended June 30th amounting to $71,728,680.

"The total national debt of Australia, including the Commonwealth and States is $4,210,000,000, compared with the pre-war debt of only $1,086,000,000."

REFERRING TO REFERENCES

Charles Schwab said at a dinner in his native Loretto:

"Give generous references when they are deserved, but for Heaven's sake don't give any when they are undeserved. I have relied on references in my time that led me down like—well, like the story."

"Say," growled the banker to a broker, "when I asked you for the dope on Lackey you compared him to the busy bee, and on the head of that I lent him money. Comparing a grafter like Lackey to the busy bee! What did you mean by it?"

"I meant the broker explained, 'that everybody Lackey touches gets stung.'"

BRITISH GOVERNMENT ADOPTS PRINCIPLES OF 1919 INTERNATIONAL LABOR CONFERENCE

(Canadian Press.)

Hong Kong, Nov. 7.—The British administration here has undertaken the enforcement of the child labor principles adopted at the international labor conference at Washington in 1919.

In the past children of all ages have been employed in manual labor, such as carrying coal and building materials. Owing to the poverty of many of the natives, the new regulations will have to be applied gradually; otherwise it is feared that long established social and economic conditions may be upset.

The new regulations provide that no children may be employed in the dangerous occupations of boiler chipping, fore works or glass factories of all kinds, and children under twelve are not permitted to carry coal, building material or debris.

Employers are required to keep record of all the child labor engaged in their establishments. One holiday every seven days is made compulsory under the new law and children may not be put to work between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m.

"TIGER" MAY VISIT OTTAWA

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—Former Premier Clemenceau, "The Tiger" of France, is expected to visit Ottawa during the present month. An invitation to him has been conveyed on behalf of the Prime Minister by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and Hon. Philippe Roy, Canadian representative in Paris, and M. Clemenceau, who is to be in New York on November 18 as the guest of Colonel E. M. House, will decide then whether he can come to Ottawa.

YOUTHFUL BEAUTY AT A DISCOUNT

(The Daily Sketch, London)

Hysteria, we are told, could not be young. That they must still be beautiful goes without saying, but fashion has changed and man has wearied of the rose in the hair. A court of beauty has said so, and awarded the golden apple not to radiant girlhood, but to the more mature charms of the Junoesque woman in her prime.

Ingenue or woman of the world. What is this age of heroines? Youth will challenge this finding of the experts, but will they shake it, in the face of a devastating unanimity, as scathing as it is sweeping?

To decide when it is that lovely woman attains the zenith of her beauty a court of seventeen arbiters, famous play producers, actors, prominent authors, painters, sculptors, and photographers, set to exchange their views. Their findings are all at the expense of the young girl. Whether it be on the stage, in the pages of a novel or in real life, the popular age for heroines is not less than thirty-two.

Several of these critics decided that beauty existed at all in a woman under 25. A majority voted that the highest beauty of expression did not come until several years later, and Morris Tees and D. W. Griffith held that women do not achieve their greatest beauty until they have 40 or even older. What have the flappers, the semi-flappers, the young women and the would-be young women to say to that? Surely the one and only Griffith should know. Morris Gest, producer and more particularly cultivator of America's most wonderful theatrical exotics, must certainly know.

"I cannot think of young women of 20 and 30 as anything except pretty things. You can say that about a puppy or a cat or anything at all. But beauty is different. Beauty presupposes that the life, soul and personality shall shine through the face. A woman beautiful at 40 in this way will not only but will become more and more lovely. Nothing that comes perfect from the chisel is beautiful. We want, to find something that can fascinate us in the expression, the mannerism, the quality that comes from within."

The Daily Recipe

ONION SOUP

Four cups skim milk, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon corn flour, 1 cup chopped onion, 1 cup cooked and drained potato, salt and pepper to taste. Simmer all slowly on the stove until onions are soft. Serve the soup by the addition of 1 cup chopped celery. Onions are a most wholesome article of diet. They are largely used as flavor, but should be more fully appreciated as a vegetable.

Crushing Retort.

"Hello, dearie," said the fresh young man with a "toothbrush" mustache and dressed to the minute, "a glass of cream milk and a piece of lemon pie."

"Anything else?" asked the fair but haughty waitress.

"A little speed and a smile, if you don't mind."

"You've got all the speed you need, and as for a smile, look at yourself in one of them mirrors along the wall. If that don't give you a laugh, you ain't got no sense of humor."

PRETTY HANDS AND FEET.

Smallness is not a principal and indispensable beauty of the hands. Simply handsome with skin of fine texture and shape, they may be large enough to look thoroughly capable, and are often more attractive in their solid firmness than the dimpled and delicately fragile looking type.

The crooked little finger, once upon a time described as "so genteel" when it "didn't go to bed" was stopped in its form in these days, and the prettiest hand would not be guilty of the mistake.

Pretty feet are not always the very small, short ones, for they have a way of looking stubby, and, consequently, quite unnatural. A long foot, which is slender without any misshapen lore, is more beautiful than the short one squeezed into small shoes.

A foot should always appear to rest easily in the shoe and not to bulge over the top, as is the case with so many feet.

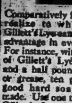

No Improvement.

GILLETT'S LYE

Conservatively few people realize to what extent Gillett's Lye can be used to advantage in every home. For instance, with one can of Gillett's Lye and five and a half pounds of lard or grease, ten pounds of good hard soap can be made. Use one tablespoon Gillett's Lye in gallon of water for cleaning and disinfecting refrigerators, sinks, garbage cans, tiled floors, baths and toilets.

Useful for over 500 purposes.

LINKED LIVES

By D. Kinmount Roy

Meanwhile there was a meeting and stamping in the pass below, and a shaky "Halt!" brought a small detachment of British troops to a sudden pause. They were out on some special mission, and murmured about sixty men all told, and were prepared for all contingencies, having stretchers and a surgeon with them. Captain Winslow was surprised to find two wounded men, and after a brief examination, on the suggestion of the surgeon, decided to carry both of them a couple of leagues in the direction they were travelling and leave them at a monastery, where an officer of their own had been carefully nursed and was now about to rejoin his regiment. This plan had the merit of combining with a strict fulfilment of duty, and therefore commended itself to Winslow, who was a man of few words and prompt action. Fresco in this haste had left Aynsworth's ring upon his hand, and Captain Winslow, noticing it, fancied he had seen also after examining if by such light as the crest and motto before, but where had he seen it? and to whom did it belong? This was more than he could recall. He did all that was possible in conveying the dying and the dead to the friendly shelter of the monastery, and promising, if possible, to return or send some help later, hastened to the welfare of his wounded countryman. The promise made in all good faith was, however, made in the cry of an extreme emergency, and she gallant Winslow never dreamed to fulfil it. Friendly purpose he had formed; indeed, he had met a sudden death before the man he succoured reached his fate.

When Aynsworth regained consciousness the guide was with him, and told him what had transpired. He was alone for a space, looking into vacancy; the end was near, and he had failed in the great object on which he had set his heart, so far as being able to carry it through to the end was concerned.

The disappointment was bitter, and would have been had not the supreme boniface of dying been so imminent. Recollection of the past may, indeed, torture suffering men with time before them, however dim and shadowy—but there are forbidden to dying eyes, and the pressure of the illimitable future as it begins to touch the human consciousness awakens a strange and pathetic awe as they peer into the Beyond and realize that all around them is the unutterable mystery and power of the Creator, in the light of which the greatest things of earth are less than nothing and vanity.

It took but little time to settle Aynsworth's earthly affairs now. They were, if fact, practically settled for him. The money that remained was fortunately sufficient to amply satisfy the guide and Father Francis, whose quest he was offered all gracious service.

A curiously constructed belt, with locked pockets, contained the precious papers upon which so much depended, and a few valuables besides.

This with his watch and signet ring were to be conveyed to England, where a substantial reward would be paid the messenger.

Father Francis undertook this onerous responsibility himself. He had spent some time in England, it seemed, a few years before, and was well fitted to accomplish this important mission with every prospect of success.

Aynsworth was satisfied, and a look of calm content settled upon him. He now touched with the pallor of the final struggle.

He had, even at the most reckless period of his life, possessed a singular power of winning the confidence and affection of men whom he was associated, and now at the last he was not without a friend.

Callot was evidently as much distressed as though he had been with him for years. He kissed the dying man's hand again and again as he knelt weeping by his side. Father Francis held up a warning finger, whereing to the others: "Calmness, calmness, my son! We are in the presence of death!—Death!" Aynsworth roused himself, as one awakes which, just beginning to lose consciousness in sleep, and smiled, murmuring something which was quite inaudible, then lapsed into stupor and lay still.

The door and windows were wide-open, and no human sound disturbed the stillness save the laboured breathing of the dying man.

The birds in the branches close by piped their love notes to one another, and fussed and twittered over their domestic affairs, for spring had come and the world was throbbing with new life. But within death reigned, and his icy hand was upon the heart of a strong man, so lately full of life and purpose to enforce punishment for a great and terrible wrong.

Did he at any time during the few days he lay between life and death recall the moral words: "Vengeance is Mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.' Who can tell?

A clock in the next room marked time, and the tick, tick, tick filled the silence with an insistent sound that became oppressive to the two men who waited with bowed heads for the end.

Suddenly the sick man moved, as though he had been roused out of a sound sleep, with a look of intentness and wonder lighting up the deadly pallor of his face. The men held their breath in awe. He tried to raise himself, but could not, and gazing straight with wide-open eyes which seemed to see the Unseen, he raised his right hand and murmured in a voice of marvellous distinctness:

"Not guilty, my lord;' and with a sigh, as of one well content, he breathed his last.

The silence of death filled the chamber where the dead man lay: no sound was heard amidst the awed stillness. The priest's lips moved, but no sound was spoken; then, rising from his knees, he touched the dead man's hand and murmured sadly to his companion: "He has suffered some great wrong, my son, and the Most High has permitted it to end thus. How little we know of the tragedy of human life, and how little we can do at such moments as this!"

The Short Story Jr.

NAN'S WANT AD.

It was late when Nan left the afternoon when the noise and bustle of the day had softened into a gentle hum. Everything was in order at the Home Price Orphanage, and at last Nan Goodhart had a moment to rest. She sat softly into the big rocking chair with pads and sank into one of the high-backed chairs designed for long legged trustees, but not for orphans.

Nan picked up a newspaper lying on the floor where she had trusted her feet it. It was opened to a page headed "Want Ads".

Did you print in the paper when they wanted things? She had never known. Why couldn't she advertise for a new mother? She could, it really did cost money, but she had sixty-seven cents. Nan thought that if she could get a new mother for that amount seven cents it would be a good investment. She decided that she would try her best.

So, clutching her sixty-seven cents tightly in her hands, she started off for the newspaper office. A tall, fat, motherly man smiled at her when she timidly knocked at the door. Before she knew it she was across the desk from him telling how she longed for a mother and daddy and she wanted to advertise in his paper. She placed the sixty-seven cents on the desk in front of him.

"You wouldn't like a little girl, would you?" she asked haltingly. The big editor's arm went around the little girl's shoulder and drew her to him.

"I surely would," he said, "but we have two boys now." Nan drew in her breath with a gasp. It would be too much to hope for brothers, too.

The next day a messenger rang at the Home Price Orphanage. The superintendent called Nan and placed a heavy envelope in her hand. Nearly bursting with importance, she ran off to her room to open it.

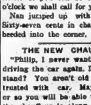

Sixty-seven cents fell out in her lap. Her eyes grew big in surprise as they read Nan:" the letter began. "We have decided not to print your advertisement. We feel that if I have come to the conclusion that our boys need a little sister. If you can be ready by three o'clock I shall call for you then."

Nan jumped up with starry eyes. Sixty-seven cents in change rolled unheeded into the corners.

THE NEW CHAUFFEUR.

"Phillip, I never want to catch you driving the car again. Do you understand?" Yes, I am old enough to be trusted with car. Maybe in a year or so you will be able to drive when I am standing in state, but I believe that no one should drive until he understands the machinery of the car. Something, I see, is to happen. Just because you happens to know what lever or to pull to start and stop it—"

"But I did not start it," broke in more. Slamming the door behind him, he rushed out to the garage, where he spent most of his time.

"Dad still thinks I'm a little girl," he thought rebelliously. "I'll show more now about that old car than the chauffeur does. Drive it when he is away, indeed! Or two?" he sputtered in disgust. "Maybe when I'm forty I'll be trusted to drive around the residential part of the city where the lights is light."

Phil tried to laugh in spite of himself. His sense of humor would never let him remain angry long.

When the chauffeur appeared and started overhauling the car he became interested that he forgot his former anger entirely. Phil's father came out sometime later. He stopped outside the door of the garage, wondering who the mechanic was that she called in consulting. He was astonished when he recognized his son bending over the car and talking among the grart plugs. Phil was carefully explaining the cause of a

Football Lessons

There are two different charging positions for his men: (1) offensive position, and (2) defensive position. A man on the offense should place both hands on the line of scrimmage. The left should be forward about one foot under him. The legs should be lower than the shoulders and the back should be straight and slanting up towards the shoulders. The face should be up, with the eyes on the ball, so that he knows when the ball is passed and can start with it. A man starting with the ball has an advantage over one who starts a short time after the ball is passed.

The player should have a general knowledge of where the opposing line man is located, but he should never look directly at him, because he doesn't gain anything by so doing, and loses his opportunity of watching the ball and starting with it. One of the most common faults of line men is that they fail to watch the ball, and the opposing players are across the line of scrimmage before they are, and have hit them before they get started.

Keep Back Straight.

Another fault with a line man is that he sometimes lets his back instead of keeping it straight. The direction of the charge is upward and forward, and a man who bows out in the back cannot easily be thrown out of direction, either by pushing his head to the ground or by pushing him aside.

When a man has charged forward, and hits the defensive player, he should never let his body straighten out. He should keep his original position, with his feet well in under him, so that he can use them to keep the opposing player going back in the direction he has been started.

Defense is Different.

The position of a defensive line man should be different from that of an offensive man. He should stand with one peculiar certain flutter of the engine.

"By George, of course you're right," cried the chauffeur. "You ought to run a car. You know more about a car in a minute than I do in a week. Phil blushed, thinking of what his father had just said. But his father's voice now called out: "Jim, I believe you're right. Phil talks like a natural born mechanic, and he's not such a little boy any more, either. "Phil," he added, turning to his son, "how would you like to take over the care of the car when Jim goes back to his old job next month? I'll give you the same salary."

"Whoopee!" Phil's cap went sailing into the air. "Salary! If I only had some money I'd pay you to let me do it."

CHANGE A CERTAIN NOUN OF TWO SYLLABLES

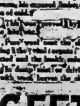

GOOD-BYE TO TIN CANS!

(Philadelphia Ledger)

It has been said that if processes for "destructuring" vegetables and fruits can be made entirely successful, we shall "live out of cartons instead of out of tin cans." One of the most tenacious problems in this line has been offered by sweet corn, but it seems at last to have been solved, and already that delectable food has appeared on the market in paper packages. If corn, the housewife only half as much as she pays for canned corn and the saving in cash more like that of corn on the cob.

Leaving refrigeration aside, we have two methods of preserving food —sterilization and dehydration. The former is represented by canning. The latter is as old as civilization; for housewives for thousands of years have dried some kinds of foods to preserve them. How ancient was Jamiliar is the dried apple?

The Great War had importance to do with the development of canning, which has since become an abiding industry. In 1909 canning was put up in this country 12,217,000 cases of peas, 21,283,000 cases of tomatoes and 15,616,000 cases of corn, each case containing twenty-four cans.

The record was given a great impetus to the development of canning, and the armistice much has been accomplished in the improvement of methods. Many fruits, vegetables and fruits succeed has not yet been attained, but the problem seems to have been largely solved with regard to grapes and many other fruits, as well as spinach, peas, beans, pumpkins, and many vegetables.

Five breaths of green sweet corn will yield one pound of the dried product. One pound of the latter with make an equivalent of three cans of fancy canned corn. After soaking an hour in cold water, or a preliminary cooking, a pound of dehydrated corn will yield nearly three pounds.

IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

How the PACIFIC COAST PROVINCE GOT ITS NAME.

Victoria Suggested, as Appropriate, Something For the Crown—Wide Memories of Kamloops and Other Spots That Possess Names.

Victoria has even a short trip to British Columbia without coming to Kamloops ground. The name of the capital of the province is suggestive of the days when the Hudson's Bay Company had control country, and it was in the course of correspondence with him, as a representative of the government, that Douglas expressed her wishes in the matter.

As a name for the country the name Victoria was one that seemed to be on all hands to be considered appropriate. But as there was a Columbia in the United States, in their poetic fancy, the later kind thought that the only course that remained was that Queen's good name should be given to the country, and so the title Columbia was suggested in the Crown Province.

British Columbia the province has been called, and frankly and properly, British, as evinced by the fact that the name of the province, gave more lovalty in men than the name of the old days, when the callsign her overwhelming assistance in the days of yore.

There is much interest attached to the name of this province. It is a production of love by the Queen who reigned long reign brought great good fortune to the empire that is proud to be known in history as the Victorian Age—famous in literature, science and religion. And she encouraged these great movements which empires live on and the illustrious woman who held the throne with "broad statesmanship" knew people's will and compassion for more than one.

When we visit the different places in British Columbia we are struck by the interest where adventurous men and women came to, for instance, is Kamloops itself. It has a suggestive appearance, and the name of David Thompson who built a trading post there in 1811 is locally as far back as 1810.

The Kamloops river was called after Thompson by that other great fur trader, Simon Fraser, who was the first to reach the great stream which bears his name. Kamloops was of some point of importance, being the junction of the Thompson river with the Fraser, the rendezvous and place of departure for the annual brigades of travel and south to and from Fort Vancouver on the Columbia river. Fort Kamloops, on the trading point that connected the interior with the coast, was founded by Alexander Ross in the year 1812.

The Kamloops river was called after Thompson by that other great fur trader, Simon Fraser, who was the first to reach the great stream which bears his name. Kamloops was of some point of importance, being the junction of the Thompson river with the Fraser, the rendezvous and place of departure for the annual brigades of travel and south to and from Fort Vancouver on the Columbia river. Fort Kamloops, on the trading point that connected the interior with the coast, was founded by Alexander Ross in the year 1812.

Peter Skene Ogden was a fur trader who became known in the days of the Hon. Samuel Black, a grim, hardy and devoted Scot, was in charge of that mountain post for the Hudson Bay Company.

Samuel Black, who was in charge at Kamloops, was—like most Hudson Bay men—bravely devoted and loyal to that great fur-trading organization, and like all Hudson Bay men, too, he was the soul of hospitality to strangers. He was not to welcome his way. One night Black had an idea in his head that he was in the power of David Douglas, the botanist, since no one knows true to the Douglas fir, is named. There is a story that this latter friend of Black's stomach and made some disparaging remark about Hudson Bay men in the hearing of Black promptly challenged the scientist to fight a duel. Douglas declined to be so pompered till the morning. At the hour indicated Black stepped at the appointed place where the botanist was supposed to be, but the room and called on him to come out and take back what he said or fight. Douglas, however, was not there. He had wisely concluded that he could serve his country better by abstaining than by running the risk of an encounter with the grim Hudson Bay factory.

It is gratifying to find parts of the old Hudson's Bay quarters still in Kamloops. The citizens ought to restore it to some degree of keeping with the times as a small but historic park or heritage. Relics and vandalism is into ordinary commercial use.

Thomas Tranquille, the chief of the famous Indian chief of the locality that bears or was so called. The name calls up the tragedy of Samuel Black's death. Tranquille, the chief died after a brief illness, and Black, who had been his friend, declared that he had caused Samuel Black's death by witchcraft. He was hanged for the deed. So the young blood, with the fatalism of the Indian, accepted his fate within him; went armed to the fort and demonstrated the old Hudson Bay motto.

There were stirring days. But every condition has its own part to play upon the world's stage. Thus we can look back upon the days in which we live and rejoice in the thought that the progress will bear fruit for generations to come.—Rev. R. G. Macbeth, in Leslie's Weekly.

PEOPLE WHO EAT ARSENIC.

Although Deadly Poison, Poisoners Can't Live Without It.

Arsenic, although one of the most deadly poisons known, is nevertheless used in large quantities.

One of its commonest uses is in the making of yellow and green pigments of the kind used for coloring wallpaper. These papers are often a source of danger to the inhabitants of the room.

Minute particles of the arsenic dust may be given off from the walls, for the people to breath. Unpleasant sounding!

Men who work in arsenic mines have to wear masks to cover their mouths and noses, and they change them every two months to keep away the arsenic dust.

But arsenic can even find its way into the system through the pores of the skin. The poor, persevering soap and water, and arsenic soon gets to work like a flash. Then we have a thorough wash with plenty of soap and water, and arsenic is washed off the skin.

Curiously enough, arsenic is not the only poison which is used by workers in that they almost invariably have very short of breath. But should an arsenic worker change his occupation he usually becomes well and fit. His only means of recovery will be by returning to his work as an arsenic worker.

Once an arsenic worker always an arsenic worker.

This is similar to the peasants on the Danube, especially in Central Europe. Owing to the intense cold they have been eat small quantities with minute quantities when young, and by constantly increasing their dose apply so that a grown man can eat in one dose enough to kill a normal person.

These women eat arsenic because it beautifies their complexions, and the men take it as it results in making them stronger. The terrible weather which they have to endure during the long hunting. But should their supply of arsenic run short, death follows almost at once.

Thus, while arsenic cannot be called a poison, for these arsenic eaters live to a ripe age and look wonderfully young.

They have simply "hardened" their systems against the poison.

Should a Canadian try such a proceeding in this country an inquest would be the inevitable result.

Our Assisted Science.

One day in the summer of 1840, a miner toiled on his claim at North Bloomfield, in the Sierra Nevada, washing the gold-bearing gravel. For him the morning had provided a long length of ordinary hose. As the fall from above was considerable the water gushed from the hose with great force.

Then a simple thing happened which subsequently provided the world with a wonderful invention. A cow came down to the working to quench her thirst, and was in danger of upsetting some of the sluices. The miner turned the hose on her, and by chance the water struck the cow with such force that, startled, throwing her head back sharply.

The miner was impressed by the effect the water had when it came in contact with the animal's nose. Within an hour he was rigging up a warm wheel with empty cans. Such was the beginning of the Pelton Water Wheel, and from the basis of the great turbines which transform water into electric energy.

The miner was Lester A. Pelton, and while still working on his claim he built a model of his invention. Success did not come his way until 1878, when the wheel was first tested at San Francisco, and business men provided the necessary funds for its manufacture for commercial use.

Curing Coughs by Machinery.

A machine has been invented by means of which it is possible to produce cough in the heart of a fresh city. It is being used to cure whooping cough.

Dr. J. W. Alexander, the Poplar borough medical officer of Health, is responsible for this experiment.

"It is well known," he told the writer, "that a change of air will cure a cough. A great number of people, however, are unable to go to the sea, and therefore the sea, or, at least, its health-giving air, must be brought to them.

"I have provided in the Poplar Institution, which contains air by a process of ventilation. It has been successfully tried on two cases of chronic whooping cough. In each case the daily dose of ozone in tiny quantities. The process is pleasant and refreshing, and already the children are a little better. The result is expected in stages as that of a holiday by the sea.

Turning Metal Into Gas.

A problem that has baffled scientists for thousands of years has been solved at last by two professors. They claim to have succeeded in changing tungsten (a metal) into helium gas. Between 40,000 and 50,000 degrees of heat were needed for the experiment. Only in the highest temperature ever known. The temperature in the electric steel is 9,000 degrees. That of the sun is 9,000 degrees, while some of the hottest stars are 36,000 degrees.

One hundred thousand volts of electricity were discharged at a high speed through a fine tungsten wire. The wire exploded with a flash. They report and a flash two hundred times more powerful, actually, was imposed into gas.

The two inventors declare that we are approaching an age when it will be possible to turn baser metals into gold.

Windblown Pollen.

Wind-blown pollen (sulphur rain) is known to be carried far. The British experts estimate that every acre a quite extensive rain of tree pollen on two fine days, twenty and thirteen miles from shore, and that the collection of the signs is known to have been carried even as far as 300 miles.

NERVOUS AND RUN DOWN

Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cobourg, Ontario.—"For many years I have had trouble with my nerves and have been in a general run-down condition for years. I could not get out so my work half the time because I was so nervous. I wrote to the wife of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advised me to try it. It has done me good and I strongly recommend it to others. I have taken it I have been able to do all my own work and I also know friends who have found it good. You can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. RILEY PLAYTIS, Box 181, Cobourg, Ontario.

Any woman in this condition should take the Vegetable Compound, for it has helped other women and so it should help you.

For fifty years this good, old-fashioned root and herb medicine, which contains no narcotics nor harmful drugs, has been restoring health to sick women, and has restored the health of many who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, nervousness, indigestion, etc.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

London, Nov. 8 (By Canadian Press).—Lieutenant-General Sir Charles Harington, Commander of the Allied Forces at Constantinople, upon whose tact and judgment the eyes of the world, particularly the eyes of the British Empire, were turned during the recent crisis in the Near East, and who was largely instrumental in saving the situation and preventing a war with Turkey, is just fifty years old and is a true type of the modern British General Staff. There is no question that this man, upon whom the dignity of the British Government rested for the time being, within broad limits, to deal with the situation as he saw fit, is truly representative of the British Army. He is a professional soldier, with a splendid record both as a fighter and, and recently he proved himself a tactful diplomat, as well as a great general.

Born of a professional family from the West End of London, General Harington went through the public school curriculum at a candidate for the Army, Cheltenham and Sandhurst led to a commission in the Royal Lancashire Regiment at the age of twenty. He next served an apprenticeship as battalion adjutant, then spent one year on special service in the South African War, where he first came to the notice of Colonel (now Lord) Plumer. The command of a company of gentlemen cadets at Sandhurst was followed by a nomination to the Staff College where he spent two years.

General Harington has other advantages. He was not only a good athlete, excelling at cricket, but he possessed a pleasing personality and the gift of popularity. He preserved old friends, and at the same time gained the approbation of his superiors.

During the Great War he passed from one good appointment to another. Beginning on the Third Army Staff, he was selected as Chief Staff Officer to the 4th (West Riding) Territorial Division. Next Brigadier-General, General Staff, on the Second Army.

Then was his opportunity, and he made the most of it, for he gained the reputation of an extremely patient, and shrewd Chief of Staff. Then General Plumer and Harington, they yet come to rank with other famous pairs of commanders and chief staff officers of history. With Plumer Harington went to Italy in November, 1917, and returned to Flanders on the former, about the time the great German offensive.

Six weeks later, in April, Harington was summoned to London by Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, who was murdered in London in June of this year, and was appointed to act as Deputy Chief of the General Staff, with a seat on the Army Council. This position he relinquished in November, 1920. In order to assume his present office in Constantinople.

Harington's present command carries her, so many on account of the rapidity of General Harington's advancement, but he has made it, his achievement without his ever holding an active command, of troops. "Tim," Harington is known to his friends, is likewise, is a typical British officer, with all his good points, honest and sincere, unspoiled by the assumption of "English" spirit of the military world.

SEPTEMBER GREAT MONTH FOR SILK SHIPMENTS

(Canadian Press.)

Yokohama, Nov. 9.—September was a great month in the silk export's history for the shipment of silk, and the Canadian Pacific steamships led all others shipped, of which the Canadian Pacific carried 10,676 bales. The Osaka Shosben Kaisha was second with 7,750 bales, and the Admiral Line third.

London, Nov. 8.—The new Chancellor of the Exchequer, Stanley Baldwin, is going to the United States before the end of the year to conduct the war debt funding negotiations in place of Sir Robert Horne, who has declined to accept the high cause of the change in Government. It was announced by Foreign Secretary Curzon today.

WOULD DESERVE RECOGNITION

An old farmer, dictating his will to a lawyer said:

"I give and bequeath to my wife the sum of £100 a year. Is that writ doesn't?

"Yes," said the lawyer, "but she may marry again. Won't you make any change in that case? Most people do."

"Ah, well, write again, and say: 'If my wife marry again I give and bequeath to her the sum of £300 a year.' That'll do, eh?"

"Why, that's just double the sum she would have had if she had remained unmarried," said the lawyer. "It is generally the other way."

"Aye," said the farmer, "but him that takes her will well deserve it."

About the most exasperating individual in the community is the dealer who cheerfully promises to deliver a ton of coal "to-morrow," and doesn't.

STATION ST. PAVEMENT STILL UNDECIDED

OFFICER SENT UP FOR TRIAL

P. C. WM. EVANS WILL BE TRIED BEFORE COUNTY JUDGE ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Sufficient evidence was taken in the trial of Police Constable William Evans, in Police Court here on Friday afternoon, to establish a Prima Facia case, after which the accused was committed for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction.

As the charge against Evans was one of assault, occasioning actual bodily harm, which is a criminal offence, it was necessary for his counsel, Major R. D. Ponton, to secure bail for his freedom until such time as he receives his trial.

Magistrate Masson, in one of the Police Commissioners, said in view of the fact that this case will be heard before the Police Commissioners, the Police Magistrate could not try the case.

Crown Attorney W. Carnew in conducting the prosecution, stated that no ton will defend Evans, and Mr. C. A. Payne, counsel for Foster in his trial for assaulting Evans, was also in the court room yesterday.

The first witness called was Dr. W. W. Boyce who treated Foster at Dr. Odber 30th as a patient. Dr. Boyce testified that Foster had a black right eye and swelling under it, that the nose had scratches upon it, and above the left ear there was a bruise as large as a 50 cent piece. "I examined me again," said the Dr., "and I treated him again, and his condition was improving. I also treated him for dressing for the injured eye. I would say that at least two blows caused the condition and in my opinion other object or indirect. His nose indicated bleeding and the force was considerable.

To Mr. Ponton—"A man drinking habitually for years will show bruises more readily than a non-drinker.

"A moderately heavy blow must have been received by Foster. Foster was perfectly sober when he came to my office. The injuries are not permanent nor serious."

Philip Foster

Accused, told of having drunk some of the wine before supper and some after, and on returning home about 12.15 Sunday morning, October 30th met a lad on the corner of Bridge and Front streets. He talked to the lad and then we went east on Bridge street and I went up the stairs to the Hydro office where this man is employed. Evans followed us up the Hydro stairs and he said, "You are under arrest. I did not realize that I said, "I'll go with you, but I'm as good a man as you." I walked right along but called him a bloody bastard and a fish man." He slammed me then I the eye and knocked me down. The was in Market street. I have no idea as I fell down. I said, "Get my hat and he said he would not. We then went to the police station, and when he proceeded to search me, I said "Well you didn't get anything." After he had searched me and while I stood with both arms out stretched while he searched me, he struck me in the eye with his fist knocking me down. I could not rise this time, so he grabbed me, pulled me up and said I was no again. Then he came into the cell and woke me up and asked me if I wanted any more. He was like a wild man. And I went out inside Evans said, "Wait until I get you inside and I'll show you to call me such a name." I was standing in the sergeant's room in the presence of P. C. Hoods. Hoods did not make any effort to assist me. I do not remember being taken into the cell room."

To Mr. Ponton—"I did not try to trip Evans nor try to slip out of my overcoat in Market Lane. Sergeant Booth was in uniform with tunic on but no helmet. I was not invited to sit down in the police station."

P. C. Arthur Booth

Sworn testified as follows: "I was on duty on the night in question, October 30th, in the station hoods. I know Foster. I was sitting in the Constable Room sitting my lunch, the outer door opened and I saw Evans' voice and another voice. A scuffle started in the Sergeants' Room, the door between the Sergeants' Room (No. 1) and the Constables' Room (No. 2) where I was, was partly closed. I could see Room No. 1. I could hear the language. I heard Evans say, 'Right in this way.' Then the language by Foster, then Evans said, 'You will, will you?' Then Foster came back-

IN FLANDERS' FIELDS

BY LT.-COL. JOHN McCRAE
(Of Guelph, Canada.)

Died January 28th, 1918, while on active service in France.

In Flanders' fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place, and in the sky
The larks still bravely singing fly.
Scarce heard amidst the guns below.
We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders' fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe,
To you from falling hands we throw
The Torch—be yours to hold it high;
If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep though poppies grow,
In Flanders' fields.

Bridge St. Sunday School Passes the Century Mark

Special Services to Commemorate the Founding of Belleville's First Sunday School

Tomorrow the Bridge Street Methodist Sunday School will celebrate its 100th anniversary. The church services, both in the morning and evening will be special to appropriately celebrate the occasion. His Honor, Judge Chatsworth of Toronto, will address the morning service while a former pastor, the Rev. J. P. Wilson will preach the evening.

The history of the Sunday School has been one of continued success. Of course for the first eight or ten years it had a precarious existence, but since then it has continuously advanced along successful lines, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance tomorrow to assist in the anniversary services.

ARRESTED ON BURGLARY CHARGE

PROVINCIAL OFFICERS TAKE GLEN ROSS YOUTHS INTO CUSTODY

Philip Sherrow, 19, and Peter J. Sherrow, his cousin, were arrested in the woods near Glen Ross on Friday afternoon by Provincial officers F. Nathan and H. Davis, on a charge of burglary.

These two young men are charged with breaking into the summer home of Mr. George W. Hammond of Campbellford and stealing therefrom one shot gun, and cartridges, valued at $25. The summer residence is near Hoard's Station.

The provincial officers had a long wait in the woods near the tent which forms the home of the accused youths, who were out attending to their traps.

IMPROMPTU VISIT TO CIVIC FUEL YARD

WOOD PILES IN AGRICULTURAL GROUNDS WERE ARE "MELTING"

In order to assist with the fuel situation, the city officials are trimming out the trees and piling the wood derived therefrom in the agricultural grounds, where the citizens may secure their dues when the weather becomes quite dusty.

Early last week an alleged to be visiting this civic fuel yard, however, but not on request, and are removing the wood by the light of the silver moon. The police officers are on the fruit, and are going to make it hot for offenders accordingly. The Intelligencer" this morning, if apprehended.

Friday night, a wagon drawn by a motorcycle while horse visited the grounds by "moonshine", and the police believe the wagon did not leave empty handed. Because of this nature in the future may be charged an admission at the gate. At least there will be some charge made or laid. Prosperity seems to gatherers should use it wisely hereafter in future.

LOON CAUGHT IN GILL NETS

Brighton, Nov. 10th—Fishermen here report the finding of a loon entangled in the nets nearly 50 feet under the water. This is indeed an exceptional depth for one of these feathered friends to be fenting.

EGGS COMMAND A GOOD PRICE

There was a good attendance upon the market today but not nearly as large as that of last week. Good prices prevailed for all products offered for sale and in some cases the price was higher.

Fresh dairy butter was quite plentiful and the ruling price was 45c per pound. A few baskets were procured at 42c and 43c a pound.

Strictly fresh eggs were rather scarce and in demand. They commanded a high price. Whilst some were procured for 55c a dozen others sold as high as 60c per dozen.

Dressed fowl were in abundance and found ready purchasers. The ruling price for chickens was $2.50 per pair and $2 for extra large birds. The ruling price for ducks was $3.50 each. A few geese offered for sale brought $4 and $5.50 according to size and quality.

Garden products were plentiful and were obtainable at reasonable prices. Potatoes sold at 90c and $1 a bag.

ARMISTICE DAY COMMEMORATED

Toronto, Nov. 11th. — Commemoration of the fourth anniversary of Armistice Day was generally more general today throughout Canada, than on any previous occasion since the memorable day, Nov. 11, 1918. Ministers of divine in honor of heroic London dead was the principal feature of the celebration. Flags at half-mast, flowers on roads, telegraph systems, factories and stores stayed their operations in respectful memory of the fallen.

SPRING SALMON ARE CAUGHT NEAR BELLEVILLE

There was caught in the government pound net at the hatchery yesterday a spring salmon, a fish not common here in the bay over one hundred years ago, but has been rarely seen of late years. It is commonly known as the Sioux Salmon, the scientific name being oncorhynchus tschawitcha. The old Indian name for the fish is OYE-KA RO which is pronounced "Oh-yeeka-ro" and a river frequented by these fish in Washington State was named after the Indian OYE-KA-RO-NE.

The fish was brought up to the Intelligencer office this morning and was a pretty sight especially for the disciples of Izaak Walton. It weighed three pounds was 32 inches long and was nine inches broad, or deep. The fins were black and of a light water weed green. The back and tail were mottled with dark spots. The eyes were small and black. The fish is a rare visitor in appearance of being covered with gold leaf, a little black pupil in the centre. The interior of the mouth was a purplish grey while the lower front teeth were long and pointed.

About a century ago there was a fish hatchery in the bay and ran up Moira River as far as the old Grist Mills. They also went up the Moira as far as there was a rocky bottom. They ran up the Moira because they could choose themselves from above and foreign matter, and, like the salmon in the Pacific coast rivers, the young fish can get up rapids and swift running water.

A few of these fish have been caught lately in the bay. Mr. Wm. Laflur caught one in a net this fall weighing 18 pounds. He got excited, threw it over four years ago started to stock the local waters with them. The fish brought in the hatchery was a male, three years old, and is a direct result of the efforts of the hatchery as it was likely that the female was put back in the bay.

The fish is of the game variety and like all game fish, the male must be placed on the hook till tired.

Mr. Chas. MacKenzie made some sketches of the fish before he was sent to Ottawa. There is no doubt but that these fish will be plentiful in the bay in a few years, they commence to run in salmon as fast as the carp, which is called the pig of fish.

This is one of the kinds of results that can be looked for from government hatcheries. That is to say the fish is a small fish compared with the Atlantic salmon, a big way for the bay. If these fish are not become plentiful up the Moira the river will have to be purified and in the NEAR future and also runways must be built in the river so that the fish can reach its ascend. Spillways over the top will also become a necessity to keep the fish out of the tail races of the turbine water wheels. If a fish gets in these wheels he is chopped up.

NO LEADER FOR PROGRESSIVES YET

Winnipeg, Nov. 9.—Ontario's delegation of Progressive members of Parliament arrived here this morning. Western members are reaching Winnipeg by every train and it is thought that there will be a very representative gathering when the third party convention opens to-morrow morning. Senator J. G. Turriff, the only Progressive in the second chamber, will attend.

Members appear to be in the dark as to Hon. T. A. Crerar's plans. They realize the difficulty of his position in trying to perform at the same time the duties of a national political leader and president of the Co-operative United Grain Growers Limited and it is probably true that many of them will not be surprised if they are advised to-morrow that Mr. Crerar has decided to devote all his energies for the next few years to the U.G.G.

Should Mr. Crerar resign the opinion is expressed in many quarters that the Progressive members are often likely to choose a House chairman and a parliamentary committee than they are to select at this time a national political leader.

The members will review the entire political situation, with particular reference to suggestions of fusion of the Liberal party. The executive ment and attempt will be made to reconcile whatever differences may exist concerning the degree of support and co-operation advocated to be accorded the King Government. Sessions will be held in private and the public will be excluded from the opening moment of his own position from Mr. Crerar is expected to be the feature of the first meeting.

CRERAR SEES MR. MEIGHEN'S REMARKS

Winnipeg, Nov. 11.—"I have seen Mr. Meighen's statement and am not impressed at it," said Hon. T. A. Crerar to-day, commenting on the Conservative's leader's expression of opinion on the platform of the Progressive leader. "Indeed," continued Mr. Crerar, "I would have been surprised if the tenor of it had been any different. Mr. Meighen has never been able to show any disposition to meet the amenities of public life in this respect.

NO NEW LEADER FOR PROGRESSIVES YET

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Winnipeg, Nov. 11.—"I might like to see a progressive organization in every constituency and in every province, but which does not amount to a National Convention where policies would be formulated," declared the Hon. T. A. Crerar, in addressing last night's conference of Progressive members here on the subject of fusion. Interpreting the meeting as not an official report of the proceedings issued early this morning that members generally were not said that the Progressives would "be willing to co-operate with all who believed in the principles which they stood for." Finally a committee was appointed to report on plans for organization, and adjourned to meet again today.

There has been no discussion of leadership so far.

A RICH COMMUNITY

Even the gods sleep occasionally, according to the old proverb, and the Toronto "Globe" makes a slip. In a recent issue it stated that the population of York Township was "$51,974, a slight increase over last year." Evidently the investment has borne interest!

ALLIES IT TIGHT

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Nov. 11.—The situation at Constantinople where the Turks want to drive the allies out of Europe, and are determined to sit tight, is still very critical, all the morning papers agree. None of them furnish any definite news to justify their view. Even the Government itself is declared in important quarters to be largely in the dark owing to the difficulty of communicating with the Near East and absolutely nothing can be learned of the attitude of the Angora government.

STATION ST. PAVEMENT DISCUSSED AT LENGTH

Nothing Definite Arrived at After Three Hours' Debating —Ratepayers on Street Want Ratepayers of City to Pay 75 Per Cent. of Cost—A Macadam Road May be Built.

The conference which was held last evening between ratepayers on Station street and members of the City Council relative to paving of that thoroughfare was a long drawn out argument which did not result in anything concrete being accomplished. One point, was however, settled so far as ratepayers of the street are concerned and that is that they will not pay more than 25 per cent. of the total cost of a pavement, should one be laid. This was clearly set forth by several who spoke. The concensus of opinion amongst the majority of the aldermen and other interested ratepayers was that it is not fair to ask the ratepayers at large to pay 75 per cent. of the cost. A proposition to make a macadam road at a cost of $1,000 was proposed by a letter read and this may be done. The ratepayers on the street are willing to meet the expenditure and this may possibly be done for the present. The meeting which was largely was towards the city's part somewhat signal.

Mayor Hanna presided over the meeting and stated its object and hoped that a satisfactory arrangement would be arrived at. Before the Acording to the City Engineer Signing will be held in private and the public will be excluded from the commencement of his own position from Mr. Crerar is expected to be the feature of the first meeting.

City Engineer's Report

Mr. Campbell, City Engineer, presented an exhaustive report relative to the matter as follows:

Belleville, Ont., Nov. 10, 1922.

To the Mayor and Members of the Council and Ratepayers of Station St., Belleville, Ont.

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

On the suggestions of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board and on the recommendation of the City Council this meeting has been called to consider the matter of the basis of assessment of the proposed asphaltic concrete pavement on Station street.

The Board at the sitting held here on November 1st and 2nd, at the Court House, accepted all information submitted to them by each side in the appeal, and after a careful study of this evidence and personal demonstration of the conditions existing along the street, and of the conditions that exist in other parts of the City, where pavements had been laid, as shown to them by Mr. R. J. Graham, made a judgment, of which the following is a summary was very exhaustive, covering the disposition of the Board to grant interference with municipal action by a Council; a summarization of the powers of the Board on the matter of all appeals to them from work undertaken under the Local Improvement Act, and a detailed summary of the evidence in relation of the pavement of Station street.

Three salient points are contained in the Board's findings as the most outstanding, in my opinion, was their statement that "this street needed a pavement, and one of a permanent and enduring character, and that meant an expensive pavement." The traffic demand on this street and the fact of its location as a continuation of the main business street of the Grand Trunk Railway and the road being the junction point with two considerable country roads are very all compelling remarks in the Board's statement. I am sure that there is no dissension by anyone, of the Board of Iterogs of Belleville at heart, in the least degree.

The second point that the Board referred to was the general condition of the street. From evidence submitted to them at the hearing and observed by them on the ground, they made the statement that the street was a very unprogressive one apparently. This view is upheld by many citizens who gave evidence on behalf of the property owners on the street. The records of their testimonies to the Board, showed the condition of the street marked acutely and was not refuted by the City Council.

The third point, and possibly the one that influenced the Board more than any other in their decision, was the fact that the assessed values of the property on this street was only $214,000 even in extent of number of buildings and property, and that there was a charge of approximately $47,000 hanging over this property as sewer, and which had not yet been assessed. The pavement charge as proposed by the City Council would add another $53,000 against this property, say a total charge of approximately 50% of its assessed value.

With regard to the water bound macadam, the extreme weather conditions in this district tend to break down the adhesion in a water bound macadam. Any street which bears a appearance of improvement seems to draw the motoring automobiles and heavy trucks and the heavy tractive effort of these vehicles on the steep grades causes many very quickly and cause it to become uneven and break up.

This brings the cost of a water bound macadam, spread over a period of twenty years, to not less than $2.00 per square yard, as the cost of water bound macadam. A concrete roadway properly built and reinforced would cost in the neighborhood of $2.50 per square yard. There is a possibility of cracking in a concrete as time goes on, and this would have to be filled in with bituminous or breaking down entirely. Aside from the cost, this type of road would be dusty and noisy in this district, where the horse drawn vehicles are used to a considerable extent. Considering all these, the houses so close to the highway, it does not, in my opinion, meet the conditions satisfactorily. We have a third class of a tar bound road on a macadam base. A binding of tar holding the road together would have to some degree an asphaltic surface and being held so closely together for some depth would not break up as quickly as the water bound macadam or the more brittle concrete, due to the plastic nature of the tar. A roadway of this type with the surface treatments every two years or so, has in my experience given satisfactory service for twelve years and is apparently as good today as ever, in-as-much as the road top is not broken away, but is rendered more compact and built up with tarvia and surface treatment. The cost of such a pavement runs approximately $2.40 per square "yard.

Taking everything into consideration between the City Engineer and with my familiarity with the district, I believe that a tarvia roadway would best suit the conditions as set out by the Board in their finding at a cost of $2.40 per square yard. On a basis of a 20 foot roadway it would be needed for 2,253 1-3 per foot frontage. The asphaltic concrete cost per foot frontage would be $4,000 and the tarvia would be $4,625, leaving a difference in cost between the two pavements of $1,000.170 per foot frontage.

To arrive at a proportion of this last amount, I think that the direct benefit and increase in value to the street, because of the better class of pavement would be much more than it would be to the city at large, and would suggest a distribution of the difference on a basis of 2-3 to the benefit to the frontage and 1-3 to the City at large. In order that these figures may be understood by everyone, I have prepared a table of values showing on the easie here, and you may study them out. The grading cost of $1.67 per foot frontage, approximately $1,000 per foot frontage, and the curbing cost is $1.00 per foot frontage, a total field cost of $3.674 per foot in addition to the cost of whatever type of pavement we figure on. The cost of an asphaltic concrete pavement with the sole base grading according to the tender was $6.36 per foot frontage with an annual charge of $1.00 per foot frontage.

On a 2¼ foot base of asphaltic concrete pavement the charge would be 47.64 per foot frontage per annum.

The total charge to the City at large and to the private property owners respectively for the two pavements according to the plans as already approved by the City Council and on a basis of a 20 foot pavement chargeable to the frontage and the balance to the City at large is $20,452.27 and $53,704.50 respectively of $24,361.00 and $53,704.50 as originally estimated by me on the 27-road-basis. In addition to the above, there is

Station St. Pavement

be the other charge for the street drainage construction and sanitary sewer extensions, etc., chargeable into the City's share.

All of us are anxious, I know, to see the work gone on with during the representation of the citizens of Belleville at large or as ratepayers, along the street. Just lately we have had an opportunity through the Chamber of Commerce to see some of the work that is produced in Belleville, and one cannot help but feel proud, and justly so, after seeing the variety and extent of those works, of being a resident of Belleville. Let us therefore all get together in a real community spirit with the feeling that whatever is good for any part of the City helps it all and tends to raise the City to a position of a bigger and better Belleville, a City of good citizens, good workmen, and good times.

Thanking you Mr. Mayor, Councillors, Ladies and Gentlemen for your patience, and trusting that this report will help you arrive at some basis of a mutual agreement on this matter,

I am,

Yours very sincerely,

CHAS. D. CAMPBELL,

City Engineer.

Ald. Donohoe—The residents of Station street should give their views on the matter so that we may know what they desire the Council to do.

Mr. McGinnis stated that in the advertisement it showed that there was some 80 feet of pavement to be constructed on the Canifton Road starting at Station street. This he considered was ridiculous. He thought this should be eliminated.

City Engineer—This was proposed on the plan and profiles but could be eliminated.

Ven. Archdeacon Beamish, supported Mr. McGinnis' contention in this matter to have it eliminated.

Ald. Donohoe—Have the property owners on Station street arrived at any decision on what they consider would be fair for them to pay as their share of the cost of a pavement?

Macadam Road

Mr. R. J. Graham thought at first that property owners' share of the cost of a pavement should not exceed 25 per cent. The total assessed value of building and property on the street is $214,000. The taxpayers have now to pay for a sewer, also waterworks. He was advised that a contractor is prepared to place the street in a good condition for $1,000.

Ald. Donohoe—Would you name the party?

Mr. Graham—Mr. Donovan is the man and he also states that the street could be kept in good repair for $30 or $400 per annum. Perhaps this would be the better plan. There is another way to get to the G.T.R. station, namely Pine street and Bleecker avenue. If the property owners on these streets desire such a pavement the Council should construct same. It would be a real hardship for some people on Station street if a pavement was put down, no matter what the type of pavement was put down.

Ald. Donohoe—There are properties on Station street that are not assessed as they should be. Personally he was not in favor of a macadam road as it was not at all lasting.

Ven. Archdeacon Beamish said he had three houses on Station street, and to sell them he would have to let things go for much less than they are assessed at.

Mr. Wm. Thompson—Station street should be repaired. He (the speaker) had the offer from Mr. Donovan to make a good macadam road for $1,000 and the annual expense for upkeep would not be an expensive item.

Ald. Donohoe—A macadam road cannot be built that will stand up under the traffic of today.

A Harsh Movement

Ven. Archdeacon—The property owners who have little homes on that street would be under a burden if the Council put down a pavement. The Railway Board had characterized it as a harsh movement. As far as the ratepayers on the street are concerned we will fight against any other proposition than to pay more than 25 per cent. of the cost of any pavement, if the Council should put one down. One house on Station street he owned was assessed at $2,400 and he had offered it for sale at $2,800.

Ald. McCreary—If the ratepayers do not want a pavement then the Council will not put it down. Station street would be very dusty if a macadam road was built.

Property Owners' Views

Mayor Hanna—If the ratepayers on Station street will pay only 25 per cent. of the cost he would like to hear what other ratepayers of the city who do not live on Station street or own property there have to say on the matter.

Ald. Robinson—I will support the proposition submitted by the ratepayers on Station street. He (the speaker) would be willing to pay his share of the taxes. He would support Mr. Donovan's proposition.

Mr. Wm. Thompson—Try out Mr. Donovan's proposition for one year and see how the road keeps up.

Ald. Ostrom—The question was, should this street be paved or not? The Council had been accused of being unfair in regard to placing down of pavements on certain streets. The Aldermen referred to Dundas street roadway as a macadam road. Much money had been spent on repairing this road, although it is in a bad state. The question was, do the ratepayers on Station street want a macadam road or a pavement. He could support any reasonable proposition.

Mr. Graham—If the city cannot afford to pay 75 per cent. of the cost of a pavement on Station street then the proposition might just as well be dropped.

Ald. Ostrom—The city cannot stand that amount. We are now taxed up to our limits in regard to the assessment.

Ald. Thompson—The city as a whole, cannot pay 75 per cent. of the cost of a pavement on Station street. That was a certainty.

Mr. R. Bogle considered that the 25 per cent. proposition offered by the ratepayers of Station street was most reasonable.

Mr. Charles Bronson, as a ratepayer of the city, thought it was not fair to ask the citizens at large, to pay 75 per cent of the cost of paving Station street.

Ven. Archdeacon Beamish—We are willing to pay for the cost of a macadam road.

Mr. Tracey—I pay for a pavement in front of my property in Coleman Ward and am opposed to the city paying 75 per cent. of the cost of paving Station street.

Ald. Greenleaf spoke in favor of the paving of Station street. The Council was trying to do what was fair and were not prejudiced in the matter.

Ven. Archdeacon Beamish moved, seconded by Mr. H. McGinnis, that the property owners on Station street, respectfully ask the City Council to defer the building of a permanent paving and accept the offer of Mr. Donovan for a macadam road at the price named.

Mr. M. Robertson was opposed to the resolution. He would like to see the street paved and hoped the ratepayers and Council could agree upon a pavement.

Mayor Hanna thought that all property owners should be privileged to vote on the resolution.

Ven. Archdeacon Beamish—I will withdraw the resolution if the Mayor rules that way.

After some discussion the motion was found to be out of order as the seconder, Mr. McGinnis, had left the Council chamber.

Mayor Hanna—It looks as if the matter is now left to the Council, and for that body to report to the Railway Board.

Ven. Archdeacon Beamish—The Council has too much paving for the population. The property owners on East Bridge was opposed to the pavement on that street but it was forced upon them.

Ald. Robinson—This is an outrage on the city, putting down so much pavement. He had opposed it in the Council.

Ex-Ald. Duckworth in his remarks stated that it was apparent that Belleville was on the downward grade. He spoke rather disparingly of the Chamber of Commerce, and of some of the industries which had been brought to the city and have not proved what they should have been.

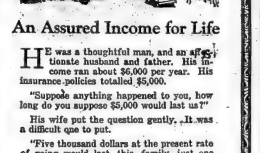

Mr. M. Robertson—Belleville has had why was it the city bonds were sold at a higher figure than that obtained for bonds by other cities.

After some further discussions the meeting adjourned.

An Assured Income for Life

HE was a thoughtful man, and an affectionate husband and father. His income ran about $6,000 per year. His insurance policies totalled $5,000.

"Suppose anything happened to you, how long do you suppose $5,000 would last us?"

His wife put the question gently. It was a difficult one to put.

"Five thousand dollars at the present rate of going would last this family just one year!" replied her husband.

"And then what?"

There was no answer, save thoughtful silence. But in that silence one thoughtful and affectionate man was converted to the idea of adequate insurance—insurance that would yield an income for life.

Monthly Income Insurance issued by the Mutual Life of Canada is the modern way of providing for those dependent on you. Monthly Income Insurance perpetuates your income after you have gone. Income Insurance assures your family a monthly allowance after your death. Income Insurance is based on the proved fact that it is safer to leave a fixed income than a "lump sum."

"MRS. A. C. Morton, the millionaire Jack Manager, of Boston, who recently died, was a great "booster" for Zutoo Tablets.

He suffered from headachish from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped those headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Morton says in closing:

BIG BILL'S PHILOSOPHY

"There was a feller who played hockey for one of the hockey amateur teams an' he was a corkin' good player at that. He could skate fast, he's any of the others and he could shoot faster and surer than any men on the team. Well, this same feller was dropped from the team because he was no good. I couldn't understand it at first and when I asked the Captain he said the man was no good because he tried to hog it, all.

He wouldn't pass the puck to anybody and though he was a great skater and a good shot he was useless, because he didn't know what team work meant.

I reckon that holds good in a lot of other things too. I know a lot of fellers who are great business men but don't seem to make a go of it because they don't know how to co-operate. They lose out will and generally go on the rocks in the end. Team play is needed in the comunity alright."

ARMISTICE DAY

The very mention of the day, Armistice Day, fills one with conflicting emotions of peace, celebration, sadness, gladness, and many others. It was a milestone in all our lives. Few of us will ever live to see a more momentous day than that of November 11th, 1918. To attempt to describe the full meaning, of what the day meant to every individual or the civilized world, would be folly; words are frail media to express such sentiments. We Canadians who heard the news in the dull grey dawn of a November morning, can well remember with what joy we crowded out on the street, as most of us experienced a feeling of joy the like of which we had never before known. Celebration was rampant that day. Those words of "Armistice Day" meant that the boys "over there" would no longer be exposed to fire. They would soon be coming home again. The war-torn nations would cease their strife; channels of commerce would produce, peace-time products; shells, guns, and powder would no longer be the chief product of the factories, and all the machines of war would pass out of active service. The factories and the mines, the farmers, and the city dwellers, would all again engage in peaceful pursuits.

But to many others, their losses only commenced to be appreciated. There was many a dreary heart who did not look forward to any home-coming. The day in many thousand homes opened up new heartaches. To others there was the highest form of both sadness, grief and pleasure, because there were many empty chairs in the family reunions, that followed.

But the day is one that is too important, to be thought of as personal. The effect of that day's events were world-wide. Here we are four years afterward, we would ask our heads in silence for two minutes on the eleventh hour, of the eleventh day of the eleventh month of the year, out of respect for those who fought for the liberties we now enjoy. This feeling of respect that we have, has been expressed so well in our ballad "In Flanders' Fields Where Poppies Grow," by one of our own boys, Col. John McCrae:

"As time goes by the world changes, and another generation will take the reins. Then armistice day will be a matter of history only to them. They will not feel as do we, who have seen the four terrible years, and have known the horrors, the joys, and the trials of it all. Feelings deeper than the pen can express, grip us all. It is truly a day of Thanksgiving, but our joy is tinged with sadness at the price we paid. For never was there written a page in the history of the world that is more glorious than that of our own boys who fought in Flanders' Fields."

THE NEED FOR EXTRA EFFORT

It is evident that cities in Ontario that lay claim to the distinction of being centres of industry are going to make an extra effort during the coming year to attract new enterprises. Toronto has just announced a new organization of business men to take up the task of securing new industries. A large sum of money has been pledged for the purpose of financing a drive to bring industries to Toronto.

The situation embodied in Toronto's decision to make a bid for business is one that cannot be overlooked by the smaller communities of the province as there is a likelihood of aggressive campaigning by Toronto to obtain industries that would otherwise come to places like Belleville, and the citizens of the latter cannot afford to be unprepared to look after their own interests.

The Chamber of Commerce of this city is just now on the eve of a drive to renew its membership and to obtain new support from the ranks of those who have not been affiliated with it in the past. It is essential that the business community of this city should have a strong organization to deal with the problems that are certain to present themselves during the next few years. There has been a period of marking time in the matter of the establishment of new industries due to the unusual conditions following the war. Financial concerns recognizing the uncertainties of the times have limited their support both to new projects or to the expansion of existing ones but the period of standstill is nearing an end and those possessing or controlling capital must get their money to work.

This part of Ontario is located in the belt where the revival of industry will take place first. The availability of hydro power is an important element in the circumstances that directly affect industrial operations. Belleville must support its claims to recognition against such centres as London, St. Catharines, Galt, Brantford, Niagara Falls, Welland, Oshawa, Peterborough, and half a dozen other communities that are intensely alert in the matter of securing new enterprises. The only safe method for Belleville to pursue is to have a strong organization of all its citizens through which the best efforts of the community can be translated into action. Every man in Belleville has ideas that are valuable to the community as a whole. If the Chamber of Commerce can obtain a representative membership, it will have no reason to fear for its ability to maintain its prestige and extend its influence in industrial and commercial activities.

To fulfill its mission the Chamber of Commerce must have adequate finances and the co-operation of enthusiastic, enterprising members. The material is here. The only question that remains to be answered is whether the citizenship of Belleville will respond to the appeal now being presented to them, in a manner that will establish that they are alive to the necessities of the occasion and to the importance of the task that confronts the city.

PASSINGCOMMENT

Free verse is the poetry we clip from other papers.

Why not begin to think of those Christmas presents?

It is said that half of New York's population is foreign born or of foreign parents and one-third of the residents Jews, but visitors who form their opinions of the town from Broadway will continue to believe that nine-tenths of the population is Jewish.

HERE AND THERE

THE BLACKWALL TRADITIONS.

The Blackwall frigates had their own cherished traditions, customs and etiquette. Their sailors, says Mr. Basil Lubbock in a recent history of the famous line, did not pull and haul to the chanteys that were in use in several elsewhere; they responded to the thrill blast of the boatswain's whistle or to the sweetly enlivening strains of the ship's fiddler.

As to the officers—"Blackwall fashion" became a recognised marine synonym for the grand manner. For example, most of the captains were exceedingly particular concerning dress. On board the crack frigate Trafalgar the captain sent a steward to inform the midshipmen's berth every morning what they should wear that day, blues or whites.

A former middy of the Trafalgar, W. I. Downie, relates in his reminiscences that, having unfortunately lost overboard two caps embellished with badges and bands, he went on deck one morning at eight bells to keep his watch, wearing a plain cap. The skipper, as he took charge, looked at me. After screwing his eyeglass into his eye, he came over to leeward and said, "Are you ashamed of the service, sir?"

"No, sir, certainly not."

"Well, then, why have you not the company's flag on your cap?"

I told him that both my badges were overboard.

"Then, sir, go down on the main deck and keep your watch there; I cannot have half-dressed officers on the poop of this ship."

With rueful steps I descended the poop ladder, and, poor little wretch that I was, I thought I should sink under the disgrace. For a quarter of an hour I walked dismally up and down and felt very sick. At the expiration of that time the captain's steward came to me and, holding out a small parcel, said:

"The captain's compliments, sir; and will you please place this badge and band on your cap. You can then resume your duties on the poop. He would suggest you attach a lanyard to it."

I joyfully proceeded to ship the brass binding and did not forget to secure it as suggested. Then, no longer an outcast, I gleefully mounted the poop ladder once more. I touched my cap as I again stepped on that sacred piece of deck which must not be trodden save by those suitably decorated with the company's house flag.—Youth's Companion.

SONG IN ABSENCE.

Once with the pussy-willows
I thought to come to thee,
To see the quivering wind-flower,
Most delicate, the wind-flower
Even here the thrush called me.

Then surely with the swallows
For the long days of June,
When the heat is dancing on the road
And woodpigeons croon—
But now the nights are fading,
The clear nights are fading,
And the cuckoo's changed his tune.

I was wearying for the heather
And the bracken's autumn fire,
The flame of the foxglove's burning
To the tip of each slender spire—
But now the deer are roaring,
Across the lochan roaring,
And the cows come down to the byre.

Yet, one night when Orion
Slants o'er the eastern hills,
When the rushing burns in spate,
The sound of tiny burns grown great,
The quick valley-fills,
One night when yonder lamp is lighted
And your curtains drawn for me,
Before the snow has fallen,
Thick on the eaves has fallen
I will come home to thee.

PRESS OPINIONS

BILL STILL CLAIMS A PLACE IN THE SUN

(Toronto Telegram)

Many a man hoped to live to see Kaiser Wilhelm hanged. Few expected to sit around and see him married. But the man who tried to give Germany a place in the sun and only succeeded in making the German mark so small that it would not cast a shadow on a sunshiny day is bound to keep in the spotlight—even if he has to get married to do it.

COMING BACK TO NORMAL

(Toronto Telegram)

United Grain Growers have passed their dividend, U.F.O. stores are closing up, and the sons of the soil are generally proving that they are as efficient in business as they are in politics.

The world, commercial or political cannot be reformed by word of mouth. Still less can it be moulded to perfection by blatherskites who farm the farmer for their own glory and to the end that their own seats are feathered at the expense of those whose cause they claim to espouse.

PROHIBITION AND CRIME

(Toronto Telegram)

Dominion statistics show that in recent years there has been a marked decrease in convictions for assault, cruelty to animals, vagrancy, insulting, obscene and profane language, disorderly conduct and keeping or frequenting disorderly houses. The reduction is from 38,583 to 19,222. It may be said that these are minor offences, but they have an intimate relation with the conduct of life. The offenders are not, perhaps, criminals of a dangerous type, but they are leading idle, sordid and ill-regulated lives, and they are a source of weakness to the community.

The great reduction in offences of this kind is an encouraging sign of national progress, and it is impossible for any unprejudiced person to deny that it is due largely to prohibition and to the falling off in the consumption of intoxicants, which weaken the will and stimulate the passions.

READER INTEREST IS ESSENTIAL

(Financial Post)

When John Wanamaker, some years ago, withdrew his advertising from free-distribution mediums, it was because these had no fundamental reader-interest. This was the finding after a deep study of the subject. It was the conviction that, the man who subscribed for a newspaper or other publication, expected to find advertising in it and valued that advertising as in the light of an investment, as something he had appreciated sufficiently to pay for.

The opposite was the effect of the free-distributed product. Here the receiver had no primary interest in the publication; it appeared in unexpected places, without request, and had somewhat the status of an unaccepted guest.

Then, as now, free-circulation mediums were found to recognize no responsibilities toward the problems attending the business or industry, offered no constructive service through their columns, had no means of developing helpful discussion, offered no interchange of news or views and in short had no interest beyond that contained in their advertising pages and the revenue they reaped.

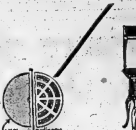

Essentially Different

THERE are two most important things about any Electric Range—the cooking element and the oven. Everything else is of lesser importance.

And in McClary's Electric Range both these points are different and superior.

The Cooking Elements are protected. The heating coils are embedded in tough porcelain, are protected from spilled food and other damage. They last as quickly and remain hot much longer than any other kind.

The Seamless Oven—of welded steel, porcelain enamelled with rounded corners is sanitary and easily kept clean. It operates like a fireless cooker, because when once heated it stays heated until the baking is done.

A Real Old Country Treat

The Old Favorite

Is Just As Popular As Ever

And Just as Effective in Relieving Coughs, Colds, Croup and Bronchitis

For over a quarter of a century Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has been the favorite treatment for coughs and colds.

It is still growing in favor, for the simple reason that it can be depended on as a positive relief for Croup, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough and Asthma.

Bronchitis

Mr. J. Pearose, 207 Oak St., Toronto, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with bronchitis and had a very bad cough for about a year. I had the cough so long I was becoming afraid of other developments. I tried all kinds of cough remedies without relief. I saw Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine advertised and tried a bottle. I was greatly surprised at the relief I got from this Linseed and Turpentine. I bought five more bottles and was completely relieved."

Severe Cold

Mr. Lloyd Bullen, Sunnybrook Farm, Pownal, Lot 49, P.E.I., writes:—"After I got over the 'flu' last winter, I took a very severe cold. I tried several kinds of cough medicines, but none of them gave me relief and I began to fear it would turn to something more serious. One day, however, I picked up a copy of Dr. Chase's Almanac and saw your Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine advertised. I got one bottle immediately, which completely relieved me."

Woman's Sphere

"THE OLD HOMESTEAD"

(By Miss Carmen.)

Here we came when love was young;
Now that love is old
Still we leave this floor unswept
And the Master scold!

Here, too, every doorway looks
A remembered face;
Every hallowed board wears
A familiar grace.

Let the winners smile again
At the morning light,
And the door stand open wide
When the moon is bright.

Let their dream of twilight blow
Through the silent hall,
And the whispering rafters hear
How the brambles fall.

Oh! be merciful and kind
To the house that gave
All its best to shelter love,
Built, when love was brave!

Here, too, came when love was young;
Now alas! love is old.
Never let to-day be lone
For the Master's scold!

What Type Will Follow the Flapper

By Maurice Leon-Noyes
in the Daily Sketch.

I am rather upset this morning. They—the Great Ones of Fashion—the Beauty specialists and, what-not—tell me the Flapper is doomed. Quite calmly they say it.

One moment they will be chatting blithely and harshly about pigments and perfumes, and the next they will snap their snow-white fingers and exclaim:

"The Flapper? Oh, 'poof! She's doomed!" Just like that they sentence her! Without a trace of sympathy. I don't believe they care tuppence.

I cannot think what they want to done her for. She is decorative. In the drawing-room she goes well with the cushions, and if you take her out to supper she blends prettily with the meringues. She is useful. She makes an excellent dancing partner, an interesting pet, and, furthermore, spends in very handy to weigh down the back wheel of a motor-cycle on a sandy day.

Of course I know there are some people—aunts, for instance—who don't care for the flapper but that is only because they are aunts. Uncles like them. So do thousands of other people's brothers and cousins. To them there is something distinctly feminine about these little ladies with their saucy, peeping heads and rose-bud mouths.

And now they are doomed, these little, fluffy-dancing, cheerio girls of 1922. Just as the prize Prunes and Prisms Miss of the last century had to make way for the Flapper, so, in turn, the Flapper if to make way—for what?

The Flapper, unless I am very much mistaken, is to be superseded by the Flapper: a big, booming bundle with whom like a Silly-goat, and a penalty kick like living mass of bullet from a Gatling gun. We are to have the SuperSports Wench. It is a terrifying thought.

But, you will say, for ages we have had the Tennis Girl, and the Croquet Girl, and the Swimming Girl, and the Golf Girl, and all the other mild forms of Outdoor Girl. Admittedly. And I love them. Oh, dearly.

But what can you say for the Beauties, the Soccer Queen, or Pugilistic Phebe, the Pride of the Ring? Can imagine leading the latter strapping stylish to the conservatory and murmuring in her exclusive ear, "Phebe, my pet, I adore you! Let me be your protector."

The Daily Recipe

DELICIOUS RICE DISH

Wash ½ plat of good rice through several cold waters. Have ready a large kettle filled with rapidly boiling water, sprinkle in the rice shortly, and boil it the uncovered vessel for 30 minutes. Then drain the rice in a colander and pour through it quickly a quart of cold water. Stand the colander on a plate, and then at the heated oven door, where the heat will pass through the rice. Then make a sauce of 2 cups canned tomatoes, a few slices of onion, one green pepper, a few drops of Worcester shire sauce, and season. Put this all in a pan on the stove, and when it becomes hot thicken with 2 tablespoons flour and a little water. Let this cook gently until the onion is cooked. Now heap the rice in the centre of a large platter and pour the sauce over it. Have ready a few slices of fried bacon and place these on top of the mound.

SALT YOUR OWN ALMONDS

There are three ways of salting almonds, but the method of preparing them for salting is the same in each case. Blanch the almonds by putting them in a pan of cold water and bringing them to the boil, then rub them in a rough towel to remove skins. Dry thoroughly, then do one of three things. 1: Fry till golden in smoking hot olive oil. 2: Brown in boiling hot butter. 3: Roast in the oven turning occasionally till golden brown. Afterwards shake in fine salt and store in bottles or tins.

MUSIC & DRAMA

HOOT GIBSON AT REGENT

Hoot Gibson has just the kind of role that he has always wanted to play in "The Galloping Kid", his latest 5 reel Universal drama which is also exhibited at Regent to-night for the last time. It is that of a tramp cowboy with unusually interesting philosophy of life who gets by on his sharp wits alone. He lands the town's pick of charming gentleman's pretty daughter, portrayed by Edna Murphy, and finds that he has been missing something for many, many years. The story is one of the "Misfit" series written by William H. Hamby, well-known contributor to the national magazines.

Vodevil Movies, a two reel drama, a comedy and a beautiful Travelogue are being exhibited on the same program.

BARTHELMESS REGISTERS NOTABLE SCREEN TRIUMPH

"TOL'ABLE DAVID"

When Joseph Hergesheimer finally allowed one of his stories to be translated into screen role he picked Richard Barthelmess. The result has justified his judgement for "Tol'able David," the First National attraction which opened its two day run at Griffin's last night ranks with the season's finest productions.

The production marks Barthelmess' first appearance as a star. His role in David Kennison is one that calls for sympathetic acting and the capable interpretation of which the youthful actor seems makes the character an outstanding one. The star registers high in the list of the mountain people whose unwavering ambition is the keynote of his character.

"Tol'able David' is one of those appealing stories of the Virginia Mountains that calls for red blooded manhood, appeals with its smooth simplicity, and at the same time tugs with genuine heart throbs.

Brownie the famous screen dog furnishes some clever tricks in a comedy offering titled "Cheerful Credit". Reginald Denny appears in Round Four of the popular "Leather Pushers" series, and Round Four is easily the best of the series so far exhibited, Pathe News with its news events gathered the world over is being exhibited on the same program.

REX COMMANY IN COMEDY AGAIN

The fact alone that no less a personage than Miss Ruth Chatterton chose it for a starring vehicle for the stage, and delightful Miss Marguerite Clark of screen fame, also selected it for a future picture should alone be a solid guarantee of that delightful comedy "Brown Jean", which will be the offering by the Rex Company during their next three days engagement, at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday.

Those who remember Zana Vaudra in "The Brat", and later in "Peg O' My Heart", and then again in "Kitty Be Careful" and parts like that will welcome with delight, a glimpse of this charming little person in perhaps the best part she has had since being here. As Jane in "Some Jane", Zana Vaudra, and a complete cast altogether for her admirers, and they are many. Of course the rest of the Rex Company appear, and to good advantage too. Rex has a sort of quiet dignity, which will be a welcome change after his wild capers last week and from what we hear, more of them coming.

MONTE BLUE IS HERO OF "A PERFECT CRIME"

Allan Dwan has finished to his final five comedy dramas in producing "A Perfect Crime," his second Associated Producers release, which comes to the Regent Theatre this Monday to Wednesday, matinee daily.

He has taken a simple story, embellished it with sound philosophy, provided plenty of romance, humor and pathos and turned out the best comedy drama of his career.

The story has for its hero the greatest liar on record. Baron Munchausen himself was a rank amateur compared to Wally Grimes. And Wally is no prodigient in the art, he lies his way to success.

For in the beginning he is a poor bank messenger, earning $30 a month. He is disgraced because bank officials endeavor to make him a thief by placing money about where he can steal it.

Wally reveals. If they expect him to be a thief, he'll be one, and he plans a cunning robbery. He lays his plans carefully and devotes his time to establishing another identity so that when the time comes Wally Grimes will have disappeared and a new personality in no way connected with the bank will reap the harvest of the stolen money.

In establishing this new identity it is necessary for him to lie. He lies magnificently and impressively. For the first time in his life he finds that people are listening to him.

Does he rob the bank?

It would be unfair to tell you. But he does steal a girl's heart. Monte Blue is the hero of the story and Jacqueline Logan, a former Ziegfeld girl plays opposite him.

"Meet the Wife" a two reel Hallroom Boys comedy, Fox News Weekly, and a new chapter of "Robinson Crusoe" serial are announced for presentation on the same program.

CHAPTER VII.

FOR LOVE OF GOLD.

The game had been so long in the Squire's hands and manipulated by him at will that he considered it a matter of wrong to have to face anything like possible defeat. The very thought was strangely bewildering to him. He had commanded the success of all his schemes with such marvellous ease that it seemed almost like a law of nature that Eric Hardcastle should flourish, whatever became of other men.

"It would be a great injustice," he told himself, with a curious mixture of self-pity and virtuous indignation, "if fortune cannot even, now, when I have given them to venture more and more, alluring them, in fact, into greater debts only to overwhelm them with disaster in the end!" It was inconceivable, absolutely inconceivable; and he swore by all the gods that if such a thing should be, it would be an unspeakable and hideous felony against a man who had served better, at the hands of Fate.

Why should he be called upon, he asked himself, to throw away the fruits of his own brains for sheer naught? Glenmore would have clung to his almost barren acres, like his father before him, without ever discovering that vast stores of wealth lay hidden under his feet; and if he had remained with such the gift of his own knowledge it would have been pure waste in the hands of such as he!

'Certainly it would!' he declared with convincing energy. 'Bah! Men—Fools as if, forsooth, the good things of life long of right to fools because they happen to be first in possession! To the shrewd and far-seeing belong the rights. Why not? Is not life, after all, a game of skill—a battle, in short; and the wisest and keenest should win the battle if you can! Yes, he had always stood by that, he told himself with marked complaisance! 'But, fairly or otherwise, win, win!

'It is, in short, a test of a man's skill and nerve, and when he has gained favours you and throws the prize into your hands, keep it, I say; keep it, in despite of Fate or Fortune, Heaven or Hell!'

The Squire had elaborated his own peculiar system of ethics without a qualm, and to emphasize his conclusions he kicked the footstool out, of his way as he rose to walk off the fit of heroics which was strong upon him.

The noise brought his discreet footman, with: 'Did you ring, sir?' in a voice of soothing deference that was distinctly agreeable at the moment, although a little disconcerting owing to the promptness of the man's appearance.

'No—Yes—I think not!' stammered his master, with unusual perturbation. 'Ah, you,' he drawled, recollecting himself, 'when Mr. Reginald returns, send him here at once.'

'Yes, sir,' the man answered, while he returned the footstool to its place and moved a chair or two into position, keenly glancing at his master meanwhile, without the least appearance of being unduly observant. Truth was that the door had not been closed as the Squire supposed, and the obsequious lackey had heard every part of his master's soliloquy—as he had, in fact, many times before.

'Squire 'is to-self,' he remarked to the butler, in confidence, 'and hexpects most awful, and swears as if he himself to have it out with the devil, unbeknownst to Mister Reginald or anyone!'

The butler snorted viciously, but declined to answer, for the footman was a mere Englishman, brought up on marmalade hymns, curious cricket stories and things, and had hardly ever heard of the Solemn League and Covenant or the Psalms 'of David in a metre rhymed.' Moreover, he was a poor judge of good liquor; he drank beer, only beer! Where he was a good judge of anything, for all his soft southern speech and five feet eleven and a half inches! What would Susan Jane be thinking of, to throw him over for such a brainless, feckless apology for a man!

'He says on the Squire!' he mused. 'Well! Mac-Gregor kent a thing or two,' and one bids his time. Exchange confidences with him, indeed! Na, by my father's dick,' a thousand times no!'

What passed between the footman and his son is only a matter of conjecture.

It transpired, however, that Reginald was unwilling to leave some business of which the Squire desired him to undertake. He was to be absent six weeks or more, and friends he had asked to the Hall had been put off for that length of time or longer. But notwithstanding this, Douglas was able to assure them, below stairs, that his master would be back long before then. In fact, Reginald never cared to be away for a lengthy goodwill except when he could fill the house with guests after his own heart; and now it was for love in his haste, because the Squire was ill, only to be sent off on an errand which anyone could be told himself could do as well or better, was peculiarly exasperating, with the lovers' lids' and its interesting occupant fresh in mind.

JUST AN ORDINARY FISH

I live in the ocean and I'm glad of it. I used to get so tired of being ordinary that I didn't know what to do. I live like the rest of them, one on the other fish that live there, too, that certainly is nothing out of the ordinary.

Near my home I live a piece of land sticks up in the water called Catalina Island. Every day, all the year round, people come and come over there from some place called California. They do all kinds of funny things. Some of them dive into the water and try to swim around as we fish do. I can outswim them all.

Some of them long strines and hang something good to eat on a hook and dangle it down in the water. One day I got tired of being ordinary that I thought I would take a bite and see what would happen, but while I was trying to decide if anything really out of the ordinary would happen if I did, little Bengy Bass came down there. Bengy was a half-witted little fish that lived down Shell Street not far from us. He never could put in school, and he was a regular fool.

He had always been rather lurking in brains. He never even stopped to think what would happen, but just swam up and grabbed the bait on the hook and all. Quick as a wink he was jerked right out of the water, and that was the last any one ever saw of poor little Bengy Bass.

That cured me of wanting to be out of the ordinary in the way Bengy was, at least.

I swam around and went out under the big bottom boat. Lots of people were looking through the glass at our beautiful homes and trees. They all grew with delight whenever a big, shiny goldfish swam past. A man, called The Deep Sea Diver, was under the water swimming around, turning flipflops, opening his mouth, and making us all the excited to amuse them. I followed him, opening my mouth just as he did to show them. I wouldn't have thought, but people are awfully dumb. They thought he was wonderful, but when I turned a flip-flop some one called, "Why, there's just an ordinary fish!"

I just flipped my tail in the air and swam away. I'm glad I am just an ordinary fish and have some good fish brains. I can swim where I please, eat what I want, and stay in the water or than any of them, or Bengy Bass either.

"My Boy was Starving to Death"

"As He Was Getting No Nourishment He Was Gradually Wasting Away."

"Here's a story which will interest every mother. Before my boy was born, I was in such delicate health that the doctor didn't think I would survive the ordeal. For weeks after he was born my life was despaired of, so I couldn't feed him and the poor little fellow was left to the care of strangers. He wasn't naturally strong, who have no skill in choosing his food and his poor little stomach rebelled at anything that he couldn't digest anything on it. As he was getting no nourishment from his food, he was gradually wasting away. Finally, in desperation, I decided that my child should not be the victim of my weakness, so I made up my mind to be more careful of him. I began to study his little ways and advice of a certain diet. The child did improve but somehow I couldn't seem to get strong. Tales-of-it on for four or five years and the boy still continued weak and puny looking. He could not play like other children and was having to lie down and rest. My sister who lives on a farm out here, one, said that she could fix him up if I would send him to her. After I hated being separated from him, I was ready to make any sacrifice to get him strong. He was away from me for three months and I felt all the feelings of great excitement that I awaited his return as my sister had written me that I would be surprised when I saw my boy. When my sister got off the train I couldn't believe that it was my own boy that sat waiting by the hand. I never saw such a change in any child. He was looking well and full of life and a happy smile! 'What on earth have you done to him,' I said. 'Why,' she replied, 'I simply made him live out on the farm. I fed him what I knew was here's the real secret, I gave him three bottles of Caroid. Before he had taken half a bottle his whole appearance had changed. He got heavier, his face took on a colour and he could run round for hours at a time.' The change in my boy is the most wonderful cure I know of. I am a regular 'fan' for Caroid and would turn round for hours at a time.' The change in my boy is the most wonderful cure I know of. I am a regular 'fan' for Caroid and would turn round for hours at a time. write I am looking out of the window and see my boy playing ball, a picture of healthy child running round, I can not express what he was once a puny, delicate boy."

Caroid is sold by your druggist, and if you are not entirely satisfied after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money.

Sport Gossip From Many Fields

Football Notes

The afternoon at the Richardson Memorial Stadium, Kingston, Varsity and Queen's play their fifty-second game, and if the home team secures the decision, they will annex their first intercollegiate senior championship since 1908. Since 1897, when the two teams played their first game, the Tricolor has won fifteen games, eleven of which were played in Kingston and the other four were clouded upon Varsity home field. Last year Avery's squad won their home game by 9 to 3 and then lost in Toronto by 19 to 12. Previous to that the Presbyterians had not won a game from the Queen and White since 1908, when they defeated the Blue and White by 18 to 3 at Kingston. Varsity has won thirty-four of the remaining thirty-six games, the teams having played two tie games.

The game is the big one of the season to date, and it is hardly likely that the play-offs for the Canadian championship will assume more interest. Queen's have enlarged the seating capacity of the stadium, utilizing every inch of space from which a glimpse of the playing field can be obtained, but at that the accommodation will not meet the demand. Of course Varsity has a strong following because of the large student body and the great number of Queen's York graduates, but with the general public, who have no affiliations with either university, Queen's is the favorite.

The priority way in which the Kingston University has continued to toe the mark in the past and taken defeat has made a hit and now that they have a good chance to win the title many people who have never even seen Queen's man play, are pulling for the Tricolor. It is also claimed that a Queen's victory will do the Intercollegiate a lot of good, as in the past ten years or so the Intercollegiate has been considered a struggle between McGill and Varsity, with Queen's allotted to the cellar position before the start of the season.

Thompson.

The victory of the Blue and White over the Hamilton Tigers in which the Toronto University showed some great open field play, has increased the confidence of their supporters and a great deal depends upon the outside wings. Tony played in too close to the game and permitted themselves to be shut off from the Queen's ball carrier on the half runs by the Tricolor's outsides. If they play wide today it should help considerably to minimize the effectiveness of the Evans-Balcom-Landley-Harding combination. The Varsity tacklers also tried to outguess the ball carrier and at times played the man whom they suspected to take the pass. This is a dangerous decision when Harry Balestone is a member of the other team.

The Hamilton game showed that Varsity has open field plays, as was expected after reading the details of the game against McGill in Montreal, but which was not noticeable by its absence in the game against Queen's. While the Queen's outsides are much more dangerous than were the Tigers in the exhibition game on the holiday, there is no doubt that Varsity can make gains tomorrow by attempting some of these plays. They may not succeed every time, perhaps not 25 per cent. of the times tried, but they will prove ground gainers some of the time.

Early this morning the Kingstonwards trek will commence and by every train today there will be people, large and small, leave for the scene of the game of the year. In addition to those who will travel by train in number, are motoring down today and then tomorrow there will be two special trains leave for the Penitentiary town. In addition to the fans from Toronto and the Western part of the province, who are expected to bring down a large contingent, while Montreal will also have a big representation.

The Varsity team completed their training for the big game yesterday afternoon and Coach Maynard was enthusiastic over the form displayed by every member of the team, and he stated that the workout, while short was the snappiest that the squad has shown this season. This and the spirit of the members of the squad augurs well for the Blue and White team tomorrow.

About twenty-two players, every member of the team, will leave this city for Kingston this afternoon, and will be accompanied by a large number of supporters. The line-up will not be announced, but it is thought that the same team as started against Queen's here two weeks ago with one exception.

SEVERAL LEAGUES OPPOSED TO JANUARY 1ST RESIDENCE RULE

Guelph, Nov. 8.—From the number of replies which have been received by Secretary Dulmage of the O.R.A.A., there is every indication that there will be a large attendance at the semi-annual meeting, to be held at the Carls-Rite Hotel, Toronto, on Saturday afternoon next, commencing at 2 o'clock. Delegates are expected to be present from every affiliated league, as there are important matters to be dealt with.

Perhaps the most important of these is the proposal to compel every affiliated league, to adopt the January 1 residence rule. Heretofore each league has had a residence rule of its own; and the result has been that teams have reached the semi-finals and found that they were carrying several ineligible players, thus creating a disturbance. It is the understood that there will be some opposition to the change, but it will be at best decidedly threshed out.

The status of the professional coach in amateur baseball is another matter on which the A.A.U. of C. has asked for an opinion, and this will receive attention. Some of the newer affiliated leagues are of the opinion that there will be an election of officers at this meeting, but this does not take place until the annual meeting in April next.

HUGHES HAS COMPLETE QUEEN'S SQUAD AT WORK.

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 9.—Queen's had a brisk practice this afternoon in preparation for the game with Varsity on Saturday, and for the first time in two weeks every man of the squad was on the job. Dave Harding, the star half-back, who was injured in the game in Toronto, was out for practice. Balestone for the past few days has been bothered with a boil on his neck, but is expected to be all right for the game on Saturday.

The entire team worked well in practice to-day under the direction of Acting-Coach Bill Hughes of the M.A.A.A. team. Johnny Evans directed the work of the team at quarter, and they worked like a well-oiled piece of machinery. Negotiations are still being carried on with Frank Shaughnessy, the McGill coach, but as yet no definite word has been received from him. It was announced by the Athletic Board of Control this afternoon that if a hoped to make a definite statement in regard to Shaughnessy's position on Saturday.

The residents of Queen's are making extensive preparations for the game and will march in a body from the University to the Stadium on Saturday afternoon, headed by their band. Among the students there is the utmost confidence that Queen's will repeat their performance in Toronto and win from Varsity on Saturday.

Show Me A Man Not Sold On the Chamber Commerce

"Say, Jack, I've been invited to join the Rotary Club, and I think I'll drop my membership in the Chamber of Commerce and join," said a business man out in the Middle West to a friend he met in the elevator.

"I would if I were you," agreed Jack. "I'm going to drop my membership too. I don't get anything out of it."

I had to get off the elevator at that point in the conversation or I would have been tempted to inform the fellow who was about to join the Rotary Club, that if he dropped his membership in the Chamber of Commerce he would make a mighty poor Rotarian.

Show me a business man or a professional man for that matter, who is not "sold" on the Chamber of Commerce and its place in the community and I'll show you a man who looks upon his business as a means of getting all he can out of the community and putting nothing back. His idea in life is getting to give, instead of giving to get.

The average business man looks upon the Chamber of Commerce as a good thing to belong to, to aid him in his business, etc., but he is not sold on the big purpose of the Chamber, and if he were asked why he belonged to it, ten chances to one he would not give an intelligent answer. He would probably say, "It's a business man's organization and most business men belong to it, and they have a banquet once a year." What a heck of an answer to come from an American business man in this new day! And yet it is true the average business and professional man does not know his relationship to the Chamber of Commerce.

Of all the lessons taught us by the Great War the one that stands out above all is CO-OPERATION. Peace, peace, was the cry all through the war we must co-operate with one another, or perish other, and for all time.

Every man desires to win success, but the trouble is that too many are trying to win alone. No man ever did win success in a big way alone and no man ever will. It's against the Law! Whomever among you would become chiefest, let him become the servant of all." So said the Master Co-operator when his disciples asked him who was the greatest man.

Unlike it was at the commencement of the war when there was lack of organization and leadership, today we have both organization and leadership in the Chamber of Commerce in every community of any size in the country but the trouble is that the Chamber of Commerce is made the "sold" to its own members and to those in the community who are not members.

The Chamber of Commerce is the moral force of the community organized to further any of it has the community and so much should be "sold" to everyone in the community.

The Fall Weather Hard on Little Ones

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. Sometimes it is warm and bright, and then cold and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, croups and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. The tablets regulate the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and relieve teething troubles. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

OBSEQUIES

ROBERT RIDLEY PALMER

On Wednesday last Mr. Robert Ridley Palmer, of Cannifton, was the victim of a stroke which proved fatal, his passing occurring at an early hour this morning. Deceased, who was 75 years of age, was born in Thurlow township, being a son of the late Mr. Samuel Palmer. All his life was spent in the township. Mr. Palmer for over forty years conducted a hotel at Corbyville and enjoyed the respect of all with whom he came in contact. Of late years he had lived a retired life. He was a member of Eureka Lodge A.F. & A.M. of this city, Belleville Lodge, I.O.O.F., and L.O.L. No. 533, Cannilton. Mr. Palmer was also a veteran of 1866. A widow, four sons and two daughters survive. The sons are Allan of Rochester, James E., Cincinnati, Arthur of Corbyville, and Samuel of Cannilton. The daughters are Mrs. James Turney of Belleville and Mrs. Arthur Brigden of Saskatoon. Two brothers, Royal of Denver, and Samuel of Rochester, and one sister, Mrs. George Saunders of Havelock, are living.

JUNIOR COUNCIL NOMINATIONS

MAYOR HAYES-IS RETURNED—SEVERAL NOMINATIONS FOR ALDERMEN

Nominations for Boys' Council were held Thursday evening in the City Hall. Several were nominated for Mayor but only two were eligible to run. They were Mayor Hayes and Ald. "Iggy" Buskard. Ald. Buskard thanked his nominators and stated that he would run for aldermanic honors. Thereby Mayor Hayes was duly elected by acclamation for the second term.

Next order of business was appointing. Mayor Hayes spoke briefly on last year's council and stated that he thought that the property values assessment was doing its real work should be built on Coleman flats high and land high. Factories looking for sites would not locate here on account of high land value.

The new High school should be built on Coleman flats, he proposed by Ald. Greenleaf, and our new athletic field should be built in Coleman flats too, for it was central and it was the only place available. The park on Station street should be fixed up as a good baseball diamond for kids, and Zwick's Island should be fixed up as a samples place for tourists. The City Council should be urged to build a good skating rink, open air. (Applause.)

Alderman Buskard was in favor of skating rinks, ball parks and a good bath on Victoria Park. He stated that he would do his best to represent the boys of Belleville and would give his utmost attention to all matters. (Applause.)

Ald. Follwell was in favor of a new Collegiate and athletic field and spoke highly of the work of last year's council and hoped they would do much better next year.

Ald. Redfern spoke on the Corby baths and rinks and was given hearty applause.

Perry Fleming, champion talker, is in favor of a bath and a ball park.

Bird Oakes is in favor of a rink.

Elmer LaHarr is in favor of a ball park.

Bill Belch wants a dummy policeman on Campbell and Front streets.

Alphonsus Black is in favor of a new High school.

Elections will be on Thursday, November 16, at 4 p.m., in each school and there will be voting at the City Hall from 6.30 to 7.30. Returning officers will attend a meeting on Monday evening at 7.30 at the Y.M.C.A.

Wayne Wilbur, troop leader of 1st Belleville Troop Juniors, spoke on the athletic field, and thought it should be built on Coleman flats. (Applause.)

Clifford Kelly is in favor of baths, rinks and baseball diamonds, and gave an interesting talk on these headings.

Harold Buskard is strong for rinks as he is trying out for the Junior O.H.A. He also spoke on baseball diamonds.

Bill Follwell is in favor of ball parks and rinks. He is a good athlete, being champion wrestler of Belleville.

Norman Brown, the printer, is in favor of rinks and ball parks.

The following candidates were nominated: Ald. Chummy Buskard, Ald. Harry Redfern, Ald. Frank Follwell, Ald. Sam Curry, Ald. John Boyle, Ald. Floyd Clare, Wayne Wilbur, Clifford Kelly, Harold Buskard, Bird Oakes, Alphonsus Black, Elmer LaHarr, Norman Brown, Perry Fleming, Bill Belch, Bill Follwell.

Aldermen Curry, Clare and Boyle stated that they would not run this year as they were too busy.'

To Put Out a Fire

The suitable time is before it amounts to anything. The sensible time to check EYE-STRAIN is before it "amounts to anything." Nothing but trouble results from waiting until the point is reached at which the school examiner sends the child home for the attention his parents should have given him long before. You can get the facts about your child's eyes here easily, quickly and reliably.

The Average Woman Needs More Blood

To the woman in the home—the woman closely confined to the house either through household duties or the care of children, or both—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a positive blessing. The average woman has too little blood. Her nerves are easily irritated and she worries over little things; has severe headaches and backaches and generally feels "worn out." With the woman who uses Dr Williams' Pink Pills the condition is different. She is always well and the care of her children or household duties is a real pleasure. This is because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build and purify the blood supply which brings vigorous health and strength Mrs. H. Everitt, Parry Harbor, Ont., has used these pills with benefit and says:—"I cannot recommend Dr Williams' Pink Pills too highly. I was run down and very weak, and after using the pills I felt like a different woman. They are wonderful strength builders. For nursing mothers they are a blessing, at least I have found them so."

If you are suffering from any condition due to poor, watery blood, or weak nerves, begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now, and note how your strength and health will improve. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or they will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Straight Talk To Everyone Using Drugs and Pills

Internal Bathing is the only quick relief and natural remedy for constipation, piles, headaches, biliousness, stomach trouble, kidney and liver complaints, and kindred ailments.

Nothing that comes out of medicine bottle or pill boxes is going to put the bloom of health into your cheeks, the merry tingle into your slaughter, or that solid sit back into your system which makes you spring from bed in the morning, eager for work and with a good appetite. Physicians are agreed since the dawn of history that the first step in bringing the body back to sound health is to make it clean inside as well as out.

Because ninety-five per cent of all human ailments are attributed to the accumulated waste in the lower intestine which poisons the system. This is due to the sedentary life we live. Likewise the increasing deaths from Cancer.

Don't temporize with pills and medicines. The natural way to rid the system and keep it free from impurities, is by Bathing Internally with J. B. L. Cascade, which keeps the intestines sweet and clean naturally. You cannot have Constipation, Piles, Biliousness, Headaches, Stomach trouble, Kidney, Liver and other kindred complaints, when the cause is removed.

The J. B. L. Cascade is shown and explained at J. S. McKeown's.

Ask for the free booklet, "The What, The Why, The Way of Internal Bathing," or write direct to Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College Street, Toronto, Ont.

SUCCESSFUL 'AT HOME' TENDERED STAFF

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Meagher were "at home" to the members of the G. T. R. superintendent's staff with their wives and lady friends. A very enjoyable evening was spent in music and progressive euchre.

Mrs. J. Boyle was the winner of the ladies' prize, while Mr. Newton Thompson won the consolation prize. Mr. M. P. Dull and Mr. W. Hart were tied for the gentleman's prize, Mr. Hart winning the cut. Mr. R. Ross won the gentleman's consolation prize which caused much amusement.

At the close of the evening dainty refreshments were served, after which the guests departed with a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Meagher.

ARE YOU ONE OF THESE?
NO MATTER WHAT YOUR CALLING, A MEMBERSHIP IN THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ADDS TO YOUR PROSPERITY AND WELFARE

LABOR
Prosperity of labor depends upon prosperity of business and industries. More industries mean more jobs and more money for a higher standard of living. When you boost your city and the industries in which you are employed, you are boosting yourself. Unemployment stalks in the wake of half-hearted efforts in civic affairs.

SKILLED MEN
Carpenters, brick-layers, plumbers, painters—skilled men of any sort—are dependent upon the growth and building activities of their city. If new houses, new business blocks and factories are not built, if alterations and improvements are not made their time of active employment is curtailed. Active membership in the Chamber boosts civic improvements and construction.

MERCHANTS
The buying power of the people depends upon their earnings. The greater the earning capacity of the workers, the greater becomes the sales. Good roads also bring in trade from out-lying districts.

PROFESSIONAL MEN
Doctors, Surgeons, Dentists, Chemists, Architects—all professional men—derive their incomes from their clientele—their clientele grows as the population grows. Active membership brings in the population and enhances their incomes.

PROPERTY OWNERS
Growth of the city increases value of real estate and stimulates activity in the turnover of city property. An active membership insures against loss through defection of realty values.

MANUFACTURERS
Industrial expansion adds value to their locations. Added transportation facilities centralizes their city and enlarges their field of operation. Increased population provides steady reliable workers and the prosperity and well-being of their workers increases the quality and volume of their production. Active membership works for these things.

YOUNG MEN
Association with successful business and professional men has an educational value. Friendship cultivated with these men has an educational value. Friendship cultivated with these men offers opportunities for promotion and better jobs. The large circle of influential friends enhances a young man's chance in securing good positions. Their recommendations secure a more favorably bearing.

EVERYBODY
Civic improvements and growth adds to the pleasures of life. Good schools, parks and playgrounds develop clean manhood and womanhood in Belleville's boys and girls. Good theatres, good music, social organizations and other amusements add culture and enjoyment to the community. Clean streets and neat residential and business sections add value to the life of every individual. Active membership by everyone centralizes all efforts and makes these things possible.

EARTHQUAKE ROCKED CHILE END TO END

R. FORK, M.P. IS CHIEF OF PROGRESSIVES

Brandon M.P. Chosen in Caucus at Winnipeg to Lead in House

Party Big Enough to Include All Holding Common Ideals, Says Convention

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 12.—The policy of "broadening out" had its way in the caucus of Progressive parliamentarians, which was concluded here last night with the election, on Robert Forke as leader, to succeed Hon. T. A. Crerar, and with the adoption of an expression of opinion that the Progressive movement "is big enough to include men and women of common ideals from all walks of life and that steps should be taken whereby practical expression can be given to these ideals."

Mr. Forke, member of Brandon, and sitting in the House of Commons for his first term, is described as a "moderate". He was elected over J. T. Shaw, of Calgary, in a secret ballot, after R. A. Hoey, of Springfield, had pushed forward the nomination. The vote was not in the caucus at the time, was limited to his Alberta colleagues.

Mr. Shaw had told his friends that he was not a candidate for the leadership and had he been present at the time, probably would have withdrawn his name.

The official report of proceedings does not mention the leadership balloting, except to say that Mr. Forke's election was made unanimous." Mr. Hoey, it is reported unofficially, is declining the nomination for himself, made a strong appeal for the selection of A. H. McIntyre, Liberal member for Brome, Que., declaring that Mr.

TIME IS SHORT TO SIGN PETITION

By Friday next, the petitions for presentation to the Minister of Justice on behalf of Maurice Barrie, will have to be in the hands of the secretary of youth's counsel, Major Foster, as the time is passing rapidly.

These petitions are at present in many stores and post offices throughout the county of Hastings and this city, and are being largely signed; by the way, Mr. Foster wishes to announce that any one desiring to sign these petitions should do so right away as they may soon be too late. The petitions will be forwarded to the Department almost immediately.

FORD ROADSTER TURNS SOMERSAULT

But Driver Continues Journey to Queens-Varsity Classic

An excellent example of the rugby craze was witnessed by two of the many Bellevillians who attended the big Queens-Varsity game at Kings ton on Saturday afternoon.

While on their way to Kingston, Ben Lewis and Jack Marks were busily engaged fixing a flat tire which they were unfortunate enough to have, on the other side of Napanee, when the Ford roadster came steam boating down the highway. When just a few feet past the Belleville car, the Ford threw a shoe off the front wheel, turned a complete somersault, and crashed into the fence on all four wheels.

After a brief pause of bewilderment, having seen a movie stunt of the genuine variety, the Belleville boys walked over to the wreck, expecting to see a mighty serious accident. Before they arrived, however, they saw the position of life, as someone was scrambling out from under the broken glass and debris. As soon as the driver came to the surface, he grabbed his club bag and said, "Hey, get my pocket, in the bag game,—Give me a ride in will you?"

He had not even been scratched and was continuing his trip to Limestone city, and they all three saw the game, while the Ford remained by the wayside.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS OLD

Bridge Street Methodist Church Sunday School Yesterday Celebrated the Hundredth Anniversary of Its Existence.

Sunday School Celebrates Its 100th Anniversary

Appropriate Discourses Rendered by Judge and Preacher —Special Program at Bridge Street Sunday School Gathering

Bridge Street Methodist Church Sunday School has passed its century mark of existence and is now entered upon its 101st birthday so to speak Sunday was a day that will long be remembered by those who attended the special service to commemorate the century anniversary of the school. At the morning and evening services special discourses were given for the occasion whilst the Sunday School session was of special interest.

In the morning His Honor Judge Coatsworth of Toronto was the speaker and his address was one that will long be remembered by all who heard it. It spoke chiefly to the younger members of the congregation who were present taking young characters from the Bible as themes for his address.

Afternoon Services

The Century Anniversary Service of the Sunday School in the afternoon was a crowning success. The auditorium was filled to capacity with students of the present school and past students, many of them from far away places, who came to be present at the Historical event.

Mr. F. S. Deacon the present superintendent acted as Chairman and the program was as follows:—

Doxology, Hymn 109, Lord's Prayer Oreetures—Orchestra, Psalm 23 in concert, Prayer, Rev. J. P. Wilson, D.D., Service of Baptism—(Louis Elaine Wilkins); Hymn 291, Brief addresses by His Honor Judge Coatsworth and His Honor Judge Deroche, His Worship Mayor Hanna, Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, Anniversaries—Introduced by David Price, Mr. W. Vandervoort, Toronto, Mr. F. S. Deacon, Superintendent, Hymn, 185, Solo—Mr. Fred Sprague.

The names of the boys of the Sunday school who paid the supreme sacrifice in the great war were read, and an appropriate prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Thrasher. The names are as follows:—Clifford R. Burrows, Harold Boyle, Wm. H. Green, Sidney Halcrow, George E. Howard, Arthur Powell, Harold M. Ilcid, Andrew Mark Kenny, Percy Wallace, Ernie Wheeler and Horace E. Yoomans.

Greetings

Greetings were read from former members of the school by Mr. E. J. Frederick and were from the following:—

Mrs. Lulla R. Howard, Toronto; H. J. Coon, Toronto; E. E. Cralg, Aultsboro Falls, Mass. C. J. White, Toronto; Mr. & Mrs. T. S. Clarke, Toronto. T. C. Clarke, Minneapolis, Minn.; T. M. Clarke, Sycamore, Ill.; Mrs. Grace McIntosh, Dundas, Ont.; Mrs. Bertha Moodey, Toronto; Edward Skitch, Campbellford, Ont.; S. Warner Eakins, Thomas, Mrs. Phoebe Newton Orillia, Ont., Mr. & Mrs. Frank Weeks and six children, Orillia, Ont., Rev. W. D. & Mrs. Harrison, Port Perry, Harry K. Hunt, Calgary, Alta.; Helen B. Hunt, Toronto; Mrs. Sandilands, Mr. Endicott, Port Hope, and Mrs. J. Bruce Hunter and Mrs. Hunter, Toronto.

One of the pleasing events of the afternoon was a song of greetings from four girls of the school who rendered a song entitled, "We're One Hundred Years Old Today."

In the evening Rev. J. P. Wilson, D.D., a former beloved Pastor was the speaker and his discourse was of a reminiscent nature. He referred in his opening remarks of the fact that not only was Bridge Street Church an historic Church but the ground upon which it was erected was sacred and historic. It was in this locality that Methodism in Upper Canada was first instituted, Kingston was the first circuit and it included Belleville and Prince Edward County. The men and women of those days were loyal Christians and the speaker explained upon all present to emulate them. We are called upon like them to win the battle of life by faith. Those heroes gave the invisible world and proclaimed it. This is the secret of the victory they won for God's kingdom. The men and women of 100 years ago caught the words of Jesus in reference to the children when He said, "Suffer them to come unto Me for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." There was never a greater need for Sunday Schools than there is today with so many other attractions for children. The divine in referring to Great Britain and its success during the past centuries said it was because the people had absorbed more of the Bible and its teachings. If we are going to live up to the traditions of our Empire we must keep our child in the Sunday Schools.

During the service special and appropriate music was furnished by the choir.

TURKISH DELEGATES HAUGHTY

Trying to Capitalize Uncertainty in European Capitals

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Lausanne, Nov. 12.—The mood of the Turkish delegates here for the conference is wholly different from that of the crushed representatives of the Sultan who bowed for mercy when the Treaty of Sevres was drafted three years ago. Their leader, Ismet Pasha, boasts of support from the Russian Soviet and alludes to the unexploited which the new Government in Britain and Italy have given to the solidarity of the Entente. Having beaten the Greeks at arms the Turks are apparently determined to recover practically all the foreign rights will accrue to their government through the conference.

BONAR LAW'S MAJORITY IS PLACED AT 40

London Daily Express Forecasts Result of Elections

CAMPAIGN WAS TAME

Skeletons Dragged From Cabinet Closet by Political Orators

London, Nov. 12.—While the orators have had their last day of rest before the voting, the seers and oracles are busily overtime to cast the horoscope of the future. Political prophecy is under a cloud at present because a great majority of the newspaper experts went wrong in predicting that Lloyd George's friends would control the Carlton Club meeting, which cast off the coalition and declared the Conservative party's independence.

The only issue in doubt next Wednesday, when the general elections are held, according to the claims of the Conservatives, is whether Bonar Law's party will command a majority in the House of Commons over all other parties combined. That it will elect more members than any other party is not disputed at any of the political headquarters in London—a clear majority of thirty or forty in a House of 615 members.

Coalition and co-operation are two devices which were much in evidence at the Carlton Club and which the Conservatives certainly are anxious to steer over because they want to return to straight party government. Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, which backs Bonar Law strongly, gives him forty ma-

SIR MONTAGU ALLAN IS NOT GUILTY

Montreal, Nov. 13th.—Sir Montague Allan president of the Delmer Mercantile Bank, who was charged in the court of special sessions with negligently signing a statement published on oath on the bank condition to the treasury department at Ottawa for October 1921, when this morning pronounced not guilty by Chief Justice Decarie.

Montreal, Nov. 13.—Not only was Sir Montague Allan released on every count but his actions prior to 1921 and immediately following the disclosure of the bank's disastrous plight, are highly commended by Judge Decarie. The president used every endeavor to save the bank, he says. "He was facing very heavy responsibilities and his conduct in the matter was that of an honest man, an honorable man."

TWO CARS CRASH THIS AFTERNOON

Ford and Dodge Have "Run in" On Bridge Street Corner

At 1.30 p.m. this afternoon, two cars came together at the corner of Charles and Bridge streets, quite accidently, but luckily no one was injured.

A man named Woolcock, who resides on Foster avenue, was driving a Dodge motor car on Charles street towards Bridge street, and a farmer driving a Ford truck, loaded with oats, was driving west on Bridge street, when they came together at the intersection.

One rear wheel was knocked off the Ford, and the front wheels both underneath. The oats were scattered all over the thoroughfare. The Dodge car was not as badly damaged.

Montreal, Nov. 13th.—Mr. Justice Brosseau will deliver judgment in the Delorme case next Thursday morning.

MR. KING IS A POLITICAL QUICK CHANGE ARTIST

Forgets His Shell Shock Experience of a Year Ago

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—A Quebec despatch indicates a peculiar change of affairs a year ago when Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King was "shellshocked" by the Canadian Government bringing back to Canada from Europe certain munitions belonging to this country. Then he denounced the Conservatives as rank militarists; and Quebec was alarmed by his awful tales of shells being brought to Canada. A parliamentary Committee found that it was a perfectly legitimate transaction and Mr. King received a proper castigation. Now the Quebec despatch says:

"Considerable comment is being caused among the citizens of Levis by the fact that a cargo of munitions has been landed within the past fortnight from the Canadian Government Merchant Marine steamer Canadian Trader at King's Wharf there, and transported to Forts No. 1 and No. 2.

"Following the landing of this cargo of munitions a gang of heavy caliber was today transported through the streets of Levis, to the wonderment of the citizens. The work of Mr. Mackenzie King to a similar cargo of munitions being landed from a Government steamer at this port in 1914 by the Laurier Government, and immediately preceding the general elections of December 2. Wide speculation has been aroused as to the why and wherefore of the munitions now reposing in Forts No. 1 and No. 2.

"The Government is apparently very reticent as regards the incident, as it only became known publicly in Quebec today that the munitions had been unloaded from the Canadian Trader, and the Marine Department here, when questioned as to the matter, disclaimed any knowledge of the steamer, its whereabouts, or the landing of its cargo.

"The munitions from the time they were landed, from the vessel at Levis until they were placed on the forts, were guarded by a strong band of soldiers, while red flags were placed about the shipment at various places as a danger signal. The gang, which was transported through the streets of Levis this morning, is reported by an eyewitness of its progress to be over 45 feet long and of a heavy calibre."

Why are shells now being brought to Canada? Has the war forgotten its fears and tirades of last year.

APOLOGY DEMANDED

Paris, Nov. 13th.—The Allied Council of Ambassadors today presented severe representations to Berlin on the embassy for transmission to Berlin in which an immediate apology is demanded for the incident in Munich, Bavaria, and several previous disturbances.

CHILEAN PORTS BADLY DAMAGED

Relief Forces Being Mobilized—Property Loss Millions

(Canadian Press Despatch).

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 12.—Relief forces to aid the thousands made homeless by the earthquake throughout Chile early Saturday and the flooding and conflagrations that followed were being mobilized today. The death toll is still at one thousand as far as can be learned and the property loss will run into millions. The city of Copiapo was destroyed and the ports of Coquimbo and Valparaiso suffered by the tidal waves. Most of the commercial section was carried away and the port of Chimbarongo was destroyed. There is no news from the port of Coquimbo.

1000 PERSONS PERISH TIDAL WAVE 160 FT. HIGH

Thousands Are Homeless—Many Small Towns on the Coast Entirely Wiped Out

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 12.—An earthquake of great magnitude and far-spread effect rocked Chile from end to end yesterday. It was accompanied by a tidal wave, and the combined forces of the earth tremors and the sweep of the water did vast damage.

It is estimated that at least 1,000 are dead and many thousands are in distress, needing food and shelter.

The provinces of Antofagasta, Atacama and Coquimbo suffered most, the cthital points of the quake lying in the latter two provinces. Copiapo, in Atacama, has the largest casualty list, with about 100 killed and many more injured.

Wave 160 Feet in Height

One hundred persons were drowned at Coquimbo, when a tidal wave, coming after the earthquake, swept in with a great roar. The inhabitants were panic-stricken and fled to the hills. The advance of the sea was the advance of the sea charges. Many persons were left

POLLUTION OF RIVER WATER

Several Sources Alleged to be the Cause of Trouble

In replying to a communication from Dr. Crook, Medical Health Officer of this city, in reference to the pollution of the waters of the Moira river the following reply has been received from Dr. McCullough, of Toronto, chief officer of health.

Dear Sir:—I have the honour to acknowledge your communication of November 7th re pollution of the Moira River.

As you are aware this Department has made numerous reports in connection with the condition of the Moira River, and these reports have shown that the pollution is from several sources, namely, Lanier Strawboard Mill, the Canadian Industrial Alcohol plant at Corbyville, the town sewerage, and private drains.

From the information in our possession, it would appear that a conviction would be difficult to obtain under the Public Health Act, and that no permanent remedy can be effected without an amendment to the Act, or the creation of a new control.

I recall the last time that we investigated the Moira River, there was a boom occurring during the investigation corrected the river condition, and that there was no further complaint, thus making it rather difficult for us to complete our evidence, and at the same time strengthening the hands of the offenders in their contention that the nuisance was not arising through their operations. I have the honour to be,

Yours Sincerely,

DR. McCULLOUGH,

Chief Officer of Health.

ANNIVERSARY AT JOHN ST. CHURCH

St. Andrew's Church Closed for Evening Service So as to Assist With 75th Anniversary Services

John Street Presbyterian Church was crowded to the doors last evening, the occasion of the 75th anniversary of the Sabbath School. The church closed for the evening service, and the congregation from that church attended John Street.

Rev. D. C. Ramsay, Pastor had charge of both services, and delivered a splendid sermon at each. Rev. Mr. Kerr, Pastor of St. Andrew's church assisted with the evening service.

For the evening service the text was chosen, "The Church the Constellation of Christ," and the special anthem was "Praise the Lord O Jerusalem." Mr. James Booth rendered a solo "Fear Ye Not O Israel" in fine voice at the evening service.

USED FALSE MEASURES AND IS FINED

Thresher Pleads Guilty to Charge Under Weights and Measures Act

In the Police Police Court, Chairman, before County Magistrate J. W. Bradshaw, Thomas McCarry, a thresher, of Sidney, was charged with using three false and unjust bushel measures under Section 62 of the Weights & Measures Act. The measures were used by McCarry in connection with his threshing machine. The defendant did not appear but pleaded guilty through his Counsel T. J. Blaney, K.C., and was fined $20.00 and cost, in all $35.00. The department was represented by District Inspector F. Davey Diamond, of Belleville, and Inspector F. T. Hart, of Kingston.

DR. GEGGIE DIES.

Toronto, Nov. 13.—Rev. Dr. Andrew Logan Geggie, minister for 25 years of the Dane Avenue Presbyterian Church, and prominent as a Scotsman and a lecturer, died this morning at Western hospital, aged 67. He was taken ill at the evening service of November 5th.

GRAND MASTER VISITS LODGES

Many Oddfellows Attend Gathering at Lodge of Instruction

On Saturday at the Oddfellows Temple a lodge of Instruction of the I.O.O.F. was held, and representatives were present from the following lodges. Belleville No. 31, Mizpah 127, Brighton 302, Campbellford 268, Capreol 309, Red Rose 313, Stirling 232, Cataraqui 10, Kingston 89, Madoc 179, Maynooth 421, Napanee 88, Argyle 212, Harmsville 283, Springbrook 286, Stirling 220, Tamworth 302, Thomasburg 283, Trenton 112, Tweed 200.

An instructive meeting was held in the afternoon, and at night a social time was spent, when Grand Master Wm. Brooks, of Toronto, was introduced to the members the Grand Master of Ontario, Bro. T. A. Sharp, of Midland, and Grand Secretary Bro. W. Brooks, of Toronto. Other prominent members present were P.G.M. Bro. J. D. Cooper, P. G. P. Bro. R. J. Hinscliffe, D.D.G.M. Bro. J. Baker, of Bazar Lodge, and D.D.G.M. Bro. J. F. Hinston, of Tweed.

The Grand Master gave an address dealing with the working of the Order in Ontario, after which Grand Secretary Bro. Brooks invited any member to ask for any information which was required by any Lodge. A number of questions were asked, and judging from the quick response to the call more meetings, Bro. Brooks is certainly the right man in the right place.

MUSIC & DRAMA

"HOW IT HAPPENED."

Strange as it may seem, all actors are born. The event always takes place somewhere—usually almost nowhere. There seems to be an idea among laymen, that all actors of any account are born in London or New York. That is exactly wrong. Nearly all of our greater stars of today were born in small towns or villages. The late Lillian Russell was born in a small town in Iowa. I think the reason for this (not the fact that our greater lights select their settlements to be born in small towns, but the fact that our stellar actors and actresses came from them) is because the city dwellers, the Shaftesbury of London and New York, having lived rather all their lives in that environment are blase, they live in the midst of things. They live in what the small townar thinks of as the Mecca of everything, and are accordingly "fed up" with the whole works. There is no reason why the city should be accounted to reared in the deepest dirt, and if they are, it is a certainty that they realize that they have to "stand out" from all of them and that they must achieve the cities, if their certain ambitions is to be realized. Therefore I claim, that the bright lights from the lesser places of mid-get forth more effort to arrive than the genius who is born right in the heart of the cities of the mighty.

However, you take for instance Bill Yule. He has never appeared on Broadway or London, but he could have done so, had he cared to do so. It is to me of big genius in Bill's history. He was born and brought up in Kingston, Ontario; he practiced on his stage acting with a bunch of barrels in a certain grocery store of his abilities, and while the barrels didn't appreciate his efforts they certainly did not offer any adverse criticism, so he kept "coming."

Bill then went to live in Windsor, Ontario. To fact he showed me the "Ole Swimmin' Hole" near his father's farm. Bill got into the theatrical game quite by chance. He aspired of course, and played a few vaudeville dates around New York, when George M. Cohan saw him. It happened that Bill was an exact double for George and was engaged with one of his shows to understudy George himself. Many is the time when Bill went on the stage when George was billed but happened to be indisposed.

At one time in a certain city Miss Tessie McCoy, in "The Yama-Yama Girl" was playing another theatre in the same city as Mr. Cohan, and Bill strolled in to see the show. There was a bunch of a red-headed chick in the company, and Bill got interested right away, in fact so interested that he went to the treasurer of the company and drew forty dollars real cash money in advance of the next week's salary, hired a hack and took the lady to supper. It was a case of love at first sight. Two pairs of eyes gazing into each other's, two beating hearts, a brief and speedy courtship, and a pair of "I Will", and there you are. Strange to say, although it was about a hundred and fifty years ago, they are just the same. Don't say anything to Hazel about Bill; you are liable to think, perhaps, a forest fire started. And Bill—well, he is the happiest married man in the world.

I'd like to tell you about the rest of the bunch, if I had time. But Frank Jones, the scenic artist, is behind the week of next week, and I have to go to the paint studio and sling a wicked brush for a while. However, I'll try and get the balance of the "family history" next week.

So long. Your old pal,

"REX."

"SOME JANE", NEW YORK COMEDY, OFFERING AT GRIFFIN'S

The popular Rex Stock Company return to Griffin's tonight for their usual three days' engagement, presenting the highly amusing three-act comedy, "Some Jane." To detail the story here would be to spoil the spectator's enjoyment of the comedy. Suffice it to say, that it is that good that it will send the spectator home in a very happy frame of mind, and with a determination to advise his friends not to miss it. The usual clerical attention to special lighting effects, and the proper scenic background, is evident in all Rex productions, will be noted again this week. Refined vaudeville specialties will be introduced between acts.

ORIGINAL COMEDY DRAMA AT REGENT TONIGHT

At the Regent tonight to Wednesday, matinee daily, "A Perfect Crime," which is Allan Dwan's perfect comedy drama, has for its hero Wally Griggs, a poor, grovelling bank messenger who quite suddenly decides to rob the bank. Part of the plan is to establish another identity for an alibi and this other personality grows upon him to the extent that he really becomes as fascinating and manly as he was reviewed and dull. An unscrupulous district attorney who pursues the girl Wally loves provides the exciting part of the picture. Monte Blue and Jacqueline Logan have the leading roles.

Reaching a public used to all the good and unusual features that go to make a modern offering really worth while is not the easiest task imaginable as numerous managers will testify. However, in the latest musical comedy triumph, "Father on His Vacation," which will be the attraction at Griffin's Opera House next Thursday night, November 9th, an entirely different entertainment along entirely unconventional lines will be offered. This play, which is in three acts, is based on the internationally famous actions of George McManus', "Bringing Up Father." Fun of the rampant fashioning, infectious and penetrating sort; music that jingles and haunts the ear; mirth that brings back the sunshine of existence and every other essential ingredient that makes amusement one eternal joy and song is promised. Surely one cannot expect more than this!

MRS. AHERN SAYS IT IS ALMOST MIRACULOUS

"Tanlac has put me in good health when nothing else would even so much as help me, and the way it has worked in my case just seems miraculous to me," declared Mrs. John Ahern, of 1 Boulbee Ave., Toronto.

"Words just can't tell how much I suffered for the past two years from a terrible case of rheumatism, and the pains in my hands and knees were just almost unbearable. Many nights the pain was so bad that I couldn't even lie in bed, much less sleep, and would have to get up and sit by the fire. The fingers of both my hands were so sore and swollen that at times they were altogether useless, as for me to do anything, and the suffering and misery I had to endure was simply indescribable.

"I received wonderful results from my very first bottle of Tanlac, for it ended the aches and pains and four bottles have relieved me entirely of all symptoms. I feel just fine in every way now, can do all my housework with perfect ease and am healthy and happy as can be. I never even dreamed it possible for anything to help me like Tanlac has, and I simply praise the medicine from the bottom of my heart for the wonderful blessing it has been to me."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

LOST IN WOODS FOR ONE DAY

To be lost in the woods north of Berkhorn overnight, with a party of hunt, was the experience of Daniel Morgan, an American hunter, on Tuesday Mr. Morgan, accompanied by George Taylor, an Indian guide, residing at Curre Lake, started out in search of game. Taylor instructed Morgan to take a position at the top of a hill, but apparently he misunderstood those instructions and went around the hill. Later, when Taylor went to look for his charge, he failed to find him. The search was continued until darkness settled over the woods. Morgan spent the night out and yesterday at noon was found by another hunter. He had suffered no ill effects. The party was hunting in the Turtle Lake district. Deer are plentiful this year and the hunters have had no trouble getting their quota without much difficulty.

STOCK MARKET GOSSIP

The general trade situation seems to have advanced during the past month and is developing in a more orderly manner without any excitement or disturbing features. The relatively low prices of most agriculture products have been strengthened by advances in grain and dairy products, which is of great benefit.

The railroads have not been able to handle the business offered, having been seriously hampered by lack of cars and motive power. At the twelve leading western markets receipts of all grains since July 1st have been less than last year.

The lack of cars has affected the coal market, but the situation is becoming easier and consumers are benefiting thereby.

There has been activity this week in Consolidated Mining and Smelters shares which sold up to a new high level of 73¾ at Montreal, Toronto Railway selling around 84¾, and Canadian Cottons touching 114, another new high. This naturally gives rise to fresh talk of dividend increases but no encouragement was offered in official circles. The paper stocks are relatively quiet and have been lacking in definite price tendency this week.

In the mines, Hollinger at $12.65, Dome at 41.90, McIntyre at 16.35 and Lake Shore at 2.95, show gleadings with considerable investment buying. The tremendous resources of our own Northern Ontario are beginning to assert themselves and have assisted greatly in enhancing our exchange rates.

The Hollinger Mines is sending out warning to shareholders to be on their guard against swindling schemes in the exchanging for new stock. Belleville holders would be well advised to beware of individuals holding no proper credentials in this regard.

The tone of the money market is somewhat firmer, call funds closing at 6% in New York Thursday. Only a limited amount of new commercial paper is coming into the market, there commanding 4½%. Good oil stocks have been fractionally firmer throughout the week.

Unquestionably the market's technical position has improved somewhat, but discrimination in selection is still needed.

DEADLY CROSSINGS TO BE ABOLISHED

Dominion Will Pay for Causeway to Be Built at Colli's Bay

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 9.—A death trap which has existed at Collin's Bay seven miles west of Kingston, is at last to be removed. Arrangements have been completed for the construction of a causeway on the south side of the Grand Trunk Railway line for a distance of twelve hundred feet, where the railway approaches Collins Bay. In order to get to that village the main road crosses the railway line at two points, and in view of the greatly increased traffic the danger is increasing. On one day recently ninety-four trains passed this point.

The matter has been taken up by the Kingston Suburban Road Area Commission with both the Dominion and Provincial authorities, and it is understood that the Commission has been instructed to proceed with the construction of a causeway, the cost of which will be borne by the Dominion, the Province and the Grand Trunk. The main road will run right through without crossing the railway tracks. Some land will have to be expropriated.

COMMITTED TO JAIL ON SERIOUS CHARGE

J. E. Duquette, Leslie Reynolds and Joseph Burns, who had spent a week in the County jail at Cobourg on a charge of breach of the Ontario Temperance Act, were taken to Bowmanville where they were each fined $500 and costs by P. M. Hersey. Duquette paid his fine and was given his liberty, but as there were charges against both Reynolds and Burns the latter two men will be committed for trial, bail being refused. All three were arrested at the Bowmanville Station when they attempted to unload two hundred bottles of liquor from the early morning train, recently.

Affer deliberating for more than two verdict of NOT GUILTY is the ever of Stanley Friar, of Fort Hope, who had been committed for trial on a charge of stealing chickens, the property of Mr. Lewis N. Clark. When the information was first laid against Friar, two definite dates were fixed, but this was afterwards amended making the offence cover a period from early in July until about the middle of September. Hon. Mr. Justice Latchford presided and the case lasted from nine o'clock Thursday morning until after seven in the evening. All day the court room was crowded, every bench was filled and many stood during the proceedings. Friar was represented by Mr. Lawson, of Toronto, and the prosecution conducted by Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr, Belleville.

A UNITED CITIZENSHIP

Canadians who, in the past and even at the present time confer existing conditions are becoming familiar with the free trade idea, should, in their preliminary prejudices, be cognizant of the true facts before adopting a final opinion.

It is not understood, why certain leading lights in some political organizations throughout this country should deem themselves particularly qualified to dominate and formulate political platforms. A number of these men in former years were citizens of other countries enjoying the privileges of their respective Constitutions and possessing farming lands in wealthy States. They disposed profitably of course, of these holdings, and under our immigration policy came to Canada, settled in the West, pre-empted and later purchased considerable land until large acreage was their's. They were blameless in this regard and indeed we welcome them; but it should be clearly understood that when one becomes a Canadian citizen, swears allegiance and assumes obligations incidental to the British Flag, a true spirit of British Citizenship is expected to be exemplified, the welfare of the whole country, not merely one particular section, is to be constantly considered, and the present slogan of co-operation is to be preached for progress.

Meddling with our Prot-otive Tariff so that the unsophisticated tax-payers will be misled is indeed dangerous business affecting the welfare of this whole Dominion and is vitally of interest to our whole social order.

It was clearly shown some time ago, subsequent to careful examination by our Department of Customs, that the selling prices of farming machinery in the markets of the Northern States bordering on Canada and the Western Provinces directly opposite, were very little, if any, at variance, yet some western organizations and political parties with little or no thought towards the East and even the West, wish to abolish certain Customs levies on importations of implements and farm products. So many resolutions covering these great tariff reductions have been formulated and passed at different conferences, and such a plethora of proposed planks and minor amendments have been inserted in these relative political platforms that the whole situation is more or less, becoming chaotic.

This is the aspect of the case which should evoke the resentment of high-minded and impartial citizens and it is indeed obvious that great public injury would be inflicted should these proposals materialize in legislation.

There have been many faithful alienations from party life in the recent years and too many citizens have been and are apt to be negligent, but, in ultimate decision and in the more concrete work of exercising the franchise clear judgment should be employed; so that the true minds of the people should be interpreted and the foundations of responsible and protective government as well and truly laid by previous administrations, carried on to the achievements for industry and mutual welfare that this country so well merits.

SOVIET PROPAGANDA

J. S. Woodsworth, the Labor M.P. from the West, is at the present time going about the country preaching of the Russian Soviet government and extolling communism; and he is not entirely alone in his meanderings.

On Wednesday night of last week an advertised public meeting was held in Hamilton and considerable fervid oratory was indulged in, several other speakers following in a sympathetic vein, including Jimmy Simpson, erstwhile Controller of the City of Toronto and frequently an aspirant for other municipal honors, and J. L. Counsell, K.C., of Rugby fame. The audience were assured that the Russian economic experiment with its industrial aspect has proved to be a glorious success, that conditions in Russia were ideal and that we ought to follow the Russian example and abolish our economic system!

After much deliberate speech-making the real object of the meeting was disclosed and it was proposed that people purchase shares and thereby assist the financing an enterprise, capitalized at $10,000,000, inaugurated by an American clothing workers' union. These proposed funds would be available for use in the establishment of textile factories in Moscow and Petrograd under a sort of co-operative scheme with the Soviet government, who would share in the profits. The prospective investor was assured that all moneys invested would be absolutely secure because the credit of the Soviet government would be behind the same.

Of course the fact that this government has already repudiated the financial obligations of Russia does not matter particularly.

This effrontery or fanaticism of these sympathizers of Russian communism seems amazing and the deep-thinking public of this country will not tolerate this "pass-the-hat" mongering by individuals who may or may not be influenced by emissaries of the Russian communistic government despatched to prosperous foreign countries where they may deem fields fertile for the rapid growth of deeply planted seed.

The present economic system in Russia possibly owes its status to the majority of peasant's there—God's creatures who cannot, through circumstances, speak for themselves nor are "Too helpless to protest,

Too patient to complain."

Labor, organized and unorganized, will certainly not permit their constitutions to be meddled with nor their basic principles befuddled and contaminated by these flimsy, impractical communistic ideas which are not applicable nor liable to be, particularly when presented for consideration under such subterfuge.

PASSING COMMENT

The Canadian steer has at last "horned his way" into the British market.

The Dutch government saved William of Hohenzollern the expenses of a honeymoon trip.

With thousands of city nimrods let loose in the North-rn woods, the danger is not to the deer alone.

Lloyd George will at least not suffer the fate of Asquith at the last general election. He has been returned by acclamation.

Witnesses at the Haileybury fire investigation condemn wooden shingles. Many a small boy is willing to join in the condemnation.

Bonar Law declares that what Britain needs is tranquility. There is not likely to be much of that, however, during the election campaign.

A Memphis paper contains the following want ad.: "For rent: Furnished room to gentleman looking both ways and well ventilated."

According to the Deputy-Minister of Mines Canada has enough coal to last her 30,000 years. There is a good chance for pessimists to worry about what will happen at the end of that time.

Robert M. LaFollette is alleged to have said in a recent speech that the soldiers of the United States were "boobs" for fighting in France. Great stuff that for the slackers and the spineless. To the credit of the twenty men and women of the United States the insult has been lost in a deluge of indignation.

Against the theory that Quebec and British Columbia stimulants are the chief attractions for rhotorists from the United States, the Ottawa Journal places the fact that of 617,000 Americans cars that entered Canada last year 537,000 passed the customs in Ontario and only 43,000 in Quebec and 26,000 in British Columbia.

It takes nearly thirty days to train a street car conductor unless he has had previous experience packing sardines.

With the Atlantic and Mediterranean fleet of the British navy anchored off Constantinople, the demands of the Turks for British evacuation are simply "demands". The battleships command the situation, and a shell or two, well placed, would be quite convincing.

The Turks may desire to test out the Bonar Law Government's firmness on the Dardanelles question, but they will find that Lloyd George has no monopoly of tenacity in that respect. Indeed, Premier Law is likely to be a tougher nut to crack because he never puts up a bluff. He is far more representative of the true Briton in that he says what he means, and sticks by what he says.

The suspension of the Canadian coasting regulations to permit United States lake vessels to participate in the lake grain trade between Canadian ports is forecast. The Borden Government took similar action years ago, with good results, and without having to be pressed to it by the West.

HERE AND THERE

COMMUNITY BUILDINGS.

The Government of Saskatchewan has made a stride in meeting the wants of the rural communities, so as to bring the residents into touch with each other, thus developing a real community spirit and avoiding that dreary loneliness that does so much in the country to drive the young people into the cities.

A very attractive little Bulletin has been issued by the Department of Agriculture, devoted to "Community Buildings," and should be successful in the building of many of the ones figured, or suggested in it.

The reasons for a Community Hall are well advanced, and the benefits that accrue are recorded; the financing of the hall is discussed; the incorporation of the association is described; by-laws are suggested; sketches are given which can be followed if they meet the taste of those who propose to build.

The booklet will be of real value to many outside the Province which has issued it.

"DESTINY"

(Parliament Hill, Ottawa.)

Foam-flecked, the river gleamed beneath the sun,
A thing of beauty but of hidden strength.
Like the gateway of a strong life at length
Laid bare before us e'er its course is run,
And crimson-crowned trees kissed by the sun,
Till o'er their dying leaves the fragrant air
Draws her soft veil of purple mist so fair
And adds fresh beauty to their death begun,
Mantle the hill beyond, and all around
The air is filled with the sweet Autumn sound
Of glad content, Nature's strain of autumn sweet
For Summer life's increase promise fulfilled—
Drawn by this beauty, they strangers did meet.
And part true friends, as "Destiny" had willed.

PRESS OPINIONS

SAVES CHILDREN AND BEAR

(New Liskeard Speaker)

From Falardeau comes the story of a fourteen-year-old girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. St. Jacques, who took her little brother and sister, three and five years old, carrying the younger, for two miles along a bush road with heavy timber on each side. Then the fire trapped them and they took refuge in a culvert. There she used her skirt, wet in the water of the culvert, and fought the fire. She saved not only herself and the two children, but also a bear, which took refuge with them in the culvert. After the fire had passed she took the children home a mile. The bear looked after himself.

SHORTAGE OF DOMESTICS

(London Daily Express)

There never was a greater difficulty in getting good domestic servants than at present. Indeed, domestic servants of any kind are rare, a state of affairs largely due to the government's mad policy of giving the "dole" to women who have been in various kinds of employment, such as war work, and who feel no desire in these agreeable circumstances to return to domestic service.

The "dole" injures the women themselves; it injuries the taxpayer, and it injures the people who need their services, and it is one of the main difficulties of the housing problem.

A CITIZEN'S VIEW OF TORONTO; THE LOGICAL LOCATION.

(It is announced that the new slogan for the city is to be "The Logical Location." If the winner of the $100 prize had any definite idea in his mind, such as "The Logical Choice of a Location," he has not expressed his idea in good English. The only meaning the words can bear is developed below).

A City of Logic we are styled;
Cold and, unbending we;
Our major premises and minor promises
Wrangling incessantly,

We syllogize from morn till night,
And rare conclusions reach;
No sentiment or subtlety,
In this city of frigid speech.

Some enemy this deed has done,
Who has dubb'd our town a location:
Our lines have not fallen in a pleasant place.
Nor thus can we beat 'till creation.

"Beautiful for situation," as we read,
Was the city of holy writ:
"Logical of location" is the pinchbeck coin
Fresh from our mint of wit.

Oh chuck it we beg, or our city is doomed,
As the centre of hocus-pocus;
For this stupid name will dams our fame.—
This lubberly Logical Locus.

A man who believed he knew all about parrots undertook to teach what he thought to be a young, mute bird to say "Hello!" in one lesson. Going up to the cage, he repeated that word in a clear voice for several minutes, the parrot paying not the slightest attention. At the final "Hello!" the bird opened one eye, gazed at the man, and snapped out, "Line's busy."

"Look here," said the farmer, indignantly, to an itinerant with a hungry horse, "don't you pass that keep off the grass sign?"

"Yes."

"Well, your horse is on the grass."

"I know, it isn't me," was the placid answer, "as well as you do. But that horse can't read."

Nerves So Bad That She Would Sit and Cry

Mrs. Mary Hocking, Madoc, Ont., writes:—"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a wonderful lot of good. I suffered from general weakness and was so run down and my heart and nerves were in such bad shape that I would sit down and cry; and not know what I was crying about. I also used to have weak spells. Thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am well now. I shall always keep a box of the Nerve Food in the house, and recommend them to my friends as they are a wonderful medicine."

(Mr. J. W. Vince, Druggist, of Madoc, Ont., says: "I have sold Mrs. Hocking your Nerve Food, and the medicine has done her much good.")

THE LITTLE ROADS
(Hilaire Cuffine, in Bookman.)

The little roads wind round about
As though their end were still in doubt,
And, leaving close, the green delight
Of grass is seen to left and right,

The hedges rise high and low,
With them in sweet procession go,
The greater roads are sturdy-wise—
They bear important merchandise.

Upon them some fine coach will pass—
They're neither little nor room for grass.

The little roads distressful are
Whenever used by motor-car.

It may be they have narrow grown
Through being left so much alone.

But as they stretch contentedly
Their ways are good enough for me.

HAMBURG STEAK A LA TARTARE

Trim off fat, gristle and tissue from round steak, put through meat chopper with 3/4 lb. marrow fat twice, there should be 1 lb prepared meat. Cook to a delicate brown 3 chopped onions per pound 1 chopped onion; when vegetables are soft, add to meat. Season with salt, mix thoroughly, form into small steaks, dredge with flour and panbroil. Remove to serving platter and spread each with sauce tartare.

The Daily Recipe

A CLEVER WAY WITH MEAT DISH

Pork Sausage.

Two pounds of pork (one-third fat); 1 teaspoon black pepper; 1 teaspoon salt; a few grains of cayenne pepper; one-half teaspoon of fine sage or thyme.

Cut the meat into small pieces and add the seasonings. Mix well and put through the best grinder, using the fine blade. Make into small cakes and fry until well done and browned.

To Use Up Cold Ham.

Chip Ouaker-Oats until coarse custard cups and fill lightly with equal quantities of stale (soft) bread crumbs and cold ham chopped fine and seasoned well. Beat three eggs and add one cup of milk and divide among the cups—adding more milk if necessary. Set cups in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven until firm in centers. Turn on platter and serve with white sauce.

These can be made with cold roast meats and served with tomato sauce and are equally as good as the above.

A Good Breakfast Dish—Take deep oatmeal dishes and put a small quantity of cold chopped ham in each and bring a hollow in centre. Drop an egg in each, season with salt and pepper and add a small piece of butter on each. Bake in a moderate oven until whites are firm.

PARIS WOMEN REFUSE TO BUY EXPENSIVE DRESSES.

Paris, Nov. 11.—Disheartened and saddened by the evident determination of the women of Paris to adorn themselves simply, in the matter of dress, those who are interested in the selling of laces, feathers and embroidery have come together to ask the women for mercy.

H. Dior, Minister of Commerce, heads upon the stagnant condition of the industries which provide feminine finery, and tells the fashion artists their hands are suffering about it. The answer given him is that the dressmakers are powerless.

"This simplicity which troubles M. Dior," one leading gown designer said recently, "saddens us as much as it does him." Our models are simply terrible; they are inexpensive, and please our clients. The right hour day, taxes, high wages and customs duties, have, in general, removed everything like the American tariff bill which came into force lately, all make a cheap and dismal dressmaker's year.

The newest models shown are without lace and brocades, and of plain and cheap materials.

WEDDING BELLS

CHAPELLE—MULLIN.

Mr. John Nelson Chapelle, a popular conductor of the Canadian National Express Company, of this city, and Miss Lena Mullin, also of this city, were on October 30th united in marriage by Rev. Father McCarthy, the ceremony taking place at Reed's Church, Tyendinaga Township and was witnessed by a number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. Miss Johanna Mullin was bridesmaid whilst Mr. Patrick Mullin did honors for the groom. After a wedding repast Mr. and Mrs. Chapelle left for a trip to the West. Upon their return they took up their residence in the city. The couple have many friends in this city who will wish for them happiness and prosperity through life's journey.

CASSELMAN—LERONGE.

In Kingston on Thursday, November the 2nd, at the bride home, 524 Princess street, in the presence of about fifty guests, Miss Emily Alexander of Mr. and Mrs. J. Leronge, and Mr. W. N. Casselman, of the R.C.H.A., formerly of Belleville, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Casselman, of this city, were united in marriage by the Rev. J. S. LaPlair, of the First Baptist Church.

The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. (Rev.) J. S. LaPlair.

The bride looked charming in a dress of midnight blue satin and georgette. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses. The bridesmaid was Miss Alice Dulleu, while Mr. T. Turney, of Belleville, also of the R.C.H.A., ably assisted the groom.

The groom's gift to the bride was a rope of pearls. The wedding gifts were costly and numerous showing the high esteem in which the bride was held.

LINKED LIVES

By D. Kinmount Roy

At first he decided to leave his map behind him, changed his mind, for this interesting developments, but on second thoughts he determined to trust MacAlpin and to go it alone fair to the end. But what a nuisance it all was! And he swore many round oaths, after his kind, as though that would help him and thwarted, was too much for any ordinary mortal to receive with common patience! And Reginald Hardcastle was beyond doubt an ordinary human being, with all the faults of his Britain's master-pal character, and it had not so far fallen to his lot to be obliged to conform often to the pleas of others. He consoled himself with the reflection that the time would pass somehow! And then—well, who knows? It would be strange if he could not compel MacAlpin to unload and to make a clean breast of whatever lay behind the mystery of the Lady of the Island!

A few days after Reginald had left—it was perhaps, have been on the fourth day—a man came to the Hall selling curios of various sorts. Many of the curios appeared to be new and valuable, others less interesting and costly, but all certainly unique in their way. He was an old soldier and had been in the wars, and many were eager to hear of the countries and the events through which he had passed. His story was more than commonly attractive at that time. He had been discharged as no longer fit for active service; the article he was selling had been picked up in many cities and Continental states; he had, in fact, invented all he had in them, and if he failed to sell them he would be a serious loser—a depressing consideration, indeed, for a war-worn and crippled man! He did a very good business among the servants at the Hall. And finally persuaded the footman to tell his master of the rare and interesting article he had for sale.

The Squire was much impressed by all he heard, and desired to see the old soldier and his wonderful wares. For the great man could unbend, once in a while, with rare graciousness; and he did so now with almost the cunning good-will, as he had a shrewd suspicion who the old soldier was.

When the door closed upon his, the Squire looked at the man with much interest but was not at all surprised him anywhere without recognizing him.

"You are a clever fellow, Kinkman!" he said, affably, "and a bold one, too!"

"Pretty well!" the man replied, a trifle drily. All the same, his trepidation was manifest, in spite of his assumed carelessness—a fact his employer did not fail to observe. The Squire poured out a glass of brandy for his visitor—a restorative, while he sipped a little wine himself, with the air of a connoisseur whose mind was empty of all other interest at the moment.

"I dare not take anything stronger," he said by way of explaining this abstemiousness, "but you were always well-seasoned and could carry more than most men! So saying, he refilled the man's glass. His hand was steady, his voice low and firm, and his eyes held the fellow before him as in a vice. This tool of his was capable, and under certain conditions could be trusted; and it was the Squire's business now to make him sufficiently malleable for his purposes and then to bind him to accomplish his own special ends. There was a strange satisfaction in noting the man's anxiety; the sight of it inspired the Squire with a buoyant certitude in all his own movements and gave him a pleasing sense of mastery, for human beings are not everywhere critical when their own particular weakness is amply provided for. And the Squire's weakness was no miserings at this moment as to the ultimate triumph of his plans.

It was Kinkman that broached business first, as the Squire showed no disposition to open the matter. 'What is it to be?' he asked, looking across the table at the alert old man before him.

'Oh, nothing much; the Squire answered; 'young Glenmore is coming.

'Yes; I know,' Kinkman remarked, 'I have spoken with him: my curios seem to interest him, and also me, as he appears to be on the point of going abroad on the same old errand as his father.'

'Good!' the Squire responded, briefly. 'Let him go,' and he smiled grimly; 'nothing can come of it.'

'Nothing can come of it now,' corrected Kinkman, with marked emphasis on the date.

Suddenly one of the men looked in his direction, and said: 'Wonder what they're after? Something white—a long beard!' They didn't look as though they'd have any scruples over a lumpy rout, Billy thought, and withdrew into the shadows.

MARRIAGE NOTICE

HUGHES—KERR—On October 30th, 1922, at Old Saint Andrews, Toronto, by Rev. Wm. Muir Auld, Frederick, youngest son of Arthur William Hughes, of Wandsworth, Nr Birmingham, England, to Florence Graham, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Kerr of Belleville.

"And you are 95 years old!" she exclaimed. "How wonderful! You look so well. How have you managed to do it?" "My method is very simple. I never let any of my friends know when I am not feeling well, consequently I never had to take any of the things they would have recommended if they had known I was ailing."

A TALK ABOUT THIS YEA'R GLOVES

Considering that every well-dressed woman pays due and proper attention to her gloves, it is rather extraordinary that we do not have more real innovations in this direction of dress accessories.

Take the gauntlet, for instance.

For how many centuries has this style of glove been popular? True, it has altered in some small detail, and yet not so very greatly, for the Wheel of Time brings round to us the fashions of past days.

Embroidered, jewel-sewn gauntlets belonged to the days of Elizabeth and the Stuarts, and the fancy stitched, painted and appliqued leather designs of to-day are only an echo of distant generations.

At the moment the Cowboy inspiration is still paramount for this type of glove, and though fringes may alternate with tassels, both are more often to be seen than the glove of more elaborate design or that which has a second colour introduced as adornment.

No tailor-made or sporting outfit is complete without a glove that will cover the coat cuff in the open, but the present favour shown to the sleeve of wide, open-mouthed proportions is naturally retaining an important place for the longer glove, working attractively as it journeys up the arm.

Some of these have also succumbed to the modern craze for variety and show a coloured turn-over when they reach the end of the journey. They are not worn in the most exclusive circles, however, where the plain white glove of unimpeachable quality has returned to its old place as first favourite—a position threatened seriously by the no-glove ruling, born of the dance clubs and the minor (very minor) excuse of economy!

The Short Story Jr.

GETTING BILL'S GOAT

"What a life," sighed William Goat, as he stood all across the barnyard. "I'm tired I am, growing old, and I've never been off the farm. Never had any adventure. I wish I could see something of life before I die." The more he thought about it, the more determined he was to visit the big city.

So next morning he slipped through a hole in the fence and went off down the road. All day he kept on his way, and late in the afternoon he reached the edge of town. He tried to make friends with every people on the way, but somehow they avoided him.

William wandered a while around the outskirts of the city, and then decided to enter boldly. "By that time it was almost dark, and he was getting hungry. He spied an old hat by a hand-cart, the way I've seen tramps do at our farm. I'll bet I have better luck than they did. I'll nibble on any one sick a dog on me."

As he spoke, he was passing a graveyard. It was all so still that he felt lonely, as well as hungry. He resolved to stop at the very next house.

The house he chose was set back from the road amid a tangle of vines. It seemed quite deserted, except for a glimmer of light in one of the front windows. Billy went bravely up to the porch and looked curiously in the wire door. Two men were inside. "Being the light was so dim," said one. "Let's go through this desk. C'mon, make it snappy. I don't like this job. It's too spooky around here."

"I wonder what they're saying," puzzled Billy. "Maybe I'd better knock at the door."

Suddenly one of the men looked in his direction, and said: "Wonder what they're after? Something white—a long beard!" They didn't look as though they'd have any scruples over a lumpy rout, Billy thought, and withdrew into the shadows.

Successful Studying

Getting the Most Out of Maps

(This is the second of articles which will help young students to learn more and get better grades by showing them how to study more efficiently.)

When you are directed to locate something on the map, do you simply find it, point to it with your pencil and note briefly the state or country it is in, or do you locate it in your mind as well as on the map? If you are driving an automobile, you soon learn to locate certain routes by landmarks. A special house tells you when to turn; a bend in the road reminds you that you are north at the next crossroads; a bridge tells you how near you are to the next town.

Use similar landmarks in locating points on the map.

You will find that, once you have located a place, you can find it again easily if you remember that it was a certain distance above or below a river, harbor, or near a peculiar looking hook on the coast-line. Then if you have to locate it on a blank map, you can do it exactly.

Make Your Own Map

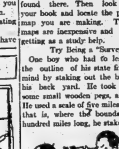

To learn to use a map, you should be able to make maps also. In studying a lesson which has to do with geography, you can learn more quickly if you buy large blank maps of the state or country you are studying about. Then, as you study, write in names of towns, products found in certain parts of the countries, and other main features.

Do not simply copy from a map in your book.

Locate the town or river on the map in your book so that you have it clearly in mind. If it is a town, try to figure why it was located in that particular place and why certain boundaries are found there. Then look away from your book and locate the place on the map you are studying. Outline maps are inexpensive and well worth getting as a study help.

Try Being a "Surveyor"

One boy who had to learn to draw the outline of his state fixed it in his mind by staking out the boundaries in his back yard. He took some string, some small wooden pegs, and the map. He used a scale of five miles to the inch; that is, where the boundary was two hundred miles long, he staked out a line forty inches, or three feet and four inches. By careful measuring he laid out the curving lines and soon had the state complete. He liked doing it, as he intends to be an engineer some day, and he found it a good way to fix the boundaries in his mind.

ANDY GUMP MADE THE GRADE ALRIGHT

Congratulations and good wishes were showered to-day upon clonoerable Andrew Gump, independent member of the American congress. The night of election has created much international interest. The great man received the news on his arrives in the house of his father his first exclamations, of course, being "Oh, Min!" as he dashed to the kitchen to find Mrs. Morgan Gump and conveyed to her the glad tidings.

"We're going to Washington now!" Andy exclaimed.

"How we got to move again?" demanded Chester in a resentful tone. "I thought papa could pay all his bills now."

Although the house had become crowded with correspondents and moving picture men endeavoring to record the actions of the new congressman on the eventful occasion, the excitement was disturbed, for a while, the cheering had risen to a crescendo, and the town brass band had leaped into Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here! A huge bouquet of roses bearing the card of Mrs. Zander, was brought in by a messenger boy. Andy was heard to whisper to Min:

"Uncle Bim has wired me to send the widow some flowers," he said. "You might rearrange these and send them back."

"And how can we expect to get along with President Harding?" Hon. Mr. Gump was asked.

"Warren will have to adjust himself to the new circumstances," Andy replied reflectively. "He will find that I am one hundred per cent. for the people. As you know, I was no man's caller."

"You couldn't," his interviewers agreed, surveying his neck.

Little Chester clung to his father's trousers in childish affection and began searching his pockets for papers.

"Daddy, what's this?" he demanded, drawing a flat glass bottle from the congressman's hip pocket.

"That, my boy," said his father discreetly, "is a soldier who has given his life for his country."

The crowd outside now clamored for a speech, and the rather embarrassing moment came to a close as the congressman strode to the front porch, and raised his arm for silence. His Adam's apple worked with Otis-Fremstonian motions as he plunged into his address.

"As you know, I go to Washington, fore-armed with the liberty of no one," he declared amidst applause.

"When you're through, Andy," Minerva murmured from the other way, "you'll kindly get out the ash-cans. The garbage man is coming."

Judging by the hundreds of inquiries the Spectator received to the effect that Andy was elected, there are really those who believe, or prefer to believe, that Andy Gump is a real person. He is entirely fictional. No fiction of recent years seems to have caught the popular fancy as the character created by Sidney Smith, and anything that can be conceived to continue it in the current atmosphere seems to be welcome.—Hamilton Spectator.

WOMEN FIND IT EASY TO TALK

London, Nov. 11.—Many women, vitally interested in politics, are taking lessons in public speaking in order to be ready to participate in the coming general election.

A well-known womap elocutionist, who has been teaching members of parliament and prominent men how to speak for 20 years, says that women learn to speak more easily than do men, and that the average ability to speak among the women coming to her is remarkably good.

While this professor has to cure diffidence in men, she says she has to counteract excessive boldness in many of her women students.

HOCKEY LEAGUE A SOCIAL UNIT

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT CLUB OWNERS IN WESTERN CANADA LEAGUE.

Edmonton, Alta., Nov. 10.—(By Canadian Press).—"Bringing new blood and new ideas into the professional hockey world, and what is far more important, helping to bridge the tremendous gap which lies between the far east Canada Hockey League is an impossible task in developing Canada's social life," declared Frank A. Patrick, President of the Pacific Coast Hockey Association, when he said:

"The story of an organization of this kind is largely the story of the owners at the head of it," president Patrick said. "The W. C. H. L. is fortunate in its choice of president E. L. Richardson, who occupies that office in an ideal manner. My opinion is that no one of Calgary's best known business men. His work last season had stamped him as a splendid executive, combing tact, patience and strength of character with some business judgment and a thorough understanding of human nature. That he was a firm disciplinarian, continued Mr. Patrick, was shown by his suspension of Amby Moran, of Regina, last spring.

"Coast fans," stated Mr. Patrick, "might be interested in knowing something about the owners of the various clubs in the W. C. H. L. Big general Lloyd Turner, who presides over the Calgary club, is a typical westerner, radiating the breeziest optimism and good fellowship. He is one of the leading followers of hockey in all new corners in the W. C. H. L. he is probably the most successful negotiator and successful handler and signing of very promising young players to sojourn to Calgary. Should Calgary not be in at the finish of the W. C. H. L. campaign it will not be the fault of the club's owner.

"I believe the youngest owner on the rosters is Lionel Mackenzie, of Edmonton, who is about 31 years of age and a veteran of the world war. Quiet and retiring natured, he has a very analytic mind and is the most thoroughly versed in all branches of sport of any of the new managers. His ability to rate players at their exact value is one of his most remarkable qualities. He is fortunate in securing a particularly well balanced team for Edmonton. He has two or three men who rate as super-stars and back of them are a number of men who play high-class dependable hockey. If Edmonton could secure a defense player of supreme class, that club would lok like the strongest in the W. C. H. L.

"The representative selected to handle affairs of the Saskatoon club is Fred Betts, one of the group of owners. Mr. Betts is noted for his genial manner. He is also a wonderful letter-writer. In fact, his name is likely to go down in hockey history as the most prolific and entertaining author of hockey letters. He writes them by the ream. They are like continued stories in the magazines. You are sorry when the instalment comes to an end. As the result of his labors, Saskatoon will be able to trot out the largest squad ever assembled in professional hockey under the colors of one club.

BANQUET FOR BASEBALL TEAM

As a mark of appreciation for activities taken in sports during the past summer, the executive of Bowmanville Amateur Athletic Association banquetted the members of the baseball team in the Central Ontario League, and the team entered in Oshawa sall District Soccer Association last Friday night. About sixty were present at the guests of the evening being Mr. Ernie Parsons, President, and Mr. John G. Noll, Secretary, Central District Baseball League.

Dr. J. C. Devitt, President B. A. A. A., was chairman, and speeches were given by Messrs. Parsons, Nott, Dr. B. J. Hazelwood, G. O.-Paterson, Major R. J. Gill, D. Edwards, Dr. G. C. Hammond and R. F. Aitchison. New lease of life has been given all branches of sport in the Bowmanville since the formation of the B.A.A.A. last spring, and although a championship snath was not produced in either baseball or football, results were very gratifying, and the loyal support given the teams was a feature commented on by other clubs in the district. The nucleus of a good hockey team is available for the coming O.H.A. series, and a fairly programme of winter sports is anticipated.

VARSITY DEFEATS QUEENS ON WET FIELD

TEN THOUSAND SPECTATORS SAW THE GAME —SNYDER SCORES FIRST—GROUNDS IN FAIR SHAPE AND BALL SLIPPERY

Richardson Stadium Kingston, Nov. 11.—This city was football mad and around the end for 3 parks.

An offside by Queen's gave Varsity a 10-yard gain. Snyder kicked but the head linesman called ball-on Walker of Queen's and he was penalized. Then Varsity was given 15 more yards taking the play to 29 yards out from the Queen's line. Leadley kicked to Snyder who ran it back and then kicked, Leadley, too, booted to Hobbs, who was downed on 30-yard line. Varsity recovered a loose ball and then gained their yards on two downs. Snyder kicked to Batstone who was downed on his 35-yard line by some pretty tackling.

Snyder Scores.

Snyder again plunged for five yards by a pretty hurdle. A Varsity signal was mixed, and Hobbs was downed in his tracks. Hobbs ploughed and ran around the end for five yards. Snyder kicked a short one, and followed fast to take it himself but his forward line, stumbled and all but fell, but managed to hold his feet and ran to the Queen's goal line, where he made a line plunge over for a touchdown. Duncan converted, and the Toronto crowd went wild. Score, Varsity 6, Queen's 0.

Westman plunged for six yards giving Varsity yards twice in succession and carrying the play to centre. Queen's then smothered two line plays and McKelvey kicked to Batstone, who was downed on his 35-yard line. Allin broke through to toss Queen's back two yards.

A Queen's backfield run looked to be away but Leadley fumbled the pass from Batstone and Varsity were given possession on Queen's 35-yard line. Snyder plunged for five yards and Duncan added four again and carried the play to Queen's 23-yard line.

Hobbs pulled a fake play and made 5 yards through the centre. Snyder went around the end but fumbled, and Queen's were given possession. Leadley kicked a quick one and it went over Hobb's head and out of touch at Varsity's 45-yard line. Batstone was shaken up and needed attention.

A Varsity backfield was stopped by a pretty tackle by Mundell, who replaced Harding right at the start of the game. A Varsity line plunge failed and Snyder kicked to Leadley, who was downed on his 35-yard line. Two Queen's players were smothered by pretty tackling. Webber broke through and blocked Leadley's kick.

McPherson failed at a field goal, but Batstone was downed for a point. Varsity 7, Queen's 0.

McKelvey made four yards on a line plunge just as quarter time was called. Quarter time score: Varsity 7, Queen's 0.

Second Quarter.

Play was resumed on Queen's 30-yard line, and second down, Queen's pulled a fake play, but it was stopped. Leadley kicked out of touch at Varsity's 35-yard line. Two Varsity line plunges were stopped for a small gain. Snyder kicked to Batstone, who was downed by Webber on his own 40-yard line.

Two Queen's plays were stopped in quick order, and forced Leadley to kick to Snyder who ran it back and then returned the kick, the ball going out of touch at Queen's 35-yard line. Snyder is out-kicking Leadley, and Queen's outside wings are not getting down as fast as they did in Toronto. Evans found a hole in the Varsity line and made 7 yards. Leadley kicked to Hobbs who was downed on his 40-yard line but held it. Snyder kicked to Leadley who was tossed hard by Douglas and Hobbs. The play was passed by Evans Queen's lost 15 yards.

On a Queen's backfield run the ball was fumbled and Queen's were lucky to recover. Leadley kicked to Hobbs who returned to Leadley, he fumbled on his 30-yard line and Varsity were given possession. A Varsity backfield run, Snyder to Hobbs, appeared to be away, but was stopped. Varsity tried an on-side kick, and Duncan came up fast to take the ball just as it was bounding to Leadley's arms. It was Varsity's ball. The Queen's team ran out before the ball was touched to the ground for the corners. Duncan took it over but it was not allowed. Hu was given another kick and made it. Score—Queen's 0, Varsity 6.

Veale replaced Walker for Queen's. Leadley's kick was fouled, but it went two yards and Mundell downed at Varsity's 40-yard line. Two Queen's plays were stopped for a small gain. Leadley kicked to Hobbs who made a fair catch and then downed on his own eight-yard line. Snyder kicked on the first down to Leadley who fumbled, but recovered on a fast and dribbled the ball half the length of the field. Leadley outfoot-ed Westman in the run and recovered behind his own line for a rouge.

Score: Varsity 14; Queen's 0.

Varsity were unlucky not to get a touchdown on the play as there were two Varsity men in close pursuit and only Leadley for Queen's. Varsity's line plays failed to gain yards. Leadley kicked a bad bounding ball to Snyder who took it on his own 25-yard line. A Varsity line play made 5 yards. Duncan gained 3 more on a line plunge. Delaney injured his shoulder and had to retire Johnston replaced Burns and Bartlett came on for Douglas. Snyder kicked for 5 yards taking the play to Queen's 40-yards. Thomas was knocked out stopping Snyder's plunge. Warner is at inside wing in place of Riley for Varsity.

Varsity Pile Up Lead.

Taylor bucked for 3 yards, and then Snyder plunged around the end to Queen's 15 yards, and the ball was then clear. Umpire McCann called the play back and there was a dispute. Varsity was set back 15 yards for a detained possession. Snyder kicked a bounding ball which rolled away to Batstone, he was downed on his 35-yard line. With the crowd standing up in front of the press box, it was impossible to see the play for a moment but it was found that a Queen's line plunge, and Batstone kicked to Hobbs who fumbled but recovered. Snyder kicked to Leadley and the ball went into touch in goal for one point. Score—Varsity 15, Queen's 0.

Evans plunged for six yards and McKelvey made 5 more. A Queen's backfield run was stopped by Hobbs who brought Leadley down hard. Varsity smothered a line plunge and Queen's man was knocked out. Leadley kicked a spiral over Snyder's head, he grabbed it and ran it back 15 yards where it took 3 Queen's men to bring him down. Snyder kicked to Leadley who fumbled at centre and Bartlett recovered. Leadley appears to have lost his nerve, and is very erratic. Snyder kicked to Leadley but Batstone blocked the kick, and sent Lewis off for charging Snyder after he had kicked. Queen's were given possession 10 yards out from their own goal.

A Queen's line plunge was tossed back by McPherson. Queen's pulled a backfield run, but Varsity outsides stopped it in quick order. Leadley passed to Snyder, who took it on the dead run and carried it back to Queen's 20-yard line. Two Varsity plays failed to gain an inch, then McPherson tried a field goal, but it failed. It rolled to the dead line, however, for one point. Score, Varsity 16, Queen's 0.

Queen's pulled a fake play, but Batstone was stopped trying to get through the centre. Batstone kicked to Hobbs, who returned to Batstone. The head linesman called, holding on Hobb, and Queen's were given possession at centre, while Rolph was penalized for holding. Half-time score: Varsity 16, Queen's 0.

Third Quarter.

Taylor replaced Lewis at Snap for Queen's to start the period. Leadley kicked to Batstone who returned to Leadley who was downed on his 35-yard line.

Duncan plunged for 4 yards and followed it with a line plunge for five more. Warner made a 4-yard gain through the centre. Hobbs limped a pass out but managed to hold it. Snyder kicked a bounding ball which rolled to the Queen's deadline for one.

Score point. Score: Varsity 17, Queen's 0.

A plunge by Snyder was stopped without a gain. Duncan, however, made 5 yards. Webber returned to snap for Varsity, and Snyder's kick was blocked and Queen's recovered on a fumble by Evans. A plunge by McKelvey did not gain an inch, and a backfield run made no gain. Kicked to Batstone who ran back to Snyder, who returned to Leadley at Varsity's 45-yard line. A bad pass out by the Varsity centre was luckily recovered by Queen's. Batstone kicked to Hobbs, who returned to Batstone, and the latter was downed at centre. McKelvey was hurt and play was delayed until he recovered.

Batstone kicked a long out of touch at Varsity's 45-yard line. Varsity pulled two line plays, but gained only five yards. Snyder kicked to Leadley. Somerville was returned with a push and he broke through Queen's right and went sixty yards for a touch. This was also converted by Duncan and Varsity a 24-to-0 lead. Shortly afterwards Snyder was taken out and several other Varsity players followed. With a safe lead, the Blue and White eased up, and Queen's took play to Varsity's end. Their closest possession when Duncan made a forward pass to Patterson on a half run and, after two successful attempts to smash through the line, they kicked over for a single. There was no further scoring before the game ended.

First Quarter.

Queen's won the toss and Snyder kicked off to Leadley who returned over Duncan's head and it rolled to Varsity's 10-yard line where Snyder took it and a line-plunge by Duncan gained and then Snyder went around the short end for 8 yards making the yards in two downs.

A plunge by McPherson was stopped and again and Hobbs was also stopped on an attempted fake play. Snyder kicked over Batston's head and the latter was downed on his 30-yard line.

Leadley gained 3 yards around the end, then Batstone kicked to Hobbs who dodged tackles then returned to Batstone who was downed on the first down to Snyder and the latter returned.

A Varsity backfielder followed, Hobbs to McPherson to Snyder for a gain of 25 yards over Col. Constantine, the head linesman called Varsity for interference and they were set back 15 yards to centre. Hobbs broke around the end for 9 yards.

GRAND TRUNKS BEAT ALBERT

Hard, Close Game of Football Saturday Resulted 1-0 for Railroaders

At Albert College grounds on Saturday afternoon, in a City League fixture, the Grand Trunk football team defeated the Collegians by the close score of 1-0.

The students won the toss and the G. T. R. kicked off. Play was quickly commenced on the left wing and Knott and Lancaster got away on a fine run relieved. The ball thus went to mid-field and Grant again put the Railroaders on the attack, Cryderman, however, kicked clear, and Barker dribbled away and then passed over to Findlay, who made a good centre but Gorman cleared. The College halves broke up the combination and Findlay received a very again, but Robinson kicked into touch. The College now forced a corner but this was placed behind. From the goal kick the Railroaders went to the other end and Gill shot over. The Trunks however, greened and finally Knott found himself with the ball in his pos-session, dribbling down the left, dribbled well up the field and then centred, Guthrie putting over. Mc-Dill play followed until Pratt put the Trunks on the attack, and Morris shot by. From the goal kick the inside man Findlay for the College was racing away when Robinson tipped the ball into touch. The Railroaders were awarded a corner kick but Smith and Gill placed well into the goal mouth, but Cryderman cleared. The Trunk's however, came back and Barrett put the ball inside of the goals. The College now by good combination got through the defence and Knott had to come out to clear. The ball play then followed, both teams trying hard to score. Gill put in a nice centre to the goal mouth but could not reach it and it went by. The G. T. R. were pressing when the whistle blew, leaving them winners of a hard game. Both teams were not at full strength. English and Terry Berry of the College Hill and Hayward and Taylor being of for the G. T. R. Jack Gill of the Veterans was referee and handled the game to each team's satisfaction.

Power Development Will Mean Rapid Expansion In The Active Mining District

The development of adequate hydro-electric for the mining regions of Northern Ontario has been very much before the public during the past few days. The operations of the Kirkland Lake District was seriously interrupted by the forest fires of a few weeks ago, it was only this week that the leading mines which had contracted for power were able to get under way again with the reconstruction of the transmission lines.

The big mines at Porcupine have also been threatened with another shortage and have been compelled to begin once more the operations of their steam auxiliary power plants in order to keep operations up to the desired volume.

On that account the plans of the Matachewan Power Company have been awaited not only in the mining field but throughout the country generally where shareholders of mining companies operating in the affected districts are scattered in great numbers.

It is proposed to construct three different plants on the Montreal River providing opportunities at Indian Chutes, Long Rapids and Big Bend Falls. These, according to the reports of competent engineers, will give continuous 12,000 horse power or probable commercial load of 16,000 to 16,000 horse power.

A specially interesting factor of this development is that its power also are located almost in the middle of the central mining area of Northern Ontario. It will consequently be possible to deliver power to practically all the mining camps north of the Cobalt area.

Indian Chutes is located about sixty miles north of Cobalt, about sixteen miles from Gowganda, forty miles from Shining Tree, thirty from Kirkland Lake and about fifty-five from the Porcupine area. Electric Power is at present available only to a limited extent in Kirkland Lake and the Porcupine Fields. The power for Kirkland Lake amounting to about 2,000 horse power is transmitted from Cobalt and if the latter mining centre became active again it would require all this power for itself. Any appreciable expansion in Kirkland Lake, now one of the brightest producing centres would need a much greater amount of power.

Called by Death

CHRISTINA M. F. AYLSWORTH

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Christina M. F. Aylsworth, a much respected lady who resided on Church St. passed away after being ill for some time. Deceased who was in her 79th year was born in Harrowsmith, Ont., being a daughter of the late Mr. John Herchimer. For a number of years Mrs. Aylsworth had resided in Belleville previous to which she lived at Deseronto. Her husband the late Mr. W. R. Aylsworth was for some years County Clerk. Mrs. Aylsworth was a member of Bridge Street Methodist Church. One son Herchimer of this city survives. The body will be taken to Deseronto for interment.

DEBORAH SHARPE

Death came suddenly on Saturday evening to Mrs. Deborah Sharpe who was making her home with Mr. J. R. Simmons on Highland Avenue. Heart trouble was the cause of death. Mrs. Sharpe was a widow and was 69 years of age. She had resided in this locality all her life and was born in Murray Township. The body was taken on to the home of her sister, Mrs. Mitchell who resides at Stockdale, where interment will take place.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

At Emmanuel Church on Sunday night a Memorial Service was held for the late Rev. Geo. Worrell and Mr. Wm. Gorham. The Rector, Rev. George Marshall delivered an appropriate discourse, his text being "All Things Work Together for Good to Them that Love God." The hymns sung were in keeping with the service and the choir rendered an anthem entitled, "Come Unto Me."

CANTON INSPECTED

On Friday evening at the Odd Fellows Temple, Col. S. R. Johnson of Toronto, accompanied by Lieut. Col. H. W. Lindgreen, officers of the 2nd Regiment of Ontario of the Patriarchs Militant I.O.O.F. officially inspected Canton Belleville No. 8. One candidate was admitted and mustered into the ranks after which the Canton was inspected in drill and sword exercise under command of Capt. E. M. Juby. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served and a social hour spent in the Club Room.

UNVEILED TABLET.

At the Masonic Temple at Hamilton on Sunday afternoon, Col. Ponton, K.C., of this city, Grand Master of the Masonic Society, unveiled a tablet erected bearing the names of 52 members of the Society in the Ambitious City who made the supreme sacrifice in the late war. After the unveiling ceremony the Grand Master gave an address in the Savoy Theatre at which some 1,500 Masons were in attendance.

'POPPIES ALL SOLD'

Bellevillians once many showed their stellar qualities by the excellent response to the campaign here on Armistice Day. At noon on Saturday the poppies were all sold out, so readily did the people respond, and after the poppies had been paid for, the sum of $200 was realized.

RETURNED MISSIONARY HERE

At the morning service yesterday at Tabernacle Methodist Church Rev. Dr. Hartwell, who has been a missionary in China for the past thirty years spoke on the work there. Dr. Hartwell was one of the pioneers of Canadian Methodism in China and recalled many thrilling experiences when the Chinese were extremely hostile to all foreigners. At the present time, said Dr. Hartwell, all doors seem to be open to the missionaries and never were the people so friendly toward them. He made an earnest appeal for volunteers and many to carry on the great work. Dr. Hartwell was the speaker at the evening service in Carnifton Methodist Church.

ACTOR ASSISTS DEAF MUTE

MEMBER OF CHU CHIN CHOW CO. STRAIGHTENS OUT COMPLICATIONS FOLLOWING AN ACCIDENT

Up in Peterboro, newspaper reporters evidently make it a business of interviewing actors, and of course the Chu Chin Chow Co. was pie for the newshounds, upon their arrival there on Friday from Belleville.

After the quiet manners, wavy brown hair, soft English voices of the Principal male actors had been described so aptly, (proving that the interviewer was a female) final mention of Belleville, as described by one of the actors, were rehired.

"A collision between a farm waggon and a buggy on a narrow bridge resulted in some slight injuries to the driver of the buggy, a farmer's wife, and the owner of the waggon, who proved to be a deaf mute, explained Mr. D. W. Ferrando of the Co. It was impossible for the bystanders to obtain any information from him as to the extent of his injuries until Mr. Ferrando came along, and consented to talk to him in the deaf and dumb sign language, which was further complicated by the fact that the man was French.

"And the funny part of it was," said Mr. Ferrando, "there wasn't a policeman in sight until the thing was all over, when one came along and wanted to know what all the trouble was."

In defence of the policeman, it might be stated that he would have been at the scene of the accident a minute and a half sooner had he not tarried long enough to give a Belleville reporter a hand out of "real news". As it was he was there in plenty time. What do those actor folk think a policeman is, a wrecking crew?

No, he is not necessary to interview principals here to fill up the column with the "swishy" material. There is LIVE news here every day.

SURPRISE PARTY.

One night recently a surprise party of Thurlow friends visited Montrose Farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Marner, and presented Mr. Marner with a beautiful pipe and Mrs. Marner with an electric iron. The evening was spent in musical games and dancing. At midnight a dainty lunch was served. After singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and "For She's," "Robbie Burns" and "Auld Lang Syne" the party broke up about 2 a.m., wishing Mr. and Mrs. Marner every success in their new home.

CAR INJURES BOY.

A Bentley, chauffeur for Mr. E. Gus Porter, K.C., M.P., struck a small boy while driving the car on Bridge street west, just this side of the lower bridge, this morning. The boy was not badly injured, and no blame is attached to the driver, so the police state.

SCHOOL HEALTH REPORT FOR SEPTEMBER AN OOCTOBER

The appointment last year of the School Dentist made it possible to begin dental work at the opening of the school term. During the months of September and October, dental inspections have been made of all the pupils in Grier St. School, Queen Mary Model and the new home of Queen Alexandra School. For each of the 796 children examined, a dental report was sent to the child's home. A duplicate copy being kept in the school for follow-up work. It is planned to complete the survey during the next month. Comparative percentages will then show the marked improvement since the first clinic was one made two years ago. Treatment clinics have also been carried up at Queen Alexandra School; the report of which is as follows:

No. pupils treated 43
No. fillings (amalgam) 734
No. fillings (cement) 6
No. extractions 49

Early in October the Home Nursing Classes were begun in Queen Victoria and Queen Alexandra Schools. In each school fifteen 30 hr. girls volunteered for the course of ten lessons, which are given after school.

BONAR LAW'S MAJORITY IS PLACED AT FORTY

jority, the Asquith Liberals and Labor each about 130 seats and the Coalition Liberals not more than 35.

If the crowds' cheers could be depended upon in such matters, Lloyd George and his cause might be expected to be swept back into power on a wave of popular enthusiasm. The former Prime Minister has been the one vital and magnetic personality of the campaign, many of the meetings developed quite unexpected favor for the retired leader. But within the real camps there is no confidence or no confidence in the Lloyd George Government, tranquility seems to suit the average Britisher. The short campaign now closing has been one of the soberest and least in modern days, as well as one of the most complicated. There is no clear-cut issue to excite passions or enmities; there is no great leader making a crusade for any great cause. Mr. Lloyd George's plan of standing on his record of administration and he is decidedly at his best on the offensive.

Appearances are that the big fighters in this campaign desires to inflict wounds that would leave scars, because the coalition division in the Commons will make some co-operation scheme a possibility, and no one knows with whom he may be marching next month.

Premier Bonar Law's opponents managed to make one point of his now famous stumble—"We don't know where we are," and another fury against him has been: "There are ships too many Lords and sons of Lords in his Cabinet". Mr. Lloyd George has dropped the Peerage politics against the aristocracy, consisting of his thing that he was the victim of a cabal by the Carlton Club and Bel-gravia, apparently finding that it did not pay.

It is one of the strongest traditions of British public life that all transactions in the Cabinet should be kept secret. Nearly all the blazing figures in this campaign have sat together in the Cabinet during the most critical years of years, and the temptation to drag out skeletons from the Cabinet closet, which opened too greatly strain on human nature, and some of the members have yielded.

Mr. Churchill, the model of convenient and propriety among all British statesmen, has had a literal orgy of it. Winston Spencer Churchill, Curzon has revealed, as though it were an accusation, that Mr. Churchill wrote the alarmist statement about the Turkish crisis issued to the public which began the troubles of the Chanak incident. Curzon himself knew nothing about it and deplored it.

Mr. Churchill has replied in substance that Lord Curzon would have known all about it if he had been in London attending to his Cabinet business, instead of enjoying himself at his country places over Sunday when a great crisis was afoot. And Curzon has retorted that the crisis was not bad enough to prevent several Cabinet Ministers from spending a cheerful week-end with Premier Lloyd George at Chequers Court.

CAPT. SHAW WITHDRAWS FROM PROGRESSIVE

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Winnipeg, Nov. 12.—A Free Press bulletin this evening states that Captain Joseph Shaw, M.P., has withdrawn from the Progressive party as a result of the decisions reached Saturday by the caucus sessions. He is said to be opposed to the "broadening out" policy.

WOOD BELIEVES IN ORGANIZATION

Calgary, Nov. 11.—"I want to say to organized farmers everywhere in Canada that if they believe in organization, and want to save it, they will make a fatal error if they revert to the present party system," declared H. W. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta, discussing Mr. Crerar's letter of yesterday.

"Now," said the clergyman to the Sunday-school class, "can any of you tell me what are sins of omission?"

"Yes, sir," said the small boy. "They are the sins we ought to have done and haven't."

R. FORK IS NEW CHIEF

McMaster's political views were closely in line with the Progressive platform and that he would give the political party his support.

Vote On McMaster's Name.

It is understood there was a vote on Mr. McMaster's name, in which Mr. Hoey's recommendation received a considerable minority support, principally from Manitoba members.

Objection to Mr. McMaster is said to have taken the ground that he was not a member of the Progressive party, and that the members would be without justification in going outside the party ranks for a chief.

Mr. Forke is specifically described as the leader of the party," but it is assumed to be tacitly understood that in reality he is House leader, with the assistance of a committee of eight members, two from Ontario and one from each of the other provinces having Progressive members, and that the whole question of leadership will be reviewed at the national convention, which, it is proposed to call next summer. Members were inclined to think that in such a convention Mr. McMaster might easily become a formidable contender for the position.

Mr. Forke, who said he accepted the responsibilities of leadership purely from a sense of duty, was assured of the support of the group, including those from Alberta who voiced against him.

"Unalterable opposition to fusion or formal co-operation with the Liberal party was expressed unanimously and this was taken as ending once and for all the rumors circulated by interested politicians and uninformed newspapers."

3000 PERSONS PERISH

high and dry when the waters receded. The Mole and railway depots were destroyed. Great quantities of merchandise were scattered through the streets and along the water front. Coincident with the shocks the sky was illuminated by electric discharges, and fires broke out. After the first shocks the sea receded for a considerable distance, and then swept back in an immense wave, extending from Coquimbo to La Serena, seven miles to the northeast, flooding the town and the whole coast line and doing much damage. The tidal wave added to the terrors of the people, many of whom cried out for aid. Again the sea receded for a distance of 300 yards beyond the low-tide mark; then seemed to gather force and came back in an immense wave, estimated at 50 metres (164 feet) in height, which completely destroyed the Sagundano quarter. A number of big lighters were picked up like chips and carried beyond the railway bridge, which is five blocks from the low-tide mark.

Hundreds of 100 persons were killed and many seriously wounded by the earthquake, which overturned many buildings in Coplapo, capital of the province of Atacama.

It was for a time feared first the city of Antofagasta had suffered a great disaster, but most of the damage done at that place was due to the tidal wave, which drove the people out of their homes over a considerable area. No report of loss of life has yet come from here.

Chanaral, in Atacagua, has virtually been abandoned by the inhabitants, as many buildings were wrecked by the immense seas sweeping in when the earth shocks had ceased. The greater part of this town was destroyed.

Throughout the province of Coquimbo hundreds of houses were levelled, while the residents fled to the hills.

From the southern part of Chile come reports of severe shocks, but little damage.

Another earth shock was felt here as 4-45 o'clock Saturday afternoon. It was of ten seconds duration.

500 Killed at Vallenar

In addition to heavy casualties of dead and injured at Coplapo and Coquimbo, it was reported to-day that 500 were killed at Vallenar and the surrounding district. Vallenar was virtually destroyed, and the survivors are in critical condition. It seems certain that there have been casualties in other towns and villages around Coplapo, to the south, concerning which no news is yet available.

Already twenty-four bodies have been recovered at Coquimbo, where it is known there are six hundred or more dead. At Chanaral, a number were killed by falling houses.

It was earthquake and tidal wave combined that accounted for the vast destruction in the provinces of Antofagasta, Atacama and Coquimbo. The movement of the ocean is described as phenomenal. There would have been such a tearing at the bottom of the Pacific that immense quantities of water were sucked through, causing a tremendous recession of the waters along the Chilean Coast.

Covered 1,200 Miles

Several times the ocean swept eastward and came back in the shape of a great wave, flooding the seaports and in some instances sweeping away the water front. The violent effects of the tidal wave were felt from Antofagasta on the North to Valdivia on the South, covering about 16 degrees of latitude, or more than 1,200 miles.

All types of craft lying in the various harbors were swept on shore, wrecked, or left high and dry, and at scores of small ports wharves and piers were destroyed. Chilean naval vessels in the harbor at Talcahuano, about 300 miles south of Valparaiso, when they felt the force of the waters, slipped their cables and proceeded out to the

TURKS MAY BE PLAYING A GAME

Feeling Running High—Deplorable Incidents Occur

Constantinople, Nov. 12.—The situation here has improved a little. Rafet Pasha, Kemalist Governor of Constantinople, who has replaced the Sultan's friend Vinier, as head of the government here, has come to a provisional agreement with the allied authorities for joint allied and Turkish control of the city.

The danger of an immediate rupture is thus considerably diminished, although there is still cause for much anxiety, as national feeling is running extremely high and several deplorable incidents have occurred.

Infiltration of Nationalist officers and men is steadily continuing. The nucleus of a formidable insurrectionary force now exists in Constantinople and Eastern Thrace.

It is, of course, possible the Turks are merely going as far as they think they can without actually forcing an armed conflict. But it is also possible that they are manoeuvring for a definite position in case their demands are unsatisfied at the conference. In any case the Nationalists are more dangerous and more confident than they were a fortnight ago.

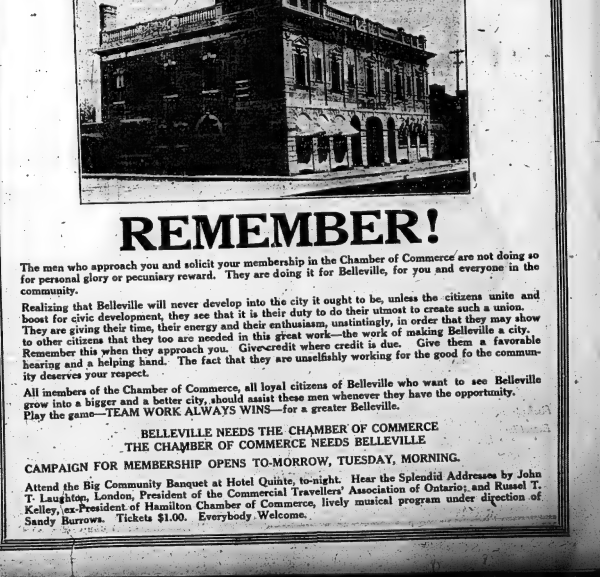

Somehow or other, a great author's stuff doesn't seem to be infallible after you see his portrait.

TENSION IS SLACKENED

Constantinople Quiet for Time Being

Manchester, Nov. 13.—A staff correspondent in Constantinople wires the Guardian that the deadlock between the Inter-Allied authorities and the Kemalists continues. There is nothing in sight that might bring it to an end.

Constantinople is under dual control of the British Kemalists and the Allies. Between the two there is no cooperation, only animosity, misunderstanding and friction that may precipitate a serious conflict.

The Allies are less inclined to resort to martial law or any other strong action than ever. The tendency now is to make the best of a bad situation until the peace conference begins.

The Kemalists are slowly but surely encroaching on the administrative and civil life of Constantinople, but to take any drastic steps to stop them might lead to war. It is felt if strong measures are taken, it must only be with the sanction of all the Allied powers expressed at the conference.

It is understood a certain section of the Nationalists are pressing for peace on a new basis. . . They argument, in brief, is: "

We have no quarrel with the Allies; only with Greece. We must, therefore, negotiate, not with the Allies, but directly with Greece. The Allies may preside at the conference or act as intermediaries, but they must not interfere otherwise in the private quarrel.

$1,000,000 IN GOLD SHIPPED TO CANADA

New York, Nov. 13.—The New York Trust Company today shipped one million dollars in gold coin to Canada.

This is the fourth shipment of the kind made by this company since the 14th of September. The movement of gold to Canada has attracted considerable importance lately because of the favorable position of the Canadian dollar in the New York money market. The dollar was quoted today at 1-8th of one per cent. premium.

JOBS WERE FOUND FOR THE JOBLESS

An Active Chamber of Commerce in Poughkeepsie Functions in a Very Useful Manner

That a chamber of commerce is essentially democratic and that it is designed to work for the welfare of all people of the community is admirably illustrated by the chamber of commerce of Poughkeepsie, New York.

During the acute unemployment situation in the States, Mr. Hoover sent out a message to the people to be ready to help.

Poughkeepsie is a city of 35,000 and with an outskirt population of 45,000 had 4,500 men out of work last October. Twenty-four hours after Hoover sent his message to the mayors of the United States, Poughkeepsie had a plan. The organization was essentially one including all citizens and headed by the Mayor, by President of the Associated Charities and the President of the Chamber of Commerce.

Man on the Spot

A manager was needed and an organization capable of handling the work. They had it already organized. The secretary of the chamber of commerce was the man for the job and the chamber of commerce was the organization that could put it through. Committees were carried out and the organization began to function. An interesting description of how the work was carried out is given by E. W. Davidson in "Business" magazine.

"Every morning," says the writer, the unemployment committee makes a regular round of telephone calls to

PERFUME MAKES GOOD LIQUOR

But Results Were Very Bad For Him Who Drank

Philip Monohan lives in Brockville when he is at home, but he has been sailing on the Great Lakes all summer, and was on his way home when arrested here last night. Monohan was on his way to Hospital in Kingston, and made the mistake of staying over in Belleville over night.

Entering a drug store, he purchased two bottles of Pinaud's Lilac de Perfume, which are contents of both. The result was obvious, for when the unfortunate man was found he was obviously running on Dundas street.

This morning he was fined $15.00 and costs of $3.00, or four days in jail. Monohan had $18 before he drank the fluid, but now he has none, although the two bottles set him back only $1.50.

Case Laid Over

When Harry Thomas, charged with attempted suicide, appeared in police court this morning, the case was laid over until Friday next the 17th instant. The main witness in the case has flown, according to information supplied the court this morning, and practically no evidence can be made with the case without this witness.

EXCELLENT RESPONSE TO MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

Belleville Chamber of Commerce Held in Highest Esteem By Citizens—Sixty-five Applications Secured in One Hour—Campaign Workers Report Work Going Over Strong

The campaign for renewals of membership of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce started off this morning under most favorable auspices. Eighteen teams reported for duty during the morning, and command consisted of Oswald Scott, as campaign manager, with majors of divisions, Major R. W. Pouton, Messrs. C. J. Symons, J. G. Moffatt, R. J. Wray and H. F. Ketcheson.

The following composed the team of workers: W. H. Lattimer, Thos. Collister, J. W. Davison, H. O. Stewart, Steve Lochead, Geo. Frair, F. D. Anderson, B. F. Jennings, J. W. Cook, Ned Downey, C. M. Reid, W. A. Parker, W. E. Scott, J. G. Moffatt, S. R. Burrows, F. R. Wotten, W. A. Ellis, Norman L. Platt, R. Bonnell Hanna; Ernest Dickens, W. B. Deacon, Douglas Reid, Mac Robertson, Geo. Hanley, K. EXPENDITURES ON PROVINCIAL HIGHWAYS

City's Share on Four Roads Amounts to Nearly $25,000

At the City Council meeting Monday evening a communication from Mr. W. A. McLean, Deputy Minister of Highways, was read. It showed that Belleville had to pay the sum of $24,468.35 as its share of the three-mile limit of the four provincial highways adjacent to the city. The report is as follows:

Department of Public Highways,
Toronto, October 28th, 1922.

J. W. Holmes, Esq.,
City Clerk,
Belleville, Ont.

Dear Sir,—

On June 23rd, 1922, we forwarded to pursuance of Section 11 of the Provincial Highway Act, a notification of Provincial Suburban Roads adjacent to the City of Belleville, which designation stands confirmed under provisions of the said Act.

We are now enclosing a statement of expenditure on the construction of these Suburban Roads for the period terminating December 31st, 1921.

This statement of expenditure is in accordance with Sections 11 and 12, of the Provincial Highway Act, showing a total outlay of $122,341.35; of which 20% is repayable by your City to this Department within six months from the date of this notification.

Will you kindly take the necessary steps to provide your share of the above amount on or before the required date.

Should further information be desired we will be pleased to hear from you in the matter.

Yours truly,
(Signed) W. A. McLean, M.E.I.C.

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 14—Chili was again visited by earth shocks last night. Severe tremors were felt at La Serena, capital of the province of Coquimbo, at eleven o'clock, and half an hour earlier the seaport Coquimbo, the capital of the Province of Maule, was shaken, according to advices received here by National Telegraphs.

FIRE AT UNIVERSITY OF MONTREAL

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Montreal, Nov. 14—Fire which broke out this morning on the top floor of the University of Montreal did damage which may total $300,000. A supply of radium recently purchased by the Government, and placed with the institution for research work was saved.

BONAR LAW PICKED TO WIN BY THE PRESS

All British Newspapers Look for Conservative Victory

LABOR'S LOSING CRY

(Associated Press.)

London, Nov. 13.—Election oratory was again in full swing today. Premier Bonar Law recovered from his indisposition sufficiently in Glasgow, where he addressed a meeting tonight. Former Premier Asquith was on the same plan to attend a meeting of his constituents at Paisley. Mr. Lloyd George shows undiminishing energy in this respect, counting the number of meetings campaigning activity. He left Criccieth for Bolton and North England, and as at his custom, addressed little gatherings on the way.

All the great leaders, however, have long since exhausted anything in the shape of novelty in their various advocacies, with the possible exception of Winston Churchill, who is now carrying the fray at the last moment, is still able to infuse the spice of interest in the speeches, and is the most picturesque victim of heckers than the other leaders. He has even bowled down at Dundee today.

As the campaign nears its end it is startling to note that while the Labor party has unwittingly provided its opponents with what these opponents consider their best campaign ammunition, Conservatives of varying color, Liberal Unionists and Anglesian Liberals all unite with the Conservative party leading Labor for its advocacy of a capital levy and nationalization of industries. The avidity with which all the parties seized upon these points is the measure of the apprehension felt on all sides when the campaign started as to the high possibilities involved in Labor entering the next parliament in strong force, this apprehension having been based on the great successes of Labor in recent by-elections.

The Labor leaders quickly realized that open advocacy of a capital levy had been a mistake in tactics, which in the opinion of the most observers to-day, has lost them an enormous number of votes by frightening off the middle class classes, who might otherwise have voted for Labor as the only real alternative to the Liberal party, now split in two, Conservative Government. Mr. Bonar Law, speaking at Glasgow, concentrated on this point and declared that anything which makes the capitalist afraid to employ his capital does the greatest possible injury to trade, and therefore increases unemployment.

"You cannot start a system of this kind without shaking to its foundations the whole structure on which our business is conducted," said Mr. Bonar Law. He pointed out that one burning fact to be evinced from the war was "to get rid of government control and return to private initiative." Germany, he declared, and every this country may do with the lesson here during the war, and in Russia, before our eyes, we are going to try an experiment like that."

LIGHT-HOUSE FLIES DISTRESS SIGNAL

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Charlottetown, Nov. 13—Distress signals flying from the lighthouse at Bird Rock, Magdalen Islands, attracted the attention of the Marine Department cruiser early this morning and when officers reached the scene, they found the lighthouse keeper, his brother, male assistant Bourke and an aged lady, Mrs. Turpin, sister-in-law of Bourke, very ill and Bourke's wife attending them. The three men and two women were isolated by George town but no doctor was available there and they were brought to Charlottetown. Bourke died on the trip. It is presumed that they were suffering from some form of poisoning.

WORLD-WIDE PROHIBITION PREDICTED

(Canadian Press Despatch).

Philadelphia, Nov. 14th.—A dry Germany and Austria by 1930 and a world-wide prohibition within a few years and valuable assistance in the governmental affairs through women's suffrage were forecast in speeches yesterday at the World's Convention of Women's Christian Temperance Union.

COMMUNITY BANQUET AT HOTEL QUINTE LAST NIGHT

Mr. Russell T. Kelley of Hamilton, and Mr. John T. Laughton of London, Give Inspiring and Instructive Addresses—Develop Small Towns and Make Friends of the Farmers

The many honours accorded be related, some of them being at the expense of the gentleman. Mr. Kelley has had a wide experience in community welfare work all of the most interesting and original ideas concerning the building up of Ontario. "We are going ahead in the right way," he says Mr. Kelly, "we are building up the cities at the expense of the smaller towns. Small centres, below the 5,000 population should have an opportunity to obtain industries just as well as Toronto and Hamilton and other large centres. The industrial expansion of the country should be work for a governmental department not each city for itself, one establishing the other, and usually the people to the most benefit in numbers and money. Small town expansion was better for the country at large, as agricultural interests would be brought more prosperous, and then, the cotton-fat large benefited, the large cities profited.

He likened the canvassers for membership, to salesmen, and the time spent to be the equivalent of a business firm. He referred to the new plan of increasing the worth of citizens, lately suggested by the Chambers of the Carnegie School of Technology at Pittsburg. The plan stated equitable responsibility according to one's qualifications as to technical, business, knowledge of product, necessary for facts and figures, etc., before

Mr. Kelley suggested that Belleville analyse her trading radius. Those range of influence most that of Peterboro and Kingston half way? Are we getting all that is coming to us? Do our newspapers circulate through the surrounding country the day they are published for at least fifteen miles? Don't let the mail-order houses take our trade. Let us develop as much as we can. Let us make our towns, cities and country at large, attractive, so that we hold our own and get all those who immigrate. Build up our rural relations, and our community spirit. We are all of one town and we need community spirit, but there is a big individual responsibility as well. Mr. Kelley closed by urging "Living" Belleville the following creed:

"I believe in Belleville; a city founded on rock and measure of courage and vision. I believe in her homes, her industries and her people. I believe in the duty and opportunities in her public affairs and to take part in every movement for community upbuilding."

"In short I believe it is my duty to love my city and to give something of my life to her welfare to the end that, because I lived there may be a better place in which my children may grow to be better men and women and to full citizenship in our great Dominion."

The other out-of town speaker was

"Every morning," he says the writer, the unemployment committee makes a regular round of telephone calls" covering a list of about 400 employers of labor including farms, factories and private and public enterprises of all sorts. The persistence of these calls, day by day, is one of the most effective means to make people realize that they should create for the unemployed all the work possible. The daily list of jobs which ranges from one or two to a hundred or more is reported to the manager of the chamber of commerce."

Temporary Work

As the line of jobless came in, each man is investigated and when he can be out of work and without money, a temporary job is found for him and a loan advanced to cover necessities needed. These temporary jobs are replaced by permanent ones as soon as they are found open.

Public buildings and civic improvements were pushed through to provide more permanent jobs and the system proved a success. Most of the loans made to the jobless were made in December and by December the men began to pay them off.

Early in December, every building trade union was employed, and the unemployed, unskilled labor reduced to only 30 per cent. of the entire number.

Centralized effort through a strong Chamber of Commerce alive to the main suffering among the unemployed in Poughkeepsie this winter.

COMMUNITY BANQUET AT HOTEL QUINTE LAST NIGHT

Mr. Russell T. Kelley of Hamilton, and Mr. John T. Laughton of London, Give Inspiring and Instructive Addresses—Develop Small Towns and Make Friends of the Farmers

Another very successful function was held at Hotel Quinte last night, in the form of a community banquet given under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. It is just three years since the Chamber was formed in Belleville, and the three-year term of membership obtained then, is thus about to expire and it was with the idea of sending the canvassers for renewals of membership off to a good start, and acquainting the citizens in general with the plans of the chamber, that the banquet was held.

During the banquet Mr. Sandford Burrows led in community singing which was entered into with a great deal of gusto. The harmony was excellent. Mr. Tim Little officiated at the piano. Some of the songs sung to the tune of "Tipperary," was:

Hello, Bill

It's a good time to get acquainted,
It's a good time to know
All the builders and the live ones
That are here to make things go.
Good-bye, chilly shoulder,
Good-bye, grouch and frown,
When we all join hands and pull together
We're sure to get there

Pres. H. F. Ketcheson gave a very interesting and instructive address dealing with the activities of the Chamber of Commerce. He referred to the Belleville deputation in Owen Sound at the Associated Boards of Trade meeting, where Belleville men had sung the song—

Belleville by th' Bay.

For we're the men from Belleville,
Belleville by the Bay,
We plough and sow and reap and mow and useful men are they;
And when you go to Belleville, whatever you may say,
You may tell them all that we stand or fall
For Belleville by the Bay.
(Chorus)
Oh, Belleville, Belleville by the Bay,
Oh, fold old Belleville by the Bay,
You may tell them all that we stand or fall
For Belleville by the Bay.

The gathering practiced this number a few times and found it created quite a good deal of "pep."

Mr. Ketcheson asked every citizen to do his or her utmost to assist the Chamber in its membership campaign now on.

He then introduced Mr. Russell T. Kelley, of Hamilton, a former President of the Chamber of Commerce, former District Governor in Rotary, former President of the Hamilton Rotary Club and also a personal friend.

Mr. Kelley is an excellent after-dinner speaker as was betokened by

TENSION IS SLACKENED

Constantinople Quiet for Time Being

Manchester, Nov. 13.—A staff correspondent at Constantinople wires the Guardian that the deadlock between the Inter-Allied authorities and the Kemalists continues. There is nothing in sight that might bring it to an end.

Constantinople is under dual control of the Turkish Nationalist and the Allies. Between the two there is no cooperation, only animosity, misunderstanding and friction that may precipitate a serious conflict.

The Allies are less inclined to resort to martial law or any other strong action than ever. The tendency now is to make the best of a bad situation until the peace conference begins.

The Kemalists are slowly but surely encroaching on the administrative and civil life of Constantinople, but to take any drastic steps to stop them might lead to war. It is held if strong measures are taken, it must only be with the sanction of all the Allied powers represented at the conference.

It is understood a certain section of the Nationalists are pressing for peace on a new basis. Their argument, in brief, is:

We have no quarrel with the Allies; only with Greece. We, therefore, negotiate, not with the Allies, but directly with Greece. The Allies may preside at the conference so as to act as interpreters, but they must not interfere otherwise in this private quarrel.

$1,000,000 IN GOLD SHIPPED TO CANADA

New York, Nov. 13.—The New York Trust Company today shipped one million dollars in gold coin to Canada.

This is the fourth shipment of the kind made by this company since the 14th of September. The movement of gold to Canada is considerable. Considerable importance lately because of the favorable position of the Canadian dollar in the New York money market. The dollar was quoted today at 1-8th of one per cent. premium.

RUSHING AID TO QUAKE VICTIMS

Santiago, Nov. 13.—The homeless in Chile are suffering intensely from cold, according to official despatches, which do not estimate the number of dead from the earthquake and tidal wave. The suburb of Victoria has been destroyed.

The latest advices from Vallenar say the entire town was destroyed. Only three houses are now standing. Thus far 6,000 dead have been counted, but it is expected the total deaths in Vallenar will reach 1,000. In the collapse of the prison twelve inmates were killed and others injured. The entire population is without food or adequate medical assistance. The cruiser Chacabuco sailed for Vallenar, Huasco, the seaport of Vallenar.

Consternation grows as the extent of the earthquake is revealed. The reported number of dead as well as belated reports come in from the stricken Provinces of Coquimbo and Atacama. Some reports say the number of dead exaggerated the number will reach at least 1,200.

EXCELLENT RESPONSE TO MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

Belleville Chamber of Commerce Held in Highest Esteem By Citizens—Sixty-five Applications Secured in One Hour—Campaign Workers Report Work Going Over Strong

The campaign for renewals of memberships of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce started off this morning under most favorable auspices. MORE QUAKES IN CHILI

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 14—Chili was again visited by earth shocks last night. Severe tremors were felt at La Serena, capital of the province of Coquimbo, at eleven o'clock, and half an hour earlier the seaport Coquimbo, the capital of the Province of Maule, was shaken, according to advices received here by National Telegraphs.

FIRE AT UNIVERSITY OF MONTREAL

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Montreal, Nov. 14—Fire which broke out this morning on the top floor of the University of Montreal did damage which may total $300,000. A supply of radium recently purchased by the Government, and placed with the institution for research work was saved.

MUSIC & DRAMA

SEASON'S BIG LAUGH SHOW HERE THURSDAY

The announcement of a new play from the pen of Rupert Hughes and introducing George McManus' famous cartoons, Father Dix Vacation," is sure to be of more than passing interest to the patrons of the serio-comic route to Griffin's Opera House this coming Thursday, November 16, when "Father" will be disclosed to an ever-growing and critically interested public.

NEW ALLAN DWAN PICTURE DEVELOPS A THEME UNIQUE

Allan Dwan's newest comedy drama, "A Perfect Crime," at the Regent Theater last night reveals the desirability of indulging in that great American pastime, gambling, if you do what you wreath. The hero, Wally Griggs, is probably the most unique of all records of the effect upon an individual of the gambling and drinking habit. Transformed from a timid book messenger to a desperate character whose nerves have failed together, brings him a fortune and of course a girl.

The picture opens up a new avenue of escape and is told in Allan Dwan's best humorous vein. It has the same effect upon an audience as does those exciting side effect read, "How to double your salary in two months." Folks leave the theatre with a firm determination to quit being sobbers and to start right in being important.

Wally Griggs, the hero of the story, is a gambling bank messenger, awkward and despised for his timidity. Quite suddenly he decides to rob the bank. He is impressed to him that his little sister have the advantage which the stolen money can give her.

So Wally makes elaborate plans for a robbery. He establishes another identity, removes his hair, his glasses, disguises in golf and fishes and forms an attachment with the president of the bank who is fascinated by his amazing stories of exhibitionist haute in Africa. The president thinks it is an amusing joke that his new friend bears such a startling resemblance to poor old Wally Griggs! And then one day a package containing $150,000 is given to Wally to deliver!

The ending is so rich in surprise that it would be unfair to reveal the climax. Suffice it to say that it is as exciting as it is full of quaint humor and that James Barnes is as fascinating as ever in dull. And of course there is a girl who scorns Wally but falls in love with Bryant.

EXCELLENT RESPONSE

—Chinese from page one

Dr. Findley, W. O. Adams, Harold Saunders, W. H. Gilbert, G. B. Sinclair, Dr. F. J. Nellies and George A. Reid.

Workers started out on the rounds a little before 11 a.m. and came back at noon for luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce and to report. The response was most gratifying. After only an hour of work the teams reported a total of 48 applications, of which 33 were for renewal of membership contracts, and 15 for new applications for membership.

Mayor Hanna's team was the most successful, he having a total of 16 members to report, 1 of which was from a new applicant.

Mr. Blackburn was successful in securing the most new members, he having brought in 3 new applications and 2 renewals.

Ald. Geo. F. Catron had the honor of being the first man to apply for a renewal of membership. He came personally to C. of C. on Ald. to-day and signed the new contract.

Mr. T. F. Power, the genial new landlord of the Queen's Hotel has the honor of being the first new applicant. Mr. Power is a strong believer in a bright future for Belleville. He is thoroughly remodelling the Queen's Hotel and making it an up-to-date and attractive hostelry.

Mr. H. F. Ketchesen, President of the Chamber of Commerce, presided at the luncheon, and the utmost enthusiasm prevailed over the splendid results achieved, after so brief an effort. It is now confidently anticipated that the campaign will go over strong. The campaigners were received everywhere with the greatest of consideration, and report that everywhere there appeared to be a kindly spirit towards the Chamber of Commerce. Many expressed the opinion that it would be a great blow to Belleville's progress, if this institution were allowed to fall, because of lack of adequate support. In the present appearances there seems no possibility except that the citizenship of Belleville will do their part and be so worthy a cause.

"SOME JANE" IS SOME SHOW

Brim Full of Real Southern Situations and Comedy

"Some Jane" is the name of the comedy drama which the Reg Spooner Players are presenting at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday, and this offering is just a little above the average in the line of plays produced here by that company in the past few weeks.

The success of the play depends largely upon the work of the comedian and the comedienne (Joe Kelly and Hazel Williams), and they certainly do not allow the show to falter. Kelly as plain Dave, the village pumpkin, with the proverbial red hair, eye, surpasses all other members of the company with his originality, rube acting such as his new role affords. Miss Williams as Lizbeth, the fiance, makes Kelly travel for the honors but overacts per part at certain stages. Each other member of the company is seen to excellent advantage in roles which are very well adapted to them.

Southern Rotes is where the setting is laid, where all characters are typically southern. Gim Gardner shows a darkey, before they speak with grammatical breaks peculiarly all their own. Mr. Spooner keeps a blacksmith shop at Bowling Green, a small village, hence the village blacksmith. He married early, and in the opening of the play possesses two daughters. One is a product of a Girl's Seminary, the other resembles. Gim means more than the smithy's helpless helper. The more possession of two daughters, in the language of endless trouble, hence "Some Jane". Jim Radburn, Sheriff of the county who supplied the money which sent Spooner's daughter required for that four year's course, is in love with Kate, the Girl's own name, but his kindness has placed her in a college where Metropolitan manners have caused her to take a dislike to the rough manners of the Western folk of which type, Jim is very typical. Bob Travers, a smooth city slicker, has enjoyed Kate's admiration and love, although he later turns out to be an imposter, and a mail train robber. Now we have a Sheriff, who Kate likes and a bandit who Kate loves, and who has committed an offence in the county where Jim Rad burn who does the play finish? Very unexpectedly to be sure, but to appreciate the whole story, the offering should be witnessed, and anyone who attends this play will not be disappointed.

Miss Spooner as wife of Joe Yeonon, is as usual good in the old lady parts, and Mr. Brown makes a realistic villain. Rex as the Sherrif and Zan at Kate were seen to advantage. Wm. Spooner in the smooth villian, Travers, and his work was very effective especially in Act III and last but not least Bill Yale as Col. Bollinger was just real good.

Miss Machan and Mr. Hannah had small parts this week, but aided the presentation materially.

Vaudeville by Kelly and Williams was well received, Kelly's parody on the ancient gem, "The trail of the lonesome pine" bringing down the house.

The Sale is booming this week at Ritchie's. People appreciate the remarkable bargains being offered. A few pieces still left of choice Wicker Furniture, both plain and upholstered in One Third Off Regular Price.

millions and a half population. Where have they gone? We only have a little more than one million. We have lost them. One hundred and thirty-five rural families pulled up stakes in Eastern Ontario and emigrated to Northern New York State via Brockville and Morristown. Why?

The Government should maintain a National Chamber of Commerce," Kelley says, and build up small towns like Picton, Deseronto, Campbellford, etc.

Why some farmers are hard up, is because they are poor farmers, one city guy says, and he ought to know.

We get our business from our friends, not our enemies. Let's make friends of farmers.

Canada imported 6,000,000 dozen eggs last year. Hens, you done oughta buck up, or you lose yuh job.

From harvest time till late December wheat prices go down and then they go up, up, up.

Who remembers the little ditty "The Lifters and the Leaners"? We wanted to quote it but forgot so much of it, we got it all balled up.

Kelley says the churches, the Rotary and Lions Clubs, 'n everything else, depends on the Chamber of Commerce.

Bill Erickson wanted to take brother Laughton out to Corbyville to show him the big plant there—and that visit Laughton didn't go because he wanted to fulfil his engagement at night.

"Begin with the kids", says Laughton, "catch 'em young and in a couple of generations you will see results". Germany practised that with her military policies, and, oh what "results" she got! (If you can count about two thousand marks for a cent they say.)

Chatham gave every boy a lacrosse stick for a quarter. Who bought the balls?

Middlesex county has not a square foot of cement or tarmacadamized land, and John T. says it has an acreage of — well it's big anyway but we forgot the proper figures. Never could remember figures anyway.

If the charge for service given by our National Railways is a deficit, then also is the money we spend in maintaining a police force and a fire department. Deficits or no deficits we need the "whole works".

Hamilton has two classes—"Leaners and Lifters". London has three, "Workers, drones, and jerkers."

Says Laughton—"Name of the baby anything"—Chamber of Commerce or Board of Trade. What's in a name?

Make Ontario the banner province, and a specially bright star in the Diamond Crown of the British Empire.

Do all your talking AT meetings of the C. of C. not afterwards. That upholds the little misunderstandings.

These outside fellows are envious of our glorious future locked up in the Hinterland to the north of us.

Develop the West, it is our natural trade outlet and therein lies our ultimate success. Make conditions that give the Westerners a profit after he has paid for his threshing and freight rates to the East.

Develop town planning and get the plan registered. Don't put in six inch sewers and mains where twenty-four inch ones are required. Millions are wasted in building towns and cities without plans. Get your restricted areas.

Some of the London young boys call John T. Laughton, "Jack". He says the boys are his pals and it's not disrespectful. He has convinced the Presbyterian clergyman already and now the lattey is a "regular guy."

You must believe in what you sell, if you are to be a successful salesman. Everybody ery "boost up" and "knock" Belleville to the country at large as well as to ourselves.

TRENTON WIN AT BALL GAME

Two Hard Games at Trenton on Saturday

On Saturday night the girls' basketball teams of the Belleville High school journeyed to Trenton to play their old rivals of the Trenton High school.

Before a large crowd of spectators two very fast games of basketball were played. The Belleville seniors won, but the junior team was defeated after a hard battle.

At first the Belleville seniors could not get going and their shooting was erratic, and at the end of the first period the score was 15-18 in favor of Trenton. But in the second period Belleville came back strong and by good combination and shooting they scored many points, while they held the Trenton girls almost scoreless. When the final whistle blew the score was 30-14 in favor of Belleville.

The junior game was very fast and consequently rather rough. The Belleville girls certainly had hard luck at the baskets while the deadly shooting of the Trenton forwards gave many baskets. The Trenton girls took the lead at the start and held it all the way and when the game was over they had the long end of a 14-4 score.

After the games the teams were banqueted in the school's gym and then the Belleville girls left for home.

The lineups were as follows:

Seniors.

Belleville—Forwards, Ennis Kelly and Clarinda Croejl; side centre, Grace Gilbert; centre, Gussie Hill; defence, Betty Williams and Mary Cook.

Trenton—Forwards, Olga Anderson and Sarah Hendricks; side centre, Annie Milligan; jumping centre, Tena Johnson; defence, Mary Talasky, Bessie Bruyea.

Juniors.

Belleville—Forwards, Helen Cooper and Carol McArthur; side centre, Madeline McCormick; jumping centre Bessie Hickey; defence, Helen Potter and Irene Woodley.

Trenton—Forwards, Nora Haynes and Kathleen Mackley, side centre, Irene Nechal; jumping centre Lena Desjardins; defence, Helen Sutcliffe and Helen Hawkins.

Referees, Miss Merry and Miss Hunter.

VARSITY RUGBY TEAM HERE OVER NIGHT

They Knew a Good Place When They Saw it—Journeyed to Kingston in the Morning

On their way to Kingston on Friday last for the big game with the Tricolor squad, the Varsity Rugby team stayed over in Belleville for the night, before making the last leg of their journey to the Limestone city.

Coach "Doc" Maynard has his boys well under control. After having had the evening meal, they were allowed to go out to the movies, but had to be between the sheets at 10.30 p.m. In order to make sure that they were in their rooms at the appointed time, a room to room canvass was made, when the boys told off by number. This gridiron pastime is no fun. It means hard work, no dissipation and stereotyped meals.

In the morning, the boys walked to the G. T. R. depot to meet the train as they needed the exercise, and on the train, they were served a special training meal in preparation for the big battle, in the afternoon.

At the hotel, each man had a room to himself and the "no talking" sign was hung out after the doors were locked.

(Fat) Naylor lead the way for the tire boys last night at Dominico's Alleys, but one man could not beat the mighty Knights, with the consequence that the Tire builders fell down by over 200 pins. Dr. O'Callaghan had the high single and T. Barrett the three strings.

PADDLERS WIN.

Parkdale C.C. wound up its O.R.F.U. senior campaign without a loss Saturday, when they defeated University of Toronto by 15 to 8. This is the second year in a row that the Paddlers have gone through the league schedule without suffering a setback. But if Parkdale won they had to extend themselves to the limit to gain the decision, for Warren Coryell's charges—minus their two stars, Ronnie McPherson and Bob Ferguson—gave the West Enders the battle of their lives, and it was only the superior weight and plunging ability of the winners' wingline that turned the tide in the end and swept the length of the field for the try that put them out of danger. Standing out as one of the best individual performances of the season was the play display given by Alex. Godchild, who replaced "Dune" Munro on the Paddlers' backfield. When Holmes faltered in the early stages of the game Godchild kept his team in the hunt and his sensational running back of punts and excursions around the ends brought the crowd to its feet time and again. He caught faultlessly and several times scooped in wide passes on the dead run with one hand. Alex. Ponton, another speed merchant, played well and accounted for the Paddlers' initial touchdown after running 30 yards through a broken field. Wendall Holmes weakened the backfield considerably, and when Earl Douglas replaced him and Murphy went to quarterback the change for the better was readily apparent. Show bottom gave another great exhibition of defensive play.

PRINCETON BEATS HARVARD

New York, Nov. 12—Triumphing over Harvard, 10 to 3, in the first of the annual "Big Three" gridiron classics after the gruelling struggle, Princeton's fleet, fighting eleven today strengthened its claims to the mythical championship in Eastern ranks. The Tiger must face the Bulldog of Yale next Saturday in a final test, but followers of the team that dashed spectacularly from behind to beat such elevens as Chicago and Harvard were confident of a crowning victory.

While the Harvard-Princeton battle held the centre of the East's football stage, keen interest was manifested in several other major games. Chief among these was Cornell's smashing victory over Dartmouth, 22 to 6, at the Polo Grounds; Lafayette's decisive defeat of Rutgers, 35-to 6, at New Brunswick, N.J., and Pittsburg's sensational 6—0 decision over Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia—the second straight setback sustained by the Quakers in their check-red 1922 career and the seventh victory for the Panthers in their last eight engagements with the Red and Blue.

McGILL LOSES OUT.

Syracuse, N.Y., Nov. 14.—The United States style of football against the Canadian style of game resulted in a 32 to 0 victory for the former here this afternoon before 6,000 persons, when McGill University of Montreal fell before the powerful Syracuse University eleven.

However, it might be said that the game today was not a fair test of the two styles of play, as McGill this year has not a team of as high calibre as it has had in the past, while Syracuse has one of the leading elevens on this side of the border.

McGill was seriously handicapped as the players were not acquainted with the style of play here, being at sea a number of times on certain formations.

The Canadians showed ability to gain through clever lateral passing attacks many times, but they were never able to gain consistently enough to get the ball inside Syracuse's 30-yard line or near enough for the crippled and battered Flanagan to take a shot at the crossbars for a goal from the field.

SHOULD SIKI LOSE HIS TITLE?

Montreal Sport Writer Says "No", and Gives Reasons Why

Regarding the recent announcement that the Battling Siki had lost his light-heavyweight title, the Montreal Herald says:

Whatever objections racially, morally, and socially, and as a part of any decorative color scheme there might be to Battling Siki, he's cut out to fair play.

And the Senegalese didn't get when the Boxing Federation snatched the light-heavyweight championship off his receding cluder brow. Siki earned his title fairly enough in the ring, and until he is actually beaten by a man of his weight, no commission or federation in the world has the right to take his title away from him.

From this distance, the action looks very much like revenge on the Sock-ing Senegalese became he had the temerity to knock a more lightly-inclined idol off his perch.

Or, as a revision of the old nursery rhyme might rend:

There was a gent from Senegal
And he was wondrous black;
He walloped Carp, upon the chin
And laid him on his back.

But when he'd beat him to a pulp
And put him down to stay,
The Federation met and took
His fistic crowd away.

The decision of the British Home Office that Battling Siki cannot fight on British soil has a decided local interest, inasmuch as it means that some important mixed bouts which Tex Rickard seriously planned to promote here next summer, involving Harry Wills and possibly Siki, will never see the light of day in this locality.

The Dempsey-Wills bout was by no means an impossibility for Montreal on Dominion Day last. It would have been held a year ago had Dempsey consented to fight. A Tom Gibbons-Siki bout for Montreal was also on Rickard's mind. But both of these and any other big mixed bouts might just as well be forgotten.

The suggestion that three Irish teams of the City Hockey League be lined into one means another busy evening for the Boxing Commission.

That it is possible to exaggerate one's hardships is indicated by the statement a man made to me that he had just made a round trip of forty miles on a bicycle "uphill all the way."

Community Banquet At Hotel Quinte Last Night

Mr. John T. Laughton of London, President of the Ontario Commercial Travellers' Association, formerly President of the Ontario Educational Association, former High Chief Ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters. Mr. Laughton suggested beautifying the town, plant flowers in very little corner and the city would be improved in a thousand other ways following directly and indirectly from the attempt to beautify the odd corners. He wanted to further encourage rural relations. "Forget the deficit of the National Railways," says Mr. Laughton "it is service we want and when we get it business will boom and the deficit will take care of itself in time. Do away with discriminating rates, let us have real public service."

"Individual effort is required in community work as well as joint effort," says Mr. Laughton. "Organize a Junior Chamber of Commerce get the boys into it, pick out men whom the kids like, they are the fellows worth while for community work." Trade and commerce should be the biggest department at Ottawa, was another of Mr. Laughton's ideas. He says he would rather be Minister of Trade and Commerce than be Prime Minister.

Mr. Ketcheson spoke regarding the future of the city and also regarding the membership campaign. All persons canvassed are requested to sign up without undue loss of time. Mr. Ketcheson also announced the reduction in the annual fees, from twenty-five to twenty dollars and these fees could be paid in advance, by the year, half yearly or quarterly. The President also wished to give credit to the Secretary-Manager, Mr. Herity and to the Board of Directors, as they had carried the heaviest burdens cheerfully and were in a great measure responsible for the degree of success attained, by Belleville through the period of depression.

Mr. Harold Bankier rendered a vocal solo that was greatly appreciated and an encore was demanded. Mr. Jack McGie accompanied him.

Mayor Hanna and the Aldermen came in at the conclusion of the council meeting, about nine-thirty.

The Mayor addressed the meeting briefly and referred to the cordial relations existing between the Council and the Chamber of Commerce and to the better community spirit existing in Belleville of late years.

Mr. C. M. Reid in addressing the gathering stated that he appreciated the addresses of the out-of-town gentlemen and want ed to state emphatically that he was not "sold" on the Chamber of Commerce but that he thought no little credit was due the Council for their hard and consistent work and efforts to harmonize all classes in Belleville. Both the Chamber and the Council were necessary and it was a source of great satisfaction to see them working together in harmony in their respective spheres of activity. He said the spirit in Belleville today was more harmonious than he had seen it in his forty years of business experience here.

Mr. W. B. Deacon seconded Mr. Reid's remarks and wanted Belleville men to be inspired by the example set them by Mr. Laughton and Mr. Kelley both of whom had spent valuable time and effort to help Canada. He foresaw having to rise two mornings in succession to catch 4.20 A.M. trains and lose two day's time as well as two night's sleep. How many Belleville men would do that for their own town? If we all did it, why the town would be mighty busy. Mr. Deacon thought the retail men could do more to get together and co-operate generally, than they have been doing. The manufacturers had buried the "hatchet of contention and petty affairs" and were a solid unit pushing and pulling together.

Mr. Jamieson Bone in referring to the progress of Belleville stated that in the last "dock-ed" (this is Mr. Bone's own way of pronouncing docade) Belleville had increased in population twenty-five per cent. which was a better record than that of Montreal, Toronto, Brantford or Hamilton or Canadian City.

Mr. John Elliott, Past President of the Associated Boards of Trade thought Belleville had a wonderfully good reputation away from home. Hamilton and London, the home towns of Messrs. Kelley and Laughton respectively, had entertained Belleville delegates in the past and it was most appropriate that Belleville was in as light measure endeavouring to discharge those obligations. He referred to the wonderful improvements the pavements had made to the city which was destined to be the leading medium sized city of the country. He said three years ago that he was not entirely in sympathy with the membership drive, as outsiders were employed who took a heavy financial toll. To-day he was absolutely in sympathy with the campaign. He paid tribute to the honesty, and up-rightness of Mr. F. O. Herity the Secretary manager. Mr. Elliott thought Mayor Hanna the "Tommy Church of Belleville" or the "peramount mayor." Mr. Elliott said he loved Belleville and could not be enticed from the city. Then very heartily he tendered a vote of thanks to the visiting speakers which was seconded by Mr. Jamieson Bone.

FOR A GREATER BELLEVILLE

For a greater and better Belleville—that is the purpose and object, the platform and motto of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce. It has no other.

No distinction of creed or class is recognized. The Belleville Chamber of Commerce is a non-religious, non-political organization. It does not seek to usurp the functions of civil government. It is simply and solely the servant of Belleville's citizens in all things which stand for progressiveness, prosperity and growth.

On the Chamber of Commerce Membership List are the names of our foremost citizens and our leading commercial and industrial institutions. It is the organization through which the voice of Belleville's ORGANIZED CIVIC SPIRIT speaks.

To consider how much the Chamber of Commerce has done during the last three years and how much more it can and will do in the immediate future, is to realize how much Belleville needs a Chamber of Commerce.

"FOR A GREATER BELLEVILLE" is our motto. It is your motto. You have said so many times. So have we. The opportunity to prove your sincerity is still here. You cannot express this sincerity more convincingly than by joining the Chamber of Commerce.

THE GREAT SILENCE.

Belleville as a city has long been noted for her loyalty, to the Empire, for her hospitality to strangers within her gates, and her generosity to those whose fortunes had fled from them and left them destitute. Thus on Saturday at the hour of eleven, if business men were as usual, it was for reasons other than that the city was unsympathetic. It was noticed on many sides that there was no practical observance of the request for a two-minute silence, and several letters have been received by the editor in this connection. Combining several suggestions received from different sources, we are strongly of the opinion that in the future it would be quite in order for the city fathers to arrange for a signal to be given at eleven o'clock sharp, one that could be heard all over the city, such as the city hall bell, or the factory whistles. Then there could be a stop of traffic on the streets to stop, all activities indoors should cease, and we would all bow our heads in respect for two minutes, for the "GREAT SILENCE." There are many among us who have given their sons, their brothers, their husbands, and their loved ones, who feel it keenly that we should rush on through the sacred two minutes as if careless of their heartaches. Belleville does care, and she wants to honor those of her sons, and all other Canadian sons, that have fallen. All we need is to make the arrangements in advance.

To those who have been in great cities and have seen on busy avenues and streets every sign of activity cease absolutely, even engines in standing automobiles and boats are stopped, when the chorus of whistles blow for a few seconds at eleven o'clock, we are impressed with the sacredness of it all, and the impression is one never to be forgotten. At the Cenotaph, in London, England, thousands will bourse, after travelling long distances, to lay a few flowers at its base to honour those who fell. Let us get together before next Armistice Day and arrange for a "Sacred Two Minutes." Belleville cares and doubt year our observance will be more in evidence. We truly are "Rachel weeping, for her children because they are not."

Not here, but somewhere o'er the restless main
In those lone fields where the red poppies blow,
They sleep, who from but earth shall ne'er back again,
Nor will return, tho' seasons come and go.

Not all the wealth of nations can recall
A single phalanx of those gallant dead
Who held the Empire's shield above us all
And for our hearts and homes undaunted bled.

While death itself was swallowed up in victory
For greater love than this there cannot be.

Twice sixty seconds and a mother's heart,
Chosen with sorrow, misses its great beat,
As deathlike silence stills each roaring mart
And spreads its hush along the crowded street.

The poignant moments fluttering one by one,
Fall on a world that grief has stricken dumb—

Shall their great love and service be forgot
In treacherous memories or the waste of years?
Never! while sons by Britishers begot
Can answer thro' a mist of gathering tears:
"We will keep faith with you, who fell so sore before,
Through deathless glory live for evermore."

ROBERTS' PERSECUTION IS AFFRONT TO BRITISH FREEDOM

A British Government was as much entitled to deprive John Wilkes of his rights as a Quebec Government is entitled to deprive John H. Roberts of his liberty.

British freedom is bulwarked by many precedents. A few of these precedents were wrought out in defending the freedom of the press. That freedom was not seldom approached by publications as undesirable as The Axe. A great and noble principle may suffer in the sufferings of an individual who is neither great nor noble.

If Canadian Liberalism is an organized apostasy from the faith of true and genuine Liberalism, Quebec Liberalism is about as liberal as the Spanish Inquisition.

The Quebec Government is as tyrannical and lawless as lynching mobs of the South in its anti-British procedure. That procedure legislates a British subject into jail without trial by judge, jury or other due process of law.

The nation, merits, race or creed of a victim of legislative brutality is unimportant. That principle outweighs in the case of John H. Roberts is all-important.

Canadian Liberalism and the province of Quebec should be proud of the semi-civilized Government that goes back and takes its precedents from the worst days of the Stuarts and the Bourbons.

PASSING COMMENT

Now that they are over, someone has said "it was a fair fall for a fall day."

Dandelions are still in bloom in Pork Hope and this is the second or third yield this year, so it is stated. Port Hopers certainly must have picked the first crop early.

Assault cases have featured the police court calendar here recently, and now we hear of a case at Stirling where gas has been "struck."

Coincidence was cruel, when it decreed that the fictitious name of the consignee of the liquor seized here recently, should be identical with the name of one of Uncle Sam's most persistent prohibitionists.

Among the other Farmer co-operative business concerns that have not had glowing returns recently is the United Grain Growers. It has passed its dividend. Heavy losses in the past year are responsible. Mr. Crerar's intention to pay more attention to business, and less to political log-rolling at Ottawa, would seem to be called for.

HERE AND THERE

CLOUD-PICTURES.

Clouds are extraordinarily interesting to watch, and you do not require the imagination of Hamlet to see the strangest pictures in the sky. Hamlet, it will be remembered, likened the same cloud first to a camel, then to a weasel, and lastly to a whale. To all of which suggestions the servile fatlie of the fiery Laertes politely agreed.

The finest cloud-pictures are seen in the tropics, but now and then an English sunset provides a sufficiently startling illusion. I remember a summer evening when the thunderstorm was dying over Carlisle in the west. Suddenly a rift appeared in the giant blue-black cumulus and there, on the instant, was the mouth of a volcano in full eruption. The opening was almost perfectly circular, and within the molten metal seethed and bubbled in waves of liquid fire.

Later, the whole of this vast cloud broke away, leaving a sunset exquisite beyond words. On a golden sea floated green islands with cliffs and headlands reflected in a river of splendour. It was all so wonderful that it was impossible to leave it until the sun had set and the dusky besom of night swept the fairy scene into annihilation.

Cloud-pictures lack the stormy magnificence of those seen in lower latitudes. Wordsworth, of all English poets, has most perfectly described a typical cloud-picture above the open country of the North—

> The appearance instantaneously disclosed
> Was of a mighty sky—boldly say,
> A wilderness of building, sinking far
> And self-withdrawn into a boundless depth,
> Far striking into splendour—without end!
> Fabric it seemed of diamond and of gold,
> With alabaster domes and silver spires
> And blazing towers upon towers, rich, high
> Uplifted; here, serene pavilions bright
> In avenues disposed; there, towers begirt
> With battlements that on their restless fronts
> Bore stars—illumination of all gems!

GOING HOME.

There is no picture which touches the hearts of men more closely or tenderly than the figure of the tired man or woman going home at the end of the day. The forebeat of the sun has passed, the intense highlight of midday has softened into a restful glow, the strain of effort is over, and the passion of work has given place to the peace of deserted fields and streets. It is a normal instinct which sets the worker forth, eager and alert, in the morning; it is the response to a deep craving which sends him home at nightfall. The reward of labor is the rest which it achieves, and the joy of rest is the sense that it has been earned.

The alternation of day and night is a symbol of the order of life, which is beyond price. The worker goes out of himself when he takes up his tools, returns to himself when he lays them down at the end of the day. He pours out his vitality as the water pours out of a hidden spring; it is a real worker-and not a mere drudge, he gives himself in the toil of his hand and brain, and when night falls his weariness is not mere fatigue of body, it is depletion of vitality. Before he can go home he must find himself; and when he goes home he finds himself.

To a vast multitude of men the thought of going home makes the heaviest burdens bearable, the most complex surrender of ease and pleasure not a sacrifice but a prize gladly paid for a happiness which is beyond price. The strain of the day is forgotten at the door which opens into the peace of perfect understanding, the pressure of hours of tasks is relieved by the sound of a voice which is natural with love and faith and peace. In such a homecoming there is not only the supreme reward for the work of the day that ended; there is also the renewal of strength and courage for the day that is to bring new strife and toil.

The joy of going home is not in the ease and comfort that are waiting there; it is in the peace that flows from love, the stillness that follows the tumult of the storm the clear atmosphere in which dust of the highway is laid and the worker sees again the ends for which he is striving; in the quietness of such a home the toil of life is not only sweetened, but its spiritual meaning shines clear again after the confusion of details has robbed it of it. the heat and burden of the day the strongest man sometimes wonders if life means anything but prolonged strain of muscle and brain. In the stillness of home its blurred ends, it ultimate achievements shine like the stars above the highway when the dust has been laid.

The home is not primarily a place for work but for life. Work lies below and beyond it, but the companionship which transforms a house into a home is the sharing of the rewards of work; freedom, peace, refreshment, vision. There are houses full of conveniences and luxuries in which no one is at house; the men and women who live in them are homeless. To such men and women also is the men and women to whom marriage is a mere social arrangement, there is no going home, no refuge for the spirit, no place of understanding and vision. There are no more pathetic figures in the world today than those homeless men and women; restless, disconsolate, and unhappy, and utterly blind to the tragedy of a life in which there is no going home.—The Outlook.

PRESS OPINIONS

CONSCIENCE
(Toronto Globe)

In some very well-known words man's thus described: "what a piece of work is a man! How noble in reason! how infinite in faculty! in form and moving how express and admirable! in action how like an angel! in apprehension how like a god!"

What is the feature that differentiates man from all other beings on earth? Some such description as possible! it is the possession of will, carrying with it responsibility, and in order to be responsible man must have a moral sense, the consciousness of right and wrong, what is sometimes called "conscience." This faculty is found in man everywhere; the lowest types have it as well as the highest. It is called "conscience," and the fact of its universality is one of the plainest and most forcible tests made by the unhappiness of man all over the world.

And yet, when the inquiry is made as to what conscience is, there is not a little difference of opinion. Some call it "the voice of God in the soul," and others call it "the voice of science always tells, a man what is right, and thereby indicates what he should do and what he should not. What is the meaning of such terms as an "evil conscience," a "seared conscience," a "good conscience"? These phrases clearly show that consciences differ, and that it is possible for a conscience to be trained for evil and understand in need, as the New Testament puts it, of being "purged." It is evident, therefore, that conscience is not an infallible guide, because if it were "the voice of God in the soul" it would be the same for all today.

A little thought should suffice to convince everyone that conscience is not infallible. Many think that it is right and what is wrong. So far as is well known, conscience has been a fact, understood in some way, in such things as religious persecution, slavery, polygamy, and the like, all of which the balance of world of today declares to be wrong. Conscience is a witness, not a judge.

GRAND CONCERT AT BRIDGE ST.

Dr. Ernest MacMillan, Assisted by Belleville Artists Last Evening

Bridge Street Methodist Church was almost filled last night on the occasion of the Second Armistice Concert, given by the choir of the church. The principal artist of the evening was Dr. Ernest MacMillan, Mus. Doc., who is a concert organist of great ability. Dr. MacMillan's wonderful performance on the organ proved a delight to everyone present. One charming feature was the remarks made by the artist before he gave a selection, about the music he was about to play, then when he did play it was with the fullest possible appreciation of the whole selection.

Prof. V. P. Hunt and the choir are to be complimented on their efforts which resulted in such a fine and performance last evening. The Choruses selected by the Choir were varied in type and each one was rendered with perfect harmony. Everyone present was glad to hear again Mr. R. J. F. Staples, now of the 48th Highlanders, Toronto, whose beautiful tenor voice has delighted Belleville audiences in the past. Mrs. Jack Gibson also rendered a very good advantage in the solos and the aria of Mendelssohn's "Hear My Prayer." Another of Belleville's distinguished artists, Mr. James Booth was heard with the pleasure which his magnificent voice always gives and his selections were much appreciated. The duet by Mrs. McKinnon and Mr. Fred Sprague, popular artists was very much enjoyed.

During the concert, Prof. Hunt spoke a few words to the audience, telling them that he had come with a full choir hoping to secure Dr. MacMillan to play in Belleville, and now that he had succeeded he hoped that this would not be the last visit here. Dr. MacMillan, while a prisoner in Germany during the war, managed to write his exercises for the degree of Doctor of Music from Oxford University. His marvellous playing last evening certainly made a lasting impression on all who heard him and Belleville music-lovers would look forward to any future visit with the greatest pleasure.

Throughout the evening the artists were very generous with the encores which an appreciative audience demanded. The program rendered was as follows:

1. Chorus—Hymn to the Sea (Tertius Noble).
2. Organ—Three Preludes on Hymn Tunes (a) "St. Ann" (b) "O, God Our Help in Ages Past—Parry, (c) "Rockingham" Arr. Wesley.
3. Solo—"Thou'rt Passing Hence" (Mendelssohn), Mrs. Jack Gibson.
4. Chorus—"Lead Kindly Light" (Dykes).
5. Solo—"Hear My Prayer" (Mendelssohn), Mr. James Booth.
6. Chorus—"Hear My Prayer" (Mendelssohn).
7. Solo—"Nazareth" (Gounod), Mr. R. J. F. Staples.
8. Duet—"Hear My Prayer" (Mendelssohn), Mrs. McKinnon and Mr. Fred Sprague.
9. Aria and Chorus—"Hear My Prayer," Mendelssohn.—Mrs. (Dr.) Stobie and Choir.
10. Organ—Concert Overture in F. Minor—Hollins. Dr. MacMillan. (This Composition is dedicated to Dr. MacMillan by the composer).
11. The Bridge Street Choir and friends, after the Concert were very happily entertained to a dainty supper by the music committee and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Deacon, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ackerman, Dr. and Mrs. Day.

Only One Ship.

An American doughboy, captive to a boche officer, was questioned:

"How many of you American soldiers are there on this side of the Atlantic?" queried the German.

"Oh! About three million of us."

"It must have taken a lot of ships we knew nothing about to bring all of you over, didn't it?"

"Oh, no; only one ship brought us over."

"Only one! Impossible! And what was that?"

"The Leviathan."

A Question of Grammar.

Lady Harriet Baring, Carlyle's friend, reproached Monckton Milnes with the unphilosophic tendency of a pamphlet he had just published. "Why," said Milnes, "the writings of your friend are much read, dear." "Yes mean they are much more read," she corrected.

"Does she contemplate a political career?"

"Yes," and that brought forth an ultimatum from Mr. Peckton. He told her he had been an obedient husband "ever since the preacher spoke the fateful words" that made them man and wife, but he needn't expect him to go around basking out her can pagin cards. He'd die first."—Binghamton Age-Herald.

WHAT MADE ME HAPPY

"I was congratulating myself that I had passed the winter without catching a cold, when I got one at the beginning of last May. It was because I was run down. Being run down I had some trouble in getting rid of this cold. I was a nervous wreck. I would wake up regularly morning after feeling that some terrible calamity would befall me. Although we were comfortably off, I felt sure I was always going to lose everything. The children worried me, as they made the least noise. I would get into a terrible fuss. I was so weak that I could scarcely raise my head. I would waken next day just as tired as when I laid down. After a while I got so that I didn't care what happened. The children annoyed me and I wouldn't have cared if how I left me. I got good. I felt that it was only a matter of time before I lost my mind. I knew that my symptoms were due to a run down condition and that if I could only get something to build me up, I might be all right. I knew that there must be some good tonics on most of them made such foolish claims that I was afraid of them. Happening one day to run across a leaflet about Carnol, I was impressed with the moderate way this preparation was described. I made up my mind I would try it. I did so today I am the happiest and healthiest woman living. I can't even care in the world. Instead of running to my doctor I run to Carnol and now with me all the time. My husband tells me that my disposition is as near an angel's as any human being's can be, but of course he is prejudiced. I believe I have a nerve in my body now."

"I Had Terrible Backache From Kidney Disease"

Mrs. M. A. McNeil, Cheasman Sta., N.B., writes:

"I was troubled for years with terrible backache, resulting from kidney disease. I suffered each month I remained in bed, the pain was more than I could bear, and walk was almost impossible. I used about $50.00 worth of other medicines, but with small benefit. Now I am completely better, after using only five boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" SAVED HER LIFE

This Fruit Medicine Always Gives Relief

MRS. DONNIE ST., MONTREAL.

I suffered terribly with Dyspepsia. I had it for years and all the doctors I took did not do me any good.

I read something about "Fruit-a-tives" being good for all Stomach and Liver Disorders of Dyspepsia, so I tried them.

After finishing a few boxes, I was entirely relieved of the Dyspepsia and my general health was restored; and I am writing to tell you that I owe my life to "Fruit-a-tives".

Mrs. ANTOINETTE BOUCHER.

FINANCIAL CAMPAIGN OPENS MONDAY

Committees Chosen For Annual Drive in Interests of Y.M.C.A.

Commencing with a banquet furnished by the Ladies' Auxiliary, the financial drive of the Y.M.C.A. will commence on Monday (next). Chairman H. W. Ackerman, Messrs. R. J. Graham, G. F. Ostrom and J. G. Moffatt are the members of the executive committee of the campaign, and each director of the Y.M.C.A. is going to line up two workers with himself and the committee in order to check up the directors for the workers. The workers' committee is as follows: Mr. M. P. Duff, Chairman, and Messrs. R. Woodley and R. P. Frederick.

The following is a copy of the letter which, is being sent out to a large number of prospective citizens:

Dear Friend:—

The Young Men's Christian Association, in common with other character-building institutions of the Community, requires funds over and above the membership fees if it is to be enabled to carry on its four fold programme for young men and boys.

To this end, the Directors, all busy laymen, are giving what they can in time and money to help along the rising generation.

Besides a Y.M.C.A. building and equipment to work with, which Belleville has just cause to be proud of, there are many other things needed to overcome the boys and men of the community.

1. A programme which effectually touches the four fold nature of men and boys and enlists them in service.

2. A trained leadership. Programme, equipment and building are useless without this. Success is measured here.

3. Sufficient financial support to make the service, so urgently needed, possible.

The splendid service in the past has been made possible by the loyal citizens of Belleville. A printed folder is being issued which will follow. On behalf of the young men and boys, someone will wait on you in the course of a few days. We trust you will think this matter over and give it your favourable consideration.

Social and Personal

Mrs. C. M. Reid and Mrs. C. Douglas Reid will receive on Friday afternoon, Nov. 17th from four to six o'clock at 165 Bridge St.

Miss Pearson has returned from the west and is staying at St. Agnes.

Mrs. Stork has shut up her house on George St. and has gone for the winter to St. Agnes.

Miss Stork is with her mother at St. Agnes.

Mrs. McFee of Foster Ave. has returned from Rochester where she says the people went wild over Andy Gumps.

It Is A Fact

That many persons continue to wear old lenses long after they should be changed; and that many, many a person is right now suffering the penalty for neglected eyestrain that a thorough examination of the eyes would reveal.

Extensive investigation of this subject indicates that a large percentage of those who would be wonderfully more comfortable and better off in every way if their visual defects were corrected, don't ever suspect that the lack of proper glasses is at the bottom of their trouble.

WORK ON NEW DAIRY SCHOOL

Rapid progress is being made at the new Dairy School building at Kingston and the boilers were being put in place now. The roof is now entirely erected and the building will be completed in a short time according to the expectation of the contractors.

CAUGHT LOON IN NET

Fishermen near Brighton, report the finding of a loon entangled in the meshes of nearly 50 feet under water. This is indeed an exceptional depth for one of its three toed kind to be feasting.

AUTO ACCIDENT AT NAPANEE

The Napanee correspondent of the Kingston Standard has the following account of an auto accident:

An accident occurred on the intersection of Dundas and West streets at about 4.30 Sunday afternoon, when an Overland car from Belleville, and a Ford from Croydon, came into collision. The Ford was going west on Dundas, while the Overland was going south on West street. The Overland received slight damages while the Ford was seriously damaged. The young men, occupants of the Ford, were seriously injured. Mr. Lyman was taken to Dr. Strattan's office and with the aid of Frank De Mello, of the Royal Canadian Dragons, Dr. Stutten bandaged Mr. Lyman's head, which had been seriously cut in the accident. Dr. Willoughby performed first aid on Mr. Johnston with great skill and found that his collarbone had been broken. The young men are improving.

LIVED IN THIS LOCALITY

Mrs. Thos. Magladery, who passed away a few days ago at Edmonton, Alberta, was known to a number in this locality. Deceased lived for a number of years in Campbellford, where she attended public and high school, and later was a member of the public school staff of that town.

NARROW ESCAPE

Mr. Robert Rennie and son, R. J., had a narrow escape from drowning at Hay Bay on Friday afternoon last, when the boat from which they were hunting sprang a leak and began to sink. Aid was brought in a few minutes and R. J. was taken into the boat and taken to shore. The boat soon turned and Mr. Rennie was soon rescued after being in the water for about an hour.

C. G. I. T. "AT HOME" EMMANUEL CHURCH

Senior Group of Girls Held Enjoyable Event Last Evening

A very enjoyable event took place last evening when the Senior Group, C. G. I. T., of Emanuel Church were at home to their many friends.

Mayor Hanna occupied the chair and the opening remarks were greatly applauded.

Rev. Mr. Marshall gave a short address on Canadian Girls, and his remarks were greatly appreciated as evidenced by the continuous applause.

The following programme in which several talented Belleville artists took part, was greatly enjoyed by those present. Special mention might be made of Miss Bawden's solo, and Mr. Belanger's quartette:

Chairman's Speech—Mayor Hanna.
Violin and Guitar—Messrs. Belanger and Stevens.
Speech on C.G.I.T. by Mrs. Young.
Orchestra selection.
Reading—Miss Stewart.
Song—Miss Bawden.
Speech—Rev. Mr. Marshall.
Violin Solo—Master Harvey Sprague.
Selection—Guitar Music.

After the programme, dainty refreshments were served, after which dancing was indulged in until an early hour, music being furnished by Sprague's Orchestra, which was greatly enjoyed by all present.

The entire proceeds of the entertainment is donated to the Northern Ontario Fire Sufferers.

OBSEQUIES

R. R. PALMER.

On Monday afternoon the b ody of Mr. Robert Ridley Palmer, of Canniffton, was interred in Elmwood cemetery after an appropriate service had been held in the Methodist church by Rev. Mr. Farnsworth. Deceased was a Mason and the burial services of the society were conducted by Bros. F. D. Diamond and Col. O'Flynn. The church was filled whilst the services were being held. Many beautiful floral tributes were mute expressions of sympathy. Bearers were S. T. Cooley, W. Jones, Geo. E. Martin, C. A. Cullery, J. Brazier and E. Sheffield.

CHRISTINA AYLSWORTH

The funeral of the late Mrs. Christina Aylsworth took place on Monday afternoon. At her late residence on Church street a service was held conducted by Rev. Mr. Maloff, of Bridge Street Church. Rev. Dr. Baker and Rev. Rural Dean Swayne assisted. Interment took place at Deseronto the committal services being by Rev. Mr. Maloff and Rev. Rural Dean Swayne. Bearers were immediate relatives of deceased. A number of floral emblems were placed upon the casket.

JUDGMENT GIVEN IN DAMAGE CASE

Harry Yanover Fails in Damage Suit Against A. Brant in Division Court

His Honor Judge Wills has handed down judgment in the first case heard before the First Division Court in the county of Hastings. This judgment is given in an action taken by Harry Yanover to recover damages from A. Brant for injury caused by Brant entering upon the Highway (Dundas Street) from the Hospital with a motor truck, at excessive speed, and hitting the Yanover car, which was going east on Dundas street at the time.

The judgment reads as follows:
"I am satisfied that the Plaintiff was negligent in not proceeding along the road at a speed that he could control his car when passing the intersection of the road by the Hospital Roadway. I think for the safety of the public it is necessary for all drivers, when approaching an intersection of the roadway to be alive to the situation, and have the auto or truck under control for immediate stopping. When they do not do this they are negligent in my view. I cannot see any other way of educating the people. The person to the right has the right of way. So then look out driver, and be ready.

I dismiss the action without costs. As to the counter claim; I do not consider under all the circumstances that the defendant is entitled to any claim and I therefore dismiss the counter claim without costs.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. A. Kellar and Miss Marguerite, wish to express their deep appreciation of the kindness and sympathy shown them by their many friends of Camillus and vicinity during the recent illness and death of the late W. A. Kellar.

Ald. French—What about the Charlotte street sewer?

Mayor Hanna—The plans are being forwarded to the Provincial authorities.

Ald. Donohue—What about Station street? Will the Public Works repair the street?

Ald. Patterson—What is Mr. Donovan's proposition?

Mayor Hanna—A letter was read from Mr. Donovan, offering to do the work for $1,600.

Ald. Donohue—If Mr. Donovan can build the road for $1,000 give him an opportunity to do so.

Ald. Greenleaf—What action has the Council to take relative to the pollution of the water of the river Moira?

Mayor Hanna—A letter was received from Dr. McCullough in reference to the matter.

Ald. Greenleaf—The G. T. R. should take care of their refuse as Albert College is connecting with Grier street sewer.

Ald. Thompson introduced three Bylaws, namely, a Bylaw to construct a sanitary sewer on Strachan street, from south Park street to the end of lot 5.

Council went into Committee of the whole on Bylaws, Ald. Greenleaf in the Chair. The three bylaws were passed through their various stages and numbered respectively, 2437, 2438 and 2439.

A Bylaw to construct a sanitary sewer on Murney street from Catharine street to Henry street.

A Bylaw to construct an asphaltic-concrete pavement on Highland Avenue, from Bridge street west to Dundas street west.

Motions.

Moved by Ald. McCreary, seconded by Ald. Foster, that a 250 watt light, with reflectors, be placed at the intersection of Bridge and Front streets—for the purpose of determining the policy of Station street paving proposition and other general business.

Ald. Cowan—I will withdraw it, motion and Ald. Greenleaf's amendment was adopted as a motion.

Council adjourned until Thursday night.

Carried.

Ald. McCreary moved, seconded by Ald. Foster, that the Public Works Department be authorized to put Station street in a better condition for travel by filling up the holes and depressions in road way at the minimum of expense.

Ald. Ostrom—The matter of paving Station street is still in abeyance. The property owners on that street be (the speaker) believed would open their hearts in regard to a pavement if it is worth while to spend money on patching up the street?

Ald. Greenleaf—Leave the matter in abeyance and call a special meeting of the City Council to deal with the subject.

Ald. Donohue—The street is in a very bad condition and he would not advise the spending of much money. Something should be done this fall in the way of fixing up the street.

Ald. Ostrom—I am also opposed to fixing up the street, but I desire to see a pavement on that thoroughfare.

Ald. Patterson—If we can get a macadam road on Station street for $1,600 it would be well to let the best that could be done for the present.

Ald. Foster—The Public Works Department has signified its intention of fixing up Station street and the motion states that.

Ald. Ostrom—If a pavement is not going down on Station street, build a good road and charge it up to the property owners on the street.

Ald. McCreary—We will not have a pavement this year, and we had better repair it.

Ald. Greenleaf moved the amendment, seconded by Ald. McCreary, that a special meeting of the Council be held on Thursday night for the purpose of determining the policy of Station street paving proposition and other general business.

Ald. Cowan withdrew his motion and Ald. Greenleaf's amendment was adopted as a motion.

Council adjourned until Thursday night.

Read the Story Concerning the Chamber of Commerce

There are two kinds of know-ledge", said Doctor Johnson. "We know a thing or we know where we can get information about it."

If we are interested in advance we turn to some scientific reference works or to scientific journals. If we are interested in art we turn to works of art and to the art journals; but if we want to find out what is taking place about us, we turn to our newspapers.

The program of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce membership drive is, or should be of tremendous interest to every citizen of Belleville.

What is the meaning of it all? How does it affect me and myself? Do I know enough about it or should I investigate it more closely? These are questions that most thinking Belleillians are now asking themselves just now. The Daily Intelligencer has devoted and will continue to devote much space to the subject which is of such importance to Belleville.

The aims and ideals of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, their past achievements and their hopes for still further accomplishments—all these are covered thoroughly by articles in the newspaper.

It will be to your advantage—it is your duty in fact, to read these articles closely. They will show the "why's" and "wherefore's" of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

If you are already in favor, if you are already a member and booster of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, these articles will supply you with facts to help you boost your city. If you are not a member then they will help you to decide. You will be more able to judge the true merits of such an organization by knowing all the facts.

Whether you are a member or not, whether you are one of the leaders of and methods employed or not—you should be informed of what is taking place in your city.

Read the articles. Hear the other fellow's side. Jew ill be time well spent, which will bring many benefits to you and your family.

Railway News

Winnipeg, Man.—Since the commencement of the crop year up to Oct. 1st, 56,595,574 bushels of wheat have been marketed by the Canadian Pacific Railway, it is announced at the local office recently. During the same period the company handled 12,229,777 bushels of coarse grain and for the items period last Year 56,164,715 bushels of wheat were marketed as well as 8,940,866 bushels of coarse grain. Total cars loaded to date amount to 23,773 as against last year figures of 23,257.

There is every indication that the volume of travel to Europe during November and December will this year be heavy. It is already apparent that the number of those who intend spending Christmas in the Old Country will be unusually large, and the Canadian Pacific Railway is making special arrangements to accommodate the traffic. A special through train will be run from Winnipeg to the steamer "Montcalm", sailing from St. John, N.B., on December 12, and through tourist sleepers will run from Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon, Regina and other western points to catch other C. P. R. sailings from St. John, thus giving a through service from these points to the Old Country.

New Island—The Canadian Pacific Railway Company is making use of man at work here on the improvements to their pumping plant and when completed there will be quite an improvement to the volume of water, that can be pumped from the river. The work includes the putting in of a new boiler and pump at the river, so that they can use natural gas as well as gasoline, and thus be sure of fuel at all times for pumping, and does away with water trouble and having engines run for water. It also increases the service here and practically does away with supply at other points.

H. E. Miles, division engineer, has charge of the work and has a crew of eighteen men working with him under Foreman W. J. Oliver. It will take at least three weeks for the work to be completed. When finished they will be able to fill the present water tank, which holds 16,000 barrels, in three hours. When it is considered that there will be at least twelve to sixteen trains daily taking water here it means there must be a supply of it on hand at all times. This new installation will meet the requirements.

Winnipeg.—Western Canada's export business in fruit, potatoes and other lines of produce has developed to such proportions that exporters are now arranging to establish big collecting warehouses in Winnipeg and other cities of the prairie provinces. The Canadian Pacific has granted special storage in transit privileges at Winnipeg, Regina, Moose Jaw, Lethbridge and Calgary on carload shipments of apples for boxes originating in British Columbia.

Under the new arrangement the shipper has the privilege of holding the produce in Winnipeg or any of the other western cities named for a period of six months and then on reshipment he gets the advantage of the through rate.

St. John, N.B.—The prize awards in section foreman on the New Brunswick district of the C. P. R. for the best sections of rails, roadbed, etc., have been announced recently by General Superintendent J. M. Wardman. His prize of $50 for the second best went to N. Mason on the Shogomoc sub-division. The first prize of $100, given by Manager J. J. Scully, was announced a few days ago. Of third prizes of $25 each, one given by Superintendent Bayles of Brownsville, is awarded to W. E. Nason, on section 5, Matinawaing sub-division; and one given by Superintendent Quilliland of Woodstock, to T. Abbott for section 11 on the Shogomoc subdivision. The list of roadmaster prizes of $10, the sub-divisions and the winners follow:

Roadmaster, Telford, St. John; winner, W. B. Harris.

Roadmaster, Owens, Shore Line; winner, T. Gloster.

Roadmaster, Hodgson, Moosehead; winner, B. Boudreau.

Roadmaster, Bird, Moosehead; winner, E. Plante.

Roadmaster, Richardson, Shogomoc; winner, B. Saunders.

Roadmaster, Slater, Tobique, winner, R. Clark.

Roadmaster, Welsh, Edmundston; winner, [illegible]

S. S. METAGAMA ARRIVES IN PORT

Carries Large List of Passengers for St. Lawrence Route at This Season

The Canadian Pacific 12,500 ton steamer Metagama from Glasgow and Belfast, in command of Capt. G. C. Evans, O.B.E., arrived and docked at Quebec at 10.30 o'clock Saturday morning with 992 passengers, 174 cabin and 728 third class, a remarkable list of passengers to arrive by the St. Lawrence route at this season of the year. The new settlers who arrived and passed the immigration inspection were among the finest agricultural class of Irish and Scotch manhood and womanhood to have arrived during the present season of navigation. Besides the married couples with 116 children and 10 babies, there were a splendid specimen of young men and young women who have come out on the total number booked for the United States. Among the children was a little girl, aged six years, Elizabeth Clarke, travelling alone en route to Port Arthur to join her parents who proceeded her, booked after while crossing the Atlantic by one of the ship's conductresses.

There was also on board the Metagama a party of 50 concertina, who were booked for Toronto under the auspices of the Salvation Army. Another special party of thirty dancetins picked from 500 going to the Dorchester House, Toronto, and a party of clergymen domiciling going to the Government House, Toronto.

In conversation with the third class passengers they were unanimous in stating that there were a very large number of farmers in Scotland waiting the opportunity to come out and settle in Canada. Among the returned Canadians in the cabin were Mr. and Mrs. T. Ballingal, Three Rivers Que; Mrs. N. Bambrick, Miss M. Foley and Mrs. J. B. Hendry, Ottawa; Col. Miss A. Bradden, Medicine Hat, Alta; Mr. M. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Burry, Mrs. Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ireland and family, Miss M. McCallum, Toronto; Mrs. A. and Miss B. Steven, London, Ont.; Mrs. A. Wilson, Vancouver, B.C. Prominent among the cabin passengers was Rev. T. Cremarty Smith, Presbyterian minister in charge of the Cambridge Church, Scotland, on his way to Toronto to attend the convention in that city, of the World's Temperance League held in Canada this year. Rev. Mr. Scotland's Sermons' worker in the cause of temperance, in an interview said, Scotland's Temperance Union had "making decided progress in the cause and the agitation for the non-granting of licenses. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Marvelous Help

Cumberland Bay, N.B.—"I was troubled with weak feelings, backache all the time, a cough, fainting spells and pains in my back and side. I could not do a single bit of work and had to be helped out to the bannisters where I lay in the fresh air from morning until night and I had to be carried up and down stairs. After other medicines had failed a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I can say it was excellent for anyone in the family way. Before the first bottle was taken, I could walk alone and as I kept on with it I got stronger, until I was able to do all my work. My baby is now six weeks old and is a big fat, healthy fellow. I am sure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for me and I recommend it to any woman in that condition." Mrs. Murray J. Barron, R.R. No. 1, Cumberland Bay, New Brunswick.

Cannot Praise too Highly

Winnipeg, Manitoba.—"I cannot speak too highly of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was a nervous wreck and I just had to force myself to do my work. Even the noise of my own children playing made me feel as if I must scream if they did not get away from me. I could not even speak right to my husband. The doctor said he could do nothing for me, owing to my condition, but told me to try Compound for miscarriage. My husband's grandmother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I started right away and, every one knows what a different woman I was in a short time. I went and engaged for my doctor and he did not know me, I was so well. I was able to do my work once more and it was a pleasure, not a burden. Now I have a "fine bouncing baby" to use the doctor's own words. I am able to nurse her and enjoy doing my work. I cannot help recommending such a medicine and anyone seeing me before I took it and seeing me now can see what it does for me. What it has done for me it can do for any one in the same condition. I am only too pleased to you to use my testimonial." Mrs. Emily Davis, 721 McGee St., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Found it Great Relief

Chicago, Illinois.—"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all periods of monthly pain. I suffered from weakness and faint spells and had to lie down. It was a day for an hour or so before I could go on with my work. By reading in the Ladies' Home Journal, I was used your Vegetable Compound for over five years and she came to us for a visit and she recommended it to me, saying she would not be sick a bottle if I did not help me. I took that bottle and got more as I found it gave me great relief. I recommend it to my friends and whoever and am willing for you to use these facts to help others." Mrs. L. J. Schroeder, 1413 W. 17th St., Chicago, Illinois.

CANADIAN CORPS ENTERS MONS EVE. OF ARMISTICE DAY

On Sunday, Nov. 10, 1918, Canadian Cavalry Feeling in Suburbs—But a Soldier Believed War Was at an End

(Written for The Canadian Press).

On Sunday, Nov. 10, 1918, Battalion Headquarters of the P.P.L.I., more familiarly known as the Princess Pats, was situate at Cosdmes, a village hardly 4 mile southwest of Mons. Early that afternoon an officer arrived in from Canadian Corps H. Q. at Valenciennes with the news that an armistice had been signed to be in effect the following day. There was a roar of laughter at the bad joke. That day and the next the news could not last heavily. The Boche machine-gunners shelled the edges of western Mons, some incidents for the last Mons' path. Back from the hills east of Mons, and from Bois-le-Haut, Boche artillery was up all that Sunday the very sentimentless. Passing through Cambrai a couple of miles back we had seen the Germans had not only destroyed the city's railway system, but had systematically blown up all the buildings in the city, even to the very last house. Boche shelling days that the brigade took in the liberated areas were quite curious and strange. Forgotten were the sufferings endured in August, 1914; meaningless was the cry, "aux caves! aux caves!" and common and children were busy their lives there because they could not recognize anti-wire-ed death in bursting shrapnel. Further forward still, on the very outskirts of Mons, "A" Company had established an "O.P." in the highest observation post and overlook the canal lay in full view the ancient city of Mons, crowned by its slender church bell tower, and the naked eye could read the time on the clock tower. "Four o'clock," he had no idea it was as late as that." But it was Boche time, one hour ahead of Allied time. The clock was put back next day.

Yet a little further on and "A" Company's support that Sunday afternoon was actually in Mons, for to reach the platoon it was necessary to pass the hamlet. Orivel post that marks the city limits as we say in Canada.

Fronting the outpost was a little square, and four men from a small dug-out or sap across it was hid a Boche machine-gun post. Early that Sunday morning he had made a raid and some of his dead in the familiar field-gray lay in the little square and a couple of broken wireless poles and wire. During the same afternoon the Royal Canadian Regiment, on the left of the P.P.L.I., captured Cuesmes, northwest of Mons and thence pushed an outpost into the city.

How did the Canadian Corps come to find itself in Mons on Armistice Day? After the capture of Valenciennes on Nov. 2 by the 2nd and 4th Canadian Divisions—scene of a very brilliant exploit by the 10th Brigade—the enemy, stoutly contesting every foot of ground. He had much of the terrain, and his defence, while it was unorganized, was assisted by numerous small rivers and by the fosses of great sluice-like pushed hard, the enemy

Woman's Sphere

A SONG FOR A FRIEND.

Tat old dear post used to star
Long enough for some much-gifted maid
With Mercy eyes! Whose slight
With fragrance dripped, forever
Yet old I would sing—the very best
Loved comrade of a fevered fray.
A girl whose grey straight-forward
Gives
Held laughing; fearless, "I like you."
A girl whose mouth is wheat-
brave,
Where friendly corner wrinkles steal
Like jealous shadows placed to guard
Half-hinted smile as ever so best!
Whose brown hair hides no anger
warm,
Old-fashioned coiled yet girlish-bow;
Grave forehead mocks a child-like chin
Which trembling dimples, "Like me too."

The Daily Recipe

SPAGHETTI WITH SAUSAGE (FOR LUNCHEON.)

(By Mrs. Aylmer Macpherson.)

Take one cup of spaghetti, break into small pieces, throw into boiling salted water and cook quickly for 20 minutes. Then drain, rinse in cold water and put in a buttered baking dish. Take 2 cups of thin tomato sauce, seasoned with salt, pepper and mix with it 3-4 cup of minced cooked sausage. Pour this over the spaghetti, sprinkle all with biscuit crumbs and finally a thick layer of grated cheese, and brown in the oven. Serve while hot.

Sore Throat

A safe and efficacious gargle for any kind of sore throat is made by adding a pinch of permanganate of potash to half a tumbler of warm water—just enough should be used to color the water pink. This is a good antiseptic for gargling the throat with night and morning after exposure or any kind of infection, and is useful for children and others in times of epidemics of influenza or measles.

Mother says the vacuum cleaner was suggested by the head of the old-fashioned hired girl.

THE WINTERING OF PERENNIAL FLOWERS

The great majority of our perennial flowers require winter protection in Canada. These plants are usually hardy in their own individual situation. Our perennial wild flowers, under natural conditions, before the forests were removed, had a perennial covering of snow throughout the winter. Even a blanket of snow is probably the very best protection for perennial flowers. Under our conditions today, however, when one or more thaws occur during the winter, and when there is frequently considerable freezing and thawing of the soil of the garden in the early spring, it is necessary to give, practically all of our perennials, some protection. For example, shallow rooted plants are often lifted out of the ground by clayey soils, by the freezing and thawing. This damage might be prevented by placing soda over the plants.

Winter covering retards premature activity in the spring, which is one of the greatest benefits to many of our perennials. It is quite an essential that the covering used during temporary warm spells as it is to protect them from excessive frost during the severe part of the winter. More damage is done during March and April in Canada than early in the winter.

Perennials with bulbous roots, like dahlias, should be prepared for winter immediately after the first killing frost. The tops may be cut off and laid over the roots to protect them, and then, about the middle of November, or a good dry day, the roots should be lifted and allowed to dry out. They are then stored with as much clay as will adhere to them, and set in a cool, dry cellar, with a light covering of screened or sand.

The corms of the gladiolus should be lifted in October, dried out and kept from frosts in a dry place for the winter. They do better if the corms are not allowed to get too dry.

Roses and other woody shrubs may be prepared for winter towards the last of November, or just previous to the freezing of the ground. They should be banked with from 8 to 12 inches of clay, and the stems wrapped in a covering of straw. It is best, in protecting shrubs that require either straw or leaves for protection, to leave them quite late, so that mice may have been driven to other winter quarters before the work is done. Clumps of shrubs may be protected by running a wire netting about them, and filling this with dry autumn leaves. Perennial flower-roots, like Peonies, Golden Glow, perennial Asters and a great many of the hardy perennials may be protected by a good application of strawy barn-yard manure. This can be spaded in in the spring, adding to the fertility of the soil, as well as give satisfactory winter protection.

The Morpheme, or money lender water lilies may be protected by raising the pond by damming the outlet, so that at least four feet of water is over them.

LINKED LIVES

By D. Kinmount Roy

"This neighbourhood!" repeated Kinkman, "this neighbourhood! I swear that I would never pose within a hundred miles of it!"

"Then your are again," put in the Squire pleasantly; "drink success to our enterprise like a man." And again the genial Squire had the partially required success. "There is nothing to try your nerves this time," he continued, with a significant emphasis on the noun before him; "nothing whatever." There was not a particle of eagerness or concern in either voice or manner; nothing to suggest that he had calmly and without passion determined upon such a course as the destruction of a young girl whose sole crime was her legitimate and inconvenient existence. "In fact," he continued, it is rather a pleasant adventure that awaits you. The child—" Kinkman started. "—the child is a young woman now. Man," he said in a friendly way, pressing him back into his chair, "certainly your nerves are out of order! be still and listen.

You can, of course, decline if you wish. You must however, make yourself interesting to the rest of us. Free references with his kind? "Why indeed?" he asked himself indignantly. "Free," he admitted, "I was still in his pay, and have another bit of his devil's work on hand. But what of that?—surely I may very well do it with a clear conscience, considering what has set me to the task. All the same, he shall not escape,—he has dragged me into crime and has cursed every hour of my existence, and he shall yet feel the terror which has reaped my life, and of which he has even today made sport.

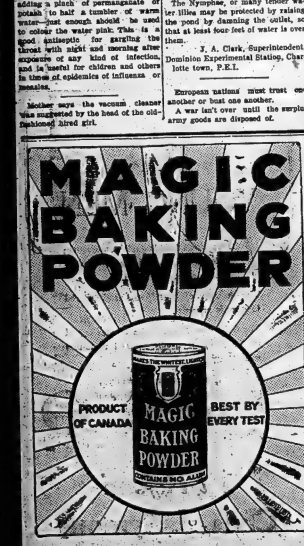

It did not occur to Kinkman that the "dragging" had been a comparatively easy matter, owing to his own consuming greed.

Cracked Window Panes

When a window pane is cracked and it is not convenient to have it replaced at once, try this: Mix a little powdered alum in the white of an egg and mix it over the stove in an old spoon. Rub this cement into the crack, and in a few minutes it will be hardly visible, and the pane of glass will be quite firm. This cement is also good for mending rays broken glass.

A Damp Wall

First make sure that there is no serious leakage in the gutter or pipes. Then strip off the wall-paper, and apply to the plaster a coat of water-glass mixed in an equal quantity of water. Let this dry, apply another coat; repeat the process. This will set with a hard surface, and there is no fear of damp coming through again. When quite dry the wall can be repapered in the usual way.

A Big Bar

A full-size, full-weight, solid bar of good soap is "SURPRISE." Best for any and all household use.

The Short Story Ji.

"ZITZ"

Old Uncle Jon pulled his beard and looked worried. It was the second time he had heard the strange word in the last five minutes. First, as he was passing two girls on the other side of the street, he saw one point directly at him and then both scream-ed "Zitz!" When he looked back a moment later they turned red and giggled until he was out of sight.

Now he had just passed two high school students and he was sure that he heard one of them excitedly whisper "Zitz" as he passed. Uncle Jon thought sadly that the younger generation was getting sillier every day. But when on the next corner the grandson of his old friend Sam Parks punched his companion and they both hissed "Zitz" in each other's ears, he decided that either he or all the young people of the town had gone crazy. What did that mysterious word mean anyway? He had never heard it before. He concluded that he would stop in the library and look it up in that dictionary.

A group of young people was gathered on the steps of the library. As Uncle Jon passed it sounded to him like a number of fire-crackers going off, "Zitz, Zitz, Zitz." Uncle Jon became quite scared. It was going to be. All the young people of the town could not be going crazy at the same time.

There was no such word in the dictionary. Yes, it was as he had always feared. He was going to get queer and childish in his old age. But what a strange way to be affected, to be haunted by a word and to imagine that every one was whispering it. He never heard of such a thing. He thought he'd better stop in and see his old friend, Dr. Sam Parks. Maybe he could help him.

Uncle Jon thought he had never seen Dr. Sam look so old and hagard as he sat slumped down in his chair, dejectedly pulling his beard in a way he had when somebody vexed him. Jon fell into the first chair and immediately began on his strange symptoms. Dr. Sam jumped up in amazement.

"Jon," he cried, "it can't be that we seen Dr. Sam look so old and hagard as he sat slumped down in his chair, dejectedly pulling his beard in a way he had when somebody vexed him. Jon fell into the first chair and immediately began on his strange symptoms. Dr. Sam jumped up in amazement.

"Jon," he cried, "it can't be that we are both going crazy. I thought I was cracked sure and have been reading every medical book I can get my hands on, but I can't find a single record of any such cases. Even my grandchildren whisper that confounded word when I come into the room."

Joe was encouraged. If he was going crazy, Dr. Sam was too, so he would have company. "Here comes Dick now. Ask him what it all means," he said.

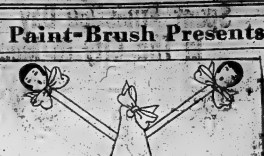

Dick looked embrassed at his grand father's question. "Well, you see," he said, "this is the latest craze this time you see a man with whiskers you yell "Zitz" to the person you are with. When you have thirteen "Zitzes" he has to treat you to an ice-cream soda."

The old men pulled their beards and tried not to laugh in relief.

"And a billy-goat counts the whole gang," added Dick.

Paint-Brush Presents

Little Lady Shoe Tree

Christmas gifts for the whole family, and for your friends, too, are hidden in four little cans of paint, waiting for you and your brush. You don't have to be an artist to be able to make attractive painted presents The cost is very small.

Buy four cans of enamelac, several brands of which are on the market. These will make half a dozen entirely different kinds of gifts. The best colors to buy are black, white, vivid red, and medium green. Then find a small painted brush and a medium sized brush, which you probably have in paint boxes, and you are ready to start work.

The quaint little ladies shown in the picture are really a pair of shoe trees for sister. Buy an ordinary innocent pair of wooden shoe trees and paint them green, however, but coat the front halves of these dolls with white paint. The shoe bust should also be painted green. Both trees and hors are then put aside to dry for a day.

Next comes the small brush—paint the back half of each doll with black, following the outline given for the hair in the picture. After this has dried, put eyes in with black dots, lips with red, and her gala cheeks with red mixed a little with white.

Use the pink also for the hands, following the diagram. Then use white for the pantalettes and stockings. Let this get dry before painting in the tiny black slippers and diacross-lacings, which are also added across the stockings. Those two last straight lines of black complete the paint job.

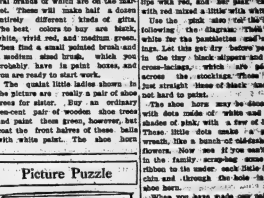

The shoe horn may be decorated with dots made of white and the shaft of pink with a row of black. These little dots make a pretty wreath, like a bunch of old-fashioned flowers. Now set it you can find in the family scrap-bag some pink ribbon to tie under each doll's chin and run it through the hole in the shoe horn.

When you have completed one of these shoe trees and know just how to go about them, you might make several pairs as the same time, being careful to let them dry between the different steps in painting them.

Answer to yesterday's: "To be or not to be."

Soak the Dirt out.

THERE is such a simple easy way of washing clothes—flannels, dainty blouses, play clothes, etc., that you won't mind how many there are—thanks to Rinso.

First, make the wonderful Rinso liquid. Take half a packet of Rinso, thoroughly dissolve it in cool water, and add two quarts of boiling water. Then lay your clothes to soak in the tub of cool or lukewarm water. After one, two or three hours or in the morning give them a thorough rubbing and rinse. The dirt runs away. No need to rub on the wash-board so that fades come and colour goes.

Rinso is a wonderful product. It is scientifically made to wash clothes by soaking — different from soaps, things and washing powders, and used accordingly.

Do not put Rinso in to the first frothy package, but make the Rinso liquid first.

How Canadian Corps Spent Armistice Day In The City Of Mons

Stunning Silence of "Cease Fire" and the Close of Lighted Streets
An Experience No Canadian Soldier Can Forget

(Written for the Canadian Press)

There are two things the Canadian soldier who went through the "last show" will never forget. One was the stunning blow to the war attained by the "Cease Fire" at eleven o'clock on the morning of Monday, Nov. 11, 1918—and the other was the shock to the eyes—the truant, rather guilty feeling—of the lighted streets of Mons and Valenciennes that evening. To walk in that glare and dazzle free of the hated, accustomed and peremptory command, "Lights out! lights out!", was such an experience as can never recur.

Rising on Armistice Day much as so far as least as the Canadian Corps front was concerned quite unchecked until the appointed hour, and Canadian gunners learned later with some satisfaction that the last round shot by the Canadian Artillery fell short of the arm of a Boche staff officer in a Headquarters Chateau by Hill 85 east of Mons.

Official celebration by the Canadian Corps of the "zero hour of peace" was held in Place d'Armes of Valenciennes, scene the previous day of the official entry of the President of the French Republic. The historic battalion banks played appropriate airs. Chief topic of conversation was the armistice terms, not then known to the afternoon the City of Mons tendered an official reception to the Canadian Corps Commander, and the great square was lined with Canadian troops, the Fifth Lancers furnishing the guard of honor. In response to an address of welcome by the Burgomaster Sir Arthur Currie presented the City with the Canadian Corps' Flag, to be forever enshrined in its archives.

Shortly after noon all Mons was placarded with a proclamation signed by the Burgomaster and the aldermen, in part as follows:

"After 51 months of suffering caused by the iniquitous, the pitiless and insolent occupation of the German Army, the City of Mons is at length delivered by the heroism of the British Army, which, at the hour of its armistice, completes its series of victories in the identical place, where, on Aug. 23, 1914, it first engaged the enemy.

"The 3rd Canadian Division, at cost of heavy sacrifices, entered the City at three o'clock this morning, thus avenging by a striking success the retreat of 1914. Honor and thanks be to it!

"The Armistice is signed. The German Army has capitulated; brutal force is destroyed; justice and right triumph; Belgium is strengthened and fortified by the terrible ordeal she has passed through."

Mons was an fete that day, but our men took it very calmly. Fighting had been hard; gaps in the ranks were many; there was a sense of relief no doubt, but there was no unflinching spirit abroad.

Armistice Day turned down a page on the history of the Canadian Corps. As a fighting force its career had closed. The 1st and 2nd Canadian Divisions marched indeed through Belgium and over the Ardennes to the Rhine, and at Bonn did their share of the dreary business of an army of occupation. Rather wonderfully the spirit and the discipline that distinguished the Corps was maintained to the end, but the men chafed to be home. They had behind them, since the jump off near Amiens on Aug. 8, 1918, a remarkable achievement, including the captures of over thirty thousand officers and of over six hundred heavy and field guns, numbers altogether out of proportion to the fighting strength of the Corps as compared with the record in the same period of any other unit whatever.

There comes the inevitable question: Was Foch wise to agree to the Armistice and would not the world be a better place to live in if he had elected to march on into Germany and dictate peace in Berlin? From the purely professional point of view, of course there can be but one answer. It was certainly not worth the life of a Canadian soldier to further beat a beaten enemy. Not in the history of all war had there been an ignoble a surrender. And yet there was plenty of fight left, as the Canadian Corps witnessed in its long tenday drive on Mons from Valenciennes. Behind the lines enemy morale might be weakened, but there was no evidence of it to be seen among his machine-gunners confronting us. If we had been determined to go on then we so we must, with inevitable heavy loss of life.

How about it from the military point of view? We were able to go on and bring the war to a successful conclusion by driving the Boche across the Rhine? The Canadian Corps has some right to be heard on that question. Later on when the King of the Belgians made his state entry into Mons, he declared to Sir Arthur Currie that the Canadian Corps was "unsurpassed in Europe." And, outside its valor, its faith in itself, its refusal to envisage defeat, it had material claims to that proud title. Much of the record speed of its pursuit of the enemy in those last days was due to its wonderful organization, to its Canadian Engineer and Labor Battalions, established on an Army rather than a Corps scale. That organization CANADIANS . . Gai Two million slope enabled it to outdistance troops on either flank.

But there is a limit to human endurance; there is a limit too to material endurance. We were near the breaking point at Mons. The enemy had destroyed everything he could lay hand on as well as everything ahead of us. Railhead was hopelessly behind, and with a shell crater at every cross road the question of supply was become dangerously acute. If the Boche should make a re-stand we would find it increasingly difficult to supply the shells for an adequate creeping barrage to drive him out. Rations for the men in the firing line were kept up well to the end; it was only when the march to the Rhine began that our infantry often went hungry, were glad to eat raw turnips and bully beef from a tin. But that perhaps was due to the fact that with the Armistice the operation of the railways was turned over by the military to the civil authority.

The enemy had behind him the immensely strong line of the Meuse. If he could have reached that with his forces and weld his fate ally, Winter. And after Winter, what? A rejuvenated Germany, drawing closer its interior lines, prepared for a last ditch fight? It was not worth while, not even for the victorious progress of a still more depleted Canadian Corps up the Unter den Linden. The Armistice was the thing.

FIGURES PROVE THAT NEW YORKERS SAVE

ONE CITIZEN OUT OF EVERY FOUR HAS MONEY IN THE BANK

New York, Nov. 13.—The popular idea that the term "New Yorker" is synonymous with prodigality in expenditures for unimportant things, extravagance in dress and style of living and outlay for bright light amusements, is refuted by some significant figures just compiled by the Merchants' Association.

On July 1, 1922, the savings banks of New York held on deposit $2,089,779,824.85, representing accounts of 1,680,625 depositors or more than one out of every four of the entire population.

"These figures," said the statement, "are as significant relatively as positively. They prove that the bulk of thrift among the wage earners in the city has grown enormously during the last twenty-five years.

"In 1897 the books of the New York savings banks showed deposits of $247,907,247.75. The actual deposits in that period have therefore multiplied almost four times. Within the same period the number of depositors has increased from 1,222,256 to the total already cited above. It is true the increase in numbers of accounts is not commensurate with the increase in population, but a significant fact appears in the per capita comparison. The depositors of 1897 showed an average savings account of $432.51 while the depositors of to-day show an average savings deposit of $1,242.

"Those who analyze the significance of figures may draw various deductions of interest from these remarkable showings which are never by assembled, but any argument leading to show that New Yorkers in general are a wasteful lot would have some difficulty in maintaining itself unchallenged.

A motorist who was touring in Ireland one day, met a native who was driving a donkey and cart. "Thinking he would like to have a little fun at the Irishman's expense, he began:

"What is the difference, Pat, between your turnout and mine?"

"Oh, not a great dale," promptly replied Pat. "Sure, the donkey's in the shafts in the wan, and on the asse in the

HAND STRAITS OVER TO LEAGUE

SOLUTION OF NEAR EAST PROBLEM BY LORD ROBERT CECIL

(Associated Press)

London, Nov. 11.—Lord Robert Cecil, one of the creators of the League of Nations, and now prominent in its councils, discussed the Near East situation to-day. Analyzing the problems that will confront delegates to the approaching conference on the neutralization of the Dardanelles, which is to follow the Near East Peace Conference, Lord Robert declared that in his opinion, and also in the opinion of League members who have studied the situation, there is no satisfactory solution possible except to hand over the Straits to League control; now that both sides of the Straits are apparently are to become Turkish territory.

"The question now resolves itself into getting Turkey to assent in principle to freedom of the Straits, subject to her legitimate defence rights, and undertake not to fortify them nor to maintain submarines bases there," he added. "These assurements should be in charge of the League of Nations, which would make an arrangement that the armed forces would be required by the League to carry out the provisions."

It is pointed out in this connection that a view now holding is that when any nation is at war its entire civil population likewise is at war, therefore food and other supplies destined for the civil population may be stopped if the enemy has the power to do so. For this reason, those sitting in the council of the Straits assert that if war occurred between states bordering on Turkey, the latter would be in better financial interest to insist on the Straits remaining neutral, but on the other hand, if Turkey were directly involved in a war, no stretch of diplomatic imagination could forbid her going against her own military interest to permit neutral vessels of war or commerce to pass through the Straits.

It is noted that the freedom of the Straits once was considered necessary, especially in case of a general war, with Russia lined up as a European ally. It is pointed out now, however, that in the event of a new war, Russia probably would be arrayed against Europe, which can no matter what treaty stipulations had been drawn up, the Western Powers would be expected to place war vessels at the Aegean end of the Straits to block the exit.

It is mentioned, for instance, that in case of war between Rumania and Turkey, the neutral powers would find interests in the struggle which would make any control of the Straits a distinct asset. However, it is argued that any proposal to fortify the Straits by individual nations or even by the League is out of the question because of the enormous expense that would be involved. It is estimated that to neutralize the Straits would require a permanent army of 150,000.

"Any international fortification of th Straits is sure to be found impracticable. The League of Nations will have to do it without armed forces. The League is doing well at Danzig, even where it has a given territory to survey, and it will not need at the Straits any special neutral zone.

"In order to deal with the situation, we are obliged to cast our pre-war conceptions overboard. It is curious, but most people who discuss the Straits still think in terms of eight years ago. Although the Freedom of the Straits has always to be important in the old sense, they still prove to be a burden to the Turks, and if we help to neutralize them, it will be a financial advantage to Turkey."

CONFERENCE POSTPONED

Paris, Nov. 12.—It seems almost impossible to-day that there will be such an agreement on the terms of the Turkish peace before the delegates assemble at Lausanne. Both England and France desire such an agreement, but are completely at odds over what it should be.

The postponement of the Lausanne conference until November 20, only emphasized the renewal of this crisis in Anglo-French relations. It is felt close to the dependency here. It is felt continuance of good relations between the two countries is at stake.

Now beautify teeth in this way
Millions of them—the world over

Careful people, well advised, now use a new teeth-cleaning method — millions of them in every clime, and largely by dental advice.

Beautiful teeth you see everywhere show the results of this method.

It is something you should know. Learn what it means to you and yours. Make this free ten-day test.

Combats the dingy film

It is film that makes teeth dingy—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains discolor it, then it forms thin cloudy coats. Tartar is based on film.

The ordinary tooth paste does not end film. So most teeth, in the old days, were more or less discolored.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film. Under old methods, they were consistently increasing. The most careful people rarely escaped.

Two combatants now

Dental science, after long research, has found two film combatants. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it. Able authorities have amply proved their efficiency. Now leading dentists the world over are urging their daily use.

A new tooth paste has been created, based on modern research. It brings five effects now considered essential. It avoids several old mistakes.

This tooth paste is called Pepsodent. And those two great film combatants are embodied in it.

Other desired effects

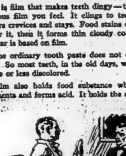

Modern research has found other things essential, and Pepsodent brings those effects.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize the acids which cause decay.

Thus Pepsodent gives manifold power to Nature's great tooth-protecting agents. It polishes the teeth so film less easily adheres. Old-time tooth pastes, based on soap and chalk, brought just opposite effects.

In these ways, Pepsodent is bringing to the dental era. Already it has brought to millions whiter, cleaner, safer teeth. The peoples of fifty nations are being taught to use it. And their children will get life-long benefits which your childhood missed.

Why Men's Teeth Glisten everywhere today

The film on teeth of men who smoke becomes especially discolored. But note how men's teeth glisten nowadays—men who, ensure the film. Note how men and women, when they smile, are showing pretty teeth. Those are Pepsodent effects, now sanctioned by millions, largely through dental advice. They do not coats by scouring teeth in any harmful way, but by scientific film removal.

SUMMARY OF GREEK SITUATION

EX-PREMIER VENIZELOS DIS CUSSES ASPECTS OF NEAR EAST DISPUTE

(Associated Press)

London, Nov. 12—Eleptherios Venizelos, ex-Premier of Greece and head of the Greek delegation which will attend the Near East Peace Conference at Lausanne, discussed to-day the internal affairs of Greece in the first lengthy interview he has given for several months, and also canvassed various phases of the Near East situation as it appears to Greek eyes.

"The rule of King Constantine," he said, "should be considered merely as the roots, but it is 40 percent minority, we will say, wish to continue the royal institution. I imagine that a majority of the Greeks would consent to carry on the present system provided the King's power be nullified."

The aged statesman apparently has recovered from the severe moral shock he suffered recently because of the Greek defeat in Asia-Minor. He seems to be in better health, and speaks vigorously. At the present time he is totally absorbed in making arrangements for the peace conference, and also in caring for a million and a half Greek refugees.

CHILE FEELS MORE TREMORS

Province of Coquimbo and Other Places Shaken Yesterday

List of Known Dead and Injured Increases as Reports Come in Santiago, Nov. 14.—Each hour brings further details of the great disaster in Chile caused by the earthquake and tidal wave and each new report received from the provinces which suffered the full force of the convulsion adds to the list of dead and the enormous damage already recorded.

Advices this afternoon from Valparaiso, in the Province of Atacama, says that the total dead recovered thus far at that place number 1,000, while the adjoining town of Freirina is in complete ruins, the casualties not being known.

An official compilation gave the number of dead in six towns as 880 and the injured at 2,410. These towns were Vallenar, Copiapo, Coquimbo, Huasco, Chanaral and Freirina. The compilation, therefore, did not take into account the hundreds of smaller places within the radius of the shock of the three earthquakes because of the breakdown of telegraph lines.

Twelve hundred miles of the coast-line felt, in varying degrees, the effects of the great tidal wave which followed the earth shocks, and for a large proportion of this distance seaports, towns and villages were inundated. Now nearly four days after the disaster, thousands of families are wandering about the countryside. Their distress is great, for they have little clothing and little supplies.

Again to-day reports of earthquakes shook the Province of Coquimbo and other places and strange illuminations were observed last night. A line like a great ribbon passed along the hori

RUDYARD KIPLING ILL

The famous English Poet, Mr. Rudyard Kipling, is reported seriously ill in a private hospital in England.

ASSAULTED HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW

Deseronto Man Faces Assault Charge—Reckless Driver Fined

The way of the mother-in-law was ever hard, and the case of a Deseronto mother-in-law is no exception. Charles Bailey, who resides on the Mohawk Reserve, near Deseronto, but who is not an Indian, assaulted his wife's mother, Mrs. Barnhardt, very seriously it seemed, and as a result he is now in the toils here, having been arrested by the Provincial officers on Tuesday, on a charge of assault.

Bailey appeared before Magistrate Masson this morning in police court, and was remanded until one week from Friday, when his trial will take place at Deseronto, before Magistrate Bedford of that town.

Unclean.

The police gathered in a poor, unfortunate character of the city, while he went his weary rounds Tuesday evening, but the charge is not a serious one. In fact the man was merely brought in for his annual bath under police supervision. The unfortunate man evidently had little use for the water, and was peeved when he arrived at the police station. He refused to have his bath by a kindly hearted minister of one of our city churches, and predicted a renovation by the police department under his supervision.

Two Boys Fined.

On November 6th last, in the morning, when the streets were quite dreary, Everson Templeton and John Earl Davidson, both of 106 Shuter street, Toronto, drove their respective Ford cars down Front street at the rate of thirty miles per, so the police allege. Davidson crashed into a Ford car driven by Dr. Tower, smashed it up some, and injured the doctor. Templeton, however, only knocked off $25 and costs of $4.75 on a charge of reckless driving, when they appeared before Magistrate Mason.

The penalty for this charge is $50 and costs or one week in jail. The boys decided to split the fine.

Neither accused could pay, but both were given one month in which to take up the necessary cheques. Davidson has a chauffeur's license, but did not have it with him. He must mail it to the police here immediately or face another charge. Templeton is not a licensed chauffeur but drives and owns a car.

BRITAIN MAY MODIFY TERMS

May Waive Right to Send Warships Through Dardanelles

Expected to Make Change in Capitulations for Allied Accord

London, Nov. 14—French accepted the British plan for definitionary allied agreement on the terms to be made the Turks at the Lausanne Conference relieves the tension which has existed here and at Paris for the last week.

Lord Curzon is to-morrow the British Government will send a note to Paris embodying its views on the Turkish demands. A reply is expected on Thursday. On Saturday Foreign Secretary Curzon will cross to the French capital to confer in person with Premier Poincare. Both will meet Premier Mussolini of Italy at Lausanne Sunday to complete the allied agreement.

The United States will not be represented at all these conferences, though she will have an observer at the conference proper. The United States has no desire to modify the capitulations, under which the rights of foreigners in Turkey are guaranteed, and in freedom of the Straits.

Great Britain is prepared to make certain modifications in the capitulations. It is thought she will also be prepared to accept commercial freedom of the Straits, but not waive the right to send warships through. This will probably meet United States views, as will a modification of the capitulations if the French and Italians agree.

The Turks are also demanding a plebiscite in Western Thrace. The British insist the Maritza River be made the boundary. The French propose besides a neutral zone on both sides of the river to keep the Greeks and Turks from fighting.

The Turks demand a plebiscite in Mesopotamia and part of Syria. Both the British and French will reject this. Bulgaria is asking an outlet to the Aegean, but this does not meet with British approval.

ALLIES TO PROTECT THEIR OWN NATIONALS IN CONSTANTINOPLE

Kemalist Governor Concedes in Principle this Right to Armies of Occupation—Anxious Situation Eased Momentarily—Two French Consuls Expelled by Asia Minor and Greeks and Armenians Reported Fleeing.

Constantinople, Nov. 11th.—Rafet Pasha, the Nationalist Governor of Constantinople, today conceded in principle the right of 15 Allied forces of occupation to exercise police control over their own nationals. The Allies are understood to have pressed for similar jurisdiction over the minority populations, but Rafet refused. He agreed to a further discussion of the subject tomorrow with the Allied generals.

Rafet's concession of the right of the Allies to protect their nationals and his seeming spirit of conciliation has eased the anxious situation momentarily. Under the terms of the original demands of the Kemalists for complete control of Constantinople, the subjects of the Allied citizens were liable to arrest and imprisonment by Nationalist police, pending a situation which would be tantamount to abolition of the first principles of the capitulation making the position of foreigners in Constantinople untenable.

In order to facilitate the departure of Greeks and Armenians from Constantinople, the Allies have decided to waive passport formalities. The Allies do not apparently to relieve themselves of as much responsibility as possible for the protection of lives of minorities whom the Kemalists forbade to sign, but the city.

Angora's response to the Allied refusal to evacuate the capital, it is understood, will agree to respect the Mudania convention, provided the Allies give similar assurances. The Kemalists will accept the right of the Allies to interfere in the internal affairs of Turkey; they will respect the rights of the Allies, but will not admit of occupation in the military sense.

Another disagreeable aspect in the general situation has arisen from reports from Brusa that two French consuls have been expelled by the Kemalist soldiers. The French authorities here have vigorously protested to Rafet Pasha, the Nationalist governor of Constantinople, demanding an immediate explanation and assurances against a repetition of such offenses.

FRENCH CONSULS EXPELLED
Constantinople, Nov. 11th.—The French consuls at Mersina and Adana in Asia Minor have been expelled by the Kemalists. They arrived here Monday. They were appointed under the Bouillon pact to insure protection to Christian minorities.

The French consul at Brusa was expelled a week ago but apparently the news has not become to that city accompanied by a Turkish Nationalist officer to superintend the removal of thirty French residents.

A number of leading French merchants in Constantinople met at the French embassy Sunday and drafted a strong memorial to their Government, declaring that the commercial interests are threatened with ruin if the Turks are allowed to continue their present policy unchecked.

Fine Address on Constantinople by R. J. Graham Who Visited City

Mr. R. J. Graham was the speaker today at the weekly luncheon of the Lions' Club at the Chamber of Commerce building, and gave a brief but interesting talk on Constantinople, which city he and his family visited on their tour around the world. At Budapest the train was taken and Constantinople was reached. This city is really three cities. At the time of his visit some 80,000 British troops were in the city and some thousands of French soldiers, as the city was virtually under military law. Constantinople can be reached from three sources by water. It is the most cosmopolitan city in the world, as one place in the city you can stand and see one motley throng of people of all nationalities and of all dress. The money in circulation is Turkish money. One of the days he was there was the Greek Christmas and it was the 19th of January. In the hotel where the members of the family were staying was an immense Christmas tree upon which were presents for the guests in the hotel. The speaker explained minutely the night he witnessed of the Sultan going to worship, which is done every Friday. It was a most interesting pageant. The Sultan's palace is situated on the Straits, and after all sees are erected on the Bosphorus Straits, Mr. Graham described a the bazaars of the city, which are in that city. These bazaars were largely filled with things brought from the interior of some very high value. Pearls, rugs, works of art and statues were in abundance and were most suitable in design. The celebrals were visited. The floors are covered with rich Turkish rugs whilst the architectural designs are magnificent. The mode of religious worship was explained by the speaker. "The Mist and cold will probably keep many women at home, and it was expected, women, who are taking part in this election in numbers for the first time, would be a decided factor.

Dissolves which accompany most elections were absent except in a couple of East End constituencies and in Dundee, where Communists went in for a deliberate policy of breaking up meetings. Otherwise the contests have been conspicuously dull.

It is expected the first results from the North will be known about 9.30 to-morrow night. By two o'clock Thursday morning 226 members of the New House will be known, leaving 339, including the county members, to be declared Thursday.

In normal elections all parties feel that they have certain parliamentary interests. Not so now. The Conservatives are conceded to have the best chance of winning, but Premier Bonar Law permitted himself today to hope for only a dependable majority." This is taken to mean thirty to fifty. The Conservatives could do very well with a majority of thirty, whereas Liberals usually need more than one hundred to take independent views.

Beyond a vague feeling that the Conservatives will win because of their peace and tranquility policy, there is nothing to indicate which way the election will go. But if Labor gets the 250 seats it now claims, it will be the most stupendous upset ever recorded in this country. Labor is expected to poll heavily in the north, but lose ground in the Midlands and Scotland.

FREE STATE SOLDIERS VOTE BY WAY OF MAIL PROXY

Dublin, Nov. 14.—The Electoral Bill will be introduced in the Dail (Irish Parliament) on Tuesday. It provides that no policeman may be registered as a parliamentary elector, and that Free State soldiers may not cast a vote but will be permitted to do so by mail or by proxy. Soldiers, however, will be the only persons giving this privilege.

SPECIAL SERVICES SUNDAY EVENING

Every Church in Belleville to Hold Special Evening Service for Men Next Sunday

On Sunday evening next, special services will be held in all the churches of this city, and said services will all be particularly for men of the city. The various pastors and rectors are preparing strong sermons, which will be delivered from a man's standpoint to men.

Special cards are being printed, and the Junior Boys of the Y.M.C.A. are going to distribute these cards to each home in the city, urging upon the men in the evening invitation to attend service in some city church Sunday evening.

Every man should attend some church next Sunday.

REPRESENTATIVE OF TURKEY GOES TO FRENCH CAPITAL

Ismet Pasha to Discuss Matters With the French

Lausanne, Nov. 14.—Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish Nationalist delegation, left for Paris tonight to discuss conference matters with the French. His departure has created all kinds of speculations concerning attempted reconciliation of the views of France and England.

Although some are of the opinion that the Lausanne conference may never be realized, official arrangements continue vigorously. The British and United States representatives are due to arrive the latter part of the week.

BONAR LAW'S SUPPORTERS CEDED VICTORY

This Result of To-day's Elections Conceded In London

London, Nov. 14.—The fog that descended on London today fitly symbolizes the condition of the public mind about tomorrow's election. All calculations may be upset by the fog if it persists, and the forceful prediction is made that there are still tens of thousands of tons of soot still hanging over England.

Mist and cold will probably keep many women at home, and it was expected, women, who are taking part in this election in numbers for the first time, would be a decided factor.

Dissolves which accompany most elections were absent except in a couple of East End constituencies and in Dundee, where Communists went in for a deliberate policy of breaking up meetings. Otherwise the contests have been conspicuously dull.

It is expected the first results from the North will be known about 9.30 to-morrow night. By two o'clock Thursday morning 226 members of the New House will be known, leaving 339, including the county members, to be declared Thursday.

In normal elections all parties feel that they have certain parliamentary interests. Not so now. The Conservatives are conceded to have the best chance of winning, but Premier Bonar Law permitted himself today to hope for only a "dependable majority." This is taken to mean thirty to fifty. The Conservatives could do very well with a majority of thirty, whereas Liberals usually need more than one hundred to take independent views.

Beyond a vague feeling that the Conservatives will win because of their peace and tranquility policy, there is nothing to indicate which way the election will go. But if Labor gets the 250 seats it now claims, it will be the most stupendous upset ever recorded in this country. Labor is expected to poll heavily in the north, but lose ground in the Midlands and Scotland.

BRITISH VOTERS ARE SWARMING TO THE POLLS

British Elections Create Great Interest

Few Venture Any Forecast of Results

London, Nov. 15.—The electors of Britain swarmed to the polls by millions today in England, Scotland, Wales, and Ulster to elect for the Fourth Parliament of the reign of King George Fifth. No element in how development has lessened the uncertainty of the result. Few of the prophets who venture forecasts tie new strings to their predictions. Mr. Bonar Law made it clear yesterday at Glasgow that he would be dissatisfied with anything less than an independent Unionist majority.

Experienced observers who are now here, express strong confidence in such a result, however. Gamblers betting on the result in London insurance market yesterday had to pay a rate which indicated that the majority of Conservatives and Independent Unionists over all other parties, was regarded as almost certain, but the odds were 7 to 3 against the expectation that the Conservatives would get a majority of eighty or more. The morning papers today earnestly appeal to the electors to exercise their discretion and to take nothing for granted.

ERROR IN LIST, BABY VOTES

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Nov. 15.—Quickly, twenty-nine months old, will be carried to the polls at Barrow today to cast a vote in the British general election. The infant was one of many, whose names appeared through errors in the list of registered voters.

TURKISH DEMANDS NOT FAVORABLY REGARDED

London, Nov. 15.—The British Foreign Office, it was stated in an authorative quarter to-day, has telegraphed to the French and Italian governments a memorandum in which Great Britain declares that the main Turkish demands which are to come before the Near East peace conference at Lausanne are not regarded favorably by British Government.

ASSURANCES GIVEN ALLIES

Constantinople, Nov. 16.—The Turkish Nationalist Government has given formal assurances to the Allies, that the stipulations of the Mudania armistice agreement will be respected.

ELEVEN DROWN AS LAUNCH SINKS

Meagre Details Reach Quebec from Berbimis—Accident Occurred on Monday

Quebec, Nov. 15.—Despatch to Quebec from Berbimis, on the north shore of the St. Lawrence, reports the drowning of eleven persons by the launch containing eleven persons was sunk and all perished, according to the meagre details which reached Berbimis. The names could not be ascertained, but Rev. Father Tortelotte, Eedlo Missionary, was among the victims.

CENTRAL EXECUTIVE PROPOSED

Montreal, Nov. 15.—The formation of a central executive of the unemployed association for the whole of Canada is being discussed by the Montreal Unemployed Workers' Association. The Association is in touch with the Unemployed Workers' Associations throughout the Dominion and the formation of a Central body is expected to take place in the near future.

MUSIC & DRAMA

REX PRESENTING GOOD OFFERING AT GRIFFIN'S

Something entirely different from anything they have so far presented here, in "Some Jane," the four act Knockerian comedy-drama, which the Rex Stock Company are presenting at Griffin's tonight.

"Some Jane" serves to reveal the versatility of this talented company. Rex Bealgrove appears to advantage in the role of Ted Redburn, a "sheriff in Kentucky. Zana Vaughn appears in the role of Kate Verne and gives her usual capable performance. Florence Wilson of Mrs. Joe Verne, and Howard Byers as Joe Verne, the village Blacksmith, delighted their many admirers by their capable handling of their respective parts.

The comedy characters of the story are in the ever reliable hands of Hazel Williams and Joe Kelly, who have the audience in a continual gale of their amusing antics, the vaudeville specialty presented by this pair between act Two and Three is one of the most amusing specialties presented here by this company in many weeks. "Some Jane" is well worth seeing.

SATURDAY EVENING POST COMEDY AT REGENT TOMORROW

Jacqueline Logan is playing the leading feminine role in "A Perfect Crime," a comedy-drama from the popular Saturday Evening Post story, and the newest Allen Dwan production which is being exhibited for the last time at the Regent Theatre, prior to the Contract signed with Mr. Dwan, she was twice starred and starred such night through Ziegfeld Midnight Frolic, but claims now that she'll never—no never—don't the silent drama. Her work in the lead in this feature role in the Dwan picture reveals her as a little lady of exceptional talent as well as that unusual grace and beauty for which all the Ziegfeld girls are famous.

"Mine the Wife" a two reel Hallmen Bern comedy, Fox News, and the latest chapter of "Robinson Crusoe" serial are being exhibited on the same program.

BESSIE BARRISCALE AND WALTER McGRAIL AT REGENT TOMORROW

The new J. L. Frothingham production "The Breaking Point," in which Bessie Barriscale will be seen supported by a cast of well-known screen favorites, will be the featured attraction at the Regent Tomorrow to Saturday, Matinee daily.

"The Breaking Point" tells a tale of society,—life as it is lived today in the highest social sets,—and it is said that Paul Scardon, who directed it, has succeeded in creating an singularly true and vivid a picture as the screen has ever known.

Miss Barriscale plays the role of Ruth Marshall, a girl who, upon learning of the death of the man to whom she has given her heart, contracts a marriage of convenience with Richard Janeway, a wealthy waster.

Janeway tired of her shortly after their marriage and the only link which binds them together is a child who has been born as the result of their union. Ruth's entire life centres about this baby, and when she learns that her husband is planning to take the child from her and sail for Europe with an old flame, she takes a desperate step to prevent his doing so; a step which, however, leads her to ultimate happiness.

Prominent in Miss Barriscale's support is Pat O'Malley, seen here in two Marshall Neilan's productions, "Go and Get It," and "Dinty"; Wilfred Lucas, newly returned to the screen after a prolonged visit to Australia; Winter Hall, an actor of rare ability; Walter McGrail, who, despite the unsympathetic role which he has been called upon to portray, will win many new admirers; Joseph J. Dowling, who created the title role in "The Miracle Man," and who, after that was starred in "The Kentucky Colonel and "The Spenders," two Herkimer-released productions; Ethel Grey Terry, remembered for her splendid work in "The Mystery of the Yellow Room"; Eugenia Besserer, a real aristocrat of screendom; Lydia Knott, and Irene Teague, the child actress.

Vodevile Movies with an all new high class vaudeville program, Pathe News, a Star Comedy, and "The Riot" a two reel Jimmy Aubrey Vitagraph comedy are being exhibited on the same program.

"BRINGING UP FATHER" HERE TOMORROW

A production calculated to open a new departure in the way of original musical comedy endeavor is scheduled for presentation at Griffin's theatre on this, November 16th. It bears the euphonious title of "Father on His Vacation" and is based on the internationally-popular cartoons of George McManus. "Bringing up Father." All the beloved characters, from the Hibbsfort, yet ever-welcome Jiggs, down to Dinty, "Father's" nemesis, will be seen in the flesh. They will cavort, make merry, and "carry on" as it were through new and fresh adventures, to the tune of lively melodies, witty and laugh-provoking dialogue; screams, surprises, innovations, novelties, infectious fun, completing an entertainment certain to create an insatiable demand for what is best and wholesome in modern amusement.

PILOTLESS AIRPLANE LATEST WAR ENGINE

Washington, Nov. 14.—The pilotless army airplane, equipped with an automatic control device said to be more accurate and dependable than any human pilot, has been developed to a point where it has made successful flights of more than 90 miles, it was announced today by the United States Army Air Service. The announcement declared the results produced after a long series of experiments constituted the "most important post-war development of the many novel ideas of new engines of war," it was added.

THE ROMANCE OF EATING

Physicians have discovered that the stomach beats just as the heart does. This seems to give novelists a wonderful opportunity to revive the literary interest in eating and to make it sound more thrilling than ever before. For instance:

"His stomach skipped a beat as he saw the bread pudding, but he did not flinch."—Chicago News.

Evening Gowns With An Air of Triumph

And the secret of it lies with the season's Velvets and Radium Laces. Taffetas in pastel shades, also figure, trimmed with metal lace. A draped Gown of Black Velvet assumes an air of stately simplicity with round neckline and sleeveless armholes, its only trimming a feather bip ornament. A Frock of Green Velvet reveals very novel draping, with metal lace and a gay little flower at the side. A charming model is one of Burnt Orange Radium Lace over Satin, depending on panels of self material for trimming. These and many others make up a very attractive and moderately priced showing of Evening Gowns.

Crow's Nest Pass Railway Rates and King-Crerar Log-Rolling

An Interesting Sidelight on How Railway Rates Were Manipulated

Herewith will be found an extract from the Grain Growers' Guide, (July 19, 1922). This is worth reading because its figures are tolerably accurate.

Reduced Freight Rates.

"On June 30 the Board of Railway Commissioners announced a reduction of 7½ per cent. in the rates on certain basic commodities, such as forest products, building material, brick, lime and plaster, potatoes, pig iron and other iron commodities. The rate on grain and flour was fixed by parliament in the legislation relating to the Crow's Nest Pass agreement, and the Board of Railway Commissioners, in arriving at the reduction on the other commodities, took as a basis the figures of the C.P.R. in their offer of reductions preceding the decision on the Crow's Nest Pass Agreement. The C.P.R. estimate of the loss of revenue on their offer was $6,238,669, of which $5,254,139 was on grain, leaving $2,984,230 to be distributed among other commodities.

"The president of the C.P.R., however, estimated that the Crow's Nest Pass Agreement on rates would mean to his company a loss of $7,150,537, and the reinstatement of these rates therefore left $1,179,933 to be distributed by the board among other commodities, and the board estimated that this amount would be equal on present traffic to reduction on the commodities mentioned of 2½ per cent.

"The board estimate[d] that the reduction provided for by parliament and the 7½ per cent., together with the reduced international rates of 10 per cent. ordered by the United States Interstate Commerce Commission and which came into force on July 1, would reduce the revenue of the C.P.R. by about $17,000,000 and that of the National Railways almost as much. These reductions the board felt were heavy enough to be going on with. The new rates come into force on August 1, except those on grain which became operative on July 6 by statutory renewal of the C.N.P. grain rates."

It will be recalled that when the question of whether railway rates should continue to be fixed by the Railway Commission or be fixed by legislation was before Parliament last session, the railways agreeing, as everyone agreed, that the time for reduction in rates had come, specified the aggregate extent of the reductions that would be possible and what, in their opinion, would be the fair and reasonable rate on western wheat under such a scale. By a piece of political log-rolling the result was that all was left to the Railway Commission except the rates on western wheat and flour which were fixed by Parliament on the old Crow's Nest Pass basis. This basis was somewhat lower for Saskatchewan and Alberta than were the figures offered by the railways. It contained the same rates for the province of Manitoba.

The editorial clearly shows that the Railway Commission being of the view that the aggregate freight was as far as could be gone at the time, simply lessened the reduction on other commodities in order that the total annual reduction to the railways on everything should be no more than what was offered. In other words, the outcome was that other shippers, that is to say the public in general, had to pay higher rates than they would have had to pay if there had been no fixing of rates by Parliament for political purposes. The Ontario farmer, the Manitoba farmer, in fact all shippers, are therefore paying higher rates today than is reasonable under the circumstances in order to make up for special privileges granted last session to meet the political exigencies of the King government. Ontario Progressives, as well as the Manitoba and Maritime conference voted for these obvious injustices on the people of their provinces.

BALKY HORSE DRAWS CROWD.

Considerable excitement was aroused this afternoon at the entrance to the Old Homestead feed stables on Front street, when a crowd collected to witness the efforts of a horse which adopted the simple attitude and refused to budge with a load of baled paper. After much persuasion, the animal was finally persuaded to proceed and the carter went on his way.

AGED ENGLISHMAN HAD RELATIVES HERE

The Western Morning News and Mercury published at Beer, England, has the following reference to a funeral which took place there recently of a Devon Centenarian.

The funeral took place on Saturday, of a well known Beer resident in the person of Mr. Henry Nicholas Bartlett, of Fairfield, Beer. Deceased was 103 years of age having been born at Watercombe farm, Branscombe, on April 2nd, 1819, being the second son of the late Edward Ford Bartlett.

He enjoyed good health up to about ten months ago, but since then has been more or less an invalid.

In the younger days, Mr. Bartlett was a keen fisherman with the rod at Colyton, where he was in business as an apothecary. He was a non smoker for about 82 years and also a total abstainer, and to this fact he attributed his long life and good health. He was in full possession of all his faculties up to a recent date, and could read and sign his name up to a few weeks ago.

About a year ago he attended Branscombe Church for Divine service. A generous subscriber to the fund for the restoration of the church, he practically defrayed the cost of the new vestry, which about two years ago was dedicated for Peace. He was a great walker, and at the age of 92 walked from Beer to Colyton church and back, a distance of some eight miles. He served as an apprentice to the chemist's and druggist's profession, with Mr. John Croom, of High street, Exeter, and later went to Shepton Mallet as assistant to his uncle. He then went into business at Feltham, Norfolk, and finally founded a business at Colyton as chemist and druggist, where he remained for many years, retiring about 50 years ago after which he lived in London for a time, and also at Carmarthen, Wales. He came to reside at Beer about 12 years ago.

KINGS CONGRATULATIONS.

Deceased was the last of seven brothers who died at an age ranging from 70 to 82 years. He leaves one son, Dr. Henry Bartlett, at present in New Zealand, who is 84 years of age. He has several nephews and nieces in Canada and the United States and one nephew in London. The late Mr. Bartlett was very proud of a leter of congratulation from the King, which he received on his 100th birthday.

The funeral took place at the Parish Church, the Very Rev. A. V. Baker (Dean of King) officiating. Those present were Miss Kinder, Rev. Brown Tucker, Dr. Tonge, Mr. H. Tonge, Mr. Hayson, Chard; and Dr. Hockridge, Beer.

Mrs. D. E. Cree residing on Wilson street in this city is a niece of the deceased.

son over the sea from south to north this being repeated every two or three minutes. The people were so alarmed that few slept, fearing a new catastrophe.

Banditry and Looting.

Reports of banditry and disorder in the earthquake district, together with news of additional earth shocks and intimations that the calamity has reached appalling proportions, caused the Chilean Government today to consider the advisability of sending troops to Coquimbo and Atacama to reinforce the regular garrisons, which are too small to cope with the situation and aid in relief work.

Outlaws broke out last night in the town of Vallenar, the chief sufferer from the earthquake, where it is estimated 1,000 of the inhabitants perished, while reports of robberies and holdups came from other places in the affected region.

Dispatches state that a stretch of territory along the coast for 140 miles and to a depth of 25 miles has been almost denuded of its habitation. Witnesses of the Valparaiso earthquake of 1906, which destroyed much of that city say this is far worse.

Destruction of sections of the main railroad in this district and the branch line which serves the inland territory, as well as the twisting and cracking of the wagon roads, makes it impossible for relief to reach the destroyed towns, except by packing the supplies on mules.

Province in Ruins.

Valparaiso, Nov. 14.—The inland town of Freirina is almost completely ruined, and scores are dead there as a result of the disturbances of last Saturday, according to a wireless message from the cruiser Chacabuco, which has arrived at Huasco. The population of Freirina, numbering 3,000 persons, has been cut off from outside communication until today.

At Huasco the sea rose ten metres, destroying the waterfront structures and wrecking numerous craft. Several were drowned by the huge waves. A tug was swept inland two kilometres.

FRENCH ARE PREPARING NOTE

View of Paris to be Outlined and Sent to Lord Curzon

Paris, Nov. 14.—A note embodying the French view of what should the Allies should take at the Lausanne conference with the Turks is being prepared at the Foreign Office. It will be sent to Lord Curzon as soon as Foreign Secretary Curzon's statement of the British position arrives.

Meanwhile Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation is coming to Paris for a talk with Premier Poincare.

Improvement of entire situation with regard to the Near East is reflected in the Paris press, which with astonishing unanimity urges the Premier to be less pugnacious in his attitude toward Britain. Even writers like Henry Dutreuil, of Le Matin, and Raymond Recouly, of Figaro, who sympathetic to resistance to the British case. At the same time they criticize the Quai D'Orsay for its "exaggerated pro-Turk feelings."

Pertinax, of L'Echo de Paris, declares roundly that France is as determined as England to use force if necessary to control the Turks to respect the Mudania convention.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DRIVE; MEMBERSHIP IS PROFITABLE

Getting Out and Becoming Acquainted With Businessmen Is Worth Much Money

A Trifle in the time and it learning capacity, for the builder has to depend upon growth and development for his income. If no houses were built, if no factories or stores were erected or remodelled, there would be no construction work for the skilled man to do. Thus, it is seen that here too the Chamber of Commerce is a business investment—a matter of dollars and cents.

For the business man, the professional man, or the manufacturer the personal benefit derived from being an active member of the Chamber of Commerce is still greater. All their investments in Belleville grow and become profitable only when Belleville grows. Anything they do to help Belleville grow comes back to them in the increased value of their holdings or business in Belleville.

It's a plain matter of dollars and cents no matter from what angle one looks at it. In other words, an investment in a membership of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce pays bigger dividends than anything ever offered in the security market and it's a safe—much safer—investment.

Social and Personal

C. G. I. T. GIRLS ENTERTAIN

Miss Merry Was Presented With Life Membership Certificate of W.M.S.

The Canadian Girls in Training of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church entertained the Apex Trail Rangers at a banquet in the Sunday school room, last evening, November 14.

The occasion of the banquet was the presentation of a shield for securing the highest number of points in the National Athletic Contest for Ontario. Out of a possible 500 points, the Trail Rangers won 491, which was also the highest number of points in Canada.

The girls of the C.G.I.T. presented Miss Merry with a life membership certificate of the Women's Missionary Society.

The program, which was in the hands of Toastmistress Helen Cooper, consisted of a Toast Relative to the C.G.I.T. group, was as follows:

Nora Teit proposed the toast to "The King and Country, after which all sang the National Anthem and "O Canada."

Then Mr. S. Thompson proposed a toast to the Sunday School, and was responded to by Mr. Wm. McIntosh.

Miss Hannah proposed a toast to the Trail Rangers, to which Mr. Edgar Buchanan suitably replied.

Albert Armstrong proposed a toast to the C.G.I.T., and Reta Stevens responded.

Arthurcan Fulton proposed a toast to the new Taxis Square to which Harvey Ross responded.

Then the Shield was presented by the Rev. Mr. Kerr to the Trail Rangers, and received by Douglas Moore and Grace McIntosh presented Miss Merry with the life membership certificate.

The toasts were interrupted by songs from the C.G.I.T. song sheets.

On arrival the guests were given names and sat in families, and at the end of the banquet each family gave a yell.

The banquet ended with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

ONE TO FILL

Simpson was employed as a hod-carrier on a big building job, and had been instructed that he must carry up fourteen bricks in his hod. One morning the supply of bricks ran out, and although he tried his best he could only find thirteen to put into his hod.

One of the masons on the sixth storey staging heard a loud yell from the street, and shouted down, "What do you want?"

"Throw me down one brick," called out Simpson, pointing to his hod, "to make my number good."

It Is A Fact

That many persons continue to wear eyeglasses long after they should be changed, and that many, many a person is right now suffering the penalty for neglected eyestrain that a thorough examination of the eyes would reveal.

Extensive investigation of this subject indicates that a large percentage of those who would be comfortable and better off in every way if their visual defects were corrected, don't ever suspect that the lack of proper glasses is at the bottom of their trouble.

FIRE AT INDIAN RIVER

At Indian River, Peterboro County, on Monday night fire destroyed the service garage of Mr. Frank Vann. The loss to the garage and other buildings that were consumed by the fire is estimated at about ten thousand dollars. The fire originated from a lamp that exploded, and in a few minutes the fire was beyond control. Mr. Vann, who had his residence over the garage, lost in addition to the garage and an Overland car, the contents of his home. Mr. Vann's loss is placed at two thousand dollars. The Farmers' Dairy Company had a quantity of material stored in the burning building. The company's loss is estimated at $2000. Soanes Bros., general merchants, had a store house filled with flour, feed and other merchandise. The loss on this will amount to about $5000.

SPOTTERS OPERATE IN LINDSAY

Convict Two Doctors and Two Druggists on O. T. A. Charges — Other Cases Pending

Two druggists and two doctors at Lindsay have paid heavy fines during the past few days for breaches of the Ontario Temperance Act, and a third doctor faces six charges. Detectives, or "spotters," as they are termed, from Toronto, made the rounds of several establishments on October 30th. They represented themselves as being from a show, "The Hat," playing at the Academy Theatre. They stated, in one instance at least, that they had some "wild women" who wanted a drink, and that as they were going to have a party, they wanted some liquor.

They were received by one doctor with a wink and a comment that they didn't appear very sick. The men advised him that they were not sick, but were healthy and wanted to have a party, saying they were from the show, "The Hat." The doctor said "Who sent you to me, boys?" and they told him "the big Scandinavian from the theatre." He immediately wrote out a prescription for each of them, charging each 50 cents.

The two detectives went to the office of another physician late in the afternoon. They told him that a druggist told them to try him for a script, that they were from the show "The Hat," and that they had some "wild women" who wanted a drink. He said, "I will give you a script on my druggist's recommendation, but don't send anybody else to me." He made out a script for each of them at 25 cents each.

The detective stated that two of his scripts were exchanged at a drug store for $1.25 per bottle and one at another drug store at $1.25 per bottle all on the same afternoon. The other detective also received three scripts at the same store at the same time.

ARBUCKLE THROUGH His Three Unreleased Pictures to be Scrapped

New York, Nov. 15.—Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle's film career is at an end, so far as Paramount Pictures Corporation is concerned. This concern pulled down the distributor of Arbuckle pictures for the last few years.

It was announced today that Paramount had decided to scrap Arbuckle's last picture unreleased at the time of his trial in connection with the death of Virginia Rapp, and discard them as to much dead wood.

The picture and film members are said to have cost $500,000 to produce.

BILL HUGHES TO COACH QUEEN'S

George Awrey Now About Set Not in Condition To Coach

It was announced yesterday that W. T. (Bill) Hughes, of Montreal, will be continued on as football coach at Queen's for the balance of the season—this, apparently, in the belief that through Mr. Awrey will be out West for some time he will be in no condition to take any active part in the coaching. However, Mr. Hughes was first suggested by Mr. Awrey himself, so that the arrangement would seem to be satisfactory all around.

As for the story that comes from Montreal that this will be the last year for Mr. Awrey at Queen's, he is unable to say. Mr. Awrey came here under a three year contract which has yet another year to run. When he was first approached that he had little or no hope of developing a championship team within three or four years and yet in the first year which was last year, Queen's just missed the championship by one point, while this season most of his vegetable illness Queen's had been developed under him into a great football machine which seemed destined to sweep everything before it. The only game lost was that of last Saturday, and it was lost in the last few minutes. It might have been lost even if he had been there but one thing is certain there would have been no such Waterloo as there was.

Mr. Awrey has the confidence of the great mass of Queen's graduates here and everywhere, to say nothing of the students. More to the point, he has delivered the goods. Under his coaching Queen's for the first time in years has for two successive years been put on the football map and has been more generously and generally advertised than at any time in its history. There are remarkable ons not be gainsaid, and they are results that had not been produced by Queen's for many years previously.

In view of Mr. Awrey's illness, however, it was naturally and generally conceivable that another coach would have to take over for the time being and it was announced that Mr. Hughes was available and was willing to come. His assistance should be both timely and valuable and he will be heartily backed up in his efforts to develop the team as Queen's next Saturday. He is well liked and very much in demand.

That the members of the team, themselves, appreciate that they have a hard fight ahead of them and realize that the faith and the hopes of Queen's men all over Canada are pinned to them is evidenced by the serious way in which they are buckling down to their practices this week, and by the further fact that they are all now quartered and sleeping in the Hart Arena so that so far as condition is concerned they will be in the very best condition when they enter the game at Montreal on Saturday next.

Announcement as to the arrangements for the tickets for the game will probably be made Wednesday, and as to the number allotted to Kingston and Queen's.

SEVERE RUGBY CURE

Kalamazoo, Mich, Nov. 13.—Because seven of his players fumbled the ball on Saturday's game with Valparaiso University, Coach Ralph Young, of Kalamazoo College, gave each of them a football at the close of the contest and ordered that they carry the pigskin with them every where they went during the next week. Should any of them be found without the ball in his possession, no matter where, the coach said they would be thrown off the team. Kalamazoo won from Valparaiso, 14 to 13, the visitors making their two touchdowns as a result of fumbles.

BELLEVILLE BOY WITH GUELPH TEAM

Among the boys who will don the Guelph colors for the first time this winter are Lawrence Gore, the former Belleville junior player; Jack Mitchell, last season with the Hamilton Tigers, a youngster named O'Learn, who was one of the stars with the Kingston Frontenacs last year, and another junior, Dafoe, who hails from New Brunswick and who is said to be a real comer.

"Rep" Tripp, who was with the Stratford intermediates last year is also reported as a prospect for the Guelph line-up this winter, as he has been working with a local concern, and qualifies under the residence rule here.

TWO GAMES AT DOMENICO'S ALLEYS

Domenico's Five took a fall out of the fast bankers when they rolled a perfect score of 2507. Although the bankers won the first two games the alley five came back strong in the third game and not only overcame the lead but won out by a safe margin. In the second game the Naturals Tread fell down before the heavy blows of the bankers. It seemed that the bankers were going to get even with the shoe boys for the trimming they got from the first team.

BILL COOK MARRIED

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 14.—The mystery of Bill Cook's journey to the East from the West where he is to play pro hockey this season, was solved yesterday afternoon when he was quietly married to Miss Clara Lycett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lycett, McGregor Avenue.

Bill's trip to the Sault has been a source of wonder to the Sudbury Wolves, who accepted his presence here as an attempt to get into the Greyhound line-up this season.

Bill is a former Kingston player, starring with Frontenacs, and has many friends there extend their heartiest congratulations.

QUEEN'S STILL GAME

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 13.—Mr. George Awrey, when spoken to by the Canadian Press this morning declined to make any statement on the game Saturday. "Not being at the game," he said, "I cannot comment on the play, but the score was certainly not one that was expected. I sincerely believe that the heavy condition of the ground had a lot to do with the poor showing Queen's made, but I am sure that on good ground next Saturday we will give Varsity the greatest battle they ever had, and I am confident we will win." Mr. Awrey, while still suffering from rheumatic fever, stated that he would be out on Wednesday and take charge of the team. He is very anxious to get into action with the team, and feels that an eleventh hour rally will bring the team to the top of the heap.

QUEEN'S ALIBI

The opinion has been voiced that the changed system of work on the line as directed by Billy Hughes, the Montreal coach, threw the focals out in their play and confused them. There may be something in that but it is not thought likely that Hughes attempted to do very much changing in two days.

RUGBY PLAYER DIES FROM INJURIES

American Quarter-Back Dies From Broken Neck Sustained in Game

Philadelphia, Pa. Nov. 12.—Andrew ("Jacks") Lang, aged 20, of Binghamton, N.Y., star quarter-back of the University of Pennsylvania freshman football team, and described by his fellow-students as "one of the gamest kids that ever wore moleskins" died at the University Hospital this morning from injuries received in a game against Mercersburg Academy a week ago Saturday.

Lang's death was second in the history of University of Pennsylvania football—the first occurred during practice on the field. For a week, with a broken neck, this youngster with the perfect physique put up a battle for life that astounded surgeons and nurses who have worked to save him. Since his injury he has been completely paralyzed from his shoulders down.

The one remaining game on the freshman schedule has been cancelled.

Lang was a bear for punishment. He gave it and took it. He tackled hard, head on, neck stiff, and it was in the third quarter of the Mercersburg game that he made a flying tackle on a Mercersburg back. Lang hit him head first and fell like a log.

As a result of Lang's death all classes probably will be suspended at the university on Wednesday. Monday his funeral will take place in his home town of Binghamton. The entire freshman football team will leave Philadelphia to attend the services, and a guard of honor, to be appointed from the membership of the freshman class, will be named by the temporary class president to accompany Lang's body from Philadelphia to Binghamton to-night.

EXCELSIORS WIN BOWLING GAME

At the Y.M.C.A. Bowling Alleys last night the Bell Telephone and the Excelsior teams were competing in a league game. The Excelsiors won out by a slight margin and secured two games out of the three string. Sharpe for the Telephone boys was high for the three strings, namely 509, whilst R. Woodley of the Excelsiors was high in a single game, namely 199. The players and scores were as follows.

SENSIBLE VIEW OF SUNDAY BALL

Willian Bigby, Joseph Bender, Fred Brown, Joseph Springstead and Cecil Baden, all of Hamilton, played ball on a vacant lot on Sunday, November 5. Hence there was a disorderly charge against them in Police Court Tuesday morning.

"They'd better be playing that than craps," said his worship. "I don't see the harm in it. They go up to the golf links on Sunday."

The boys were dismissed, the magistrate telling the constable not time to bring the people who complain of Sunday ball playing as witnesses.

VARSITY BURNED

QUEEN'S COLORS

The action of several Varsity supporters burning up Queen's colors on the Princes' street bridge last night, in addition in Kingston and while the act is not attached to the same followers of the Blue and White, it has caused much anger among citizens as well as students. It is fortunate that there was not more than a small crowd at the time. The special trains not got out so quickly, it is feared that there might have been a near riot, the students were so incensed and rightly so.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Nurse Recommended Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Tothwell, Ontario.—"I was weak and run down, had no appetite and was nervous. A nurse who took care of me told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I am getting strong. I recommend your medicine to my friends, and you may use my testimonial."—Mrs. D. Martin, R. R. No. 2, Bothwell, Ontario.

The reason why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming woman's ills is because it contains the tonic, strengthening properties of good old-fashioned roots and herbs, which act on the female organism. Women from all parts of the country are continually testifying to its strengthening, beneficial influence, and as it contains no narcotics nor harmful drugs it is a safe medicine for women.

Lydia E. Pinkham's "Private Text-Book upon Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

RESIDENCE RULE RESOLUTION

The semi-annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association was held Tuesday, afternoon. — P. M. Kennedy, president, was chairman.

It was resolved that all leagues and associations affiliated with the O. B. A. should adopt the same residential rule as prevails with them—that is, all players should reside in the town for which team they play, by January 1st, each year.

The resolution will be sent to the annual meeting.

KINGSTON COP EXHIBITS REAL WIT

Lets Ottawa Sportsman Down Flat in Short, Snappy Verbal Duel

Kingston possesses a policeman who is a wit. Maybe he is an Irishman, sometimes policemen are. At all events he slipped a nice one over on an Ottawa guest on the Varsity-Queen's game at Kingston last Saturday.

When Jack Imlay arrived on the Ottawa train at the inner station (which is about three miles out of town), he asked a cop to direct him to the Richardson stadium.

"You go up to this street," he pointed. "Then you keep on going and it heads around almost to the stadium."

"Heads around?" questioned Jack. "Why in Ottawa where I come from everything is laid out straight."

"Well," retorted the policeman, who like most of the Kingston constabulary of the peace who come in contact with the bright students, is ever ready with a bit of snappy repartee, "in Kingston we know as dead as slaves, at a football town, perhaps it might be laid out straight, too."

Why Corns?

Just say

Blue-jay

to your druggist

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in a colorless clear liquid (or dry—see No. 11) and in thin plasters. The action is the same.

The Chamber of Commerce is the combining point for all Bellevillians. It recognizes no classes, no religious beliefs, no political issues. It has one creed and only one—Belleville.

Community welfare and civic progress are common causes. In these movements, all good citizens share the responsibility equally and their final objective is the same.

As members of the Chamber of Commerce working for something to help Belleville, we cease to be Liberals, Conservatives or Progressives, Protestants or Catholics, employers or employees—we are Bellevillians. The only qualification for membership is good citizenship.

Belleville does not belong to any one individual or group of individuals; it belongs jointly to all of us. Whatever we do to develop Belleville must be done jointly and for our mutual benefit. One individual cannot do much; a group of individuals cannot do much; it calls for united action—everyone pulling together for the common good.

If you are proud of Belleville and desire to hasten her progress towards the splendid destiny which is surely hers, you will be a member of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Woman's Sphere

CON-NE-WAH-BAM.
(Portrait in the Royal Ontario Museum.)

CON-NE-WAH-BAM—"one who looks on stars"—(Feel the singing wind from out the Western hills)
The tip-end of a swan's wing is her fan,
With a handle of porcupine quills.
Here is an unfamiliar name, Paul Kane,
Painting in forty-seven, at Edmonton, I see.
That was when prairies were unsettled,
And untamed this young Crow.

What an incantation in her name,
Magic in her dark face underneath the stars;
There is a sword-like wind about it wrapped,
And echoes of old wars.

Con-ne-wah-bam,
When tattle shells were rattling,
And the drums beat for the dance
In the great hall of the Father's house till dawn,
You sat without the door
Where the firelight on the floor
Caught the red of black-eyed squaw mocassins.

At evening through the grassy plains the wind
Came shouting down the world to the open door;
Answered with flame his shrill barbaric yell,
And died like whining fiddles at his feet.
And through it all the constant sound of drums.
Did your feet move to drums?

The cups from near and far,
Cups from Cobalt, Kirkland Lake,
And a Blackfoot Brave or two,
Made rhythm of a dance that moves like Nirvana
To the rush of wind, and rattles swung in time—
To the constant, constant, constant beat of drums.

No Indian woman dances in the light.
Silent they sit together out of sight.
But to-night I think this Artist from "the East,"
Who had come to paint the natives himself,
Found a splendid flare of crimson on the final
And moved away the open door
Where the firelight on the floor
Caught the red of beads upon your mocassins.

So it is, O Con-ne-wah-bam,
Who were wont to look on stars,
That you sit forever here
Like a wild lost note from far,
From the days of ancient war
And of towered stockade and gun;
In the Edmonton of seventy years ago

In your buckskin and your beads
(Feel the sudden wind from out the Western hills)
The tip-end of a swan's wing is your fan
With a handle of porcupine quills.

CANADA WOULD HAVE CLAIM

"Philadelphia, Nov. 14th.—Canada would have a claim on some territory in Maine, if the United States entered the League of Nations, Sir Aldrew McPhail of McGill University, Montreal, told the Trans-Atlantic Society here yesterday. He said that wherever territory in Maine contiguous to the Canadian border was practically worthless to the United States, it could be of local desirable value to Canada because of its proximity to the St. Lawrence.

THE INDEPENDENT GIRL IN PARIS

(By Suzanne Lenglen, in The London Daily Sketch.)

With the race of "independent" girls' end by foresetting their chance of home, happiness, and the replete hold of old age."

They have done so in Paris, and, to a less degree, the French provinces.

The Parisian—whether youngster or old buffer—has grown afraid of the real-war girl. Although his personal fear was the complaint of the Englishman in 1907, the French national character has been given so little to change that the great matrimonial crisis of today cannot but trash us something, late as the episode is in our own life.

Let us epitomise the position across the water.

The Frenchman's Ambition.

Progeny, as a name to give it, is to this very day the root idea of French life in spite of the children few who live on limelight. But instead of a surplus two million women from which to choose, Paul, the Paris "school" boy, has no job to taste a husband while she is young. Does she expect to be rub after when she is passe?

Paul does not know, but, after all, he reflects, bachelordom in Paris is not such a trial.

For the modern Parisienne did not develop in the same equable manner as the British girl. The war flung her violently forward. There were just a few of her in 1914. "My old," she would tell Ferdinand then, "you've got such funny ears. I must ask my biology professor about them.... No, not the Follies tonight; I have to dine with my broker. Rails went to bits on the Bourse to-day, and I must plan things."

The damned Ferdinand really. But when he married she was not pressed.

Happy Parisiennes.

To-day this girl, instead of being a curiosity, is a common type. She does not realise that she is playing into the hands of Paul's selfish side, for, with colossal common friends, he finds it cheaper not to marry at all.

There are two points of view in every dilemma. We will analyse the woman's and the man's.

Armed with degrees, the study for which bought her scepticism and not content; able in theory to earn a living that in practice would never come her way (no, she does not try to apply her theories); fit to eat a figure in many sports, but to stay is few; ready to bruise the shins of any man while she "picks up" the latest dance step, Mlle. 1922 finds her glibness may very supply when her tooth aches. If she were the woman of a few years ago she could cry herself to sleep; if she were Paul she could nurse herself into relief.

"Previous Experience!"

But she is neither. Her sisters are all as "hardened" as herself, and all the men she knows are afraid of her. Poor child!

The man's case is not much better. Widows and divorcees, declare the statistic books, are snapped up by every marriageable man. Why?

The modern girl is beyond his comprehension. The great undertaking of marriage needs a certain stolidity unliable than versatile. His wife must be understandable and homely, for he might get a headache sometimes. The only alternative to marrying an unknown quantity is to choose a woman who has already occupied a place in someone's home.

Poor Paul!

CURZON TO SEE POINCARE; BOTH TO SEE MUSSOLINI

London, Nov. 14.—Lord Curzon, British Foreign Secretary, has arranged to discuss the Near East question at Lausanne with Premier Poincare at Paris on his way to the scene of the Near East conference. Both will confer with Premier Musolini of Italy at Lausanne on Sunday.

LINKED LIVES

By

D. Kinmount Roy

"The Lord has delivered him into my power"—Magalpin. MacAlpin, with his curious and fantastic notions was a gentleman with an unusually keen sense of honour. Kinkman—the Squire rose in a spasm of disgust and loathing before he finished the sentence, 'is a villain through and through."

He paused, a trifle perplexed by his vehemence, which was evidently sincere, and then murmured as he dropped into his chair, 'He has been a useful villain, nevertheless, and I have offered him enough to bind him to my service as the rest of his life. It must surely be safe enough.' And so the Squire, with his unfailing belief in the world, and quite satisfied that all was well and regular between them.

The fact was, Kinkman, ruffian as he was, was not just as black as he was painted in the mind of the cynical and prosperous old one. He had experienced moments of self-loathing and revulsion, glimpses of a better life, when he longed to unburden himself of the story of his misdeeds, and to take his punishment, whatever it might be, for the satisfaction of saying, 'Kinkman, you are a man and not a monster, and you can claim some human rights still.'

But these good impulses faded before the possibility of acquiring money; and under the overwhelming desire to grow rich, he slowly deteriorated, until he became the cunning, unscrupulous wretch, we find him. He knew, despite his weakness, he studied to know the weaknesses of men he came in contact with, and he kept his knowledge to himself. He was most attractive before the wretched creature, calculating, with devilish discrimination, on the greed and his inability to resist. Nothing, the Squire thought, was so useful as understanding a man's weakness, and knowing how to bring to the surface the scum of his nature; nothing helped so much to make a man malleable for the plans and purposes of his employer.

"Some men's characters are like an uncle's nest on which a stone rests; you have only to remove the obstruction and stir it with but the point of a straw to have a swarm about you in a instant.'

There certainly was scum enough about Kinkman, and yet there were lingering flashes of a better life, as seen in the fact that he found it necessary to tell himself at times that by-and-bye he would turn over a new leaf, and some day be a fairly good man. That is, he said to himself, 'considering—considering the past'—for he admitted to himself that he could never be quite as good a man as he might have been, had his former life been different. It was borne in upon him in rare moments of unadvised self-realisation that the very substance of his nature had become vitiated, and that while the barrenness he might indeed be broken, the soil could never bear the best fruit in full measure.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' CORNER

The Short Story Ji.

"HARD TIMES" FOR HAZEL

"You're not actually going out on the street in that!" exclaimed Hazel's mother, throwing up her hands in mock horror.

"Why, mother," giggled Hazel. "You! you believe I should take the prize! I think hard times parties are such a funny sports, and to talk fall weather and doughnuts and pumpkin pies." She pulled her bedraggled shawl around her, bringing it down tightly over her head, blew a kiss to her mother, and started off.

She wore her old coat, faded and patched, torn stockings, and a broken pair of old hiking shoes. As a finishing touch she had drawn some black lines under her eyes and daubed white powder heavily over her face, and Hazel's surprise, opened the door and stepped out.

"You poor, dear child!" she cried, with quivering chins. "You look half-frozen. Just get right in here and I'll take you wherever you are going."

Hazel drew back, startled. Then she decided, with sparkling eyes, that it would be fun, if a lark to let them drive her up to the party. How the girls would laugh when she told them about it! She also looked up at them appraisingly and said, with a little shiver, "Thank you, so much, but I'll walk as another block to see about some washing for mother."

The lady helped her into the car and opened the door. Hazel told her the address she wanted to go to. Away went the automobile. "Oh," exclaimed Hazel a few minutes later, "you're passed the house!"

"Indeed we did, my dear," nodded the lady. "I'll wouldn't want you to late when we take you back, but first I'm going to take you up to my house, where I've a dress of my niece's that I think would just about fit you. Then we'll have some nice, hot soup—come!"

Hazel protested in vain. She was ashamed to tell them the truth, and when she was, wedged in between them, while the party was beginning. Tears gathered in her eyes, while the kind lady gently patted her cheek.

The party was almost over, when, properly dressed, she arrived. Then told the two ladies her needn't come in with her. She'd fix things up. So away they went, glad to have helped the "poor little thing."

BRITISH GO TO POLLS TO-DAY

London, Nov. 14.—The last word in British election campaign will be spoken tonight and tomorrow, the electorate will pick a Parliament from 1,300 candidates seeking seats in the House of Commons. In 373 constituencies the fight will be a duel between the candidates of two parties. In 212 other constituencies the battle is complicated by the presence of three or more contestants. Even the most political experts are uncertain as to the outcome.

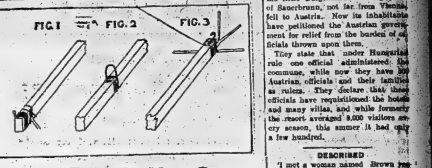

"PEOPLE SHOULD KNOW HOW TO SPELL"

Saskatoon, Sask., Nov. 13.—During a recent address to teachers here on "Experience in Revising the School Curriculum in Alberta," Mr. McNally, supervisor of schools for the province of Alberta, said:

"People ought to know how to spell. There is no excuse for putting an "i" in "acceptable" or spelling "dirty" "dearty."

"Any business man," Mr. McNally added, "will be able to pick spelling errors out of a letter, and there is no excuse for a teacher making them. I am old-fashioned enough to think that, and that's the reason fifty per cent. of our time in Alberta schools is given to the teaching of English and kindred subjects."

Model Aeroplane Building

How to Finish the Motor-Base

(This is one of sight lessons which will tell how any boy can make a complete model aeroplane, which will fly under its own power. Warren DeLancy, writer of the articles, was formerly president of the Illinois Model Aero Club, a group of boys who build and fly their own models and who hold nine of the ten world's records for model aeroplane flying. Clip these articles until you have the complete set, including the directions for flying your machine.)

Begin at the front of the motor-base, upon which the model aeroplane rests when it is upon the ground, are made of bamboo split from a flatpole. The sticks should be about the size of the large end of a toothpick. Four of them are needed, each about three and one-half inches long. These sticks are bound flat to the motor-stick, two on each side, as shown in the drawing last week.

Bind Sticks to Motor-Stick

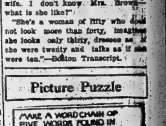

The first two are bound 1¼ inch from the front of the stick, and the others 1¼ inches to the rear of these. The tips of each pair are bound together, as shown in the diagram just mentioned. Now these sticks are held in the steam coming from a kettle and the tips spread about two inches apart. It will be found that they will remain in the position when allowed to cool. This makes a firm landing-gear for the model.

Figures 1, 2, and 3 show respectively the propeller turning, a wire loop which guides the rubber and is called a "can," and the rear hook to which the rubber is fastened. All these are made of music wire, size number 10. The loops can be made very neatly by bending the wire about something round with a pair of pliers.

Make Propeller Soaring

The loop in the propeller hanger, Fig. 1, should just fit the shaft for your propeller and should be entirely closed. Bind the hanger with silk thread firmly to the front of the motor-base. The wire loop or "can," Fig. 2, should be ¼ inch in diameter and placed in the middle of the motor-base, where it keeps the rubber, when wound, from buckling. The hook at the rear, Fig. 3, serves to hold the rubber in place.

"If only everybody would read that—"

"What a wonderful thing it would be, if all the worn-out, miserable, suffering people would heed this great truth—why it would mean everything to them—just as it did to us."

WINDSOR POLICEMAN ABUSED PRISONER

Police Commissioners and Aldermanic Committee Delve Into Charge

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 14.—That Albert MacCauley, the Windsor patrolman accused of mistreating a prisoner, had beaten up two prisoners prior to the one he is alleged to have abused a short time ago, was brought out in evidence before the special aldermanic committee and the Windsor police comission, at the resumed hearing into the charges last night.

The session was held for the hearing of further evidence, following the statement of members of the police commission that evidence taken at former sittings had not been sufficient to show that MacCauley was not a fit man to hold a position on the force. The aldermanic committee had promised to submit further evidence, and Monday evening it made good its promises.

PALESTINE MANDATE DEMANDED BY TURKS

Jews in London Embarassed by Angora Government

London, Nov. 14.—The Jewish Chronicle informs the correspondent it has received confidential information from Constantinople saying that the Angora Government has been urging the Chief Rabbi of Turkey to organize demonstrations by Jews demanding that the Palestine mandate be taken from Great Britain and given to Turkey.

The Rabbinical Consistory has held two long sittings to consider the dilemma it is now confronted with. If they yield, they will place themselves in opposition to world Jewry. If they refuse the consequences may be serious for Jews in the Near East. Finally the Chief Rabbi replied that the mandate had always held aloof from political questions.

But, according to the Jewish Chronicle's information the Government is still urging him to send a delegation of Turkish Jews to Lausanne to claim Palestine for Turkey. No reply has yet been sent, but the situation is regarded here as extremely serious, for Jews in the

TURKISH PRESS OPPOSE VIOLENCE

Defiance of Allies, Also Harshness and Decrees Deplored

Manchester, Nov. 11.—[Special correspondent of Constantinople wires the Guardian that a certain amount of opposition to the Kemalists is becoming apparent in the Constantinople press. With the exception of the Sabah, whose editor, Ali Kemal, was recently kidnapped and hanged, all the leading newspapers have been as intensely Nationalistic as allied censorship would allow.

But now the violent charges preced by the Angora Grand National Assembly, especially the suppression of the Sultanate and the replacement of the caliphate to a mere shadow of its former power, have created growing opposition. The harshness with which these decrees were enforced and the rashness of the Kemalists in defying the Allies are also protested.

Several papers are expressing their dislike. The Renin, edited by Ahmed Jarid, one of the ablest and most courageous journalists in Turkey, "deplores the revengeful, intolerant spirit the Nationalists are showing." The paper also warns against excessively narrow or uncompromising spirit at the Lausanne conference."

The Terbid Elkoar, which has ceased recently been drastically Nationalistic, now continually criticizes the new regime.

USE OF PRIVATE MOONEY FINDS COUNTERPART IN HISTORY

(Associated Press.)

London, Nov. 14th.—The action of the German Government in allowing certain firms to print their own money in small denominations, recalls a somewhat similar state of affairs in the early years of George III in this country.

In those days the amount of copper coin in circulation was totally inadequate, and tradesmen all over the country issued tokens of their own which attained almost equal standing with the regular coinage. One manufacturer in Birmingham issued over 3 million pennies and 2½ million half-pennies in the course of a few years, and these coins were current in circulation in 1780 outnumbered the genuine article.

CAMPAIGN FOR MEMBERSHIP

Teams Engaged for Members of the Chamber of Commerce Report

A spirit of optimism prevailed at the noon day luncheon today of members of teams of the Chamber of Commerce who are engaged in a campaign to secure members for this worthy organization. In the absence of Mr. H. F. Ketchison, President, Mr. W. B. Deacon, Vice-President, occupied the chair.

After the luncheon had been partaken of the captains of the various teams were called upon to report and the returns made were of an encouraging nature. The total membership secured up till to-day was 65, while the members reported to-day was 91 making a total of 156 in the three day's campaign.

Mr. J. O. Herity the Secretary, impressed upon the canvassers the necessity there was of actively getting busy, but a full altogether should be secured as least 200 members in order that the work of the Chamber of Commerce can be successfully operated. He also referred to the fact that three years ago when the campaign was on for members the returns for the third day showed only 120 names secured.

Whilst it is apparent the desired number of members will be secured there will have to be activity displayed by the various teams and in some cases they prove to be too slow but task, but a full altogether should prove effective.

WET ELECTION INSIDE AND OUT

Fog Kept Many Persons From the Polls, But It Kept No One From Places Where Results Were Posted

London, Nov. 15.—To-night London is more like an election night than it ever was before. Thousands crowds gathered to hear the returns, the cheering and gayety, are here, and there is the added attraction of unstinted supplies of alcoholic refreshment.

It is indeed a wet election, inside and out. The gloomy weather man's prediction of bad weather has been fulfilled and the fog that has hung over the county for four days was still encompassing London.

It was idle to keep many persons from the polls, but it kept no one from the theatres, restaurants, hotels and others places where returns were posted. Ten bands drew their crowds to the hotels and dance clubs that employed them. The public generally seemed to have taken little interest in the election itself, but it went mad over the celebration just the same.

Fortunately for the revellers, the choking fog lifted a bit after the polls were closed. Consequently the dense crowds of humanity that poured into the Strand and West End like a flood could at least see each other, and it continued a regular "pea soupers" there must have been an amazing traffic tie up.

The value of the Scholarships are as follows:—(1) To the competitor who obtained the highest aggregate of marks, $100.00; (2) To the one who ranked second on the aggregate, $80.00; (3) To the one who ranked third on the aggregate, $60.00.

The awards in Hastings County were as follows: Eleanor A. Mawhey, Belleville; Walter J. Rupert, Madoc; Eileen E. Callin, Trenton.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF BELLEVILLE EPWORTH LEAGUES

Addresses Given by Ministers and Presidents of the Various Departments—New Officers Appointed For This Year

The Annual Epworth League Convention of the Belleville District was held at Spencer's church, on the Belleville Circuit, on Tuesday, Nov. 14th.

The afternoon session opened with devotional exercises lead by Rev. J. O. Totten of Shannonville circuit.

Addresses were given by four Vice-Presidents of the District on Christian Endeavor, Social and Literary, Citizenship, and Junior League, each dealing on their respective departments of the work. Many helpful suggestions were brought out.

Miss Ada Bell, in taking up the Christian Endeavor Department, divided the work into five different headings, namely,—1.—Young People's Prayer Meeting. 2.—Monthly Consecration Meeting. 3.—Tenth Week and Spiritual Welfare of the Members. 4.—Sunday School Interests. 5.—Visiting and Relief. Summing up the five points seemed to leave us with the message, "To give consecrated service to God in life and help others to do the same."

Miss E. Peice presented the aims and possibilities of the Social and Literary Department. On Literary evenings we should endeavor to create interest in the Bible by contests and systematic reading. The young Christian must grow intellectually as well as spiritually and it is the business of the Literary department to assist in this. The League should be a training school in which recruits may be helped and taught to give consecrated service to God.

Miss M. Brenton, in dealing with the Citizenship department, suggested several programmes that might be tried out, one in particular, the study of the book "A Study in Canadian Immigration."

Miss E. Berkley presented the work of the Junior League. To hold the teen age girls and boys together in the Junior, Sunday School and Church, is something that requires a great deal of prayer, patience and experience. How can we do this? A Christian young man or woman, who can understand children, should be chosen as leader. Better results will be obtained if it is possible to divide into classes.

Rev. W. Elliott summed up the different Departments and emphasized the important parts.

A duet was rendered by two ladies from Melrose while the offering was being taken.

Rev. R. O. Jolliffe, B.A., on foreign from China, addressed the League in his very capable manner. He discussed the point of Expansion of the Church, off the beaten paths in this land, it will fail in other lands, and everyone should assist in some way in the work of the Missionaries. Mission-ary work is just as difficult to get at, as it was in the days of Paul. The Chinese are very eager listeners, they are so interested in what you say and in their books. The message and ideals of Christ given to the Chinese people, must necessarily be the ideals that we get in our Leagues here to-day.

Discussion and Round Table Conference was lead by Rev. F. E. Malott, M.A., of Bridge St. Church, Belleville. He explained some of the changes connected with the Epworth League as taken up by General Conference in Toronto. One resolution thought among the representatives was to unite the different organizations of the Company. People of the Methodist church. The fact that it was necessary to draft a constitution that would cover all of this work and would be of the nature of "Young People's League".

The afternoon session was closed with prayer.

Tea was served by the ladies of Spencer's church and everyone did justice to the bountiful repast which was supplied.

The evening session was opened with a song service led by Rev. J. O. Totten.

The nominating committee reported the following officers elected as officers for the coming year:—

Hon. Pres.—Rev. W. E. Elliott.

Past Pres.—Mr. G. H. Holton.

President—Mr. Fred Mitchell.

1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. (Rev.) Lane.

2nd Vice-Pres.—Miss G. Kerr.

3rd Vice-Pres.—Miss Edna Paice.

4th Vice-Pres.—Mr. C. Lee.

5th Vice-Pres.—Mrs. J. Kelly, Secty.—Mrs. O. R. Denyes.

Treas.—Miss Ina Liddle.

Rep. to Ann. conf.—Rev. J. O. Totton.

Rep. to Con. E. L. Executive—Rev. H. H. Mutton.

Rev. W. Elliott, of Tabernacle church, Belleville, introduced the new officers.

Excellent reports were given from the different Leagues of the District telling of the work that has been done in the past year. As a banner is given to the League presenting the best report, every delegate is anxious to give the best results of his League's work and everyone was in suspense until the judges decided where the banner was to go for this year.

Miss W. Wrightmeyer, of Holloway St. Church, very capably rendered a solo.

Rev. R. O. Jolliffe B.A., addressed the meeting again in the evening session and certainly gave everyone present an idea of his work in China. His whole life and soul is in the work. A word picture was drawn of the little beggar boy who we left alone in this world with no one to care for and feed them. Often he has gone out on the street at night, to the teacher was sold, to find dozens of these little chaps lying around any place, even on the ash piles. Often he took pity of them to take home and cared for them for a few days, where would they go then or what would they do afterward? He was glad to be able to report that the situation is slowly improving owing to the bubbling up schools, etc. His opinion was that if the Christian church would stand by, the time would come when the Chinese would handle this problem. This is only one small instance in his work of which he made mention. The language of the Chinese is very difficult and requires a great deal of study. The Chinese christian students endeavor to sing or say anything to carry on the work of Christ and often go so far as to completely wear themselves out.

After the completion of Mr. Jolliffe's address, Miss M. Bird rendered a solo.

An invitation from Whitby Church, Bayside Circuit, was extended to hold the next Annual Convention at their church. This was very gladly accepted.

The report of the committee, who were judging the reports of the different Leagues was presented by Rev. Lane, of West Huntington Circuit, awarding the banner to Bridge Street League, Belleville. Mr. Lane, in a few words presented the banner with a few well chosen remarks.

A vote of thanks was given to all who helped to make the convention a success.

All went home determined that they should do everything possible to further the League work along and felt that they had been greatly benefitted by this convention.

UNITED STATES IS INVITED

Will Sit on Turkish Commission

London, Nov. 15.—The United States will probably be invited to appoint representatives to two of the most important commissions which are expected to be evolved as part of the peace terms with Turkey. The Allies will thus request United States interests, commercial and humane, in the Near East.

The first of these commissions will be one to see that the Turkish treaty carry out the guarantees to be demanded of them for protection of the Christian minorities. The other commission planned for a thorough investigation of the capitulations under which foreign businesses has been protected in Turkey.

ILLINOIS WATERWAY PROPOSED

Beardstown, Ills., Nov. 16.—The creation of a navigable waterway, nine feet deep, from the Great Lakes down the Illinois valley to the Mississippi river is a project which will be placed before Congress this winter by senator Medill McCormick.

VAGRANT GETS FIVE MONTHS

Young Man Arrested at Oshawa Charged With Theft of Car

Chief of Police Owen Friend, of Oshawa, this morning notified the Belleville Police Department that they had arrested a young man believed to be from this city or vicinity. The accused youth is held on a charge of the theft of a Chevrolet (490) touring car, license number 45-2-2, number is bright, and is full faced. He wore a dark overcoat. Another man about twenty years of age and two girls formed the party which the Oshawa police broke up.

FIND COLORS.

The local police department is in possession of an Oregonman's badge, which was picked up on Front street on Wednesday. The badge will come in handy next July. It belongs to L.O.L. 3559 Wellington.

"THE WANDERER"

Life, as experienced by the "Knight of the Road" is not all a matter of romance and attractive, when the skies are blue, and the birds are singing in Ontario, but there is another side. Such is the introduction of November winds and rains.

Poor Alexander Orpack, wandering Galician, naturalized citizen of Wednesday afternoon, by his request. In the police court he told something of the unhigh seas of life, wandered into the Police station, and asked to be sent up to the Ont. Hospital for Insane. The police chased him out however, and told him to walk out of the city gates. Belleville had an attraction for even this man however, for he returned again in the afternoon with the same request. He was taken into custody, and appeared before Magistrate Masson this morning on a charge of vagrancy. He was sentenced to five months in jail and on April 15th next, will, if all goes well, be given forth once more for the season of 1923.

RELIEF COMMITTEE WILL VISIT COBALT

Special Train Conveying Party Will Leave Toronto Friday Night

The general relief committee of the Province of Ontario which has in hand the looking after of the fire sufferers of Northern Ontario will leave Toronto tomorrow evening for a visit to the devasted territory. The head of the party will look into the situation and ascertain the actual needs of the sufferers. Mayor Hanna of this city and Mr. H. P. Ketcheson, Mayor of Northern Belgium and Commerce have received telegrams from Premier King, Premier Drury, and Premier Ferguson, invited them to accompany the Committee. A special train will leave Toronto tomorrow evening for the north, and will return on Tuesday next. Mayor Hanna has signified his intention of accepting the invitation to visit the scene.

POLLING WAS VERY HEAVY

Labor Shows Many Gains While Conservatives Though Still in Majority Have Suffered Losses

London, Nov. 16.—J. H. Thomas, Labor leader was returned in Derby with Charles Roberts, Liberal. This is a gain of another seat for the Asquithian Liberals as Roberts defeated the Labor candidate. The poll was remarkably heavy and in many constituencies more than ninety per cent of the electorate cast their votes, including many women. The laborites rally to the polls showed the democratic party organization and also kneeness to carry their men to victory. Their successes were most striking in the northern industrial areas, especially in Glasgow where seat after seat fell to their attack. Conservatives, although maintaining their majority over other parties, have suffered serious losses, and the position of Premier Bonar Law returned were considerably reduced.

DELORME NOT TO ADMINISTER HIS ESTATE

Montreal, Nov. 16.—Rev. Adelard Delorme, at present interned in Beaubebit Asylum, Quebec, after being indicted by Grand Jury on charge of murdering his half brother, Hervé, was this morning interdicted by Mr. Justice Bruneau and declared incapable of administering his large estate.

Quebec, Nov. 16.—A report will shortly be made to Hon. Lionel Groulx nor of the Province on the mental condition of the Rev. Adelard Delorme by Dr. Brochu, medical Superintendent of Beaport Asylum and the appointment of an impartial medical commission to examine the patient once more is likely, in view of the divergence of opinion between Montreal and Quebec specialists. The decision this morning in Montreal by Judge Bruneau to interdict the Abbe.

WOMEN VOTERS OUT IN SPITE OF DENSE FOG

Children Cast Ballots, On Lists by Mistake

London, Nov. 15.—A characteristic old time English election night was seen in London tonight. The old-time pre-war spirit of revelry was there and all the scenes were typically British. During the day a very heavy vote was polled, in spite of the, adverse lack of interest manifested generally before the polling.

The women voters turned out in large numbers in numerous districts, many of them being among the first to record their votes. Many of the voters during the noon hour were women. Not a few of them succumbed to the temptation to take their dogs to the polls with them. One political scout in Putney estimated that the forty per cent of the women were accompanied by their canine pets.

The London policemen, who are world-famous for their courtesy found a new scope for their chivalry in assisting mothers who appeared at the polls with babes in arms. Many of the "bobbies" could be seen standing outside the polling stations holding the crimpled but pathetic little infant offspring of women electors.

The fog continued heavy in many parts of London, and was even worse in some parts of London that the polling booths had to be artificially lighted all day.

Long before nine o'clock tonight, when it was expected the first returns would be coming in, all the trams and buses from the suburbs were crowded with people going towards central London. They came partly to get the election returns and partly for a night of general jollification. Whitechapel and the East End sent their tens of thousands, a majority of them young people in their best clothes.

Fleet Street, where the newspaper offices are clustered, attracted its full share of crowds; it was so blocked around Printing House Square that no plough, through. Most of the traffic-ellers found greater attractions around Printing House Square, but the big department stores, with various devices, such as thermometers and electric arrows for displaying the news, appeared the most popular centers. Famous newspaper cartoonists were employed by some of them to amuse the spectators with pictures on great blackboards between bulletins.

Motors of all descriptions rolled about the outskirts of the crowd, some with lights on the front, packed with humbler suburbanites, nearly all of them flaunting placards with names of candidates.

There was a good sprinkling of soldiers from the different guards regiments, who recently returned the old custom of wearing their blazing scarlet jackets while off duty, many of them with girls on their arms.

Children Cast Ballots.

The spectacle of children casting ballots at an election was witnessed in several cases in England today. Under the representation of the people which provides that if a name is placed on the register of voters, even mistakenly, it must remain unless challenged before election day.

WINSTON CHURCHILL IS DEFEATED

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Nov. 16.—Winston Church-ill was defeated in Dundee.

CONSERVATIVES LEAD AT 3 P.M.

Canadian Press Despatch

London, Nov. 16.—(2 p.m.)—With considerably more than two thirds of the returns in, at this hour, the Conservatives were rapidly approaching the number of members necessary, 289, for the control of New House of Commons. Returns for 444 divisions of the 615, showed the Conservatives 262, Liberals Asquithian 40, Laborites 96, Georgians 32, Other parties 13,

BRITISH ELECTION REPORTS INDICATE CONSERVATIVE MAJ.

Half the Constituencies Heard From—Labor Makes Considerable Gains—Lady Astor is Returned Again—Grant Morden Defeats His Two Workers Opponents—Devlin Defeated in Liverpool—Asquith Has a Narrow Escape in Paisley—Several Canadians Elected

STANDING TO DATE

London, Thursday, Nov. 16.—At 6 o'clock this morning returns indicated that Labor had gained 39 seats in the polling yesterday. The Conservatives were credited with 13 gains, Independent Liberals, 13, and Georgians, 5.

This heavy Labor gain was the feature of the early returns, but it is also evident that if the Conservatives continue to win seats at the present rate they will have a clear majority over all other parties combined of more than fifty.

Mr. Lloyd George, as was expected, is losing much of his parliamentary support, for in 1918 the Coalition Liberals captured 133 seats, while up to date the Georgians have only elected a score of candidates.

Despite the general apathy of politics there is a heavy vote cast throughout the country.

The complexion of the popular vote as the parties had not been finished up to 4 o'clock, but all save a few votes were counted, was:—

Conservative	665,367
Labor	458,782
Liberal	333,651
National Liberal	94,826
Others	49,429

Late to-day the returns from the country districts will be counted and they may show drifts in other directions.

There has been no great surprise. The Conservatives are leading all the other parties combined. The Labor members elected thus far are less than half the number of Conservatives. Even the 444 divisions from which returns were received to-night, except Premier Bonar Law, who won his Glasgow constituency, and former Premier Asquith, who was elected by a narrow margin.

Lady Astor Returned.

Lady Astor comes back to the House from Plymouth, despite the fact that her majority was cut down because of her attitude on the liquor question. She had practically the same support as in the last by-election. The other women candidates have been unsuccessful so far.

Prime Minister Bonar Law remained up till shortly after midnight receiving late this afternoon, inasmuch as there are three non-ruling members including the speaker, there, by making the number necessary for a bare majority of 307. Mr. Bonar Law natives up to that time had captured 319 seats.

London, Nov. 16.—At 4.30 o'clock the returns showed the Conservatives to have more than the necessary 303 members for a majority in the new house. At that hour they had elected 319 members, Asquithian Liberals 55, Labor party 120, Georgians 34 and other parties 13.

This made total of 545 divisions accounted for with 70 still to be heard from.

Gen. Seely Loses

Right Hon. J. E. B. Seely, who was a member of the cabinet of Lloyd George Cabinet, and who commanded a Canadian brigade in the war, was defeated in the Isle of Wight division of Denbyshire, by George Oliver, Laborite.

Two members of the Government were defeated, Col. Leslie Wilson, Chief Conservative Whip who lost to the Independent Conservative, and Colonel Stanley, Under-Secretary for Home Affairs.

Foreign Secretary Curzon's son-in-law, Oswald Mosley, standing as an independent with Liberal support, lost his 4-cornered contest in the Harrow division of Middlesex by over two to one. It has been reported Lord Curzon carried bitterly with his son-in-law over politics, but the foreign secretary's two daughters campaigned freely in his campaign, despite parental objections.

Sir Gilbert Parker, one of Mr. Lloyd George's most unwaltlonal supporters, proprietor of The Daily Chronicle, was beaten in Hoddesdon, Herts.

Gains For Labor.

The first sixteen contested constituencies to report showed five gains for Labor, most of these being taken from the Conservative forces, or as Liberal seats, which is the last bulwark of non-Unionism. All these gains were obtained in English boroughs.

MARINE TRAFFICE AT HAMBURG SHOWS INCREASE.

Hamburg, Nov. 15.—Of Europe's three largest ports, Hamburg was the only one in 1922 to show a gain over last year in the number of incoming ships during the first seven months, the other two harbors, Antwerp and Rotterdam, registered an increase in carrying tonnage, although less ships docked than during the same period in 1921.

From January 1 to August 1, 6,650 vessels put in at Hamburg with a tonnage of 7,268,255, an increase of 1,653 ships and 2,569,425 tons, over the total 1,616 arrivals during this period and Rotterdam, 4,770.

RAILROAD FARES IN AUSTRIA AGAIN INCREASED

Vienna, Nov. 15.—Railway rates in Austria were raised for the second last month, making them now 24 times what they were on August 1, 1922. Even with this heavy increase, it is estimated that the deficit still will be about 1,600,000,000 crowns a day.

The passenger deficit is said to be due largely to the enormous amount of free transportation, or so-called cost price fares, enjoyed by government servants. During the summer it was estimated that at least half the travel was of this class. So far the government has taken no steps toward abolishing the evil.

"Every one," says James Fitzjames Stephen, "must think his own opinions right, for if he thought them wrong they would no longer be his opinions. But there is a wide difference between regarding ourselves as infallible, and being firmly convinced of the truth of our creed."

OLD AGE NOW SIMPLY BAD HABIT

Men and Women Not Old Now at Ninety, Says American Paper

How superfluous was the quest of Ponce de Leon what rubbish some one wrote about "if Youth but knew. If Age but could!" Age not only can, but does. The news is filled with lively octogenarians, save a U. S. paper.

Mrs. Patton, of Georgia, at eighty-seven enters the Senate. "Step on the gas!" yells Uncle Joe Cannon, setting out by motor from the capital for Danville, Ill. "I like the bumps at eighty-seven years, for they remind me of life." Out in Reno Mrs. Pannie Hazlett, only eighty-five, goes up in an airplane and finds it an improvement over the prairie schooner. Mrs. Richardson, eighty, a football fan, of Davenport, Iowa, charters a special car to carry three generations of Richardsons, headed by herself, to the Yale-Iowa game at New Haven. Up in Danbury, Conn., young W. H. Nelson, in his eighty-second year, drives his trotter at the fair and takes a heat in the time of 2.11 1-4.

The mortuari salutatorian idea has gone out of fashion. There is no such thing as being superannuated. Old age is simply a bad habit that nobody need acquire.

The Coat for Miss 12-14

While her Coat must be able to withstand the ravages of schooldays, yet it must have the same standard of style as her big sister's and these qualities are happily combined in our Winter Coats. French Velour and Burberette Cloth in Grey, Brown, Blue and Reindeer, carefully lined, carry out many attractive styles. Stitching, pleats and buttons play their parts, with roll collars, pockets and belts, while some have Beaverine collars. The Reefer style is also represented. 12 to 14 years. $8 to $20.

Concerning the Cloth Frock

A very new caprice of fashion is evident. Jersey and Flannel are the materials; accordeon pleated in the skirt, while the overblouse with bell sleeves or a quaint puffiness at the wrist, is suggestive of Balkan origin. The Navy model with Gold embroidery is very effective, while the "Umbrella pattern" is done in White on Henna. Mohawk Brown with Gold is an captivating as the rest. $22.50.

Our $29.50 Coats are unsurpassed for Value

In Brown and Beaver, all Silk-lined, these Coats of French Velour leave nothing to be desired. Braided, belted and trimmed with Beaverine, their style and value is apparent. $29.50.

Utilizing Nature's Forces To Operate Rich Gold Mines of Northern Ontario

Three Developments Planned by Matachewan Power Company, One of Which Will Be Delivering Power Early Next Year

It is estimated by engineers that the three power sites of the Matachewan Power Company, Limited, whose development is planned to give the gold and silver mining country of Northern Ontario the additional "juice" which that growing industry so greatly needs, can be made to develop 14,000 horse power at a cost of $1,140,000. The cost included $50,000 for a transmission system and $60,000 for conservation of water supply which is made possible at each of the three sites by the provision made by nature in the form of lakes above the dams. In other words, the average cost will be $82.50 per horse power of continuous load capacity.

The Indian Chutes development is at present under construction and the dam will be completed around the end of the year. One unit of the power house is under construction and the work is so far advanced that it is anticipated that it will be in operation early in 1923.

The plant, when entirely completed, is designed to utilize a continuous flow of about 1,000 cubic feet per second and upon the completion of the conservation work such a flow will be obtained without question. It will, therefore, be able to carry continuously 5,000 horse power without taking into account the storage to be afforded by the pond immediately above the dam. With the use of this pond and considering the normal daily fluctuations in load on the system it will be able to carry a maximum of 6,000 horse power every day.

There will be three units in all, the first of which is to cost $200,000. The addition of the second and third units will add about $100,000 each, so that the completed plant will cost about $400,000.

With Indian Chutes alone developed, the investment of the company will be approximately $840,000 for a developed capacity of 6,500 horse power, or at the rate of $98.50 per horse power.

Engineers report that the Big Head Falls site is capable of developing 6,000 horse power at a cost of $240,000 and the Long Rapids site 2,000 horse power at a cost of $160,000. The completion of these would bring the average cost per horse power down to $85.00, or $13.50 less than the cost of the Indian Chutes development alone.

The company is exceptionally favorably situated for selling power to the mines of the district which are badly in need of it. The transmission distance to any of the camps is comparatively short.

Several companies of such importance as Porcupine Davidson, Night Hawk, Peninsula Gold and Matachewan Canadian Gold mining companies are now awaiting the advent of this new power source and it goes without saying that the latter will be an important factor in the further development of the various camps which it will be able to supply at considerably lower rates than existing costs for power.

MUSEUM OPENED IN NEW YORK

Canadians Represented at Opening of Museum For Aborigines

New York, Nov. 15.—(By Canadian Press).—Canada is well represented in the collections of the Museum of the American, Indian Heye Foundation, which late this afternoon was officially opened at a reception attended by officials from Washington, the governors of the various states, and many distinguished scientists and laymen.

The museum which is situated at Broadway and 155th Street in this city was founded by Mr. George G. Heye, who is also its director, for the purpose of solving the problems of the origin of the aborigines of the Western world. Much attention has been given to the culture, developed by the Indians of the Canadian Northwest as they form an interesting and important link in the investigations now in progress. The skill and ability of the Indian tribes of the north is well demonstrated in their handling of woods for they were good mechanics and artistic craftsmen. One of the most striking exhibits which attracted the attention of the guests at the reception was a series of carved wooden feast dishes such as were used by various tribes at their ceremonial feasts. These vessels are the size of modern bathtubs or even larger. In them the natives placed enormous quantities of food used in the entertainment of their numerous guests.

Complete in every detail is a huge totem canoe, fifty feet in length which the Indians of Vancouver Island and of northern Washington used in the pursuit of leviathans which appeared off their coasts. This canoe with the exception of the prow and the upper part of the stern was made from hollowing out the trunk of a tree which must have been fully five feet in diameter. At the bow, the lively-headed harpoon is in place, and in the middle of the craft are the inflated floats of hide which are used in tracing the sea monster after it has been lanced.

Especially complete is the collection of masks used in the ceremonial dances of the Indians. There are also ornate helmets in brilliant colors which show that the aborigines of the Dominion could express their spiritual ideas in a very realistic manner.

Another exhibit shows the high artistic development attained by the Indians of British Columbia as workers of jade. They made arrow heads, knives and also ornaments by cutting and polishing nephrite found along the course of the Fraser River. With infinite patience, they cut the hard green stone into strips and slabs with tools of sand alone. The various processes of their art are shown by objects in every stage from the crude blank to the highly polished and finished product.

That these Indians of the open places of the great north had a vivid imagination, is shown by the fantastic effigies which they carved for use in their religious rites. The array of staffs which were carried by the medicine men or shamas, includes many carved images representing the spirits supposed to have appeared to those seers of the aborigines.

Many members of the local Canadian Colony in New York attended the opening of the new museum.

WATERLOO POSTMASTER ENDS LIFE

Kitchener, Nov. 15.—George Diebel, for nineteen years postmaster of Waterloo, committed suicide by hanging himself in the lavatory of the postoffice of Waterloo this morning between 8 and 9 o'clock. Coroner J. F. Hoskerter today decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

Worry, it is thought, was a contributing factor in Mr. Diebel's death, he, it is said, having been greatly troubled over matters of his administration in business. The body was discovered by George Sugget the post office caretaker.

FASHION NOTES

Coats for the coming season will be worn as long as the dresses, so that they have no relation to the dress underneath, making the coat more important than ever. It is not only a coat, it is a costume.

Not much embroidery seems to be the fancy of the season. This comes in strong contrast to the elaborately embroidered and decorated gowns of last season. Much cut steel and many jet ornaments are worn.

London, Nov. 16.—The Conservatives are bertain to have a majority over all other parties in the new house of Commons, as was announced at four o'clock this afternoon that 305 Conservatives had been elected. Nineteen Coalitionists and 108 Conservative, laddgfs SEE HRDDD and there were 104 divisions still to board from.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Peking, Nov. 16th.—Measures for the immediate release of the foreign missionaries that were kidnapped by the Chinese bandits were demanded of the Peking government today by British, United States, Italian, French and Swedish ministers who acted under the instructions of their respective governments.

MUDANIA TERMS TO BE RESPECTED

Formal Assurance Given Allies Regarding Agreement

Constantinople, Nov. 15.—The Turkish Nationalist Government has given formal assurances to the Allies that the stipulations of the Mudania armistice agreement will be respected.

The Kemalists state that they accept the presence of Allied troops within the limits laid down by the Mudania convention and declare their readiness to discuss with the Allies measures for their security.

They reiterate, however, their demand that all interference in the form of control by Allied troops of the Turkish internal administration shall cease.

The foregoing declarations are contained in a note which Rafet Pasha, the Turkish Governor, will present to Ajes Allies this afternoon.

It is regarded as significant that the note makes no reference to observance by the Angora authorities of the Mudina armistice agreement of 1918, or the Paris note of the Allies, sent on September 23, the attempted violations of which constitute the gravity of the last Allied note.

GUN DISCHARGED, SERIOUSLY HURT

Allan Davis, of Wolfe Island, Shot While Duck Hunting

Kingston, Nov. 16.—The first hunting accident to be reported in this locality occurred this morning at Big Bay, four miles down Wolfe Island, when Allen Davis, aged 25 years, son of Allen Davis, of Wolfe Island, was accidentally shot and very seriously injured.

Mr. Davis and Mr. Card of Wolfe Island had gone from the village down to Big Bay in a small boat. They had decoys with them and Mr. Davis was pulling his gun out of the boat, having grasped it by the muzzle. The gun went off and the charge received the force of the discharge. Part of his left arm was badly torn and a large hole was made in his left side three inches below the heart.

Mr. Card, who was with Mr. Davis at the time, immediately summoned aid, and Dr. Spankie was called and attended Mr. Davis. James Reid's motor ambulance was called from Kingston and made the trip down to Big Bay after crossing on the Wolfe Islander, which made a special trip over to Wolfe Island and brought Mr. Davis back here. He was taken to the General Hospital, where he was attended by Dr. I. G. Dupart.

Mr. Davis' conditions is reported to be very serious. The wound in his side is a bad one. He is a returned man and lost one of his legs at the war.

HUMORIST COMMITTS SUICIDE

New York, Nov. 14.—Arthur Crawford, widely known among writers and artists as "A.C." committed suicide in a revine in the Bronx by shooting himself through the heart. He was an actor and humorist and for years had supplied artists with ideas for their pictures. He left the stage in 1896 to write for humorous publications.

Crawford was born 55 years ago in Montreal and was a graduate of the Royal Military College, Kingston.

HIS JOB WAS SAFE

A newspaper that was not making expenses decided to economize, and accordingly two reporters and a special writer were dismissed. The other employes became nervous with the exception of one man who showed no symptoms of uneasiness. He worked in what was known as the art department, for the journal published a great many pictures. Asked if he had had no qualms as to the stability of his job, he said: "Oh, no. They can't fire me." "Why not? They are cutting all along the line." "Wnal, I figured that the paper can't afford to make a cut in its art department. You see we have so many subscribers who do not read."

Melba's Little Vanity.

Melba! the famous singer, has a very pretty wit. One rather likes this story which has just been told of her. Some years ago, she turned up unexpectedly at a charity cafe-chantant in London, and put everybody in a flutter. It was too good an opportunity to be missed, and the organiser of the charity rushed to Melba with outstretched hands.

"How delightful to see you here!" she exclaimed. "Everybody wants to hear you sing badly."

But Melba shook her head.

"Then I'm afraid they won't," she said, "because, you see, I can't."

THE FIREPLACE COMES BACK.

In pioneer days the open fireplace not only warmed the house — a part of it, but cooked the meals for the household. The coming of the kitchen range and the box-stove hailed as a blessing, and in many cases the fireplace was closed up as an obsolete and useless thing. It is easy to reproach the farmer and his family for lack of sentiment and sentiment means, but, having regard to the conditions, they were right. They were forced to think of utility and convenience alone. The saving of labor for the overworked wife and mother was enormous, and in cool days shelters the stove, and afterward the furnace, far exceeded the fireplace in practical usefulness.

But now that our houses are provided, in country and city, with modern conveniences for cooking and heating, the fireplace is coming back. It makes the home more homelike, and provides a centre for family gatherings, which, as Charles Dudley Warner says in "Back Log Studies" can never be supplied by a hole in the floor. It is not a mere heating apparatus. It is a picture, landscape in miniature, a garden where the longing and changing flame is the flower. To see it in its full beauty, turn out the lights and let glowing embers through the room teach light to counterfeit a gloom."

In the present scarcity of fuel this praise may seem to be tantalizing, but the fireplace has a more omnivorous appetite than the furnace, and will burn wood, peat, or any kind of coal. Wood is the best of all, and there are still parts of Canada where its price is not prohibitive. Even the imitation coal made to glow by gas or electricity is not to be despised as a source of warmth and cheer, and a pleasant addition to the register and the radiator.

A MOMENTUOUS ISSUE

When the little church on Main Street and its adherents decreed the prohibition of liquor in the United States they little thought they were endangering the sacred American institution of mince pie and plum pudding as well. But so it appears, as a federal judge in Chicago has been asked to restore these indispensable articles to their pre-prohibition standing when brandy was a legitimate ingredient.

The judge will recognize the national appeal made by mince pie. Without it Thanksgiving Day and even Christmas loss their flavor. Devotion to mince pie is a link in the United States chain connecting us time and tradition, and if this application is refused the name of Judge Page will go down as one of the traitors to his country.

OUR DAIRY INDUSTRY

The obstruction which the Fordney Bill causes, relative to the exportation of Canadian cattle to the United States, is clearly indicated in the following figures:

Exports of Canadian Cattle:

Year	No. Head	Value
1917	195,529	$14,819,241
1918	246,000	21,990,870
1919	540,490	51,038,270
1920	303,456	22,402,490
1921	222,207	9,881,037
1922 (*January to September 30.)	148,208	7,028,008

Thus it will be noted that instead of the Canadian cattle raiser supplying the United States market with from one-quarter to one-half million head annually, the quantity has decreased to a nominal figure.

On the other hand this situation has caused the farmer to more effectively develop his dairy production and considerable stock is to be wintered. At auction sales throughout the country, prices bid for ordinary grade cows, nevertheless, are astonishing, from $60.00 to $100.00 having been recently paid. This would seem to indicate that the average farmer is well prepared for feeding throughout the winter and especial relative returns from butter and milk sales later on.

The dairyman in this section will doubtless find it most advantageous and remunerative to more firmly, if possible, entrench themselves in the production of milk for the cheese making industry. The extremely high reputation enjoyed in Great Britain by cheese made in the Belleville district is too well established to be jeopardized in any way, and this existing high standard has not been achieved without a great deal of consecutive effort.

The possibility of New Zealand cheese definitely supplanting our product in the British market will be shown what nullified and made more remote, if the man-ufacturing standards at present in vogue go on speculating with and, mainly, if the farmers retain their interest, obtain and increase their herds and establish a precise plan of greater milk production.

The present prosperity of Hastings County is more or less due to the cheese industry which has flourished here for many years. Let us concentrate all our resources towards its continued functioning. Let there be no legislative blunders nor inefficiency in any department that will interfere. Let there be no dissatisfaction, discontent, nor revolt amongst the producers interested and the producer may rest assured that his financial returns will be not only adequate but as "certain as sunrise."

Here and There

HOW FLOWERS TELL TIME OF DAY.

There are several varieties of plants which foretell changes in the weather, while not a few of them indicate the time of day often with unerring accuracy. A botanist points out the following examples of time telling plants:

When the flowers of the common chickweed expand fully, no rain need be anticipated for four hours or more. But should its small flowers be half concealed, it is advisable to prepare for rain.

When the flowers of the Siberian sow-thistle remain open all night, it is a sign that rain will fall the following day.

If by 7 o'clock in the morning the African marigold has not opened its petals, prepare for rain during the day. The scarlet pimpernel and the convolvulus fold their leaves upon the approach of wet weather.

The flowers of the alpine whitlow-grass, the feverfew, and the white-green have a peculiar habit of hanging down during the night as if they were asleep. This act serves to protect the fertilising dust from injury by moisture or rain.

In addition to these there is a variety of flowers that close and open at certain hours with remarkable regularity.

The flowers of the goat's beard open every morning at dawn and close regularly about noon.

In the Malay States there is a 4 o'clock plant which opens its flowers at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and closes them exactly twelve hours later.

The flower of the common dandelion possesses a peculiar means of sheltering itself from the power of the sun. It closes its petals entirely when the heat becomes excessive. It has been observed to open in summer at half-past 8 in the morning, and to collect its petals toward the centre at about 9 o'clock at night.

MUSK AS A MEDICINE.

Musk is used by Chinese apothecaries in compounding medicine, especially for children. It is also much in favor among Chinese as a perfume. As a base for general perfumes it has the effect of making them more lasting.

While the musk pod is by far the most valuable part of the deer, yet its worth and utility does not end there. The venison is considered a great delicacy. Among other kinds of flesh, the Chinese place venison from the adult deer first. The hide is also of commercial value, being remarkable for its softness.

The musk ox of the north is destined, in the opinion of a celebrated arctic explorer, to attract greater attention as a useful animal. Its fleece is considered by experts to be of as good a quality as sheep's wool, and its flesh has long been known to be wholesome and palatable, and the only mean worth mention that is available to the low human inhabitants of the frozen plains of Greenland and the great barren reaches of the northern latitudes where the musk ox dwells.

YOUR BEST.

"Give me your best," this old world cries,
"My best's for the one who bravely tries;
Give me of your brawn and brain,
Forever will follow in its train—
Talent what you put in, not what you take out,
The harvest will come without a doubt.

"Give me your best," this old world cries,
"Your best before the swift time flies;
The largest world grasp before he has paid,
It slips through his fingers, and he is dismayed.
With much leisure and pleasure, he goes on with Jaugh,
He reaps a great harvest, but 'tis only of chaff.

"Give me your best," this old world cries,
"My best's for the one who bravely tries;
Polish your talents, till they brightly shine,
Success and fame will be gifts of mine
Give as bread upon the waters cast,
Full returns looked to you at last."

PRESS OPINIONS

PROGRESSIVE POLICY

(Toronto Globe.)

Progressives are severely critical of the older parties, and in some respects their criticism is just. Politicians sometimes forget that parties are not ends, but means for public service, and that they are worthy of support only as they serve the country. Principles, which are the salt of partyism, are sometimes forgotten, and even when such evils as corruption and patronage are lessened there may be undue attention to the desire for party victory and to the price of power. The Progressive movement is good in so far as it compels the older parties to concentrate their energies upon public service.

Progressives and other independents, however, have been reminded that there are certain inherent difficulties in carrying on the government of the country. In some Provinces they have obtained power and undertaken the responsible duties of power, and they are confronted with some of the problems and difficulties of the older parties. They must keep friendships and alliances, they must use some of the old contrivances for obtaining power. If by any chance a Progressive party were called upon some day to form a Government for Canada, it would be under the necessity of winning some urban support, for the urban and rural populations of Canada are almost "evenly balanced." Those who would exclude all big farmers from the Progressive ranks are consistent only if they decide to repudiate the support of Progressives taking part in the government of the country. A strictly class government of Canada, like a government wholly of farmers or exclusively farmers, is out of the question.

An occupation group in Parliament, holding itself aloof from the Government and also from the official Opposition is a possibility. It may, however, create a difficult situation. At present the Progressive group in the House of Commons not only holds the balance of power, but exercises in numbers the official Opposition. Even against its will, it must take sides in the conflict of the old parties. When it votes with the Government there is Liberal rejoicing, and when it votes with the Opposition there is jubilation in the Conservative ranks. Within certain limits this is a whole some influence. Parties must make their appeal by argument and deed to the judgment and conscience of independent men. But if it should go so far as to render it impossible for government to be carried on steadily by any party, it would be the direct cause a revulsion of feeling toward the old two-party system. People would say that they were willing to put up with imperfect government, but they must have steady government of some kind. The revulsion might easily go too far back to the old ideas and arguments, would be supplied to the enemies of independent thought and action.

Mr. Crerar, in counselling moderation, is acting as true friend to the Progressive movement.

LOADING IT ON THE NATIONAL

(Mail and Empire.)

The decline in the net earnings of the National Railways and C. P. R. for August, compared with a year ago, is attributed to the fall out in grain rates. The restoration of the Crow's Nest Pass rates on grain have already increased freight rates by $8,000,000, and will, in the season's movement of Western grain, reduce them by $12,000,000. While this is a big saving to the producers, it means that the country, as a whole, will have to bear much of the loss in the form of larger operating deficits for the National system.

In August, the operating deficit of the National system amounted to about $800,000. A year ago, there was an even balance of operations. A surplus of $500,000 shown in September of last year, and about $1,000,000 in October. Grain has of the grain movement in the new-year rates has an effect similar to that shown in August, it may be hardly lower than in 1921. Assuredly the arbitrary fixation of Western rates, according to a plan agreed on in 1907, may be very unjust and damaging to our railways in 1922. The C. N. R. may stand to lose, but the National system has too many non-paying, settlement lines, and loose extensions, to afford the loss of reasonable profit on any major traffic movement. From a political point of view, the Federal Government and the Progressives would rather bolster up the support of the Western grain producer by unreasonable railway rates than subsidize that public treasury against unnecessary big railway deficits.

The restoration of the Crow's Nest rate on grain was a political sop to the West, but has left the bulk of the Western farmer been any brighter this season because of it? Have any of these "class" concessions made the farmer prosperous? If the National Railway system is to be put on its feet, to disappear as a burden on the public purse, then it hadn't be operated on business lines with rates that are fair to it and fair to the public, and without maintenance. The setback in its financial progress, owing to the Crow's Nest rate concession, is not a matter to be lightly dismissed.

BRITISH ELECTION

Labor won a big victory in East-Middlesex Division, Ct. Wilson capturing the seat from the Georgian, V. W. Cassy, by a vote of 14,966 to 7,862. Cassy was elected for the last house with a vote of 13,368 in the Labor to candidate's 6,539.

Another exciting Labor gain was in Newcastle-on-Tyne. Central Division, where C. P. Trevelyan, one of Labor's "Intelligentsia," defeated the retiring Conservative, George Renwick. Renwick had a majority of 4,338 over the Laborite in the last elections.

Mr. Trevelyan was Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Education in 1924, when he resigned from the Government as a protest against the policy which involved Great Britain in the war.

Labor gains also included one each in Oldham, Arkwick Division of Manchester, Batley, Rochdale, and the Gloucester Division of Cheltenham, the Liberals made gains in Walsall and Preston, and the Conservatives again in Dudley.

Battersea North was a Labor gain of 3,000 votes, Labor, 13, 311; Hanbury C. Hoyle, Georgian, 8,296; V. C. Allen, Liberal, 1,756.

Miss Ellett Goes Back.

Miss Ellett, Laborite, retained his seat in the North division of Salford by a narrow margin, polling 11,093 against his Conservative opponent, Fitzbrough, with 11,343.

Labor made a notable gain in the Farnworth division of Lancashire, where D. Grenall, Labor, was elected with a vote of 13,291.

Labor's victory here was probably due to Lancashire's revolt against the safeguarding of industries bill.

Sir Wilfrid Lawson, Liberal Member for the Laborite, wrested the Cleveton division of Glamorganshire from the Liberals. He polled 12,812; his Conservative, S. H. Evans, 11,111, and the Georgian's Major J. Edwards, 8,232.

Labor also captured East Swansea from the Liberals, the Keighley division of Yorkshire from the Conservatives, the Brightside division of Sheffield from the Georgians, Eccles from the Conservatives and the Hanley division of Derbyshire where they turned Lloyd George's follower, Major-Gen. J. F. B. Seely, who was secretary for war in 1914.

Additional Labor gains included the Bridgeton division of Glasgow, where a Georgian was defeated. Leicester, West, Newcastle-on-Tyne, West, where a Georgian was beaten by a narrow margin; Edmonton registered from the Conservatives, the Wood division of Yorkshire, also from the Conservatives; Bradford East, from the Georgians, the Hillsborough division of Sheffield from the Georgians; St. Rollox division of Glasgow from the Conservatives and Jarrow-on-Tyne, East, from the Georgians.

Labor gained another seat in the Hastings division of Sussex, the Wembley polling 14,605 votes to 9,704 for T. B. W. Ramsay, Georgian. The third candidate, Alfred Guy, Communist, polled 470.

The Springborn Tradesion Cambachie, Cathcart and Maryhill divisions of Glasgow were all sectional turnovers from Conservative to Labor, which retained also the Govan division.

Col. Lynch at Foot of Poll.

Col. Arthur Lynch of Boer war memory, standing as a Laborite in Hackney, Central, was defeated, being at the bottom of the poll. Lynch was Colonel of an Irish brigade on the Boer side during the South African war. He was convicted of high treason, but was pleased a full pardon by King Edward.

Great Yarmouth registered a change, the Liberal, Arthur Hereford, with 9,835, defeating Lt.-Col. C. De W. Crookshank, Conservative, 8,347, and the Labor candidate Archer Whiting, 2,674.

A heavy Labor gain was recorded in the Clayton division of Manchester, and a recount is necessary because of closeness of the candidates. In the last election the Unionists had a good majority over the Laborite.

It is already evident that the refusal of the Labor party to enter into an election pact with the Liberals will lose seats for both parties. A noticeable example of this was at Stockton-on-Tees, where a Georgian Liberal was elected with a minority vote of 13,206, the combined votes of the opposing Asquithian and Labor candidate being over 20,000.

John Robert Clynes, one of the prominent Labor leaders, was elected for the Sterling division of Manchester, with 15,083; Frank A. Holmes, Conservative, 14,814, Mr. Clynes was unopposed in the last election.

Derbin Defeated.

Joseph Devlin, who formerly represented the Falls division of Belfast, but on his withdrawal from that constituency was made the Nationalist candidate in Exchange division of Liverpool, was defeated. The Conservative, Sir Leslie Scott, polled 15,603; Devlin, 12,914.

Oxford, traditionally a Conservative seat was won by the Liberal candidate, Frank Gray, who polled 12,485, over the Conservative, J. A. R. Marriott, member of the late parliament, who polled 9,883.

Sir Robert Horne, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, was also reelected for the Hillhead division of Glasgow for a substantial majority.

In the Clayton division, Manchester, the Conservatives gained the seat by a majority of only eleven, the figures being: W. H. Flanaran, Conservative, 14,800; J. E. Sutton, Labor, 14,789.

The Liberals gained a seat in Bootle, while Labor gained two seats in Dewsbury and Accrington.

The Asquithian Liberal, Lieut.-Col. John Ward, gained a seat in Stoke-on-Trent against the Laborite, J. Watts. The vote was 16,853 to 10,722.

Huddersfield presented remarkably close voting, with an Asquithian gain. Sir Charles Marshall, Asquithian, 13,870; J. H. Hudson, Labor, 13,573; Sir Charles Sykes, formerly Coalition Liberal member, 13,912.

Lady Cooper Defeated.

Lady Cooper, whose husband, Sir Richard Cooper, retired to make way for her, and who had made a strong campaign as a Conservative, was defeated in Walhall Pat Collins, Liberal, polled 14,874; Lady Cooper, 14,310; Robert Dennison, Labor, 8,245.

Lady Cooper was one one of the women who was expected to win, aside from party considerations.

Grant Morden Elected.

The Canadian sitting member for the Brentford division of Middlesex, Col. Grant Morden defeated Mrs. Oliver Strachey, one of the women who had high hopes of, electing. The vote: Morden (C), 10,156; Mrs. Strachey, Independent, 7,204.

Defeated.

Among the Conservative gains were East Cardiff, from the Asquithians, and the Peckham division of Camberwell, from the Georgians.

The Asquithians won Bethnal Green Southwest, from the Conservatives, and a Georgian ousted the Asquithian candidate, Dr. C. Addison, former Health Minister, in Shoreditch.

The Conservatives made gains in Leyton East and Leyton West, the Central division of Portsmouth, the Dartford division of Kent and the Padsley division of Yorkshire.

The Liberals gained Bradford South.

COLLEGE STUDENTS TOO EXTRAVAGANT

English Student Commits Suicide Because of Financial Difficulties

London, Nov. 15.—Much criticism has been directed recently against the faculties of Cambridge and Oxford, as being responsible for the extravagant habits led by many of the undergraduates of the universities. The subject gained wide publicity recently when a student committed suicide because of financial difficulties.

Dr. Farnell, vice-chancellor of Oxford University, in his address at the opening of the fall semester, said he had to admit that complaints, occasionally reached him concerning instances of extravagant living, were not altogether without foundation. He blamed the local shopkeepers for giving students credit, and urged that students be limited in the amount of money allowed them.

Dr. Farnell pointed out that the days of Freshmen's dinners, when undergraduates were allowed to have parties in their rooms and to be without restrictions out on school hours, had gradually come to an end, and he said that nowadays cases of drinking among students were almost unknown.

RUSSIA AND SWEDEN COMING TOGETHER FINANCIALLY

Stockholm, Nov. 15.—A new Russian effort to establish close financial and commercial relations with Sweden is seen in the arrival in Stockholm of Aron Scheinman, head of the Russian State Bank.

Mr. Scheinman has declared that the bank which he heads may place its foreign assets and clearing funds in Swedish banks, providing a safe-guard agreement can be arranged between the two countries. He has come here, he says, to enlarge the financial cooperation between the two countries. He considers Sweden one of the safest countries for the deposit of money, owing to its independent position and its well-ordered conditions.

The Russian State Bank, declares Mr. Scheinman, has acquired 50,000,000 gold rubles through its foreign exchange operations, and the end of the present year will add 50,000,000 to the total figure. The main purpose of the bank is to finance state industrial enterprises

1. Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C.
2. Golf may be played every day in the year.
3. Famous Malahat Drive, Vancouver Island.
4. Vancouver is a beautiful modern city.
5. Magnificent mountain scenery en route.

Nature has dealt most generously with Canada in respect to her climate. While in the East we have winter weather worthy of the name, with lots of snow, which nowadays proves an attraction to thousands who revel in the bracing winter atmosphere and in our winter sports of tobogganing, skiing, skating, etc., there are many who seek a warmer clime. Such we take in Canada also.

Within the last few years, thousands of our Canadian people have been making their annual winter pilgrimage to the Pacific Coast, many to avoid the rigors of winter, and many simply to indulge in a winter vacation.

Victoria and Vancouver, on our own Pacific Coast, offer ideal retreats. Here flowers bloom in winter, and the grass and trees are always green. Such wonderful breezes prevail throughout the year, reaching the land warmed by the Japan current across the vast breadth of the Pacific, whose waters on this coast have a temperature of 51 degrees. In Victoria, 49 degrees has been the mean annual temperature for the last thirty years, while Vancouver is a little colder, but extreme in weather are never experienced. Golf and other outdoor sports may be engaged in all the winter, while both cities have magnificent natural settings, and hundreds of miles of the finest roads on the continent invite motoring. You have the grandeur of mountain scenery, glorious seascapes, luxurious evergreen forests and interesting sea life, with all the advantages to be found in a modern metropolis, for Victoria and Vancouver are two of the finest cities in the Dominion.

The mountains en route through the Canadian Rockies are magnificent in their sombre winter dress—a fairyland of surpassing beauty. The Canadian National Railway passes through the mountains at the lowest altitudes and easiest gradients of any transcontinental railway in America.

ARE WE A NATION OF CROOKS?

Here Is What a Customs Officer Thinks of Us

The other day I succeeded in cornering a customs officer and I asked him his opinion to the public in general. A far-away look came into his eyes. "You don't want to know what I think of the public," he said. "It wouldn't be fit to publish."

"Don't you think the average man and woman are honest?" I questioned him.

"As a Canadian I think we have the finest people in the world," he returned. "As a customs officer I think our nation contains more crooks than any other country I ever knew."

This customs officer was a man who had travelled widely. I was quite surprised at his answer.

"Are there no honest people in Canada?"

"There are in ordinary business affairs," he replied, "as a rule, but in customs office I must say that I have not met one yet. The whole nation is just a collection of crooks," he concluded, gloomily.

"I don't believe you," I returned, warmly. "I think Canadians are fundamentally honest."

"Perhaps they are; in fact, I would say that they are, so long as you keep them away from the border. I know one woman who is head of a big church society; she would weep over the sinfulness of a man who did not keep the payment up on his gramophone; but just the same I caught her the other day trying to get by with goods worth forty dollars. In duty, that is. I wouldn't have touched her only she was making a practice of furnishing her home with linen and laces made in the United States. I don't mind an ordinary getting past me; we don't want to give undue trouble to the average citizen-crooks. But when it came to a lady sitting, after my innate pride couldn't stand for the raw stuff she was pulling. So I just pinched her."

"Tell me about it," I suggested; but he shook his head.

"I'll tell you nothing," he smiled. "Just stick around the border for a while and see what you can pick up. I'll bet it will open your eyes to our 'honest' citizens."

I "stuck" as he suggested and he was quite right—it did open my eyes. In fact, before I got away I came to the conclusion that the Customs officer was right. We are a nation of smugglers by instinct. But I would not go as far as the Customs man and declare that we all are crooks. I have been secret the border myself and on the way back I have brought a few "products" which I did not declare. Therefore, the average man has my utmost sympathies.

ART ROSS NEW COACH

Inventor of Three-Man Defence Will Handle Hamilton N.H.L. Hockey Team

The Hamilton hockey club has secured one of the most capable hockey men in the world to coach their professional team the coming winter in handing Art Ross, once professional, who for four years starred in Brandon, Montreal and Ottawa. Ross's engagement with the Hamilton club was announced today, and he leaves shortly for that city.

Ross will always be held up as the standard for professional stars to shoot at. The big black-haired athlete was one of the greatest rush-carriers and stick-handlers of all time and in his day considered the best living hockey player.

When speed began to fall, as it inevitably must before the advance of time, Ross went on for a few seasons by sheer ability to out-guess his opponents and grow wise in the ravaging ferreting ruse for which he was famous in his balcony days occasionally flashed through. The inventor of Ross, the student of hockey, however, was never more smallest than in the season of 1915, when he played with Ottawa the home club got a lead of two or three goals. Wanderers were so confident that they would wipe out this lead in the final game in Montreal that they had taxicabs waiting at the Arena door to rush them to the Windsor depot to take the train to the Coast.

But Ross out-guessed them. He lined out a four-man defence, three players being strung across the ice in front of the goalie, and through this impenetrable human barrier Wanderers were never able to break. Despite efforts and Ottawa trooped out the boys with a good margin of safety.

That safety play, devised by Ross is still an integral part of the Ottawa machinery and has been largely responsible for the club's fine showing year after year.

Ross knows hockey like a book. He has any material the Hamilton he to develop a strong club.

BELLEVILLE MOTORS WIN AT BOWLING

Domenico's Five went down to defeat last night before the Belleville Motors in a very poor game of bowling after their fine showing of the previous night. Although the latter five piled up a nice score in the first game, the Food dealers managed to win the next two games and win out by 12 pins on the total. W. Holway and J. Chapman were the leading bowlers.

Montreal, Nov. 15.—Footpore, but happy, a McGill University student this morning arrived back in Montreal after walking to and from Syracuse, in order to see the game there last Saturday between his college and the Syracuse team. Unable to raise the necessary funds with which to buy a ticket, the Rugby fan set out on his journey last Thursday. He arrived in time for the game, and now his is back, muddy but satisfied.

HAMILTON YACHTSMEN IMPART ADVICE TO LOCAL FIREMEN

A Little True Anecdote of the Days When We Had no Station Street Paving Problem

A party of Hamilton yachtsmen tell the story that some years ago, before Front Street was paved, prior to the time when local comment regarding the Dundas Street burying ground was much in evidence, and during the days when the Wharf Street Debating Club was holding weekly sessions. They had occasion to tie up at the Victoria Park moorings.

To profitably pass the odd hours, and to relieve their spoken and dissipated minds after a yachting defeat, they decided to disembark and proceed upon a search of a tavern. In the course of their journey they passed the fire-hall and noticed the firemen sitting in the adjacent garden communing with nature and watching the antics of the various cages to pets suspended in cages, from the trees. The party stopped and engaged in conversation with the firemen and during the animated-like soliloquies which followed the Hamiltonians noticed two owls roosting in separate cages. Questions asked about these hooters and in the course of the conversation, the firemen confessed that the owls were becoming very stupid, seemed to be brooding, continually and were losing their appetite. The touring yachtsmen sympathised and continued on their way.

After several hours mutual entertainment uptown they were journeying back towards their yacht, when one Hamiltonian again noticed the owls at the fire-hall. In a spirit of sympathy he explained to the firemen that his name was Hamilton and that he came from Hamilton, he was a bird-fancier and a student of bird life and if it was not too presumptuous on his part he would be pleased to divulge valuable technical information that would no doubt alleviate matters concerning the owls and if his instructions were followed, the birds would soon improve in general health. The firemen anxious to revive their feathered friends, accepted his overtures and the brilliant idea was this:—

Owing to the fact that the owls were silently brooding they were doubtlessly accumulating moisture for their keepers and themselves. Therefore it would be advisable to move their quarters and put two owls in the one cage. This was done and the next morning the Hamilton yachtsmen were far on their windy way and the owls had eaten each other up. There remained nothing the firemen but the feathers.

QUEEN'S GRIND FOR BIG GAME

Over 16,000 People Expected at McGill Stadium For Queen's-Varsity Game Saturday

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 15.—While the utmost secrecy is prevailing in Queen's camp this week, it is understood that the trainer are buckling down to hard work again, and yesterday held a strenuous practice with the Royal Military College team at the R.M.C. grounds.

Coach Billy Hughes was in command of the squad. Work was concentrated on the line. It was learned that new players were tried, but the line showed good form against the speedy Cadets.

Queen's players are now quartered and sleeping at the rink and the utmost precaution is being taken to prevent information regarding the movements of the team from being carried out. The players are, however, being put through a strenuous week and will be ready to be in the pink of condition on Saturday, but individually and collectively they vow they will win over Varsity in the play-off.

During this week the players are allowed to miss their classes at the university so that they can give all their time to outdoor and the signal practises.

Bob Webster, Hamilton and Dave McCann, Ottawa, will handle the big college rugby play-off at the McGill Stadium Saturday. The latter gentleman has not yet been appointed. The two officials have handled all games in the intercollegiate series this season.

It is expected that by this evening the complete reserved allotment of tickets for Saturday's game will have been disposed of. This will include 1,000 tickets sent to Toronto, 500 to Kingston, and 500 to Ottawa. The reunion game between McGill and Varsity last year drew approximately 18,000, and indications point to an even larger crowd on Saturday. Varsity, the official organ of the U. of T., says: 'We are now ready early for the honors of the season, but we are not out of the woods yet. We still have to tie Queen's, and we only have her roped. After that there are a couple of tough ones in the city who are going to take some convincing. We figure now that Bruce Hobbs has the goal to do the trick, but for the love of Pete, Harry, keep 'em on their toes and don't let that over-confident spirit get in any dirty work.

To the conquered we will say banzai girls ole girls! Varsity has a bunch of rugby wizards who may easily put the tin hat on our aspirations. You are going to have your own money, and if it's not a better, team, may you bust us. In the meantime the strains of the Queen's anthem will fall sweetly on our ears, THOU HAST LEFT US MELANCHOLY.

THE DINOSAUR.

Canada Owns Finest Specimen of Pre-historic Beast.

The Dinosaur in Canada, which has just been set up in his original rock in the Victoria Memorial Museum, Ottawa, is considered to be the finest specimen of a prehistoric animal yet unearthed. It was located in the Red Deer Valley, about 110 miles northeast of Calgary.

This gentleman roamed over the North American continent from sixty to thirty millions of years ago, and is represented to-day by the crocodiles of Central and South America. Scientists are of the opinion that the Dinosaur Canadian prairie would reveal many specimens if the subsoil were removed to a sufficient depth. The Red Deer river has done this work for science and a tooth or a tail bone, washed down by the ancient stream gives the first clue to the fossil hunters. The Dinosaur is a combination of bird, reptile and animal. It moved about in a similar manner to the modern kangaroo, although its electric bones are mechanically avian. This monster is almost fifty feet in length and when sitting perfectly supported by its tail, was enabled to select a breakfast from the upper shoots of ancient trees and bushes which have long since become coal.

It is possible that a great monster descended from the Arctic, which swept over the prairies, drowned out this race of giants and after the flood had dissolved away the bony structure, were imbedded in the deep bottom of the new sea. Later a rising of the earth drained the sea away and the graves were left high and dry only to be discovered in the twentieth century by a creature called man. Many foreign universities have been removing their fossil remains from the Red Deer valley, but Canada, so far, can boast of the cream of the "finds" and it is satisfactory to know that the Federal Government has found a site for it in the great museum at Ottawa.

VANISHED INTO THE NIGHT.

A British tar, home on leave and celebrating the occasion, had got himself into a dilemma. He had hired a taxi, only to discover when approaching his destination that he was penniless. He had dined and wined, and was very, but too well. But the British navy is a training school of resourcefulness. He caught up the speaking tube, shouted "Stop!" and jumped out.

"I just want to pop into this tobacconists and get some matches," he explained to the driver. "I've dropped a pound note somewhere in the cab and can't find it in the darkness. I'll enter all the tobacconists, and as he did so the cab and it driver vanished into the night, as he had anticipated.

Pantoum of the Sky.

A thrilling sight that may become common is the future if the proposed postal airplane picking up mail bags at a speed of a hundred miles an hour.

Experiments in picking up objects from the ground without alighting or slackening speed have been carried out by Air Force pilots at Farnborough and by airmen in France and America. One ingenious scheme which is to be adopted by the superspeed air-mail between New York and San Francisco has been found to work well.

In the airplane there is a coil of wire with a weight attached to the end. This can be lowered and raised in a very short time by a machine worked by the engine of the airplane. On the ground two wooden stages are built. These slope towards each other, forming a "V," with the open end towards the approaching airplane. The postal airplane, flying low, with the weighted wire trailing on the ground, crosses the staging and the wire is guided automatically up the "V" until it catches in a cleft between two metal rods, where there is a clip with a wire connecting it with the mail-bag. The wire from the airplane catches in the clip and the bag is pulled up.

Here in Canada it has been announced that an aerial postal line will shortly be established to the Yukon

The Fotos.

The species of monkey, known as the Fotos, is very small. Built somewhat like a greyhound, it can gallop at a speed of 25 miles an hour, and is all-distance a good pony.

Scaling the Silo.

Several methods of scaling the silo after it has been filled have been devised. But what is wanted is a heavy blanket of material which can be laid as quickly as possible. A Minnesota writer says:

Some times weeds or heavy clover grass are run through the cutter as a finishing layer. Some prefer to bark the ears from the last two or three rows of corn, and so run them in the last, and allow the corn itself to make a blanket after the silage has settled in the silage below. At any rate, it is the best way to pack the silage well around the edges at intervals of three or four days for the first few weeks. This helps to prevent the settling away from the wall, which causes waste.

Spoiling at the surface may be prevented by sprinkling or covering the top of the silage when filling is completed. If the silage is to be left out for a few days, it is best to cover it, but if to stand only over the week-end, or overnight between the cuttings, this is need, it is advisable to weight the covering with a couple of inches of old earth boards. Most farmers, however, think the use of corn meal with the ears removed and with proper tramping is more economical than the use of paper.

In filling the silo the usual recommendation is to keep the surface higher at the sides than in the center that most of the tramping need be done there. Some have a chute about level with the same amount of tramping in all parts of the silo.

A Canadian Workman.

The Hamilton Spectator tells the story of the struggle of a young Canadian lassie to get a start in the highest walks of the musical profession. The lassie in question is Miss Dorothy Maclennan, of Hamilton. The owner of the heart of the Hamilton Spectator's musical column in Canada—Journal and Musician—by which it is known and appreciated by musicians, music and salon critics a world of interest and sympathetic attention. Miss Maclennan's intellectual microscope of Christian Strasburg, the famous Canadian violinist and efforts and ambitions, and the result was that this man would probably measure up among the great of his day. Accordingly she went to single-handed, in a sphere that did not promise much in the value, as measured by biographers, Mr. Strasburg had only a partial education.

To him, however, the word there seems to have been no reward. Fame and success could have been his many times, because he has often turned away fattening offers to take important posts in choral societies in the city similar organizations. In the early autumn he left the Salvation Army to become a "street-corner revivalist" with a salary of $18 per week and established his mission in an old saloon. He had a large hall, and he conducted his little personal mission with the same fervor that he did a week. Sown in his privation and poverty, the seed began to grow. Two years after larger quarters were necessary. The old saloon was followed, then a theatre had to be rented. The mission still prospered. Canada was built at a cost of $46,000. It seats 1,200 people. The mortgage has been cleared, and there is virtually no debt. Since the mission was built, two other theatres has been required to accommodate the crowds that flock to the church built by the energy of one man. Both Ontario and Canada's teen workers in the foreign field, and Strasburg has ever been a warm friend and supporter of the training for the ministry at home and abroad. It has served hitherto in neighboring communities.

Tribute to Canadian Universities.

The Duke of Devonshire, speaking as Governor-General of Canada recently declared that the Canadian universities were the hope of Canada's future. To-morrow, but for $60 years hence and after. This was disclosed in 1908, both externally and internally in the universities in Canada. If a university was wanted in Canada, the state would not provide it, but would let individuals or, as was the case in most of the provinces, by the people themselves, which manifested a determination to provide for a university, and then hand it over to the school to the university.

Agricultural Wealth.

The gross agricultural wealth of Canada is estimated at $4,821,000,000. Ontario comes first among the provinces, with $1,837,000,000; Saskatchewan ranks second with $1,000,000,000; Quebec, third, with $1,000,000,000, and Alberta fourth with $874,000,000.

MR. KING'S RECORD AT OTTAWA

Since Assuming Office, Little or No Progressive Legislation Has Been Enacted in Spite of an Over-Abundant Crop of Pre-Election Promises

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—The King Government, through its humiliating course of inaction regarding the Nova Scotia crisis, has placed itself in a most unfavorable position before a majority of the Canadian people—indeed all the Canadian people, for even the many designers of an immediate assurance by the Dominion of support to the British Empire are chiefly solicitous anent the reputation of administration which has taken refuge in public utterances. His recent visit to Montreal, insofar as Premier King is concerned, is consistent with his own attitude, recorded from time to time in public utterances. In recent visit to Montreal, which he chose to designate as "a birth," recalls an event more noteworthy occasion there, when Mr. King, in the federal campaign of 1911, attacked Sir Robert Borden because he proposed that Canada should go to the aid of Britain, in a crisis then impending.

"Are the people of this country," he asked, according to the Toronto Globe report, "going to place at the head of affairs a man who will be precipitated into such a position as this, who will take Canada into the controversy of this country and who would have taken enough money to build two dreadnaughts, and send that money to the Motherland, so that they could spend it as they pleased? And against what occasion? He was ready to send money to build warships to fight Germany."

A large number of delegates were of German descent, said the Globe, and they applauded Hon. Mr. King's statement. The issue on this occasion, Mr. King declared, was between Mr. Borden with his imperialistic plot here and Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his policy of local autonomy.

In 1917, speaking at Toronto in opposition to conscription, Mr. King urged, instead, "a national survey of mobilize and render effective all our national resources."

Quite consistent, then, is his course to-day in promising in declaring that Canada's assistance cannot be given to be given Britain until Parliament is called and says so—and Parliament won't be called until the first shot is fired.

Many good people doubted the advisability of the dreadnought contribution favored by Mr. Borden in the Border and his party in 1911. The policy was soundly justified later on and the conscience of the country of Parliament who approved it are clear.

Many people—possibly a majority—discussed severely the statement of Arthur Meighen, M. P., and other members who spoke in that same election campaign spoke of the "formal guilt." How did Liberal-Progressives pocket the very idea of war with Germany while Mr. King held it up as a red rag to enrage German-Canadians in Waterloo County!

The course of Mr. Meighen and the Conservative party in 1911 and in 1917 has been as thoroughly justified by subsequent events as that of Mr. King and the Liberal party has been condemned. Canada and the world will compare, to the honor of the former, the ringing words of the present Opposition Leader and the halting phrases of the present Premier, in the crisis of 1922.

Liaison With Progressives.

Gossip about Liberal-Progressive relations was revived by Hon. T. A. Crerar's visit to Ottawa, advertised as to be in connection with the Near East war cloud. Mr. Crerar was consulted by the Premier. That much we know. It is allowed to gather the impression, too, that the Progressive leader, approved the policy of doing nothing for the present. Hence, the Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Official Opposition, which is almost as strong as the Progressive group in the House, was not called into conference. That much we also know. Doubtless it was certain that his presence would not have been acceptable. Perhaps our Mr. King repeated, in substance, the words of a king of Israel: "There is yet one man by whom we may inquire, but I hate him, for he doth not prophesy good concerning me, but evil." As quoth I. Kings 22, yes further, it does seem as if the Turk, in present instance, has "drawn his bow at a venture and smitten the King between the joints of his harness."

Aside from all this, the unrecorded working arrangement between the Genis-King side of the House and Mr. Crerar's group is most interesting. Mr. Crerar's backing of the premier in the Near East situation must be exceedingly interesting to certain members of the Progressive Party who showed plainly in the last session of parliament that they are proud of the Empire and British connection, some of whom found difficulty in swallowing the no-navy policy, even on the ground of economy—and who personally, would not have delayed by one minute the dispatch of a loyal message to the motherland under such circumstances as have recently arisen.

An unusually frank admission of the "progressive" attitude does not its permit defeat of the Government in the recent session, is that of William as a representative in Parliament from Reporter quotes Mr. Elliot's remark.

He had been criticized for his slant on the budget, and in explanation it his attitude said that the present government had not been in power long enough to show its ability to run the country's business efficiently. If the "progressives had voted solidly, the ledges would have been defeated and the government lost. Another election would have been necessary, and his party would have received the blame for bringing on at a time when the country was tired of political fracas. The Progressive party would on that account alone have lost half of its membership in the east had another election taken place.

Railway Co-Ordination.

Where have we heard that phrase before? Parliament laughed over it a little, last session, recognizing it as one of those elastic phrases which serve so convenient to Mr. King in times of stress. Even the Liberal press has grown tired of nauseum that he has given Canadian National board of management is about to be moved. The crisis at the Dardanelles has given the Government a new excuse for deferring action—though why nobody knows, since the Government is doing anything in particular about the Dardanelles. Anyway, the creed of the new board has not been made. Apparently one appointment has been submitted to officials of various railways, large and small, in the neighboring republic, mentioned by name in the newspapers, and that is none of these names one sees, the more is evident the colossal blunder made by the Government in allowing D. B. Hanna to resign the C.N.R. presidency in the campaign last year, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen pledged himself, if returned to power, to amalgamate the Grand Trunk and National roads—the one step, but an important one—which remained to complete the public ownership system. Does anybody doubt that, if Mr. Meighen had been returned to office, that amalgamation would have been carried out by now, the uncertainty ended, and the merged systems working at a reasonable profit on board? But the Liberal Cabinet of to-day is itself divided on the railway issue. Can anyone blame Mr. Meighen for declaring, as he did at Toronto to the other day, that the railway system is being deliberately kept in chaos for the benefit of rivals in it? Can anyone estimate what that policy is costing the people of this country, day by day?

A Fighter in S. E. Toronto.

Those interested in federal politics will seek overlook the entry of Col. John Allister Currie into the provincial by-election contest in Southeast Toronto. Col. Currie was returned to the House of Commons by the riding of North Simcoe in 1908, 1911 and again in 1917, losing out, after a crushing defeat by W. F. Nesbitt, Liberal, in a three-cornered contest last December. He commanded the 15th Battalion (Simcoe Highlanders) in the first Contingent, and was promoted overseas. In the political field, he has often encountered, successfully, Hon. N. C. Power in his own constituency. It is well known as a firm supporter of the hydro-radial project, and in view of the row in the Liberal ranks of Southeast Toronto over a candidate, it looks as if the fighting Currie will restore this constituency to the Conservative column even before the general election in Ontario.

Social and Personal

AT HOME AT ARMOURIES

At the Armouries last evening an informal At Home took place for members of Argyll Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire, and officers and wives of the Argyll Light Infantry. The affair was most enjoyable in every respect. Dancing was indulged in until shortly after midnight, appropriate music being provided by the orchestra in connection with the regimental band. At midnight a dainty lunch was served.

AGE FERMENTATION

Base or Benefit to Contents of the Silo.

Packed Green Fodder Usually Causes Out Wall — Various Conditions From the Same Class of Fodder — Prevention of Rubber Losses In Poultry.

(Published by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

When a large quantity of finely-cut or divided green fodder is packed within the silo fermentation begins at once. The temperature will gradually rise and considerable carbonic acid gas will be given off during the first few days. The temperature of the surface six inches may go up considerably above 100 deg. Fahrenheit, due to air entering and permitting fermentative processes which are not possible deeper in the mass out of reach of the free air or oxygen supply. Under good practice, where the sealing has been well done, the temperature two feet down will not exceed 140 deg. Fahrenheit during the first few days, the temperature will then gradually drop back to 100 deg. or less.

Green Fodder For the Silo Should Be Well Packed.

Well-packed green fodder carrying a normal amount of moisture will develop within the small space just enough air to carry the fermentation to the desirable point for proper silage making. If an excess amount of air is present through improper filling and packing of the fodder the fermentations will be carried too far, moulds will form and spoil part of the silage. Numerous moulds are present and ready to function should conditions favor their development in the sealed mass. The plant enzymes, invertase and zymase, together with the acid-forming bacteria (lactic acid and vital acetal) are of the greatest importance in silage making. Besides these other bacteria are present, and if conditions are favorable they increase to a greater degree than they favor the development of the lactic and acetic acid formers the silage process does not go to the most desirable stage. The plant cells of the cut or shredded green fodder that is placed in the silo are still alive and carry the chemical substances commonly known as enzymes. These enzymes are the agents that break down the starches and sugars to the sugar content during the first few days of the fermentative process, apparently preparing the way for the acid forming bacteria which become very active after the fifth or sixth day and continue the completion of the silage making process if conditions are normal.

Many Activities In the Silo Useful and Otherwise.

The vast difference in the condition of the various fodders used in silage making at the time of ensiling gives rise to various activities both useful and otherwise within the silo. Different degrees of greenness or ripeness, different classes of plants, difference in moisture content, presence or absence of desirable bacteria in quantity, will have their influence on the final product. So we may have all of various colors, odors and flavors made from the same class of forage plants. The temperature within the silo after the silage making is completed may vary from freezing near the wall to 85 degrees near or at the center of the silo.—L. Hurtenbach, Sec., Dept. of Agriculture, Toronto.

Prevention of Tuberculosis In Poultry.

It is absolutely useless to treat poultry which is suffering from tuberculosis with any sort of medicine or patent poultry tonics. Preparations which guarantee to cure this disease are pronounced frauds by scientists. Once the bird is infected there is no cure. All effort should be directed to prevent the healthy birds from contracting the disease.

If the flock is small and not of great value and if several birds have died or are known to be affected, it would probably be the part of wisdom to destroy the whole flock and start over again. The poultry house should be scrubbed out with disinfectant, and all the walls whitewashed. Remove the floor of the house is dirt, remove about six inches and bury it out of the way. Resurface with fresh, clean soil. If the floor is well made of either concrete, tile or wood, scrub thoroughly with disinfectant. If the floor is not of good material or hard to clean, lay a new one over the old. Turn over the soil in the runs. Boil drinking cups and cleanse all other utensils. After this is well done, secure the new birds, being very careful to purchase them from a flock which is free from the disease.

If the flock is large or valuable and it is decided to attempt eradication without destroying all the fowls, great care and attention, even to the smallest details, are necessary. Cull well, of course, overlook some of the diseased birds on the first examination, but they may be observed later on when the symptoms are better developed. Keep the floor as free from droppings as possible, and clean out and disinfect at least once a week. Do not allow the young birds to mix with the older ones, for they are easily infected. After the first general weeding out, watch the rest and as soon as one begins to appear droopy, remove it from the flock and keep it alone, and then if it develops further symptoms destroy it at once.

For young pigs on pasture the self-feeder has given satisfactory results. Slightly more grain may be required, which is offset by economizing on labor.

The man who improves the live stock of a community or of the U. S. by better variety of corn is deserving of praise as well as he who "points with glory from the cannon's mouth."—W. A. Lloyd.

It Is A Fact

That many persons continue to wear old lenses long after they should be changed, and that many; many; a person is right now suffering the penalty for neglected eyestrain that a thorough examination of the eyes would reveal.

Extensive investigation of this subject indicates that a large percentage of those who would be wonderfully more comfortable and better off in every way, if their visual defects were corrected, don't ever suspect that the lack of proper glasses is at the bottom of their trouble.

PRESENTATION AT TWEED

Miss Mildred Ketcheson, who is leaving next shortly will her parents to make her home in Toronto, was presented by her school friends with a box of cream and a address. The presentation took place in the high school where a large number of the friends of the young lady were gathered for the occasion. The address was read by Miss Edith Rudick and Miss Vera Malone made the presentation.

GOOD PRICES FOR GRASSES

The Agricultural representative in Lennox and Addington reports: A number of farmers have disposed of parcels of alfalfa and clover seed to the office for test had grade. One farmer sold thirty bushels of Grimm's alfalfa, which graded No. 1 at $20 per bushel. Some farmers reported selling No. 1 red clover at $10 per bushel.

GIRLS WANT VOTES

Mayor Hayes of the junior City Council of this city, has received a communication signed by ten suffragettes, claiming the right of 18 years and over, should have the privilege of voting for the candidates who are aspiring for office. This cannot be granted this year, but Mayor Hayes state, that the matter will be considered by the Junior Council and no doubt the boys will extend the franchise to the girls.

ADJOURNED COUNCIL MEETING

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held this evening. The object of the meeting is chiefly to discuss the Station Street paving proposition and arrive at some conclusion as to what will be the most thoroughfare. Other business of a general nature will be considered.

JUNIOR COUNCIL ELECTION ..

In the various schools of the city this afternoon balloting took place for the election of Alderman for the Junior City Council and a poll will be held this evening at the city hall consisting of the votes of boys who do not go to school. The ballot contains the names of ten candidates and the six who are to be elected. Considerable interest is manifested in the result of the contest.

CLOTHING FOR WARDS

The Matron of the Shelter in connection with the Children's Aid Society would appreciate gifts of old clothing which could be converted into clothes for the children who are wards of the society.

CONCERT AT CANNIFTON

Last evening a very successful drama entitled "A Noble Outcast" was presented to a large audience in the Canniffon Town Hall. The drama was given under the auspices of the Epworth League and proceeds amounted to over $75.00. Several Belleville artists assisted with the program between the acts.

It's the Last Long Mile Raise the Bloomin' Blisters.

A man had a faithful spaniel that always came back, no matter where he was taken. He was talking about his pigeons one day to a friend of his and remarked: "What do you think? A fellow bet me he could take a dozen of my pigeons to Philadelphia and he would not come back in 24 hours. He me a hundred. Of course I took him up. I know that bird. Well, sir, he took my pigeon to Philadelphia, and then slipped his wings.

"And you lost your bet?" said the friend sympathetically.

"Oh, no," I won. She got back all right, but she had awful sore feet."

WHERE COLD WATER BOILS.

The Difficulties of the Conquest of Everest.

The gallant little band of men who are attempting to reach the summit of Everest, the world's highest peak encounter dangers and difficulties of many kinds.

The altitudes to which they want to climb—Everest is 29,141 feet—are, of course, perpetually cold, but they have a greater obstacle to contend in the rareness of the atmosphere.

The effects of the shortage of oxygen in the air are felt in many ways. Nothing can live without this gas, and it is necessary to take special breathing apparatus with you if you want the full oxygen in rarified atmosphere. But some scientific experimenters say that the human body powers are so impaired that he would be unable to carry the gas and apparatus.

It is true that, with the gas in cylinders, airmen have risen to very great heights, but it must be remembered that aviators are not called upon for great exertion. There is a vast difference between being seated at an airplane's controls, and struggling, deep in snow and laden with baggage, up a steep mountain side.

Another effect of the rare atmospheres is to cause water and other liquids to boil at much lower temperatures than at sea-level, so that mountaineers find it hard to higher they climb the harder it is to make tea, and cocoa, or to cook food. The lack of oxygen also makes digestion very difficult, and even the most easily digestible food is very small and frequently constipating.

You may wonder why the attempt to climb Everest is not made by means by air. The reason is that the mountain is in Tibet, and Tibet is shut off surrounded by high land for hundreds of miles, much more than the height of Everest.

This means that, although a plane is built to rise to the height of Everest, it could not fly towards it without alighting on the land and having to refill its petrol tanks.

And when that had been done the plane, thanks to rarified air—would be unable to rise again. For, although the air on the surrounding ranges will support a plane in flight, it is not dense enough to "take off" in the propeller would have to be held.

Tiepins from Rattlesnakes.

A Brazilian explorer stated that when in the depths of the forest he and his party were bitten by a dependent upon snake flesh for food.

The snakemeat, he says, was delicious, pleasant to the taste, but the flesh of rattlesnakes and other poisonous serpents was very distasteful.

The rattlesnake, however, has its uses, for an oil made from its fat is considered to be the best remedy for rheumatism. Its skin, too, is tanned and made into belts and slippers, while its rattles are sometimes made into tiepins.

A snake valued in some parts of America is the cockroach. A small slender, non-poisonous creature that can move with extraordinary rapidity. The cockroach is a great destroyer of rats.

Outside Rio de Janeiro, the capital of Brazil, is a great snake-farm, which is under Government control. Here are collected poisonous snakes of all sorts, from the deadly little scarlet coral snake to that great python, the sucuruju, or anaconda. Their poison is extracted and used for making serums for purposes of inoculation.

You may be bitten by any snake, but if you have the proper serum at hand, and can inject it at once, your life will be saved.

Save Your Can.

Once water has reached its boiling-point, you cannot make it any hotter. If you increase the size of the flame under a boiling saucepan, the water will simply boil more furiously but the temperature, in spite of appearances, will remain the same.

At sea-level water boils at 212 degrees Fahrenheit, if greater heat is applied it will merely produce steam.

The reason why water in the boiling-point. Explorers at great heights often find it difficult to cook their food for this reason.

You cannot boil a potato on the top of a high mountain simply because you cannot make the water hot enough. At the top of Mount Everest, furiously boiling water would not be hot enough to scald your fingers. On the shores of the Dead Sea, which is actually 1,300 feet below sea-level, an egg can be boiled in two and a half minutes, but it will need almost five minutes at the summit of Ben Nevis.

Water has been calculated that in the average house a pound's worth of coal is burned every year; pans are left boiling over full-fanned burners, when the water has boiled a low flame is sufficient to keep it at the hottest temperature.

Radio on Trains.

Radiophone equipment has been put on trains of two railroads in the United States, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, namely, the Lackawanna, between the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Both these companies have received orders from their internal receiving stations, wherein the passengers can don headpieces and listen to the various entertainments. The coaches are surmounted by special aerials running from end to end of the cars, and are of different construction from the ordinary type of wire aerial and the other road two, with the exception of the insulators attaching the wires to the rails.

In Angora.

In Angora, the capital of Mattoura let Turkey, storks may be seen everywhere. One pair nests on the top of the column reared by the Romans in honor of Augustus; others on the roof of the Parliament buildings; several pairs make their home on the roof of the prison, and the birds seem to let them alone. Indeed, Angora's storks are protected by the Turks, who never shoot them or destroy their nests.

Woman's Sphere

THE EDGE OF TIME WORLD.

Once I stood at the edge o' the world—
You ever there?
The sky came down to an opal sea,
Out there in space hung a dream-land beside ship
And the earth was only a narrow strip
Of sea-shells ground by the wheels of Time.
No living things but my Love and I,
And one white bird that was sailing
by—
Did all how foolish! Why do I try
To tell it how it looks like a stilled cry?
My edge o' the world!

Back today in the valley!,
Small green world so sheltered and
warm,
Frull trees while where the brown
bees swarm,
Gay little crowded gardens blow,
Gay little feet run to and fro—
On every side the are folk to greet—
How heavy the air—so still and sweet!
O green valley, far away . . .
How far . . . from my wonderful, lonely day—
My edge o' the world!

OYSTER STUFFING

Crush crackers, not too fine, there should be 1¼ cups. Add 1, 2 cup melted butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, ¼ tablespoonful lemon juice, 2 teaspoons finely chopped parsley. Clean 2 cups oysters, drain from their liquor, reserve liquor, remove tough muscle and add oysters to dressing and moisten with some of the oyster liquor 5 first brought to boiling point and strained through cheese cloth. Use for stuffing fish.

The Daily Recipe

APPLE GINGER.

Mrs. T. M.—For apple ginger peel, core and cut into quarters 3 lbs. of sour cooking apples. Dissolve 2 lbs. of granulated sugar in 1 pint of water, bring slowly to the boiling point and simmer 5 or 10 minutes. Pour this syrup over the prepared apples, cover, and let remain for 48 hours. When ready drain of the syrup into a saucepan, add to it 2 lbs more granulated sugar, the strained juice and grated rind of three lemons, 2 ozs. of whole ginger bruised and tied in fine muslin, and 1-4 teaspoon of cayenne pepper. When boiling, add the apples, set off the strong heat and simmer gently until the apples are soft, but not broken, then turn into jars, and cover with parafin or put in self sealers.

Sweet Potato Fritters.

Boil about four sweet potatoes until tender; drain and peel at once. Slice them thin and cover them with a cupful of milk, and let them stand an hour. Then make a fritter batter, to which add a tablespoonful of sugar. The batter of a lemon should be sprinkled over the sweet potatoes when they are sliced and allowed to stand for three. Then add the potatoes to the batter. Dip each slice, of potato into the batter and drop it into the sputtering hot fat and fry a nice golden brown. Sprinkle them with powdered sugar and serve as a sweet course. They may be served with pork or fried chicken.

SWISS RAILROADS SEEKING ENGLISH TOURIST TRAFFIC

LOCATED

General, Nov. 15.—The tourist trade in Switzerland has fallen to such a low ebb that Swiss railroads are considering ways and means to revive it. To this end they have offered reductions in railroad fares amounting to 30 per cent to parties of English tourists, effective January 1. A similar reduction probably will be offered later to Americans.

PRINCE PATRONIZES LONDON RESTAURANTS

Crowds Flock to Cabarets in Hopes of Seeing Him

London, Nov. 12.—The popularity of the cabaret and the crowding dancehalls in London's fashionable, West End restaurants is returning, and the reason therefore seems to be in no small measure due to the Prince of Wales and his brothers.

Immediately after his return from the Far East, the Prince appeared at several well known restaurants for the late supper and dance accompanied generally by the Duke of York or Prince Henry, and a party of friends. Also since the return of the Prince from Scotland he has been seen at several of those dances, and so have his two brothers.

The Royal visitors applaud heartily the entertainment and music, but rarely occasionally take part in the dancing. The mere fact that they are present, however, is enough for the West Ender, and the places are crowded nightly in the hopes that some member of the royal family will be present.

MUSIC & DRAMA

RAY WITH STRONG CAST IN COLLEGE DAYS PLAY

Charles Ray has surrounded himself with a cast of exceptional talent in his latest First National starring vehicle, "Two Minutes to Go," which will be the attraction at Griffin's tomorrow night and Saturday matinee and night. Mary Anderson, popularly known as "Sunshine Mary," is to be seen as Ray's leading lady in this vehicle, while Jason Seaman, the good-natured fat boy, who has been seen with Ray in many of the star's past releases, has an important part. Tom Wilson, who trained Ray for the prize-fight staged in "Scrap Iron," takes the role of a football coach in "Two Minutes to Go."

Others in the cast are such well-known players as Lionel Belmore, Truman Van Dyke, Gus Leonard, Bert Woodruff, Francois Dumas and Phillip Dunham.

"Two Minutes to Go" is a lively college football story by Richard Andersen, the part of a gridiron gladiator who works his way through college by peddling silk in his spare hours and on week-ends. The story is replete with humor, romance and action, constituting one of the best vehicles yet taken by the popular star.

As was the case in some of his previous productions, Charlie Ray personally directed "Two Minutes to Go," assisted by Al Ray.

BESSIE BARRASCALE IN GRIPPING STORY AT REGENT TONIGHT

Never in the course of her eminently successful career has Bessie Barrascale been seen in a role better suited to her talents than that which has been entrusted to her in "The Breaking Point," which is the feature attraction at the Regent, tonight to Saturday, matinee daily.

As the sacrificing young mother whose one thought is for her child whose very existence centres around her baby, Miss Barrascale puts forth a remarkable stroke of artistry, as compelling a mother-study as has ever been given to the silver sheet. It's a portrait that brings the tear to your eye but sends you home with a heart made lighter by the knowledge that there are such women in the "Ruth Janeway" in this old world of ours.

As a new Vodevil movies reel with its high class caudeville program, Pathe News, "The Rot" and two reel Jimmy Aubrey Fatty comedy, and "Caesar's Ghost" a star comedy are being exhibited in addition to the feature offering.

LIFE WAS MISERY !

"IT was reading the other day about Metrazethanks, about the large number of people who were troubled with this disease, that I let out what my wife had. She felt miserable all the time and was constantly depressed. She would wake in the morning and tell me that something dreadful was going to happen that day. Life was nothing but one misery for her. She was so depressed that I suspected she would lose her mind and have to go to a sanitarium and I kept wondering how I could get the money to pay for her. She could not eat and had no appetite for food. She was irritable and cranky most of the time. If she was crossed in any way, she would immediately work herself up into a violent temper. This worried me because she had always had a kind and gentle disposition and nothing which was said or done seemed to irritate her. I spoke to our family doctor about her and he said that her trouble was Indigestion and that if she would try and forget about her depression and look on the bright side of life she would be all right. Of course I didn't dare tell her this because I knew she would get into one of her tempers. This she got over finally in the summer, she was always weak and ill and more depressed than ever. The doctor said a tonic might help her and gave me a prescription but this did not do her any good. She tried all kinds of patent medicine with the same result. Carnol was recommended to me and I wish to state that it is the best of all tonics. Since taking it my wife has changed completely. Now she is always ready for her meals and work is no burden. It is a pleasure for me to recommend Carnol to anyone who is in need of a tonic of a body builder. Excuse me for writing this letter but I want you to accept my thanks for that wonderful tonic known as Carnol." Mr. J. A., Toronto.

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. Advt.

DYSPEPTIC DIET NO LONGER NECESSARY

diet for dyspeptics and stomach sufferers is no longer popular among progressive medical men partly because of its weakening effect, but mostly because of the discovery that nearly all stomach troubles is due to excessive acidity. The organs of digestion are themselves all right but in the stomach irritate and inflame the delicate stomach lining and cause pain and pevanent dyspepsia. The logical treatment, therefore, is to get rid of the acid, when natural painless digestion will follow.

For this purpose a teaspoonful or two tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water neutralizes the acid, stops the fermentation of the food, dispels the gas, and thus permits the stomach to proceed with its work without hindrance. Owing to its prompt and certain action Bisurated Magnesia, which is obtainable from any druggist, in either tablet or powder form, should always be used in preference to the other forms of magnesia, such as milks, citrates, carbonated or aromatic magnesia mixtures are advised to try this plan for three weeks and note results.

LINKED LIVES

By D. Kinmount Roy

He was not-a man to let the grass grow under his feet when once he plunged into any of his schemes, and his ruling passion—for gain and intrigue, was upon him now. Once fairly started, any sense of personal misgiving soon became obliterated, and he planned and worked through the matter in hand without a qualm.

The present enterprise had in it a delicious spice of malice. Ye—he could oblige the Squire this time heartily enough. Until it would be for the benefit of gentle to make my own son master of Fonsway in his wife's right! The Squire dare not keep the bailiffs out of the Long Walk without confessing his own share in it, and as for young Glenmore, he is never likely to stumble upon the truth.'

Kinkman rubbed his hands gleefully, and almost forgot how many women and members were as the result of the deadly grip of the injured man he had begun to manage the business affairs.

Walter Heathfield, Kinkman's son, was personable enough, and was ignorant of the dark background which his father's life. He had always understood that his father was in the secret service of the government, and that his more serious disguises and wandering ways were a necessary part of his business. The same tender root in human hearts, which had survived his criminal career, was his affection for this son; and-how to manage the business without implicating Walter in any serious difficulty was the problem now facing him.

But Kinkman was equal to most emergencies, and about three weeks after the events we have related, a Miss Irene Whitgar and her daughter, Ethel, arrived at the village inn. In their company was a young man of twenty-three, tall and slight of build, with the dreamy look of a student rather than a man of affairs. He had been a schoolmate of his mother, Mistress Whitgar, his maternal aunt, having brought him up from infancy. Some time he was with Ethel Whitgar was five years his senior. Why they were visitors in the little village was not clear to any of those who gave that Walter. Heathfield's father, who chose to be known by many aliases, among which was Kinkman had requested their presence there for reasons of his own.

It was a pleasant change for Mistress Whitgar and her daughter, but the young man was not so much impressed as he was expected to be. At twenty-three a man likes to be his own master and plan his movements according to his fancy; it was therefore in no way agreeable to him to know that he was journeying by command, and of compulsion, not choice.

It was impossible not to ask questions, and the answers he got were in no way satisfactory. Besides, his pride was wounded to find that his father was living under an assumed name, and was unable to recognize or acknowledge his son.

The secret service was, of course, a recognized necessity, and Walter knew it was not his father's fault if he had to play many parts. Such at least was the way Kinkman put it between him and Ethel. All the same, it irked the young fellow so much that he began to think from the man in fixed-faster. Curiously enough for the son of such a man, his one passion was Art, and to that study and practice of the architectures, the chief ambition of his life. With his sketch-book, he found it no hardship to roam about drinking in the beauty of mountain and forest, dreaming of the future by the banks of clear, rushing streams that wound their way through rich meadowland, already glorious with early summer flowers.

Under these circumstances, it was not wonderful that he should meet our friend Sandy, nor that the curiously assorted pair should become friends. For Sandy, although he was deficient in brain power and without artistic skill, had an eye for the beautiful in nature and a heart tender and sensitive toward all living things.

Sandy took his new companion to see his favourite haunts, confided to him the nesting place of the shyest birds, and the lairs of the most timid four-footed creatures, so a crowning token of his regard, gave him his very latest pet, a piping bullfinch that could whistle the tune known as Christian.

"Harken to him"—he would say with a glow of pride, as the bird, conscious he was on exhibition, would chirp and call, 'Bobby, Bobby,' and then receive a lump of sugar as his reward.

Heathfield made a sketch of the bird, and on his last visit was overjoyed when Bobby would be with him no longer.

Sandy and Heathfield more than once in their rambles met Ooma, and talked of the beautiful things in nature which were as dear to the one as to the weird full of new interest to them. Heathfield had some knowledge of flowers, and in Ooma her new friend's wild flowers grew more beautiful in the light of this fuller knowledge.

Sometimes Mistress Whitgar joined them, and occasionally her mother was one of the party; more than once Alan Graham spent an hour or two by the way, recounting his own adventures to them, and giving them interesting sketches, in his own way, of foreign lands. Visitors were rare in the neighborhood, and when they came were cordially welcomed. Ooma was apprised of all this, and had "doubts," that Janet had so many doubts that Alan Graham was used to them, and often gave them less consideration than they deserved.

Alan had passed pleasantly enough, and Kinkman, though well pleased with the drift of things, was growing anxious as to the ultimate outcome of his plans.

VIRGIL COMES TO LIFE

Donald bent low over his Virgil and rubbed his eyes. He had been playing football since school and the exercise and fresh air made him sleepy.

He was just looking up the same word for the sixth time when he heard a strange noise behind him. Turning around, Donald was surprised to see a tall man dressed in a long robe standing in the doorway.

"How do you do, Donald?" he said.

"How do you do?" Donald replied hesitatingly.

"I see you do not know me," the tall man said, advancing. "I am Virgil."

"Oh, pleased to meet you," murmured Donald.

"You are not just meeting me. You have been studying my 'Aeneid' since the first of September," Virgil replied in anger. "You are a lazy, ignorant boy, and I have just caught you in the act of going to sleep over my book—my book, full of interesting tales, which, if you had an atom of intellect, you would enjoy reading so much you could not lay it down. You should be punished for this," he said, advancing and picking up the book.

He opened it, and with surprise and anger noted the words written between the lines.

"You shall be punished for this," he cried, slapping his hands together three times.

"Aeneas, Aeneas," he called, and in through the window came a tall young man dressed in armor and carrying a bow and arrow.

"Aeneas," Virgil addressed him, "this young man is not interested in the history of Troy. He must be punished. Take him and bind him to the back of our chariot, which you will find in the garage. Thus drag him through the streets of Millersburg until he represents seven times."

"Aye, Aye, my Lord," responded Aeneas, and seized Donald by the hair. Donald struggled and screamed as loud as he could.

"Hit him over the head with my book," instructed Virgil. "That is the only way I will ever make an impression on him."

"Why, Donald," called his mother from the doorway, "Whatever is the matter?"

Donald sat up dazed. "Aeneas hit me over the head," he explained.

"Nonsense," laughed his mother. "Come on to bed. You can get your lessons in the morning."

A stout man of unpunctual habits was hurrying towards the station. He looked uncomfortably hot. An acquaintance, happening to see him, took the occasion as very suitable for a joke at his friend's expense, and called out—

"Now, Mr. Short, are you training for a race?"

Mr. Short just managed to yell back—

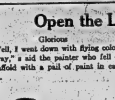

"No, you simpleton; I'm racing for a train."

GOOD WEATHER AIDS FALL WORK

Ontario Farmers Are Doing Fall Plowing and Clean-up Work

Following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:—

The mild and generally open weather of the last week has enabled farmers to do a good deal of fall plowing, seeding, and other clean-up work. Old timers all over the Province state that a better fall season was never known. Victoria says that most of the live stock are still out in pasture, so there is yet considerable picking in the fields.

Fall wheat is still looking well as a rule, no serious injury from Hessian fly, wireworm, or other insect pest being reported.

Grey says: "Some farmers have formed a local Apple Growers' Association, which has affiliated with the Niagara Peninsula Fruit Growers. These men are spraying from $6 to $8.75 for first class fruits, Boys, and Kings. The Association expects to handle seven hundred barrels this year."

Lennox and Addington reports:—"A number of farmers have brought a number of steers and calves and are also offering cut and grade. One farmer sold a bunch of Gimbour heifers, which graded No. 1's at $90 per bushel. Some farmers reported selling No. 1 red clover at $40 per bushel."

The outstanding feature of the week is the premium being set upon dairy cows. Hastings says that a number of farmers are purchasing stitch cows, which they intend keeping over the winter. The excellent pasture and mild weather have have supplied the majority of farmers with more roughage than they require.

Dundas states that fresh dairy cows and springers are selling at from $80 to $125, as high as $150 being paid.

Carleton reports: "Demand still brisk for milch cows. At a sale held recently sixty head of milch cows were averaged slightly over $100 a head."

Haldimand says "The demand is quite strong for feeders. Cut drover in the county has placed during the past week six carloads of feeders at prices ranging from $6.25 to $6.35. Practically all of these cattle have been from the western provinces." Kent also says that a larger number of cattle than usual are being brought into that county for winter feeding.

Grey says: "A farmer here has brought two carloads of feeders and one carload of light lambs from Toronto. These he hopes to feed until February. A number of other farmers have also bought cattle from the stockyards for feeding purposes."

Good grade breeding ewes are selling at $12 in South Simcoe.

The swine situation has much improved. Farmers are paying more attention to hogs than at any other time during the year.

Peel says: "Farmers are quite interested in the grading of hogs which has just been put into operation at the stock yards. A large number have been down to the yards and much discussion has followed. The results noticeable already are that hog graders are marketing their pigs at a proper weight, instead of holding until many would go in the heavy class."

North Simcoe state: "Hog-grading is the chief topic of discussion among farmers at present. One load this week from Stayner graded 40 selects out of 70 hogs, netting to the farmer $10.20 per cwt. Improper marketing is causing a good deal of confusion."

Prescott and Russell says: "Large quantities of live hogs have been shipped from this district this fall on a graded basis, especially from the Pendleton Egg Circle."

CEDAR ROOFS SAVE COAL

Roofs constructed of western cedar should have great advantage over those built of other materials according to the Forest Products Laboratories of Canada, Forestry Branch, Department of the Interior. In heating a building covering a large area a great amount of heat is always lost through the roof and a considerable saving in fuel can be effected by making the roof of suitable material. In this respect wood is very suitable and of all the woods which are likely to be used eastern cedar is probably the best non-conductor of heat. It is obtainable in large quantity and of good quality and has the further advantage of possessing a natural resistance to decay even under the most adverse conditions.

Typewriter and Other Articles Stolen by Thief Who Leaves Letter

Wins $10. "Pete" Whitney of Hamilton writes: A few weeks ago when visiting the Beck Nut plant at Canajoharie, N. Y., he found his office in very different condition than when he left it. Thieves had broken in during his absence and removed a typewriter and several other pieces of equipment. A note was left on the table by the savvy thief informing the alderman where he could recover the stolen goods. Needless to say, upon inquiry, it was found that the address given was a false one. The letter was addressed to Ald. Whitney by the original method of pasting his name across the envelope in newspaper clippings.

CAN SAWDUST BE USED AS FUEL?

To a thoughtful man the sight of one of these large incinerators which are the most prominent features of the mills in Canadian lumber mills invariably conveys the impression of willful waste. The fact that most important raw material of industry is fuel and it is as fuel that sawdust may possibly be marketed. The problem connected with the utilization of sawdust as fuel are somewhat similar to those presented by the use of lignite and for this reason the Forest Products Laboratories of Canada of the Department of the Interior are watching with interest the work of the Department of Mines in this country which threw some light upon the problem of the use of sawdust in briquette form. Whether sawdust as fuel is so hard to get, would seem a propitious opportunity for such research and the Laboratories are prepared to be able to give an encouraging reply to the oft repeated enquiry—How can we utilize our sawdust?

YOUNG MARRIED EMPLOYEES BETTER THAN MARBLE FRONTS

Montreal, Nov. 13.—Speaking here tonight before the Young Men's Canadian Club on the subject of "The Place of the Young Man in Canada," Rev. Canon F. G. Scott of Quebec laid the blame for the policy of those banking and other institutions which do not permit their employees to marry before they reached a certain salary. He hotly denounced this policy as a crime, and suggested that the money spent by such institutions in building marble columns in front of their offices would be better spent in building human pillars for Canada in the future instead of "throwing money away in making a show of this kind."

While deadly skirts still skyward rose,
Now they cry "germs" and preach

THE COMMUNITY THEATRE AT NARAMATA

THE British people are theatre-loving folk, and have to their credit traditions of the theatre that are greater, and of more world-wide importance that any other country. There is, no doubt, five hundred reasons why Canadians today take so much interest in theatricals, and particularly those of the amateur variety. Being a small population lying alongside a great one, it is but natural that Canada's professional stage should be entirely dominated by that of the United States, but it is greatly to Canada's credit that there has come into being an important theatrical movement in this country which is distinct from that of the regular professional stage. Under existing conditions it is only thus that there can be developed a Canadian stage with a literature of its own. Montreal has its group of Community Players, Toronto has its Hart House Theatre, and Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria, as well as many other Canadian cities, have their theatrical organizations, all of which are doing an excellent work, but none of them are more worthy of note than the little theatre which has been established in the fruit-growing village of Naramata in the Okanagan Valley, B.C.

It was built by Carroll Aikins on his small fruit ranch. For years he had Mrs. Aikins had been interested in the theatre. One of his own plays was produced three years ago in Birmingham, and it was because there was no suitable theatre where Canadian plays could be tried out that the little theatre at Naramata came to be built.

The neighbourhood of Naramata had actors enough. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Aikins were of the sort that could make actors out of anybody who had a love for that sort of thing —but the theatre was another matter. It had to be built, but before that it had to be designed and, not knowing so much about what regulation theatres had in them, as about what he thought they should have, Mr. Aikins was able to evolve a community theatre that in completeness of equipment and simplicity of arrangement does not suffer in comparison with any theatre of the kind on the continent, but which presents many novel and interesting features. The theatre is built in the spacious upstairs of the fruit ranch packing house. The stage is on the floor level, and the benches rise gradually on shallow steps, but is is in its stage that the theatre is most remarkable. The back wall is a huge plastered dome with a specially prepared surface on which a splendid array of variously colored lights can create any effect desired. There is no space to describe the scenic effects, all of which were designed and built by Mr. Aikins and his assistants. It is enough to say they were simplicity itself and amazingly successful.

The actors are the fruit pickers of the neighborhood, reinforced by a number of enthusiasts from various parts of Canada who have gone to Naramata to study stage-craft. This is Mr. Aikins' hope that this summer will grow, and that his splendid little theatre will have an opportunity of giving a first production to new Canadian plays by Canadian authors. The theatre has already become the most important place in the country side, and will continue to make its more worth the living in beautiful Naramata.

GERMAN SALARIES PITIFUL WHEN FIGURED IN DOLLARS

Berlin, Nov. 14.—Manual labor is valued above the products of the brain in the industrial top-heaviness of Germany today, if prevailing wage standards can be taken as a criterion.

Ordinary laborers receive an average of about 100 marks an hour. (The present rate of exchange gives 47 marks for the American cent). Wages for an eight-hour day range from 400 to 1,800 marks, making a monthly pay-check of approximately 9,000 to 36,000. An agreement has been effected whereby shoemakers and cabinetmakers receive from 67.15 to 116.50 marks an hour. The trunk-makers have been striking for an hourly wage of 102 marks.

In September the salaries of German newspaper editors were fixed by agreement to range from 15,000 marks to 24,000. (Translated into American money, 15,000 marks amounts to $3.19).... A scale was adopted providing that newspapermen receive 15,000 marks a month if they are in their first year at business, 16,500 in the second year, and so on up to 21,500 for a man of eight years' experience. "Rising" news pays at the rate of 1.20 to 2.75 marks a line, according to its nature. Reporters get 70 marks for small notices, and for reports of meetings, and 125 for investigations. Articles by critics are paid for at the rate of 275 marks each. A man who works on Sunday gets 500 marks for the day.

Even such wages are acceptable among journalists of the capital, for high costs are rapidly thinning the ranks of newspapermen and printers' employees are being thrown out of work. The situation has reached such a pass that a movement is under way among conservative publishers to establish a fund to aid unemployed newspapermen. The papers being affiliated by political as well as human motives, since they fear much good talent among the writers will drift to the radical press.

The managers of three large theaters in Berlin have announced their houses may have to close because of the wage demands of the stage help. Actors and actresses until recently received a minimum wage of 7,500 marks a month. Now that this has been raised to 22,500 marks, the stars are demanding a minimum wage of 54,000 marks monthly.

Distress in the medical profession has been repeatedly emphasized, and many doctors throughout Germany have commenced bartering their services for produce. Cases have been reported in Berlin in which physicians found the income from their practices so low that they have taken on evening work as musicians in moving picture theaters.

When the board ,which examines candidates for college teachers' positions recently was called to assemble at Lichterfeld, a Berlin suburb, the members protested that the salaries amounted to more than their pay. They asked for 30 marks an hour, but continue to receive only 26. Even this is more than three times the 7.50 marks an hour which a student-teacher draws in Berlin today. Regular teachers are said to receive a much higher salary, the public schools providing perhaps the outstanding instance of salaries for intellectual workers which compare favorably with those of manual laborers. An unmarried teacher's yearly wages, with expense allowances, amounts to 213,064 marks, while one who is married and has additionally 2,500 marks for his wife and 23,210 for each child.

A case was recently reported of a professor drawing approximately 12,000 marks a month. An American pays 8,500 marks more than this every day for a hotel room, with bath, facing on Unter den Linden. Four moderate dinners easily spend this on drinks and food at a cafe sitting in a first-class Berlin cafe.

ALBERTA PROVINCIAL POLICE FIGURES

Calgary, Alta., Nov. 13.—Convictions in 89 per cent. of the criminal cases handled by the Alberta provincial police last year were obtained, according to the annual report recently issued. There were 6,851 cases entered, of which 193 are awaiting trial and 5,779 convictions secured. The total number of prisoners handled during the year was 3,491, including 91 cases against women, which is an increase over 1921. There were 83 cases of horse and cattle stealing and 50 convictions registered. Under the liquor act there were 1,302 cases entered and 1,206 convictions obtained.

In addition to a force at nine officers and 110 non-commissioned officers and men, seven bloodhounds, two power boats and 65 horses were employed during the year in pursuit of criminals.

MAKES CANARIES SING LIKE NIGHTINGALES

After Years of Experiment This Bird Fancier Has Succeeded

(Associated Press)

Bremen, Nov. 13.—After ten years of experiments, a Bremen bird fancier has succeeded in producing canaries with a nightingale warble. The crossbreed was attained by using nightingales as "singing masters" for young canaries, and rearing the latter entirely removed from the sound of any other bird note except the warbling of their "instructors."

The breeder's chief difficulty was at first found in the fact that normally nightingales sing only during two months of the year, and his purposes required a longer uninterrupted period of instruction for the canaries. He was finally successful in changing the moulting, or non-singing, period of certain nightingales so that some sang from May 1l July, others from June to August, and still others from August to October.

Using these birds he kept newly-hatched canaries continually within hearing of their warbling. Several generations of breeding showed that birds reared from the original stock distinctively possessed the nightingale warble, and that "instructors" could be dispensed with for the offspring except for "polishing off" their singing.

NAME NOT EVERYTHING

Three men named Jones sill in the same line of business down one shops next door to each other. The one on the right had the name Jones painted in large letters over the door. The one on the left immediately did the same thing. The signwriter then approached the centre Mr. Jones, asking him if he would like his name painted also. "No," said the wily one, "I want you to paint the word 'entrance' over my door."

THE USE OF JOURNALISTS

A controversy which has been raging in British journalistic circles for some weeks and which influential opinion in time in the London "Truth" refuse to drop, throws a sinister light on present conditions in Russia. Incidentally it places a more reputable news syndicate, the Associated Press of the United States, in a rather unfavorable light. Some considerable while back, Robert Collins, European editor of the A. P., sent to Russia an American woman journalist, Miss Marguerite Harrison, as one of its correspondents. Whether Mrs. Harrison was guilty of duplicity, interference, or whether the motive was blackmail, or whether the event was dictated by a purely vicious desire to insult an American citizen is not clear. At any rate Mrs. Harrison was arrested and held in durance by the Bolshevik police. Apparently Mrs. Harison did not trust the Washington Government to secure redress for the representative of even so powerful an organization as the Associated Press, for she proceeded to make a deal with the police whereby she was to act as a spy on British and American sojourners in Moscow, while ostensibly acting as A. P. correspondent.

In time went on it became necessary that she should "deliver the goods." It was a case where a victim must be found; and Mrs. Harrison, it is alleged, adopted a practice peculiar to informers since the days of Titus Oates and probably dating before his time of accusing an innocent person. The victim selected was Mrs. Stan Harding, a British press correspondent, whom Mrs. Harrison secretly charged with being a spy and an emissary of enemies to the Bolshevik regime. The result was that Mrs. Harding, who was wholly innocent of such dealings and had come to Russia with permission of the Lenin government was arrested and grossly maltreated. It goes without saying that the money and personal documents were stolen. Your Bolshevik is no suspicar of brotherly love at any time, but he is especially valiant when he has a defenceless woman at his mercy. British agents intervened so soon as word got to the centre Mr. Jones was released; but she was long enough in custody to find out who her accuser was.

Journals the inverse of jingoistic like "Truth" and the "Manchester Guardian" state that the chain of circumstantial evidence fixing guilt on Mrs. Harrison as the instigator of the atrocity, is complete. The latter admitted that she had acted as a spy for the Bolsheviks and the officials of the Russian government in granting the release of Mrs. Harding stated that she was the informer who had laid the charge. They were apparently quite indifferent to the future welfare of their spy once her usefulness was gone.

On the facts becoming known, the British Institute of Journalists took up the case of Mrs. Stan Harding with the Associated Press, on the ground that Mrs. Harrison had not only been guilty of an act of gross perfidy toward one of her own sex, but had violated the spirit of professional honor on which all decent journalism is founded. After a good deal of sparring for time, Mr. Collins, European representative of the A. P., allowed the latimation to get about that Mrs. Harrison had been dismissed. On being pressed for documentary proof, he changed his attitude, and pooh-poohed the charges as mere "gossip and hearsay." He refused to accept "circumstantial evidence" (a singular piece of buncombe, as coming from the lips of an experienced newspaper man) and said he would not accept the word of the Bolshevik officials who admitted having employed Mrs. Harrison as a spy. It is understood that she is still in the service of the A.P. and has been transferred to the Far East.

If the A. P. were living up to the traditions which have long been associated with its name the mere fact that Mrs. Harrison had served as a spy for a foreign government while in its employ should have been sufficient to secure her dismissal, but the added fact that in all human probability she was guilty of perfidious lying about a fellow correspondent, must blanch any organization that employs her. The whole episode cannot fail to impair the soundness of the Associated Press as a distributor of European intelligence, so long as it continues to condone the dishonorable dealings of one of its accredited representatives.

THERE'D BE AN AWFUL NOISE

"The coffin," said the professor, "is a place from which noise is made." "It's mighty lucky for the coffin that she doesn't have to cackle over every egg," said a student who came from a farm.

BIG BILL'S PHILOSOPHY

I recollect one'l I saw a big fat guy ation or unity. I don't reckon there's any sich guys in Belleville. Do you? I don't reckon there's any one wantin' settin' on a dog cart and he had one big dog hitched onto a pair of shavin in front and another little dog hitched onto the axle underneath the cart.

He had a big load of somethin' or other on the cart and the big fat feller sat on top of it. The poor dogs kept pullin' and pullin' and was gettin' along fairly well until they struck a hole in the road. Then they was stuck for fair.

The big guy coaxed and whipped the dogs but couldn't move 'em. Then he sat there moonin' on the load wonderin' how the deuce he could get out of the hole.

No, I don't reckon he would—He's still settin' there, most like. Some people don't seem to have sense of co-oper the chamber of commerce to pull the whole load while they're settin' on top of it. No, I know there ain't.

The only reason why hen's eggs is more popular than ostrich eggs is because every time a hen lays an egg she cackles.

Nothin' ever did amount to nothin' until somebody made a noise about it. This here Newton guy had to write a book about "gravitation" or whatever you call it, and the scientists had to make a noise about it before any of us knowed why apples fall to the ground.

If we want to make this burg of ours a little bit bigger and a little bit better to live in, you can just bet it amoses the children."

THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER'S PHILOSOPHY

This Chamber of Commerce makes us all get together, and holler together, so that everybody kin hear us from coast to coast. It sure does cackle louder than any hen and it makes Belleville just as popular as eggs for breakfast.

GREAT LOSS OF GRAIN THROUGH GRASSHOPPERS

Saskatoon, Sask., Nov. 13.—It is estimated that 1,096,000 acres of grain in the province were saved this year by the grasshopper campaign, states the tenth annual report of the field crops branch of the Department of Agriculture. The cost of the ingredients used was less than that in previous years, a considerable saving having been effected by modifications made in the poison bait recipes.

Damage to the crop by grasshoppers is estimated at 67,280 acres, from reports of municipalities which replied to the questionnaire sent out. This is over 72 per cent of the crop in affected areas and gives a calculated loss of 20,000 acres for the whole of the province.

"My Heart Would Palpitate, I Had Weak Spells"

Mrs. L. Whiting, 302 King St. West, Brockville, Ont., writes—

"I took very sick with my nerves and stomach, and seemed to be all the time down. At times my heart would flutter and palpitate so and I would take such weak spells in the pit of my stomach that I would sometimes thought I would never get better. I had almost given up hope when a friend advised me to use one of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I did not stop until I had taken twenty-five boxes. It has done wonders for me and I want to recommend it to others."

Present the coupon at any store named below. You will receive a 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent.

Do this for your sake and your family's sake. It will bring a revelation.

Stop for 10 Days

Stop brushing teeth in ineffective ways

See what new beauty this new way brings

Nearly all the world over, leading dentists are advising people to brush teeth in a new way. Millions of people now do it every day.

You see the results wherever you look. Teeth now glisten which once were dim. Women have new charm, new beauty. They show teeth when they smile.

This is to urge all other people to try this method now. Your druggist will present you with a ten-day tube. Cease your old method for a few days and see what this new way does.

Why teeth look dingy

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. You feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains etc., discolor it. So that film, if left, soon forms the basis of this dingy coat. Tartar is based on film.

No ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat it. So millions of teeth brushed daily were clouded more or less.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Film forms a breeding place for germs. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

All these troubles were constantly increasing. Very few escaped. The tooth brush, used in old ways, left much film intact.

The war on film

Dental science then began a war on film. After long research, two effective film combatants were discovered. Able authorities amply proved their efficiency. Then they were announced, and since then leading dentists everywhere have been urging their adoption.

One acts to curdle film, one to remove it. And this is done in scientific ways, not by harmful scouring.

A new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. It brings other new results now considered essential. It avoids several old mistakes. In this tooth paste are embodied these two great film combatants. The name of the tooth paste is Pepsodent.

Two other new effects

Pepsodent brings two other effects which research proves essential. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's negotiator for the acids which cause decay.

It was found that tooth pastes based on soap and chalk brought just opposite effects. That is one reason why they proved so ineffective. They reduced the tooth-protecting agents which Pepsodent increases many fold.

These results mean a new dental era. They mean that your children need not suffer what you suffered from your teeth. They mean that film-coats can be combated.

A ten-day test will prove this to you. Make that test in fairness to yourself.

Some Fifty Nations

Use this new way now

Careful people of some fifty nations now use Pepsodent, largely by dental advice. To millions of women it has brought new charm, new beauty. To men of many races it has brought teeth they love to show. To children it has brought protections which your childhood did not know.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

What you see and feel will very soon convince you. You will be delighted and amazed. Cut out the coupon now. You won't forget, for this test is important.

Children need

Dominion Rubbers

right through the winter

DOMINION Rubbers mean health protection. They mean freedom from colds, sore throats and tonsilitis, caused by getting the feet wet or sitting all day in damp shoes.

Don't limit the children to a single pair of rubbers each.

You'll find it a real economy to have a pair of rubbers for each pair of shoes, because both shoes and rubbers will wear longer.

Try this plan yourself. DOMINION Rubbers come in styles, shapes and sizes to fit every shoe for men, women and children.

Don't ask for "a pair of rubbers"—insist on getting DOMINION rubbers, the perfect fitting, comfortable, long-wearing rubbers.

PAVING QUESTION IS STILL IN ABEYANCE

POLICE OFFICER FOUND GUILTY

P.C. William T. Evans Fined $25 for Assaulting a Young Man Whom he Had Arrested

Police Constable William T. Evans of the City Police Force, was found guilty of assault committed bodily harm, at the conclusion of his trial on Thursday afternoon, before His Honor Judge Deroche, at the court house here, and fined $25.

Evans was charged with assaulting Philip Foster, while in the act of arresting him and taking him to the police station early Sunday morning, October 29th, on a charge of intoxication.

In examining the latter, Judge Deroche pointed out 4 instances where Foster was assaulted by Evans between the time he was arrested and the landing at the top of the flight of stairs leading to the Police Court officers on Bridge Street E., and the time he was placed in the cell room at the police station. The first blow was on the street after Foster had kicked Evans "and I believe he did kick Evans although he remains he did not," said the Judge. This was justified, however, owing to Foster's assault. The second occasion was in the subway, when, according to the officer after he attempted to slip out of his overcoat, and trip the constable. Evans was justified in hitting him a blow "there." The third time was in the passageway room in the station and the fifth time in the constable's room in Constable Booth, who was in the constable's room when the two men entered testified that there was not sufficient time for an assault in the sergeant's room, but in the case of the 4th instance, where Foster says he was assaulted while in the constable's room, Evans went too far and went over the line of any officer. The evidence of Constable Booth shows that Foster was struck by Evans, while a prisoner in the station, and while in a reclining position on the couch with his entirely unnecessary. Foster was not resisting arrest, but was lying on the couch. He was his twice at this time, there being no necessity, and it appears that Evans should have known it, there is a point by which no police officer must go.

The language which Foster admits having used was not the expression of a willing prisoner, and Foster should be ashamed of himself for having used such language.

Police officers must have protection on the public for without police officers no property or life is safe.

There is no element in every city who will little use the Police Force unless the people are not good citizens, and to all little use to the city. They are a protection and should be respected, and any favour crime to law and order. Evans acted wrong under great provocation, as the language used was very foul, and there was resistance on the part of Foster, which is punishable by a serious imprisonment but will fine not exceed 7 or 10 days in jail."

In addressing His Honour, Major H. Ponton, counsel for accused, pointed out the importance of the case as the dignity of the police force was at stake. Up until this charge, officer Evans' two years record on the police force had been perfectly clean.

Major Ponton also referred to the statement who would be delighted to see one convicted because he is a policeman. These people have little respect for law order and the guardians of the peace.

The evidence was principally the same given at the trial of Foster for assault and the first hearing of Evans' trial before the police magistrate.

In cross examination, Foster stated that to the best of his knowledge he did not used any bad language in the police house, and that the assault occured after he was searched. Witness said that Evans came into the cell only about 3 hours after he was locked up and said "Do you want any more?" in the presence of Sergt. A. Harman and W. W. Boyce who testified that on October 30th as a patient testified that after had a black right eye and swollen, the bridge of the nose that bruised on it, and above the left ear there was bruised. "His visited me again," said Dr. "and I treated his right eye, and condition was improving. I gave him a note dressing for the injured eye, would say that at least two bloody used the condition found in Foster, her dress or indirect. His nose indicated standing and the force was considerable.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

Victory is in sight in the Membership Campaign for membership in the Belleville Chamber of Commerce. The returns handed in at noon yesterday indicated a total of 1585 of these 47 for nearly one third, were new applications for membership. This indicates that the Chamber of Commerce has in the past three years strongly commended itself not only to the old members but to those who were not previously identified with the organization as well as to a number who have come to reside in Belleville since the time of the preceding campaign. The official close of the campaign comes at six o'clock tonight when a luncheon will be served to the workers at the Chamber of Commerce building. There will, however, be a continuation of activity for a few days yet to interview others whom the workers have not been able to see or in some cases where the party to be canvassed has been away from the city. "SONORA" IS TOTAL WRECK

Ran Aground Near Colborne-Thursday Morning, and Was Dashed to Pieces

Troubles never did come one at a time, and a striking example of this occurred here just Thursday morning last, when Captain John E. McQueen lost his boat, "The Sonora" in a storm, 4 miles west of Colborne at Mcallaster's Point, on the lake shore, almost a total wreck, and, the unfortunate part of the matter is that at midnight, Tuesday, a few hours before the accident occurred, the insurance had run out for the season. The boat was insured for $5,000, but after November 14th, all insurance ceases, unless very high premium is paid, owing to the dangerous storms on the lakes in late Autumn.

"The Sonora" was returning from the American shore empty, and was being managed by a crew of three men. They were Captain Al Wilson, George Keegan, and James McInnis. A heavy sea struck the boat, breaking her mast, which rendered her unmanageable, and the wind blowing her landward she was driven over a reef, and the next thing she knew was a crash, and a thick sou'west wind was dashing the white-breakers about unmercifully. The crew, however, went over the boat, so that it was necessary for the crew to jump and swim. All three reached shore without considerable difficulty, and were badly chilled. A fire was built, and their clothing dried, but they still had no idea as to where they were, and did not until morning, when they started to walk in a farm house in the distance. Up until this time they believed they were on an island and not on the mainland. They immediately 'phoned for Capt. McQueen who hurried to the scene of the trouble.

When seen this morning, Capt. McQueen informed the Intelligencer, that he boat is almost a total wreck, and he has given up all hope of ever getting it as badly damaged. Every effort is being made today by a number of men to recover the sails and other engine out of the wreck. The motor which is specially valuable one, weighs 1,000 lbs. All this will be saved in the motor and a few fittings.

The heavy sea slashed the light craft around in the shallow water, punching her full of holes and breaking her back.

Keegan, one of the crew, is one of the two survivors of the wreck of the "Oliver Mowatt" in the spring of 1915, when the vessel was struck by a big freighter, near Kingston, on Lake Ontario. Keegan, it will be remembered, was washed along with his companions, and taken on to Port Dalhousie.

SIGN PETITION TO COMMUTE SENTENCE

This is the eleventh hour appeal in all fair-minded, peace-loving citizens to sign the petition which, it is hoped, will be the means of having the sentence of death pronounced on Maurice Harris, commuted to that of life imprisonment. British Laws have ever been to the world an example of freedom and fair-play, to all citizens. Tracing back the records it will be seen that the number of crimes punishable by death have always been growing smaller, until today there is but one crime that is considered serious enough to merit capital punishment, that of murder in the first degree. As a people we are not all of the opinion that the death penalty should appear on our statutes even for this offence.

In the case of Maurice Harris, the evidence was largely circumstantial, and the youth has not yet turned twenty-one. According to our laws he has had a fair trial. But there are above three facts, of there not exist some special features here? Has he had had a fair trial? Were the conditions surrounding his early life all that could be desired? Is there any reasonable possibility for us, the people of Belleville, that we should exercise? Would not the feeling of justice be satisfied if he were imprisoned for life? Let us ask ourselves all these questions and give the matter serious thought. Remember, not forget, that now the petition has been circulated that we are all partakers in the tragedy. Let us think, we feel some day soon, when we hear that the youth has paid the penalty for his misdeeds, with his life? When we know that the spark of life has fled from the young body, one of God's own creation, will we not feel a tinge of regret? The old policy of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth is not applicable today. Let us all do it today. Sign the petition at once, forget the past just long enough to realize that the end of justice will be served and that a life will be spared.

STATION STREET PAVEMENT REFERRED TO RAILWAY BOARD

Council Decides to Take This Action After Mr. Mitton Has Been Thoroughly Discussed—Proposition to Repair the Street Not Considered Good Policy.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council was held last evening, the object of the same was to consider the Station street paving proposition. As a result of the meeting, after considerable discussion had taken place, the following resolution was adopted by a vote of 5 to 3:

Ald. McCreary moved, seconded by Ald. Green leaf, that the City Clerk and City Engineer be authorized to prepare a statement for submission to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board showing the maximum amount that the property owners of Station street are prepared to pay for the asphaltic concrete pavement on said street, and also a statement of the maximum offer of the city toward paying for all this work, and also that the Council ask the Board its view of the variation between the offers, that they make a statement as to the maximum amount that they will allow us to assess against the frontage and supported by the Board in the matter against the property owners, and that this report be delivered back to the Council by the Clerk and Engineer with a statement as to what width of pavement the report will allow us to build, for final action.

Those voting for the motion were: Aldermen Donohoe, Foster, Greenleaf, McCreary and Ostrom; against: Aldermen French, Patterson and Thompson.

The following recommendations were adopted:

That the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to sign the contract for the construction of the asphaltic concrete pavement on Highland avenue.

That a sanitary sewer be constructed on Pinnacle street from Victoria avenue to Front street under Section 70 of the Local Improvement Act.

"I have the official Dominion Census returns which gives Belleville 12,000. Under your present system of electing your City Council this will give you twelve Aldermen for 1923," said Alderman Kerr.

"This increase over 1911 census is better showing than any other city of the size in Ontario."

"The increase figures out at 37 per cent."

Station Street.

Mr. William Thompson lavered Mr. Donovan's offer of one hundred dollars to get the street in repair and introduced Mr. Donovan, who said he would put the street in repair for $1,000, and that he would lay the new pavement good for ten years at $4.25 per square yard. The repair work did not include sidewalks.

Ald. Donohoe pointed out that the Council had to act fairly with the citizens in general. "We do not wish to force anything down, but we do not think it fair to charge the city, in general with the cost of the work," he said. He thought tarvia not heavy enough.

A letter was read from Mr. E. J. Graham, speaking for himself, in which he expressed a willingness to pay as much as $2.50 per foot for the property owners for a 36-foot pavement, if the road over the hill were not paved at the present time.

Mr. H. McGinnis stated that the property owners could not see their way clear to pay more than $1.50 per foot. He favored a cheaper pavement than asphalt.

"I think a pavement get together," said Ald. French, "and I move that we take up Mr. Donovan's offer."

"How would you adjust the costs?" asked Ald. Donohoe.

"I am not thinking of that," replied Mr. French.

Ald. Patterson favored the Donovan contract for resurfacing.

Mr. Donovan stated that repairs on the macadam would not cost over $100 per year.

Ald. Ostrom: "At whose expense? That is the next most important matter." It was decided that this be left

ONE "DRY" M.P. IN BRITISH HOUSE

London, Nov. 16.—Britain's lone dry member of Parliament is a Scotchman, elected, straight out, from Scotch soil, and he is very sweet; the defeat of Winston Churchill. But although this gifted Scotchman is a minority on the question of the abolition of John Barleycorn, there is a large number of Parliamentarians who privately advocate liquor reform and local option.

There may lead to some very interesting developments if the Conservatives take the lid off, so many of them would like to see the Chancellor of the Exchequer get buttressed, the Government is going to do it for them.

Labor is on record for total abolition of state purchase and control and the Liberals of Queen's College, Oxford, have elected members of Parliament are also local optionists or temperance reformers. Labor and Liberal votes will not be regarded as the first dry wedge in Parliament because of prohibition. Churchill's strong anti-Labor attitude and his alleged responsibility for the unemployment in the empire plans in the Near East helped his opponent. Major Scrymgeour, to win the seat. He is the head of the United Kingdom Alliance, Britain's premier prohibition organization, was recently defeated,

MAN ARRESTED FORGERY CHARGE

Provincial Officers Arrest Youth Charged With Forging Cheques

Everett Jackson, who resides in Gunter's Settlement, near Gilmour, was arrested on Thursday by Provincial officers, F. Hughes and R. Davis, and taken to the city where he is at present in custody.

Jackson is charged with forging and uttering two cheques, amounting in all to some $65. Jackson was remanded until December 2nd, when he appeared in court this morning.

Again Enlarged.

The principal witness in the Thomas case has not yet put in an appearance although efforts to subpoen this witness have been made four times by the police. This fact caused Magistrate Masson to again enlarge this case until Thursday, November 30th.

Coins Remanded.

Peter Sherrow and Philip Sherrow, cousins, who were trappers living in a tent in the woods near Glen Ross, and who were arrested last week by Provincial inspector, F. Napban, and Provincial officer, D. Orris, were this morning remanded until December 2nd for trial.

These two youth, are charged with uttering a summer home in their vicinity, and stealing a shot gun and oth, or valuable articles, while the owner of the cottage, a Campbellford man, was not living in it.

LIQUOR ACT IS CRITICIZED

The Rev. Cook of Vancouver Has Little Use for B.C. Liquor Act

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Winnipeg, Nov. 17.—Vigorously attacking the British Columbia liquor act at the Temperance Convention held here today, the Rev. A. E. Cook of Vancouver, President of the British Columbia Prohibition Association, declared that the measure was made British Columbia the sink hole of the Dominion, had plunged much of the people and government into debauchery, was forcing the Gospel meet deeper into the mire, and had given the name of Canada a byword along the Pacific coast. Battalions of those who could not live a mile from the temptation had marched upon Vancouver and were still coming from all quarters, dragging Vancouver down to degradation. Organized Boot-

ARGUMENT IN LIQUOR TRIAL

Counsel for Defense Will Introduce Important Clauses of Dominion Temperance Act

When court opened this morning for the purpose of hearing the argument of counsel in the McQueen-Jordan—Consolidated Distilleries liquor trial, Mr. Harry C. Hatch, Sales Manager of the Consolidated Distilleries at Montreal, was called by counsel for the defendants, Mr. C. A. Payne.

Mr. Hatch identified various letters which he had been produced as exhibits in the trial of the defendants and which had passed through his hands. Miss Hannah, explaining the origin of the little orphan case of assorted spirits which caused all the trouble in the first place, stated that he had been down to New York city, where he met Mr. W. H. Egan, of that city, who is a prominent friend of Mr. Hatch. Mr. Egan desired samples of the Corby liquor as he stated that he was going on a hunting party up in Connecticut, and might get a big order if the samples were O.K. that was the reason that the liquor was supposed to go to Connecticut in bulk. The liquor was sent to N.Y. "I accordingly wrote to Mr. Hume" said witness "and he prepar-

Bud Oakes attending B.H.S. interested in hockey. Lives at Corn. Fish Hatchery.

NOTES.

Total number of ballots cast 483, increase of 123 votes over last year. Polled 90% of the second boys voted and at least 60% of the working boys.

Credit must be given to Mr. A. C. Willis, principal of Queen Victoria School, who supervised personally the voting in his school in which 93 boys voted and everything was run systematically.

To the following who conducted the election, Mayor Hayes extended his sincere thanks: Deputy Returning Officers, Hedley, Don Caskey, Dwight Wells, Bill Morgan, Bill Rodbourne, Ronald Robinson, Joe Springs, John Lloyd, Stan Wilbur, Herb. Gordon, Vincent Napier, Jack Belair Tom Finnegan.

Council will be installed in office next Thursday evening at City Hall. Junior Chamber Organizing Junior City Hockey League is first business on the programme.

BRINGING UP FATHER ON HIS VACATION

ARGUMENT IN LIQUOR CASE

ers regarding the case. Mr. Mott said the case of samples as ordered and that is how the affair started."

It was a bona fide transaction, and while it was a gift, it was the same as a tooth paste firm passing around small sample packages, with every expectation that the use of the sample will bring forth a good order later.

Very little time was devoted to the arguments before adjournment was taken, Mr. Payne reading sections of the act, which had bearing upon the case before the court. Mr. E. Guy Porter, K.C., M.P., was also in the court room and spent the morning in the eager pursuit of the evidence and the law touching upon this case.

It is believed that efforts to establish a defence will be made from a precedent case in the Province of Saskatchewan, where the ruling was given that the Provincial law could not intervene where the Dominion Temperance Act had made sufficient and safe provision for the protection of such industries in the continuance of their share towards trade and commerce.

Using the words of Mr. Payne, "the Provincial Government cannot enter via the back door to negative a duty which they could not negotiate by entering at the front door."

Crown Attorney Carnew, K.C., holds that the 174 cases of liquor properly labelled and addressed should be considered with, and as the orphan case of assorted samples, which was not labelled, not addressed and which caused all the trouble. Magistrate Hanna did not seem inclined to abide by this request and of course this is a matter for the court to decide.

"There has not been a little of evidence to show fraud in any manner throughout the whole trial," commented His Worship.

Crown Attorney Carnew stated that a second charge would be laid against Jordan, the consignee, who was again present in the court room.

The case was adjourned until December 2nd, when full argument by defence counsel will be heard.

SINCLAIR'S

The Coat for Miss 12-14

While her Coat must be able to withstand the ravages of schooldays, yet it must have the same standard of style as her big sister's and these qualities are happily combined in our Winter Coats. French Velour and Burberette Cloth in Grey, Brown, Blue and Reindeer, carefully lined, carry out many attractive styles. Stitching, pleats and buttons play their parts, with roll collars, pockets and belts, while some have Beaverine collars. The Reefer style is also represented. 12 to 14 years. $8.95 to $20

Concerning the Cloth Frock

A very new caprice of fashion is evident. Jersey and Flannel are the materials; accordeon pleated in the skirt, while the overblouse with bell sleeves or a quaint puffiness at the wrist, is suggestive of Balkan origin. The Navy model with Gold embroidery is very effective, while the "Umbrella" pattern is done in White or Henna. Mohawk Brown with Gold is as captivating as the rest. $22.50.

Our $29.50 Coats are unsurpassed for Value

In Brown and Beaver, all Silk-lined, these Coats of French Velour leave nothing to be desired. Braided, belted and trimmed with Beaverine, their style and value is apparent. $30.50.

Blanket Cloth for Children's Coats

To the mother who prefers to make her children's coats these cloths will appeal. In Scarlet, Brown and Navy, they make very serviceable coats. $2.50 yard.

Gloves must be Cuffed

Fashion decrees it, so of course they are. In various shades of Chamoisette these Gloves are a necessary part of the costume. $1.30 to $2.25.

SINCLAIR'S

DRIVING COAT

To clear out the last one we are offering a special bargain on a

SIBERNAN PONY (Caribou) Coat, trimmed with Japanese Crow Fox Collar and Cuffs, beautifully lined with Moire Poulin, 40 inch boot, 45 inches long at $45.00

This is just the right kind of a coat for the lady who does a lot of driving.

It would be well if more individuals, for personal information, civic gain and general Dominion welfare, studied these business barometers from time to time. The public should keep themselves fully informed of trade statistics. Many trade and financial journals are in circulation, containing this valuable information and The Intelligencer proposes from time to time to compile from Government reports and other sources, the latest figures on Canadian trade. It is admitted that too many figures sometimes, may appear monotonous, but the information they convey is sometimes very profitable and a careful study, or even a casual glance, will not be found amiss.

For Your Dainty Silk Blouses

For your daintiest blouses, the pretty things you do not wish to trust to a washing with ordinary soap, use Lux. The thin, white, silky Lux flakes, specially manufactured by our own exclusive process instantly dissolve into a bubbling lather as harmless to fine fabrics as pure water itself.

If a silk can be washed in clear water alone, it is safe to delicate Lux suds.

Lux is unrivalled for washing fine articles and is sold only in sealed packages—dust-proof

MR. MEIGHEN AND THE RAILWAY QUESTION

Considering the minute knowledge of the Canadian National Railways, that the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen possesses, the public of this country are indeed fortunate in the fact that even if the reins of government are not in his hands just now, he is leader of the Opposition in the House.

No doubt under the new management of Sir Henry Thornton and his incoming directorate many questions of great import concerning re-organization, etc., will arise, and it is just as well, from a protective standpoint, for the people, that Mr. Meighen will appear in the role of critic in these matters. Situations will doubtless occur where his vast knowledge, diligently accumulated during these past perilous years of constant wadding, will be of great benefit in the discussions.

Hon. Mr. Meighen's outstanding abilities in the debates in connection with the details concerning the original plans, construction and ultimate operation of the Grand Trunk Pacific are recognized by all fair-minded individuals. The tremendous obligations and responsibilities relative to railway matters saddled upon his late government and that of Sir Robert Borden, by previous administrations, were well met; indeed, the preponderance of argument in debate rested on his shoulders; and now, when affairs are liable to assume a crisis, the public can safely rely upon his clear judgment and "railway" mind.

The policy of the Liberal-Conservative party relative to the Grand Trunk Pacific deal, during the Laurier regime, is too well known for further editorial comment, and it must be most firmly impressed indeed upon the present Minister of Finance who was among those present. The ruthless expenditure and commitments of those former days covering unnecessary construction, etc., bordered on the extravagant.

Now, unfortunately for those more vitally interested, the predictions of the then Opposition are materializing and Messrs. King, Fielding, Kennedy, et al, certainly may expect troublesome and perplexing times ahead.

THE ASTOR MILLIONS

At a recent political meeting Major John Jacob Astor stated that he was transferring his wealth from the United States to England. The wealth referred to amounts to many millions. About seven years ago Major Astor's father, the William Astor, who all afterwards became Baron Astor, deeded to him land and buildings which were then valued at $7,200,000, and the present value much greater, because of the general enhancements of York real estate. However, this item is only a portion of the Major's American holdings, because in 1919 the Baron deeded to his two sons, New York property to the value of over fifty millions. Some act of Baron Astor circumvented the inheritance tax, which on this large amount would have exceeded two and a half millions. Some American newspapers criticized Baron Astor for these financial transactions, just as he was criticized when he permanently took up his abode in England. The Baron somewhat outspokenly stated that England was the only country fit for a gentleman to live in. He was often condemned by Socialists as an absentee landlord whose American investments were permitting him to live in style abroad. The malicious often hinted that he was making but slow progress in English society and that his efforts to obtain a title had been frustrated. When the title was secured, the old rancour seemed to die out. There is now little salmosity displayed toward the Astors, and it is recognized, that as loyal British subjects it is not only right but natural that they transfer their wealth to England, which they regard as their own country.

The Astors were the greatest land holders in New York City. They are descendants of the German fur trader who founded the fortune. He chose land for his investments judiciously as Vanderbilts and the Goulds chose railway stocks. It has rarely been noted that the Astors sold any land. Usually their income from land was invested in more land. Some of their income was invested in the erection of the famous Astor and Waldorf-Astoria Hotels. It was noted that Major Astor some short time ago disposed of some of his real estate but it was only a small part of his total holdings.

His action now, in transferring the remainder of his wealth to England, is patriotic in the extreme. When one considers the much greater tax burdens existing in England, as compared with the United States. It seems probable that but for the huge war burden that has been laid upon Englishmen of large incomes, there would have been a great American exodus to England who found such arbitrary legislation as the Volstead Act oppressive. Wealth such as that at the command of Major Astor, if properly invested would undoubtedly give considerable impetus to British industry. It is not improbable that it will be re-invested, according to Astor traditions, in real estate.

Here and There

THE KINGDOM OF WOOD PULP.

How many people understand the marvellous transition that has taken place, when they hold in their hands a sheet of paper—even their daily newspaper?

Just a little while ago, it was a living thing in the forest. It spread its wide branches until they met in a vast canopy of brilliant green. Monarch, of the Far Places, each roll of paper was a tree embedded in the firm mossy soil and raising its proud head to summer sunshine and the long, bleak winters of the Land of the Flying Snow.

Then the sound of the axe was heard in the forest, and down the shadowy aisles echoed the lusty songs of men, as the chips began to fly. Straining horses dragged the prostrate logs over pine-needle paths, until river currents welcomed them to a still longer voyage of discovery.

Virgin forests are not desecrated when put to man's purpose. It is a marvellous transition. Every forest tree is a library of books or a fluttering white streak from the heart of the Fourth Estate. And there is something of inspiration in the sudden knowledge that, as one reads, he holds in his hand the breath, the romance, the profound majesty and beauty of the forest.

But there is need for a united effort to save these forests from a real peril, a real destruction. Every year victims treats of Upper-land are ravaged by fire. The hunter or trapper leaves a live coal burning as he passes on; a match is tossed carelessly into dry leaves by the exuberant woodsman. There is tragedy in this, a crime against Nature, against Man himself. It is not what we see that causes paper shortage; it is what we waste, what we wantonly destroy. Let every man be a custodian of our forests, in the things he says, in the things that he does. "Fire in forest knows no quarter.—The Marathon Banner."

AUTUMN LEAVES.

O Mortals, who have suffered, grieved,
Whose eyes look wistfully ahead,
See how kind Nature's hand hath wreathed
The leaves—the Autumn's glory-dead.

No longer o'er the stubble bare,
Or down the rugged mountain vast,
On trackless wastes before they cry
Unheeded and unnoticed past.

Sheltered and safe on Winter's breast
They keep Spring's leaf and bud and bloom
Veiled from storm—they've found their rest.
As mortals shall, beyond the tomb.

CHURCHES TO HOLD SPECIAL SERVICES

Every Man in Belleville Should Be at Church on Sunday

This week is the week in which all the churches throughout Canada are making a special effort in men's work. Pastors and laymen are uniting in putting on a special program for the men of their congregations and on Sunday next services will be especially for men. In Belleville the churches of Belleville are uniting in this worthy work and every church will on Sunday evening hold a service with a special appeal to men in the musical program and addresses to be delivered. These city churches intend a hearty welcome to every man in Belleville to be present on Sunday evening. The pastors and subjects of the sermons are as follows:—

Bridge Street Methodist Church, Rev. F. R. Malott, B.A., B.D. Pastor. Subject—"What Makes A Hero."

John Street Presbyterian Church, Rev. D. C. Ramsay, Pastor. Subject—"The Conquering Christ."

Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, Rev. H. McGregor, Pastor. Subject—"The Challenge of The Cross."

Holloway Street Methodist Church, Rev. Dr. Albert Brown, Pastor. Subject—Manuel of Advent College preach.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Church Street, Rev. A. S. Kerr, M.A. Pastor. Subject—"Men And Religion."

Emmanuel—Reformed — Episcopal Church, Bridge Street, Rev. J. Marshall, Rector. Subject—"The Ambistic Christian."

Christ Church Anglican, Coleman Street, Rev. W. G. Swayne, Rector. Subject—"The Dignity of Manhood."

Tabernacle Methodist Church, Church Street, Rev. W. Elliott, Pastor. Subject—"Succeeding Midst Difficulties."

St. Thomas' Church, Anglican, Bridge Street, Ven Archdeacon G. O. Beamish, Rector. Subject—"The Manliness of Christ."

City Mission, Dundas Street, Rev. J. C. Lamb Subject—"Personal Experiences With The Y.M.C.A. in Four Countries."

Salvation Army Citadel, Pinnacle Street, Adjutant J. Cromwell Subject—"A Young Man Whom Jesus Loved." Ensign Ellis.

NEW MINISTER TO BE APPOINTED

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—The appointment of a separate Minister of Immigration is understood to form part of the proposed plans for a more intensive settlement in Canada. It is said that immigration is too important a matter to be handled necessarily in conjunction with the business of another department.

ANALYSIS OF BRITISH VOTING

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Nov. 17.—Approximating the probable vote for unopposed candidates at 10,000 each, the following is an analysis of the popular vote by parties:—

Conservatives, 5,521,365.
Labor, 4,250,345.
Liberals, 3,784,000.
Georgians, 1,501,600.
Ulster Unionists, 100,000.
Independent, 250,000.

BEAUPORT ASYLUM IS ON FIRE

Place of Detention of Abbe Delorme Victim of Flames

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Quebec, Nov. 17.—Beauport Asylum is on fire. The institution is one of the largest of its kind in Canada. Among the inmates is Rev. Abbe Delorme, who was declared insane following his being charged with the murder of his half-brother, Raoul.

Quebec, Nov. 17.—Fire which broke out this morning in the Beauport Asylum was reported under control before much damage had been done.

SULTAN FLEES FROM CONSTANTINOPLE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Constantinople, Nov. 17.—Mohammed the Sixth, the Turkish Sultan, has fled from Constantinople on a British warship bound for Malta. Upon embarking, he emphasized that he was not abdicating but merely removing himself from immediate danger.

FAILED ANTIDOTE TO VISIT MORGUE

Detroit, Nov. 16.—Weekly visits to the morgue were added to the routine of the automobile division of the Recorder's Court by Judge Charles L. Bartlett.

Judge Bartlett announced that hereafter, once each week, men and women convicted of traffic law violations and given jail sentences will be conducted to the morgue to view the results

STATION STREET PAVEMENT REFERRED TO RAILWAY BOARD

ple who are paying for permanent pavements should pay for Station street."

Ald. Thompson thought Station street should be repaired at the general expense.

Ald. Ostrom declared the policy of building macadam pavements would have to be changed. "What proposition do you wish to pay?"

"It's everybody's street and I do not think it is right to ask the property owners to foot the bill," said Mr. Sleeman.

"We are willing to pay anything in reason."

Ald. McCreary was in favor of the permanent pavement.

A letter from G.T.R. Superintendent J. D. McMillan stated that the moral support of the G.T.R. employees was with the Council.

Ald. Ostrom: "Leave the matter to Public Works for the meantime. The Engineer can take the matter up with the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board."

Ald. Thompson moved, seconded by Ald. French, that the tender of Mr. Donovan for plastic Station street in a first-class condition be accepted, providing it meets with the approval of the City Engineer, and that the Railway Board be notified; work to be done at once.

"Public Works never did better work than has been done this year," said Mayor Hanna.

Ald. Thompson's resolution lost by a vote of 3 to 3, the yeas and nays being recorded as follows: Yeas, Thompson, French and Patterson; nays, Donohue, Foster, Greenleaf, McCreary and Ostrom.

Park Commission.

A largely signed petition to favor of the adoption of the Public Parks Act in Belleville was presented, and if sufficiently signed will be adopted. Ald. Greenleaf stated, if, however, know of international regulations prohibiting pollution of streams en- tering into boundary waters. He said that the City Solicitor's attention be brought to this matter.

Ald. Robinson was the only absentee.

habitually for years will show himself more readily than a non-drinker.

"A moderately heavy blow must have been received by Foster. Foster will perfectly sober when he came to my office. The injuries are not permanent nor serious."

P. C. Arthur Smith, one of the most important witnesses on being sworn said: fied as follows: "I was on duty on the night in question, October 20th, in the station house. I was sitting at the desk, I nidden' Room eating my lunch, the out ter door opened and I heard Evans' voice said 'silent' voice. A scuffle started in the Sergeants' room. The door between the Sergeants' room (No. 1) and the Constables' room (No. 2) where I was was partly closed. I could not see Room No. 1. I could heard the vil language by Foster, then Evans said: "You will, will you?" Then Foster came backwards through the partially opened door into room No. 2.

Foster said, "Don't let him hit me. I want to let feet and struck at Foster him again. I arose and told Evans no to hit him. Foster said he'd give in but also said 'I'll get you for this, Evans." Evans then searched Foster and placed him in the cell room.

To Mr. Foster—I have a mistaken when he says I was sitting in Room No. 1."

"Foster used very bad language re pestedly. I was dressed without uniform or helmet on. Foster was search ed in the Sergeants' Room (No. 1).

Constable Booth testified that Evan had hold of Foster's shoulder with hi left hand and the right hand on the shoulder with his right hand downward striking Foster about the face.

"The second blow was struck similarly except that Foster was up on his feet Foster was staggering slightly and in toxicated but he was not real drunk, and while being searched he said to Evans.

"I know what drunken men will say," as though apologizing for his pre vious behaviour.

To Mr. Foston—"Foster was no searched until after he was struck Foster used very bad language. Evans clothing was dusty from the side.

Melbourne Greatrix, sworn testified as follows:—"I saw Foster standing s the corner of Bridge and Front across on the night in question. I could no see whether he was alone or not. I was hitting in the doorway leading to the stairs, and saw Evans emerge with him I heard Foster call Evans a, "pudding headed Englishman," and I saw Evans hit him and knock him down.

Then Evans grasped Foster by the collar and they proceeded up the passage. I followed. I saw Foster's cap in the passage. I heard Evans say "Get up I bet you laugh, I'll show you."

I looked through the third window west of the door of the police station and I saw Evans strike Foster in the face, and knock him down.

To Mr. Foster—"I have never talked over this evidence with Foster."

Wm. Evans, sworn: told of seeing Foster staggering on Front street, and f shouting once on Front street for him to stop, saying "stop I want to talk to you."

I shouted twice on Bridge street. Foster looked around. Foster was staggering all over the sidewalk. Up the time he kicked me and struck at me, struck him with my left hand. Foster never said "I'll go with you" any time after that, and his actions did not indicate that he would go with me. I took him by the coat collar and he hung on to the post. I finally got him down to the street.

In the stairway he tried to slip out of his overcoat and he stripped me. I was in the east side next the post office as he walked, and he was on the west side. struck him again.

I opened the door of the station and a scuffled right through the sergeants' room into the constables' room.

I did not see Greatrix that night. I pushed him down on the sofa with both hands shoving him in the chest. I pulled him out into Room No. 1 and searched him and he said, "you didn't have to handcuff me." Then I locked him up. I did not strike Foster in the constables' room.

I did not say "Wait till I get you inside, and I'll show you." I did not hear Foster say, "Do not let him hit me, Mr. Evans."

I did not ask Foster "if he wanted my mess" when he in the cell.

To Mr. Carnew—Have you had any friction with other prisoners?"

Mr. Foston—"I object."

Mr. Carnew—"Did you ever assault me Harry Holland after you had him in the cell room?"

Witness—"I did not."

SERGEANT A. HARMAN.

Told of being in the cell room with P. C. Evans about 1.30 a.m. Oct. 20th.

Foster did not appear to need assistance when I visited him. Foster wanted to use the telephone, but I refused to put in the condition in which you are, after you may when you are sober."

This important case created a good deal of interest throughout the city, and during the trial the court room was crowded.

OFFICER SUSPENDED

P. C. William Evans has been temporarily suspended from the Police force, pending the decision of the Police Commissioners on the Evans-Foster assault cases, which they will investigate.

This case has proved to be one of the most interesting cases heard in his city for some time, and has created a great interest. Similar cases are pending at Hamilton and Windsor where police officers are alleged to have assaulted men, whom they had placed under arrest.

BIG GAME SATURDAY

Grand Trunks will meet the Great War Veterans on Saturday November 18th, on the College Grounds. Kick-off 3.15.

This will be one of the best games this season. The Railroaders have a point lead over the Veterans and the Veterans are going all out to win.

They have two more games to play and must beat the G. T. R. on Saturday and the College Boys the week after to win the City Cup. The referee will either be Charles Thompson on Mr. English or Albert College.

SHOPS RESUME WORK

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, Nov. 17.—According to an announcement made this morning by the Canadian Pacific Railway, locomotive shops throughout Canada, which closed down a few weeks ago, will resume operations on Monday next. Approximately 20,000 men are affected.

OBSEQUIES

WILLIAM BROWN

The funeral of the late Mr. William Brown took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence Forin St. at 1.30 p.m. The service, conducted at the home by the Rev. Mr. Elliott assisted by the Rev. Mr. Knox, was largely attended. The bearers were relatives of the deceased namely, G. Brown, W. Brown, A. Brown, E. W. Brown, E. Brown, and R. Ketchapaw. The remains were taken by the Belleville Burial Company to Stirling Cemetery for interment in the family plot.

lfres, Lord Hugh Cecil and Sir Charles Oman, noted historian and Oxford's professor of modern history. The University rejected the Liberal candidate, Gilbert Murray, Oxford's professor of Greek.

"Wells Seat in Doubt

The result of the contest for London University, where H. G. Wells, the novelist,, was a candidate, may not be announced for a day or less, as University voting is conducted by mail, extending over a week.

Two Women Elected

The second woman to be returned to the new House of Commons, Lady Astor being the first, was Mrs. Margaret Wintringham, the present member for the South Division of Lincolnshire. Mrs. Wintringham retains her seat with 21,626 votes against the Conservative candidate, Sir Alan Hutchison, with 18,716 votes.

Churchill Defeated

The most sensational result of the elections was the crushing defeat of Winston Churchill by the Prohibitionist-Liberal candidate E. Scrimgeour, in Dundee. Scrimgeour conducts a prohibitionist paper, and, inasmuch as temperance is by no means a salient characteristic of Dundee, the triumph even apart from his defeat of Lloyd George's chief lieutenant, constitutes a landmark in the political history of Scotland.

Labor Leader Out of It.

Among other notable results announced today was the defeat of the Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson in the Widnes Division, Lancashire, by the National Liberal candidate Mr. Henderson was the deputy chairman of the Labor party, which is now bound to find him another seat at once, since nothing is so damaging to a political leader's prestige as to be left out of Parliament after an election defeat.

CONDITIONS NOT IMPROVING

Constantinople Conditions Are Still a Big Problem For Allies

Constantinople, Nov. 16.—As the Allies have lost every vestige of authority over the Turkish police and even co-operation between the Allied and Turkish police has gone, it is no longer possible to ascertain the slightest control over infiltration of Nationalist soldiers. The Allied military naval forces are not numerous enough to watch all the neutral zone and the Bosphorus, which is over 30 miles long and only 700 yards wide at the narrowest part, so it is very easy for small parties of armed men to cross unobserved. The Turks thus are able to strengthen their position daily, while the Allies remain spectators.

MINISTER WILL UNVEIL TABLETS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—The Hon George P. Graham, Minister of Militia and Defence, will be in Toronto on Sunday afternoon to unveil two tablets to the memory of men who fell in the war. One is to the men of the Governor General's Bodyguard, the other to men of the Toronto Scottish regiments.

CANDIDATES LOSE DEPOSITS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Nov. 17.—Forty-four candidates in the British elections out of 1,263 who went to the polls on Wednesday, forfeit their deposits of £150 each. These include Sir George Paish, noted financier, who ran as a Liberal in Central Glasgow, against Premier Bonar Law. Two women candidates also lose their deposits.

There always are compensations; and while the boy is spending money at college the gasoline bills are less at home.

COMMONS TO MEET MONDAY

London, Nov. 16.—The new House of Commons will meet Monday afternoon next to elect the Speaker, and it is considered certain that the late Speaker, the Rt. Hon. John Henry Whitley, will be re-elected.

Tuesday and Wednesday will be occupied in swearing in the new members and the formal opening of Parliament by the King will take place on Thursday.

"Sir," he said, "you have promised to marry me, and that may be all right. But one has to be careful these days. I'd like to know —just to be sure—is there any inbreeding in your family?"

The old gentleman looked the young man up and down. "I'm afraid there must be," he said.

Did Canada Prevent War in Near East?

One Version Version of the Dilatory Action of Mackenzie King—Col. MacLean Gives His Version of a Negative Way of Doing Business

We Canadians have spent over one-third of our entire resources in the war. Every day every man, every woman, every child must give one to two hours' time, to pay the interest on this vast loss. No one escapes. And this is only a part of what the war cost us.

We were recently asked by cable to answer at once by cable that we were ready to embark on another and greater war.

Some men, not Canadians, who have unusually good sources of world-wide information, whose judgment is generally sound and whose views are held in high esteem, are positive that our Premier succumbed to the Lloyd-George-Churchill demands, preceded as they were by propaganda and scheming for Canadian participation, the rank and file, and of retired army and naval officers and men who are ready to step in and save the Empire should occasion arise. That they are causing a great deal of anxiety to those who regard the British Empire as a tool to exploit their selfish schemes is shown by the strenuous efforts put forth in Canada and certain foreign countries to find what these loyalists are actually doing.

This Intelligence Service did know a good deal about the ins and outs of the Near-East situation and they have excellent co-operation from similarly loyal peoples in other nations, even in Germany and Austria as well as among our Allies. They know that the Turks as a whole were, all through the war, friendly to us, and have been most anxious to be friendly since. They have been in close touch with the insidious propaganda which sought to create trouble. They have followed the war supplies from the dealers to the Greek, Turkish and other armies that used them. It has been going on for two years at least. They can tell you that one able international propagandist receives a salary of $30,000 a year and expenses to supply the biased or false information to the world's press-correspondents, magazines, etc., and they can tell you exactly who pays for the phony story that is at so many newspapers give this as "Special from our own correspondent." They have "put it over" on us more than once several occasions and it seems to me that not a week passes that I do not see a thoroughly loyal contemporary siding in this underground work. Such good papers as the Montreal Gazette, and Mail and Empire are constantly used. It is an interesting fact that these propagandists and their agents in Canada should have known in advance the exact terms of the "strictly secret and confidential" message to the Canadian Government—know it, at least twenty-four hours before the Canadian Prime Minister had any hint of a word of a war that was awaiting this country—an emergency on the surface only, for the plans had been made and set an hour for setting it off had been fixed long before. Saving the Christians; keeping the Dardanelles open; keeping the Turks out of Europe were pure fake cries put out to catch different interests to conceal a continued series of minor reverses, retreats and defeats in the Eastern area beginning in 1890, and to start a war to retrieve them. It is only by such false appeals professional politicians can draw their people into unnecessary conflicts.

Curzon's diplomacy is blamed primarily for these developments. Perhaps never in his history has the Empire suffered such a series of far-reaching defeats. Powerful allies have become dangerous enemies, and great prospective regions of wealth brought in us by the war, have slipped away. Hence the frantic efforts by the politicians to get us in, and the equally strenuous and fortunately successful efforts of the nation represented by General Harrington and his two able assistants, to keep us out.

Canada's Striking Part.

Based on all past experiences, Canada was expected to respond quickly to this false appeal, with a so-called loyal response that we were with the Empire right or wrong. This the British Government would have used as propaganda to club the opposition at home and have at once declared war. But the war and the experience of the years since, have opened wide the eyes of Canadians to the terrible crookedness among British politicians.. Our own Sir Herbert Holt, it will be remembered, pointed this out in a courageous interview during the war—one of the most accurate, scorching and strongest condemnations of modern British political leaders that has ever appeared. It had farreaching effect. It brought national moral support to our own political leaders and to senior officers overseas. Consequently, when President King received the secret official despatch, hours after the international explosion for whom Lloyd George and Churchill are acting had passed it to their agents out here, he called back to know what it was all about. In effect, he wanted to know exactly wherein the Empire was in danger or whether this was merely an effort of Lloyd George and his friends to bring us, by a species of camouflage, into war to aid them in some of their selfish schemes.

So ignorant had the Canadian public been kept of the true facts and so thoroughly had they been prepared with false information that, based on misrepresentations, I am sure the Premier in that action did not represent national sentiment. I collected all the press comments across the Dominion—editorials and opinions of local leaders, and we interviewed a number in our own special fields,—men big in business and finance—and the great majority were disappointed with the Premier, were for Canada getting right back of Lloyd George. Even Hon. Mr. Meighen's belated—and now withstanding the criticism, there can be no doubt of his sincerity—support of Canadian participation received strong national approval. Subsequent developments—and the Canadians are getting only part of the exposures—show clearly that in refusing to back Lloyd George the Canadian Government voiced exactly the sentiment of the masses in the Mother Country. Nowhere has the British situation been put more clearly than in a cable from Sir Philip Gibbs to a western paper, the Lethbridge Herald, I think, when he said:

"There was not a soul who did not know that if this new war happened it would put an intolerable strain on the British people, exhausted, overtaxed, facing poverty. There was no wild outburst of hysteria, anger or alarm, but there was something far more remarkable; that is, a very cold, stern demand from every class of men and women in the Kingdom to know what necessity there was for this new call to arms. They refused to be bluffed into a new war by politicians. They refused to be stampeded into another sacrifice of youth to save the face of any Government convicted of atrocious blundering."

We thus see what a frightful tragedy Canada and the Empire have evaded for the time being at any rate.

The objective of this article is suggested in the last sentence. The danger is not by any means over. It is from Lloyd George it out. But the men who were using him, the men who pulled the wires at the Peace Conference and for whom he was constantly changing his principles and policies, turning up with new ones each morning causing renewed discussions, new settlements, again and again as those interests saw new alignments, are still in control. Two years ago they realized he was losing his hold on British voters. Winston Churchill was selected to succeed and he and the public were carefully prepared. All his important enemies were got out and quieted. He was blessed with a wife of great charm and tact who increased popularity. There was no man in sight with his ability, energy and capacity to overcome defeat. He had one weakness—his tendency to say or do foul things. Experience, it was thought, had overcome this. But he broke out in the Near East message to Canada. He went out with Lloyd George to appease popular indignation. But the group of Empire exploiters did not lose hold for one minute. Some of the leaders change, but exactly the same men made Bonar Law new Premier as directed Lloyd George in his unnecessary charges. Then, cables say our brilliant fellow countryman was the medium through which the plot was worked. They don't put it that way, but, boiled down, that is what happened. Mr. Law is an entirely different type from Lloyd George. He is a highly respected and conscientious servant of the Empire. No breath of scandal has ever been associated with his name. But he is easy-going, trusting, one who will allow things to be done in his name.

Curzon a Source of Danger.

Curzon, who the French and Italians and many British, including some Cabinet colleagues, and Indians, say is the primary cause otherwise Eastern trouble, is once more placed, where he is a great source of danger. His ability is overshadowed by a vanity that is easily influenced by astute flatterers, to the extent of sacrificing the Empire to serve them, sincerely believing the while that he is serving the Empire. He is so superior to surrounding conditions that he fails to understand them. Our troubles in India began in his term there.

The close of the war found us practically in moral and physical control of the great territory lying between the Mediterranean and India. Since then we have suffered continuous diplomatic and military defeats and retreats such as have never happened in British history. No wonder even the British intellectuals—for whom Scott in the Manchester Guardian is speaker—who have hitherto belittled business men, particularly in public affairs, are beginning to ask that imperial affairs be "put in business

MUSIC & DRAMA

HIT PRESENTING GREAT COMEDY HERE MONDAY

"And She Turned Up" is the title of a real fine comedy that will be added for popularity by the popular Rae Stock Company at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday inclusive.

St. Mary's season in Belleville is shortly drawing to a close to be succeeded by the opening of the Griffin and Belleville players' wise contemplate visiting Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday the best forward to announcing one of the finest comedies of his vast repertoire. Bill Yale is featured in the comedy portraying the role of "Caraway Boone" the moderator. A beautiful scenic background is being prepared for the play, and refined vaudeville specialties are announced for presentation between acts.

CHARLES RAY IN "TWO MINUTES TO GO" AT GRIFFIN'S

Starring on a football team, studying seriously and "pudding" milk in the early hours of the morning to pay college expenses constitute a full program for any student to undertake; but Charles Ray found that he had to give up one of these activities, and so he quit the team, thereby earning the scorn of some of his classmates and his sweetheart.

Charles Ray portrays the role of Bennie Barricade in his latest starring vehicle, "Two Minutes to Go," the first theatrical attraction which is the scheduled attractions at Griffin's, today and Saturday, matinee and night.

Of course, Bennie's sweetheart and his best friends did not know the reason for his quitting the team. His father's thirdfish difficulties compelled Chet to pay his own college expenses, and he secretly got a job driving a milk wagon. If Chet hadn't been ashamed of his job and predicament, he would not have earned the score of his fellows.

But a great day came for both Chet and his father. It was the day of the annual gridiron contest with the college's greatest rival for football honors. And Chet saved the day.

"Two Minutes to Go" is a story of college life by Richard Andre.

Round Five of the popular "Leather Pushers" series, "On His Beat," a two reel Century comedy, and a Mutual Weekly, will also be seen at the Griffin. Two other features are being exhibited in addition to the feature offering.

BESSIE BARRISCALE IN SPLENDID OFFERING AT REGENT

Settings of unusual charm and good taste form the background for "The Breaking Point," the latest Hodkinson released picture starring Bessie Barriscale, which began a three days' engagement at the Regent Theatre yesterday, with a matinee daily.

"The Breaking Point" was adapted by H. H. Van Loan from the novel, "The Living Child," by Mary Lowber. J. L. Frothingham is the producer, and in this picture at least he has shown himself a master in the rare art of picking casts. For, besides Miss Barriscale, whose work is always sympathetic, there is a supporting cast which possesses great strength—Walter McGrail as the weak and vicious husband, Eugenie Besserer as his dignified and charming mother, Ethel Grey Terry, as "the other Woman", and Pat O'Malley, Wilfred Lucas, Joseph J. Dowling, Lydia Knott and Jack Mc-Kenzie, Irene Yeager, complete the list.

The story is one which, while bordering on the melodramatic, is nevertheless entertainment that will appeal to the discriminating.

Comic Cartoons are being exhibited in addition to the feature offering.

TanlacDoesthe Work States Rickson

Bill Sandiver, who vouches for the fact that "Tanlac makes you eat better, sleep better, work better and feel better," is Jerry Rickson, 1001 4th St., West, Calgary, Alberta, Canada. He valued surgeons on the Robin Hood Milling Co. in telling how the medicine helped him to regain his robust health. Mr. Rickson said:

"For four years I was put terribly run-down, shaking and I kept getting worse. I was in such bad shape I fell off from a hundred and fifty-eight pounds to a hundred and thirty, and I tell you it took a mighty effort for me to keep on working. Somehow I stuck it out, but my nerves were certainly very shaky, and I got but very little rest nights. My appetite dwindled to almost nothing and even when I did venture to eat a regular meal it did me no good whatever.

"I saw by the papers where Tanlac was being praised by lots of people, so I started taking it, and I sure am glad I did. Five bottles put me in fine shape again, I eat hearty, sleep soundly, and have gained back a lot of my lost weight. Tanlac does the work without a doubt, and I am more than glad to recommend it."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Too Literal.

A lady one day opened her door to a hawker, who was going from house to house selling lavender.

The man, after getting the lady to purchase a penny bag, began moaning remarks about the wet weather, and commenced on what many years he had to stock it; if a day before he could get anyone to buy a bag of his lavender.

The lady, who could not help feeling a little sorry for the man, said:

"Yes, it must be a very hard way for you to get a living."

"Well," said the hawker, using a colloquialism, "I can tell you, this, that it ain't all lavender."

"Oh, sir!" replied the lady, "if it ain't all lavender I will have my penny back."

Farmer Brown had a lot of hens stolen, so he decided to buy a dog. He sent his man to town and told him to get a good yard dog. Soon after the man returned, escorting a dachund.

"What the dickens do you call that?" gasped the farmer.

"Well," replied the man, "it's the nearest I could get to a yard; it's 3 feet, 11 inches."

Severe Kidney Trouble

Mrs. F. Rinehart, Campbellville, Ont., writes:

"I had trouble with my kidneys and very severe urination. This was followed by pains which at times were very severe. The doctor said I had inflammation of the bladder and that an operation might be necessary. To this I refused, and began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. From the first few doses I felt the benefit. The pains left, urination was corrected, and I have had no recurrence of these ailments."

An Economical Corset

Is a corset which serves you more comfortably and lasts you far longer than the cheaper corsets you have worn before.

Corsets can be made as cheap as you wish, but unless the known standards for cloth, boning, stitching, hose supporters and other details are maintained, the corset cannot last or keep its original proper shape. It is economical to buy good corsets — corsets that are guaranteed.

Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets

MADE IN CANADA

are not the cheapest corsets, but we believe them to be the most economical, at whatever price you pay. They are made as low as $1.50, and even these are guaranteed; but for maximum service, longest wear and most satisfaction we recommend styles at higher prices, up to six or seven dollars per pair.

It pays to buy better Corsets.
It is economical to buy Warner Corsets.

Every pair guaranteed not to rust, break, or tear.

NOVEMBER.

(By Charlotte L. Patterson)

The sere-browned November month
Puts on its parting mantle of the rain,
Which, like a shroud, envelops all the earth,
Yet still hints and flashes with gleams
Of sunshine.

Its sere-browned face and mystic eyes,
Its sweet brows and furrowed fields
Its cheer on sheltered nooks
Its cheery crowing and rooster-
ings,
Its swelling shadows flung
Its soft tones round woods that croon
Its floe as changed by its moods
Its progress on its journey.

SUITS AND STREET COSTUMES

With the advent of really cool weather, the very definite favor accorded suits becomes more noticeable. Without question it is difficult to say which is the more popular, the suit or the dress and coat model, each has its advantages, each has its place in the wardrobe, depending on individual taste.

There is a gratifying diversity of style in the suits shown by the best modistes this season, and the reason for this is no reason for wearing any clothing, whether it be ready-made or her own particular design, that does not express the individuality of the wearer. Suits are shown in many models, ranging from the severely tailored to the elaborately trimmed, and in materials including the new duvetyn, the uneven surfaced velvets, and the ever popular tricotine, the uneven surfaced velvets, and the ever popular tricotine, which strikes a new note in the popularity it is enjoying this season. Duvetyn is also much in evidence for wear on one side, and definitely Russian in character, and there are also suits shown here of fine cloth that are youthfully gay.

Not the least attractive feature of the costumes are the materials selected for their development, for they would indicate unlimited fashion features, in design, and in the blending of colors than in the fabrics themselves. Softened lustrous satins, soft and attractive, and the uneven surfaced velvets, and the ever popular tricotine, which strikes a new note in the popularity it is enjoying this season. What One Woman Does In Iowa

"The busier you are, the more time you find to do, which is the reason for this," Mrs. Ickes is said to be the idea of Mrs. Richard Schmidt of Scott County, Iowa.

Mrs. Schmidt proved herself that fact by the mother of eight children and the home girl of a large farm. Besides found leave on time or strength for anything else, Mrs. Schmidt knows better than to be busy. She finds time to help rear her farm women of Scott County and with the help of the Extension Service and the specialist to "put over" a nutrition project that took first place among the county projects that left their mark at the Iowa State Fair. Nutrition, clothing, home management, child-training and home grounds also Girls' Club work were the principal ideas aroused in the twelve counties competing in the exhibit.

However, aside from the wonderful results of project work, there remains the lofty ideal of the girl and one that is even more important. They were evidence that all over town, farm women are meeting to work together in organized groups in home and community matters; that their self-confidence is being widened; that they are alive to their responsibilities in connection with the organized farm movement of the day. In these connected witness the topics presented and discussed by farm women at their meetings in connection with the exhibit. Girls' Club Work, State-wide Projects, Increasing Farm Buyers' Membership, etc., etc.

The farm women of Iowa are working at their job; they are working at it intelligently, and they report progress.

A FEW LAUGHS

Irreducible Minimum.

Even a Boston lawyer can't reduce the number whose expression is required in the making of a satisfactory kiss.

And When He Got Home He Couldn't Find The Mouse Hole.

A farmer spilled some whiskey on his vest lately and a thin stream trickled out to the centre. A mouse, cautiously creeping along, took a sip and died back to safety. Then he came out again and took another, hurrying back. But the third time he came out he took several laps, then jumping up on a convenient soap bar and writing his tail in the air, he loudly squealed:

"Now bring on that blamed cat!"

MORE LIGHT NEEDED

It was a sleepy village, and its fire company was anything but up to date.

One night a fire was announced by the violent ringing of the alarm bell, and the sleepy firefighters arrived all in a bunch to see about it. Find the building wreathed in curling black smoke. No flames were visible from the outside.

The captain of the company made a careful survey and then calmly told his plan.

"We'd better leave it alone and let it burn up a bit," he said, "else we'll be able to see what we are doing."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A little Southern boy, "down and bred in the brier patch" of Presbyterian orthodoxy, returned from Sunday School and asked his mother, in turn, to catechize his mother.

"Mamma," he solemnly inquired, "are Jews a Jew?"

"Yes, certainly," in mild surprise.

"Are you sure," he persisted, knitting his brow.

"Of course," emphatically.

The child was unconvinced, and ready for an argument.

"But, Mamma," he reminded her, "God is a Presbyterian. How could his son be a Jew?"

The rattle of the fifteen isn't the significant thing. The trouble starts when the driver gets rattled.

LINKED LIVES

By

D. Kinmount Roy

His son was so far from understanding what was in the older man's mind that it was quite useless to disclose to him the full extent of what was expected of him, and the difficulty was not lessened by the fact that the reason for the step he contemplated could not be divulged to the young man, without unsettling the whole fabric of his life, and involving his father's character.

At last Kinkman grew weary of waiting, and one afternoon sought out Heathfield, and found him on the side of a well-wooded hill overlooking the bay of Isle, where Oona, unconscious that their eyes were upon her, occupied her favourite nook with a girl friend of her own age who had lately been her constant companion, and to whom she was doing the honours of the island with the utmost satisfaction.

Sandy was watching by Heathfield in silence, as the blonde and dark, the ever-changing, ever-contrasting, ever-blending colours of Kinkman and Oona, framed in the green of the shrubbery, stood out against the silver of the sea, and fell upon them and brought the work to an end.

Still, it had to be done, and Kinkman plunged into it with but little preface, as the business was now urgent.

"To carry off the lady!" Heathfield exclaimed; "why, you must be mad to propose such a thing! Win her, I will, if honest devotion can, but to force her into a doubtful position!—nothing under heaven could make me do her such grievous wrong."

"Why, then, you really love her, Kinkman remarked with satisfaction, "and she will the more readily forgive you, when she has time to think it over."

"Take my word for it, all will be well in the end."

Heathfield closed his sketchbook hastily, and rose in disgust, angry scorn was in every movement. "Not to win Heaven nor to escape hell would I do the lady such an injury—such a reprehensible injury," he said, as he faced his father with clenched hands, trembling with passion—"did you bring me here for this hellish scheme?" he demanded in a hoarse voice of suppressed fury—"Am I to be false to my own second Paradise?—and you—you!—Oh, God, you my father!—and the young man covered his face with his hands, as he threw himself upon the mossy-covered bank, perhaps desiring to hide his tears, but he did not, in the sight of the tempter.

Kinkman was taken by surprise. After all, then, he did not know this son of his—he had never taken time to cultivate his acquaintance, and as to his notions of conduct or honour—well, he had never even thought of that.

That the young man would think and act for himself had not occurred to him. The situation was unlooked-for; he was content to let Heathfield's passion spend itself, while he turned it over in his mind.

A refusal from his son! He had never thought of such a thing! That plan was easy and excellent—the best for the girl, and very desirable for this foolish young man.

If this nonsensical lad continued refractory, so much the worse for Oona; and besides, he had a great deal to gain, or lose in the matter himself.

There is another side to this thing," he said at length, as Heathfield rose, and sat down upon the trunk of a tree, exhausted by his own violence, with his eyes fixed in wonder and passion upon the little island.

"Another side to the matter!" the son echoed. "It is to be hoped so!"

"Yes," Kinkman continued, without noticing the tone—"the lady is in great peril—peril even of her life. I know no other way to save her, and you have refused."

"My God!" the young man cried, in amazed horror, springing to his feet; "danger of her life!—she!—Oona, in danger! For what? Who—tell me!" He was white to the lips, with a look of intense, passionate eagerness upon his face. Kinkman for a moment quailed before it. An observant stranger might have noticed a likeness between the two men when the depths were stirred which unmistakably proclaimed them father and son, past all doubt.

"It is only a question of days," continued Kinkman, "office she is carried off, as I have said, she is lost."

"Why not tell her friends," suggested the young man; "I will grant omit!"

"That would only involve them in her ruin," replied Kinkman, with the air of a man at his wits' end to find means of doing a kind action.

"You are dreaming," said Heathfield at last, making an effort to throw off the burden of the last hour; "certainly, you must be dreaming!"

"No," said Kinkman, slowly; "I leave that to my son, and with him joy of his awaking!" Kinkman rose, as if the matter were at an end.

The young man paused. "It to carry her off is the only way to save her—Heaven help me!—I would die for her! —said it there is no other way—so be it! I may as well make the sacrifice, and earn for ever her contempt and loathing! Oona, Oona!" he whispered—he himself, in a passion of agony, standing out his arms towards the little island, where the unconscious cause of "his all" still lingered, "Oona forgive me!—forgive me this wrong!—forgive me!"

A stone flew past them at that moment, and nearly cut in two a tall stalk of goldenrod, which had stood out bravely among its fellows. Kinkman started, and turned to look for the cause of the interruption, and there Sandy was sitting in the grass, blowing thistle-down off the stems, and watching their airy flight with great satisfaction.

"For answer, Kinkman advanced towards him threateningly, his face aflame with fear and passion, and his hand raised to strike.

THE CLUBS AND THE COUSIN

"You make my breath away when you swing your clubs like that," laughed Mrs. Kendall.

Barbara twirled her clubs skillfully. "Just wait until you see me at the exhibition. We're going to use bright colored clubs, and it will be very pretty. I bet I make Gladys Peggy's own eyes. Will she be here by that time?"

Barbara's mother looked troubled. "I suppose so" she sighed.

"You don't seem very keen about having her come," said Barbara.

"I'm afraid I'm not," her mother answered. "If it weren't that your father insists—I think that your Aunt Kate, who has been keeping her would like to get us to let her stay. She threatens to send her to a reform school."

"Oh!" gasped Barbara. "I think that would be just awful."

"She's very hard to manage. Of course having no father and mother had made her very unfortunate. She had run away twice, and she picks such bad company. I don't know what your mother means, bringing her here with you."

"I'll handle her with clubs," announced Barbara. "Don't look startled. I'm not so dangerous as I sound."

Two days later Barbara was again practicing, and at each burst, bright eyes! "What are you swinging, those sticks around for?" she asked, after they had talked politely for a few minutes. Barbara explained. "We didn't have any—what-you-call-it—gymnasium—in Cedarville. It was such a darned pokey town. Nothing to do. I quit going to school, and Tu not going back, either."

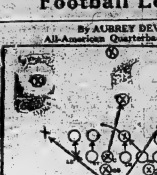

"No grin!" exclaimed Barbara. "My goodness! And I'll bet you never went swimming, either. I'm going to see if I can't get you into the class after school. Now don't get scared. It isn't going to school."

That was the beginning of Peggy's training. The day some one told her she had a dandy arm for handling clubs, it was a shame she wasn't in school so she could be on the basketball team, her eyes shone so that she looked like a different girl. It was the next week she asked Barbara's father if he "wouldn't mind keeping her on?"

Football Lessons

By AUDREY DEVINE
All-American Quarterback, 1921

Lesson No. 11. The Cross-Buck

This cross-buck play is executed by the offensive team lining up in the formation diagrammed above. The left end and the left tackle are at the left of the center, and the left guard, right guard, right tackle, and right end are on the right side of the center. The quarterback should take a squatting position directly behind the center. The right half-back should line up one yard behind the right guard. The fullback should be stationed about five yards behind the center, and the left halfback about a yard to the right of the fullback.

The ball is passed to the quarterback, who pivots in his position by reversing the positions of his feet and bringing the opposite direction. The quarterback makes a bluff to pass the ball to the left half, who jumps forward to the left side of the line. The ball is not passed to him, but he goes on and over the opposing right end. The fullback should run behind the line parallel with the line of scrimmage. The left halfback should run behind him low and close to the ground hitting him high. The right end and tackle turn the opposing tackle out (to the right), the end holding him in low and the tackle hitting him high.

After the center has passed the ball, he slides through the line and blocks off the tackle's fullback. The left tackle hits the defensive right guard, and the left end checks the defensive tackle out.

The quarterback tosses the ball.

In order to work this play successfully, the quarterback must consider the end of the play before he starts. He must not fake pass to the left half, when should also carry out the fake by making it look as if he had the ball when carrying the line.

The fullback should not be in the line of scrimmage, but should wait until the defense has had a chance to be drawn over to the left by the left half pass. He should start with all the speed he has, and the quarterback should watch the defense and if he sees that they have all turned keeping her on!",

DID CANADA PREVENT WAR?

men's control that they may save the Empire from the mess into which it had been brought, by politicians and statesmen.

By political trickery or exigencies, the power passed to party rulers. They will no doubt submit to restrictive, these lost fortunes by loss of many of business men's interests sensed. The Empire will be once more prepared by the usual insidious and unlimited propaganda. The Empire most certainly be called to join another war, nominally to save the Empire, but really to aid in the interests in their varied interests—money, power, titles, etc.—in the eastern area. They are busy today, particularly in the Canadian churches, clubs, and among the Canadian colleges, spreading the theme and wrong principles of loyalty—not always directly but often through our own agitators.

How easily the mind can be moulded is shown by recent experience in Winnipeg. The Free Press is edited by Mr. Dafoe, who inherited the wise-loyal traditions of his family—one of these known as United Empire Loyalists who were driven out of the States after the Revolution because of their adherence to the Mother Country. He took an insane stand against any Canadian assistance to the Near East until we knew what Canada could approve of and the products—whether they were in the interests of the Empire. An effort was made to organize a boycott against the leading citizens to boycott this great editor and fearless newspaper. Most respectable persons were accommodatingly worked up to a state of indignation against Mr. Dafoe for not supporting Lloyd George. But the significant quickly indicating that the British people themselves took the same view. Those who investigated are certain that the same group that helped to inspire the Winnipeg strike pulled the wires that made respectable citizens believe they were expressing Imperial loyalty by attacking one of the Empire's chief loyalists.

These things are going on all the time. They are likely to happen again. And we may not always have a student with an investigating mind in the Premier's chair.

I had many similar experiences during the war—some disagreeable, many interesting and amusing, and a few very serious. We published many articles that went very strongly against an uninformed, public opinion. Some times it was thought advisable for me to do so and I took personal responsibility for them. Accusations were made against me all the way up from being a friend of the Jews to high treason. I was not a Britisher, but even a British subject. No harm can now result from giving some facts.

Colonel G. T. Denison, Police Magistrate in Toronto, was appealed to on several occasions when there seemed to be no doubt as to my disloyalty. He invariably assured these public-spirited citizens, some of whom we knew were unconsciously inspired—including the Crown Attorney—by enemy agents that I was certainly a very dangerous character, that he was just waiting until he had a sure case to send me down for life. The case then away happy. The funny part of it was that Colonel Denison was the one man in Canada to whom I showed all important matters as they came through to me. In any of these by personal messengers—officers returning from Europe or elsewhere. He himself had such a thorough knowledge of world conditions and such excellent judgment as to the wisdom or otherwise of letting out information that some of our influential friends thought should be made public, that his counsel was invaluable. On two or three occasions matters were passed to Sir Sam Hughes or General Mewburn and one other man at Ottawa who always acted with great intelligence and promptitude. Sir Sam found a reward me by getting me among the "immortals" on the Headquarters Staff with a general's rank. To which I responded that he give the title to someone who had served overseas, that I preferred my present civilian status after thirty-five years' continuous Active militia service, and I do not know how many more of the Reserve. I interest became many times I have been charged with having no military service—that I was one of Sir Sam's numerous "Honorary Colonels."

I have also been charged with always standing on the fence. But I have turned down the exclusive opportunity to publish a number of internationally sensational stories, in 1914; strenuous efforts were made by one of our leading diplomats—a leader in rank, not in ability—to have me, by allied interests, let out a most sensational story based on a set of documents offered for sale to the British. The object was to weaken a very important public man most unfriendly to the allied cause. Most flattering inducements of preferment were held out to me. The matter was one of the most dangerous and ill-natured entirely outside our policy. I kept absolutely away from it. Later the [illegible] in spite of the efforts of loyal American and Canadians to hold him, but he was sabbed immediately on his arrival in England by Sir Basil Thomp[illegible]. He claimed to be a Finnish citizen and not a German. "All right," said Sir Basil, "I'll send you to Finland," and insisted upon doing so, which brought Mr. Nuorteva to his senses with tears running down his cheeks and pleading not to be sent to his own country, that he knew only would call him a traitor. Sir Basil was inexorable, but again political friends in England interceded and he was allowed to proceed by another route to Russia, where he was until recently in charge of an important department of the Soviet Foreign Office. It may interest some of those who believed these influences were fairy tales to see some documentary evidence.

I have picked from an immense mass belonging to the British Intelligence Service here three sample telegrams which deal mainly with the cancellation of Orders-in-Council which were checking enemy activities. There are many other letters and telegrams bearing on these, a most friendly one from Premier Borden's secretary being among them. One interesting telegram was sent to Nuorteva by Albright on October 9th from Toronto urging him to be at Ottawa the following Monday, pointing out that they were "not getting much help from their English comrades in this country but that officials of the Trade and Labor Congress at Ottawa had promised to assist them". And that a member of that Congress did give them very great assistance which cost Canada some hundreds of thousands of dollars to correct. On October 10th, Albright telegraphed Nuorteva not to send Sloboskin, to wait for further instructions. The party with which we are affiliated must wait for the official interpretation of the Order-in-Council." Sloboskin's name appeared many times in German papers captured by the British.

On another date, Mr. Albright wired from 27 Alcorne Avenue, Toronto:

"Yesterday I telephoned you asking to go to Ottawa. Had better to come to Toronto. Wire immediately." And again, "Nuorteva has not arrived. We are waiting for him very anxiously as our decision is tied up and his presence is then urgently required. Could you give us some reason as to delay and destination? Hope any possibility of his arrival these days? Wire answers immediately."

Only Parliament Must Speak for Canada

As recent experiences show, exploiters have a habit of putting their agents in strategic places. They have some so in Canada. We found their dupes in our Cabinet during the war. Should we not safeguard ourselves at the U.S. did by making it clear now that only Parliament can commit it to any great venture; make it clear that no words of encouragement from a Prime Minister are like trickery—or otherwis, h twisted into a debt of honor?

And next, should we not organize for our protection a Political Intelligence Service—strong enough, independent enough to be superior to any party or clique? If Colonel Denison had been called to Ottawa in 1914 to organize our job for which he was peculiarly fitted—many, many of our troubles would not have arisen. All classes, including the misinformed and misled French Canadians, would have had fair confidence in his information and advice. It was he who swung Laurier back of the Empire in the South African War and brought his own prominent loyalty with us at all times. As evidence of the accuracy of his information when I told him in June, 1914, we were looking for Colonial Ecrope, he was surprised and pleased with me—not to go or at any rate not to be more idiotic by taking my family. He was positive the Germans would attack in July. I told him he was wrong. The war would not come until 1915, according to Russian and French plans. Thanks to the American Embassy, we avoided internment in Austria for the war; and to our eminent Jewish friend, we escaped from Germany. Moved over from what I learned in Berlin and confirmed by a former Turkish and Bulgarian minister who fought with us in S. Africa—it was going to be a five or six year war and said so in The Financial Post in October, 1914. To prepare business men for what was in three months the allies would be in Berlin. Again, Denison was equally well informed. Loans of from one to two billions of dollars, as the type we need. Only two other persons scored at the moment: Major-General A. B. Perry, late R. C. M. P., and General Mitchell, late chief of Intelligence.

Canada's Colossal Costs

If you ask the average man just how much the war cost Canada he will promptly tell you just over a billion and a half dollars. Few of us think beyond that; think of the other direct as the many indirect costs. Last week MacLean's made a rush call on Mr. Coats, Statistician, Ottawa, with suggestions for preparing figures of several of these unthought of charges. It might be well for us to have them before us when estimating what a new war, brought on by misgovernment might cost us. Mr. Coats had not completed the work when it was time to go to press, but already we find that the cost is more than three times the popular estimate.

Elsewhere in this issue we publish a rough estimate by Mr. Coats, which takes account only of the principal positive and negative elements of cost. The total amounts to the appalling sum of $3,209,000,000. Mr. Coats had already estimated our national income at $6,400,000,000 in 1919-10. Therefore, the war cost, direct and indirect, amounted to the equivalent of one-third of the accumulated wealth of the country as it was "appraised in 1919. Moved over from what I learned in Berlin and confirmed by a former Turkish and Bulgarian minister who fought with us in S. Africa—it was going to be a five or six year war and said so in The Financial Post in October, 1914. To prepare business men for what was in three months the allies would be in Berlin. Again, Denison was equally well informed. Loans of from one to two billions of dollars, as the type we need. Only two other persons scored at the moment: Major-General A. B. Perry, late R. C. M. P., and General Mitchell, late chief of Intelligence.

Canada's Colossal Costs

If you ask the average man just how much the war cost Canada he will promptly tell you just over a billion and a half dollars. Few of us think beyond that; think of the other direct as the many indirect costs. Last week MacLean's made a rush call on Mr. Coats, Statistician, Ottawa, with suggestions for preparing figures of several of these unthought of charges. It might be well for us to have them before us when estimating what a new war, brought on by misgovernment might cost us. Mr. Coats had not completed the work when it was time to go to press, but already we find that the cost is more than three times the popular estimate.

CHAMBER OBJECTIVE ALMOST REACHED

A SPECIAL for THE INSPECTION OF THE NORTH

As the disaster by fire in New Ontario has been so severe in its effects that it is generally felt that all citizens should co-operate in relief measures for the stricken sufferers, the Northern Ontario Relief Committee will conduct a special train through the devastated districts, with as many of the mayors, presidents of Boards of Trades and Chambers of Commerce and newspaper representatives of the province on board as can be under that they may personally see the existing conditions, and aid in placing the great needs of the north properly before the citizens of the communities.

Mayor E. C. Gowland and President E. H. Lancaster, of the Chamber of Commerce have been invited to join the party, and The Standard will be represented by A. R. MacDonald, who will endeavor to place a record of the conditions and needs of the devastated district before the people of St. Catharines through the columns of this newspaper.

The importance of public attendance of further relief efforts is emphasized in the following three telegrams:

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 15, 22.

I think it much in public interest that you should see actual conditions in Ontario discovered by fire and suggest you therefore recommend that you accompany Northern Ontario Fire Relief Committee through fire zone on Friday night.

MACKENZIE KING,
Prime Minister.

Toronto, Nov. 15, '22

The disaster by fire in Northern Ontario has been so severe as to call the co-operation of all citizens and I heartily agree with the suggestion of the general committee in charge of relief that the presidents of the Boards of Trade of cities in Ontario should visit the stricken areas by the special train which will leave Toronto on Friday evening to-night week, in order to have brought the great needs of the north properly before their communities.

HENRY COCKSHUTT,
Chairman of Ontario,
Toronto, Nov. 15, '22

You are invited to join party on special train leaving Toronto Friday night, November 17th, to visit scene of recent fire. Returning arrive Toronto Tuesday morning. Train will leave from Toronto supplied. Wire reply to Northern Ontario Fire Relief Committee, Toronto.

E. C. DRURY,
Premier.

The Intelligencer has sent a special representative to the North with this prominent deputation and will have a full account of the actual conditions existing in the Fire Swept area, early next week.

CHRISTMAS MAIL FOR OVERSEAS

Postmaster Gillen wishes to draw the attention of the public to the fact that parcels or mail matter intended for delivery in European countries before Christmas should be mailed at as early a date as possible, preferably within the next two weeks and at the very latest in time to connect with the sailing of "Metia" sailing from St. John on December 9th. This means that all parcels to be sure of reaching this steamer should be placed in the Belleville post office on Wednesday the 6th of December.

MAIL CHRISTMAS PARCELS EARLY

Remember that thousands of OTHER people are mailing the same number of letters and parcels, too, at this season, and if they all pile up together they are too large to get through to get everything handled and delivered on time, and SOMEBODY is bound to be disappointed. Mail early, and see that YOUR friends get your Christmas greeting before the day's festivities are over.

WILL CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Will Belleville be Honored by This United Empire Loyalists' Celebration?

The United Empire Loyalists' Association held the first of the season's meetings Thursday night at the Inglenook Tea Rooms, in Toronto, when arrangements were made to launch the Celebration of the 140th Anniversary of the Settlement of Upper Canada by the Loyalists, in June 1924. The resolution providing for the celebration was introduced by W. C. Mikel, K.C., seconded by Rev. Canon Macklem of Toronto, who is a descendant of the first Postmaster of Belleville. Mr. Mikel also presented an invitation from the Belleville City Council to hold the celebration at Belleville.

It will be a nation wide event. The Governments of the nine Provinces and of the Dominion will be invited to send representatives. A number of prominent citizens of the United States have promised to be present. Branch Committees will be established in different parts of Canada and the United States, and an effort will be made to bring at least ten thousand distinguished visitors to the celebration.

It will be worth while for the citizens of Belleville to put forth every effort to have the celebration held here.

ADMIRAL SIMS GETS DEGREE

Special Convocation at Queen's University on Friday Morning

Kingston, Nov. 17.—There was a special Convocation held last night in Grant Hall when Queen's conferred the degree of LL.D. upon the Honorary Degree L.L.D. On Friday morning there was a large turnout of guests in the Students' Hall to hear Admiral Sims, Acting Mayor Col. Rent read the civic address of welcome by Dr. Jordan, and Principal Addressed in an eloquent address. Mr Hugh Nickle. Ex-Mayor was called upon to explain the memorial windows which were placed in honor of the sons of Kingston who made the supreme sacrifice in the last great war for freedom and Ethics.

On the platform were Gen. Elmsley, Col. Hodder, Gen. McDonald, Gen. Ross M. P., Hon. Dr. Edwards, W. F. Nickle and other prominent citizens, Aldermen, etc.

WRIT ISSUED AGAINST CITY

City of Belleville and P.C. George Stitt, are Defendants in $5,000 Damage Action

Mr. Thomas Holland through his solicitor, Mr. C. A. Payne issued a writ against the city of Belleville, and Police Constable George Stitt for $5000, on Friday.

This action is the result of the accident in which Holland figured with the police car recently, which was being driven by P. C. Stitt at the time. In the accident, which occurred at the corner of James street and Bridge, Holland's car was damaged and he was painfully injured himself.

MEN'S SUNDAY IN CITY CHURCHES

Appropriate Sermons Chosen For Men in all Churches

Every man in the city of Belleville who attends church on Sunday evening, the occasion of the special service for the men of the city, will hear a sermon specially prepared for him and a special effort will have been made to please.

Here are a few samples of the choice subjects which the pastors of the city churches have chosen:

"What Makes a Hero", "The Challenge of the Cross," "The Conquering Christ," "Men in Religion," "The Athletic Christian," "The Dignity of Manhood," "Succeeding Amidst Difficulties," "The Manliness of Christ," "A Young Man Whom Jesus Loved."

Study the church notices in this paper, choose your church for Sunday evening, and be there.

MacSWINEY SISTERS ON HUNGER STRIKE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Dublin, Nov. 18.—Miss Annis MacSwiney has joined her sister Mary in hungerstriking against the latter's detention by the Free State Government. She arrived at Mount Joy where Miss Mary incarcerated last night, accompanied by twelve other women. After reciting the hunger strike announced her intention of staying at the prison gates without taking food until her sister was given spiritual consolation or released.

PARCELS FOR GREAT BRITAIN

The British Post Office has again written stating that trouble and delay is still being experienced in clearing parcels through the British Customs in consequence of vague or inaccurate Customs Declarations, and has furnished the following list of the classes of goods concerning which it is important that the descriptions and individual weights should be accurately stated on the Customs Declarations or on the wrappers of the parcels:

Sugar, Chocolate Condensed milk, Sweets and Confectionery, Cocoa Powder, Milk Powder, Dried fruits.

In the case of Dried Fruits, the precise kind of fruit must be stated, e. g., figs, raisins, currants, etc. Crystallized and imitation fruits and flowers, Dried Fruits, Tea, Coffee, Preserved Ginger, Jams, Jellies and Marmalade.

The British Post Office states that the contents should not be described in general terms, such as "Groceries" "Provisions," "Candy," etc. When there is not sufficient room on the Customs Declaration form the necessary details may be shown by the sender on the cover of the parcel.

LLOYD GEORGE BELITTLES LABOUR GAINS

New York, Nov. 18.—On arrival here yesterday, on his way to Canada, Sir David M. Lloyd George, Welsh coal mine owner, asserted that Lloyd George, although beaten now, would soon regain his former hold on the British people, and again would take the reins of British government in hand. He belittled Labor gains and stated that Labor leaders expect more. From Lloyd George's [illegible] he had learned that the premier expected only [illegible] but he had won eight or

ASSOCIATION WILL CONTINUE

Property Owners' Association of This City Will Continue, as Decided at Last Night's Meeting

Ratepayers of the city of Belleville were not well represented at the meeting of the Property Owners' Ratepayers' Association held last night in the city hall, but what was lacking in numbers, was made up in enthusiasm, especially regarding the prime question of the evening, and the real reason why the meeting was called, and that was to decide whether or not the association should be continued.

The first statement of almost every speaker was to inform his audience that he was in favor of the continuance of the Association absolutely, and the reason for the calling of the convention of the meeting on motion of Mr. W. C. Mikel K. C. which was seconded by Mr. B. Sandford, it was unanimously decided to continue the association, and its work.

Ex-Mayor J. Panter was chairman, and in his remarks, criticized the work on the Commercial street sewer which has been the subject of so much adverse criticism. He pointed out the great evil not the great saving in money by the careful work of those in charge of the building, in the construction of the sewer, by not building too soon.

Alderman William Donohoe stated that he was absolutely in favour of the continuance of the Association, and urged that men in this town who were not dependent upon petty politics, societies or clubs, and men who will voice their views, will then be way up and too little democracy today", said the Alderman from a result of catering to societies, politicians and religious denominations." Forget this stuff and think firstly of the advancement of your city.

Ex-Alderman Woodley stated that the property owners showed clearly their disinterested attitude when 50 of them were present at the meeting. "I say continue the Association, personally, as it will aid the council in doing their work. Council is always on the inside track and should not be criticized."

Speaking of the Dundas street school, Mr. Woodley pointed out ex-Mayor Panter had, that a goodly sum of money had been saved in the building of this school.

Huge overdrafts and excessive tax rate should be avoided. In recent years all the old men were turned out of the council and new blood introduced. Now we have an overdraft of $32,000 to meet.

The rich man is gobbling up the poor man. The laborers property is assessed higher than the rich man's property. I want to see Belleville grow and not by any burdensome for the housedowners on that street, but my opinion is that the sewer was constructed on the right and then submit the results to the Railway Board.

Ex-Ald. Jas. Treverton stated that the council's investigations on the Dundas street west sewer during the past summer were very satisfactory and had been more covering put on this sewer.

Property owners have about as much right to complain about the Dundas street school should not be built yet as the other public school can't be built for 6 months.

Ex.-Ald. George Bennett.

Also believed in the... continuance of the Association along proper lines. He stated that the work was supposed to the erection of the Coleman Ward school at the rest estimated at first, and decidedly opposed the erection of a High School as it will be for the few privileged daughters of the rich. The county should pay 100 per cent. with the city dwellers for the maintenance of the High School here. Eight years the city of Hastings pays but 80 per cent. towards the upkeep of the school.

The bill against the City Council for $1,000 from the Heston Agency was loudly denounced by the speakers and the property council was blamed for this condition of affairs.

Mr. Mikel pointed out at this juncture and stated that: "This year's council did not know Heston's Agency was in existence, consequently when the contract was made by a former council, was that it was a operate until the Agency was notified to stop the contract.

Mr. W. C. Mikel, K. C., believed that the Association should continue. The purpose of the Association, Mr. Mikel pointed out, it were organized for the purpose of electing home few persons to office, should fail, as it would be of little service to the city. It is very much a private agency for this selfish purpose.

"I have no desire of running for any office," continued the speaker, "but I am very anxious to serve our city in every way. Personal reflections are not in good taste either, and personal criticism of other officials' mistakes which we are all apt to make themselves is ungentlemanly.

Care must be exercised in the financing of additional improvements in this city as there is a debt of some $6,000,000 in this city, counting all liabilities altogether. There are 20 miles of paving which requires proper paving or attention of some manner. Mr. Mikel favoured the idea of purchasing a paving plant at a cost of $8,500 to $10,000 and using our own plant and our own men, pave our own streets and do the work, and as much as we liked at a time. The procedure is in vogue in several Ontario towns and is proving a successful money saver. Pavements should not be forced upon people either."

Mr. Thomas Greenleaf spoke a few words relative to his Parks Committee schemes, and proposed vote on the Advisory Commission question in January next.

Hay was fairly plentiful and brought from $12.00 to $13.00 a ton.

Repent Leisure.

The woman was obviously upset. She looked at the mirror in her hand, and, turning to her husband, said: "Why, he's given me the wrong change!"

Hubby was annoyed.

"I thought so," he said. "That's the way he hands out change, I guess! Trust a woman to get fooled! Now go back to the counter at once and get it put right!"

She went, and when she returned he said: "Well, is it all right now?"

"Oh, quite!" she answered. "He gives me ten shillings too much!"

LOCAL LAWYER TURNS PROPHET

Thinks Conservative Government in Britain Will Force Down value of Pound Sterling

A local lawyer states that the result of the British elections will seriously affect and lower the value of the English pound sterling. It is not clear just why this condition should obtain, inasmuch as sterling cables in New York have advanced steadily during the election news, opening at 4.46½ with a firm market and gradually advancing to $4.47 7-8. In the weekly statement of the Bank of England issued yesterday the proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 19.00 per cent. Last week it was 19.06 per cent. It is admitted that strikes, storms, elections, etc., do sometimes cause a panicky feeling in the market, but this is more or less reflected in the speculative buying. The electoral landslide in England would seem to the casual observer to duplicate, in cause and circumstance, the American vote of November 2nd, 1920, when predictions of material fluctuations in the New York Stock Exchange were unfounded. Not only the Labor vote in England has submerged the old opposition parties, they will become the opposition. This situation makes an awkward situation and it remains to be seen whether or not the market will be responsive.

LIVE POSTAL CLERK BOOSTS PARCEL POST

Takes a Novel Idea and Advertises for C.O.D. and Regular Parcel Post Business

SUGGESTION FOR BOOSTING INSURANCE AND C.O.D. BUSINESS.

Seaior Postal Clerk H. W. Gregory, of the Edmonton Central Post Office has submits the following circular which has been issued to the Business Houses of Edmonton, Alta., in order to promoting the use of Post Office Insurance and Post Office C. O. D. Service:

To The Business Houses of Edmonton

Parcel Post Insurance has been in operation just one year. During that period nearly 40,000 parcels have been accepted for insurance at this Post Office, and while this looks like a large number it represents only a small percentage of the total parcels mailed.

We feel that the public and business houses in particular, do not take the fullest advantage of this service system to the extent that they should.

You insure your life, your family, your property, your auto, and numerous other things. Why not have your parcels insured also?

The service offered by the Post Office is second to none. It reaches the remotest part of Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific; from the 49th parallel to the Arctic regions.

The Post Office is also prepared to accept parcels C.O.D.

We carry the parcel: Deliver to Addressee: Collect all charges and return same to you carrying all risks while the parcel is in the custody of the Post Office.

You may send $100 worth of goods to your customer in the country and we will insure same, collect the charge, remit same to you, all for the nominal fee of 30 cents, plus postage charges.

You Carry No Risk Whatever

Why not increase your own interest. Advise your customers that you will ship C.O.D. parcels by post.

The Post Office for all your service, give Post Office Insurance and C.O.D. a trial. Yours in the interests of efficient postal service.

POSTMASTER

Civilization is a matter of hiring servants to do the work and then taking exercise to reduce surplus flesh.

The world isn't really getting better. The fact seems that way because you don't see as many editors of country papers capable of supporting a family on less people. It was a hard yet run with milk and hen

C. OF C. CAMPAIGN COMES TO CLOSE

Objective is Nearly Reached; Mayor Hanna's Team is Leader

While the Chamber of Commerce membership campaign unofficially came to an official close at six p. m. last night, the work of the canvassers is far from complete and several of the teams working have not yet reported.

The returns handed in last night showed a total of 325 names which will make the objective of 300 members easily capable of realization.

There will be many names of interminterest canvassing yet and it is hoped that the large number of old members as well as new prospects who have not yet been seen will be interviewed and offered the privileges of renewal or of becoming new members.

Mayor Hanna's team had the honor of leading in the number of membership secured having a total of 67. They were followed closely by the redoubtable team composed of Mark Robinson and Jack K. Graham with a total of 25.

Major Arthur Pratt and Chris. Lewis reported a great day's work yesterday in securing 7 new memberships.

Geo. Reid also did a big day's work, all by himself in securing 5 new members and 5 renewals.

Reports like these filled the workers with enthusiasm for the final closing luncheon last evening.

Individual division and team reports follow:—

O. H. Scott, Division Commander.

Division I—Major R. D. Pudden, team captain; Messrs. Ed. Holland and Tom Collister 25; Team 2—E. G. Stewart Captain, 8; Team 11—W. H. Gilbert, Captain, 7; Team IV—Major A. W. Pratt and Chris Lewis, 14.

Division II—Chas. J. Bennett, major, total 23; Team I—Jack Graham, 25; Team II—J. W. Cook and Ned Downey, 4; Team III—C. W. Reid and Harry Elliott 7; Team IV—W. A. Parker and W. R. Scott, 4.

Division III—Major Harmon Bone, total 60; Team I—R. Bannon and J. G. Moffat, 7; Team II—Geo. A. Reid, 10; Team IV—F. B. Wotten and C. J. Symons, 9; Team IV—N. Garner and W. A. Elliott, 7; Chas. Hanna and Ernest Dickens 27.

Division IV—R. J. Wray, major, total 59; Team I—W. B. Deacon and Douglas Reid, 12; Team II—Harold Reid, Team III—Col. E. D. O'Flynn, 4; Team IV—Geo. B. Jones and J. B. Findlay 8.

Mr. Harold Reid acted as general assistant for other team workers and rounded up 10 memberships.

A list of individual members will appear in Monday's issue.

REBECCA OF PRUDENCE ISLAND AT THROTTLE

Prudence Island, R. I. Nov. 18.—This island today boasts the only young woman licensed ferry engineer in New England, and probably in the country. She is Miss Rebecca Chase, of twenty-seven summers, and she says many more summers to take her place at the throttle of the ferryboat Harvest, connecting the island with Bristol.

That she is at home on the sea is demonstrated by her license, which grants her the right to navigate a power boat. Frequently she directs from the pilot house, landing the harvest with the skill of an old time skipper.

Miss Chase keeps her mouth between each spoke and span. She believes in being a good housekeeper on shipboard as well as at home.

MUSIC & DRAMA

HIGH LIGHTS IN GRIFFITH'S NEW MOTOION PICTURE EPIC

Some of the Outstanding Facts and Figures Concerning "Orphans of the Storm," Wizard Producer's Latest Photoplay Sensation

Herewith are given just a few of the outstanding facts about D. W. Griffith's splendid motion picture sensation, "Orphans of the Storm," United Artists Corporation release, which is playing to Griffith's own Theatre in Toronto by special matinee Friday and Saturday.

A perusal of these facts and figures will give a fairly accurate idea of the magnitude of the picture, but the real magnificence and tremendously big scale of this Griffith dramatic epic must be seen properly to be appreciated. These facts will help a little to prepare the public for what they are going to see:

"Orphans of the Storm" is an adaptation of that famous old stage classic, "The Two Orphans."

It was given the title "Orphans of the Storm" in order to avoid confusion with these others pictures called "The Two Orphans," and widely advertised.

It is more than "a million dollar" picture; but Mr. Griffith does not consider that of importance; results obtained are the important matters in his mind.

Nearly twelve months were occupied in working up to, making and finishing the picture, from the first steps to the finishing touches.

Six months were spent in the actual making.

Fourteen months were spent in period and study and research work in order faithfully to produce the scenes, styles and costumes of the time.

Every scene, large or small, was personally directed by Mr. Griffith.

Twenty-six tons of properties were imported from France that the dress and scenes might be faithful to history.

Each scene was photographed from three to ten times.

The Misses Lillian and Dorothy Gish appear together for the first time since the "Hearts of the World," also a Griffith feature.

Joseph Schildkraut, known as the "handsomest man," makes his first film appearance.

The wigs for the production cost more than the entire outlay for the first five reel picture Mr. Griffith made.

The stage play, "The Two Orphans," first presented in America at the Union Square Theatre in December, 1874, was played 7,000 times by Kate Claxton. It has been played more than 100,000 times in the United States.

The author, a Frenchman, Adolphe D'Ennery, changed his name from Phillips because his father was ashamed of having a playwright for a son.

The filming was done at Mr. Griffith's studio, Mamaroneck, a forty-acre estate just outside New York City and incorporating like a leaf into Long Island Sound, the stern connecting with the mainland.

The fountain in the Bel-Air scene weighs sixty tons and was appraised at $50,000.

"TWO MINUTES TO GO" IS ANOTHER CREDIT TO RAY

"Two Minutes To Go," the First National attraction which opened a two days engagement at Griffin's last night, is another splendid achievement which Charles Ray can add to the honors he has piled up since becoming an Independent star.

If provides Ray with just the sort of role in which he is at his best, and the talented star is actually at his best every moment he faces the camera in this wholesome, amusing and entertaining story of college life by Richard Addre.

Mary Anderson in the leading feminine role, makes a charming little co-ed and the balance of the supporting cast gives a creditable performance. In short, "Two Minutes To Go" is a piece of worthwhile entertainment.

Round Fire of the "Leather Pushers" also proved very thrilling and interesting. "Oil His Best" a two reel Century comedy, and a Travelogue were also on the bill and were received. The entire program is being exhibited for the last time tonight and is well worth seeing.

REX STOCK COMPANY IS LEAVING BELLEVILLE SOON

Rumor, rumors that sound a great deal like orders from the Montreal office, the office that books and routes the Rex Company attractions, sound a great deal like a move for the Famous Rex & Co. When consulted on the matter Rex said that the office while it owned no part of the Rex attractions handled all the Rex bookings, and for the simple reason that he depended on them for profitable locations, he was in a measure bound to follow their orders regarding the particular city that the company appeared in.

In view of a possible move in the near future, Rex has decided to spring several surprises that he has had "up his sleeve" for some time, the first of which will be the offering of Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday—And She Turned Up", another of Rex's very own comedies. Those of you who saw "Behind The Scenes" and "Here She Come" can appreciate what next weeks offering will be when it is announced that it emeks either of these offerings, in fact there is not a laugh overlooked. Not a strained situation that has not been highly humorous side—"And She Turned Up" is guaranteed as a sure cure for that "Clooney Feeling" Bill Yoke is featured in this comedy portraying the role of "Caraway Boone"—The Undertaker. A surprise has also been arranged in the two vaudeville acts to be presented between sets.

VIENNA SEEKS RETURN OF NAPOLEONIC MEMENTOES

(Associated Press.)

Vienna, Nov. 16th.—In 1914 the municipality of Vienna sent to the Lyons fair a priceless exhibit of relics of the France-Austria period of Napoleon's time. They included many mementoes of the French Empress and of Marie Louise, and other articles of great historic interest.

The war came, and the collection is still in France. This week the Mayor of Vienna petitioned the French Minister to restore it to the city. It is understood that articles are now in the hands of the French liquidator of alien properties.

An Up-To-Date Lesson.

"I wonder," said the vicar, "if any of you boys or girls can tell me why Mary and Joseph fled into Egypt?"

"Because," said a shrill, thin voice, "because they hadn't paid their rent, sir."

A Very Sad Piece.

Charles—"I took my mother-in-law to the play last night. It was a frightfully sad piece."

Mary—"Really! Did you weep?"

Charles—"Oh, rather! Even the boxes were in tiers."

The evenness of performance so often remarked in Dodge Brothers Motor Cars is due, in no small part, to the thoroughness with which each unit is inspected during the process of manufacture and assembly.

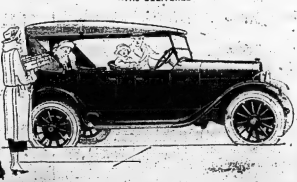

A trained staff of 800 experts is employed in this work alone, and approximately 5285 individual inspections are made on each car.

So exacting and rigid are the standards applied to these inspections that the slightest variation either in workmanship or material is instantly discovered and rejected.

Dodge Brothers are almost over-scrupulous in their constant aim to make each car as sound and perfect as is humanly possible.

DAILY QUOTATIONS STOCK AND BOND MARKETS

Week-End Comment.

Since the days of the money changers there has been a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood, has led on to fortune," but there still seems to be considerable difficulty in some people overlooking the fact that there is a difference between an investment and a speculation. This discrimination should be constantly kept in mind. It would appear that the majority of our industrials are more or less speculative and while some stock salesmen will talk glibly about the prospects and guaranteed interest yields of their listings, the public should remember that before interest can be paid to the shareholder it first must be earned by the company. Unfortunately for some unsuspecting and uninformed individuals these assumed interest charges in some promotions have been met from capital and with the trend of the times, there can only be one result. Financial statements and balance sheets can be so juggled that even sworn self-professed accountants cannot detect irregularities and in many legislatures the situation has become so distressing that the "Blue Sky" laws have been passed. Whether or not this barrier to illicit market operations and questionable flotations is effective, is uncertain, but one fact is true and that is, the public at large should be ever on their guard against the wary purveyor of shares. One may be informed both by word of mouth and lurid advertising, of the tremendous possibilities in certain stocks, of the fortunes accumulated through the purchase of same, but there is the other side of the case, and that aspect indeed predominates: the millions of dollars hopelessly lost through the purchase of speculative stocks of no real merit, gross company mismanagement with its frenzied finance and the final crash. Optimism and pessimism should be well diluted when buying stocks even for investment.

There are in Canada numerous bond houses and brokerage concerns of good repute. They employ in their operations responsible salesmen and reputable stock and bond concerns will not jeopardize their business by handling questionable securities.

With these facilities at command Investors should be in a position to buy and sell intelligently. Their banker and broker should be consulted frequently, and if such sane and careful tactics were adopted, we would not be continually hearing of and experiencing the losses of funds, which is so common an occurrence day after day.

CONSERVATIVES BUILDING UP ORGANIZATION

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—Substantial progress in the very necessary work of party organization, is reported from the recent meeting of Western Ontario Conservatives in London. Capt. Tom Thompson, M.P.P., president of the Ontario Association, and J. R. Mitchell, recording secretary of the provincial organization, gave most optimistic reports of the prospects for success in next year's provincial contest, while Frank White, M.P., Toronto; John M. Gisael, M.P., Fast Hants, and J. J. Morrow, ex-M.P., South Huron, all brought encouraging news. E. R. Dennis, of London, was elected president.

A splendid representation from Western Ontario, at the provincial Conservative meeting in Toronto on November 8th, is assured. Unbounded confidence is expressed at London meeting in the leadership of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, and that of Hon. Howard Ferguson, while there were many comments upon the peculiar situation in which the Progressive party finds itself.

There is no doubt, also, that when Premier Drury appeals to the electorate he will find a unified Conservative party in the province. There is open and growing dissatisfaction with the administration of the U.F.O. Government, which, elected upon a policy of economy, has increased expenditure at such a rate that its ministers have fallen back on such defence as is afforded by comparisons with other years. In supporting capital expenditure, Mr. Drury has even been led to make the statement recently that the outlay in connection with the hydro-electric project can cause no loss to the province—that it will cost no one a dollar except the hydro municipalities. It has not always been argued thus by his followers.

While nominating conventions must be deferred in many ridings, owing to forthcoming redistribution, particularly of provincial constituencies, organization work is under way in others. In East Lambton, where W. R. Dawson is to carry the Conservative standard, so often victorious there, Conservative women have organized Clubs at Forest, Inwood, Florence and Watford.

Much interest is already being shown, too, in the Dominion convention planned for next year, probably in August, "the regretted death of, Hon. J. A. Stewart, who was chairman of the committee, hated temporary arrangements but plans will now be proceeded with."

In addition to arranging a complete party organization, the party will select a leader and draft a platform. Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, when selected as leader, asked that the choice be confirmed in due course by a fully representative gathering. There is little doubt that he will prove the choice of the party.

From coast to coast, including Quebec, come encouraging reports of a revival of party organization, and the leaders feel that a Dominion convention will consolidate the party and set them in its way with fresh enthusiasm for its traditions, policies and achievements. In all of which Conservatives may feel pride, whether in success or defeat.

It is fortunate that Columbus discovered America. Otherwise, Europe couldn't have anybody to blame for everything.

CURLERS AND HYDRO WIN AT 'Y' ALLEYS

Last night the Bowlers and Curlers met in the first game at the "Y" alleys, but the Curlers proved too strong for the Bowlers, winning two games out of three. Wray of the Curlers had high single string of 258 and Cook of the Bowlers had high three strings of 578.

In the second game the Elliotts and Hydro met and the Hydro shut on too much juice and seemed to have the Elliott's stunned. Hydro taking the three games. Mannings of the Hydro was high single and high three string, with 213 and 512.

GAS AT STIRLING

The Municipality is Taking Over the Plans for Development

Stirling Nov. 17.—There was considerable excitement at Stirling recently when a large flow of gas was struck during operations in digging for a water supply near the High School. The gas became ignited and it was only following numerous efforts that the flames were extinguished by the local fire brigade. This is not the first time that gas has been struck at Stirling as a year or two ago the citizens of the village and vicinity were quite excited in their initial experience, when gas was struck and was burning for some time at the western entrance to the village.

The recent find, however, brought the gas and oil promoter and such an individual visited the village immediately upon receipt of the news.

Stirlingites, however, are canny and have decided that before entrusting finds to outsiders, the matter will be carefully investigated by proper authorities, and as a result, a governmental official visiting the town shortly to make a survey of the situation and if his report proves to be encouraging, arrangements are to be made by the municipal authorities to commercialize the scheme for the mutual benefit of the citizens.

In this connection, it would seem that the proper course has been taken, and if gas exists in paying quantities, Stirlingites will have no future worries regarding the coal situation. There is always the danger in these sudden finds, of pockets only being struck and a permanent supply is not assured. This has been exemplified in the Western Ontario district where many wells deliver gas for a short time only and are petering out daily. Nevertheless, if the main body is discovered, this discovery may lead to greater phenomena with resative commercial possibilities.

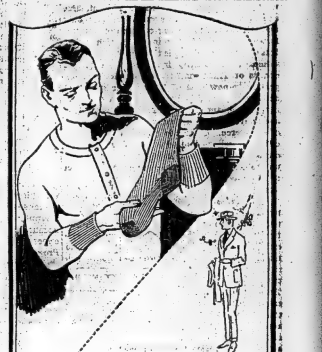

The oil speculator will probably have his innings, but his methods must not be too crude because the citizens of Hastings County, regret the smooth chortles of oil and gas stock salesmen, and now that the Stirling people particularly have decided to adopt a form of co-operative method, those same promoters will experience very black rain clouds and a rough

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

There are in Belleville a fairly large number of representative citizens who are only lukewarm, in as far as this Chamber of Commerce and its activities and aims are concerned. This is only natural as the functioning of this organization has been retarded by two initial handicaps. The first of these handicaps is the reputation of uselessness and inactivity, inherited from former Boards of Trade and the second is the comparatively new idea of the broader sphere of activity of such a body. By broader functioning, it is meant the community problems that are actively taken up, as well as the problems of commerce. Custom is a great dictator, and cities as well as individuals must bow to her dictates. Other cities have successfully taken up the Chamber of Commerce idea and to meet them on an even footing Belleville must do the same.

Belleville must consider herself as a large manufacturing unit. The city council composes the executive head of this unit, while manufacturers, retailers and business men are departments. Now the common interest of all is to make Belleville a bigger, better, city in which to live. To do this we must increase the volume of business done in the city and vicinity. The problem then resolves itself into one of salesmanship—that of selling people the idea that Belleville is one of the best cities in Canada. The Chamber of Commerce can do this. It is the sales department of the city. Just at the present time there are over eight hundred United States firms who are seriously considering the erection of a branch factory in Canada. Cities and towns without any well defined policy of trade expansion do not get their names before these prospective manufacturing institutions and fall farther behind as time goes on.

Here in Belleville we have had three years of experience with an active Chamber of Commerce. Our first year's experience was somewhat of a catastrophe, but we emerged from our difficulties and "carried on." Yes we carried on through two of the most depressing years that have been experienced in possibly the last fifty years. What do we find? Eleven new industries, and a 27 per cent. increase in population.

To a great extent the credit is due the Chamber of Commerce, but at the same time we wish to give credit to individuals who have done splendid work outside the Chamber.

The Chamber is a non-political organization and no Belleville well-wishers should attempt to introduce politics into such an organization—its field is strictly commercial.

Community spirit is created, if a Chamber functions properly, and many little local problems are looked into. The future success of the Chamber of Commerce in Belleville will be directly in proportion to the extent which we as citizens drop political and personal matters and get together and pull.

The annual fee may appear large to some, but it is as low as it can be placed, and still maintain a first-rate organization to represent the city.

It is the hope of all far-seeing citizens that the membership of 300 will be attained. Let us go "over the top" and at the end of another three years we will be amply repaid.

PROPHESYING?

Is there any handwriting on the walls? Can we read between the lines of political events now transpiring? The King government has held office for nearly a year and what have they done to fulfill, even in a measure, the pre-election promises, or for that matter have they put through any progressive legislation? Assuming office without a working majority, enjoying at least the moral support of the Progressives, they have done but little to entrench themselves in office or to gain the confidence of the people.

The West returned to parliament a large majority of Progressives, and that party is rapidly crumbling to pieces. Their leader has recently resigned and there are signs of dissension within. The West looked for a very substantial reduction in the tariff, and were heartily disappointed when Mr. Fielding's budget was announced last May. The King slogan, "tariff for revenue" was not a definite declaration of anything, but was typical of Mr. King and his utterances. The Conservatives, on the other hand, have held to a very consistent course. With the Progressives rapidly fading into decline, and all confidence in the Liberals destroyed, it is only natural that there will be a general turning toward the stability of the Conservatives.

Then there is the possibility of Mr. King's slim majority being further reduced in the coming by-elections. It is not beyond the sphere of speculation to assume that Mr. King will be unable to carry on the government should some important legislation be forced on the house.

The general disgust, felt throughout the country, at the dilatory and almost indefensible attitude of the Premier in the Near East incident, did not tend to strengthen the position of his party.

The way in which our big railway problem has been handled, has strained the patience of the country almost to the point of exasperation. Months have been consumed to appoint a Board of Directors and then we find an aggregation which has all the earmarks of a political selection. Surely as a whole they are not noted for any outstanding railway ability or experience. Then the general manager, Sir Henry Thornton is a pure experiment. Even granting that he is an expert railway man, what does he know of Canadian conditions? How can he function when forced to work with that Board of Directors?

No, the record of the King government is not one of outstanding achievement. It appears as if the Premier had not the courage to risk coming out into the open, fearing that he may not be able to carry important matters through. This is a charitable view of the matter, because Mackenzie King has not a record advantageous training and his showing is keenly disappointing even to his political opponents, because the Opposition have little or nothing to oppose. Shorn of the moral support of his Progressive allies it is doubtful if he can long stand alone, and Canada may have a general election at an early date.

The Conservatives, having no longer the inheritance of a war-time government record, and fighting along straight party lines, under the keen-thinking leader, the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, will be very formidable opponents in the coming election. The party is constantly strengthening its organization, and will be ready for the election should one occur next year.

PASSING COMMENT

It's a sign of wisdom to admit you've been a fool.

Those who do their level best soon find themselves mounting the ladder of success.

It may yet be necessary for Battling Siki to go to Dublin or Constantinople if he is determined to fight.

Fortunately for a fool he doesn't know he is one.

John J. Butler, of New York, was killed while shaking a rug. Show this to your wife.

A bargain is something you don't want sold at a price low enough to make you want it.

Neither in Great Britain nor in the United States is the outlook for tariff protection bright. Bonar Law says that he would not make any change in the fiscal system of Great Britain. The Republican party, which fathered the new high tariff, has lost heavily in the Congressional elections.

There were, it is true, other issues but it is clear that the high tariff was not a vote-getter.

HERE AND THERE

NOVEMBER.

November comes with snowflakes in her hands,
And wild wind voices echo from the hill;
Cattle no longer dot the pasture lands;

Each dawn reveals the hoar-frost white and chill,
Yet there is gladness in these scar, brown days,
The sunlight is more welcome than of old,

The apples heaped along the orchard ways
In piles of crimson and of burnished gold
Are glowing spots of beauty. Deep within

Her quite grey breast there hides unseen the spring;
Each flower that blooms must in the dark begin
Its efforts for a future blossoming.

So, if November comes into your heart,
Never suppose that she has come to stay,
But realize rather that she is a part,

A sweet, unfailing promise of the May.

GOOD SPORTS
(Montreal Star.)

The American fishermen of Gloucester are a fine, hardy, sporting lot just like their brethren from Nova Scotia. Indeed, many a Gloucester fisherman and skipper first saw the light in the Canadian maritime provinces. If they had been left to run this race between themselves, without officious hop-bodies interfering there would have been no "incidents." But the sportsmen will forget the incidents, and remember only the splendid showing made by the contestants on both sides.

MR. FORKE'S ATTITUDE.
(Toronto Globe.)

A partial indication of the attitude of Mr. Forke, the new Leader of the Progressive party, may be obtained from his maiden speech in Parliament. He emphasized the importance of reciprocity with the United States and of substantial reductions in the tariff. He was a strong advocate of national railways. As a traveller on the National lines he detected a new spirit among the employees and in the public, who realized that the railway was their property and that they had an interest in its development and prosperity.

When speaking to a prominent Canadian Pacific railwayman the other day he said that last year was the first year that they ever fully realized that they had a great competitor existing in the Canadian National Railways. Speaking to a mine owner in Drumheller, he made the statement also that the Canadian National Railways were out after business and were looking after the needs of the country in a way that was never done before. I can see daylight ahead. I can see hope in the future. We have a valuable property and we are going to maintain that property, develop it and keep it, and the day will come when we will be proud to have it.

While fully recognizing the difficulties confronting the Western farmer his tone was hopeful. He believed that conditions would improve. There would be smaller farms, more intensive cultivation, and closer community centres, and many of the disadvantages of rural life would disappear. "We have not lost faith in our country," he said. "Canada is a great land and we do not want a divided country. We do not want any 'East' and we do not want any 'West'; we want one Canada. We need to get together, forgetting disrupting differences and finding our own prosperity in the common good and in the development of our country."

As this speech was delivered during a debate on the Address it did not enter into details of policy, but its spirit was moderate and constructive, and does not indicate any wide departure from the attitude and course of the retiring Leader.

Fashion Fancies

ENTER—THE "JUNE FILLE"

The furriers the season advances, is given interesting the fashion be- gone. All the delightful little incon- sistencies that we have banished for so long are with us again, and the "scarcely woman" rather than the "boyish girl" is the vogue once more. The changes that a few short months have wrought speak volumes for our adaptability. The face of the fash- ionable world has undergone a change and in the place of the short-skirted, bobbed-haired girls of a few months ago are dignified lovely women of dis- tinction and grace. Even the flapper is leaning toward the "jeune fille," and the debutante of this season did- ers in many respects from her sister of last year.

One of the outstanding features of the new frocks is the lavish use that is made of fur. We find coats, suits, and scarfs of cloth or velvet heavily banded and collared with fur.

The three-piece suit consists of a wool or velvet dress with a short fur jacket is a favorite with designers, and in a style that has met with im- mediate success. It shares the place of honor with the three-piece suit of velvet, which is one of the loveliest fashions of the year.

Fur is equally favored by indoor frocks, and the laciest of negligees and the most diaphanous of evening gowns carry a touch of it. It may border the little, floating cape that is apt to be attached to our frock, edge the train, or appear shyly in the bordered girdle that is so much a feature of the model.—Good Housekeeping.

IS IT HAND-MADE?

So many people are in doubt as to whether a thing is hand-made or mach- ine-made that the following tips may be of interest.

A hand-made article is bound to have some irregularities in the pattern and method of working. It will not be quite perfect and uniform, as is the case with machine-worked goods.

Hand-woven materials will show a slight unevenness in the thickness, and are also much softer to the feel than machine-manufactured cloths or lin- ens. Hand-woven laces are easily de- tected by the fact that the width var- ies in many places.

Hand-painted pottery may not show the design exactly copied when it is repeated in several places—a petal or leaf perhaps missing in the pottery they are arranged on the jug or plate.

THE VALUE OF MUSIC IN THE HOME

Here is a famous author's estimate of the value of music in the home. He says:

"If I had the largest family on earth I would wish to have as many of them study music as my bank account would permit. I would wish them to study music, not to make musicians of them, mainly for the development of their lives, that would come from an intimate and direct acquaintance with the noble and beautiful thoughts of music liter- ture.

"I believe that there is no breach, no encircling literature itself, that can con- tribute more abundantly and more rich- ly to the wholesome development of the child's emotional life than does music, when rightly approached and studied.

"Quite apart from any special gift which they might possess, I would wish them to reap the tremendous advantage of this cultural influence. If any of them gave proof of being unusually gift- ed along creative or interpretative lines I would not object to their becoming professional musicians, though I would never urge anyone to enter the profes- sion unless he or she could rise above mediocrity, the obstacles to real success being so great."

LINKED LIVES

By D. Kinmount Roy

The boy never moved, no sign of dis- may was visible, instead he gazed en- quiringly at the angry maid. Heathfield stepped between them. He had never seen such an evil look upon his father's face; it appalled him by its ferocity; the lips were contracted, showing his teeth, and the whole pose was that of an animal about to spring at his prey.

"The boy needs no harm," Heathfield said, with sudden composure. "How long has he been here?" Kinkman de- manded. "Not long," Heathfield answer- ed at a venture; he has heard nothing he can understand, and can do no harm.

"It is best to make sure," Kinkman said, as he motioned his son away, while the angry gleam in his decrpet eyes meant no good to the boy.

Heathfield stood his ground, and Sandy eased from one to the other, wondering at the strange ways of the two men.

"We can do nothing more today, Sandy," Heathfield said kindly to the boy; "take these things home for me;" pointing to his sketching apparatus; "we will finish the picture another time— and see that you forget anything you have heard just now."

Sandy vanished, and after some time, Kinkman went his way, leaving his son to the solitude he craved, and his own bitter company.

Kinkman was not altogether satisfied with the turn things were taking. He has been too long among women, this son of mine,' he mused, 'and lacks hard- ness; but time will mend that, and the possession of the girl, when he cools down, is sure to work changes in his views of things he little dreams of,' and he laughed softly to himself, with a fine appreciation of his own astuteness.

When crossed hard, the young dog can show fight too,' he continued; 'he is a chip off the old block, after all. I am glad of that, anyway, for he has a part to play of which he little dreams and, by my life, he'll play it and have the laugh, or be in the right mood when the schoolmaster never taught him, for all his picture-making!'

Heathfield breathed more freely when relieved of his father's presence. Per- haps I can still watch over her,' he said to himself, and perhaps restore her to her friends, and she may yet know I acted against my own will, and only to serve her. Perhaps! Who knows?

He lingered on until the sun had set, and the twilight fell, during which the pouring forth its requiem of the parting day, was now silent; the lark flew to its lowly bed, the swallow to its nest, and the wood-pigeon had uttered his last coo before settling down for the night. The bee had left the bee no longer heard; the grass-hopper had sounded its last chirp, and all seemed to have sunk to rest.

The owl began to utter its doleful and melancholy wail, the night-jar was out with its spinning-wheel-like 'birr, birr,' and the lightsome me, the pride of the lowland woods, was emitting his favour- ite bark.

Still the young man stood leaning against the trunk of an old elm; and in his heart were bitter thoughts against his father which he tried in vain to sup- press.

He had been deliberately brought back across the Kinglen to assist in some scheme the full particulars of which were not even yet disclosed to him, his father—he, the pride of the land would be ruined, and

LORD SHAUGHNESSY OF C.P.R. TALKS ON IMMIGRATION

In a Speech Before Kiwanis Club in Montreal, Stating How Canada Was Going Backward, Urges Appointment of a Minister of Immigration and Colonization.

Montreal, November 16.—Lord Shaughnessy today delivered an important address on immigration before the Kiwanis Club of this city. Lord Shaughnessy said:—

"Practically nothing has been done during the past eight years to attract population. Of course the war has interfered and during the period of the war it would have been impossible to bring people here, but four years have elapsed since the armistice and much might have been accomplished in those four years, were it not for unwise immigration laws, the practical abandonment of publicity work and the withdrawal of agents. We have been hiding our light under a bushel and with that we have lost to other countries thousands of excellent settlers who should have come to us. Indeed, it is worse than that, because the census returns show that in 1911, Canada had a population of 7,800,000, and the census returns for 1921 show a total population of 8,700,000 but in that period the vital statistics show that there was a natural increase of 1,320,000, and immigration into Canada from other countries of 1,976,000. Had we received no immigrants at all, the natural increase should have given a population of 9,000,000, so that in these ten years we have apparently not only lost the equivalent of all the immigrants who came in, but did not even maintain according to the census returns, the increase due to natural accretion after making full allowance for our war losses. It goes without saying that many of those who left were foreigners, who were compelled to return to their own country on the outbreak of war, so that the shrinkage was not so much an evil, but it emphasizes the necessity for replacing them as quickly as we can. When we take into account the fact that our national debt, which was $335,000,000 in 1914 has now reached the staggering sum of $2,300,000,000, or approximately the equivalent of $270 per capita of our population, a national railway system (acquired for reasons that are more or less defendable) that with its annual deficits absorbs the greater portion of our rather burdensome taxation and has no prospect of immediate improvement, we must realize that the burden is too great for a population of 8,700,000 people and that if we are to carry on without serious inconvenience we must secure with all possible speed a very large addition to our population, and to our productivity. Great as is our national debt, and serious as is the railway burden, we have within our country in undeveloped wealth in our lands, our forests, our mines, our fisheries, and other resources, ample assets to meet all our present and future requirements provided that by industry and development this hidden wealth be made gradually available.

Plainly stated we have on one side these enormous national liabilities and a sparse population, but on the other side we have vast areas of agricultural land in the western provinces within fifteen miles of existing railways to which only awaiting settlers to establish themselves and their families, and to make them lands productive for their own advantage, and for the general financial advantage of Canada and in Ontario, Quebec, and the lower provinces there is still room for a great many thousands of settlers. The mineral districts of our country thus far exploited are a mere patch on the great mineralized areas of the Dominion and our forests utilized in a sensible way will be a source of incalculable wealth. Clearly our policy must be to bring these matters under the notice not only of the people of Great Britain and the United States but of many of the continental countries as well, and say to them "we want you to come to our country and enjoy opportunities and advantages quite beyond your reach in your own country. We shall not deceive you, nor shall we appoint others to do so. You will be informed of the climatic conditions of the different portion of Canada to which you wish to go, and incidentally we may mention to you that in every section of the Dominion the climate is healthy, and invigorating. With us you will enjoy the best form of government in which every citizen has a voice, without reference to his position in life. If you are a laggard in self-reliance, we want men, and women too, who are industrious and who realize that indolence or indifference will lead to failure here, as it will in any other white country. We expect you to become citizens of Canada, and to take active intelligent interest in Canadian affairs, and see that your children are not only educated, but by your example encouraged to lead clean moral lives. It is not our intention when you land on our shores to turn you loose to shift for yourselves. We shall have persons or departments to take you in hand and advise and guide you until you have reached your destination." Notwithstanding the war, Great Britain can furnish a very large number of settlers of the right class, and for the first time, I think in history, the British Government is prepared to lend its assistance, financially and otherwise to enable these people to become established in one of the Dominions. Norway, Sweden, Belgium, Denmark, Holland and other continental countries can furnish us with thousands of rugged, splendid people who are weary of the struggle at home, and wish to seek their fortunes in a new land. We have a good government, indeed, each successive government is good, in spots. Beyond question, it is the aim of the Government and all of the Ministers to do what is best for the general interest of Canada, but Governments are proverbially (given to procrastination, the political) effect of a policy cannot be put out of sight. Unquestionably the present government recognizes the vital importance of the subject that we have under discussion, and has the best intentions in the world, but to get prompt and effective action there must be no relaxation of a campaign that has been and is being conducted by the press, trade organizations and the Kiwanian throughout the country. To begin with there should be some amendments to our immigration laws and regulations. The requirement of continuous passage from country of origin is surrounded by many difficulties. There can be no good reason why an Englishman temporarily living in Oregon, who has bought a ranch in Alberta should under our regulations be denied admission as a settler, because he came to us from Oregon instead of direct from England, nor should we be prevented from getting any settlers from the United States, who not being naturalized United States citizens, would be required under our law to return to their own country and come from these direct to Canada to ensure admission. I am only referring briefly to one or two out of many instances in the last couple of years that were brought to my notice. It is true that the regulations have recently been amended with reference to British settlers, but the barrier against others still remains. The act was originally designed to deal with a special menace but I am sure that it can be amended so as to meet its original purpose without maintaining such serious obstacles to colonization and settlement. There are other details in the immigration regulations that require attention but it is not necessary to discuss them now. There should be urged upon the Government the appointment without delay of a thoroughly capable enterprising Minister of Immigration and Colonization. I think that my friend, Hon. Mr. Stewart, who is with us to-day, will bear me out in the statement that the Department of the Interior is now overburdened with work and that this additional load would not be placed on it. The minister in charge of immigration will be a very busy man and should be able to give his whole time and thought to this work. Heretofore it has been a sort of tradition that the cabinet minister who is in charge of immigration should come from the west. There would appear to be no good reason for this. While naturally the main efforts of the department will be directed to the West, there is room for considerable energy in Eastern Canada, and after all, it makes but very little difference whether the Minister comes from the East or the West provided he is just the right man. The Minister should have a most capable staff of assistants and representatives in the department at headquarters, in Great Britain, the United States, and on the Continent of Europe; to permit of this important matter being dealt with aggressively. four times as large as they were in 1906 after making due allowance for any difference in trade rates during that period our population had increased by about three million people. Think of what a difference it would make to our National Railway system, what an opportunity it would offer for a reduction of taxation and rates for the carriage of domestic commodities, if within a short period, we could add three million people. Now Mr. Chairman, I have endeavored to give you briefly and without sorting to too much detail, my views on immigration and settlement. During the forty years that I have been associated with development in Canada, there has never been a time I thought that the emergency required prompter action on the part of the government than at present, it is to be hoped that in the adoption and prosecution of a bold and vigorous effort to increase our population, the government will have the confidence and support of every loyal Canadian citizen. It is not a time for hesitation or faint heartedness. There is a future in Canada's vision that should and must be realized. Let us map out and adopt a policy that will be the future make Canada populous, prosperous and contented, an example to the world, not only to the empire, but to all mankind.

HOCKEY EQUIPMENT LOST IN FIRES IN THE NORTH

Cobalt, Nov. 15.—An appeal for financial assistance toward providing equipment for those hockey players in this district who were losers in the recent fires with which to the N.O.H.A. at the annual meeting of that organization on Saturday, on Alex Campbell, Mr. Campbell also will ask the individual clubs for help, and will bring the matter to the attention of the O.H.A. later. Cobalt Hockey Club, which held its organization meeting last night, donated $100 and fund which might be established for this purpose.

The members of the Haileybury Intermediate team suffered in the disaster, and E. R. Hall, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., has written the N.O.H. A. asking for similar aid in connection with the town league he proposes to operate in connection with the association here, and which is rendered possible only because of the influx of players from the north. Over forty free membership tickets, to the Y.M. C.A. have been issued, and most of these recipients are anxious to play hockey.

F. A. Sullivan is president of the local N.O.H.A. club for the coming season, and E. Curry secretary. Cobalt will have intermediate and junior teams, and hopes for a series of games with New Liskeard and North Bay in both series. The locals will be strengthened by the former Haileybury intermediates, and the fact that the High School will not run a team this year releases four junior players to Cobalt.

GUARD THE BABY AGAINST COLDS

To guard the baby against colds nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are a mild laxative that will keep the little one's stomach and bowels working regularly. It is a recognized fact that where the stomach and bowels are in good order that the colds will not exist; that the health little one will be good and that he will thrive and be happy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE GUMPS—LUCKY UNCLE

EMMANUEL CHURCH, BENEVO LENT SOCIETY.

On Thursday evening, the 16th inst., Mrs. Meiklejohn very kindly entertained the above society paid a visit to the Old Peoples' Home.

The Rector gave a very eloquent address pointing out to the younger members their duties in relation to those who were more advanced in years.

He stated that in many instances the younger people of today were somewhat disposed to imagine that those who were older in years did not know anything, but he would remind them that the day would possibly come when they too would be old, and that the treatment should almost respect to age and endeavour to make their journey down the hill of life as easy and pleasant as possible.

A programme of music and recitations was then presented as follows:- Piano Solo, Miss Vilda Wheeler. Vocal Duet, "Life's Dream is Over", Miss P. Hallam and Mr. Campbell. Recitation, Mrs. Sandy.

Vocal Duet, Misses Kent and Bigby. Song, "Down the Vale," Mr. Camp bell.

Violin Solo, Mr. Turner.

Miss Violet Wheeler acted as accompanist which duty was performed in a very able and efficient manner.

Before leaving the Home the members of the Society presented each inmate with a small parcel, consisting of fruit, cake, and candy, in addition to rebuke the male residents received a further parcel containing tobacco.

Everyone appeared to be highly delighted with what had been provided for them, and were profuse in their thanks, and expressed a wish that they would soon come back and pay them another visit.

(Mother relates pathetic story): "Now, Reggie, wouldn't you like to give your fanny to the poor little boy you saw to-day who hasn't any father?"

Reggie (clutching rabbit): "Cookin', we give him father instead!"

REASON FOR PHONE WEEK

In another column of this issue the Bell Telephone Company again invites the public to visit the Central office, 214 Pinnacle street, any day or afternoon this week, November 20th to 25th inclusive. To The Intelligencer Manager Cokers explaining the idea behind Telephone Week as simply an effort after the highest standard of telephone service through widespread public co-operation.

"After all," said Mr. Cokers, "the telephone user has no small part in determining the quality of his service. There are always three persons involved in every completed call—the calling party, the operator and the person called. To ensure the best type of service all three must observe certain quite simple but vital requirements of good telephone practice.

"Now we have found from actual experience that when subscribers know something about telephone equipment and the work that our operators are called upon to do in connecting a call, they invariably use their instruments to better advantage, ensuring both for themselves and the community a service that can't be improved upon. Obviously there is no place like our central office for showing people just what lies behind their telephone instruments, and our whole staff are hoping that every day next week will see a big section of our public honouring us with a visit."

Mr. Cokers also informs us that the Northern Electric Manufacturing Company are kindly furnishing a complete loud speaking radio equipment and a radio entertainment will be given one evening between the hours of 7.30 and 10 p.m.

Everyone will be heartily welcomed.

SPRINGER'S TROUNCE U-GO-I-GO CLUB

Springers put one over on the U Go U Go when they defeated them by only 95 pins, making the first win of the Jack Boys. The game was a close one to watch, although the scores were not high the game was close all the way through. The high scores were made by W. Hicks and T. Morrell.

It Is Not True

That people "begin glasses too soon." Not if the one who first examined the eyes was up to the standard in his work; because when the skilful Optometrist completes examining a pair of eyes he KNOWS what they need andw hat they do not need; he will never put glasses on his patient until they are necessary. If he discovers a diseased condition, or need of medical attention, he will promptly advise his patient.

Our Optometrist's examination is thorough, modern and reasonable

BOARD OF EDUCATION
DID NOT MEET

Had one other member of the Board of Education been in attendance last evening, there would have been a meeting of the Board. As it was there were ten members present, one less than the number required for a quorum. Those members present were Messrs. H. W. Ackerman, F. H. Chesbro, F. Deacon, W. Elliott, W. H. Harvey, Arthur Jones, Dr. Marsh all, Mrs. McFee, A. Noble and F. Sharpe.

SUNDAY MEETING.

On Sunday afternoon at the Y.M.C.A. a special men's meeting will be held which will be addressed by Rev. N. E. McKnight. The subject will be "Making a Man's Measure," and Mr. Arthur Greenlaw, America's sweetest baritone colored singer, of Toronto, will sing as a special addes attraction.

A farmer paid a visit to a country school, and the teacher, wishing to show the smartness of his pupils told the farmer that he was at liberty to ask the boys any question he wished.

"Well, boys," said the visitor, "can any of you tell me the meaning of the word 'nothing'?"

"Yes," quickly replied a small boy, who knew the farmer, having had dealings with him, "it's what a farmer give a boy for holding his horse."

It might be worse. The pink and cream suits promised for men this fall are not here trimmed.

GAINED 65 POUNDS!

"Five years ago when I was first married, I had wonderful energy. I could be on the go all day long without feeling the least bit fatigued. I had a great appetite and could eat anything. I weighed 147 pounds. I used to be busy every minute of the day when the day was over, I could go to bed and never waken once during the night. Thirteen months ago my first baby was born. After that my energy seemed to leave me. I was tired all the time. I had to force myself to do my household duties, instead of being a pleasure as formerly, these duties became a real task. I lost all desire for food and nothing would tempt me. I had to make myself eat. I would go to bed at night and toss from side to side for hours at a time. After a while I would doze off only to find that I had been sleeping for ten or fifteen minutes. Naturally when morning came, not having slept, I started the day completely tired out. I was shaky and nervous. The least noise would startle me and make my heart race along. I could see that my husband was worried. I was losing weight every week and had already lost 54 pounds. I tried all kinds of tonics, but they didn't help me. One night, a night I shall never forget, because it started me on the way to health and happiness again, my husband brought in a bottle of Carnol. A friend told him that Carnol had saved his wife's life, so he insisted upon my trying it. Six weeks after I began taking Carnol, my weight increased from 93 pounds to 158, an increase of 65 pounds. And, am I well these days? Every morning I fairly jump out of bed ready to tackle anything and every minute of the day is a joy to me now."

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money.—8223

C.P.R. Official Loudly Praises Internal Baths

A high official of the C.P.R., who has asked to have his name withheld, writes to the Ward Chemical Company, Limited, 140 Yonge St., Toronto, as follows:—"I was at my wit's end. I was a nervous wreck and in a very bad state of health. I heard of your Internal Bath treatment and decided to give it a trial. I am glad to say that I am now in better health and feel better than at any time in recommending the J.B.L. Cascade to every one. It has done great work in my trouble."

This letter is only one of thousands. As Mr. J. B. Ward says, Auto-intoxication is at the root of ninety-five per cent. of all human ailments. Keep the intestines free of the accumulated waste in the bowels and you will keep well. Let the J.B.L. Cascade Internal Bath system purify the blood. Here is the direct cause of most nervous breakdowns, great deal of appetite, Remove the cause of constipation, biliousness, indigestion, sick headache, skin eruptions, and all other complaints and disease ailments by bathing internally. Mrs. F. B. Cassels is shown and explained at J. S. McKeown's, Druggist, 257 Front St., Belleville, every day by a registered and licensed Chiropodist. Why suffer from Internal Uncleanliness? It means a surprising amount of information that the average man or woman knows little about. Write or phone for it today. At 257 Front St., Belleville.—Advertisement.

WHAT LABOR REALLY GAINS

Many Honors Due to Their Being the Official Opposition

London, Nov. 16.—The Labor party, being now the official Opposition in the new House of Commons, succeeds to certain privileges. The chiefs of the Labor party will be entitled to occupy the principal seats on the front Opposition bench, facing the Government leaders. In the last Parliament there was keen rivalry between the Labor leaders and the Asquith chiefs for possession of front seats, if crowded sittings of the Commons there was, therefore, a good deal of undignified jockeying for possession.

In future also, the leaders of the Laborites will be entitled to follow discussions relating to the business of the House. Labor, furthermore, will have the right to nominate the next principal speaker of each one of the committees after the Ministerial party.

On ceremonial occasions, the Labor party will have the privilege of speaking for the Opposition, and when the House of Commons is summoned to the Senate, it will be near the King speak, or give Royal assent to bills, the leaders of the Labor party will walk beside the Prime Minister.

Hitherto, all these little privileges, consecrated by long usage, have been enjoyed by Liberal party representatives, respectively, and nothing, as well typifies the revolutionary character of the last election, than the consequent transition of their passing into the hands of the Laborites. For the time being, at least, the Liberals are relegated to third place in the Parliamentary hierarchy and the Conservatives before they are destined to remain permanently in their new position.

FIRM STAND MEETS WITH APPROVAL

Irish Have Change of Sentiment

Dublin, Nov. 18.—The firm stand taken by the free state government yesterday when four paid the death penalty for banditry, appears to have met with the approval of the majority of Dublin citizens. The striking indication in the change of sentiment is seen in the reversal of the attitude of several who criticized the Government on executions in the Dail, yesterday. Tom Johnson, Labor and Opposition Leader, censured the Government for the drastic action and after explanations had been made by Richard Mulcahy, Minister of Defence, and President Cosgrave, he aligned himself with the Government and declared he would pursue in most stringent measures in stamping out rebellion. "If Devéra is going to lead his followers to victory or extermination it is the Government's duty to see that it isn't victory" said President Cosgrave.

STEAMER FOUNDERS IN LAKE GALE

City of Dresden, Well-Known on Local Waterfront, Sank in Lake Erie—All Saved But One

Amherstburg, Nov. 19.—A message received here this morning from Port Burwell, Ont., brought news of the sinking in Lake Erie last night of the little wooden steamer, City of Dresden. All members of the crew except one man, named Kerr, were saved after a battle with furious waves that swept the lake during a southwest gale. The Dresden, with a short distance off Port Burwell, the crew clinging to the masts until rescued by a tug that put out to her assistance.

The City of Dresden was owned by Capt. McQueen, of this town. She carried a crew of four when boarded the captain. It is believed the boat was on the trip with coal from Conneaut to Port Burwell.

The City of Dresden has often carried cargoes of coal to Belleville and has been frequently in recent years. She was not a large steamer, carrying in the neighborhood of two hundred and fifty tons.

Captain McQueen is father of Capt. John "Mickey" McQueen, who last Thursday lost his gasoline launch the "Scoter" on the rocks near Colborne. The McQueens, father and son, conduct The McQueen Tug and Transport Co. of Amherstburg.

MUSIC & DRAMA

REAL REX COMEDY
RIOT AT GRIFFIN'S

A real Rex comedy riot is being presented at Griffin's tonight to Wednesday, where Rex Bedgrove and his popular company are presenting one of Rex's very own comedies titled, "And They Turned Up."

As Rex's season in Belleville is to close shortly, he has selected the best of his large repertoire of comedies for presentation here, and Belleville playgoers who visit Griffin's first three days this week, can look forward to witnessing one of the funniest comedy vehicles that has been presented on a local stage in years.

The leading roles of this comedy are by the capable hands of William Yule, who appears as "Caraway Bones"—the Undertaker, Hazel Williams as Cleopatra, a dusky and peppery colored girl, in which role she is a scream, and Howard Brown as Captain Medway, a real old Salt of the Bessy order. Considerable specialties will be introduced in every act, one of the specialties is by two popular comedians who have never before been presented a specialty together before, to reveal who they are and what they do would be to spoil the spectators' enjoyment of this novel and clever specialty.

WIFE, JEALOUS, SEEKS RUIN OF HUSBAND'S MODEL

"When one wife sets out to bring about the ruin of another an interesting chain of events may be expected. And the events do take place in the fascinating photodrama, "Wife Against Wife" which is the First National attraction at the Regent tonight to Wednesday matinee daily. Pauline Strke, portraying the leading role, hows the gamut of human emotions as a little French model, who is made the victim of the jealousy and suspicion of the wife of an American artist.

"Wife Against Wife" is a screen interpretation of George Broadhurst's "The Price" which was a great success on the stage, and judging from the attendance at theatres where this picture has been exhibited the screen version is a still greater triumph.

A two reel Pathe comedy, Fox News, and a new chapter of "Robinson Crusoe" serial are being exhibited on the same program.

BOBBED HAIR DATES BACK TO GUILLOTINE

When D. W. Griffith sent his research staff to France to gather historic lore for his production of "Orphans of the Storm", which was developed from D'Ennery's famous old play, "The Two Orphans," they discovered a number of things not appearing in the play but at the same time of great interest to those who follow history. This United Artists release will be seen at Griffin's next Thursday, to Saturday with a matinee on Friday and Saturday at 2-15.

Girls who now bob their hair may be interested to know how the practice began. During the great French revolution this became a custom among young women as a protest of mourning by them for members of their family who had been made victims of the guillotine.

George Jacques Danton, the fiery leader of the common people during the revolution, and which character is made a very forceful part of Mr. Griffith's production, was the man who established the dread tribunal and Committee of Public Safety, which Robespierre used to further his own tyrannical ideas. It was Danton who first suggested the guillotine. However, this popular idol of the French mob was the first to realize the terrible abuses and villainy of Robespierre and in time Danton came to be the one man in France who favored abolishing the guillotine and at the same time curbing the power of the dread Public Committee. Both he and Robespierre eventually fell victims to the very horrible blade they established.

A special musical score, played by a special orchestra, adds to the spectator's enjoyment of this 12 reel photodrama.

He Didn't Bite.

A farmer saw a boy plucking apples from one of his best apple trees. He tried to catch him, but the boy was too quick for him, so the farmer changed his tactics.

"Come here, my little son," he said, in a soft voice, with a pretended friendliness. "I come here to do trouble. I want to tell you something."

"Yes, likely," replied the boy. "Little fellows like me don't need to know everything."

WHY I AM SCOUTING

"I am in Scouting today," writes a fathers who became a Scoutmaster himself, because of what the Scout movement has done for my sons and for many other boys who wore the Canadian uniform and nobly fulfilled their Scout promise to "do their duty to God and to the King."

"I came into Scouting for what I promised to do for the boys. That was eight years ago—and the promise has been abundantly kept.

"But the boys do not receive all the benefit of Scouting. The men who give them leadership gain fully as much. I would urge every man to get into the Scout movement just as I would urge every boy to join a Scout troop.

"If you want to understand Scouting, go with some Scoutmaster on a hike with his troop or go to camp with them some day. Sit at their campfire, watch them at work and play. You'll get a vision of what Scouting means, and you'll want to have a share in it. And Scouting needs men—and needs them now."

Helping the Boy Scouts is only helping those who help themselves and are at the same time individually assisting the nation. What a lot of precious material went to waste—or at least was not utilized for the best there was in it—before this great movement enlisted the sympathetic interest of men and women, the ardent enthusiasm of Scoutmasters and the vast and eager enrollment of Can adian boyhood!

During the present month the Ontario Provincial Council of the Boy Scouts Association is completing a campaign for $18,000 to forward the purposes of the organization. That money and a great deal more has been earned already by the boys. To contribute this sum is merely to discharge a debt already incurred.

It isn't charity, it isn't philanthropy, to give this money—it's common honesty. It's only paying for services rendered and providing the facilities to continue and enlarge those services. It's an investment that returns large dividends in stalwart character and patriotic conduct.

A Boy Scout does not qualify for honors without working for them. He squares accounts with his conscience. He is a Canadian citizen of a higher and finer type in the making.

No time is more opportune than the early Fall months to organize the Boy Scout movement in cities and towns where it has not yet been introduced. It it up to the leading citizens of such communities to supply avenues through which the genius energy of the child shall give itself expression. This latent exuberancy of spirit often breaks out in near criminality on Hallowe'en, 24th of May and other festal occasions.

Not because the boys are inherently bad, or are desirous of inflicting pain of mind or body upon their victims, but because they are impelled to do something out of the ordinary and go about it with no reason nor sense, a kind of barbarous expression of what might be good for the commonwealth in which they live if they had somebody older and better informed to lead them into fine clean deeds.

There should be a strong effort to get the boys into the harness through the Scouts and will be organized into units they can work together toward high ideals.

This is up to the leading citizens now. Do not let other matters monopolize all our time until we have taken very definite steps to see the formation of a local branch of the Boy Scout movement accomplished by the perfect local organization, if there is one, greatly strengthened.

Financial disasters like the crash of the Merchants Bank make rather dark chapters in our banking history and although the Department of Finance instigated legal action it would not seem that they, nor the great majority of the people, received any satisfaction.

Canada Cement Company will erect a new plant at Lakefield, near Peterborough. This is estimated to increase capacity by 2,000 barrels daily.

Steel Company of Canada at one time enjoyed the highest reputation with investors in industrials. Today the seeming uncertainty of movement and the element of doubt relative to a dividend is causing much unrest among shareholders.

Felix S. S. Johnston, U.S. Consul at Kingston, has advised his Government at Washington, according to U. S. commerce reports, that Canada will require 80,000 motor cars annually in replacement needs. He bases this prediction on some very interesting figures. Doubtless automobile manufacturers in the United States will be pleased.

John McHugh, an old Belleville boy, was recently elected president of one of the largest Banks in New York City. This important appointment is significant of the success in life attained by many former citizens, who have left the city for larger spheres of business activity.

There were 57 business failures in Canada for the week ending Nov. 9th. This is the largest figure for some years, in this particular week.

Bradstreets report that the mild weather is hurting retail trade in Winnipeg. In Toronto, wholesale trade is improved, and farm prices better. In Montreal, Spring business is good and grain exports heavy. At all points collections are only fair.

SAVED BRITAIN FROM STARVING AND IS SHOWERED WITH BRICKS

A Story of Sir Henry Drayton

(By Genevieve Liquett-Skinner.)

Sir Henry Drayton, who is dominatist of the leader of the official Opposition in the House of Commons, has had the misfortune during the past week of being regarded as a sort of national target of criticism. Yet the Canadian public has never been told the story of the time during the war when, England having only ten days rations for her people and every port on each side of the Atlantic was congested, Sir Henry proved himself the biggest kind of a man in that crisis by knowing what to do, and having the nerve to do it. He has never referred even privately to the part he played—and only a few in the Dominion know. The initiates are men high in our transportation systems.

The story came to my knowledge about the time Sir Henry was fathering the Drayton amendment to the Hon. Mr. Fielding's budget last Spring. Verbal brickbats were being hurled from all directions at the knight who had once been chairman of the Railway Commission. It seems he made a grievous mistake when he allowed off his moustache—only second Diamond Bill I suppose. It was a man of inordinate vanity. The older men apparently resented the fifteen years they he slipped off his appearance with the luxurious growth of his upper lip. His detractors said that his delivery was open to be scored for his climaxes on his conjunctions and prepositions and whispered the important words in his speeches.

Then a man who has been in the confidence of the president and vice-president of a great railway system, weary of the injustice of public opinion, took the floor.

"Sir Henry Drayton can always be counted upon to do his duty," he said, "I happen to know that he was very ill and confined to his bed when the day arrived recently for him to introduce his amendment to the budget. He got up despite the orders of his physician, was driven to the House and helped down the corridor to the Green Chamber. Naturally his voice was faint and his delivery worse than usual. Next day he was generally bedevilled in the press of the country—by those who did not understand and who did not want to."

It was Sir Henry who once prevented us from losing the war by keeping England from starving. It was round about Christmas time in 1917 that confidential advice came to Ottawa that the enemy raising the people of England could live for another ten days. All the ports of the United States were blocked up, and after mile-of-box cars filled with foodstuffs could not reach the ships which jammed the harbors.

There were the thousands of full cars and the hundreds of empty ships—and millions in the Motherland were facing starvation because the neck of the funnel was choked.

However, it seems to be Sir Henry's fate of late years to be pilloried by the public. It will be recalled how he was assailed when he sponsored his sales and profit tax which he asserted was essential taxation if the war debt was to be paid. He stood four-square in front of his critics at that time. This spring we had the salutary spectacle of his successor, Mr. Fielding after four years of peace increasing this species of taxation.

In 1920, the Opposition complimented Sir Henry—then Minister of Finance—on getting through in a short debate the most contentious budget ever brought down in the Canadian House of Commons.

It must comfort Sir Henry to think of the good old days when he was City Solicitor of Toronto. Then it was that Sir Henry came his way for his most excellent administration of his office. In all his dealings with the Toronto Street Railway and Mackenzie and Mann, he always was true to his brief for the people whose servant he was.

It was largely because of the facileness of his administration in capacity of city solicitor that he was made Chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners. That was his first thankless task. There was the public on one hand, and the railways on the other. The Devil and the Deep Sea. What would please the people, made the interests wrathy.

Then the Union Government deliberately chose him Minister of Finance—the man who had to devise ways and means of paying for the cost of current government and incidentally for our share in the war. He made good in each high position, but he lost his popularity. Now he sits in the shades of opposition, still a young looking man.

Drayton was Chairman of the Railway Commission. Sir Robert Borden was not in Ottawa when the crisis was reported, so Sir Henry, sensing the gravity of the situation to the whole allied world, took it upon himself to exercise for the first time the wide powers with which he had been clothed as Commissioner. The manner in which he proceeded and the immediate results proved him a man of extraordinary brain power and nerve.

The first difficulty encountered was the fact that railways are primarily operated for the purpose of paying dividends to stock-holders, not for winning a war in England, or any other place. The railways had been competing, not co-operating—hence the choked ports. Now the Canadian ports in December, 1917, were comparatively open. The Canadian railways were chiefly concerned in sweeping their own cars and hauling their own freight to its destination.

Sir Henry called all the operating chiefs of the railways and the directors of the various Government boards together. Then he delivered his ultimatum.

"Either you will place all your rolling stock, equipment and motive power at my disposal or I'll put an order-in-Council through under the War Measures Act, and take them all away from you," he said.

The representatives of the railways squealed like youngsters who had their candy snatched by their big bank. They pointed out that their roads had contracts to carry goods over certain routes to specified destinations—and that they might be sued if they broke the contracts and allowed the food stuffs to be shipped to England via Halifax instead of via New York.

"Give me the cars and equipment," insisted Drayton. "The shippers can sue me."

The result was that in less than forty-eight hours a regular stream of flour and foodstuffs was shunting as fast as steam could take it to Canadian Atlantic ports.

The people in Canadian cities did not know that in reality they were being rationed. It happened in this manner. If the figures of the Food Control Board showed that five train loads of flour were billed for a small town in Nova Scotia where only one was needed, Sir Henry would order the four extras diverted to the waiting ships in the Halifax harbor. Then later on when the ships had been dispatched, he would give back the four he had "borrowed."

In a terrible emergency which could not be made public during the dark days of 1917—Sir Henry on his own initiative dared to do the right thing. He did it so successfully that his fellow-citizens never knew that the gravest crisis had been met.

An old timer is one who can remember when the hardest crooks considered it inadvisable to break a Federal law.

"After my baby was born, I was terribly weak and run down, with pains across my back. I had heard so much of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that I decided to try it. Three boxes proved enough to make me quite strong and well again. I also used Dr. Chase's Ointment for a rash which broke out on the baby, and the rash disappeared completely in a short time."

SMALLEST BRITISH PARLIAMENT OPENS

Selection of Speaker and Official Opposition Are Two Primary Problems

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Nov. 20.—The smallest British Parliament since the union with Ireland in 1801, and in which Ireland, with exception of Ulster, is not represented, and in which the labor party appears as the chief contender for recognition as official opposition, opened here at 2.45 this afternoon. After attending in House of Lords, members of Parliament gathered in House of Commons for the election of the speaker. Here T. P. Conner, "Father of the House," proposed John Whitley for re-election and when this choice had been confirmed the House adjourned to receive the King's formal consent to his selection of a speaker. The question as to which party will be recognized as constituting the official opposition remained one of paramount interest as Parliament assembled.

THE REWARD OF PERSEVERANCE

On Saturday, Queen's University won the Intercollegiate Football Championship of Canada after a number of years of unsuccessful endeavour. Now that the struggle is over there are hub-few people who have any regrets. Queen's has labored under many disadvantages, year after year, but gamely fought her battles until, in 1922 she has a championship football team, for the first time since 1004. The student attendance at the Kingston University has averaged for a number of years a little more than one-half of that of McGill and about one-quarter of that of Toronto University. Then the city of Kingston does not provide as large gate receipts as Toronto or Montreal. Thus with fewer men from which to choose a team, and not having a large revenue from gate receipts she, year after year put a team in the Senior Intercollegiate Football series. Of late years both Toronto University and McGill have had the services of first class football coaches, which materially assisted in rounding out championship teams. Since the war, through the generosity of the Richardson family, there has been erected the George Richardson Memorial Stadium, which has added a great deal to the popularity of athletics in general and of football in particular, at the University. Athletics have become better organized and a coach obtained with the result that this year their ambition is attained. The championship is an honor in any event, but to have wrested it away from her competitors under the existing handicaps, it is indeed a triumph. To add to the difficulties of the team, this year, their coach was suddenly incapacitated and was confined to his bed, just a few days before the memorable game on Armistice Day, and a new coach had to take over the reins at a very crucial point.

It is a good lesson to the faint-hearted, and the continued efforts of Queen's, even when apparently beaten in the race, should be an inspiration to all.

The University of Toronto have a wonderful team, and they have always played a gentlemanly game. They have shown themselves to be good losers, and congratulated Queen's on their earned victory.

SEAMANSHIP

For the past two weeks Canadians have been entertaining one of the most distinguished of the United States naval men, in the person of Rear-Admiral Sims. The Admiral was born in Canada, near Port Hope on the shores of Lake Ontario, and has always been noted for his pro-British sentiments. For these reasons he always enjoys a hearty welcome when visiting Canada. Speaking in Toronto recently, under the auspices of the Navy League of Canada he dwelt at length upon the bravery and expert seamanship of the members of the British merchant marine during the late war. The Admiral was commanding that portion of the United States fleet that operated in the North Sea and North Atlantic. He was therefore in close and active touch with the British naval commanders.

The most outstanding feat of seamanship that attracted the attention of the Admiral was the ability of merchant captains to handle their ships in convoys. We quote the Admiral on the above statement as follows:

"I insisted on having a convoy system in spite of strong opposition. Naval officers stated that men in the merchant marine would never be able to handle their ships in close formation, as they knew how hard it was to handle battleships, which could be manoeuvred much more easily. The captains of the merchant marine, who were called in on the matter, agreed with the naval officers, and pointed out the difficulty of manoeuvering ships of different sizes, with different turning capabilities. In a convoy there would be forty ships, at a distance of five hundred yards from each other, and they were expected to change direction at a given signal. Because I knew the capabilities of these merchant captains, I insisted that they could do it, and they did. Later on when the system was being used, one of my officers who had just come across the Atlantic with a convoy, said he had never seen battleships better manoeuvered than were these merchant vessels, when a submarine appeared."

This class of man, who sails the seven seas, the Admiral said, has a wonderful opportunity to suggest and rise to important positions. He thought that the Navy League should encourage the youth of Canada to study navigation. A city the size of Toronto could easily support a training ship and the Admiral suggested that the British Navy could be induced to present such a ship to the city, if it were made clear that it would be used to advantage. Education of naval matters should be taken care of by public funds quite as much as other lines of learning.

There is not only a message but a deal of truth in what Admiral Sims suggests. The British Empire today owes its being to the seamanship of Britons. Whether it be ships of war or ships of commerce, the British are supreme. England was able to defend herself because of her sailors, this fact being established when they defeated the Spanish Armada, and has been confirmed at various times down to the present day. The commerce of Britain made her the greatest nation in the world and it was made possible through her seamen: No nation today can be truly successful without foreign trade and to get foreign trade we must have a merchant marine. Canada should be able to supply no insignificant number of seamen to man the ships flying the Empire's flag. Up to the present those that we have furnished have been largely supplied by our maritime Provinces. Ontario and other inland provinces should contribute their share. Toronto, we doubt, will have a training ship soon, but Belleville should not be left entirely out of this sphere of activity. The city cannot support a fully equipped training ship, but we can encourage the use of our bay and create in our boys a love of the water. It is a manly, healthy sport, and develops a great deal that is desirable in a man. He learns to be calm in emergencies, to take the initiative, and to think for himself. If the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club will carry out their program of placing a fleet of fourteen foot dinghies on the bay here, it will go a long way toward overcoming the high cost of boating. Races of such craft will encourage the young fellows to learn to handle them and create in them a love for the water. If given such an opportunity, many of them may take up the life permanently and it is not beyond the range of possibilities that we in Belleville may some day be welcoming one of our boys who has become an Admiral. Even if we do not have this opportunity, we will have gone a long way toward giving our boys a clean, healthy sport that develops men in a way that few other sports can, if we give our boys such an opportunity to get on our bay.

HERE AND THERE

LIGHT COLORS THE PEACOCK'S TAIL

A film of oil dropped on the pavement by an errant automobile contains the same color values as the highly decorative tail feathers of the peacock, according to Dr. Wilder D. Bancroft of Cornell University, speaking at a recent meeting of the American Chemical Society.

"Everybody has noticed the brilliantly colored spots on the pavements where automobiles have spilled oil," said Dr. Bancroft. "The colors range from red to gold to blue, and are very vivid or metallic. They depend upon the angle at which one sees them, and they are not due to pigments, since we have a thin film of nearly colorless oil. These colors are due to the interference of light reflected from the upper and lower surfaces of the film, and they depend on the thickness of the film, which averages about one-fifty-thousandth of an inch. They are most vivid when oil is spilled on an asphalt pavement than when on a dirt road, because there is less disturbing light reflected from the black background.

"The brilliant colors of the tail feathers of the peacock and the apparently self-luminous reds in the throat feathers of the humming bird are not due to pigments. When one looks through a peacock's feathers one sees only brown, due to the so-called melanin pigment, which is equivalent to the asphalt pavement. In all the iridescent feathers the barbules are flattened instead of brown, which therefore give the colors of thin films. The structure is so marked that an expert can pick out the iridescent feathers in the dark by the feel.

"It is possible to duplicate the color effects of the peacock and the humming bird by putting a very thin film of varnish, or any dark matter; but we cannot calculate the thickness with such accuracy as to produce the patterns of the peacock. When one considers that variations in thickness of a hundred-thousandth of an inch may change the color completely, it seems marvellous that all the tail feathers of all the peacocks can be so nearly alike.

"The neck feathers of the white pigeon show practically no iridescence because the dark background is lacking. If they are dyed orange, the iridescence appears in full force. On the other hand, the white peacock is not an albino in the sense of merely having no dark pigment. The whole structure of the feathers has changed. The barbules are not flat plates and consequently no brilliant colors can be developed by dying the feathers brown or painting the back with India ink."

PRESS OPINIONS

MOSLEM EYES OPENED.

Mail and Empire.

A sensation has been created among the Mohammedans in Egypt and India by the sudden turn in affairs at Constantinople. The British forces there now become the protectors of the Sultan and the Sheik-ul-Islam against the Nationalists. That is, instead of being in the role of opponents of Moslem recovery and progress, the British have the pleasure of shielding the Caliph, and other heads of Mohammedanism, and of preserving the traditional status of the religion. The overturning of the Sultan's national Government in Constantinople by the Nationalist extremists is not at all pleasing to Moslems either in Turkey. They have been regarding he Angora movement as an expression of Moslem aspirations, of revival of power and force for the Caliphate. When the British forces placed themselves determinedly in the way on smashing Turkish nationalism these Moslems of Africa and Asia looked on the action as an affront to their religion. The French were regarded as friends and benefactors. They had encouraged the Kemal group and generally acted as a power desirous of cultivating friendship of the Moslem world. Now, the Turk Nationalists thus befriended, have turned on the heads of Mohammedanism and assumed virtually all the traditional temporal powers. The French are losing what they tried desperately to gain, and the British, acting more or less on principle, fall heir to strange political advantages.

The quick repudiation of the Kemalist "revolution" in Constantinople by the French Government does not lose sight of the change of the general situation. A French warship is to be associated with the British fleet off Constantinople. The Quai d'Orsay disclaims all sympathy with the excesses of the Nationalists, and has to recognize now, that the cheeks put on them by the British—while the French stood aloof—were badly needed, not only for protection of Europe, but in the interest of good relations with the Moslem world also. The Angora Turks are a bad lot, who will give no end of trouble. When they are so soon losing the sympathy of Asiatic and African fellow-religionists, the plea of consideration for, or sympathy of feeling in India, Egypt, etc., can be lightly dismissed.

MR. CRERAR'S POSITION.

(Mail and Empire)

The official statement limited to 36,000 shareholders of the United Grain Growers announcing that the dividend was to be passed and that there would be a heavy loss for the year pending the audit, will cause many curious eyes on the subject of the company's management. In normal times the Grain Exchange, which handles no much of the grain passing through Winnipeg to the head of the Lakes, made very handsome on a relatively small capital. But politics and good business management do not go well. Mr. Crerar's administration is said to be ready for the Progressive conference today.

The United Grain Growers' Company is only one of many farmer co-operative enterprises that have, recently, met with disheartening results. The United Farmers' Co-operative organization in Ontario reported a heavy loss for the year. One retrenchment after another has occurred. The farm implement business of the Ontario organization is reported to be abandoned, because it lost too much money. The regular Canadian companies have not done with some satisfaction, but the United Company endeavored to market American implements, and in other ways favored manufacturers in the United States. The implement end of the co-operative buying and distributing agency does not seem to be the only weak point in the Western farmers' organizations. Over-extending, and too much politics have been mentioned.

The economic crisis through which all trading and financial corporations have passed recently has hit many sufficiently managed concerns rather hard. Co-operative organizations, based largely on political affinities, are usually susceptible to adverse conditions. The farmers who have enthusiastically supported the co-operative business enterprises have a right to expect that these shall be divorced from all hampering relations to political governments and politicians have their rightful field, but assuredly it is not in the conduct of semi-public commercial ventures that require undivided attention from skilled executives.

COMPENSATION.
By C. Lapey Childs.

Since I may have so little space to print
My dreams, I pray thee, Author, show me how
To use the small and pregnant words that thrill;
And if I then may build one phrase, so brief,
So clear, so helpful in the work or play
Of men that each will keep it in his heart,
I'll be content.

Since my life must be a shortened string,
I pray thee, Master, tune it fine and true,
To sound the highest note that men can hear.
Draw thy bow across it firm and straight,
And, so it vibrate once with tone both true
And strong, and stir the hope in lonely lives,
It then may break.

Drain canned lima beans from the liquor in can. To 1 cup beans add 2 cups boiling water, season with salt and cook 20 minutes; rub through a strainer. Melt two tablespoons butter in saucepan, add 2 slices onion, 2 tablespoons chopped carrots, cook 5 minutes, remove vegetables, add 2 tablespoons flour, stir until smooth, then add gradually to first mixture while boiling constantly. Add 1 cup hot cream and season with salt and pepper. Serve in hot bouillon cups, sprinkle with finely chopped parsley.

The Daily Recipe

SPANISH OMELET

Fruit sauce, 1 small onion, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 sweet red pepper, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 dessertspoon chili sauce, 4 tablespoons water, salt and pepper, a dash of cayenne, 3 eggs. Place the butter in a frying pan, add the minced onion and cook slowly, but do not brown too much. Then put in the peppers, that have been well-beaten up with the water and seasoning. Shake the pan till the omelet is set at the bottom, then with a thin-bladed knife, lift the edges, allowing the soft upper part to cook. Place in a hot oven for a few minutes to complete cooking, fold very carefully, garnish with the sweet pepper cut in thin strips, and sprinkle over with the minced parsley and chili sauce. If preferred, the omelet can be cooked in with the eggs. Serve at once.

MAKE THE MOST OF YOURSELF

"I know I'm not pretty, so I don't bother," says the plain woman, indifferently but she makes a great mistake.

The really ugly women who makes a study of neatness and emphasizes her best points, may look so charming that she becomes quite as attractive as the woman endowed with more perfect features who does not trouble to enhances her gifts and show herself to advantage.

The endeavour to look one's best exerts a reaction upon the mental outlook. It breeds a self-confidence and assurance which has a subtle influence on everybody with whom we come in contact.

The woman with a slim straight figure cultivates a graceful carriage and harmonious movements. She takes lessons and exercises her body to develop perfect poise, while she is careful to adopt a style of dress in which beauty of line is emphasized. She is clever enough to be aware that people will admire her grace and forget her plain features.

Small well-formed feet and hands are great assets, and should be beautifully kept and perfectly shod and gloved). A neat ankle in a silken stocking has as great an appeal as a pretty face.

A study of the plainest features generally reveals handsome eyes, pretty teeth, a soft white skin, or some other small beauty which only needs cultivation and the contrast of the most becoming tints to make the possessor as attractive as her prettier sisters.

The knowledge that she has but few pretensions of good looks should spur every woman on to make the very best of the little she can develop, your best one.—Daily Chronicle.

Successful Studying

Cutting Down on Forgetting

(This is the eighth of a series of articles which will help young students to learn more and get better grades by showing them how to study more efficiently.)

You will never get anywhere in your studies if your "memory" is better than your memory. It doesn't do you much good to be able to learn facts if you forget them with the same speed.

The first day after you learn a group of facts is the time you forget most of them. That is why every lesson should be reviewed again after you have recited it. If you should make out a curve line showing how much you forget, the line would rise highest the first day and then slope down during the rest of the week. After that the line would straighten itself out and become level, for what you remember at the end of a week will stick with you for a much longer time.

Learn it the same way that you expect to recite. One way to prevent forgetting is to keep in mind just how you will have to recall what you have learned. If you are learning a reading, practice it aloud, standing up and going through the gestures you expect to use. If you are learning definitions that you will write out in class, learn them by writing them down, so that you will have in your mind a picture of how they look on the page. If you are studying for an oral examination, ask yourself questions and answer them aloud.

Allow Mind to "Set".

If you were painting a picture, you wouldn't slap on another color before the first one dried. It is the same with studying—lessons become blurred and more easily forgotten if they are run together and not allowed to sink in.

Finish one lesson completely before you begin on the next one. Then allow your mind a short rest, closing your eyes for a few minutes. After working on another lesson, go back to the first one and go over it quickly. You will find that it is clearer in your mind than before.

The Short Story Ji.

THE SOFT ERASER

"Mercy me!" cried the nice soft eraser, "I'm getting so thin I don't know what to do. I've completely lost all my nice plump curves. If I had any bones at all I'd be awfully bonry by this time."

"Hey, Jack, lend me your eraser," whispered Dick across the aisle. The eraser groaned as Dick rubbed him vigorously across his theme, but he felt the paper nice and clean. He always did his work well.

That afternoon during the drawing lesson the eraser worked very hard, passing quickly from one student to another. When his work was finally over he felt as if he had lost pounds.

"That surely is a fine soft eraser you have, Jack," said the teacher as she bent over his desk.

"Sich," thought the eraser, "that's just what I am in more ways than one." And then he had a wonderful idea. He would make himself hard! Instead of erasing nice and clean he would leave a black smudge wherever he was used. The eraser chuckled to himself. It was such a wonderful idea. If he did not do his work well then they wouldn't work him so hard and he wouldn't get so terribly thin.

"Hey, Jack, lend me your eraser, will you?" Dick whispered. The eraser made himself stiff and hard and left a big black smudge on Dick's theme.

"What's the matter with your old eraser?" Dick asked. "Taint any good any more, is it?"

"No, 'taint," Jack replied. "I guess it's getting too old. Might as well throw it away if it's going to act like that."

As the eraser sank to the bottom of the waste paper basket he thought sadly that it was better to work hard and do his work well, even though he did get thin. But it was too late then. He never had another chance.

He Was Right.

A showman had an announcement stating: "Come in and see the great Zulu." A learned gentleman read it and informed the showman that he had made a mistake in the word "sword"; that it ought to be "sword."

"Yer'd better come in an' see for yerself; the handmaiden is only tuppence," said the showman.

So the learned gentleman paid his "tuppence," went in, an dsaw about a large coolfish sawed in half.

"Yer ain't the first gentleman who has tried to teach me 'ow to spell," grinned the showman.

The learned gentleman left, deeply indignant with the world in general.

CHAPTER VIII.

SANDY

"Father," said Sandy, a few days after the events related, "How div ye mean remember what ye ken, when ye are tauld to?"

Donald laughed, a clear, full-throated laugh of genuine amusement, at the naive question, which outbreak of hilarity quite disconcerted the boy and brought the colour to his cheeks. "Dinna frighten the bairn," his mother said, divining something unusual under the boy's question, for Sandy had been restless for a day or two, and she had found him awake and tearful when he should have been asleep the night before.

Thus admonished, Donald laid his hand upon the lad's curly head, saying, "Your father sud na has laughed at your question, Sandy my man. He's an gran mate whiles is to remember, but whiles you may be right after all, laddie, for there are things that can never be quite forgotten."

"I canna misremember," Sandy whimpered again, in visible distress; "I canna, father!"

"Tell your father about it, laddie," his mother said, encouragingly, 'he wiana laugh at ye again, nor fas' nor lae' laddie, he wiana for sure."

"I want to hear all about it, Sandy," Donald said. "It is a gay thing to be able to trust when ye want to, but it is no easy, and I never learned how to do it myse' laddie, so dinna be miserable."

"I canna," Sandy wailed afresh; "I canna misremember anything. I canna —deed I canna."

"Well then, bairnie, what is it?" his mother said, soothingly, searching the boy's countenance with loving eyes.

"I harkit mither,' he said, plunging into the matter, like one throwing himself on another's mercy. 'I harkit when they didna ken.'

"Ye harkit, laddie?' his father said, quite mystified.

"I harkit,' the boy continued, 'to the lame pedlar and Master Heatlifeld having a gran crack about the bonny lady o' the Island, and I canna misremember.'

The pedlar? Donald said, hoarsely.

"I warna spying, faither,' the boy said, mistaking the impression he had made, 'I warna spying, indeed I warna.'

"No, no, of course not, Sandy,' Donald said dustily;

"And ye will tell your faither all about it, laddie,' his mother said soothingly, 'he'll no be angry.'

"It was about takin' awa' the lady o' the Island, whether or no. Will they tak' her awa', faither?'—and the boy renewed his father's fare anxiety.

Donald was startled. He had forgiven dagger to Ocna, but had no intimation that it was so near, and the mention of the lame pedlar, whom he knew now to be Kinkmar, boded ill for the safety of the 'lady o' the Island' as Sandy called her.

"Will they tak' awa', faither?' Sandy repeated, in evident distress.

"No, laddie,' Donald said slowly. That is, I hope not.'

Donald had grown pale under the bronze, and tense in spite of himself. His brain was working rapidly at the moment, for he had to decide, and he had to decide quickly; and perhaps, even now, he was too late. It was a bitter moment for MacAlpin; he could not chide his boy for the sense of honour which had kept him silent, in spite of his dwarfed intelligence; still, the time lost might mean much, might even mean everything he had pledged himself to prevent; yet whatever came of it, Sandy must never know. Donald told himself: 'Sandy must never know.'

The sensitive soul of the boy had enough to suffer, being as he was acquitted the reasoning powers which enable others to look beyond the present pain, and to draw nectar and fragrance, even from the crushed flowers of human life. The present was all to Sandy, and Donald wished to make it as little painful as possible for him.

Leaving a message with his wife for Alan Graham, Donald was soon mounted on his horse, with Sandy behind him, and taking the shortest cuts through the woods, in little over an hour from the time he started, he sighted the ancient hostelry where he hoped to learn something of the movements of those he sought. It was indeed an anxious, and might also be a perilous journey. On the way, he had learned all that Sandy could tell him, and was far from being comforted by what the boy had to relate.

Leaving Sandy in charge of the horse, in a little clough about half a mile off, Donald made his way on foot to the inn. He had not been a frequent visitor there of late, and now his coming was hailed with unbounded delight by all about the place, as an event of great note.

Yes, the landlord explained, the lame pedlar had left there only that day, whether he had left the neighbourhood or not, he could not tell. 'A good riddance,' remarked the hostler, wrathfully. 'A French spy, mort likely,' whispered the landlord, mysteriously. 'Very kind he's gone. Such characters spoil the reputation of a decent house—quite spoil it, indeed.'

'Always went afoot,' chimed in the hostler, whose grievances were many and deep; 'he 'bout with the dawn every day of the week, and was the last to lie down, if indeed he ever did lie down and sleep like a Christian did. He said he had learned all his queer ways soldiering, indeed—he would start like a thief at you came upon him unbeknowst in broad daylight. Yes, he is gone without a word or a bawbee, bad luck to him, the shabpen miser, and it is St. Johnston uppiet for a fairm!' It was clear the hostler had a poor opinion of Kinkmar, who, by the way, was known to him by quite another name.

For cooking, just add water

CARNATION MILK is much richer than whole milk because part of the water has been taken away by evaporation. For cooking, therefore, add an equal part of water to the Carnation you use and you will have milk of normal richness. If you want thinner milk, all you have to do is increase the amount of water. Use Carnation just as it comes from the container, or slightly diluted, for creaming coffee, fruits and cereals. Buy Carnation Milk regularly from your grocer. It is economical, convenient and absolutely pure. Send today for the Carnation Cook Book. Try this recipe.

CREAM WHITE SAUCE
(For creaming vegetables)

2 tablespoonfuls flour, 1/3 cup Carnation Milk, 2 tablespoonfuls butter or substitute, ¼ teaspoonful salt, 2/3 cup water. Melt butter or butter substitute, add flour and stir until thoroughly mixed. Add the milk diluted with the water and cook about five minutes or until mixture thickens, then add seasonings. This recipe makes one cup. All vegetables may be creamed. The vegetables should be cooked by either boiling or steaming. After cooking with salt, drain and add cream sauce.

QUEEN'S DOWN VARSITY FOR INTER-COLLEGIATE HONORS

Win by Score of 12-6 Before 10,000 Fans—Much Wagering 2 to 1 for Tri-color—Queen's Fight Hard and Come From Behind for Win

Montreal, Nov. 19.—Queen's long quest for Intercollegiate Rugby honors ended unexpectedly in the Molson Memorial Stadium on Saturday afternoon, when the Tricolor trumped over last the Blue and White of the University of Toronto in the play-off to decide the 1922 title, Queen's emerging victors from one of the most dramatic football struggles witnessed in Montreal in many years by a score of 13 to 6. Hopelessly out-classed by Varsity the week previous, the Queen's twelve went on to McGill's exalted gridiron for the deciding battle imbued with a fighting spirit that could not be checked. The misfortune that befell the ultimate victors in the first half were severe setbacks to the Tricolor players. To give away six points and the lead on a fumble behind the line by Harry Harper in the first quarter and then to see a touchdown go uncounted when the umpire declared the team for "no yard" in the second quarter, was sufficient to test the determination of the best team. Under such checks Queen's fought on valiantly against strong opposition and gradually drew even with Varsity, and in the latter stages assumed a lead which they would not give up, but dowry added to, until, with true sportsmanship, the game became practically certain.

Most Creditable Victory.

Queen's victory is the more creditable in that the Tricolor met and defeated the best that the University of Toronto could field. True it is that certain Harry Hobbs and Warren Snyder failed to show the brilliant form displayed in other contests, but this was to a great measure due to the excellent work of the Queen's wings and to the deadly kicking of "Pep" Leadley. Snyder and Hobbs being invariably cornered before they had a chance to start the runs that have become their fame in the Rugby world. Varsity were slow to start, but in the second half they got their all into the game to break the ice and assume the lead, but they were outdone by the Queen's players, the Tricolor backs being superior to the Blue and White rear guard, while the tiring Queen's line, which had ripped the Blue and White in the first half, managed to stave off the danger threatened by the steady gains of Snyder and Gordon Duncan through the wings. Leadley, Batstone and Jock Evans were irresistable, but it is to Captain "Red" McKelvey of Queen's that the greatest praise is due. In the dying minutes of the third quarter Snyder's terrific smash of a kick by Leadley put Queen's on the defensive on their own 10-yard line, and it looked certain that Varsity would cut down the Tricolor's short lead.

McKelvey, who had previously shone through the entire play thoughout, broke through the Blue and White defence to block an attempted drop kick by Ross Somerville, and thus relieved the danger. Later he tore through the Varsity line and, shaking off tackler after tackler, gained 35 yards before being downed by Somerville, the last man between himself and a touchdown. The play put Queen's again on the offensive and finished Toronto's last dangerous movements.

While the undergraduates from Queen's grayted in a victory march behind their band following the game to express their delight in the result, the old Queen's graduates and supporters stood on the stands and looked down with fond memories and the greatest respect at the little band of warriors with their bright, tricolor sweaters, who had fought to the point of exhaustion that the glory this year should go to their alma mater.

The game was decidedly worthy of the honors at stake. Both teams were in the best of condition and fought from the first whistle to the last. While Varsity made valiant efforts to win the closely contested struggle, it was the fight in the Queen's team and their keenness to follow the ball at all stages that was largely responsible for their victory.

Queen's Excell-l Everywhere.

Queen's excelled in most departments, which resulted in the Tricolor being on the offensive for the greater portion of the game, but the Blue and White held on tenaciously and kept within the danger distance, despite the fact that they were only in possession in promising territory three times during the game. Queen's great offensive enabled the Tricolor to a bigger margin, but the gods of chance did not favor the Kingston team in the first half, when they gave away the six points placed by Varsity on a fumble behind the line, lost a touchdown when "Peg" Walker was called for not giving yards to Snyder, who fumbled a punt from Leadley and left the ball open for "Phat" Thomlis to scoop up and cross the line, only to be called back. Again, Johnny Efgas' enforced absence from the struggle for a little too close attention to an opponent robbed Queen's of a good opportunity to go over for a touchdown, only relieved at quarter, snapped up the second down, and on the third an offside kick sent for a rouge when Duncan jumped in the air and caught the ball behind his own line.

"Peg" Leadley the Star.

Leadley returned to his own in the game and was the outstanding player on the field, his kicking being superior to that of Snyder's, defensively, while he handled the punting for Varsity in the second half, was booting too far for his wings to get down under. Leadley's dropped field goal in the first quarter was beautifully placed. In running the back-punt, James Marshall heaved the lead 56 feet winning this event.

CORBY BOYS LOSE TO EVER-READY CREW

The C.I.A. went down to defeat on Saturday night before the Ever-Ready team at Domenico's alleys in a very good game of bowling. The first game the Corbyvills boys were only a few pins behind, but in the second and third game, the Ever-Readys came back strong, and won out by a safe margin. The five pins winners last week were Jones and Hill.

Hill sets a new alley record for the three strings with 698.

B.H.S. SEN. WIN AT BASKETBALL

But Juniors Are Defeated by Napanee Girls

Saturday night on the Rink at the Y.M.C.A. here, two of the fastest games of Girls' Basket Ball ever seen in this city were played. The first game was between the Belleville Seniors and the Napanee Seniors. They easily beat their opponents, 21-10, but the Belleville Juniors lost to Napanee after a game fight.

In the first period the "Old Ladies" started strong and soon left Napanee far behind. By their stonewall defence and deadly shooting, they piled up a lead of 19-0 in the first period.

In the second period they eased up a bit on their defence and while the Napanee girls by good combination netted 10 points Belleville scored 14 thus making the final score 21-10 in favour of Belleville.

The Junior game was the fastest game of the season and although the Belleville girls, lost to Napanee 22-15, they put up a splendid exhibition of Basket Ball.

In the first period Napanee took the lead and it looked as if it would be impossible for the Belleville girls settled down and held them, and when the period ended the score was 7-5 for Napanee.

In the second period a battle royal was waged. The Belleville girls came back in the game and although the Napanee girls held on to their lead with a slim margin.

The game was fast and furious from the opening whistle, and encouraged by the rooting power of the Belleville fans, they gradually mounted up their score until it looked as if Belleville would come out on top. But although they held their own the lead was too great and in the final moments of the game, Napanee added two baskets, which clinched the game. When the final whistle blew the score was 22-15 in favour of Napanee.

The Napanee students certainly are a fine bunch of sports, and the team had a good following of rooters. However, the peppy yells of the Belleville cheering squad soon silenced them.

After the games the teams were banqueted in the "Y" and the Napanee girls left for home, anxious for the return game next week.

The lineups were as follows:

(Seniors.)

Belleville — Forwards: Clarinda Creeji and Emma Kelly; Centre: Jean Hill; Side Centre: Irene Holsey; Side Centre: Madeline McCormick; Defence: Helen Potter and Irene Woods.

Napanee — Forwards: Catherine O'Ray and Gearne MacCraw; Centre: Kathleen Gallagher; Side Centre: Helen Davy; Defence: Genera Roblin and Lillian Churchill.

MEETING TONIGHT

At 7.30 p.m. tonight a meeting of those interested in the formation of an indoor baseball league, will be held at the Y.M.C.A.

Why Corns?
Just say
Blue-jay
to your druggist
The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Blue-jay is a colorless clear liquid (one drop does it!) and is then plaster. The action is the same.

TERRIERS ARE TENDERED BANQUET

Presentation of Trophy and Gold Medals to Provincial Champions

Galt, Nov. 18.—The Galt Amateur Athletic Association, which has done so much in the past couple of years to put Galt on the sport map tonight paid tribute to the Terriers, Ontario senior baseball champions, when they were rendered a complimentary dinner. This is the second Provincial Championship that has been brought to Galt since the G.A.A.A. came into being, the Terriers having won the O.H.A. intermediate championship for the season of 1920-21.

Tonight's event was probably the most successful gathering ever held in connection with sport in Galt, the community in a most appreciative manner expressing its thanks to the team and officers. The players and management were each presented with magnificent gold watches from the G.A.A.A. Mark Dulmadge of Guelph, Secretary of the O.H.A.A. made the presentation of the emblematic of the championship, while Chas. Penfold of Guelph, President of the inter-county League, and a member of the O.H.A.A. Executive made the presentation to the players of the gold medals awarded by the O.H.A. Harry Eversfield, of Guelph, donor of the Intercounty Cup, made the presentation of the trophy. The players' management also received gold pencils, a gift of E. B. Claspole.

BOY SCOUT ORGANIZATION PLANS NEW TRAINING CENTRE

Extensive Plans Under Way With Headquarters at New York

(Associated Press)

New York, Nov. 17.—The National Council of the Boy Scouts of America, carrying out its program of expansion, has announced its purpose of opening four big national centers for the expert training of scout executives.

Immediate plans are on foot to establish the first of these centers near New York, and the Council is already seeking ground for that purpose. It is hoped to establish other centers probably one in the middle west, one in the far west and one in the south This "headquarters in the field" will furnish an opportunity to concentrate experimental work as well as furnish an expert training center, especially for courses in "How to Train Scoutmasters." It it is not practicable to locate the headquarters and centers for training along these lines it will be possible to move the head faculty to different parts of the country.

The scout executive is the salaried official in a big city, or community, who makes scouting his business, and directs the volunteer leadership of the troops. For many years there have been available in different parts of the country, various training courses for scoutmasters. The scoutmaster is the volunteer leader who takes charge of a unit called a troop.

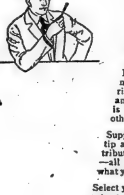

Attorney L. Schiff, who has acted as Vice-President of the National Council, has recently been appointed International Commissioner of the organization. He will devote his time to the international affairs of the Boy Scouts.

Since the beginning of scouting in this country over twelve years ago, a total of 4,777 eagle badges, the highest rank in scouting, have been issued. Of this number 1,477 have been allotted since the first of the present year.

It is considered remarkable that such a large proportion of these marks of distinction should have been given out in the past ten months. In order to attain this much coveted eagle badge, the scout begins as a tenderfoot and climbs up the ladder one rung at a time until he becomes a second class, and then a first class scout. It is at this point that the boy begins to do his real scouting, which calls for training along special lines. After he is a first class scout, he may become a life scout, and then a star scout, and then comes the highest rank, which is Eagle. Eleven of the merit badges, or those which are necessary to become an Eagle are specifically in the fields of first aid, life-saving, personal health, public health, cooking, camping, civics, bird study, path finding, pioneering, and athletics or physical development.

From now until next February the scout organization will conduct a campaign for more members. It is hoped to increase the enrollment by 100,000 scouts, or twenty-five per cent. of the present membership.

Use it—and you will see the difference

Pocket sun dials tell time, yet you prefer an accurate watch, though it requires winding. Similarly, for 50c or less, you can buy a tube of tooth paste that will produce a certain point—but you prefer a finely made pencil of precision—like EVERSHARP.

The principle of operation that makes EVERSHARP write with satisfying smoothness and variety depends on the exclusive rifled tip that keeps the lead from slipping and wobbling. The success of EVERSHARP—and no other pencil can use this rifled tip.

Supplementing the perfect EVERSHARP tip are other excellent features that contribute dependability and beauty—all in every EVERSHARP, regardless of what you pay.

Select your EVERSHARP today—or get an extra one for your desk. Gold, silver and enamel finishes; priced from 75c to $75. Sold everywhere.

THE GUMPS—NOT OBLIGATED

Social and Personal

Mr. T. Mallett, K.C.C. Police Magistrate, is confined to his home today with a heavy cold.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson attended on Saturday a luncheon given by His Honor the Lieutenant Governor, at Government House, Toronto. The speaker for the occasion was Mr. E. W. Beatty President of the C.P.R., who delivered a very interesting address.

Miss Gladys K. Carson R.N., of Chicago, is the guest of her aunt, Mr. Gordon Boyle, of this city.

Mr. Henry Mason, who has been seriously ill for the past two weeks, is recovering very favorably.

FATALLY HURT BY MOTOR TRUCK

Dorothy Boxindale Almost Instantly Killed in Hamilton—Was Born in Belleville

Hamilton, Nov. 18.—Dorothy Boxindale, aged eight years, 38 Vallet avenue, was struck down and almost instantly killed at 4.15 yesterday afternoon by a truck driven by Walter E. Goodbrand, 192 Rosslyn avenue south, as she raced across the Beaconsfield driveway in front of the Loy George school, from which she had just emerged. According to Goodbrand the little girl and several other with her jumped out from in front of a big Hydro truck which was standing at the curb in front of the school. He could not see them until too late to do anything, although he was travelling very slowly at the time.

Dorothy Nellie Boxindale was the only daughter of John and Mrs. Boxindale. Deceased was born in Belleville. She was a member of St. James' Sunday school. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

NURSE THINKS NOTHING BETTER

SHE IS AS HAPPY AS A GIRL SAYS MRS. DEVOST

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Advised for all Women in Poor Health

Toronto, Ontario.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years and it was the only patent medicine I ever recommended. I am a nurse and if I find a woman in poor health I always tell her to take it. Although many of the doctors and nurses do not use patent medicine I must say that I think there is nothing better than your Vegetable Compound. When I was sick I took it many years ago, I was so tired when I got up in the morning that I could not eat, and when I went to bed I was too tired to sleep. My mother-in-law told me that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was just what I wanted so I tried it and only took two bottles when I felt better. Since then I have found that there is nothing that makes me feel so well, for it seems to build my system right up. I don't know any other medicine that has done so much for women."—Mrs. W. H. Parker, 13 Wellesley Ave., Toronto, Ontario.

Women testify again and again that they have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after other medicines have failed." It has been tried for more than fifty years and not found wanting.

If you are suffering from any of the various ailments which accompany female weakness try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

were sources of great satisfaction to all, as their loyalty and devotion was most marked. Calendars and certificates of merit were taught to these boys.

The V. M. C. A. had also taken up work with the Knot Hole Gang, present in every city. These boys were organized and were given legitimate ways and means by which they could participate in, and be spectators of, sports and sporting events.

Boys were born workingmen and the Y had tried to capitalize this fact for 40 years, by getting boys into clean, manly sports, giving them high grade leadership and clean heroes to worship.

Boys were encouraged, and their enthusiasm gained, through athletic sports, and the plan had been eminently successful.

Called By Death

MRS. MARGARET HALL

The death of Mrs. Margaret Hall, widow of the late James Hall, and daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Stevenson, occurred early Sunday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Hutcheson (nee Mary Hall), 221 Coleman street.

The late Mrs. Hall was a lifelong resident of Belleville, having been born in this city on September 1st, 1851. Her husband predeceased her by about twenty-eight years, dying many years ago, after the death of her mother, the late Mrs. John Stevenson, Mrs. Hall came with her daughter and her family moved to Lakeland, Florida, in the hope that the climate would benefit her health, as she had been ailing for several years. Such was not the case however, and they decided to return to Belleville, arriving here only one week ago. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Hall is survived by four brothers, Messrs. William, John, Robert and Thomas Stevenson, all of Toronto, and who are here attending the funeral.

Mrs. Hall was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and the funeral was held from the church this afternoon, the Rev. Mr. Kerr officiating. The remains were interred in the Belleville Cemetery. The late Mrs. Hall will be missed by a large circle of friends, especially the Ladies Aid of St. Andrew's Church, of which she was made a life member about twelve years ago.

WEDDING BELLS

SYMONS—RYAN.

A quiet wedding took place on Tuesday at Meadow Cottage, when Mr. Walter Alford Symons and Miss Pearl Evelyn Ryan were united in the bonds of holy wedlock by Rev. Albert L. Green, P.D.

The happy couple will reside in the old Symons residence on Yeoman street.

DAVISON—WATKINS.

The marriage took place at St. Thomas' Church at 5.30 p.m. of Mr. J. W. Davison and Miss Cora Watkins, both of this city. The ceremony which took place in the presence of the immediate friends and relatives of the bride and groom, was performed by Ven. Archdeacon Beamish, Mr. and Mrs. Davison left immediately after the ceremony by auto for west ern points. They will reside on Charles Street.

Too many solid, conservative citizens are sold from the cars up.

It Is Not True

That people "begin glasses too soon." Not if the one who first examined the eyes was up to the standard in his work; because when the skilful Optometrist completes examining a pair of eyes he KNOWS what they need andw hat they do not need: he will never put glasses on his patient until they are necessary. SUCCESSFUL DANCE

Bloodt's orchestra, featuring Orville Crow, of Peterboro, saxaphone and clarinet player, supplied the music at the regular weekly dance held at Bennett's Dancing Academy on Saturday evening. This was one of the largest yet on such regular dance nights, and an enjoyable time was spent.

INTOXICATED

The police gathered in one ebullious one over the week end, who will appear for trial on Thursday morning next at 10 o'clock. Magistrate Masson is indisposed today, and police court was accordingly deferred.

WILL CONFER DEGREE

To-morrow, (Tuesday) the Degree Staff of Glenford Rebekah Lodge, I.O.O.F., No. 230, of Frankford will visit Quinteau Rebekah Lodge on this city for the purpose of conferring the Rebekah Degree on a number of candidates.

Mr. Roy R. White, Manager of the Standard Bank at Napanee, and Mr. Isaac Briscoe, an old Napanee boy, were visitors in town on Saturday.

WILLING WORKERS' SOCIAL EVENING

On Friday evening last, Nov. 17th, the Willing Workers Class of the Tabernacle Church with their teacher, Mr. Frank Cyderman of Albert College, held a social evening in the Y. M. C. A. Besides the members of the class there were a number of invited guests.

A very interesting programme was carried out, Mr. Cyderman acting as chairman, who opened with a very appropriate speech.

Mr. Yates of Albert College was called on, who gave a short, but humorous talk. Miss Bessie Barlow, then gave a piano solo, which was followed by another very humorous speech by Mr. Bert Redmond, also of Albert College, after which Kathleen Tuck gave a vocal solo.

At the end of this short programme two contests were held, the first being in Advertisement Contest which was won by May Andrews and Ena Kerr, and the second a Bird Contest, won by May Andrews, Kathleen Tuck and Mr. Cryderman. Prizes were awarded for the same.

Games and music were then indulged in for the remainder of the evening, until about the hour of ten, when lunch was served.

The happy event made their departure about 10.30 after having a very pleasant and enjoyable time.

Wrath a Writing.

"This is a nice easter, isn't it, Margie?" said the lad, dark, handsome young man.

"Very nice, indeed, Howard!" replied the pretty girl sitting in the stern.

"There's one objection to it," said he young man.

"Indeed! And what is that?" she asked.

"Oh, well, you see, if you try to kiss a pretty girl in this canoe there a great danger of upsetting it and then both the fellow and the girl would be thrown into the river."

"Oh, indeed!" said the girl reflectively.

She sat silent for a while.

At length she remarked softly:

"Howard, I can swim."

SPLENDID SERMON AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Albert Greenlaw, Basso of Detroit Delighted Congregation With Excellent Solo

Rev. N. E. McKechnie, B.A., pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, preached last evening to a crowded church on the subject "The Challenge of the Cross." Taking as his text Matt. 26:24, "If man were not come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me," the speaker pointed out that Jesus called for volunteers to follow him, left no doubt as to the terms of enlistment. They were stated in the words of Jesus when they constituted a challenge to great and unselfish service in following Christ. They were not somewhat "come after me," of petty little conceptions of the meaning of self-denial. Just as Peter was denied Christ, so must we come after we deny ourselves for Christ's sake." "The Cross must ever be for us the symbol of unselfish loving service, and that cross, the follower of Jesus must take up, and bear each day." This challenge of the Cross required the way to as great, and heroic living and dying, as any earthly struggle could. "Men must not feel that the religion of Jesus Christ was for weaklings. It called for and gave scope for the exercise of, the highest qualities of self-sacrifice, heroism and devotion". Life might as truly and heroically be given for a great cause while living in Belleville as in fighting and falling on the battlefields of Europe."

Mr. Albert Greenlaw, Basso, of Detroit, sang with great effect "Open me the gates of thy Temple." Mr. Greenlaw also sang solo parts in the anthem and led the congregational singing.

Not a Laxative

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe.

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating fluid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like Nature's natural lubricant and thus regulates it. Try it today.

THIS IS HOW THORNTON GOT HIS POSITION

Advised of Vacancy by a Friend of Premier—He Reached Ottawa at Noon Appointed to $50,000-a-Year Post in Few Hours

London, Nov. 14—Sir Henry Thornton, the general manager of the Great Eastern railway, has returned to London after his visit to Ottawa in connection with his new appointment as president and chairman of the Canadian National Railways at a salary of $50,000 yearly.

Questioned as to the way in which he obtained the new appointment, Sir Henry replied:

"A few days before I sailed for New York a friend of the Canadian prime minister spoke to me about the vacancy, and advised me to put in for it. I followed his advice, having a good knowledge of the general railway position in Canada, I accordingly left England as arranged and arrived in New York at eight o'clock in the evening. I did not lose any time, however, for within two hours I was in the boat train on my way to Ottawa, where I was to discuss the proposition with the Canadian prime minister and other government officials."

Continuing Sir Henry said he reached Ottawa at noon, the day following New York at eight o'clock and by six o'clock had been appointed to his new post. It was a wonderful chance and I felt I had to take it. "The railway that will be under my jurisdiction," he went on to say, "is 20,000 miles in extent and will give scope for much further development. It is the greatest system in the world for it runs from the coast to the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the Great Lakes to the Hudson Bay, running all the time in New York more or less undeveloped country."

Asked whether he would be taking up a British home when his job is to Canada, Sir Henry made no denial, but said that the Canadian government was making an attractive exhibition among emigrants of the right kind.

TURKS LOSE ALL CLAIM TO DARDANELLES

BELLY M'QUEEN WAS MAN DROWNED

The Missing Man Proved to be, Well Known Here in Belleville

Mrs. John Earl McQueen left this morning for Amherstburg, where she will attend the funeral of her brother-in-law, the late Philip Mac Queen, whose death by drowning from the sinking of the "City of Dresden" occurred in Lake Erie last Sunday. Earl McQueen, brother of the deceased youth, left on Monday for Amherstburg immediately upon receiving the sad and shocking news of his fatality.

First reports were to the effect that the drowned man's name was Kerr, and it could not be definitely ascertained that Billy McQueen could have even been aboard the "City of Dresden," as he was in Belleville recently, and as a rule drove the smaller craft, having lived in this city for the greater part of the past summer. Upon investigation, however it was found to be quite true, that it was McQueen who was drowned.

Billy McQueen was well known in the city, where his cheerful and amiable disposition won for him a host of friends among the young folk of the city. During the Regatta, at Mississauga last summer, he glanced the "Rowers" and later at the disposal of the officials of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club.

PENSION AWAITS BRITISH CABINET MINISTER

London, Nov. 21—The Lord Chancellor, Lord Birkenhead, is financially the hardest hit of all the members of the cabinet who has come into office since he became Mr. Lloyd George has resigned the Premiership. In becoming an ex-Lord Chancellor he will receive £5,000 sterling a year and the handsome suite of apartments which the Lord Chancellor always occupies, rent free, in the House of Lords.

But he does not have to hustle for his living, or qualify the way with the average holder in the United States. Anyone who has filled the exalted office of Lord Chancellor, for every year of that period, is entitled to a pension of £5,000 sterling a year for life if he chooses to claim it.

As Lord Chancellors usually live long after they resign their portfolios, it is reasonable to suppose that there are five of them in England, Galloway and Beauty.

The law lords are really the equivalent of the American Supreme Court. They are the highest court of appeal. Only for those reasons the so-called pensions are paid them.

GULF STREAM THEORY UPSET

Declares England Does Not Need Gulf Stream

London, Nov. 20—Science has come forward recently to destroy another of man's long cherished illusions, but at the same time it has removed a source of constant anxiety to those who would attempt to understand the causes of climatic conditions.

M. Daniels, the well known hydrographer, who has made a study of the waters of the Atlantic, has declared that the tripperate climate of the British Isles and the countries of Europe is in the grip of an Arctic winter, M. Daniels claims to have proved that the Gulf Stream, rising in the north of the Antilles, does not pass the Bermuda Sea, and the notion must be dismissed that it traverses the Atlantic to bathe the shores of England and France.

He expresses the belief that the Gulf Stream is merely the backwash of the equatorial currents. Sommer heat prevalues gallations of the heavily, while equatorial waters, which translate themselves into permutions of the more lighter salted Arctic and Continental waters. It is these permeations in the eastern Atlantic, which have layer mistaken for branches of the Gulf Stream. They are, however, purely local currents and vary according to the season.

CREW SAVED BY HEROISM OF WOMAN

Story of Bravery Comes From Shore of Lake Erie, Where Farmer's Wife Gallantly Risks Death to Rescue Wrecked Sailors Caught in Treacherous Undertow—Body Washed Ashore

Simcoe, Nov. 20.—The story of a woman's bravery is hidden behind the edetails of the wrecking of the City of Dresden on Saturday afternoon. As reported on Monday, this vessel sprung a leak and foundered while on Lake Erie shore five miles west of Port Rowan.

The heavily laden ship, with Capt. J. S. McQueen, Amherstburg, in command, bound for Port Huron, was caught in the sweeping gale which threw Lake Erie into a furore on Friday and Saturday. The boat sprung a leak, and the water poured in so fast that all hope of reaching Port Burwell was abandoned, and Captain McQueen headed the vessel for shore.

Lifeboat is Capsized.

The treacherous undercurrent kept sweeping the boat back, although several times shore was but 300 yards distant. A small lifeboat was launched with cars and lifebelts, but the crew was capsized it. The second skiff was lowered minus oars and belts, and the Captain and four mates clambered in, but the former's son, Kingston (Billy) McQueen, while assisting one of the men who was rendered partially helpless by a broken leg, slipped, was caught as the crest of a huge breaker, and was drowned, thus giving up his life in a heroic effort to save an unfortunate comrade.

Late that night of the wreck land brought spectators to the shore. The survivors of the crew were unable to make headway, being caught in the treacherous undertow. But for the courageous aid of Mrs. Rockefeller, wife of a neighboring farmer, they would have shared the fate of young Miss Queen. Alone she ventured out into the lake and by dint of daring and great efforts, managed to drag the helpless and exhausted men to shore.

Body Floats to Shore.

The body of young Peregrine McQueen came floating to shore at noon Sunday. Coroner McGilvray was called to the scene, and after investigating the circumstances decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The body is being taken back to Amherstburg by Captain McQueen. He and the other survivors are little the worse for their experience, having been sheltered, warmed and fed in neighboring farmhouses.

The City of Dresden was condemned some 20 years ago, when Captain Spiers purchased it and installed a completely new set of high-powered engines. The scene of the wreck is the most treacherous point along the coast of Lake Erie.

VICTORY BONDS TO BE RETIRED BY BANKS

Issues Due Dec. 1st Will be Thus Taken up

Ottwa, Nov. 20.—In a statement issued this evening, the Department of Finance announces that the issues of Victory Bonds, due December 1, can have their bonds paid of in cash at any branch of any chartered bank in Canada. As the total amount of the bond issue maturing on December 1, is $178,000,000, and the amount totalled over one hundred millions, cash payments for bonds will be in the neighborhood of $70,000,000.

The statement from the Department follows:

"Under their terms, the principal of these bonds is payable only at the Department of Finance, Ottawa, and at the offices of the Assistant Receivers-General at Charlottetown, Halifax, St. John, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Victoria. But, in addition and for the greater convenience of the public, the Minister of Finance has entered into special arrangements with the chartered banks for the payment of the bonds through their branches, without expense to holders.

"In order that holders may receive cash promptly at date of maturity, it will be necessary when dealing through the banks, to deliver the bonds for examination and listing at least one month prior to December 1. Correspondingly, interest coupons are presented to a bank or after December 1, holders must be prepared to grant a few days for examination and verification before payment is effected.

"The banks have received full instructions as to the form of endorsement required from holders of registered bonds.

"Officials of the Department state that it appears from enquiries received, that some bondholders have the impression that the principal of the bond will be sent out by cheque automatically, as the interest is in the case of registered bonds. It is pointed out that payment of the principal can be effected only on surrender of the bonds themselves.

"Attention is also directed to the fact that the interest ceases to run at date of the maturity date. If held therefore, claims for further interest cannot be entertained."

TURK NOT SO CONFIDENT

Does Away With Defiant Attitude in Hope of Peace

Lausanne, Nov. 21.—The delegates to the Near East Conference after the indulging in the preliminary orators' declamations on the relations of Britain, France and Italy, which were behind them, met in a private session this morning for the purpose of organization and to start actual work at making peace with the Turk. Ismet Pasha and his suite appeared very confident than when they arrived and the feeling is growing that they will regard their presence here as a mission of hope of restoring peace and re-establishing trade relations with the outside world.

"Y" BANQUET HUGE SUCCESS

Inspiring Addresses Lead Campaign Organization For Financial Drive

Mr. L. A. Buckley, National Boy's Work Secretary for Canada, was the chief speaker at the banquet held at the Y. M. C. A. last evening in connection with the beginning of the campaign for finance in the maintenance of the local Y. M. C. A. for the ensuing year and for the further issue of the excellent work which this institution is doing in this city.

Mr. Buckley, who is just now conducting a six week's tour from Halifax onto to Victoria, B.C., in the interests of similar campaigns, states that, as a result of what he has seen accomplishing the working of similar associations throughout the Canadian West, his enthusiasm for this optimism knows no bounds. "In fact my trip was a real romance," were the exact words of the speaker, and he further stated that not one single campaign so far this year has fallen foul of its objective, and even then have far surpassed their objective.

"Many of us," continued the speaker, "Are inclined to look upon the life work that we fail to perceive the true and real work which this magnificent institution is doing, and the fact is doing, but when we get out, and see the many, excellent results, that are being accomplished, we are enthusiasm to remove the cost and put the blame to the shoulder to the wheel, put our backs into it."

When a boy, 11 years of age, Mr. Buckley was so delicate, that it was feared that he would not live to become manhood. Thanks to the good work of the then Director of the Halifax Y.M.C.A. in whose charge the frail youth was placed, he developed into a strong, capable youth, and into manhood, whose excellent physical foundation now enables him to take his place in the world's men's job, and amid many hardships.

"Find Yourself" campaigns as launched in many cities in which the Y.M.C.A. gather together, boys of all nationalities, whose admittance to these institutions is free, they proceed to sign a card stating the life vocation they would prefer to follow. Then a strong, capable man, well educated, a friendly interest is taken in such boys, and in many cases, Christian Canadian men are discovered for what easily might have been dangerous aliens. And all this is made possible through the work of the local institution for which the good citizens of Belleville will be asked to contribute within the next few days.

Similar good work is done in High Schools by an organization called the High "Y" club, which has been done away with the common vices of High School life, of which the prime vices is gambling, the cigarette and the school boy," said Mr. Buckley, "repositively dangerous to any community which has to be dealt with. Similar good work is done in High Schools by an organization called the High "Y" club, which has been done away with the common vices of High School life, of which the prime vices is gambling, the cigarette and the school boy," said Mr. Buckley, "repositively dangerous to any community which has to be dealt with.

Mr. R. J. Graham, the genial chairman, in introducing the speaker, told of his connection with the Y.M.C.A. almost since its birth in Belleville, and spoke in glowing terms of the splendid work which is being done, energies in his work for the Y.M.C.A., the institution which he loved, as well as the boys for whom he was doing his life time. Mr. Hess, Dr. Baker, of Albert College and Mr. Charles Mallory spoke briefly each for the chairman, as indefatigable and yeoman workers for the "Y". Mr. Graham in his address, to accept with authority on the magnificent work of this institution in foreign countries not only in the East but in countries like South America where 99 percent of the people have yet to hear the Word of God, the speaker made some remarks were, "Give according to your means in order to support this wonderful institution."

Alderman George F. Ostrom, President of the Y. M. C. A. spoke briefly, offering farewell words of encouragement to the canvassers. "Mr. Ostrom does not talk much and work little, but believes that actions speak louder than words. Accordingly, he and his fine working companion, Mr. H. W. Ackerman, have already gone out and interviewed several men of the city, soliciting subscriptions.

LABOR IS THE OFFICIAL OPPOSITION

Beckoned by Bonar Law, Leader Clynes Accompanies Premier When Commons Were Summoned to House of Lords

London, Nov. 20.—Labor members of the new Parliament which assembled today struck a discordant note in interrupting the decorous formality of the opening. Arguments and disorder prevailed not to be overawed by their surroundings.

When, after the King's assent to the choice, the new speaker, Right Hon. John Whitley was introduced by Lord Birkenhead, Bar Law to assemble representatives in the House, and at the bar of the Lords, a Labor member broke the silence, by shouting:

"We will wake them up. They won't have much tranquility now," a reference to Premier Bonar Law's campaign speeches.

Captain Prettyman, a Conservative, then seconded the election of Speaker Whitley and referred to a statement made in Labor member's speech that outside Parliament there were "more important things lively". Capt. Prettyman strongly deprecated such an attitude and was followed by Col. Thos. Cowan, the Government benches.

Later the lobby was thronged with Labor newcomers, and some of these expressed their views and intentions in forcible terms about the treatment meted out to their opponents. However, such exuberance is usually chilled in the House of Commons, and the more experienced members of all parties soon learn that observance of the amenities is essential in the common interest.

Official Leader of Opposition.

On the opening day of a new Parliament, all Labor members are new, and new members are introduced to their colleagues.

Lady Astor was in the forefront, and by a sudden, agile dash, seized a corner seat just behind the Ministers. There she found herself beside Col. Gretton, champion of the liquor interests in the House.

"I hope you don't mind my sitting here," she said, and "Oh, not at all," he replied.

Premier Bonar Law settled the question of who the official leader of the Opposition will be, when he beckoned to Right Robert Clynes, Labor Leader, to accompany him at the head of the procession when the Commons were summoned to attend the House of Lords.

Former Premier Asquith left in behind with the Liberals and Sir and Mr. Lloyd George was not present.

One of the greatest changes in Parliament in 100 years was almost unnoticed. Everyone commented on Labor's prominence as the chief Opposition party, but spoke of the fact that for the first time since 1800 Ireland is not represented, except for Ulster members, who are part of the conservative majority, one Sinn Feiner, who is imprisoned on a prison ship, and one Nationalist.

The latter two represent the northern counties Fermanagh and Tyrone. The Nationalist, Harbison, is the last of his race since powerful Nationalist party to keep the veteran Liverpool member, T. P. O'Connor, company.

Thus, 82 members disappear from Westminster. Twenty-four are retiring at constant attendance; 72 Sinn Feiners have voluntarily excluded themselves, thus leaving a great constitutional revolution to round itself out almost unmarked.

It was reported in the lobby today that Mr. Bonar Law has decided not to see Chequers Court, the country residence provided by Lord Lee of Fareham for Britain's Premiers, and occupied on many important occasions by Mr. Lloyd George. It is reported that the Premier will offer it to some wealthy colleague.

YELLOW MEN NOT WANTED

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 21.—Without a dissenting voice the legislature yesterday approved of the resolution presented by the Hon. W. M. Sloan, minister of Mines, calling for an amendment to the Immigration Act to "completely prohibit Asiatic immigration into Canada."

BRITAIN WILL CONTROL STRAITS

Authority Vested for Indefinite Period—Curzon, Poincare and Mussolini Agree on This Policy, and Also Appointment of Three Inter-Allied Commissions Affecting Near East—Ismet Pasha Tells Lausanne Conference That Turkey Came, Not to be Judged, but to Collaborate for Peace.

FIRST WOMAN SENATOR TAKES OFFICE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, Nov. 21.—Mrs. W. H. Felton "the grand old lady of Georgia" won her first fight for a seat as the first women Senator, without objection from any member. Mrs. Felton took the oath of office as the Vice President's desk.

Lausanne, Nov. 20.—Turkey has come to the conference not to be judged, but to collaborate for peace.

Ismet Pasha, chief Turkish delegate, made this statement after the opening of the conference today. He declared the meeting would not be run by England, France and Italy, but that Turkey as the principal party interested would help do business on an equal. The Turks, he asserted, would not give precedence to the western powers.

With England, France and Italy agreed on the main lines the Turkish peace should take, Ismet Pasha is alone and dominates at the Lausanne conference.

He told the opening session today that Turkey wanted peace and had been wanting peace for four years. But, he said, the country was attacked, invaded and forced to defend itself with "all the moral and physical forces at its disposal."

One million of his countrymen were homeless through "wilful, unnecessary destruction," he charged. Nevertheless he came to Lausanne hoping on neutral soil to realize his aim of peace. He insisted that Turkey's status as an equal must be recognized.

Ismet's was the only real speech made. Lord Londonderry, the Conservative and Foreign Secretary Curzon of England confined themselves to polite expressions of their sentiment. They were the only speakers, and when all else had finished the conference adjourned until tomorrow.

Lord Curzon was backed silently by Premier Poincare and Mussolini, who sat beside him. The Italian premier is no secret of their belief that all three are against Turkey.

The first task to be tried was the case Switzerland vs. Russia. This is a case where the plaintiff, John N. Sutherland purchased a farm from Ole Gerlandsen, Mr. Evans' client, the farm being situated near Trenton. The Plaintiff bought the farm including the chattels for $7000 (in) 15 Concession 2 Sidney,) and the deed calls for 75 acres. Plaintiff holds that there are but 65 acres, that there is flat rock within from one inch to five inches of the surface, in places on the fields of the farm, and that the farm is polluted by foul weeds, while the defendant represented the farm as being clean. She sues for $500 damages and an abatement of purchase money.

Major Pardon is representing the defendant, Elliott, while Mr. E. Clarke Porter, K.C., M.P., and Mr. Charles Payne are counsellors for the plaintiff. The trial is in progress this afternoon.

This evening at the Quinte Hotel, the Bar Association will give a banquet in honor of Mr. Justice Smith.

MONTREAL PROPOSES TO AMEND BY-LAWS

Montreal, Nov. 21.—Public meetings in which utterances of seditious character are made, engaged the attention of the City Council here yesterday, and the question of amending the by-laws to deal with such gatherings was left for special committee to decide.

Alderman Trepanier denounced toleration in Montreal of semi-revolutionary groups, which were permitted to assemble in the streets, in front of Catholic churches and in front of the University of Montreal. France, he said, would not tolerate the flag of the Soviet flag as it was a revolutionary emblem. These people who came from Europe, were not in sympathy with British ideals and they were trying to arouse feelings of enmity.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Constantinople, Nov. 21.—Replying to a message from Mohammed VI inquiring after his wives whom he left behind his flight, the officials of Sultan's Palace today wired that "all are well and happy". Turkish newspapers assert that the Sultan took with him half million dollars in gold, a solid gold sofa one dinner set valued at a quarter of a

HIGH COURT IN SESSION

Non-Jury Court Opened Here Monday Before The Honorable Mr. Justice Smith

When court opened at the court house on Monday afternoon, before The Honorable Mr. Justice Smith, the new appointee to the bench, Major R. D. Ponton, president of the Hasting's Bar Association, welcomed his Lordship to the city, and extended the congratulations, of the local bar association to him, on his recent appointment. This is the first High Court that Mr. Justice Smith has presided over. His Lordship responded very graciously, thanking Major Ponton on behalf of the Hastings Bar Association for the kind words.

The first case to be tried was the case Sutherland vs. Elliott. This is a case where the plaintiff, John N. Sutherland purchased a farm from Ole Gerlandsen, Mr. Evans' client, the farm being situated near Trenton. The Plaintiff bought the farm including the chattels for $7000 (in) 15 Concession 2 Sidney,) and the deed calls for 75 acres. LABOR M.P.'S LEAVE GLASGOW

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Nov. 22.—Great scenes of enthusiasm marked the departures from Glasgow of Labor members of more than a score of Scottish Labor members of House of Commons. "I don't glory or shout in defeat of our ordinary political opponents," said Robert Smillie, President of Miners Federation, "but am glad that certain of their leaders were rejected. Winston Churchill was hugely rejected and I am glad that Glasgow outfit to govern. He will now have time to think out new problems."

NEW LABOR LEADER

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Nov. 21.—James Ramsay MacDonald, member of Parliament for the Aberavon Division of Glamorganshire and long promising as a Labor Leader, was to-day elected Leader of Parliamentary Labor party.

LONDON DOCTOR IS ACQUITTED

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Barnia, Nov. 21.—Dr. James Allen Milne, of London, was today acquitted on a charge of perjury in connection with the evidence given at the recent trial of Edward MacMullen now serving fourteen years in the penitentiary for theft in the robbery of the Wyandotte diner set valued at a quarter of sing Bank.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir:—

Since a number of ex pressions have been used in the Council and afterwards published in the local press, which would cause our citizens to believe that the rate payers, of Station St. are trying to shift an unjust portion of the cost o the proposed new pavement, on to the ratepayers at large; we would ask you in fairness to all parties con cerned to publish in detail a state ment of the block portion of the said St. which the City is compelled to pay, according to the law as defined in the Local Improvements Act, dealing with the following points:—

(a) City frontage including the river mouth west from the upper bridge.

(b)—Exemptions including triangle lots, lots whereon property is built for holding on, Church property and Railway property.

(c) intersections and gutters.

(d) Water works, Gas and Sanitary Sewer extensions.

(e) Storm sewers constructions.

A partial statement of the form going has already been published and the general utility of the three thoroughly discussed, as well as the low value of the property, but we think that for an intelligent understanding of a matter that has become contentious the Citizens should be informed more fully of the exact nature of all exemptions.

Thanking you in anticipation of an answer to my query, I am,

Yours Sincerely
W. ADAMSON.

EDITOR'S NOTE:—The exemptions referred to above are, we believe with one exception correct, as exercised in the Local Improvements Act. That exception is Church Property, which is taxable, according to advice we have been able to secure.

The City Engineer states that all those exemptions were dealt with in the advertisements appearing in the local papers during the month o September last. Those exemption were not classified in quite the same manner, but were dealt with.

The following is an extract from a circular letter sent out from the Head Office of the Canadian Manufacturers Association in Toronto, indicating the probable line of activities for the coming months.

Taxation, The Big Problem Before Canadian Business.

The taxation problem in its various aspects bulks largely in the eyes of Canadian business men at the present time. While there is no disposition to question the necessity of raising revenue by taxation to meet the needs of the country, there is a feeling that possibly means might be found for obtaining the money in a more economical and equitable manner. For instance, there is undoubtedly an unnecessary duplication of taxation through federal, provincial and municipal systems of collection. This duplication should, if possible, be removed or avoided.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association has placed taxation in the forefront of the problems to be dealt with this year, and has a special committee at work studying the question. Sub-committees have been created in British Columbia, the Prairie Provinces, Ontario, Quebec, and the Maritime Provinces, and are now submitting reports from time to time to the central committee. So far, so little has not passed beyond the stage of discussion, but it is expected that a definite policy will be worked out eventually.

The Evolution of Canadian Dress to be Demonstrated.

One of the interesting features which, it is hoped, will be introduced at the Textile Exhibition to be held in Montreal early in the month of will be a series of episodes to illustrate the development in Canadian women's apparel since the days of the Indians and habitants. The exhibition itself, which will duplicate the successful show put on by the textile manufacturers of Canada at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, last February, will be held from the end of February or the beginning of March. It is anticipated that exhibits will be made by manufacturers of cotton, woollen and linen textiles and all classes of fibre and women's wearing apparel. Exhibitions such as this have great educational value, not only for manufacturers themselves, but for retailers and the general public. The textile exhibition held last spring in Toronto proved a revelation of the wonderful progress, that has been made in Canada in the manufacture of textiles and textile products. Meetings of textile manufacturers have been held recently in the offices of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in Toronto and Montreal to lay plans for the show.

British Empire Exhibition Receiving Strong Backing.

Reports received by the Canadian Manufacturers Association from leading business organizations in England indicate that business men in England are thoroughly alive to the importance of the British Empire Exhibition, which will be held in 1924 at Wembley, near London, England. The exhibition is going to progress with the same success as has attended the preliminary arrangements, the Exhibition will be a big success, and will be attended by enormous crowds.

Improvements Noted in Car Supply Situation.

While the latest report of the Canadian Railway Association shows a seasonal shortage of close to 8,000 cars in Canada, results of a questionnaire sent out to members by the Transportation Department of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, indicate that, with few exceptions, manufacturers are now receiving with less difficulty the shipping cars for shipments. There is still some complaint in the case of pulp and paper mills, where reporting to the United States, and automobile manufacturers note a shortage of flats, but otherwise the situation is showing improvement.

The car supply report for November 1st, prevails continued betterment, showing for the half of the month of October, the total number of cars on Canadian lines was increased by 20,900, to 180,000, and order cars declined from 12,918 to 12,227. This was 1,764 under the allowance, and shows that the condition of Canadian rolling stock is good. Altogether Canada has come through the recent stringency fairly satisfactorily.

"AND SHE TURNED UP"

Big House at Griffin's Last Night See Excellent Production

Quite the best play that Rex has presented for a long while," was the unanimous verdict of a large house at Griffin's last evening. The plot has been cleverly constructed and the conclusions are numerous. Thus the interest of the audience is held until the curtain has droppedin the last act. Comedy fairly bristles with every scene, and the house was kept in a constant state of laughter.

The first and third acts take place at Richmond villa, Richmond Ferry, Sussex, while the second act occurs on the lawn in front of the villa. Two bachelor chums, George Medway and Ned Stedman, occupy the villa and engage a housekeeper. George Medway is played by Rex Bselgrove while Joe Kelley plays Stedman. The housekeeper part is taken by Miss Hazel Bowen. Medway wants to marry the daughter of an irate old British General. So many lady skeletons appear that the General decides to take his daughter to Malta with him, where duty calls him. The plot of the play is built around these family skeletons and the love affairs of Medway and Stedman, the latter wishing to marry Medway's sister, which part is taken so well by Zana Vaughn.

During the course of events Rex and Zana accumulate two fathers and two mothers, to the disgust of the General and the sorrow of the two pairs of lovers. All is straightened in the end, and the lovers marry and all is well.

Rex Selgrove and Zana Vaughn show to particular advantage in this play, in which there is not a dull moment. Another peculiarity of the plot, is that it gives everyone of the company a really good chat to do. The versatility of the members is very much made use of Everyone is worthy of special mention. William Yule as Carraway Bones is better than usual, Howard Rogers as Captain Medway gives an excellent impersonation of an "old salt." Billy Seymour as General Sabre also gave an excellent interpretation of his character. Florence Winters, Gloria Mostian, Hazel Brown, and Hazel Williams put in a hearty parts and played them well.

The company is to be congratulated on its full house, and no doubt crowded houses will result.

The vaudeville between acts was excellent. Wm. Yule, Howard Brown and Hazel Brown being responsible for it. On the whole the evening's entertainment is far superior to anything Rex has yet given us, and it deserves support.

"PROTESTANTS DEPORTED"

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Belfast, Nov. 21.—The Ulster authorities have deported from Belfast about forty Protestants whose presence they thought detrimental to the peace of city. Most of these deported lived in York street and the east end.

"HAD A NARROW ESCAPE"

"I never realized until a few months ago how risky it is to neglect a cold in the chest. I myself have had such good health that a cold either in the head or chest, while unpleasant, never gave me any worry. Outside an occasional cold, I had never known what it was to be laid up even for a day in all my life, until last December. One afternoon I got a chill and no matter how close I got to the stove, I couldn't seem to get warm. This chill was followed by a cold in the chest. As usual I neglected it and it kept getting worse and worse. Finally I had to go to bed and send for the doctor. His examination showed that I had pneumonia and a bad case at that. By careful nursing on the part of my husband, my children and some friends, I managed to pull through, but the doctor told me I had a narrow shave. And here's where the trouble began. While I was now out of danger, I was anything but well. I was still very weak from the effects of the pneumonia. Although I had lots of life and energy before my sickness, I was now worn out and tired all the time. I slept fairly well, more because I was exhausted. But my sleep didn't refresh me because, while I appeared to be asleep, I was conscious most of the time of what went on around me. Although all kinds of tempting dishes were prepared for me, I had no relish for food, and my sickness had already undermined my health to such an extent that I was a living skeleton. I was getting discouraged as nothing I took seemed to do me any good. I wonder if Carnol wouldn't build you up," a friend said one day, 'it did me a world of good.' I was completely run down and you can see for yourself how well I look now. Why don't you try it? Thanks to this friend's advice I am in perfect health again, am healthy and as full of life and vitality as I have ever been."

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 9-623

FINANCIAL COMMENT.

It may possibly be some reconciliation, even at this late date, for the unfortunate depositors and shareholders residing in Belleville and vicinity, that, had the Keeley Motor Mine been allowed to proceed, it is likely that the Farmers' Bank of Canada establishe would have been arrested.

Word comes from the North that only fifty feet from where the Farmers' Bank operations stopped, another silver has been struck by the West Australian Mining Co., an English concern, in a vein a foot wide and yielding 3,000 ounces.

The subsequently fortunate and profitable real estate operations of the officials of the defunct York Loan are another example of what might have been achieved if a waiting policy had been pursued by creditors. In the time that elapses during forced liquidations, conditions vary somewhat and it is not always good policy for creditors to be too insistent and throw possibly profitable assets into abandonment. It is hoped that the liquidators of the Standard Reliance may be able to realize more than anticipated on real estate investments, and if the waiting game is patiently played these hopes may materialize—as it is $3,500,000.

or be blasted—that is the gambling feature.

The currency debacle of Russia has caused sufficient economic suicide and now the exchange value of the German mark is practically eliminated. About the only way for these countries to reestablish their paper currency value, would seem to be by drafts of gold from America to Europe. The dislocation of European currencies was partially caused by the absorption of gold by the United States and the return and replacement of this, either directly or indirectly, through the trade channels of other countries, would greatly modify the situation. Printing presses are indeed useful commercially, but should not be used as they now are, by three new countries, created in the ruthless production of paper rubbles and marks, that bear practically no value, without sufficiently declared gold reserve.

The fire insurance adjusters in reporting finally on the Northern Ontario conflagrations caused by forest fires, state that the total loss sustained played these hopes may materialize—as it is $3,500,000.

Bank of Montreal Makes Reassuring Statement

Total Assets Amount to $713,569,566.—Liquid Assets Are Equal to 64.09 Per Cent. and Cash On Hand to 19.10 Per Cent. of Liabilities to Public.—Total Deposits Now in Excess of $600,000,000.

The Annual Statement of the Bank of Montreal makes its appearance at a time when it can be of the greatest benefit to the country. At the moment Canada is obtaining the advantage of a bumper wheat crop in the Western Provinces. Then, again, the steady manner in which the Canadian Dollar has stood better than par on the basis of American exchange indicates that the trade position of the Dominion is favorable itself.

The position reported by the leading bank cannot but reflect the prosperity of the country's banking position. Of perhaps greater importance is that with its very ample assets, the Bank of Montreal believes able to adequately meet the demands of industry and commerce and the same time keep its liquid asset-debt ratio of 64.09 per cent. of liabilities to the public.

At the end of the fiscal year to October 31st, total shand at deposits to $713, 569,566., and of this amount assets, were $417,819,493. Included in this, cash on hand amounts to $194,588,190., of which $17,344,963. is in gold and silver coin. Cash holdings alone were equivalent to 19.10 per cent. of public liabilities. In addition the balances due by other banks and call loans stand at $182,-

The city of St. Thomas is selling locally over the counter $20,000 of its bonds.

Constructive criticism should be applied to our Bank Act. No doubt this would be welcomed by the Banks, particularly in view of the recent judgments in our courts of justice where the technicalities in the Act and the drafting of certain clauses by those accused to be acquitted and relieved honorably of all responsibilities in connection with the final crash of their bank. But that is not all; one of these former officials was lauded by the public generally for his actions and simultaneously with the handing down of the judgment was sailing for England for a most need rest.

Deposits bearing interest now reach a total of $440,870,730., while deposits not bearing interest stand at $194,-747,695., bringing the total deposits up to $635,617,749.

During the year both the Capital and Real Accounts have been brought up to $27,250,000.

The Profit and Loss Account reflects the larger business now being handled throughout the Dominion. Profits for the year amounted to $4,-756,568. These permitted of the payments and making provision for Dominion taxes, reservation for bank premises, etc., the balance carried forward amounted to $538,815.

The principal accounts of the Bank stand as follows:

BUMPER 1922 GRAIN CROP

Exceeds by Large Margin the Crops of 1915, the Last Bumper Year

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 17.—Exceeding by 12.4 percent, the number of cars loaded from the commencement of the crop year up to and including November 15th, the total Canadian Pacific cars loaded in the western districts with all grains, the corresponding period of the present season is reported by official of the company as having reached 79,265 as against 49,367 cars in 1915 and 53,493 cars in 1921. This makes a record average loading per day of 1,360 cars for that part of the crop year, which has passed, the average holding the record previously being 1,310 cars per day for the same weeks of 1915, the last bumper year. Taking the average capacity of the cars as quoted for this season at 1,487 bushels, the number of cars loaded represents approximately 115,000,000 bushels while shipments for the same period in 1915 totalled 94,092,165 bushels. Cars loaded east of Winnipeg so far this year have totalled 77,204 as compared with 46,202 cars for 1915 and 52,312 cars in 1921. Grain marketed in these districts served by the Western Division of the railway also showed a substantial increase over the largest quotations previously recorded which were for 1915. Since September first 1922 there have left the farmers' hands 135,071,214 bushels as against 122,946,000 bushels in 1915 and 83,-909,232 bushels in 1921. The aggregate of all grains recorded under Canadian Pacific inspections for the period, under consideration in 1922 amounted to 76,758 cars, of which 52,949 were wheat, 2,940 cars of oats, 2,625 cars barley, 758 cars flax and 2,103 cars rye. The largest inspections reported for the railway in any previous season amounted to 68,404 cars for all grains in 1915, and this total comprises wheat 51,054 cars, oats 5,445 cars, barley 1,433 cars, 1915 and 68,633,557 for 1921. More than 10,000 carloads and 17,175,000 bushels of grain have been moved by the Canadian National Railways this season in excess of the number of cars and amount of grain moved in flax 409 cars and rye 63, cars. Of the total wheat inspected for the year to 141 cars have graded Manitoba Hard, 42,779 cars No. 1 Northern, 8,075 cars No. 2 Northern and 4,493 cars No. 3 making a total of 56,941 cars for the statutory grades, in all this year the Canadian Pacific inspections have been 56.3 percent of the total inspections when considered on the basis of carloads, and 69.8 percent on the bushel basis, to the Pacific Coast. The Canadian Pacific has delivered to British Columbia docks, since the commencement of the crop year 2780 cars of wheat, 75 cars of oats, 5 cars of barley and 45 cars of rye, making a total of 2915 cars. All grain movement of the crop, east from Port William by the railway this season has totalled 3,598,971 bushels as compared with less than a million for each of the years 1915 and 1921. By boat this year there have been shipped from Canadian Pacific tracks 82,908,000 bushels as against 48,188,583 bushels in 1921 and 52,043,00 bushels in 1915. The total shipments east from the head of the lakes have amounted to 85,523,697 bushels this season compared with 52,991,845 bushels for the corresponding period of the previous season. The year 1921 according to figures, to September 1st there were 8,-422 cars and 12,242,000 bushels against 51,583 cars and 66,175,000 bushels in the corresponding period of the previous season. These marketings were 3,462,000 bushels against 997,000 bushels on the same date last year, and 1,882,000 bushels against 1,000 there were in-store 35,646,000 bushels against 13,277,000 bushels last year. Car inspections Thursday were against 611.

U. E. LOYALISTS CELEBRATION

Bellevillians should be tremendously interested in the coming celebration to commemorate the settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire Loyalists. This anniversary is scheduled for June, 1924 and strenuous local efforts should be put forth to have Belleville selected as the meeting place. There is no time like the present to formulate plans and to commence organization to put the machinery into motion to convince the committee in charge that Belleville is the "Logical Location". This phrase is mentioned in one of the latest books by Sinclair Lewis, that inimitable author of "Main Street", and has, we notice, been selected from thousands of submitted progress slogans by the City of Toronto. We citizens now want to demonstrate that our "Main Street" is the proper place for the United Empire Loyalist celebration in June, 1924. Our enterprising citizen, Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C., has been active in this matter and was the sponsor of a resolution introduced at Toronto a fortnight ago, to the effect that Belleville be selected, and he presented an invitation from the City Council to hold the celebration here.

The county of Hastings and our neighboring counties of Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington, upon whose shores the Loyalists first settled and cleared their land, certainly have prior claim on contemplated festivities of this sort. And as Belleville is the largest centre in the area with sufficient lodging accommodation, transportation facilities and other matters from a convention viewpoint, there is no sound reason to be advanced why this affair cannot be staged here. Descendants of these first families of Upper Canada are scattered broadcast over the globe, and when this great "get-together" takes place, thousands of these pointe boys and girls are expected to be present.

The initial settlement of the Loyalists in this vicinity was indeed an epoch in Canadian history and this projected commemoration in 1924 will be another important feature in the history of our Dominion.

The nine Provincial Governments, the various Canadian Clubs throughout the world, the Canadian Fraternal Association, the Alliance Nationale, and many organizations are co-operating to make this gathering a huge success. Ex-President Taft of the United States has signified his intention of being present, also ex-Governor Putnam of Massachusetts, and many other leading world statesmen.

This is indeed a splendid opportunity for our Chamber of Commerce, City Council in office and elect, fraternal societies, churches and every citizen to enter into the spirit of boosting for this convention.

If we, as a municipality are successful in being privileged to entertain these conventioners, we will not regret the day, as our fair city will be advertised world-wide and will have its place in the history of the country now being written. Let us get together and with consistent effort in every possible way, endeavor to induce the society to select Belleville for the gathering in June, 1924, when many reminiscences will be exchanged and "Auld Lang Syne" will be sung as hands have by then may back to those pioneer days which have meant so much to the social order and democracy now enjoyed, not only by U.E.L. descendants but by all Canadians at home and beyond the seas.

GOOD DIGESTION

According to Canadian Press reports, Sir Henry Thornton is being much feted and dined in England. The new president of the Canadian National Railways must have a pretty good menta and physical digestion, because at each banquet he attends, he must be haunted by the fact that for every hour of the day the railway system of which he is the head, has run behind $10,000 and that this loss will continue during each and every day he delays his departure.

It is now well known that instead of sailing for Canada on November 11th, as intended, he is not sailing until to-morrow, the 22nd of the month, which means that he will not be able to take up his duties till about December 1st. This further means that, figuring the present loss per diem as equal to that loss per diem incurred in 1921, the National Railways will have lost a total of some $16,000,000 between the day of his appointment and the earliest possible moment at which he can assume his new duties. Of course, we must freely admit that a reasonable time must be allowed him to adjust his affairs in Britain, but it is to be hoped that he is not allowing any banqueting in England to delay his departure by a moment. He has announced in London that he does not want politics to interfere with his administration of the Canadian Railways. If this is his desire, it is also the desire of the Canadian people at large. It will be interesting to note to just what extent he is capable of carrying out his own desires in this connection, which are also the wishes of his employers, the Canadian people, who are paying him the sum of fifty thousand dollars a year to do their bidding. If he fails in this endeavor, we need look for but little reduction in our annual deficit of a hundred millions.

There is a solitary prohibitionist in the new British Parliament; but prohibitionists elsewhere can testify that it was not by means of electing prohibitionists that they got prohibition.

If this quotation from his works does not do him an injustice Mr. Fortesque can hardly be sympathized with for being forbidden to speak to the West Point students, unless he meant to offer an apology.

HERE AND THERE

WHAT REAL RELIGION IS.

Sir Arthur Currie, Principal of McGill University and formerly Commander of the Canadian Army, gave the closing address of Real Religion at the opening of the Molson Memorial Chapel, at the Shawbridge Boys Home:—

"I am no preacher, but I am always willing to bear testimony to the Power outside ourselves that makes for righteousness, that makes for nations not be truly great unless they acknowledge that Power. Oftentimes it was said in the war that Christianity had failed. Nothing was further from the truth. Christianity did not fail in the war—the war proved the very triumph of Christianity.

"I don't want you to get the idea that religion is anything that you practice on Sunday. It is service; it is sacrifice; it is unselfishness; it is humility; it is justice; it is courage; it is fidelity to duty, and bearing one another's burdens. That is the religion that was taught us nineteen centuries ago. In the war it was divested of all the trappings which in the days before the war seem to obscure it. That was the religion that the boys over there practised every day."

TREES

In the garden of Eden, planted by God.
There were goodly trees in the springing sod,—

Trees of beauty and height and grace,
To stand in splendor before His face.

Apple and hickory, ash and pear,
Oak and beech, and the tulip rare,

The trembling aspen, the noble pine,
The quivering elm by the river line,

Trees for the birds to build and sing,
And the lilac tree a joy in spring;

Trees to turn of the frosty call,
And carpet the ground for their Lord's footfall;

Trees for fruitage and fire and shade,
Trees for the cunning builder's trade,

Wood for the bow, the spear and flail,
The keel and the mast of the daring sail;

He made them of every grain and girth
For the use of man in the Garden of earth.

Then last the soul should not lift her eyes
From the gift to the Giver of Paradise,

On the crown of a hill, for all to see,
God planted a scarlet maple tree.

PRESS OPINIONS

(London Morning Post)

The right of all to use the road in common has in practice disappeared, because it has been made impossible for pedestrians and equestrians and horse-drawn vehicles in many instances to use the road at all. Any person can obtain, on payment, a car or hire a self-propelled engine of destruction is at liberty to rush along the highway setting down His Majesty's lieges.

The local authority makes a reserve, by agitating for measures which might be described as plenary, indulgences—the government takes its tax, and the rest of the public with the results so neatly tabulated by a helpless ministry of transport.

STEAM LINE RADIALS.

(Mail & Empire.)

The municipalities east of Toronto which have asked for radial service from the National Railways Board are opening up an important issue. If the National Railways can provide an electric radial service between Toronto and Port Hope, why cannot it and the C. P. R. furnish satisfactory radial service in other directions? Electrification of steam lines is ultimately coming, for reasons of economy, and the installation of radial subsidiaries now would hold for the companies the great advantages to come in the future from short-haul traffic. It seems a mistake of policy for the steam lines to stand aside, when, at a minimum of expenditure, they could provide the transportation facilities required.

The present steam lines are Canada's logical, established transportation services. Two billion dollars have been sunk in them. As a whole, they do not pay. They never will. But they have, in this part of the country, there is traffic they let go to others. Why? Because plain train schedules and short-distance passenger business lose, not pay on steam lines. Perhaps if new rail lines are laid and costly right-of-way, with new and costly terminals, expensive bridges, are to be expected in time, why should not existing radial subsidiaries run on the right-of-way, with all the economies of electric service added, make ends meet? Short-distance steam trains would be displaced, but a much bigger passenger traffic could be built up, and this in turn would probably increase long-distance steam train traffic. Hence, steam trains would mean the elimination of runs that do not pay, but which are necessary for the sake of service.

The steam lines have organized their whole system on a coal basis, and in this part of the country electrification, as a subsidiary, is a public need. The people are already paying enormous penalties because of unnecessary duplication of railways. The Hydro Radial project means power development, and the present fear of it is mainly in the failure of the regular companies to give the interests and districts adequate service. These companies may dislike to incur the necessary expenditures, but if they do not, they will certainly convince them of the ultimate economy of keeping in their hands control of "radial." Yesterday, the mail trucks between Toronto and Port Hope, and Toronto and Niagara Falls, the motor conveyances, the radial tracks alongside steam tracks, on the present right-of-way, practical, or specialized transportation by electricity, are the logical trend. Provision is already made for this in the National system and the C. P. R. ought to get into the game.

LEADER OR CHAIRMAN

(Toronto Globe.)

Milton C. Campbell, Progressive M. P. for Mackenzie, says that Progressive members were amazed to read in the Press of the conference at Winnipeg that Robert Forke had been appointed Leader of the party. "Forke is the Chairman of the party in the sense that Hon. T. A. Crerar was," he says, "but simply that and nothing more. He is Chairman of the Parliamentary Committee."

Dear, dear, this make a great deal of difference? No matter what Mr. Forke's position may be called, he has no control over other Progressives in the House. They are free to speak and vote as they please, just as they were under Mr. Crerar's leadership. There were cases last session where the Progressive vote was divided and no attempt was made, so far as we know, to discipline the minority. The Leadership carries with it a certain influence, chiefly in the advice of the Leader, but we do not know that this would be diminished if he were called Chairman of the Parliamentary Committee. Mr. Crerar refused to be considered as Leader of the official Opposition, and we presume that Mr. Forke will do the same. Progressives are inclined to lay more stress upon their central direction of the representatives than upon any kind of central authority.

Zam-Buk

SAVES DOCTORS BILLS.

ECZEMA ENDED

Madame A. Lariviere of Fall River, Mass., suffered with eczema for three years, and had treatment from several doctors, all of whom gave up the case. "Finally," she says, "I went to a specialist, which cost me another $50, but I was no better.

"A friend advised me to try Zam-Buk, which I did, and for which I have ever since been thankful. I very soon felt some relief, and a perseverance with Zam-Buk completely rid me of the disease."

SEVERE CUT HEALED

Mr. C. Oakley of Saskatoon, who sustained a terrible cut on his leg, says: "Had I known of Zam-Buk when the accident occurred, I could have saved myself a $60 doctor's bill! A doctor sewed up the cut and attended me for five weeks, but the wound did not heal, and he then advised me to go into a hospital.

"I objected, however, and used Zam-Buk instead, and in two weeks' time was back at work."

SAVED OPERATION

"Father developed a painful sore on his face," writes Miss N. Lewis of Silver Lake, Oregon. "Numerous remedies and treatment from several doctors failed to heal it, and the doctor advised an operation. Someone advised him to first try Zam-Buk. A few applications brought relief, and continued use of Zam-Buk entirely healed the sore, saving father from an operation."

Zam-Buk is ideal for eczema, ringworm, old sores, bad legs, piles, abscesses, chapped hands, chilblains, scalp troubles, cuts, burns, scalds, bruises, and all skin injuries and diseases. Refuse substitutes, as one of present ingredients among the best known for Zam-Buk's healing virtues. Get free trial box.

WIT AND HUMOR

Judge—"Your face seems familiar. Prisoner—"We were boys together."

Judge—"Nonsense."

Prisoner—"Yes, we were, because you're about fifty-two and so am I."

GRANTED EXEMPTION

Weary guest: "Thank heaven, that's over. I've just danced with the hostess. Have you gone through with it?"

I'm the host!"

IN THE FIRST STAGE

"What are the Christian names of the young couple next door?"

"We shall have to wait a week to find out. They've just been married and he calls her Birdie and she calls him Pet."

FATHER WAS IN ERROR

Suitor—"Mr. Stubbins, I have courted your daughter for fifteen years."

Mr. S.—"Well, what do you want?"

Suitor—"To marry her."

Mr. S.—"Well, I'm hanged! I thought you wanted a pension, or something."—Tit-Bits.

CHEAPER TO LIVE

During a snowstorm in the Highlands a train was held up for an hour or two. The guard, a cheery Scot, passed among the carriages trying to keep up the spirits of the passengers. One old fellow angrily complained that if the train did not move on soon he'd die of cold.

"Tak my advice an' no die that," replied the guard. "We charge a shilling a mile for corpses."

PLAIN PROOF

"Well, my boy," said father, "is the teacher quite satisfied with you?"

"Oh, yes, pa, quite."

"Why? Did he tell you so?"

"Yes, the other day he said to me, 'If all my pupils were like you I'd shut up my school to-day.'"

AMERICA BUYING YEAST IN SCOTLAND

London, Nov. 19.—A deal is reported to have been completed between a party of American capitalists and the Distiller's Company, of Edinburgh, whereby the Americans will obtain control of the yeast output of the distillery, which has a monopoly of the product.

AS GOES THE TAILORED PRINCE, SO FOLLOW THE STYLES OF MEN

The Prince of Wales Exercises an Influence Over All Males, in the Matter of Dress in Britain—Old Men Follow His Diction

(Associated Press.)

London, Nov. 17.—The male members of the royal family have for generations set the styles for masculine wear in England, and therefore indirectly for the whole world. The Prince of Wales is never more pronounced than at the present time, and the fashion makers watch with unswerving eye for the least change, or the appearance of a new style, in the royal garments.

It was the Prince of Wales who introduced the small checked bow tie, the colored collars, and the fancy socks so popular a few years ago. Since the Prince first appeared wearing a morning coat, soft shirt, and turned over stiff collar, this has been the standard garb for the man-about-town. The Prince is in the habit of wearing his hat, particularly the silk variety, slightly tilted, and today old men and young men may be seen with headdress similarly arranged at any time of the day or night on the fashionable thoroughfares of the West End.

The latest contribution of the Prince to the fashionable world, however, is the dinner suit, or tuxedo, which has generally been avoided by the best dressed men as being too informal for formal occasions, and too informal for informal necessities. Few tuxedos have been worn in London in the past as compared with their wide use in America and they were rarely used for the theatre.

The Prince appeared in one at a dinner party before his trip to the Far East, and since that time the dinner jacket has made great inroads into the popularity of a full dress attire.

His Royal Highness appeared a few weeks ago at a dinner dance attired in a dinner suit of black with a faint white stripe, vest of black silk trimmed with a fine white edge, and a black bow tie, also with a white edge. Now the latest dinner suits shown are of this cloth. The dandies of the West End appear at their favorite haunts dressed in the Prince of Wales' latest.

The coat for winter street wear for the coming season will be of heavy material, the bulge collar and probably belted, for the Prince appeared in such a coat at a recent gathering in Scotland.

Golf attire is not ignored by the royal family, and the newest cloth for golfing is the Knickerbocker suit in immespun, wool vest of bright colors, and checkered cap. This is the attire which the Prince of Wales chose on the last occasion he was recently "played himself in" at St. Andrews.

It is to be noted also that the three other sons of King George follow the lead of their elder brother, and appear in public dressed to the most minute detail after the style "adopted."

When the late King Edward was Prince of Wales, he was generally looked to for the man-about-town. In Europe and thousands of men imitated the least change of style which he affected. Later the King Edward who brought the grey ascot hat into such wide use, and white spats and the derby, but now their popularity is no more.

So closely was King Edward followed in the matter of dress, it is said, that the style in wear the last button on the vest unbuttoned, so universal in London twenty years ago, started from the fact that once on a house party the King, who was then beginning to take on his corpulent build, undid the button for the sake of comfort. This was enough, however, and from that time on the last button was only an ornament.

Woman's Sphere

APPLE PIE AND CHEESE.

Full many a useful notion
Conceived of foreign powers,
Has spoke since time began.

To keep this land of ours,
And generally called fashion
Has taken many of these.

And baleful morbid passions
Corrupt your native taste,
O tempers! I'm correct.

What protestation stood
This rash to do the glories
Of apple pie and cheese.

I'm glad my education
Teaches me to stand
Against the vile temptation
Held out on every hand;
Eschewing all the titles
With vanity replete,
I'm loyal to the victuals
Our grandsires used to eat.

I'm glad I've got three willing boys
To hang around and tease,
Their mother for her filling joys
Of apple pie and cheese.

The pie, my soul, vile makes me

God bless her homely ways,
On memory's glasses takes me
Back to boyhood's days.
And seems like I see mother
Lean'd on the window sill,
Mindful of me and brother,
While she threws will keep us still;
And those feelings are so grateful,
"There I love if you please,
I'll take another plateful,
Of apple pie and cheese."

Though fools may still decry them
For these I vow we stand,
Partaking thrice per diem
Of their fullness out of hand,
No enervating fashion
Shall cheat us of our right,
To gratify our passion
With wonderful as a bite,
We'll eat with fork or fingers
Or easy way we please,
And fain shall justify us
When we carve our pie and cheese.

THE VOGUE OF BROWN.

For outdoor wear all shades of tweed hold first place. One of the most pleasing features of this color is that it can suggest such charming symphony of color throughout the costume, for there is nothing more delightful than the costume that carries the same color from head to toe. The brown vogue has brought a revival of the brown shoe, which we have not seen for many seasons past. These shoes are particularly good when worn with buckles with an afternoon frock. The buckles that are most favored are of chrome beads, and the combination is very smart.

The longer frocks have brought an interesting change in shoes. The very flat heel is no longer in favour except for sports wear. The French or baby French heel is being worn for afternoon or evening, and the moderately high Cuban heel with tailored frocks. Shoes of the sandal type are not fashionable for day wear, having been completely supplanted by the tongue or buckle shoe. Sandals are still being worn, however, for evening, and they have several new features, chief among them being the sandal without the centre strap, the front section fitting like a mule.

The Daily Recipe

BOILED HAM

Soak the ham overnight in cold water. In the morning wash it thoroughly, put in a large vessel, covering it with cold water, and cook slowly till tender. Then let the ham cool, take it from the water, remove the skin, sprinkle with sugar and cracker crumbs and "stick" with cloves half-inch apart. Bake one hour in a slow oven. (A ham weighing 12 to 14 lbs. requires five hours' cooking, and then one hour in the oven.)

ROMAN MEAL

Prove It For Yourself!

Roman Meal should be added to all baking done with white flour—in order to restore the valuable dark parts of the grain, so rich in vitamines, saltines and nourishment, which were lost in making the white flour. It also makes food more appetizing.

Aids digestion! Positively relieves constipation.

Paint-Brush Presents

Christmas Boxes

A gaily decorated box is a gift in itself, and costs only some homemade candy or a handkerchief to finish it. Any odd-shaped boxes that you have around the house may be made, through the magic of your paint brush, into a colorful present.

For these boxes you may use either enamelee, buying black, white vivid red, and green, or the sealing wax paint, which needs very little to make. Into three or four sticks of sealing wax, which sells for about eight cents a stick, add some denatured alcohol. Break each stick into three or four pieces, place in a small cup or pan, and cover with the alcohol. Allow this mixture to stand overnight, and in the morning stir it up. If it is not thin enough to paint with, add more alcohol.

Make a Bon Bon Box

A metal bon bon box is shown at the left of the picture above. If you wish to make one of these for a friend, find out what color she uses in her room and paint it to match, so she can keep it on her dressing table. Buy an undecorated cardboard bon bon box and give it a coat of forest-green or French blue wax paint. When this has dried, put on a silhouette in black.

This silhouette is very easily made by cutting out a girl's head, or some such figure, from a magazine, and pasting it in the center of the box while the paint is still wet. When it has dried, paint over the head very carefully with black, using your fine brush. Tha use your black paint to make a half-inch band around the edge of the top. If you are very careful, you can also encircle the picture with a fine line the shape of the box.

Pencil Boxes Are Useful

A pencil box may be made from a small wooden box with grooved corners and a flat lid that slides into place. Paint the box and lid separately, using red, or an orange-red. With the fine brush paint a vine-like design in black and gold on the outside here and there. A cluster of big dots to resemble flowers.

Paint your old pasteboard berate black and put on a stenciled design. Use a conventional design in the picture was made by painting a square in purple. Three leaves would be pretty, however, decorated with a cut-out picture, painted like the one for the metal box.

Don't forget to let each color dry before adding a new one.

The Short Story Ji.

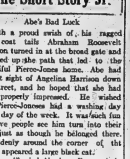

Abe's Bad Luck

With a proud swish of his ragged little coat tails Abraham Roosevelt Johnson turned in at the broad gate and started up the path that led to the beautiful Pierce-Jones home. Abe had sought sight of Angelina Harrison down the street, and he hoped that she had been properly impressed. He wished the Pierce-Joneses had a washing day every day of the week. It was such fun to have people see him turn into their gate just as though he belonged there.

Suddenly around the corner of the house appeared a large black cat.

"Meow!" cried Abraham Roosevelt in alarm, "it's gwine to cross my path an' dat's bad luck, sho' 'nuff."

Quick as a flash he turned and tried to dodge the cat, but the sudden turn upset the wagon and the basket of clean clothes went sprawling in the dust.

Frightened by the noise, the cat ran faster. Abe let go of the wagon and tore after the cat to head her off before she crossed in front of him. He had just about reached her when he stubbed his toe on a large stone, and he, too, went sprawling in the dust, skinning both his knees.

"Aw," Abe wailed, as soon as he was able to get his breath, "dat cat got by. Now I'll have bad luck." Big tears rolled down his cheeks.

"Why, it is, little Abraham Johnson," cried a pleasant voice, "and you've had an accident. Don't cry, Abe. The clothes aren't hurt a bit."

Abe only threw back his head and bowled something about bad luck.

"Oh! why, you're hurt your knee. What a shame! Come on into the house and the nurse will fix you up in no time." Abe got up in awe. He had never even so much as dreamed of going inside the Pierce-Jones home. Maybe he wasn't going to have such bad luck, after all.

When Abe, each knee securely bandaged, was finally seated on a large shiny davenport, Mrs. Pierce-Jones said to him, "Abe, I suppose you and your mammy would like to come here to live? I need a new cook and I've heard your mammy is the best cook in the country."

Abe's teeth shone. "I aint never gwine to be cook for no white folks again," he grinned, "it jes naturally losing me the best luck I ever had."

LINKED LIVES

By

D. Kinmount Roy

Yes, Meester Heathfield and the ladies had left that very morning, only that morning. They were civil folk, very civil, and quite liberal.

"Would Donald step in and have a taste o' something?" He was under particular in such things, they a' kenned that, efter sic' he bein'd a kirk-gaeing man.

But blow ye, that need mak' nae great defference, there was the Ruling Elder, now, who——

Just so," Donald remarked, anxious to stop the flow of talk, and well enough aware of the Ruling Elder's capacity for good liquor in those past; yet every man has his ain rig.' Donald said, as he turned to go; 'it is the maist ony ane can do, I'm thinking!'

'To be sure, to be sure!' said mine host, with his usual adaptability to the humours of his patron. 'Exactly my ain sentiments! That is just what I was saying when ye cam' in. Ye watched the retreating figure of Donald, with a puzzled air, till he was well out of earshot; and then sagely shaking his head, as with grave concern, he helped himself to a taste of his own good liquor. Thus fortified, he gave it as his opinion that there was something strongly amiss with MacAlpin. 'If there is no' a bee in his bonnet, my name is no Tammas Tamson!' he said solemnly.

'Did ony ane ever hear MacAlpin talk like a kirk parson afore? Never. And did ony ane ever see his eyes stray, and blaze like live coals when you blew on them as they did when he asked for the pedlar body? I say, never! Tak' my word for it, if MacAlpin meets that same pedlar, there'll be murder, I'm murder—lawful and proper murder!'

'Murder!' echoed mine host's better half, in alarm; 'you mean justice, he likes man!'

'In course I do,' retorted the landlord, much offended at being called to order before strangers; 'I mean justice on a spy.'

'A spy!' exclaimed half-a-dozen in a breath.

'A spy, and in this house for more than a month past!' cried his wife; 'heard ye ever the like? What next! What next!'

When Donald returned to the place where he had left his horse and son, Sandy was asleep, and the horse, having finished his chir, was browsing contentedly near by; he had cropped the grass round the sleeping boy in every direction, and was still quite at his feet, went away, as though his duty was to protect him. Nor was this in appearance only, for the horse's name was Duke, and would only fet his friends approach him at any time, and then only upon receiving him use his teeth and hoofs had not desire to witness a second exhibition of his prowess.

Donald as he approached gave a low whistle, to which Duke answered as he turned to meet his master, for horse and man understood one another perfectly. Sandy slept on, the happy, peaceful sleep which comes to the young and pure-hearted, wrapping the little fellow round and round in tranquil repose. Donald looked lovingly at the boy, without disturbing him, and led Duke to a nearby stream, where he drank to his satisfaction. 'We cannot tell what is before us,' he said to the noble animal, as though he could understand him, while he patted his arched neck, 'but we must be ready, Duke, we must be ready and sound!'

When he returned, Sandy was awake, and happy.

To be out on an important expedition with his father and Duke, was a matter next, which the boy was enjoying without alloy. Donald got out their lunch, of which he ate sparingly himself, while Sandy demolished the good things without pause.

When the meal was over, Donald sat still in deep thought and the boy, having nothing better to do roamed about, and played hide and seek with Duke, in perfect confidence, as though he never enjoyed the game. Donald could not help watching them, with half his mind, and in spite of the serious nature of the business in hand, he was diverted to hear Sandy exhort Duke after the selfsame manner of the minister in the kirk on the Sabbath before; in fact few points were omitted.

'Do James ken everything that folk ken, father?' broke in Sandy on MacAlpin's meditations.

'No, no, laddie,' Donald answered, a trifle wearily.

"Weel then," said Sandy, with a sigh of satisfaction; 'I ha' tell'n him all the things the meenister tell's us on Sabbath, and he never went to sleep once!'

'Ah, Duke's a good horse, laddie,' Donald said, while in his mind he wrestled the future for some certain light on what might come of their present expedition. 'We'll be a' wiser before tomorrow's morn, laddie—yes, before to-morrow's morn!'

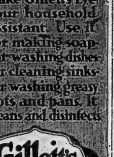

In a trice they were on their way again, Sandy in the saddle this time, and Donald walking in advance. The way was intricate and difficult, as they had to travel through belts of dense forest, with only here and there breaks of clearing, and imperfectly indicated footpaths; but both Duke and Sandy knew how, on occasion, to make themselves small, and take things as they came, without much ado.

It was nearing sundown when they came upon the coach road, and leaving the horse in a secluded spot, they went forward until reaching a bit of rising ground, known in the district as the ridge of Glenamy, which cut across the landscape and offered an extended view for several miles in either direction.

MacAlpin scanned the distance carefully, and with evident perplexity. So far as he could see the landscape was empty of human life and sound, save the murmuring of a distant waterfall, heard distinctly enough amidst the stillness, and the far-off tinkling of cowbells in the valley below.

A GOOD WORD FOR THE FLAPPER

The flapper, that much discussed faction of young women, has found a defender in the Rev. Dr. Edward B. Russell, pastor of a Baptist church in Syracuse, N.Y., one of the famous churches of the State, and who is now interested in filming stories from the Bible. Dr. Russell believes that the flapper will settle down when the time comes and that no concern need now be felt for her future.

"I am an advocate of the much maligned flapper," She is genuine and sincere, and just now is enjoying her first taste of freedom before she sees the down. There is no need to worry as to the kind of woman or mother into which she will develop. Every generation has its wild young things. The majority of parents forget them. They are a wholesome, happy lot, far more interesting than the young things of the past generation," he said.

"What I desire particularly is to give to the young people of today as much clean, wholesome pleasure as is possible. They must have their fling, but let us help them to have it in the right way. This is why I have entered the movie field. I think we need no goody-goody pictures which only bore the audience, but really beautiful, instructive stories of Bible graphed that they will have an appeal for every one.

"It has been my ambition for some time to film the Bible. I wanted to give to the public pictures of the wonderful old cities of Bethlehem, Jerusalem, Galilee and Lebanon. We have read about these places, but we cannot visualize them and they have never been properly shown on the screen. That is why I started my "Voice of the Land" serials. The pictures are not merely photographs of the cities, but are the work of the finest Russian artists I could employ.

Moscow, Nov. 21.—Speaking at a great meeting in the Opera House here last night Premier Lenine declared that the Soviet Government must not be afraid to give concession to foreign capitalists.

"Russia is so big and has such wonderful undeveloped resources that there is no reason to refuse any fair proposition from interests outside country" he said.

LILLIAN and DOROTHY GISH in D. W. GRIFFITH'S "ORPHANS OF THE STORM"

LILLIAN GISH IS A GREAT ACTRESS

FAMOUS STAR HAS VIBRANT YOUTH, POIGNANT WISTFULNESS, AND MORAL QUALITIES

IN LATEST GRIFFITH FILM

PLAYS THE LEADING ROLE IN "ORPHANS OF THE STORM," GREAT DRAMATIC EPIC

To say that Lillian Gish is one of the very greatest actresses the motion picture screen has developed is almost like saying that water is wet. It is a self-evident fact not even disputed by other screen actresses. She stands out like a flash of lightning on a dark night. In certain phases of her work she ranks with the great tragedienses of all times.

And never, in all her varied screen career, has Miss Gish done greater work, or shown a higher type of artistry, than in the leading feminine role in D. W. Griffith's "Orphans of the Storm," a film version of the ever-popular stage play "The Two Orphans." "Orphans of the Storm" has been booked by the management of Griffin's Theatre for next Thursday to Saturday, with a Matinee Friday and Saturday.

Miss Gish has one enormous advantage over other famous women of tragic roles. She has youth—a glorious and vibrant youth.

The great tragic characters of the drama have usually been enacted by women too old to be convincing. Most of the Juliets of the stage, for instance, have been ghastly.

Miss Gish is reinforced by a poignant wistfulness that is of youth. None of the other women of the stage we have been accustomed to speak of as "great actresses" could have played the role Lillian Gish plays in "Orphans of the Storm," or as the half-starved pitiful child in "Broken Blossoms."

Her pre-eminence as an actress comes as much from moral qualities as from brains. Lillian Gish is one of the finest characters before the public. She has courage, tolerance, dogged stick-to-itiveness and limitless patience. Most of all, she has tenderness and human sympathy. The characters she plays seem real and sincere because she is real and sincere herself.

She is the kind of a girl who never forgets to thank the electricians and prop boys when she finishes a scene. Incidentally it might be remarked that any one seeking a novel and quick method of committing suicide might try saying something unkind about her in the presence of some of the studio mechanics. Perhaps it would not be painless, but the result would be satisfactory; you would be "as-is dead" before they got through with you.

I have never seen any other living person, except Mr. Griffith himself, go to such painful lengths to achieve perfection as Miss Gish. When she undertakes a part, she practically ceases living the life of Lillian Gish. In the studio and out she lives the life of the character she is trying to portray.

When she began working on the part of Henriette in the "Orphans of the Storm," she read nothing but the French revolution. She saturated herself with that period. Spiritually, she transported herself to the eighteenth century.

Every night she sits in the projection room studying her work of the day previous, as if come from the laboratory in the rushes. Usually just before she goes on the set, she looks at her scenes again. Sheduled next on the screen so long and her technical training has been so thorough that she does not give any thought to how she is going to do a scene; it is entirely a matter of character, study and shading.

The outstanding characteristic in her work is her ability to hold a character in all its moods. When she played the demure, shy, old-fashioned girl in "Orphans of the Storm," her emotions were all the emotions of a demure, shy, old-fashioned girl. In "Broken Blossoms" her terror was always the terror of a frightened child. A special orchestra and fanciful musical score, add to the spectators enjoyment of the Photodrama.

"WIFE AGAINST WIFE" IS A FASCINATING PICTURE

"Wife Against Wife" is the feature picture at the Regent Theatre, where it opened a three days' engagement yesterday, and it is decidedly an interesting film from beginning to end.

The plot is extraordinary, showing how one jealous married woman seeks to bring happiness and ruin to another and ends pretty near it. It has been well produced under the direction of Whitman Bennett, and the acting of Pauline Starke in the leading role is a triumph for the silent dramatic art.

Emily Fitzral is splendid in the role of the jealous wife of Stannard Dale, the artist, and Perry Marmont makes a very convincing and unhappy husband.

Edward Langford, as Dr. Ethan Heriot and Otida Nesmith, as the doctor's laboratory assistant, also contribute fine acting to this production.

An amusing Sunshine comedy, Fox News Weekly, and a interesting chapter of the adventure play, "Robinson Crusoe," were exhibited during the evening.

"Y" BANQUET HUGE SUCCESS

be response, as reported by Mr. Iairnn has been exceptionally gratifying, and salesmanship is not required. All that is required are faithful workers, for the client knows hat the cause is genuine, and necessary.

Mr. H. W. Ackerman, Chairman of he finance committee of the Y. M. C. A. has been a worker since he began life at the bottom of the ladder of success at 84 per, and his only wish is that he may be able to work throughout his entire life. Mr. Ackerman pointed out that it required $500 to maintain the local "Y" each year, outside of the money derived from the dormitories and others sources. The good work of the institution, however, is not estimable in dollars, as clean cut, Christian men are away above the monetary standard. Already some large and encouraging donations have been made, and with concerted and sincere efforts, the campaign will go over the top with flying colors.

Mr. Richard Sidenius, General Secretary at the Belleville Y.M.C.A. explained the plan of campaign, and coached the canvassers in their work of the next few days, in an able manner, and only as an experienced and successful campaigner could.

Preceding the interesting addresses the large gathering of men sat down to a sumptuous banquet prepared and served by the Ladies' Auxiliary. During the proceedings, Mr. Albert R. Greenlaw, Baritone soloist of Bridge-st. Church, presented with the solo "The Lord is My Shepherd." Mr. Greenlaw was heartily encored and rendered an old plantation song in fine voice as an encore number. Mr. Johnny Mottle played the accompaniment on the piano. Jolly sing songs under the direction of Charlie Keeber the popular physical Director of the "Y" "pingered" up the proceedings and added all the necessary "pepper" to such functions.

To-night all the teams (for the canvassers work in pairs) will report their progress at the "Y" and iron out any difficulties which may have confronted them to-day.

One of the most interesting features of the series which occurred at the big Y.M.C.A. banquet last evening, was the singing of a quartette by two very well-known citizens of "Dear old Belleville by the Bay", in the persons of Mr. John Elliott and Mr. Owen Herity.

It appears that these two gentlemen have been the bane of their friends how well they sang a duet when they were at Owen Sound recently as members of a delegation. "Charlie" Keeber heard about it, and ordered the repeat order, under a penalty of $50 each. As these two now intend donating any spare fifties they may have to the "Y", they not any doubt have many fines these days, so they range, on condition that Charlie would lead them. The music was simply beautiful, and the dear old song "Belleville by the Bay", very typical of the spirit prevailing. The chief trouble was that the piano and each singer refused to wait for each other, and it was a matter of everybody for himself once they go "a going."

Chairman R. J. Graham was requested to sing the "Fly" song, but instead he explained the song. Mr. Graham holds that the words of the song are badly in error, for he says that flies do not go to Georgia in the winter-time and feed on peaches, they go over along the banks of the Nile river in Egypt, and feed on tourists.

Mr. Graham tricked his audience into letting him down easy on the song question. He put the question to his hearers as to whether a man in the old days when requested to sing could have his choice as to whether he sang a song, told a story or danced a jig. Mr. Graham elected to tell a story and before his question had been considered he had "produced" a good story.

Mr. Albert Greenlaw was present and sang the "Twenty-first Psalm". Rarely in Belleville has there been heard a richer baritone. In an encore, Mr. Greenlaw played his own accompaniment and sang "Old Black Joe", it is difficult to describe the delight with which the audience received his renderings. Mr. Greenlaw is undoubtedly one of the best singers in the country.

BOWLERS WIN FROM "HELLO" BOYS

In the game at the "Y" Alleys last evening the Bowlers stepped into the Bell Telephone for three games. The Bowlers were exceptionally good last night rolling up 2413, but the Bell Telephones seemed to have the wires crossed some place and only rolled 1936. Cook, of the Bowlers was high single man with 211 and also high three string with 585.

To-night's game will be Grand Trunk vs Greenlaw.

Two Groups in the Fall League Which Opens Shortly

When thino intervened in the formations of an indoor baseball league, met at the Y.M.C.A. last evening at 7.30 p.m., it was decided to form two leagues and form up a league and begin at as early a date as possible. possible.

Major McManus was elected President of the league, Mr. Frank Ushers Treasurer and the Secretary tor group No. 1 Walter Gerow, and Secretary of group No. 2, H. Pringle.

Teams of Group No. 1; G. T. R. (Senior), Shoe Clerks, Tiger Tire, Post Office, Y.M.C.A., G.W.V.A., K. of C., Red Sox.

Group No. 2: Springer, Belleville Hardware, Yanks Club, G.T.R. (Junior), C.N.R., Scouts and K.V.A., and Gen. Motors. Schedules to be made out later and all names handed in by Friday night. All games to be played in Armouries.

Apparently some people think a careful driver is one who toots his horn to let the train know he is approaching the crossing.

An optimist is one who buys a map purporting to show the final boundaries of all countries.

showering down from the very sky; but a neighbor persuaded me to go back and we tackle it in our house. Fortunately, we had a clear space of about 200 feet between us and the next house. One of my assistant teachers, Mr. Klemmer, came along and volunteered to go on the roof. How he stayed up there with a screwdriver blowing is beyond my comprehension, as I have not been able to walk on it in daytime since no wind. Through his efforts on top and my own down below, with a little help at times from others, we saved the house without the loss of a couple of windows and a few hundred feet of roofing. We served notice that we would not be driven out and had mattresses and cots everywhere. Now, however, we have resumed school and have again a good attendance about 106 on roll, compared with 233 before the fire and with 120 three years ago when I first came here. You will have an idea of the extent of the fire when I tell you that of 98 children who lived in Halleybury only 16 (and these from only 12 homes). did not lose their homes. Of our staff one of the married teachers lost his home, and five of the single ones their boarding houses and all their belongings except what they had on them. Two of us who have homes were not burned out and two were in boarding places that are left. You will understand that the school being in the north of the town the rooms in that end so far as possible so that accordots for as many of us escaping as did. Every public place of business, amusement, office, hall, school, except ours, restaurant, station, market house, stock buildings and about 700 houses were destroyed."

WEDDING BELLS

SETTER—DARLING.

The marriage took place at Bridge Street parsonage on Monday afternoon of Miss Carrie Maude Darling, of Frankford and Mr. George Andrew Setter. The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence, of Frankford. Mr. and Mrs. Setter left on the 3 o'clock train for Toronto.

London, Nov. 20.—The King's speech at the formal opening of Parliament on Thursday, it is understood, will begin with an important reference to foreign affairs, followed by one allusion to unemployment as home as connected with the unsettled condition of Europe. Legislation establishing the new constitution of Ireland will be mentioned, however, as the sole matter which necessitates the meeting of Parliament for the second time this year, and the House will be invited to pass upon it without delay.

It Is Not True

That people "begin glasses too soon." Not if the one who first examined the eyes was up to the standard in his work; because when the skilful Optometrist completes examining a pair of eyes he KNOWS what they need andw hat they do not need: he will never put glasses on his patient until they are necessary. If he discovers a diseased condition, or need of medical attention he will promptly advise his patient.

TELEPHONE WEEK

Yesterday, the 20th inst., was the first day of Telephone Week, and compared with last year, shows an increase of 42 visitors.

The Radio demonstration by The Northern Electric Company, was a decided success and very much appreciated by those present. This Demonstration will be carried on each evening during the week.

The local Management and Staff express the keen interest taken by the citizens, of Belleville and sincerely hope that as many as possible will avail themselves of this opportunity to visit the Local Exchange.

LATE CAPTAIN BENNETT

Port Hope, Nov. 20.—Another old resident of Port Hope, Captain George Bennett, was called home yesterday after a lingering illness. Deceased had a stroke of paralysis a year and a half ago and has been in failing health ever since.

The late Mr. Bennett was born in Kinrose, Scotland, seventy-three years ago and came to Canada three years later settling at Port Hope. For over forty years he sailed the lakes and was Captain of such well known boats as the Oliver Mowat, Wave Crest and Burton, being the owner of the later. Deceased was a member of Hope Masonic Lodge and the Independent Order of Oddfellows and always took an active interest in both organizations. In addition to his widow, three sons, George, Port Hope; Bruce, of Vancouver and Rev. Walter Bennett, of Symons, and one daughter, Mrs. James B. Hunt, of Vermillion, Alta., are left to mourn his loss. The funeral takes place on Tuesday afternoon and will be under Masonic auspices.

EXPRESSMEN'S CONVENTION.

The Expressmen of Eastern Ontario will hold a Convention in Belleville on November 23rd and expect to have a noon luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce Bldg.

ALBERT BOARD TO MEET.

On Monday and Tuesday of next week a Board meeting will be held at Albert College.

DIRECTORS MEET.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce was held at noon today in the Chamber's regular quarters. This meeting was to take the place of the regular weekly meeting usually held on Thursdays. As the Expressmen's Convention is to be held on Thursday the date was changed. A little extra delicacy for the luncheons was provided by the President, H. F. Ketcheson, in the form of roast partridges. General business was transacted.

"FINAL PEACE OF ALL" AIM AT LAUSANNE

Lausanne, Nov. 20.—Hope that peace on earth would result from the labors of the Near Eastern conference was voiced by the speakers at the brief opening session today. This sentiment was voiced first by President Haab, of the Swiss confederation, who presided over the opening plenary meeting, and it was dwelt upon by both Lord Curzon, who desired a final peace of all, and Ismet Pasha. The prospects of United States activity in the conference, which many of those present seemed to interpret as the launching of a new American policy in Europe, and the presence of a strong delegation from far-away Japan, gave world-wide significance to the conclave.

Called By Death

J. ALBERT WAGHE.

Death came to the late J. Albert Wagre on Monday evening at his late residence, 7 Harvey street, and ended the sufferings of this life, which he had withstood for the past ten days, since having taken seriously ill.

Deceased who was aged 52 years, was born in Hungerford in 1870 and up until some three years ago, had resided almost continuous by on his farm on Big Island. The past three years, deceased had spent in the city.

Member of I.O.L. No. 1013, the late Albert Wager was also an devoted member of the Tabernacle Methodist church, and was at one time superintendent of the Big Island Sunday School.

Left to mourn the loss besides the sorrowing widow, are one son Wilmot, of Demorestville, one sister, Mrs. Daniel Bowers, of Hungerford; three brothers, Manuel and Thomas, of Hungerford, and William, of Bellevill.

(Picton papers please copy.)

6th LINE SIDNEY

A number from this line attended anniversary services at Aikins appointment on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Harris, Mrs. H. Langabeer and Mr. Geo. Wallace returned home on Thursday last having spent the past week with Rev. and Mrs. T. Wallace, of Newtonville.

A number from this line are enjoying the fine hard frosts and sleighing.

Mrs. Hannah, of Belleville, has returned home after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. W. Scott.

Mr. H. Hookes spent Sunday with Mr. H. McPherson.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Treverton and family and Mr. and Mrs. H. Condon and baby took tea with Mr. and Mrs. F. Harris on Sunday.

The farmers are still sawing away at

EDWARD ABBOTT

The death occurred at an early hour this morning, of Mr. Edward Abbott at Belleville Hospital after a serious operation. The late Mr. Abbott was born in Sidney township and of late years has resided in Frankford. The body is being prepared by the Belleville Burial Company and will be taken to Frankford where the funeral will take place on Friday

PEPS will promptly STOP Your CHILD'S COUGH
WHEN a child starts coughing a mother's duty is to give the little sufferer a Peps tablet, and thus prevent any weakening of the lungs. As the tablet dissolves in the child's mouth, the soothing medicinal fumes given off pass through the tender breathing passages straight to the lungs and bring immediate comfort and relief.
Peps contain no opium or other harmful drugs, and can be given to a child (either whole or crushed to a powder) with the assurance of absolute benefit.
One little Peps at night will clear the breathing passages and let the little one's sleep be unbroken by coughing fits. A Peps before starting for school in bad weather is also an invaluable safeguard for the children's throats and chests. All dealers, 50c. box.
FREE TRIAL.
Send this advert., name of paper and 1c. stamp (for return postage) to Peps Co., Toronto and free trial package will be sent you.

THE HORRORS OF INDIGESTION

Relieved by "Fruit-a-tives" the Fruit Medicine

Indigestion: Weak Digestion or partial digestion of food, is one of the most serious of present-day complaints—because it is responsible for many serious troubles.

Those who suffer with Indigestion almost invariably are troubled with Constipation, Palpitation of the Heart, Biliousness and excessive Nervousness.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always relieve Indigestion because these tablets strengthen the stomach muscles, increase the flow of the digestive juices and correct Constipation, which usually accompanies Indigestion.

"I Now Feel Fine"

Mrs. P. G. Murdoch, Box 433, Portage la Prairie, Man., writes:—

"I was troubled for years with biliousness, constipation, kidney and liver troubles. I tried many different kinds of medicine, but nothing did me much good until I tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I now feel fine, but am never without them in the house. Dr. Chase's Ointment has relieved my husband of piles, from which he used to suffer badly."

WESTERN CEDAR FOR MILL ROOFS

In textile plants, paper mills and other buildings where moist conditions prevail considerable losses are frequently sustained through the decay of roof-timbers. In some cases the damage extends downwards to the supporting timbers, but usually it is confined to the roof-planks. The woods commonly used for roofs are pine, spruce, fir, hemlock and tamarack. The Forest Products Laboratories of Canada, Forestry Branch, Department of the Interior, advocate the use of western cedar for the roof-planks of all buildings where decay is likely to occur. The Laboratories state that cedar, when properly recognized as more durable than other woods in situations favouring decay and that western cedar possesses other qualities in addition which make it specially valuable for roof construction. These advantages are light weight, good heat-insulation, good paint-holding surface and ease of working. Western cedar is fortunately obtainable in large sizes and in immense quantities.

SUFFERING IN THE FIRE AREA IS ACUTE

JEWEL THEFT AT HAMILTON

Club Bag Containing $6,200 Worth of Jewellery Located in Belleville and Returned

Hamilton, November 21.—Alleged to have confessed to the theft of jewelry valued at $6,200, Gerald Hogan, a traveler for John Street & Co., limited, wholesale jewelers, was taken into custody Tuesday morning. The arrest was made by Detective Crocker, of Hamilton, following investigation of Hogan's claim that his traveler's sample case, containing the jewelry, was stolen from the T. & H. B. baggage-room here.

On Saturday afternoon Hogan complained to the T. H. & B. authorities that he had checked in his grip at Toronto shortly before stepping on the Hamilton train. On arrival here, he said, he presented his check, and the grip could not be found. Investigation on a large scale were immediately commenced by the railway, and Special Agent McKellar succeeded finally in tracing whether the grip had been shipped by mistake, to any other point.

Hogan meanwhile communicated with Detective Crocker, who, together with Detective Chamberlain interviewed him on the matter of the railway station. They could make no headway with the case, and they brought Hogan to the police station for further inquiries. There, Detective Crocker declared today Hogan made a complete confession of the theft of the sample case.

The story of the matter that the police told to the local press is that of the case is as follows: There were five grips—one which contained the valuables and which Hogan left earlier in the week at Belleville prior to going to Toronto; the other four "worthless dummy" which was checked at the Union station in Toronto. On his arrival in Hamilton he claimed that the grip which contained the baggage-room and by some means removed the dummy, after which he laid his claim with the authorities.

After his interview with Hogan, Detective Crocker communicated with the Belleville authorities, and yesterday an officer from that city brought a sample case containing a large quantity of jewelry to Hamilton, which Mr. Swift identified.

Hogan was brought before Magistrate Jelfs in police court this morning, and his case was adjourned until Thursday next. Howard Tesdo appeared for him at the preliminary hearing, and later stated that C. W. Bell would conduct the case on Thursday. Hogan displayed extreme

His Worship reviewed the present conditions of the sufferers and the need there was for assisting them. It was the unanimous opinion of all present that the Club would do its share toward relief when the appeal for assistance was made. Mayor Hanna in addition to giving the address showed a number of views of the devasted territory which gave to all present some idea of the extent of damage done and the privations of some of the sufferers. His Worship was tendered a vote of thanks for his address and information imparted.

LONDON UNEMPLOYED CAUSED NO TROUBLE

London, Nov. 22.—Expected trouble over the demonstration of the unemployed here today did not materialize. The widely heralded army of one hundred thousand desperate characters who were expected to assemble on the embankment and try to beat their way through "for Downing street to enforce their demands for an audience with Premier Bonar Law consisted of a much smaller gathering. The authorities had taken strong precautions to deal with the serious situation but none of the small number of demonstrators challenged their authority.

"Y" CAMPAIGN BIG SUCCESS

Sum of $2,833 Has Been Subscribed to the Y.M.C.A.

H. W. Ackerman, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Y.M.C.A., presided at the get together and "pep" meeting in the Assembly Hall of the "Y" last evening when the first day's drive in the big campaign concluded.

Most encouraging reports were heard on the campaign when Messrs. Ackerman and President George Ostrom reported that they had secured $2000 in subscriptions as a result of their solicitation, before the big campaign was formally launched on Monday morning.

The sum total of the hard work of the various canvassing teams on Tuesday, was $833, making the total up until last evening $2833. Messrs. R. J. Wray and F. B. Smith are the leading team, and the following are the teams in order of the subscriptions which they have secured:

Ernie Dickens and T. W. Collister.
G. F. Cole and E. Frederick.
C. S. Clapp and G. N. Simmons.
J. G. Moffat and A. Y. Snider.
J. O. Henry and R. Gordon.
G. E. McKinnon and O. W. Munnings.

B. F. Jennings and R. Zufelt.
Howard Clark and Dr. McCreary.
T. D. Rorton and D. E. Belleside.
H. C. Hamilton and F. R. Wicks.

Rev. Doug. C. Ramsay gave a three minute "Pep" talk, and was the last man for that job. Jolly sing songs dispelled dull ears, under the baton of Charlie Hatch with Miss Jessie Hunt, presiding at the piano. Mr. W. B. Biggs was called upon to sing the chorus of "Way Down Upon the Swanee River." He responded, and refused to stop at the chorus, but rendered solo after solo on the other, and then shouted the chorus overstrung.

MEDAL TO BE PRESENTED TO YOUNG BELLEVILLE GIRL

On Sunday night at 6.30 there will be a special concert given in Griffin's Theatre, under the auspices of the Girl Guides. There will be a splendid musical program as Hayil Light Infantry Band will furnish music and several of the best Belleville vocalists will sing. There will also be a presentation of a very unique nature. Miss Margaret, Blind a local girl guide of 14 years, a member of Miss Ruth Sinclair's Company, saved a young three year old baby from instant death on the railway crossing at James street but June. The little tot was standing on the tracks when a train came around the curve from the west and was rapidly approaching the child when Miss Blaind ran some distance to the tracks and rescued the baby mite of humanity. A medal will be presented to Miss Blaind for her brave act. The presentation will be made by Mayor Hanna at the concert on Sunday night. The medal is the Girl Guides Life Saving Medal which has been awarded by the International Headquarters in London, England.

The Ontario Headquarters of the Girl Guides has written to the Belleville branch congratulating them on having such a brave girl and further stating that all Ontario was proud of her. Belleville too is proud of her and on Sunday by the public will opportunity of showing our pride in having such a girl in our midst.

CAN. NATIONAL AND G. TRUNK ARE CONNECTED

Fifty Men at Work Building One Mile and Quarter Of Track

Napanee, Nov. 21.—The Canadian National practice of having their east-bound trains, back out of the station here and cross the Grand Trunk west of the station is at last to be discontinued. This has been a constant source of delay in all east-bound traffic and has existed ever since the C.N.R. obtained a right-of-way east, of here. There is a gang of fifty men and in addition ten teams, at work with Mr. W. H. Henderson in charge They will build about a mile and a quarter of new road, cutting in from the G. T. R. station and running northeast across the fields opposite the station. This new piece, when completed, will be a great advantage to the C.N.R., as it will do away with the present system of backing all trains from the C.N.R. diamond to the G.T.R. station. The diamond will be dispensed with three employees who operate this work.

If the present mild weather continues, this new piece of road should be completed by the first of the new year.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT BAPTIST CHURCH

The splendid congregation present last night at the third service of the Evangelistic campaign in the Baptist Church was evidence of strong and growing interest in the meetings. Mr. Greenlaw again led the congregational singing while his mellow and flexible voice delighted those who found his two solos "The Sinner and the Song" and "I shall know Him." Rev. N. B. McKechnie gave an address which must be sentiment and remorseful memories. logy and peace could come only from the Saviour. God, declared the speaker pictured in impressive language the contrast between a life that has come down to old age in the service of God and the glorious outlook of a long life lived in the service of God.

The meeting will be continued each evening this week.

FIRE VICTIMS OF NORTHERN ONTARIO ARE OPTIMISTIC

Need of Assistance is Great as Winter Sets In—Many 1,800 Homes and Farm Buildings Destroyed—Municipalities in Old Ontario Asked to Raise $600,000 For Relief

HIGH COURT CONCLUDED

Mack vs. Mack Case was Concluded This Morning and Was Last on Docket

Non-jury sittings of the High Court concluded today and Mr. Justice Smith, presiding judge, left for Cornwall, his former home, this afternoon.

In the case of Sutherland vs. Elliott, an action which occupied the attention of the Court all day Tuesday, was disposed of this morning.

Judgment was given for the plaintiff for $1,050.00 and costs of the action, as compensation for the claim made by him. Mr. St. John Ferris, K.C., M.P., counsel for plaintiff; Mr. J. R. D. Ponton, counsel for defendant.

The plaintiff is a farmer in Meetcagle township, in this county, and in January of this year purchased a farm from the defendant in the township of Sidney. The plaintiff saw an advertisement in the Ontario Farm Journal, offering this property for sale, and in the advertisement, the defendant described the farm as containing 75 acres—60 acres being plowed—75 acres of good soil. The plaintiff wrote the defendant asking for further description of the lands, and about it generally, and the defendant wrote the plaintiff stating that it was good soil and free from stone and weeds, and confirming the advertisement in the paper. The plaintiff came down, in the winter time, and saw the defendant, and the defendant again represented that the farm contained 75 acres; was free from weeds, and had no stone on it; and they came to a bargain, the plaintiff thereby buying the farm with some chattels for $7,000, and took possession in March.

Subsequently, he discovered that instead of there being 75 acres on the farm, there were only 55, and that there was a streak of flat rock upon the farm as well as rolling stones, and the farm was not free from weeds, and he brought this action for compensation for the shortage in the lands and for the stones and foul weeds, contending that the defendant had misrepresented the place to him, and was guilty of fraud in so permitting him to purchase the property. The defendant denied all the statements and contended that he did not know that the farm did not contain 75 acres.

Mack vs. Mack.

This action was brought against Miss A. Mack, the widow of the late Samuel Mack, to set aside a will and deed made by the deceased Samuel Mack in favor of his wife, Miss A. Mack, upon the grounds that Samuel Mack was not, at the time he made them, in a state of mind such as would enable him to understand the nature and effect of the will and deed that he made. The plaintiffs are sons of Samuel Mack, and claimed that if the will and deed were set aside as they contended that the latter died intestate, the amount in the neighborhood of $2,500, and that would be divided among his children equally. The defendant, who is the plaintiff succeeded in this action, that the extent to which he would benefit on the death of his father's estate would not be more than $500. Upon the suggestion of His Lordship the action was settled by the defendant paying to the plaintiff the sum of $450.—Mr. R. Guss Porter, K.C., M.P., for plaintiff; Mr. Wm. Carnew, K.C., and R. C. Donnan, for defendants.

GETTING GOOD HAULS

Picton, Ont., Nov. 21.—Information comes from Salmon Point, in Prince Edward county that the fishermen are getting good hauls of fish.

Belleville north-west winds, partly cloudy.

Thursday—Westerly winds fair and milder.

Haileybury, Nov. 18, '22.
(From Our Representative.)

On Friday evening at 8.35 a special train having on board about 110 left the union station at Toronto, the destination being the northern part of Ontario, and more especially the fire-swept district of North Cobalt, Haileybury and other places.

Those on board were the mayors of several cities and towns, members of boards of trade, and newspaper representatives. Premier Drury also accompanied the party, which proved to be a most social body of men.

The trip from the Queen City to Cobalt proved to be interesting. At Cobalt the train was sidetracked for an hour and the majority of those on board made a tour of inspection of this mining town, which in conception was of mushroom growth.

It was Saturday morning and the market visited proved to be a place of interest to many. Another place of especial interest to many were the commodious premises adjacent to the city hall where all articles of clothing, provisions, etc., are unpacked for distribution to the fire sufferers. To a casual observer it would appear that there was an abundant clothing, dry army, but upon inquiry it was ascertained that whilst the supply was large, the needs are equally great. Energetic and capable men and women are in charge, and were only too willing to impart any information that was asked for in regard to the distribution of supplies.

From here, in charge of the steamer, the party proceeded to Haileybury, the citizens of Old Dominion, of the hearts of those who, through the terrible and sudden calamity which overtook them, were compelled to seek for new homes.

The system of giving out the articles and also supplies, whilst somewhat complicated, is nevertheless a system which could not be improved upon. There is no overlapping, and the needing supplies are well looked after. It was, however, learned from the noble band of ladies of the Red Cross Society, who are in charge, that there were a few articles which the committee were in need of, namely, women's footwear and overshoes, boys' suits and boots, and women's and children's undergarments. A supply of outer clothing had been most generous.

Leaving Cobalt at 11.30 Saturday morning the party proceeded on its journey and soon reached North Cobalt, the scene of the terrible holocaust. The greatest portion of this village was laid waste, but despite the desolation, it was wonderful the spirit of optimism that prevailed. Although many had had their all, they were not crushed, but are facing the situation in a manly spirit. Shacks are going up here and there upon sites where their previous ones stood.

Reeve Norman, of Bucks Township, in which municipality North Cobalt is located, met the party, and in conversation with a representative of this paper stated that although the township had been swept from one end to the other, and in the direction

LIFE BELT FOUND, TRAGEDY FEARED

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Halifax, N.S. Nov. 22.—The Marine and Fisheries Department has received notification from Margaree Cape Breton that a life buoy marked "S.S. Thuriesia, Sarnia, Ontario," has been picked up on shore there and the beach for 30 miles strewn with wood wool. While further information is lacking the find is thought to indicate accidental at sea and possibly a tragedy.

HOW A BELLEVILLE BOY MADE GOOD IN NEW YORK

John McHugh, a Grand Trunk Boy Says He was just an Ordinary Boy, With Neither Money, "Pull," Nor a College Education; Yet He Made a Record Which Caused One of the Leading Banks of the Great Metropolis to Reach Out Into the Middle West, Bring Him to the World's Financial Centre, and Later Make Him the Head of its Organization.

BY R. C. FORBES
In "American Magazine."

Can a young man...born in some unimportant place and possessing no more than ordinary brains, hope to rise, to the top, in whatever business or profession he takes up?

Can he do that, even if he has not had a college education?

Can he do it without influential friends or "pull"?

Can he do it without financial aid from his parents?

The recent selection of a new president for one of the foremost banks in America gives the reply, "Yes," to these questions.

John McHugh, recently elected president of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank of New York, was born...long ago in the Middle West when the metropolis reached out its long arm and grabbed him. He departed with absolute unconcern. I believe, with absolute truthfulness, that he was endowed with no extra ordinary brains; that he never did anything extraordinary brilliant in his life; that he simply plugged along doing the ordinary things of an ordinary employee, although always striving to do more than an ordinary amount of work and sacrificing more than an average amount of loyalty to his boss and to his organization.

He has does nothing. Mr. McHugh declares, that any fellow of ordinary intelligence and moderate education cannot do, if he cares to apply himself with sufficient diligence and energy and enthusiasm.

Left both motherless and fatherless when a small boy, he was reared by his grandmother, at Belleville, Ontario, where he was born on August 29th, 1865; at eighteen, he started work in the local office of the Grand Trunk Railway, at ten dollars per month; he learned telegraphy and other things, and was put in charge of the freight department at an important "division point," later, he moved to Iowa, to enter a small town bank in a minor capacity; he rose to the presidency of a bank, and built it up remarkably; he was elected president of the Iowa Bankers' Association, became interested in the activities of the American Bankers' Association, and made an impression upon other bankers; finally he was persuaded to migrate to New York and has now been made president of one of the city's leading national banks.

Very simple, when thus summarized, isn't it? But what man do is not the chief point of interest; it is why and how they came to accomplish things; their impelling motives; the methods they employed; the experiences they had; the wisdom they achieved; the lessons they learned, and which they can pass on to others.

Mr. McHugh protested again and again, in talking with me: "There's no story in my life! My career has been unspectacular. There has been no romance in it, as there has been in many of the stories you have written about. I would be a very poor subject, an impossible subject, to make anything out of that would interest others."

I asked—and I knew what I was asking—if he had no interest in helping other fellows, particularly young men, to get ahead in the world.

"Interest in young men?" he repeated. "Why, the very first thing I did, when I got settled in my first permanent job, was to start a library for the benefit of the young men in the place.

"I wasn't twenty myself, but I knew a lot about books, and I figured that the best way I could help other young fellows was to get them interested in reading a good part of their spare time in learning to like the right kind of literature. It was really because I had been a great reader and a student of literature that I got my first job and attracted the friendly notice and the help of my superiors.

"While at school I crammed my head full of Greek, Latin, and Classic literature—ancient history and ancient geography, delved into mathematics and, I suppose, earned the medal I received on graduating from high school. I was anxious, of course, to get work; every one on the Grand Trunk men, who was quite a student and with whom I had discussed literature and such matters, said he would like to get me into his office.

"Among other things, I learned telegraphy. Very soon another clerk left and I offered to fill both jobs. I did, and got my pay doubled—from ten dollars to twenty dollars a month. Next, I was made assistant train dispatcher and, a few months later, was called upon, in an emergency to relieve the head of the freight department at another place. The chief intendent then told me that he wanted me to go to Lindsay, Ontario; also to make charge of the freight department there. As this was a terminal point and consequently rather important, I pointed out to the superintendent that I'd had practically no experience. He replied, 'You'll get along all right. I'm not afraid of that. And so I went."

All this happened within one year after young McHugh started work! At nineteen, he had so completely won the confidence of those above him that he was given responsibilities not commonly shouldered by very much older men. The principal reason for this was that he was sufficiently away from duty, and the youthful McHugh voluntarily stepped in and took charges at such times.

"When I was quite a young boy," remarked Mr. McHugh, "I happened to overhear a man say that 'Where is John Smith? He was to be here.' Another man replied: 'It isn't time yet, and John Smith will be here on time. He said he would.'

"That made a tremendous impression on me. I thought, I implied, I thought, far more than that John Smith was punctual. It conveyed to me that John Smith must have learned a reputation for never giving a promise unless he knew he could keep it; that John Smith was a man of his word, and that his word was accepted absolutely by those who knew him. I there and then made a vow to myself that I would do my very utmost to earn the kind of a reputation for dependability which John Smith had.

"When I got my first job, I had another idea in my mind which helped me to get along a little faster than usual. It is an idea that a great many young men of to-day do not seem to have. I said to myself: 'I will not only do my work the best I know how, but I will learn all I can about the work of the man who is to be employed next above me.' I worked in the freight department that I was given my next promotion so quickly."

Mr. McHugh now had to learn what most of us chafe at having to learn, namely, the value and the necessity of patience. For eight long years he served in exactly the same position. Not once in all that period did he receive a higher salary or promotion. This, notwithstanding that, as already told, he frequently stepped in and performed the duties of the official in charge of the job next above him.

But although he was apparently making no advancement with the railroad, he was laying a solid foundation for future success in a multitude of them all. Soon his work and worth became recognized outside the city. Men in other cities throughout the state insisted upon making him president of the Iowa Banker's Association, the highest honor they could confer upon him. This led to his taking an active part in the activities of the American Bankers' Association.

In this latter body he was, Mr. McHugh's merit as a man, and his ability as a banker came to be recognized. He was made chairman of the virtually important Clearing House Section; but when he was importuned to accept the office of president, which is the stepping-stone to the usually coveted presidency of the American Bankers' Association, he balked at the headlight which would be thrust upon him.

Our giant capitalists, our Argus-eyed financiers, our Napoleons of industry, our foremost bank presidents are constantly on the lookout for brainy lieutenants. Carnegie, Rockefeller, Morgan, Schwab, and the rest of them have always published their successes to their ability to select associates. No matter where men of large affairs journey, they watch keenly for promising talent. Some of them attend business conventions mainly in the hope of spotting "comers."

And so it came about that, unobtrusive though he was, this Middle-Western banker began to attract the noting of discerning eyes. How did Cates M. McFarrah, head of the staunch, old-established Mechanics and Metals Bank of New York, come to select this middle-aged Westerner as his right-hand man—Let Mr. McFarrah tell the story:

"Men who never go west of Buffalo don't have much vision; and I wanted a man of vision," said Mr. McFarrah, "I spoke to a Chicago banker friend. He at once replied, 'The man you want is John McHugh, of Sioux City—if you can get him.' Now I don't get him? I asked. 'He has been very successful where he is,' I was told. That certainly did not persuade me, so I set out to get him, for I did not find him very responsive.

"After several interviews, Mr. McHugh said, 'I'm going home to think it over. I'll let you know on the twentieth.' I went South, but although I was strongly impressed with him I was long I returned on the twentieth, because I was by this time extremely eager to get Mr. McHugh—and I knew that his letter would be on hand on the day he had named. It was, and in it stated that, in view of his long connection with the firm and with his various social and business interests, his children, and particularly in view of the fact that he felt he had a good position where he could occasionally be helpful to other people, he had decided not to come."

Mr. McHugh, as a matter of fact, had taken root in Iowa's friendly soil; his wife and daughter were perfectly happy where they were; Sioux City, Middle West and in a modest city possessed a depth, richness, warmth and solidity they might fail to find in the feverish, mammoth city of the East. Citizenship in Sioux City was many-sided. Within the confines of Wall Street not much was considered making become the dominant keynote. Thus Mr. McHugh reasoned.

"The great thing in this world is not to know when you are beaten," added Mr. McGarrah, "I wouldn't give up easily myself, I imagine.

"He has, of course, instilled my highest expectations of him. He has character, solidity, weight, judgment, personality. He is by no means a flashy spectacular—which we in this institution like. He is a born banker. And he sees well. He has helped me in the work is best revealed by my choice of him as my successor in the presidency."

It was in 1916 that Mr. McHugh moved to New York, influenced finally, by the thought that there could be no opportunities for wider service, for greater responsibilities, at the headquarters of the nation's financial activities than he was getting.

Mr. McHugh had not been long in New York before the war imposed upon him more than as average share of extra tasks and responsibilities. The dislocation of world finance made it imperative that America organize markets to discount enormous bills which formerly had flowed to London from every part of the world. To Mr. McHugh was committed the task of and complicated problem, and he set about organizing the Discount Corporation of New York, of which he became, and still is, president. As chairmanship of the Organization Committee of the Foreign Trade Financing Corporation also fell, naturally on him, and he spent himself without stint in an effort to induce the bankers of America to get together, cooperatively, to facilitate the maintaining and expanding of our international commerce, and, as a corollary, the maintaining and expanding of our business and employment throughout our own country.

And now for some of the homely wisdom this "ordinary" teller has gathered along the pathway of life leading from a humble clerkship to the presidency of one of America's great metropolitan banks with resources exceeding two hundred and fifty million dollars.

"Too many men," says Mr. McHugh, "think too much about securing advancement for themselves, and not enough advancing the interests of their organization. Think first of your organization; and sooner or later your organization will not overlook you. If later, then just have patience and plod along.

"Remember no man can become bigger than his organization. The better and stronger and more prosperous you can make the organization, the better and stronger and more prosperous will become those associated with it.

"In too many concerns, where a very large number are employed, you

Canadian Woman Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Winnipeg, Manitoba.—"I can not say too highly of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was a nervous wreck and I just had to force myself to do my work. Life was a burden. Every work was a burden. Even the sound of my own children irritating me. I do not see how I must scream if they did not get away from me. I could not even speak right to my husband. The doctor said that there would be nothing for me owing to my condition, but told me to expect nervous miscarriages. My husband's grandmother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I started it right away and everyone noticed what a different woman I was in a few weeks. I improved and stopped my doctor and he did not know me. I was as well. I was able to do my work once more and it was a pleasure, not a burden. Now I have a fine bouncing baby to use the Compound was worth. I am able to nurse her and enjoy doing my work. I can not help recommending such a medicine, and anyone seeing me before I took it and now, can see what it does for me. What it has done for me has come condition. I am only too pleased to give you my testimonial."—Mrs. EMILY DAVIS, 721 McGee St., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

find men, especially the young men, trying to shift work to other fellows. That's a mistake.

"My point of view is to get better to reach out and help the other fellow, doing all the work you can. You will find your own work more interesting and valuable and in course of time this will be recognized by those at the top. The quicker it is realized to be situated the easier, willing worker is in line for advancement to still greater responsibilities.

"I have always been a tremendously hard worker. A man, in order to succeed, must be unreasonable—that is because of the glamour of reward but because of the sheer joy derived from doing things well, from achieving things that were difficult to accomplish.

"It is hard to define what goes to make up 'personality.' It might be described as the aggregate of everything a man is and does—the sum total of a man. It is what some people call 'manners'; it is not something superficial; it is not something artificial. It is not something to be 'put on.' It is not seeming; it is being. It is not a shell; it is the very kernel of a man. It is not the polishing of his shoes, his clothes, his manners, his smile. 'Truth,' it has been said, 'is the best policy.' So is personality.

"You sometimes see and hear the expression 'Business is business.' It is a foolish saying. It is misleading. It suggests that business considerations justify things otherwise not justifiable. That is not truthfully so. I have never known a single instance when it has been necessary to be unfair to any of my fellow men or to do anything in the slightest degree unmoral. It is poor policy to try to get, by any trick or device, what I am entitled to as a result of my work. That applies to members of a working force as well as to men established in business.

"So many men want to jump into high positions without going through the full measure of toil and sweat. That is the secret is not the opportunity for greater usefulness that the high position would bring. They covet the title, the salary, the power, the something clear through to the bottom, what is there in so-called 'fame' that is worth while? It is not worth much. Useful achievement is the real thing to strive for, the thing eternally worth while.

"To have and to merit the appreciation of your associates and the good will of those with whom you deal is a compliment worth striving for. And, incidentally, the possession of such appreciation and good will is the best pathway to advancement toward wider responsibilities and wider usefulness.

"Above all, a man must be loyal to his organization. If a man is not loyal, no employer, even if he is a fool, wants him. And rightly so. Loyalty must be one hundred per cent. There's no room for mixing it with one grain of disloyalty. It must be undiluted.

"What does loyalty demand? Any man's conscience can and will and does tell him that. Happily, being loyal to the organization is the surest way to be loyal to himself, and to everything that is fair and honest and decent.

"If any man finds himself in a business where he cannot exercise those ordinary elemental qualities, he should get out at the earliest moment the better. To win you must play fair—but play with all the strength at your command, and you have, and keep on playing that way."

MUSIC and DRAMA

DOUBTFUL IF HISTORY HELD AN INCIDENT PARALLEL TO THIS "ACT OF A CRAZED MOB"

It is doubtful if in all history there is a parallel incident to the storming of the Bastille in the depth of its meaning to a people and all that it stands for as the beginning of a revolt so complete as was the French revolution. In point of fact, it was the attacking of a fortified prison by a capricious mob who sought to destroy it merely as a figure of speech, as in their eyes, a favored place of confinement for prisoners condemned by the kings of France.

True, it was the first serious act of revolt of the French people of that period. But only a slightly less pathetic among those who stormed the Bastille could see in that act of destruction the beginning of a complete overturn of power. It was the whim of the mob—a desperate and mind-harried mob, to be sure—but a mob. It was the same mob that in their utter ignorance of the true significance of their own acts, a favored place of confinement for prisoners condemned by the kings of France.

Fire Victims

tion of the municipal buildings all valuable records had been destroyed.

Whilst at the scene, the representatives of this journal was approached by a lad of about 12 years and was asked if he was in the livery business. The scribe said, "No," and desired to know why the question was asked. The lad replied: "I lost my pony in the fire and would like someone to give me another." A lady who asked why her family did not leave that section of the country after the fire, replied: "We will rebuild a better place than was destroyed." This was the prevailing spirit of those who, though they lost all, are determined to show they are not discouraged at the catastrophe that has overtaken them. This same spirit is manifested at Haileybury, although it is a rather desolate looking place, but its rehabilitation is only a matter of time. It will rise phantom-like from the ashes, so the people predict.

At Haileybury.

When the party alighted from the train at Haileybury at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, snow was falling in considerable quantities, making the task of inspecting this devastated town anything but pleasant. It was at this town that the fire did its worst. If possible. Previous to the fire it was a rather progressive place and within the bosoms of the town were erected not only some up-to-date residences but many substantial buildings which would have been a credit to any municipality, even in Old Ontario. The fiery element, however, had no respect for any building and in its onward march of destruction leaped from house to house and from house or barn to other buildings such as a church or block, and soon the greater part of the town was one inferno. Had it not been for the fact that there was a change in the wind whilst the fire was at its height it is questionable if a building would have been saved.

To an observer sight-seer it was apparent that some of the buildings had been rather massive in their construction. This was especially the case of the Sisters of Providence Hospital, of which nothing remains of the former beautiful stone three-storey building but blackened walls. The Roman Catholic church was also a commodious stone structure and it too fell a prey to the devouring element. The Methodist church was a fine brick building, centrally located, and its destruction was complete, as was also the court house, situated upon the same street. On every hand nothing but desolation was to be seen.

The optimistic spirit of the inhabitants of the town was of such a nature that it seemed almost incredible of belief. There were those who had lost their all, yet they stood in close proximity of what was their former home and with a smiling countenance said, "We will help to build an even better Haileybury." This was not only the spirit of the citizens of that town, but it was universal over the fire stricken area.

To say the least the visitors were awed at the destruction which had been wrought at this place. The party were conducted to a new frame building which had been erected near the dock and which was being used as a relief station. Here were to be seen large quantities of clothing which had been sent in, also boots and even food. The giving out of relief to the sufferers is so systematized that there is no friction whatever. This is under the supervision of the Red Cross and every detail is looked after most carefully.

It was at this relief station that the members of the party were addressed by Premier Drury, who outlined the policy the Government intended to pursue in the way of helping those who had lost their all. He stated that everything possible would be done to assist the people of the fire stricken area. Their courage under the conditions surrounding them was most wonderful and they were not downhearted. They were not asking or begging for charity. Just give them a leg up and they will again get in the saddle. There is great room for the residents of Old Ontario to render assistance. It was the intention of the Government to take care, for three years, of $150,000 debentures of the town to rebuild and equip the schools, the insurance received being turned over to the Government. Buildings of such as the court house, etc., will be restored. "We have every reason to believe that Haileybury will again be rebuilt and become an even greater and better town." (A lady's voice: "Let's bet it will!")

Premier Drury continued: said the Government was not doing for Haileybury what it would do for other places which might be visited by a fire such as this place had been visited with. It was necessary to have a large sum of money to raise for assistance to those who had lost their all. It would not be a question of tax, but municipalities would be given power to legislate in regard to calling the necessary loans for.

Mayor Copley of Hamilton thought the Government should decide upon the tax to be imposed.

Premier Drury: "A Government tax is not desirable." He was not in favor of the Government taking the responsibility in this matter, out of the hands of the people.

Mr. Thomas Magladery, M.P.P. for Temiskaming, was rather in favor of the Government taking hold of the matter. If left to the people it would mean that those who are generous would have to be still more generous. He had no objection to the Government making a levy.

Mayor Bethune of Ottawa favored some definite assessment being made and then all municipalities would have to contribute.

Mayor Houston of Collingwood said help was needed badly and Old Ontario would help itself if it helped Haileybury and the other sections of the country which have been burned over. A direct tax he was not in favor of.

Mr. Alderslot and Mr. J. A. Young, members of the relief committee, explained explicitly what had been done and what was being done to relieve those who needed assistance.

Premier Drury in thanking the Mayor and residents of Haileybury, heartily cheers were given for the Mayor and residents of Haileybury.

LOW PRICED AUTOS FEATURE OF LONDON SHOW

London, Nov. 19.—The motor exhibition which opened here this week is the largest ever held in the British Isles or the Continent. Not only is every make of car manufactured in England exhibited, but the foremost makes of the United States, France, Italy and Belgium also are on view.

Space for the exhibit was sold cost several weeks ago and to most exhibitors the amount space was obtained which was, however, not sufficient.

The feature of the show is the especially designed bodies for all classes of cars, from the famous workshops of the trade.

The exhibit is drawing larger crowds than usual owing to the reduction in the purchase prices of cars and gasoline, and the appearance of many medium priced cars on the market.

He laughs at cars who never tried to pass another car at a curve.

REPORT OF FARM CONDITIONS

Ontario Department of Agriculture Summary of Reports up to Nov. 20

The following is a summiry of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:—

The unusually open fall weather has enabled farmers to plow a larger acreage than ordinarily, and they also cut much more general farm work than usual. This, with the generous supply of fodder on hand, has to some extent offset the discouragement caused by decreased prices for farm products.

Fall wheat on the whole is looking well, although some reports of injury by Hessian fly is reported, the most serious reports coming from Middlesex and the southern townships of Huron.

Kent says that but very little of this year's corn has yet been marketed. Corn on the cob is selling at 65c a cwt.

The threshing of beans is still under way. Elgin reports the yield at 20 bushels to the acre, and the quality. Prices in that county and in Kent are around $2 a bushel.

Most of the farmers in Huron will clean out all their turnips rather than take the offers of 6c to 10c a bushel that are being offered by shippers.

Kenora reports that shake is yielding about nine bushels of seed to the acre, and is a first-class sample. Red clover is not so good in quality, and is yielding only about four bushels an acre, owing to a touch of frost in June.

Ontario farmers have had the old time community spirit. The Lambton representative says: "I noticed on Thursday morning a ploughing match at which there were nineteen teams plowing on the one farm. The man on whose farm the two held had been ill for some time."

Frontenac states that the marketing of live stock is made up chiefly of lambs, hogs, cauners and store cattle.

Hogs are getting more attention than for a year or two. Brood sows of bacon type are showing good values and little pigs are selling in Peel for from $10 to $11 a pair, and in Lennox & Addington at from $10 to $18 a pair.

"According to Mr. Garni Barbour, of Ingersoll, 80% of the hogs marketed from Port Elgin recently would have commanded selects had they been marketed earlier. As they were graded 40% selects, the balance were thick smooths and the real heavies."

Waterloo reports "During the past two weeks a large number of feeders have been put in the stables of this County. Probably more feeding cattle have been put in this year than for some years back."

Huron claims that more cattle are going into that County than are being sent out.

York states: "Holstein cows and heifers which had been purchased on an average of $300 two or three years ago are bringing $100 apiece. These cows were of a good type and had good records. A seven year old Clydesdale mare sold for $130. A team of good working horses in good condition sold for $85.

Grey says: "One feeder and drover whom I visited recently had 22 head of cattle, none of which weight less than 1000 lbs., and all of them less than two years of age. He feeds the best feed stock himself. Others purchased an average of a few experimental feeders.

It is an object lesson in the value of the use of pure bred sires.

Wellington reports: "Sheep raisers are being well satisfied as a rule with the returns from sales through the Co-operative Wool Growers Organization. Some prices were 18c to 20c a lb for wool, compared with from 11c to 14c offered by others.

Leeds points out that a number of farmers are making from $11 to $15 per day running stone on the Provincial roads and are tempted to let farm work slide while prices are so low for farm products.

BOMBAY BOY'S ESSAY ON THE HORSE

The horse is a very noble quadruped, but when he is angry he will not do so. He is ridden on the spinal cord by his ankles and sadly the driver places his boots on the stirrup and ankles in the flanks across the saddle, and drives his animal to the meadow.

The horse a long mouth and his head is attached to the trunk by a long protuberance called the neck. He has four legs; two are in front side and two are afterwards. These are the weapons on which he runs. The horse defends himself by extending these in the rear in a parallel direction towards his foe, but this he does rarely when in a vexatious mood.

His feeling is generally grasses and grains. He is also useful to take on his back a man or woman as well as some cargo. He has power to run as fast as he could. He has got blowy at night time, and sleeps standing; awaken.

Also there are horses of short stock. They do the same as the others are generally doing. There is no animal like the horse; no sooner they see the parades or master they always crying for feeding, but it is always at the morning time. They have got tail like the dog long as the cow or other such animals.

GOODNESS!

A Londoner, just back from a visit to Aberdeen, was asked if he had enjoyed himself. "Enjoy hold, I'll replied. "Cold? I should say so. First night there; in a candle; jumped out; tried to blow out the candle; couldn't do it; flamp frozen; had to break it off!"

THE EQUITY IN THE U.S. WAR DEBTS

At the University Club in New York City a few days ago, Mr. T. B. Macaulay, the President of the Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, stated that if the question of the debts owed by the Allies to the United States were referred to an independent commission it would undoubtedly be declared that these debts would have "no basis in equity".

Thereupon the Buffalo Courier comes back with the statement, that these debts will have to be paid by somebody; that it is not fair that they should be shouldered on the United States taxpayers, and that they should be paid by the borrowers. For some reason or another the question raised by Mr. Macaulay is not mentioned or considered by the Courier. This "equity" does not seem to concern the Courier.

(Mr. Macaulay's point is that the debts were incurred in a common cause, which the United States espoused; that the Allies were fighting the battles of the United States during that long period that the United States were preparing to take an active part in the war; that the debts were incurred for munitions of war, the production of which kept hundreds of thousands of United States workmen busy; and therefore in equity the United States should not press for payment of these debts.

There is at least enough in his argument to make it worth serious discussion. It might be added that many eminent American economists and financiers think Mr. Macaulay's argument is sound.

THE PRICE OF WHEAT

It is quite likely that the speculative possibilities in the Western wheat markets may have something to do with Hon. Mr. Crerar's recent retirement from the leadership of the Progressive party. A membership in the Winnipeg Board of Trade may be of some assistance in financial operations, but when an individual endeavors to "corner" the market by "spreading" wheat between Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg wheat pits, a tremendous amount of capital with unlimited courage and self confidence is necessary.

Lamont once tried it. Politics no doubt, in time afford similar opportunities for statesmanship, but the wheat market is sometimes favored by those who consider financial gain in relatively shorter periods, of more import. It should be noted that the wheat market is showing steady advances in price, both at Winnipeg and Chicago. What particular conditions warrant this steady movement—no doubt they exist—but we should be careful enough to try and enumerate all of these reasons. Better car supply, greater absorption by the millers, deliveries of much larger quantities than last year by the farmers to the elevators, reduction of stocks by the elevators, superior movement to the seaboard, the weather and navigation facilities, etc., all tend to be reflected in the price of wheat—but these are not the only elements that cause price increase.

The turnover of the wheat pits and the names of the individuals and combinations of speculators represented in the transactions should not be lost in the shuffle: when the cards are finally dealt and the draw is made, some of them may have full hands, those, who in the meantime have been hiding behind their bushels—the farmers will be cognizant of the ways and wherefores of the inflated prices of wheat and its products and may eventually discover in the ultimate crumble that is bound to occur after the screws have been applied, that the engineering and manipulation which took place was inaugurated and planned within their own ranks. Everything will be lovely if those interested take to the tall timbers in time but if not—watch the fireworks anyway—They will be lighted one of these days.

Toronto, Nov. 16. — Fane Sewell.

PASSING COMMENT

The millennium must be near at hand. A prohibitionist headed the poll in Dundee.

Another good way to make it rain is to have the car washed and polished just before starting on a trip.

If Canadian wheat is banned from the United States because of transportation difficulties, the obvious thing to do is to place an embargo against the export of United States grain through Canadian ports. It would be a sorry business on both sides of the border.

Admiral Sims says one thing with which we can't agree. He says warfare with poison gas is humane. We will leave it to the troops whether any warfare which requires the carrying of a gas mask, and constant practice in putting it on is humane at all. Thousands will rise to say that it was a beastly stupid bother at times.

HERE AND THERE

MODERN METHODS OF SAVING WASTE.

Canadian pioneers were confronted with such an apparently illimitable supply of natural resources that it was necessary to destroy a lot of potential wealth in order to work the land. Millions of feet of magnificent timber that would be worth today many times the value of the land was deliberately destroyed in order to obtain a clearing. Those early days might well be described as the era of waste.

Nature lavished her bounty on this fair country, and in spite of ruthless squandering, extravagance and prodigality it is still a land of plenty for which Canadians generall and the stranger within the gates have every reason to give thanks.

But the age of waste is over. The secret of success today is elimination of waste, and it is manifest in every department of trade and commerce. In many instances the difference between profit and loss today is the recents derived from the by-product which a few years ago was a liability to the extent of the cost of removing so much rubbish. Sawmills no longer construct burners to destroy sawdust, which can be converted into wood alcohol, and fagends of lumber, which can be used for making matches and small boxes.

At one time the railways expended thousands of dollars in rebuying track which had become unsafe owing to the pounding on the rail at the joints, where a space must be left to allow for expansion and contraction.

It has now been discovered that rails laid tandem in as and wear more slowly as they become older. By taking up the old rails and sawing off the bad ends, instead of laying new rails, an actual saving of more than half a million dollars is effected on every 500 miles of track. In addition, a smoother road is provided than can be secur ed with brand new rails.

THE ROAD TO SUCCESS

Much is gained by unity in views and co-operation in work among the members of a family. That man is fortunate whose wife and children are interested in farm work and strive to be factors in making farming profitable and pleasant.

The ideal is a division of labor where every member takes a pride in doing his part well, and when possible, relieving others. This is the sentiment that should permeate the farm home.

We should regard our farming operations as a partnership where each member of the family helps produce and market and all share in the profits from the labor. We will find that our children will take a pride in helping under such conditions.

Children can be taught to do farm work successfully. They can be encouraged to like farm life and take an interest in its environment. And parents who neglect this are neglecting the fundamental principles of the road to success.

CACTUS AS FODDER

In those parts of the country where, in the neighborhood of sugar factories, wide areas of land overgrown with cactus are available, the slicing machine and the pulp drier at the sugar works may be used for converting the cactus into a fodder.

The cactus is exposed to a torch to burn the thorns away and then passed to the slicing machine with specially formed knives. These slices are then dried, and if desired they may be ground to a coarse powder. During the slicing part of the juice is pressed out and may be collected separately. It can be converted to a substitute of gum arabic, which is probably a salt of the meta-arabic acid. The yield of dry material is about 11 per cent. of the raw cactus, according to the Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

THE FUNCTION OF THE FOREST.

The preservation and enlargement of the forests form the very basis of the whole conservation movement. Forests add to the fertility of the soil by returning to it more than they take out; they protect the headwaters of our streams and rivers, regulate the run-off, furnish cover for the wild life of the country and last, but by no means least, promote industrial welfare through the production of lumber.

The time has come when it is going to pay in dollars and cents to grow trees. When foresters can demonstrate to the paper manufacturer that he can afford to grow pulpwood, we are going to see the same scientific attention to forestry that we have seen in the turn to better banking methods and better methods of manufacture.

MEMORY

Have we forgot so soon
What surely was but yesterday?
Seems it so long
That we, not strong,
Must lose the links of memory?

Each year has seemed a span,
Lingering as just yesterday,
And yet we feel
As the hours sled
'Twas not so deep a memory.

To-day, to-morrow, years,
Pursue a fleeting yesterday;
As we grow old
The links unfold
Discovering sweet memory!

PRESS OPINIONS

WHY MR. BONAR LAW WON

Montreal Herald.
(Liberal.)

The main reason for the return to power of the Conservative Party in Great Britain is a desire to stop shooting off fireworks and get back to business. If we combine this with utter disgust at the complete failure of foreign policy, nothing further is needed to explain the insurgent wave that swept the electorate into the Conservative camp. The opposition of Britain encouraging the Greeks against the Turk and her silly France encouraging the Turks against those Greeks, causing a disruption of the Entente, was the last and most disastrous of many scandals in foreign affairs. The people did not need to be told that a dreadful mistake had been made somewhere and agreed with Lord Grey that a change in British foreign policy was urgently needed.

Mr. Bonar Law's appeal for tranquility was irresistible. "The cry-ing need of the nation" he declared in his Glasgow manifesto, "is that we should have tranquility and stability both at home and abroad, so that free scope should be given to the initiative and enterprise of our citizens, for it is in that way, far more than by any action of the Government, that we can hope to recover from the economic and social ills of the war." This declaration appealed to the common sense and business instinct of the British people. Mr. Bonar Law is the plain speech of a straightforward man.

There can be no question that the new Prime Minister has the confidence of the serious Britisher by his quiet assurance of a return to constitutional methods and a desire for retrenchment, after an era of extravagance characterized by Lord Rotherme as "the most reckless that have ever known." Add to Mr. Bonar Law's personal qualities, which are to be found in resolute those of his beloved "C. B.", the fact that he is trusted by everybody and we get abundant reasons for his success at the polls.

BRITAIN AT THE STRAITS.

(Toronto Globe.)

Allied terms to the Turkish Nationalists have been accepted. Under them the Turk returns to Europe. The Crescent permanently replaces the Cross in Constantinople; the dream of a Grecian Empire in Asia Minor vanishes into mist. Only the neutrality of the Straits brightens a sombre settlement. There are to remain free to the ships of all the world.

Tragic as is the ending, far as it may be from the fulfillment of the dream, it might have been more desperate. Today, indeed, the world may well ponder the fortunate fact that British troops stood upon the banks of the Dardanelles and halted the march of the Turk, where stood Britain's fleet and army, when given by a writer in the New York Times:

England, let them accuse you as they dare,
Charge that your helm Expediency steers,
To make you come off best, through all the years,
And aye your sails with winds Favonian fill;
But, when all this is said, record it still:
On dancers bound, with front defying and eyes,
England is there! And with or without fears,
She stands the red blood from her veins to spill!
So, at this moment, men behold her stand,
The hope-forlorn of bleeding Christendom,
Oh, ready too, again that cup to taste
Which at Gallipoli was mixed with tears . . .
Let voices in reproach awhile be dumb,
Or say, The Virtue of her faults inheres!

FATHER'S PLEA NOT GRANTED

Chicago, Nov. 21.—A father's plea that his brain-dead deformed baby girl be scientifically put to death was denied by physicians today.

"The child, normal mentally, has shorter arms nor legs. The father, James C. Lehmen, begged that she "be allowed not to live," according to surgeons.

The case of Baby Ballinger, scientifically allowed to die seven years ago, after the late Dr. Harry Haisel, attending physician, refused to perform a simple operation that would have saved the child's life, was recalled.

Baby Lehrazus was born on Saturday, Dr. Benjamin H. Brenkstone attending. Dr. Brenkstone called a consultation with his colleagues, Doctors Manges and Brunnicelle, ruled against the father's appeal.

THE CATHOLIC FELLOWSHIP
The Catholic Fellowship owes its existence to a group of men in Toronto who, in conference, have been led to feel that a catholic-minded co-operative fellowship might make an enduring contribution in the direction of Christian Unity, and accomplish positive results.
Members of different communions, they have nevertheless certain convictions in common, which they have endeavoured to express in the basis below. Belief in the necessity of the Church and in its redemptive character as the Body of Christ is essentially fundamental. But the Church's career has been disturbed by sin, intolerance and division, and for generations various groups of Christians have developed their own peculiar polity and devotional life. Out of the total experience, what is really worth preserving? What has God to give to the west, and the new to the old? Are Catholic tradition and freedom of thought in essential opposing? How can we be at once true to the Faith and true to knowledge?
The confession of faith in "the grace of Sacraments, the sacrificial significance of worship, the necessity of expression and its visible forms, and the value of appeal through the senses of the soul," indicates the standpoint of the Fellowship in regard to the forms and ceremonies of the Church. By "the sacrificial significance of worship" is meant the identification of the faithful in worship with the sacrificial life and death of the Saviour. It is a way of saying, that Christian worship is very much more than the hearing of sermons and listening to prayers and singing of hymns. Its supreme intention is seen in the corporate act of penitence, adoration and consecration in the Holy Communion.
Drawn together by this common point of view, and by the vision of a truly Catholic and united Church, the members of the Catholic Fellowship hope to discover a way out of the present ecclesiastical impasse.
At all events, laying aside denominational prejudice, and trying sympathetically and with good will to understand one another's religious experience and needs, they are undertaking this adventure of faith in the name of Christ, and in the confidence that the movement will commend itself to Christian people.

BASIS
"Affirming our belief in the Holy Catholic Church as the Body of Christ and the organ by which He is redeeming the world, and desirous of realizing the fullness of the Catholic heritage, we would explore and appropriate all that is essential and helpful to life, faith, worship and order, in the experience of the whole Church, endeavouring to combine Christian faith with freedom significance of worship, the necessity of expression and its visible forms, and the value of appeal through the senses to the soul."

To be obtained from the Rev. Richard Davidson, D.D., of Knox College, Toronto. The Honorary Secretary is the Rev. Arthur E. Hetherington, Ontario. The members of the Council are the Rev. F. J. Moore, M. A., St. James' Cathedral, Toronto; the Rev. James Little, B.A., Westminster Church, Toronto; the Rev. H. G. Hincks, B. D., St. Mary Magdalene's Church, Toronto, the Rev. Prof. J. H. Michael, M.A., Victoria College, and the Rev. Hugh Matheson, L.L.B., Knox College, Toronto. All Christian people who are in sympathy with the views and objects of the Fellowship are invited to communicate with the Secretary, who will be glad to give further information.

Editors Note: If any one has a criticism, or criticism to make, the fellowship would be glad to have it also mailed to Rev. W. H. Hall, Richmond Hill, Ontario, as well as a copy to the Intelligencer.

BOTH IN THE ANANIAS CLASS

Lloyd George occasionally tells this one on himself: Some years ago he was announced to speak in a Welsh village. Bishop who had the week before expressed some rather unpopular views regarding Welsh disestablishment. The Chairman was a deacon of strong convictions, but by no means eloquent. Introducing his brother Welshman he said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I have great pleasure in introducing to you a gentleman of distinction, the Honorable Lloyd George, who has come to reply to the remarks the Bishop of St. Asaph made in this hall last week. In my opinion the Bishop is one of the greatest liars in creation, but thank heaven—I say, thank heaven!—we have his match here tonight."

PREPAREDNESS

A tall, gaunt-looking man rushed into the grocery shop in a New York State village.

"Sell me all the stale eggs you have," he demanded.

"Well, I don't usually sell stale eggs," said the grocer, "but I could let you have some if you insist."

"I must have all you've got."

"I suppose you're going to set 'Hamlet' at the village hall tonight," said the grocer knowingly.

"Hush!" said the stranger, glancing around. "Not so loud. I am Hamlet."—New York Evening Mail.

THE LOST GARDEN

By Elizabeth Roberts MacDonald.

When twilight merges her wings across
The garden
Where dearest memories dwell,
Then every path remains a vanished
Gladness,
Where deep shall words not tell—
When we return footsore, we who wandered
Among those scattered years,
And live in retrospection all the richness
Of unforgotten days.

Low voices breathe among the purple shadows;
Light footsteps stir the grass;
Between the yellow lilies and the lilacs
Bright wraiths of memory pass;
O lost, green garden, we, who once have loved you,
With laughter and with tears,
Go back in dream to your forsaken
Shadows
Through all the winding years!

LIP STICKS—A NEW USE

A. G. WALKLEY, IN THE LONDON TIMES

With my own eyes, I saw a lady the other day at a restaurant table prying her lip-stick as frequently—as her knife and fork. Oh, I forgot, she was also smoking a cigarette. To keep those four articles in perpetual motion was a feat that reminded you of Cinquevalli. Then came the moment for dessert and coffee, and there after the lip-stick had the field all to itself. With a little hand-mirror, to speak by the card. The lady used it as the advocate in the "Spectator" used "the thread of his discourse," punctuating with it her remarks to her glissaf (who, wonderful man, never lacked a hair), and giving a complacent little dab in the corner of the mouth when she made (as I suppose) a particularly neat point. Here I noticed was a new use for the lipstick. In fact become something between a barber's wand and a chairman's mallet, capable at once of driving an argument home and calling you to order.

But conversation cannot do on indefinitely. Arguments have not, after all, perpetual flow. Words are vanity. And so it is not at that table. The pair fall to emulating the lip-stick went on to exhibit its versatility. Its use as a drumstick, its air, describing graceful curvilinears, and now and then a delightful "short" with a jerk. As you may imagine, the lady's face was by the time a hard, pale mask, with a scarlet gash in it—like the ladies' faces "At a Menagerie," in that delicious little Venetian picture in the National Gallery. Evidently, for this damned the nice conduct of the lipstick had become what smoking is for men or dabbling for boys, an automatic habit.

What struck at last one onlooker was the unabashed publicity of the whole affair. Women used to "make up" in private, in their dressing-rooms or in the drawing-room, before the gentlemen had left their wine—somewhere, at any rate, behind the scenes. Now they powder their noses and redden their lips with a flaunting publicity in the street, on the top of the 'bus at the restaurant, in the theatre, everywhere. No smaller man objects to what, after all, is a real mark of confidence. It is as much as to say, "We women know that you men know that we make up; why then affect any longer to make a secret of it? Let us play the game above board; come and see us at it." Let us hear, then, no more of the mystery of the Bona Dea. Call them, rather, publicities.

REX HAS GREAT COMEDY IN "AND SHE TURNED UP"

"And She Turned Up", the three act comedy being presented by the Rex Stock Company at Griffin's tonight has certainly lived up to its advance notices of being a guaranteed scream, large audiences have witnessed the comedy on Monday and Tuesday night and are a unit in declaring it to be the funniest comedy vehicle Rex has served to us this season. If you are looking for a tonic for that jaded fall feeling our advice is to hit-the-trail for Griffin's tonight, and sit in on this highly amusing comedy, which features Bill Yule, Hazel Williams and Howard Brown. The vaudville specialties are introduced between sets by Brown and Brown, and Bill Yule, and serve to break the waits between acts.

LINKED LIVES

By

D. Kinmount Roy

The hush of evening had fallen upon hill and stream, and nature had paused to sleep, perchance to dream? Miss Jones, aged an old tune under his breath, as he considered the situation. A tall pine, shooting up at a height of sixty or seventy feet, grew near by. Donald glanced at it, and at the boy. Can you climb, laddie?" he asked, pointing at the tree, towering majestically, like a Corinthian column. "Climb! Sandy echoed, scornfully. "See!"—and the boy was in the branches with the agility of a monkey. True, he had often been admonished for risking his neck in such seductive enterprises, but now his father bade him climb; and Sandy meant to show some of his terafft to so fine an audience as his father, just for once.

"Do you see aught, laddie?" Donald called, as Sandy issued from the heart of the tree, and stood among the perfect branches. "Aye" was the laconic reply of Sandy, whose heart was much more in the climbing than in the seeing. Hasten to the squirrels, father," Sandy called down, "they are scolding most fearful; they dinna ken me, sae far free hame."

"Never mind the squirrels noo laddie, but look to the right along the road, there is a sharp turn far ahead. Do you see aught now, laddie?"

"Yes, father, I see a carriage and two horses, and two more horses, and two men, and——"

"That will do now laddie, come down, Sandy my man, and help father."

Sandy was soon down, and helped his father to drag some heavy branches of a dead tree across the road, at a point where the obstruction would be concealed until a carriage would be close upon it.

Then MacAlpin, with cheery confidence, the burden being at last lifted from his heart and the memory of his action at hand, said, touching the boy's cheek playfully with his fingers, "Jim Sandy laddie, and keep him company for awhile. I am expecting Alan Graham and two or three mair.

Donald was almost light-hearted, the cloud had in a measure passed, for Sandy had redeemed his error, and Oona might yet be saved.

The old soldier had not kept tryst, and now that the crisis had come, Donald remembered that he was absolutely without a weapon, and what the odds might be, he could not tell. Still, he told himself, he must face the situation, at all cost, nothing doubting. He sat down under the shelter of the tree where he could see without being seen. The minutes seemed hours while he waited, but he had no misgivings as to the result. If ever the protection of Heaven was granted to mortal man, MacAlpin thought he was justified in claiming it then; and something about one chasing a thousand, and two putting ten thousand to rout, kept up a constant rhythm in his brain.

The ascent was steep, and the creaking of the harness and the panting of the horses was the first intimation that they were at hand. Kinkman's voice broke the silence, he had evidently been comparing the forests he had seen abroad with the bit of woodland they were passing through.

The sound of his voice brought MacAlpin to his feet so abruptly that several stones were dislodged and rolled down among the carriage wheels. But Kinkman was just then far too much occupied with his own discomfort to notice anything outside his own thoughts.

A moment later, the carriage came to a standstill, and the leaders, growing restive, turned back upon the wheelers in spite of all the postilion could do.

The situation was far from desirable for Kinkman's plans, for on one side was a deep ditch with a bank some fifteen or twenty feet, and on the other a rocky precipice overhanging a swift stream, full fifty feet below.

The confusion was as complete as MacAlpin could wish, and the position of the horses such that Kinkman, who was on the box, and Heathfield, who was in the carriage could not for the moment reach the ground.

Donald had therefore time to open the carriage door on the free side, and Oona, with dishevelled hair and tear-stained face, was out before Kinkman and his party seemed to realize what had happened. Heathfield was the first to patriotic himself from the confusion, and fully possessed of the idea that Mac-Alpin represented the danger which Kinkman had said threatened the lady's life, he flew at him in a transport of

The Short Story Jr.

THE SOLEMN CLOWN

"I'm tired of being funny," complained the clown in the circus. I hate going around grinning all day long. I'm tired of cracking silly jokes and talking nonsense from morning to night. It's disgusting the way people laugh at my old jokes. I hate being a clown. I'd like to be nice and serious for a day. Why not?", he cried. "I believe I will. I probably will lose my job, but I half don't I will. It's no fun being funny all day long, anyway.

"But I'll have to paint my face and put on my clown suit just the same," he thought. "The kiddies will all be disappointed if I don't appear."

That afternoon as the clown walked out into the tent he smiled at no one. He was tired of grinning. He felt a tug at his sleeve and turned to see a small boy smiling up at him. "Hello, Mr. Clown," he said.

The clown solemnly shook his hand. "How do you do, kiddie," he replied.

"Oh, ain't he funny, Mama!" cried the little fellow, laughing. The clown was puzzled. He hadn't been funny at all, but the little boy and his mother both joked at him and laughed.

He was disgusted. He wanted to talk seriously. Walking up to a group of business men he said, "I beg your pardon, but what do you think of the cost situation?"

"Ho! Ho! Ho!" The men slapped him on the back and laughed. "Ho! Ho! Ha! That's good."

The clown was more puzzled than ever. He drew himself up proudly and strode off in disgust. All day long he tried to talk seriously to some one, but no better success. By evening he began to wear a tragic air. Discouraged, he started for his tent when he was met by the manager.

"Bert," said the manager, "you've made a big hit. This new tragic stuff of yours has got 'em going. You keep it up and you'll be the greatest comedian of the day. By Gosher, it's your style. Why didn't you think of it sooner?"

The clown looked hurt. "But I'm not funny," he protested solemnly. "Won't any one take me seriously?"

"Ho Ho!" laughed the manager. "That's great! By George, you're good, Bert."

The clown, scowling, walked away. He was a failure. He pulled the finger-nail of his opponent's warning. Fortunately the weapon snapped without exploding, and the clown's second barrel could be discharged Donald had knocked the pistol out of the young man's hand and had kicked it into the ditch. Instead daunted, Heathfield threw himself upon the Highlander, fierce and frenzied and wholly reckless of his life. MacAlpin recoiled him by the throat, not well knowing what to do, for in truth he had never thought of Heathfield's thought, and was somewhat embarrassed in finding him there at all. Nevertheless, he held him in no gentle grip, and shaking him contemptuously, only murmured to himself: "Yes! Yes! For pity's sake, together at short notice was, as we know, no part of MacAlpin's mental equipment.

A warning cry from Oona caused him to turn his head for a moment, to find Kinkman coming him with a pistol, with a studied carefulness which angered ill for Donald's safety. This act on the part of Kinkman was well-nigh fatal to his son, for MacAlpin hastily threw the young man from him with such force that he rolled under the horses, causing them to plunge and rear, mauling the well-night unconscious artist under their iron hoofs.

After taking 1000 ZUTOO TABLETS Says they are Harmless

Mrs. (Dr.) Shortleff, of Castlecoit, says "I must have taken 1000 Zutoo Tablets. After trying every remedy within reach, I discarded them all four years ago for ZUTOO, which I have taken ever since. I find the tablets a harmless and efficient remedy for all kinds of headaches."

Model Aeroplane Building

How to Make the Wings

(This is one of eight lessons which will tell how any boy can make a complete model aeroplane which will fly under its own power. Warren DeLancey, writer of the articles, was formerly president of the Illinois Model Aero Club, a group of boys who build and fly their own models and who hold nine of the ten world's records for model aeroplane flying. Clip these articles until you have the complete set, including the directions for flying your machine.)

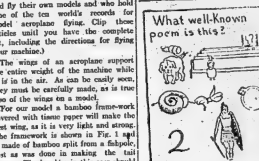

The wings of an aeroplane support the entire weight of the machine while it is in the air. As can be easily seen, they must be carefully made, as is true also of the wings on a model.

For our model a bamboo frame-work covered with tissue paper will make the best wing, as it is very light and strong. The framework is shown in Fig. 1 and is made of bamboo split from a fishpole, just as was done in making the tail plance. The bamboo in this case should be split and scraped until it is a little larger than the big end of a toothpick and should be twice as wide as it is thick.

Seven pieces of bamboo are needed for the main wing. Two of these are fourteen inches long, and the other five are each two inches long. Do not split the bamboo through a knot or joint. If a piece must be found fourteen inches between the joints, join two seven-inch pieces together by overlapping a quarter of an inch, shaving, and binding with silk thread. The five short pieces two inches long serve as ribs and are spaced evenly, as shown in Fig. 1. One is bound to each end, one in the middle and one halfway between the middle and each end on either side. Make all bindings with silk thread and glue.

In Fig. 2 a front view of the wing is shown. It will be noticed that it has a slight "V" shape and that the right hand side has more angle than the left. It is made in this position by steaming over a kettle and bending slowly to the proper shape. This "V" shape is called "dihedral" on a large aeroplane, and keeps the machine from turning over sideways while in the air.

QUEENS V. ARGOS ON SATURDAY

Will Thomas and Batstone Stop Conacher in the Big Game?

The Queen's football team is getting into harness again and Tuesday afternoon the first real workout this week was held under the guiding eye of Coach Bill Hughes, Monday's workout being confined to limbering up exercises to take some of the remaining soreness out of the players.

It was remarkable the few injuries that the players suffered in the game on Saturday when the harshness of the battle was considered. No man escaped himself and threw himself into every breach that cropped up and all that came of it was a few minor bruises with the exception of "Doc." Campbell's injury, "Chicky" Mundell appeared at the Arena yesterday afternoon and was feeling much recovered and ready for workouts again. Mundell will fill his position as inside wing man along with McKelvey in Toronto on Saturday next. He well deserves the regular berth and showed his ability on Saturday to hold it.

Johnnys Evans has a little cut under the right eye which is also swollen a little but that will be taken care easily. Outside of that Evans is as large as life. The rest of the team are in A 1 condition and ready for the Argos next Saturday though Coach Hughes will give the players plenty of work before they set out in quest of the Intercollegiate title for the Dominion. The players are modestly pleased with their own work and are glad that they made such a showing as they did but they are not boastful of what they can do next Saturday but will go to Toronto determined to win and ready to fight hard and glad that they made such a showing as they did but they are not boastful of what they, can do next Saturday but will go to Toronto determined to win and ready to fight as hard as ever for the game.

It is expected that a game will be arranged for Wednesday afternoon with the R. M. C. Cadets for a practice with Queen's to get them in shape for Saturday. If R. M. C. are willing and anxious to help Queen's, McLeod will replace Doc. Campbell at flying wing. McLeod is a good man and should fill the bill well.

The team will continue to practice Wednesday and Thursday and will leave on Friday at noon for Toronto and there a good rest up on Friday night. There is much speculation over the Argo game and many seem to think that they will have the man who knows whatever Conacher's weakness may be and that man is Batstone, who has met with Conacher for three years. Queen's also has the only man who showed Conacher any "stuff" throughout the season, the sensational outside wing man of the Queen's team. The general feeling is that Queen's can trim the present Dominion champions and it is expected that there will be plenty of Kingston people in sight before Saturday, waiting to be put up on the betting market.\

Eskimos Coming East.

The Edmonton Eskimos have decided to come east to play for the Dominion title and all difficulties over the guarantee question have been settled. Thus if Queen's beat Argos on Saturday they will have another game the following Saturday with the men from the west. The Eskimos will leave Edmonton on Tuesday, November 28th.

Congratulations by letter and telegram have been pouring in on Queen's players, Coach Hughes and members of the Athletic Board ever since Saturday's victory. Many have been received from far and wide while brief congratulations number away up into the hundreds.

An interesting telegram of congratulations was received at Queen's yesterday from graduates who are at present at Harvard University. It reads—"President Alma Mater Society hearty congratulations were extended to the senior football team on their attaining the championship of the Intercollegiate Union.

the University Tuesday afternoon and were quickly bought up. Even before the tickets arrived all the graduates' allotment for Queen's was sold and the demand for bleacher tickets was also very heavy. The interest in the game on Saturday is almost as great as the interest in the game for the Intercollegiate title.

BOBBY EBER LACES MIKE ERTLE

Hamilton, Nov. 21.—Bobby Eber made a good job of the Ertle family The last time out in Hamilton he battled "Kewpie" Ertle, of St. Paul, and last night he handed his brother, Mike Ertle, a good lacing. Eber took no chances and waited in early and kept it up to late. Ertle is a boxer and the Hamilton crack, as usual, took the other tack and was the fighter for the night.

Ertle has a good left and it has speed behind it, but Eber has both right and left and used them most effectively and administered severe punishment. Ertle took it gamely and was always in there for more, meanwhile handing back all he had owned it was not a little. Mike showed better than his brother "Kewpie."

Tiger Smith beat Nate Lewis, of Buffalo. Decorations were over Clinton and Young Mack and McCarthy drew.

G.T.R. BOWLERS TRIM GREENLEAF'S

The G.T.R. bowling five made a strong showing against Greenleaf & Co. quintette last night. The winners had three strong arms in Mills, Weir and Gerow, all of whom rolled over 500. For their less fortunate opponents, Curry made quite a good showing.

Tonight's game will be Hydro vs. Bowlers.

HOCKEY ASSOCIATION DISCUSS RULES

Port Arthur, Nov. 21.—The executive of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association at a meeting here yesterday turned down a proposal to allow a pro. player in one sport to play as an amateur in another. Sheriff Paxton, of Whitby, and W. S. Fry, of Dunnville, representing the O.H.A., opposed the plan, as did C. Robinson, of Winnipeg, representing the Allan Cup trustees. W. M. Van Valkenberg, of Saskatchewan, introducing the motion, declared that the country was flooded with camouflaged pros. under the guise of amateurs.

The motion was ruled out of order and withdrawn.

A resolution was passed by which players going to the United States to play will be barred from the C. A. H. A. for a further year should they return to Canada.

Secretary Fred Marples, of Winnipeg, was appointed a permanent governor of the Board of Governors of the A.A.U. of C., replacing Mr. Noble.

Intermediate hockey teams were made eligible to compete for and hold the Allan Cup.

Owing to special circumstances in the small town of Alberta and British Columbia, the residence rule in these provinces was advanced for this season, from October to October 15. Substitutes in various branch games may number three, but in Allan Cup games only two substitute players will be allowed.

The biggest change in the playing rules made was that which will allow a goalkeeper to go on his knees, lie down in the net, or stop the puck in any way he wishes, the only limitation being that after stopping it he must not throw it.

The Manitoba suggestion to revert to two thirty-minute periods received little favor. Fees from each branch were set at $25 a year.

ANOTHER SET BACK FOR SIKI

Paris, Nov. 21.—Battling Siki's rise to pugilistic fame received another setback to-day when his boxing license was cancelled by the French Boxing Federation. This action reinforced the nine months' suspension which Siki received from the Federation on Nov. 9. When the suspension expires the Senegalese, who has been deported of his title he won from Georges Carpentier, must apply for a new license, which the Federation can refuse. The license was cancelled by a vote of 12 to 2 upon charges of various escapades brought by twenty-five sportsmen. It is said that the Federation is considering further action against Siki.

FOLLOW RUGBY GAMES IN FAR AWAY CHINA

An evidence of the tremendous interest taken in rugby by old graduates of Queen's, is seen in the interest which Dr. Sellery, formerly of China, has displayed in Queen's. All this year Dr. Sellery, who is now professor of Mr. C. E. Taylor of the T. P. Harrison Co., has been following Queen's closely by cable messages of which every Intercollegiate game. He was graduated from Queen's in 1910, and as now practising in Jenshaw, Szechwan, West China, and today Mr. Taylor sent a copy of yesterday's Standard containing the account of the great victory in Montreal to him. It is needless to say that Dr. Sellery will be overjoyed when he reads the way Queen's won from Varsity.—Standard.

IS OUELETTE WITH BELLEVILLE

Lindsay Paper Expresses Belief That He is—Greybird Team of Past Season Badly Broken Up

It looks as if the Lindsay Greybirds will be badly "shot" ere the baseball season for 1923 comes around.

Nevertheless, Lindsay will carry on, Mr. Fan, do not overlook that fact.

Of last season's nine, Bart. Cummins (catcher), has been representing the Globe on the Sidin Department, in Eastern Ontario, and working in the vicinity of Trenol, Belleville and Kingston. Hughie Cummins (third base) his brother, a clever third sack man, a runner and a hitter who was a tower of strength to the Birds last season, has for some months past been working in Trenol, Cleaver, the "Babe" Ruth of the Birds last season, and second string pitcher, is back at Varsity, and although the fans would have to see him in a Lindsay uniform again next season, he is an uncertain quantity. He was probably the best all-round hitter in the Central League last season.

The rest of the boys are still in town, but Dame Rumor has it that Pitcher Jack Ouelette, who has been a tower of strength to the Birds for two seasons past, and was the sensation of the Central League two seasons ago, will locate in Belleville, where he has secured a good position. Jack does not deny the rumor, although he does not absolutely shake his head in the affirmative. Ouelette would be greatly missed on the Lindsay lineup, but at the same time would be a bolstering strength to Belleville. But it is hard to understand why Belleville should want Williams and Guyer, (Lindsay) and Ouelette. Two is plenty, three too many.

Harold Brownscombe, the clever short stop of the Birds, is still working in town, and having taken unto himself a partner for life he has wisdom to make Lindsay his home town. Brownscombe was the "find" of last season's team, a good player, a hooker, courteous and obliging. All the fans want to see "Brownie" in a Greybird uniform next season, but that oldtime person, Dame Rumor, states that he can better his position elsewhere, and that he may even get holding down a job in some other Central League town next summer.

Of the old stand-bys, "Storts" Coombe, "Mooco" Carew, "Bub" Ashton, "Billy McMahon, and "Buster" McMahon, are still in town.

It looks like a new team for Lindsay next season, and if so this scribe, for one, will hold up the club for home blood. The young fry must be brought along and developed.

WILLIE HOPPE REGAINS BALKLINE CROWN

New York, Nov. 21.—Willie Hoppe regained his balkline crown tonight. In a match filled with daring play, in which his gathering shots stood him in good stead, Hoppe made a sensational comeback by defeating Jake Schaefer, winner of the title a year ago at Chicago, by the score of 500 to 283 in the final match of the championship tournament.

Always Like to See Their Deadly Rival, Toronto, Trampled Under Foot

"Hamilton Spectator" received the following letter from the Hamilton student at Queen's University, Kingston, since the big game last Saturday, of course.

It says:—

"Sporting Editor, Hamilton Spectator.

"Dear Sir:—We noted yesterday with surprise that our old friend, Torchdown Mike, had picked Varsity to like Queen's. Please convey our good-natured, but hearty laughter, to the old dear. He carries off the rut stone chest protector!

"In case the Toronto papers should get their grounds slightly (?) garbled again, you might tell them we had a parade and a snake dance, and a bonfire on Princess street; seven picking cases, larger than Varsity's was last week, and Queen's were no mounted police to spoil the party.

"Oh, how glad we are that we stuck to the International limited, as it still through between the Harris shatfoir and the Union station!

Yours Joyfully,

TORONTO HOCKEYISTS HOLD FIRST PRACTICE.

The first hockey practices of the season were held at the Arena yesterday. St. Pat's trotted out before a good-sized gallery of fan athletes with Noble, Dye, Dennenay, Andrews, Stuart, Cameron, Randall, Branch and Toale, at first practice scrap and Scott and Denford, with Aunt Leo Jenlors last winter, and Mullin, of Battleford. They indulged in shinging and a short practice, squad against squad. They had new green and white jerseys and quick and snappy span. Smyllie watched the work from the side lines. McGuire, of Timmins, will be given a trial.

Granites O. H. A. champions were out from 5 to 6 with over twenty players on hand. Dune Jimmo and Frank Sullivan were absentees naturally after Saturday's Rugby exhibition. Ted Reeve, Ogilvie, Cox, Aggett, Watson, Jeffrey, Smith and Renzerli, of last year's seniors, were out, and were dressed. Jim Anderson College goalkeeper; Wright, Slaght and Lamport, of U. U. C. and Drury, of St. Andrew's, Bill Munro is expected later.

Varsity had only newcomers. Mc-Pherson, of the senior team; Swaboy, of R. M. C.; Paxton, Taylor, James, Sutton, Porter, Carefoot, Gibson, Wright, Hodson and Westman were present, but did not put on skates. The problem for Varsity is to fill the shoes of Ramsay and Brown, graduated.

The Belleville juniors went down to defeat before the K. of C. Five in a league fixture last night at Dominion's Alleys, both teams rolling high scores. The Pyrol Dealers got a powerful scare into the Knights in the third and last game when they rolled a very good score but the Knights had piled up a safe lead. C. Dawbon had the high single and Dr. O'Callahan the three string total.

LADIES' DAY GETTING POPULAR

Yesterday was Ladies' Day at Dominion's Alleys and a number took the opportunity to participate in this great indoor sport. In the evening as well as in the after took ladies bowled and some very creditable scores were made.

LIQUOR LAW IS ATTACKED

That Province Declared to be the Stinkhole of Dominion

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 21.—A vigorous attack against the British Columbia Liquor Act was launched at the Temperance Convention here last night by Rev. A. E. Cooke, of Vancouver, president of the British Columbia Prohibition Association, who said the measure had made British Columbia the sink hole of the Dominion, plunged much of the social and moral life in debauchery, was forcing the government deeper and deeper into the mire and made the name of Canada a by-word along the Pacific Coast. He was enthusiastically applauded by the delegates who are organized to fight the campaign referendum in this province.

A battalion of those who could not live a mile from a bone-hole had marched upon Vancouver and were still coming from all quarters, dragging Vancouver down to degradation. Organized fleets of whiskey boats were carrying crime, even murder, down the coasts, and making Canada's name a by-word. Mr. Cooke said, British Columbia was becoming famed as the "Land of the Cocktacrew," where the government stood behind the bars and handed out the liquor to all who had the price. The liquor influence was steadily increasing its grip and instead of the government controlling it, British Columbia, the liquor interests of all Canada were using it as their barricades.

Respectable houses were selling liquor, public dances were becoming open scandals, and young girls were carrying liquor in silver flasks to the fashionable parties. Two rings, forming the biggest gambling ring of the reckies, were doing their utmost to smash the law and were endangering international relationship with the United States by the crime the sink hole it now was."

CANOEIST KILLS MOOSE WITH JACK-KNIFE

Was Watching Fight Between Two Bulls When Both Turned on Him

Uno Park, Timiskaming, Nov. 21.—Davis Duke, a well-known prospector all over the North country, while engaged with his comrades in developing some claims, had occasion to go a few miles down the lake on which they were located; in his canoe, came suddenly in sight of two large bull moose engaged in combat.

Duke paddled in quite close to see the scrap and knowing the moose calls he sounded the usual coaxing grunt challenge to see what the effect would be. To his consternation both warriors turned in rage and charged through the shallow water for the canoe. Being unarmed Duke dug for open water with all speed. One of the bulls immediately gave up the chase and returned to the shore, but the other came driving on bent on the destruction of the intruder.

When almost overtaken, the canoeist managed to seize the moose by the hair over the hips and hung on with long life over the bush. With a mad plunging, Duke thought of his jackknife. Opening it with his teeth and hanging on with the other hand he plunged the full length into the animal's back several times, finally ejecting directly with the force regarding the brute paralyzed. Its intercostals were brought from raging to one the fallen monarch to the shore.

RUPTURE RELIEF

Appliance Expert Coming.

Rupture is not a tear but a distension of the membrane, developing into a swelling in the groin, therefore subject to retention. No need to suffer another day, correct retaining with solid comfort will relieve you at once and absorb tissue benefit. So says Chas. W. Egan, Medical Appliance, 1051 College St., Toronto, who will visit Belleville at Quinte House, Monday afternoon and night, Tuesday all day and night, 29 days only. Hours 2 P.M.—Portion, Globe Hotel, Belleville.

Mr. Egan's new series of anatomical "Exeryt" appliances, (not trusses as now used and approved) are modern's new method. They work with the hand, permit free circulation, allow nature to close the opening in the right time, need no belt and can be prepared to measure (Men, Women, Children, Infants) for all conditions, before and after operations. The continuous dependability of these new surgical appliances, is not a matter of experiment with the result of constant use, ethical and scientific development and are effective better retention, than old-fashioned trusses. Mr. Egan has been Canada-wide introducing your inspection. If interested, now is the time to make yourself comfortable for your work, so don't fail to call and learn a free demonstration of supplies right here and of your own suitable style, in full confidence that it is the most effective and best in the world for you. You will also find a large and many in the end, as there is bright hope for you, no matter how long you have suffered from trusses. It costs you nothing to investigate the right brand for better service, viz., "Made in Canada." Some dealers tell either to send for now to be interested, ask at hotel office for Mr. Egan's private reception room. Tear this out now as a reminder.

FARM DWELLING BURNED

Fire from an unknown source totally destroyed the frame dwelling owned by T. J. Hopkins on the Stirling road near the 5th Concession Sydney, on Saturday morning at 1 o'clock. The reflection was noticed by Councillor Sanford Cole who immediately summoned a gang of volunteer firemen and by heroic efforts managed to save the outbuildings. The house had not been occupied for some time, and will be a complete loss to the owner, as he carried no insurance. Freeman Bailey, of the Hydro staff was also on the scene with his men, but the flames had gained too much headway to save the dwelling.

TRENT VALLEY NEWS.

When the Barrymore Cloth Co., of Toronto, recently took over the Trent Valley Woollen Mill at Campbellford, it was interesting to not that one of the employees, William Ashton, had been connected with the mill for the past 41 years, and was the only one of the original men left on the staff. In recognition of such long service the retiring company presented Mr. Ashton with an address and token which he highly prizes. Mr. Ashton is master mechanic at the mill, plumb and beauty, and the job over to him and will continue with the new concern as the mill would not seem natural without him.

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 21.—Queen's students will be deprived for my entertainment of social events at the university. At a meeting of the Alma Mater Society last night a motion was brought up to prohibit dancing at the college this season, but it was voted down by 250 to 20. The students feel that there should be no infringement on their rights. There was some sharp discussion. One dance a week is leaving field at the university.

The late Mr. Edward Abbott, who passed away on Tuesday last, was born in Sidney Township 87 years ago. He was a member of I.O.O.F., No. 222, Frankford, also a member of Belleville Lodge and L.O.L., No. 2319, of Frankford. Surviving to mourn his loss besides his widow and aged mother, are two daughters, Mrs. C. Johnson, Carmel, and Edith, at home; and three sons, Frank, Allan, and Howard at home.

ROBERT HANNA

The death occurred last evening of Mr. Robert Hanna at his late residence, corner Dundas and Park Streets.

Deceased was Principal of Thurlow public school at Section No. 5, coming to this school from Norwood, where he was Principal for four years. The late Mr. Hanna was to have been Principal of the new four roomed school now under course of construction.

He was quiet, but progressive, and a most amiable gentlemen, loved by parents and pupils alike, whom he has met and received during his two years in Thurlow School. Vollers Hill. The School Board feel keenly the loss to the section and to the community. During the short time here, he has made very many warm friends in Belleville and College Hill. A tireless church worker, as in Sunday School and church choir, deceased was a member of the Tabernacle Methodist Church. He was a Mason of Norwood Lodge, an adept Oddfellow and a scholarly gentleman. The late Robert Hanna was in his 42nd year. Left to mourn his loss are his widow, one son, Robert, one

A WISTFUL GIRL'S TIMID SMILE

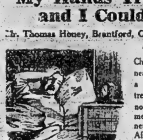

Plaintive beauty, dainty grace and lissome figure stirred the pulses of a rich nobleman whose kindlings stole her away from her blind sister and took her to his midnight fete. A hand some young aristocrat lost his heart, avenged her with his sword, took her to safety. She met another—a leader of the people. He, too, loved her. The fatal duel in the midst of the gorgeous splendors of a regal orgy at the mansion of the starving rabble clamored at the palace gates; the love of the young aristocrat for the country-bred Henriette, and the love she inspired in the heart of Danton, leader of the uprising against the French Monarchy—These things, each punctuated by a kiss, formed a chain of circumstances that quickened the seditious people into open and armed rebellion—that brought the fall of the Bastille—the "Feast of Reason" when all Paris went mad—the "Dance of the Carmagnole" when women led the wild revelry. Then came the Commune—the Reign of Terror—the Guillotine—the downfall of Danton, leader,—the sentence of death—the rescue—and—? And so, all for the cause of love, a King was deposed, a great monarchy fell, a great republic came into being.

"My Hands Trembled and I Could Not Sleep"

Dr. Thomas Hosey, Brantford, Ont., writes—

"When I began taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I was so nervous that when I picked up a cup of tea my hand would tremble like a leaf. I could not sleep well, could not remember things, and there were nervous pains through my body. After taking seven boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am in perfect health."

JEWELL THEFT AT HAMILTON

acquaintance in the courtroom. At the request of Mr. Yates, the magistrate fixed bail at $20,000.

Jewellery been employed by Sweet & Co. since last February. Some time ago he left Hamilton to travel for the firm, and on Monday with him jewelry valued at $20,000. The present arrest occurred after information had been received regarding a $14,000, remitting checks regularly to his employers. The same case brought from Hamilton considerable 796 rings, 20 strings of pearls, and a large number of bracelets, ear drops, cuff links, cigar cutters and smaller articles.

Early Monday afternoon Hogan visited the police station and very calmly told of the disappearance of his grip on Saturday morning.

"Before leaving Toronto on Saturday morning I checked the grip containing the jewels," said Mr Hogan, "and on arrival at the train in Hamilton at 10.35 I went to my home and then made some calls. About 1 o'clock I went to the station and presented my check to the stationmaster and requested my grip. A search was made but the grip could not be found. It was then that I reported the matter to the detective."

In answer to a question, Hogan stated that the grip contained jewellery fixed in a leather case. A trunkier explained that his reason for leaving the grip at the station was that it was too heavy to be because he did not want to take it back to his office.

"The jewelry and grip is covered by insurance so long as it is in charge of a traveler, but once it is returned to the possession of the house is by agreement, lifted and the company is therefore responsible for the goods itself," said Mr. Hogan. Detectives therefore, always keep the grips in their possession until they are ready to check in for a new place."

Mr. Hogan kept in constant touch with the police since Saturday morning and seemed greatly worried. He was very much surprised when arrested, but after an hour's examination the police were satisfied sufficient information to locate the missing grip and goods, the police claim.

Sergeant Boyd of the Police force here, was the officer who located the valuable bag at the C.N.R. Express Co. office. The officer states that the bag was an old one, and was slightly ripped at one end, so that he could see jewellery trays in the bag. The papers were in through the bundle. The bag was not opened by the officer nor the officials in charge of the Express offices.

Leicester, Ohio, Nov. 22.—Six members of a family named Henderson were found dead in their home here today. Death is believed to have resulted from some kind of medicine. The father and mother were found sitting in upright positions in chairs before the fire and four children were in bed.

C.P.R. STEAMER MINNEDOSA DOCKS

Quebec, Nov. 17.—The Canadian Pacific 14,000-ton "Minnedosa" from Liverpool, Londonderry and Southampton, in command of Capt. H. Sibbens, with 318 passengers, arrived and docked at Quebec at 5 o'clock tonight.

Among the returned Canadians in the cabin were Mrs. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Beck, Mrs. S. Bourgoin, Mrs. L. Laibert, and the Misses D. Laibert, Cannon, Montreal; Mrs. A. S. Barton and son, Penticton, B.C.; Mrs. H. and Master W. A. Brower, Mrs. A. Quay, Mrs. K. C. and Miss C. Evans, Vancouver, B.C.; Mrs. J. Cook and three sons, Mrs. E. Hagn and Mrs. and Mrs. Coberts, Toronto; Mrs. A. Dettman, Clifford, Ont.; Miss C. F. Gobert, Cobalt, Ont.; Miss Lerr, Canon D. Heeney, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Batter, Winnipeg; Mr. J. Judy, Stratford, Ont.; Mrs. and Master D. Hewitt, Ottawa, Ont.; Mr. N. Descamps, Yorkton, Sask.; Mrs. W. G. and Miss Kennedy, Penticton, B.C.; Mrs. Morrison, Nelson, B.C.; Mrs. K. and Master P. K. Tenner, Vernon, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wilson, Port William.

Canon Bertall Heeney, of Winnipeg, who was among the main passengers of the Minnedosa, during his visit to England preached and lectured in many of the leading cities including Oxford, Cambridge, Birmingham, Manchester and London. He was invited to preach in the famous cathedral, Canterbury, and afterward received by his Grace the Primate of all England, who manifested keen interest in Canada. Everywhere Canon Heeney went he sought to turn the attention of young men to Canada as a land of hope.

In an interview Canon Heeney said last time much interest existing in Canadian industrial life at the present time is immigration. "The West, especially, is particularly interested. We know we have a healthy and fertile country of immense extent and we want the cream of the land is under cultivation and yet behold the crops. The West is determined to have a large policy of immigration, one which will ensure a continuous inflow of right material for the building up of the empire. Everywhere in England I was astonished at the number and quality of the settlers who were going out and I never saw more on this visit occasion. Australia is awake and doing wonders against the drought and the conditions in the Mother Land are unsatisfactory. Young men are impatient to get out and do things. If we could get here next spring in great numbers it is our own fault. Now is the moment of vast opportunity and it is the duty of every Canadian to interest himself in this question. Leading business men must place their views before the Government. The doors must be opened wide at once. Moreover, some scheme of co-operation must be put in force between the Canadian and the home Governments by which many men of strength and character may be assisted to establish themselves on the land. The British Government is ready to help. We are waiting for Canada to act. European immigrants need more consideration and sympathy. I am in favor of assisting all European nationalities under proper safeguards."

WINTER FAIR IS A RECORD BREAKER

FURTHER DETAILS OF NORTHERN ONTARIO OPTIMISM

Need of Assistance is Great as Winter Sets In—Nearly 1,800 Homes and Farm Buildings Destroyed—Municipalities in Old Ontario Asked to Raise $600,000 For Relief

In continuing the trip of the inspecting party of Mayors, etc., who visited the devasted parts of Northern Ontario by Sagt and at the outset that the following are suggestions from the Relief Committee. Those suggestions are for the benefit of those and other organizations who might feel disposed to vote a sum to cover one or more of the suggestions which are as follows:

$200.00 will provide a shelter shack for a family and rough stables for cattle.

$350.00 will provide a shelter shack for family.

$500.00 will provide food for a family for May 1st, 1923.

$100.00 will provide a wagon for settlers.

$75.00 will provide a set of harness (double).

$50.00 will provide a set of bobs or sleigh.

$25.00 will provide a sewing machine.

$20.00 will provide kitchen furniture.

$15.00 will provide cooking utensils.

Bedding (mattress, rugs, scissors, etc.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted by the representatives on board the special train.

Moved by D. A. Cameron, of Toronto, seconded by G. C. Copley, of Hamilton, that the heads of municipalities and representatives of Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, throughout Ontario, herein assembled, after visiting the devastated area desire to convey to the sufferers their sympathy in the terrible misfortune which has overtaken them which will be shortly followed by a more tangible expression of their good will.

They also desire to say that they were greatly impressed by the cheerfulness displayed and indomitable spirit exhibited on every hand by the sufferers under such trying circumstances and their hopeful determination to rebuild their homes and continue the development of this promising country.

Signed by the Mayors and representatives of Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce.

G. C. Copley,
Mayor of Hamilton.
D. A. Cameron,
President of Toronto Board of Trade.

That the Northern Ontario Fire Relief Committee be asked to request municipalities in rural districts to raise a quota of the $600.000 by a voluntary subscription or by a special assessment.

While at some present were of the opinion that the Ontario Government should provide the necessary money for the relief of the sufferers until such time as they are in a position to help themselves they supported the second resolution.

Leaving Haileybury the party were conveyed to New Liskeard which town fortunately escaped the devouring element. In the near vicinity to this town a different story is narrated, as no less than 200 homes will be burned. These were principally farmers who lost their all. There is need of a fund in Liskeard's relief station and it is a good and commodious building. Piles upon piles of clothing are to be seen there especially was this the case in regard to overcoats for men. Here the same organization as it was here found necessary to old necessity there was for a certain class of wearing apparel namely underclothing for men and women and bedding for boys. In regard to the latter it may be stated here that the Daughters of the Empire with head office at Toronto have contributed $5,000 for the purchase of 200 sewing machines which will be provided at manufacturer's prices. When these have been distributed much of the men's clothing can be made over for boys.

In answer to an enquiry as to some of the articles of clothing and the representative of the journal was informed that some dress suits had been sent into Relief evening gowns. At the above station a large table was filled with shoes which had been carefully assorted by a shoemaker. It may also be stated that several packages from Belleville were to be sent which had not yet been opened and the reason for this was that early last days previous no less than seven cars had been unloaded.

It was by no means a pleasant afternoon to make an inspection as snow was falling quite heavily and was carried about in an intermittent manner by a strong wind. The special train was later in the evening at New Liskeard station placed upon a siding where it remained until Sunday morning when the trip was resumed. At an early hour on Sunday morning the special left New Liskeard the destination for the day being Englehart. Passing through this small territory one could not help being struck with the varying scenery. One minute the train would pass a field from which apparently a good crop had been gathered, and in another minute or two the party were conveyed into a scene of desolation where nothing but blackened logs represented the once comfortable abode of a farmer. In these instances a shack had been erected upon the spot where formerly an up-to-date farm house stood. In other instances tents had been placed on a once happy home site.

The first stop was at Uno Park, a small village where but little damage was done by the devouring element. At Thornloe the havoc wrought by the fire was visible. Of what was two months ago a prosperous village but little remains. Those, including a number of tents housed in shacks, tents and some in old street cars, some 200 of which were sent from Toronto. One family were found living in an old root cellar. Another

BOY WANDERER AT TENDER AGE

When Peterboro Police Detain Him He Wishes to Leave for Belleville

A young lad named Delong, who has been causing considerable worry to his step-mother in Peterboro, his aunt in Lindsay, and the police in Lindsay, Peterboro and Orillia because of his wanderings, is again in Bells.

After leaving Lindsay a few days ago he passed on to Orillia where he was looked up by his grandmother and returned to his home in Peterboro. Tuesday night, however, the young rover left his home and was next picked up by Detective Howard of the G.T.R. police force at the Peterboro depot. They found the lad there and asked for a ticket for Lindsay and when informed that there would be no further passenger train to the metropolis that evening, he then said he would take a ticket to Belleville. He was then taken in charge because curious and after questioning the lad turned him over to the Peterboro police. In his pockets were found to contain a goodly sum of money and the suspicion of the police was aroused that he might attempt a further juvenile run which will take place.

POLICE COURT AT TRENTON

Four Youths Charged With Theft Are Given Suspended Sentences

Night court was held at Trenton last night before Police Magistrate O'Rourke of that town, when the case of four youths from Wellman's Corners, 11 miles from Trenton came up for trial.

These four boys, three of whom were brothers, were charged with the theft of tools belonging to the Department of Public Highways, also ties, and fence wire from other parties. All of the stolen goods has been recovered by the Provincial officers of the city, who had charge of the case, and the goods have been restored to the rightful owners.

Each of the accused youths were given suspended sentence of not less than six months, and not more than one year in the Reformatory of Ontario. Each youth has been bound over by recognizance of $1000 for one year, and fined $30. There were three charges against each boy.

The case of Charles Bailey, charged with assault, was laid over until December 18th.

County Crown Cerney, K.C., was present at both trials on behalf of the Crown. Thos. Lennard of Trenton Bumpstead of the Provincial police here.

AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH LAST NIGHT

Mr. Albert Greenlaw Directs Musical Program; Splendid Sermon by Pastor

At the Victoria Avenue Baptist Church last night, the congregation were treated to a forceful sermon expounding of the real object of religion and, to assist in driving the messages home, a fervid interpretation of gospel music. The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. N. S. McKechnie, B.A., assisted by Rev. Albert Marshall and the music was produced by Mr. Albert Greenlaw, Amateur's greatest gospel singer, of Detroit.

Rev. Mr. McKechnie preached to a crowded church, from Matthew 9:9, and interspersed from his text the important potentialities, in even the most worldly despised men and women, that may be developed if they will but surrender all and follow the Master.

The preacher wished the congregation to revert their minds to that day referred to in the reading of the lesson, although it is now 1900 years after the recorded events took place. Matthew a despised publican, a renegade of tax citizen in the Hebrew nation official of the Roman Rulers, regarded as a traitor to his own land by a man with extortion opportunities by virtue of his office, and with an ANTI-LYNCHING BILL WILL OPPOSE KU KLUX KLAN.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Nov. 23.—Do you know that the United States has the only land on earth, where human beings are burned at the stake" is the startling question posted in a full page advertisement inserted in principal newspapers this morning by the National Association for the advancement of colored people. The advertisement is in support of a bill now before the United States known as Dyer anti-lynching bill. It has been stated on the ground that it is unconstitutional The campaign in favor of the Dyer Bill is considered as being mainly one angle of the race question, inasmuch as the Ku Klux Klan, who's organization was formerly over the Ku Klux Klan, who's organization was formerly over the Ku Klux Klan, who's organization was formerly over the Ku Klux Klan, who's organization was formerly over the Ku Klux Klan, who's organization and Knights of Columbus, and Jewish organizations of the country have signified their intention of fighting it with all their strength. From Washington come reports that the Government is preparing a campaign for the purpose of putting the Klan out of business.

'Y' DRIVE GOES MERRILY ON

Total Sum of $3,575 Raised Last Night, Leaving $1,425 Yet to Raise

Last night, the total sum raised for the local Y.M.C.A. had reached the very encouraging mark of $3575, when the city workers reported at the Y.M.C.A. for the evening meal, after their strenuous day's canvassing. This leaves a balance of $1425.00 to be raised. The workers are out today full strength, and are making an honest endeavour to put the drive over on Friday.

Messrs. H. W. Ackerman and Alderman George Ostrom, President of the Y.M.C.A. special drive, made a proposition to the workers to the effect that they will procure $500 of the balance of $1425, if the other teams in the canvass will supply the remainder. All the teams will work all day today and Friday in an effort to make this proposition possible.

On Friday evening the workers will be the guests of Mr. Ackerman, who is in charge of the finance committee, when he will serve a banquet at the Y.M.C.A. at 6.30 p.m. This will be known as the "Clean Up Supper."

At the banquet held last night, Messrs. A. E. Hutchens, President of the Chamber of Commerce, W. B. Deacon, President of the Rotary Club, and Mr. R. Bailey, prominent worker in the Children's Aid Society of this city, were the speakers who all vouched for the gains of Mr. Ackerman, who is in charge of the finance committee, when he will serve a banquet at the Y.M.C.A. at 6.30 p.m. This will be known as the "Clean Up Supper."

MEMBERS OF BAR DINE JUDGE

Toasts and Anecdotes Make up a Pleasing and Profitable Evening

When the sittings of the High Court are held in Belleville, it is usual for the members of the County Bar Association to tender a dinner to the presiding Judge. This week this was no exception to the rule and last evening at the Hotel Quinte a dinner was tendered to Hon. Justice Smith, who presided over the non-jury sitting. It proved to be an enjoyable affair, after dinner had been partaken of a short toast list was carried out. Major D. D. Panton, President of the Bar Association presided.

The toast to the King was heartily received. The toast to Judge Smith was in a few well chosen remarks proposed by Mr. F. E. O'Flynn. His Lordship replied felicitously and spoke of the good will that prevailed between the bench and the bar.

Col. Paston, K.C., proposed the toast to the local judiciary, and appropriate response to same was made by Judge Deroche and Col. S. S. Lazier, Master in Chancery.

Stories and anecdotes were given by several present, also some brief addresses.

GENERAL HARINGTON GIVES WARNING

Tell Turks How Far They Can Go—Limit to Human Patience

Constantinople, Nov. 22.—Lieutenant-General Harington, commander of the Allied forces, has issued a stern warning to the Kemalists that any further encroachment upon Constantinople would be at their peril. Addressing a large gathering assembled to witness boxing matches between British soldiers and sailors at the Auditorium of the British headquarters, he declared that the Allied forces are prepared to meet any attack marked dangerous, upon which the Turks would wreck themselves if they persisted in trying to overwhelm the Allies.

"The Allies are very conciliatory, very patient," he said, "they have exercised great forbearance and restraint. Our ultimatum have gone to Lausanne with the same spirit of conciliation, justice and fairness. They are, however, human, and there is a limit to human patience.

SCOTCH FISHERMEN IN WANT AS HERRING SEEKS OTHER WATERS

London, Nov. 22.—The failure of the herring industry in the North Sea, during the last two years, due to the fact that the currents in the North Sea have changed their course, says the columnist of the Scotsman, has caused the huge shoals of herring which once inhabited the North Sea, near the Scottish coast, have almost entirely disappeared, and with them the living of scores of fisherfolk.

Scientists are preparing a report and a chart which will explain and illustrate the changes of the currents. Bottles with the usual traveling sheets are now picked up in the Shetlands.

TELEPHONE OFFICE CROWDED LAST EVENING

Forty years ago a young genius named Bell, perfected an instrument that set controlled the impulses your voice sets up, as to guide them along the slender wire right to the ear of a waiting listener.

There are three factors in the establishing of a telephone conversation, the calling party, the operator, and the called party. To properly establish this conversation there are some twenty odd motions that the operator and the two way to understand these rules is by a visit to the Telephone office during the busiest hour operators.

The local staff is taking great pains to explain to their visitors the numerous operations of "Central" and problems that have to be overcome in order to furnish good telephone service.

The number of visitors to the Local Exchange up to last evening exceeded 1,000 and for same period last year by 2?1

The Northern Electric Radio Demonstrators were kept busy answering questions from the local fans.

LIEUT.-GOVERNOR COCKSHUTT OPENS LARGEST SHOW OF ITS KIND IN THE WORLD

The Entries Are 2,000 In Excess of Any Similar Show—Large Crowd Present

PRINCE IS DEMOCRATIC

London, Nov. 23.—As a member of the House of Lords, the Prince of Wales today took the oath of allegiance to his father. The Prince who still has a slight limp, as a result of his recent accident, appeared with his official summons in his hand, and found a long line of peers ahead of him waiting to be sworn in. The prince, by virtue of his rank', is entitled to precedence at the head of the line. He refused to avail himself of this privilege and awaited his turn, moving slowly around the room with the others. His brother, the Duke of York, took advantage of this special privilege yesterday.

Toronto, Nov. 23.—The supervised task of holding a Winter Fair is the Canadian National Exhibition grounds, proved an unqualified success. If a record attendance on the opening night is any criterion, by which to judge. The fair has assumed such proportions that the accommodation of the famed Toronto Exhibition. One of the attractions was a Horse Show, with a World's Fair Show flavor to some of the entertainments. On the other hand although the exhibit represented all the breeds of horses, there was something of interest for all classes.

The exhibition is open daily at 9 a.m. The judging takes place in the afternoon and afternoon, while in the evening special events are scheduled for the evenings.

The gates were open early yesterday but did not start evening, the Fair officially opened by His Honor, the Lieut.-Governor. The Coliseum was filled with over three thousand people and therefore speechmaking was not practical and was abandoned Mr. Cockshutt read a welcoming address to His Honor and the latter simply announced that the Fair was open. Then the Horse Show immediately followed.

The aim of the Royal Winter Fair is to bring together the best that Canada produces in livestock and poultry, in dairy products, in fruit, and in cereals and displays, in vegetables, in seed grains, and, so far, to do something which will make the equal of the "first of International Show at Chicago. There are 37 classes, or sub-divisions of "Special Prize" for any similar amount shown at held on this continent, and the International Grocerymen's Association has special attention to the fat and poultry show, which are regarded as being well up to the best which the country has ever known.

Kiddies Lined It.

With the afternoon set aside as Children's Day, with the gates thrown wide to them for a nickel, and with the "free" sign for juvenile hang up in the exhibition, there was a rush of youngsters which made one recall the balmy days of the Exhibition when standing room in the Coliseum. If there is one element in the city which can always be relied upon, to give enthusiastic support to anything new, it is the youngsters.

GRAFT PUNISHABLE BY DEATH

Moscow, Nov. 22.—A strenuous campaign against graft among state officials, inaugurated recently by the head of the Soviet government, has brought to trial in various parts of the country hundreds of individuals, some of whom already have been convicted and put to death for their trickery.

The latest sensational eight men accused of swindling the government in connection with the installation of electrical apparatus in the Volga, were sentenced to be shot, while 21 others tried simultaneously were sent to prison for various terms of years.

In connection with the collecting of the grain taxes imposed by the state, there exist in the Moscow district, charged with making false entries by which the government was cheated out of large quantities of grain, were sentenced to pay the supreme penalty, while 42 of the same group were acquitted.

LABORITE LEADER STRONG FOR LABOR

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Nov. 23.—J. Ramsay MacDonald, Laborite, assumed his new position as leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons this afternoon, and in the remarks on the Speech from the Throne, declared that the statement in the King's address regarding unemployment was profoundly unsatisfactory to Labor. He said it showed that the Government had no real appreciation of a terrible tragedy.

STOLEN CAR IS LOCATED

Toronto Police Arrest Four Occupants, Who Will Be Brought to This City To-day

Any so called romance resultant from the theft of motor cars now adays, is certainly very short lived, as evidenced by the latest theft in the city. For the young men who drove the Maxwell car from the front of Griffin's Theatre here on Saturday night last are all prisoners today.

Immediately after the theft was reported, the Police Department here had cards printed, giving a good description, of the stolen car, and had these cards circulated throughout the province. Today, Chief Kidd, received word from the Police Department at Toronto, stating that the car had been recovered, and the occupants were being held until the arrival of the officers from this city.

Chief Kidd and P. C. A. Booth left for Toronto this morning at 11.35 G. T. R. train, and the officers and accused youths will journey home in the motor car.

The car in question was stolen here last Saturday, it was later reported all over the province. Toronto police heard of it yesterday, and when Detective Miller, of Belmont Station saw the car on Yonge Street he called upon the driver of it to halt. This the driver refused. Whereupon Miller obtained another car and went in pursuit, managing to overhaul his quary on Woodbine Avenue.

Campbellford News

Fowl Supper.

There was a big time at the Methodist church on Wednesday evening. Everybody loves chicken, and there was lots to go round. The Campbellford Band supplied the music and the famous quartette gave some fine selections. Every one got enough to eat and if they didn't have a good time it was their own fault. During the evening the Rev. Harold Young, B.A., B.D., of Peterboro, gave a very interesting lecture in the auditorium, which was appreciated by the large audience present.

Property Transfers.

J. C. Birmingham has purchased that fine brick bungalow on Ranney street from Tom McManus. Mr. McManus will likely reside in Toronto.

George Potts has sold his two smart little cottages together with boat house, at Percy Boom, to Archie Riendeau of Campbellford.

It is stated that the Trent Valley Mills, recently taken over by the Barrymore Cloth Co., of Toronto, will enlarge, and it is likely that the old Gibson House will be torn down at a very early date, to make way for new buildings. Tenants have already vacated.

Election News.

It is stated on good authority that Charles W. Palliser will be in the field for Deputy Reeve for Campbellford for 1923. C. P. needs no introduction. He has served faithfully in the Council for over 6 years and knows the road to Cobourg well.

At the Stock Yards.

Campbellford is getting to be quite a town. Among other things it is noted for is high grade hogs and cattle. No less than 8 cars were shipped on Monday, consigned to Peterboro, Montreal and Toronto. One full car of cheese was also billed to Montreal. The cattle now run to the steers of style, as nearly every farmer has a truck, which not only saves time but makes a big difference in weights in the course of a year, especially in the hot weather.

Back from the Hunt.

Big Tom McCook and George Platts have returned from the deer camp back north and report fairly good luck. They got all the law allowed anyway and while in camp lived very high as the partridges were particularly plentiful this year and nice and plump too.

Mr. E. J. Free, Dr. Fred Free, Ellis Runnels and Charles Gilliver, all from the same camp, followed on Wednesday and there will likely be some good stories to tell later on as this lunch generally has good luck.

Personal.

Dr. G. C. Watson is back on the job again. Doc. got a deer all right, and a few new stories right from Mt. Ola.

Frank Bonnycastle is home again and did not have his usual luck this year, and the fact of being on the jury at Cobourg rather spoiled his annual deer hunt.

Mr. Jack Regan, of Frankford, was a visitor in town this week.

Miss Nellie Davidson, of the Toronto public school staff, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Davidson.

If there were no sounds in the world except those made by human tongues, the deaf man wouldn't miss much.

HOW CORD WING GOT A DANCING PARTNER

Swift Strategic Move Outwits His Dutiful Aide-De-Danse

By F. W. Lace.

Being an aide to the Governor-General of Canada is not exactly a sinecure, and there are times when one must suffer for the privilege of enjoying proximity to royalness.

Mrs. George Black, wife of the former commissioner of the Yukon, knows exactly how it feels to have greatness thrust too close. During the visit of Their Excellencies, Lord and Lady Byng, to Dawson, this Summer, a dance was given in honor of the distinguished visitors.

The Yukon is rich in minerals but lamentably weak in society, which explains why, late in the evening, when Lord Byng's aides sought out Mrs. Black," he begged: "I have to find a dance all evening!"

Mrs. Black, after considerable difficulty, coaxed the partner of one of Dawson's prettiest girls to let her have the dance with the aide. The young lady, willing enough, was brought to where the aide was standing, close to Their Excellencies.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

The Real Cause of Indigestion

Acids in the stomach irritate and inflame the delicate stomach lining, scar and ferment the food, prevent proper digestion and lead to numerous ills of all Dyspepsia and Indigestion. Pepsin and other artificial digestants give only temporary relief and do not correct the cause.

Stomach acids should be neutralized daily, and the stomach kept sweet and clean after eating by drinking a glass of pure Magnesia water made from a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia, obtainable at any reliable drug store. This prevents food fermentation and your meal digest naturally and without pain. By following this plan you may eat almost anything without fear of indigestion.

OIL BURNING TONNAGE IS VASTLY INCREASED

London, Nov. 21.—The total tonnage of merchant vessels afloat at the end of June, 1922, bidding the classification of Lloyds Register, exceeded 37,000,000 tons, the highest figure ever recorded, according to the annual report of "Lloyds Register of Shipping." The total comprised 29,896 vessels of 1,224,013 tons under the heading of "class completed," which brings the aggregate to 10,295 vessels of 28,720,000 tons. On the first total 6,878 vessels of 13,781,522 tons are British, and 4,151 of 13,006,567 tons belong to other countries.

It is stated that disturbed political and economic conditions, disorganization of exchanges, and stagnation of international trade, provide adequate explanation for the continued falling off in ship-building.

Vessels of all types of construction intended for bulk oil carrying, and built in the last 12 months, amounted to 114 of 602,399 tons. The progressive demand for oil carrying vessels is shown by the fact that the registered tonnage of these vessels has increased from 1,479,986 tons in July, 1914, to 3,003,699 tons in July, 1922.

Some 200 vessels of 1,305,977 tons were fitted for burning oil fuel during the year, and whereas in July, 1914, the vessels so fitted totalled 1,- 310,298 tons, the figures for July, 1922, were 14,461,102 tons.

The enormous development of the use of Diesel machinery engine is commented on. In July, 1914, there were 207 motor vessels of 234,287 tons, while in July, 1922, there were 1,6 vessels of 1,542,743 tons, including 66 of over 6,000 tons.

Try Doing Next Week's Washing with Rinso

Find out for yourself why hundreds of thousands of women say that they could not face another wash day without it. The two easy steps below will save you hours of back breaking rubbing.

First: For each tub of clothes dissolve a half a package of Rinso into a little cool water until it is like thick cream, then stir in two quarts of boiling water. If the water is hard, or the clothes extra dirty, use more Rinso.

Then, pour into tub—of cool or lukewarm water. Mix well. Keep adding the solution until you get a rich, lasting, soapy suds, even after the clothes have been put in. Do not pour the Rinso direct from the package into the tub.

Soak the clothes for one hour, two hours, overnight, or as long as convenient. Then rinse to remove the loosened dirt, until the water runs clear. Hang them out to dry.

There's no rubbing—no boiling. Rinso is not a washing powder, but a scientific combination of pure cleansing materials that loosen and dissolve the dirt from even the heaviest pieces. It soaks clothes clean in a few hours without injury to a single fabric.

IF YOU USE A WASHING MACHINE

Follow the regular directions given here. Soak the clothes. Then, before operating the machine, add fresh Rinso solution using the same amount of Rinso as you used for soaking. No other product is needed when Rinso is used.

family took of their escape in a Ford Car, which they eventually had to leave as prey to the flames, the fire having destroyed the bridges ahead of them, and they had to take refuge on a large rock, while the fire burnt all around them. They saved their lives by beating the air with blankets, and being almost frantic were about to give up when finally the fire passed on. The parents still worry the home reserved while fighting the flames. They had just recovered from the fire of 16 years ago, when they were compelled to live in a tent all winter. At this place the top of an automobile was burned off while conveying a party of refugees from the fire zone.

At Eachton similar conditions were found to exist. From this place Keunebrek was reached and once more desolation was apparent. The Orange Hall and some or two other buildings escaped the flames. In the hall a family was located which consisted of the father and mother and 9 children, the eldest 12 years. This and other families had narrow escapes of their lives. Some 20 were placed in a waggon and the best was so intense that the tails and manes were burned off the horses.

At Heaslip the next stopping place was where the fire victims were numerous as no less than 18 lost their lives amongst them being the Heaslip family of 8 persons. Of 80 houses constituting the place only one remains. From Heaslip the party were conveyed to Englehart where we remained all Saturday afternoon. It may be of interest to note that the nurse in charge at this place is Miss Henley, a welfare nurse who was in Belleville for some time and where she made many friends. Many refugees sought shelter at Englehart and a number of houses were burned in the vicinity but the town escaped destruction.

At Englehart the party were compelled to change to a lighter train of only two coaches and were taken to Charlebrian, which place, if possible, was even more desolate than any visited. There were 800 inhabitants in this place and not one house was left. The only places of refuge were the power house and fair ground premises. In a one house 27 took refuge. It was at the power house that a mother gave birth to a child after being there about an hour. In this locality there were six deaths recorded. One lad, aged 11 years, named Willie Ryan, has not been seen since the fire and no trace of his body found. His parents stated that he was not in their home which was destroyed but through the dense smoke probably wandered to a bush where he lost his life. One of the shacks visited contained a family of 10. The father conducted a hardware and general store carrying a stock of upwards of $20,000. This with his home was a complete loss with only $500 insurance, owing to the rates being high. At this place the remnants of a freight train were to be seen consisting of a mass of car wheels, twisted irons, etc. The inhabitants are living in shacks, freight cars and street cars.

The party after an inspection of the above place were taken back to Englehart where they remained on board the special which later left for Cochrane. The latter place was reached on Monday morning and the surroundings to say the least were some what uncomfortable as the temperature was 16 below zero with snow falling. The object of visiting this town was to interest upon the party the courage of the people of the place. Six years ago it was completely wiped out by fire, but today it is an enterprising town and upon the main thoroughfare are to be seen some fine brick blocks of stores. The debenture debt of this town is $420,000 which is rather a burden upon the tax payers. The town is beautifully located and commands an attractive appearance.

From Cochrane the party were taken to Iroquois Falls, the site of the extensive Abitibi Paper Company's plant. At this mill the making of a roll of paper from the time the piece of pulp wood is placed in the grinder till the paper is rolled was shown and the method employed by those who had charge of the various groups. There are employed at the plant 1000 men and upwards of 3000 more are in the bush getting out pulp wood. The town is laid out in a most systematic manner for future expansion. There are streets and avenues laid out in numbers, sewers, water and all improvements up-to-date. This town has athletic fields, theatres, parks and all that goes to make a fine city. The Company are building the town, they operate stores, theatres, hotels, etc.

The last place to visit was Monteith, the home of a provincial experimental farm and the Northern Ontario Academy. It is well managed and the reception accorded the party by the boys and girls was enthusiastic. The children are bright and happy and are being well trained. From this place the homeward journey was commenced. At North Bay an hour was spent about the city and then the train proceeded to Toronto which city was reached on Tuesday morning.

The trip as a whole cannot but be of immense value. Upon arrival at Toronto telegrams were sent to the mayors of the towns visited thanking them for the reception accorded the visitors, expressing sympathy with the people of the North and promising in the near future something more tangible than sympathy.

Besides seeing for themselves the extent of the fire, and obtaining an idea of the Province. The Mayor of Owen Sound was tried and convicted by his peers on the charge of sharing on Sunday. Others were found guilty of equally grave offences at mock trials which were staged in the evening on board the train.

THE APPLE QUESTION

A traveller coming to Belleville the other day made the statement that "if pineapples were grown in Ontario and Northern Spain in Florida there would be no market in Toronto, Montreal, or other eastern Canadian cities for pineapples."

Now a Toronto paper has been endeavouring with a great deal of success to solve the problem that has been more than once brought before the public eye—why is it so difficult to secure good Ontario apples in the central eastern cities of Canada? It is stated that good Ontario grown apples are given the preference in display in every nine out of ten retail fruit stores in our large cities. Go into any fruit store and ask for good apples and they will show you British Columbia fruit and ask you from 60 cents to 75 cents a dozen for them. How can we explain this extraordinary fact, that apples brought all the way from British Columbia find a ready sale at local fruit stores, while the much superior Ontario grown varieties are often allowed to rot in the orchards. Aside from the natural inclination to fancy the products of distant fields, there must be something wrong with the methods of marketing the Ontario fruit, or else British Columbia apples would have no chance here. It is well known here, that most of the fruit grown in British Columbia lacks the fine flavor of the Ontario product. In fact, these apples brought two-thirds of the way across the continent at heavy expense, (which is, of course, borne by the consumer) are superior to the home-grown product only in appearance and in the attractiveness of their packing. So far as flavours and texture are concerned, the Ontario apple grown right here at our doors, is infinitely superior. Surely, given an equal chance, no householder would buy the finest apple grown in the Okanagan Valley in preference to a Northern Spy grown in Hastings or Prince Edward Counties.

Yet we have to pay 5 cents each for the British Columbia fruit, bringing carload after carload across the continent, while the first grade Ontario apples are shipped out of the province to other markets, and it is almost impossible to buy our own Ontario fruit in our stores.

Yet Ontario apple growers complain that the price offered for their product is not enough to make it profitable to spend time in caring for their orchards.

Now we wish to offer the suggestion that the Ontario apple growers pay more attention to the packing of their apples, and market them co-operatively, with a little more publicity and advertising. Manufacturers have tried to reach the farmer with the slogan, "buy Made-in-Canada goods," and "buy Made-in-Belleville goods." Now in turn if the local apple growers get together and wish to push their goods, the city residents will be glad to help on with the good work and assist local fruit growers. But the public has to be educated first. It is a case of ignorance now, and, as fruit is required and the imported fruit so easy to procure, it is being marketed. If city people, who are the large local consumers, were informed of the true conditions they would soon create a very high class demand for local fruit. If fruit growers wish to capitalize their opportunities the way is open to them.

DRURY AND NORTHERN ONTARIO

A catastrophe such as occurred in Northern Ontario is one that touches the hearts of all of us, and is about one of the last things that we would desire to introduce into a political argument. But we do feel free to pass a few remarks regarding Mr. Drury's somewhat indirect method of attempting to relieve the suffering. Forty-seven precious lives were lost in the fire itself, and more will be lost directly or indirectly if we in Old Ontario do not come generously to the rescue AT ONCE. Much has been done to alleviate suffering, but it has nearly all been done by small local organizations on private effort. The assistance that Mr. Drury has permitted the Province of Ontario to render officially, is conspicuous by its absence. Now the Premier gathers together at Haileybury a very representative gathering of mayors, presidents of the chambers of commerce, and publicity men, but no rural representatives. He shows them the extent of the catastrophe, announces at the same time that he wishes these men to go back to their respective municipalities, and raise a million dollars to help put the district on its feet. In the meantime the Province will assist with a sum of about one-eighth of that figure, which will be used to construct public buildings. The scheme of Premier Drury will be very unsatisfactory indeed. Hundreds of small organizations will be functioning instead of one—the Provincial Government—letters will be delayed, the expenses of collection increased, generous municipalities will be taken advantage of, and the other municipalities will get off lighter than they should.

Surely if prompt action was ever needed, it is in just such cases where human lives are at stake. If only one life is saved, or the suffering of a few made lighter, would it not be well worth the effort? Would any sane person criticise the initiative of the Provincial Government, exercised in so worthy a cause? Most people would rejoice to see a little signs of life, of initiative, and of original thinking at Queen's Park.

Mr. Drury does not bat an eyelash at millions spent on highways, and somehow or another the Province altogether has been committed to an extent of millions, all expended by the Farmer-Labor Government placed in power on a pro-election promises of economy. Mr. Drury has advanced no satisfactory explanation of his stand regarding the assisting of the fire sufferers, up to the present. Meanwhile suffering is going on, and will go on, till hundreds of little organizations can be rounded out, and whipped into working order. Premier Drury had an opportunity to execute a great and noble deed but he passed up the opportunity.

Meanwhile, though handicapped, we in Old Ontario will provide the required funds, regretting that they could not have been available immediately following the hour of greatest need. Nevertheless, let us organize, and respond freely, to the call when it comes, and thus let us do our best to make amends for a tardy and procrastinating provincial premier.

HERE AND THERE

HAVE YOU A "HEARING" OR A "SEEING" MEMORY

How do you do your remembering? Well, you just remember, or to be quite accurate, you sometimes remember, and that is all you know about it. Now "memorizing" is generally done in one of two quite distinct ways, either with a "mind's eye" or "mind's ear." That is, while some persons, in "remembering" anything, say, the title of a book, try to picture a sheet of paper with the words on it, others imagine the words being repeated to them. Putting it shortly, some persons "hear" a memory, others "see" it.

Many are very proud of telling their friends what splendid memories they have, when as a matter of fact, they haven't! For instance, get someone to read over the first paragraph of this article to you, if you have a "hearing memory," or have a good look at it, if you have a "seeing memory." Then try to write it again for yourself.

It is quite likely that you will get it more or less correct, but that will be due not to your memory at all, but to your reason, which will have promptly taken in its sense, and then helped you to put it together again.

What would have been a test of real memory and nothing else would be to get someone to translate the paragraph into a language you don't understand at all, look at it, and then write it down yourself.

It would make no difference at which end of the line you began, or even whether you started at the end, for your reason being able to give you no help in a language you didn't understand, you would have to rely simply upon your memory.

Upon, let us remember even four sets of three figures each, sky 418, 549, 203, and 693, by the time you have set the last down on your mental slate the first will be very hazy indeed.

The trouble is that you have such a large stock of "memories" in your mind that when any particular one is demanded, say, the kind of silk your wife told you to get her, you have to fumble in the pigeon-holes of your mind before you can produce the right one.

Some persons have a trick of using words rather loosely. For instance, you may say: "I remember the scene quite well," when you mean either, "I have a perfect image of the scene before me," or "I can, if I wish, produce an image of the scene."

The difference between these is what scientists call a "memory act", and "disposition memory." What you mean is: "In its proper pigeon-hole in my mind is a record of the scene. Shall I get it out?"

Have you ever thought of a "long-distance memory"? The writer met a man with whom he was at school 20 years ago. Instantly there came to him the sound—he has a "hearing" memory—of one particular line of Greek verse learned at school. The writer has forgotten his Greek—he doesn't know what the line means—and it is the only line he remembers, and then only after a lapse of 20 years.

The explanation is that the memory had some special reason for noting that one line in connection with that particular friend—perhaps just then they got caned, who knows?—but there across the gulf of years came floating the absurd ghost of one meaningless line, resurrected by the appearance of a friend with whom it must have been in some way associated.

INDIAN SUMMER SONNET.

Soft sunshine lies on the far hills
A little low wind comes and goes;
A hidden brook the landscape fills
With the sweet music of repose.
The golden maples gleam and glow,
The sumac lifts her crimson spear,
The distant reaches overflow
With the rich largess of the year.
The sky is veiled in pearly mist,
The world is wrapped in hazy sheen;
It is as if the good we missed
Smiled back as in a tender dream;
And faint smoke lifts from a low fire
Like ashes drifting from our hearts's desire?

THAT'S DIFFERENT

A story short and sweet is Appreciated by the treet,
But when a man is short you'll find
It always makes him sweary, too.

Few girls are so bad as they are painted, or as "white" as they are powdered.

A girl may hate a man for kissing her, but she will hate him worse if he doesn't.

SCYLLA AND CHARYBDIS HAVE NOTHING ON THIS.

Two hunters went out after a bull moose. Soon they spread their luncheon, but neglected to keep their guns close. Suddenly a big bull moose came out of the woods and charged them. One hunter leaped into a small tree, and the other up dived into a tree in the back yard. The moose charged the man in the tree, but couldn't get him down, so he turned and charged the man who was up the back yard in the hole. The man went back, and the moose turned and charged the man in the tree again. The man came out of the hole and the moose once more charged him. Then said the man in the tree to the other: "You blasted fool, why don't you stay back there in that hole?"

"You don't know as much about this hole as I do," shouted back the other man. "There's a bear in there!"

PRESS OPINIONS

WHAT ELECTION RESULT MEANS IN A NUTSHELL

(St. Catharines Standard.)

Returns of the British general elections indicate a Conservative majority of sufficient strength to insure Bonar Law undisputed mastery of the House of Commons.

A new general election cannot be precipitated by Lloyd George, who has gained in power in the Liberal party, but has lost all paramount influence in parliament.

Absolute safety for Bonar Law is impossible under a majority of forty. There will be enough Conservative support, if the present proportion is maintained to insure the continuance of an exclusively Conservative ministry, but Bonar Law, in all probability will heed that election's Labourite warning by re-organizing his cabinet. There are too many peers in it for a Democratic country. If some of them are not replaced by commoners the Conservative ministry will have a constant source of weakness.

Labor's strength in the election has pulled support away from Lloyd George. Nevertheless are now likely to be attempted for the union of the Asquith and Lloyd George wings of the Liberal party. The weakness shown by the Asquith Liberals, and Mr. Asquith's own narrow escape from defeat, have lifted from Lloyd George's hands. But the very uncertainties of Asquith Liberalism may cause Lloyd George to refuse invitations from that quarter. His innermost hope of success lies in a new coalition. His leadership will be to emphasize Labor's strength, as a Radical menace. Then probably, a new Georgian Liberal-Conservative coalition to save Great Britain from Socialism.—Written for the United Press by J. W. T. Mason.

$10 FOR A MAN'S HAT

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record.

Pity the poor city man or the traveling salesman who eats regularly in a swell hotel or restaurant. He pays a great sum for his hat. One victim has figured it out that by the time he is through with a reasonably good headcovering, it costs him $10.

At the door of these eating-places stands a young woman, usually handsome, who takes charge of your hat. The little service leaves the owner a minus a tip of ten cents on each occasion. The life of a hat is about six months, so that even if it cost only four originally, it represents an expenditure of another six dollars in tips.

The tipping system is a nuisance and an imposition, but not enough people have the courage to make a real campaign against it.

REMEMBER!

(By Aubrey Brown)

Remember the things that are good and sweet,
The smashing pose a dizzy street;
The real persimmon, brave and clean,
Which brightens a tenement-window scene;
The kindly word and the heartening joke;
The song of linnet and thrush and lark;
The glint of star in some voyaging dark;
The smell of summer; the warning chill
And spirit-zest in a bleak December,
To drive people dismal, then remember.

VOTE DOES NOT APPEAL TO FRENCH WOMEN

It is reported that French women are not to be given th franchise. Three years ago the Chamber of Deputies was favorable to woman franchise, but now the deputies seem to be opposed to it. The committee which was supposed to look into the matter declares that "an immense majority of the French women (these wives would regret the present. The deputies want to give them. And we by old Gaul is Gaulish," when a petition was presented to Premier Tardieu, signed by 2,000 French feminist women asking for the franchise, he politely informed the delegation that he already had had similar petitions presented to him signed by 500 women praying him not to grant the franchise to women.

NUT BREAD

Mix well together 2 cups of flour and 4 heaping teaspoons of baking powder, 1 teaspoon of salt, and 3/4 cup of brown sugar. Then add 1¾ cups of fresh milk, in which one egg has been well beaten. When thoroughly mixed stir in 1 cup of chopped nut meats. Bake slowly in a moderate oven, in an ordinary loaf bread pan, for three-quarters of an hour. This is a nourishing, wholesome, and palatable, and good for a family of growing girls and boys.)

Answer to yesterday's: "Curfew Shall Not Ring To-night."

LINKED LIVES

By D. Kinmount Roy

Kinkman was for an instant disconcerted by his foe's danger, and in that instant MacAlpin had caught the hand that held the murderous weapon, which exploded without harm and fell from the hand of the foiled villain.

But Kinkman was not to be disposed of so easily. With his left hand he drew a dagger, which flashed before MacAlpin's eyes for an instant, and drew blood ere the hand which held it could be intercepted.

It needed the touch of steel to rouse Donald to the utmost, and Kinkman was soon at his mercy; but what to do with him was the problem. Meanwhile he held the miserable man by both wrists, and his eyes lightened while he looked down upon him with a fierce loathing, which smote the wretched creature as with the hammer of Thor. Still, Kinkman was far from accepting defeat. He tried to kick his assailant like a vicious beast. For answer, MacAlpin plucked him from the ground, and swinging him round, brought him down with such force that for the moment he hung limp and helpless in the big man's hands. When the wretch recovered his breath, he exerted all his strength to set his teeth in the hand that held him. MacAlpin could only prevent him from doing so by lifting him sheer off the ground, and shaking him like a rat; whereupon every time he made the attempt.

So soon as he recovered his wind the victim would pound out impressions which were unrepeatable, hissing curses through clenched teeth in words scathing and terrible.

MacAlpin was at a loss what to do. He dare not release him, and but for the accident that had disabled Heath's field, the situation would have been extremely critical; perhaps indeed fatal to MacAlpin's plans of rescue. Kinkman, exhausted and battered as he was, roused all his remaining strength in a last effort to free himself, and so deprived and powerful was his attempt, that MacAlpin once more raised him from the ground, until in terror and agony, he cried for mercy.

"Oh! Mercy, mercy!" MacAlpin mocked, scornfully. "The mercy you have shown to helpless women and new baimen! Ask for mercy you sak! and he shook him wrathfully, bringing him down again with great force.

"Oh! Allan, Allan, have mercy," Kinkman wailed, in pain and terror.

"God," said MacAlpin, with indignant severity, "since when has Kinkman had dealings with God, or spoken his name save to profane it?"

Kinkman's will ceased, and his eye flashed defiant hate into the very soul of the big man who held him: his pain and terror for the moment forgotten in the passion of deadly antagonism. "You brute," he hissed between clenched teeth, 'why don't you kill me like a man and have done with it instead of torturing me like a fiend! You canting hypocrite!' he screamed, in a transport of fury; 'why don't you send me to hell—because you dare not! because you know I would take you with me! You fool,' he screamed, ceasing to struggle, and flashing into the very soul of MacAlpin, 'what is this thing to you? What right have you to preach to other men? Since when have you been so pious? Since when have you ceased to be a drunkard and profane beyond most men; you who talk of profaning God's name as if you were a saint from heaven instead of she drunken beast you are! Who lay drunk while his own nephew lay dead? You, you—you useless hulk! So-weel, for whom the devil himself can find no employment out of hell."

MacAlpin quailed, smitten in mind rather than in body. It was no longer the superior strength and stature of one man beating down the strength of another by sheer right of thews and sinews: it was the wills and the central force of the men that clashed, and Kinkman, beaten and physically crushed, struck back in a white heat of fierce defiance and hurled hate that was appalling and terrible. The words were simple enough, and in their simplicity they stirred the very basest thrust, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and laying bare the whole inner being of the man before him. It was the big man that quailed now.

MacAlpin's grip relaxed, he breathed hard, like a man in mortal pain. The words could not have been more cunningly devised to awake recollection if they had been the result of long thought instead of the impulse of the moment. They called up the host in MacAlpin, and turned his better self against himself; and yet the words came from the lips of a man whose whole character swounded of the abhorrence of an evil life.

Donald paled visibly under the steady gaze of the wretch he held at his mercy. He paused, wondering what to do with the man. If only Alan Graham were there, to care for Gotta, for the two servants who were in care of the house were almost ready to turn their attention to other matters than the carriage which had been partially overturned. For a space Dyhald felt confused in thought and uncertain in action; and all because certain bitter words on a forceful tongue had flashed a searchlight upon a past which a few moments before he had deemed buried him, as completo had he felt his emancipation from old habits and old passions. Oh! how he loathed the past, he told himself; and now it appeared to mock him from the lips of this wretched man!

The tide of thought and feeling in the mind and heart of MacAlpin ebbed and flowed painfully and rapidly.

"WHAT YOUR HUSBAND NEEDS"

"One night my husband came home looking so ill and worn out that I thought he would faint. I knew there had been something wrong with him for some time, but I could not get him to tell me what it was. Finally he confessed he was tired and sore all over. I made him go to bed. Next morning he insisted upon going to work although he was anything but well. I know that his trouble was partly due to worry because for some months before he had been out of work. This put us so heavily in debt that the grocer and butcher refused to give us more credit. It was being out of work that worried my husband; he wouldn't eat because he was afraid there would not be enough food for the children. We were so poor that we had to keep the children from school because they had no clothes. I knew that if I could only get my husband strong and well again everything would be all right. He is a carpenter by trade and when in good health earns good wages and he is always sober and industrious. But I knew that it was impossible for any man to do good work when he was ill and worried. I decided to speak to our old family doctor, who had retired from practice. When I explained how we were situated he gladly offered to do all he could to help us, although he didn't like to interfere with the new doctor's practice. Finally he said, 'What your husband needs is a good tonic and I know of nothing better than Carnol.' I thought that any old family doctor recommends Carnol it must be all right. On my way home I got a bottle and before the first bottle had been used, my husband was a changed man. After he had taken four bottles his appetite returned, he had more energy, that tired look in his eyes disappeared and what is most important his wages have been more than doubled and he is now superintendent of the work shop in which he formerly worked as a carpenter. Thanks to Carnol our troubles are over and we are once more a happy and contented family."

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money.

CHARLIE CHICKEN'S SUNFLOWER.

"Ma!" crowed Charlie Chicken.
"Hey, Ma!"
Old Mother Hen tucked her head farther under her wing and uttered a little snore of disgust. It was late, and every self-respecting chicken was fast asleep, but her wayward son was still out in the barnyard.
"Ma!" crowed Charlie Chicken at the top of his voice, "Hey, Ma!"
She made up her mind to ignore his calls; then maybe he would come in to roost. She had spoiled Charles in the past, but from now on she was going to start to be more severe with him.
"Ma!" he crowed, louder than ever.
"Hey, Ma." Old Mother Hen sighed resignedly and flopped down off the perch. It was no use. She might as well go see what he wanted first as last, for he would keep that up all night if she didn't. He was a spoiled chicken.
She waddled out to the barnyard. "Now, Charles," she clucked.
Charlie Chicken was not afraid of his mother. "Ma, I want those sunflowers in the sky," he crowed, flopping his wings.
What a bright boy Charlie was, Ma thought proudly. She had seldom been out late at night, but Charlie Chicken was nowhere to be found.

The mother of Gladys was having callers when her daughter entered the room. "My dear," cried mother, "you came down the stairs like a herd of elephants. Now go right back and see if you can't come down quietly."

A few minutes later Gladys entered the room noiselessly. "That was fine," beamed her mother. "You can't down just like a lady. I didn't hear you at all."

"No'm," answered Gladys, "I came down the bannisters."

His Reason.

Old Lady: "I hope you don't sell papers on Sunday, too."
Small Newsboy: "Oh, no'm."
Old Lady (beaming): "That's a fine boy!"
Small Newsboy: "I ain't big enough to carry the Sunday editions yet."

Mrs. Cat (leaving for home in anger): "Farewell, from now on I shall head my own litter."

No Wonder.

A robin piped a garden hose: Said he, "Well, I'll be hanged! I'd like to see the bird that pulled That worm above the ground!"

OFFICIALS FOR RUGBY GAME

Ben Simpson of Hamilton, Referee and Tom Riddell of Montreal, Umpire

The C.R.U. will not have to appoint the officials for Saturday's Eastern Canada senior final between Argonauts, champions of the Interprovincial and Canadian titleholders in 1921, and Queen's, winners of the Intercollegiate honors, as Manager Harris Ardiel of the Scullers and Acting Coach Billy Hughes of the Tri-Color quickly decided upon the three major officials over the telephone yesterday afternoon. Ben Simpson, of Hamilton, will referee; Tommy Riddell, of Montreal, will be the umpire, while Lieut.-Col. Eric G. Reid, of London, will be head linesman. In all probability Frank McGill, the M.A.A.A. sprint and quarter-back, and Billy Mallett, will be the touching judges.

If Queen's defeat Argonauts on Saturday it does not mean that the game between the Eastern and Western champions will be played in the Richardson Memorial Stadium at Kingston, says the Mail and Empire, the C.R.U. rule states that the Western champions "shall play off with the winners of the Eastern section on the latter's grounds, or on grounds to be decided by the executive." In all probability the Canadian final will be played at Varsity, as it has the largest capacity in the East, and as the Elks trip is a costly one, the C.R.U. will have an undimmed eye on the gate receipts. The final would draw nearly three times many spectators to Toronto as it would at Kingston Montreal is out of the question at this time of the year.

Argonauts worked out at the Stadium yesterday afternoon, following the completion of the Mulock Cup final, and practically every member of the squad had a good work-out in the natural light. The veteran Scullers have done practically all of their preparations in the evening by artificial lights, and yesterday's opportunity will prove very beneficial. Considerable of the time was devoted to catching and tackling. Head Coach Jack O'Connor hoofed the ball down the field to the backs and the wing men came down in two divisions and tried to down the ball-carriers. The backs handled the ball in faultless style and ran it back for considerable distances before being grassed.

TO BANQUET TRUNKS EARLY IN DECEMBER

Date Will Be Fixed Later, When Medals and Johnson Cup Will be Presented

Belleville Amateur Athletic Association will banquet their Central Ontario Baseball League champions, the first week in December, the date to be announced later. Secretary Sol. Delaney will call an executive meeting of the league for the same afternoon, to be held at the Quinte Hotel, when the recommendations adopted at the semi-annual meeting of the Ontario Amateur Baseball Association, held in Toronto, Saturday, Nov. 11, will be thoroughly discussed, and delegates appointed to the annual meeting. Also the date for the next annual meeting of the Central Ontario League, which is to be held at Cobourg, in the evening the Johnson Cup, championship pennant and silver medals will be presented to the champions. This will be a gathering of all leading baseball enthusiasts from Central Ontario League, and no doubt every past and present member of the executive will be on hand to congratulate Belleville winners.

LOOKING QUEEN'S OVER

Captain Jack McKelvey is the heaviest and also one of the youngest members of Queen's Intercollegiate champions, who play Argonauts in the Dominion semi-final at the Stadium on Saturday. The big centre-forward who played such a prominent part in the defeat of the University of Toronto team at Montreal last Saturday tips the scales at 189 pounds and is 21 years of age. Bud Thomas, the crack outside wing, is the youngest player on the team, the Ottawa boy being but 19 years of age and champion boy tennis player of Canada. Thomas weighs 161 pounds. Lis Walker is 21 years of age, Mundell 22, Lewis 20, McLeod and Harding 23, Bannister 22, Evans, Muirhead and Carson 24, and Leadley 25. The weights of the players are as follows: McLeod 167, Leadley 147, Bannister 164, Harding 152, Evans 162, Lewis 175, Muirhead 170, Carson 172, Mundell 173, Walker 156, Reynolds 183, Veale 162, and Delahey 175. Queen's and Argonauts average about the same.

SIKI IS HERO NO LONGER

Paris, Nov. 22.—His trade of passing out low and skull polish having been stopped by the law Battling Siki has accepted an offer to go into commerce as a shoe polish salesman, he told friends today.

Siki's only commercial experience in the past has been the trading of bullets at the front and the swapping of punches in the ring around Paris, but he said he had to do something to live.

Until he took a swing recently on the jaw of the manager of another boxer, Siki was sitting on the top of the world. Now he hasn't a thing. His titles were removed from him, and he was suspended for nine months from all activities in the ring for his first offense, and now it is understood that his career has been permanently terminated in France.

Since the first strains of bad luck hit him, Siki has been trying to drown out his trouble, and he has been engaging in all manner of excesses so that he became almost a public nuisance.

His license has been revoked permanently by the French boxing federation to Petit Journal. The action was taken at a special meeting called to hear the complaint of twenty-five noted sportsmen on Siki's recent conduct in public places.

The details of the complaints were not made known, but they were rendered with a blanket charge of overstepping the bounds of decency.

BATTLE BETWEEN KING'S GUARDS AND PARIS MOB

WHOLE VILLAGE BUILT FOR NEW MAYO FILM

"Vive le roi!"

"Vive la république!"

Shouting these cries, the king's guards and the people of Paris engaged in conflict.

It seemed as if nothing could withstand the military's murderous fire, but armed with pikes and conflagrated flintlocks—cried by the American march of their women to victory or death—setting up barricades, firing swipes of wastage, burning the city's cannon against the Swiss and German hirelings of their royal master, the rabble overwhelmed the soldiery, captured the fortresses, and in mad, drunken ravagedness and "frenzied revenge" celebrated the downfall of the House of Capet. Followed the torch, the massacre and the guillotine, the glory deeds of the Reign of Terror.

One may read of the nightmare of French Revolution in any standard book, but the remarkable thing is that only a few months ago that dread period lived again on a Westchester Studios, just outside the New York City boundary and hard by the peaceful waters of Long Island Sound. D. W. Griffith, who has led all others in the reconstruction of history, revived it as a background to his dramatic epic "Orphans of the Storm," a picture version of "The Two Orphans." Mr. Griffith wished to show that anarchy brings evils to the State twofold those of the order subverted. This newest Griffith picture sensation, a United Artists Corporation release, is the attraction at Griffin's tonight to Saturday, with a Matinee Friday and Saturday at 2.15 p.m.

Most movie history is hollow and insincere, with great gaps or errors in it that demonstrate its falsity. "Old Revolutionaries" are seen firing with the latest improved Colts and Remingtons. They are tricked out in no-period costumes, behave and act like modern, while the "scene of conflict" is an obvious American hillside, or else the cheap construction of five or six false fronts" serves to represent a city. As with the "Birth of a Nation" and "Intolerance" Mr. Griffith sought to make absolute replicas of the scene to be portrayed.

"Bring me a Revolution!" he said when everything was set to his magical chief of staff, who would not be surprised by a request for a seven hundred the ranks of Mars, and baulked to comply with the order. Months of preparation had preceded. The entire era had been synopsized by events and dates, designs had been drawn, work on the art, furniture, properties and costumes of the period started.

Then, wondrously—on the sodwaiped ground of the even meadow—Old Paris sprang into being. In the heart of it, it was impossible to realize one was walking in a "movie." The massive overhanging buildings, forestial balconies, narrow, crooked alleys, solid cannon, sinister guillotine—nay, the very cobble of the pavements, and the brick-and-mortar construction viewed close-up—acquired artificiality while the immense size, unbalanced by the skyline perspective, completely satisfied the eye.

But it was D. W. Griffith who put the immortal fire into the setting. Only his imagination could impart and vivify the insensate fury of the historical time and place.

The great director would be the last to claim historical infallibility. The important elements is that he respects facts and hires brains to dig it out and get it. That is why so few errors creep in, and why the scene looks to be the real thing even before the tremendous action convinces you.

Funny, do you think, that Mr. Griffith didn't stage the French Revolution in actual Paris, France? Not at all! The actual settings of the historical Revolution were long ago demolished. Only two buildings stand on the whole where king's-ire and popular rabble fought. The recent structure had to be made from old prints and engravings, and that Mr. Griffith could do better with his un-

RUPTURE RELIEF

Appliance Expert Coming.

Rupture is not a tear but a distention of the membrane, developing in to a swelling in the groin, therefor, subject to retention. No need to suffer longer, correct retention with solid comfort will relieve you at once and afford lasting benefit, he says—Thos. Y. Egan, Surgical Appliance Expert 1057 College St., Toronto, will visit Belleville, Hotel Quinte Monday afternoon and night, Tuesday all day and night—15th days only, November 27-28—Picton, Globe Hotel, November 29th.

Mr. Egan's new series of anatomical "Elastyle" retentive surgical aid (as now used and approved) are nature's own method. They retain like the hand, permit free circulation, allow nature to give the complete cure in shortest time possible and cost little. Prepared to measure (Men, Women, Children, Infants) for all conditions of rupture and after operations. The continuous dependability of these new surgical appliances, is not a matter of confidence but the result of constant tests, ethical and scientific development and are effecting better retention; then old-fashioned trusses. Mr. Egan has local Canadian testimonials for your inspection. If interested drop in the time to make yourself and comfortable for your work, or address fail to call and have a free demonstration of samples right here and your own suitable style, in full confidence that it is the most efficient and best in the world for you. You will save time, money and worry in the end, as there is bright hope for you, no matter how long you have suffered from trusses. It costs you nothing to investigate Thos. Egan's record for better service, via. "Made in Canada." Note dates, tell other who you know to be interested, and at hotel office for Mr. Egan's private room. Tear this out now as a reminder.

CALLED BY DEATH

ISAIAH CROOKS

At the family residence 281 Albert Street Mr. Isaiah Crooks passed away this morning after being ill in bed for a number of years. Deceased was 62 years of age and was born in Ireland but in this country as a boy and for 40 years had resided in Belleville. Mr. Crooks was well known and much respected. He was for some years a G. T. R. engineer and was an efficient employee. Deceased was a member of John Street Presbyterian Church. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Ancient Order of Foresters and an Orangeman. A widow and son, Clifford of Toronto and one daughter, Mrs. Chas. F. Wallbridge of this city survive. Three brothers James of New Zealand Joseph and Thomas of Ireland and one sister, Miss Mary in Scotland are living.

MRS. ANN PEAKE

Mrs. Ann Peake, of 9 Constance Street, Toronto, passed away Tuesday in her 91st year. The late Mrs. Peake, who had been a resident of the City of Toronto for over fifty years, was born in Belleville, Ont. Her husband predeceased her about 30 years ago. Surviving are two sons, R. J. Peake of Chicago, and A. T. Peake of Toronto, and one daughter, Mrs. T. R. Young, also of Toronto.

ODDFELLOWS' DANCE IN I.O.O.F. HALL

Many in Attendance at Enjoyable Lodge Dance

There was a large attendance at the I.O.O.F.] dance held in the I.O.O.F. Hall here last night, and a most successful time was spent.

Cards and dancing were the features of the evening; dancing commencing at 9 p.m. and ceasing at 1 a.m. Sill's orchestra supplied the music for the dancing.

Lunch was served during the evening.

How He Stopped It.

Two venerable theologians, an Episcopalian rector about eighty years old, and a minister of the Presbyterian church, who was somewhat younger, were very friendly, despite their differences in faith. The high-church man had always liked to be addressed as "Father." In course of time a new rector succeeded the "Father" and the Presbyterian, by force of habit, continued the high church title. But the new rector did not like it. "See here, Doctor Smith," said the irate rector, one day, "for some time I have been asking you to stop calling me 'father.' If you do it again I shall call you 'mother,' and if, after that, you do it again, I shall call you 'grandmother'."

It Is Not True
That people "begin glasses too soon." Not if the one who first examined the eyes was up to the standard in his work; because when the skilful Optometrist completes examining a pair of eyes he KNOWS what they need and how hat they do not need; he will never put glasses on his patient until they are necessary. A cable received announces that Mr. Walter H. Reeves, here appointed by Mrs. Reeves, will sail from London for Canada, December 1st, to spend the winter here.

BRITISH FISH-MONGER DIED A MILLIONAIRE

London, Nov. 22.—America furnishes many instances of millionaires who grew from the ranks, but it is doubtful if even in America a millionaire ever made such a humble start in life as did Sir George Frederick Sleight, first baronet of Wetherby Hall, Great Grimsby, who has just died leaving a fortune of nearly $5,000,000.

Sir George began earning his living as a boy by gathering cockles on Clethorpes Beach and hawking them through the town. He rose finally to be the largest individual owner of steam trawlers in the country. The greater part of his fleet was used during the war for mine-sweeping and submarine patrolling. For the services he rendered the country in this way he was made a baronet, and the conferring of the title provoked no such scandal as has grown out of the award of many honors in recent years.

Preparedness.

A tall, nervous-looking man rushed into the grocer's shop in a New York state village.

"Sell me all the stale eggs you have," he demanded.

"Well, I don't usually sell stale eggs," said the grocer, "but I could let you have some if you—"

"I must have all you've got."

"I suppose you're going to see 'Hamlet' at the village hall tonight," said the grocer knowingly.

"Hush!" said the stranger, glancing around nervously, "I am Hamlet."

If you wish to see pride at its best, observe a nice little girl who has just learned to use the word "whom."

BEND IN THE PETITIONS

There are still somewhere about the city some petitions which were circulated in reference to having the death sentence on Maurice Barrie commuted. It is necessary that these petitions be handed in to Col. Powlton's office, Bridge street, not later than tomorrow as they have to be presented to the Minister of Justice.

SMALL MARKET

There were few sellers upon the market this morning, the chief articles of produce being sold were vegetables and apples. There was no change to note in prices over those of Saturday last.

DANCE AND HOUSEWARMING

Mrs. (Dr.) J. A. Faulkner held a very successful housewarming dance at her beautiful home on Bridge street last evening at which about one hundred guests were present. Dancing, the music for which was furnished by Dolley's Orchestra, of Toronto, was indulged in until an early hour and a most enjoyable time was spent by all. Some of the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Sutton, Toronto; Dr. and Mrs. Cox, Stirling; Dr. and Mrs. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Kenny, Major and Mrs. Bills and Mrs. McLean, of Trenton; Mr. I. Brisco and Mr. R. White, of Napanee.

RUSSIAN BANDITS DISRESPECT A.R.A. SUPPLIES

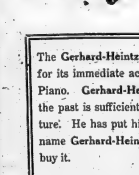

Samara, Nov. 22.—One of the latest bandit gangs in Russia—1,700 strong—which invilter the Red Army, for lambie lak as yet stamped out dominoes to operate in the Pugachevistrict, but in no way have the tob been ever attempted to interfere with American relief workers. It has been estimated that about 1,200 of the murbers thieves. The band is made up chiefly of army deserters who operate in units of 15 to 20 men.

According to relief workers, the bandits always make it a point to avoid anything belonging to the American Relief Administration. In Pugachevsk the government warehouse was robbed while the A.R.A. storage sheds, filled with food being prepared for the children, pronounced it very good, chucked a few youngsters under the chin and wishing them good appetites, and then went their way—to the house of the village treasurer, which they looted.

A GIANT MACHINE TOOL.

The enormous ramee of the modern machine tool may be realised by comparing the tiny electric drill, with which the dentist tortures us for our good, and a home machine such as that recently constructed by a British firm for surfacing and boring the casing of steam turbines. This machine weighs about one hundredtons and is probably the largest of its kind yet built. It is capable of boring out large castings and of surfacing them without the casing being moved. It is driven by a thirty horse-power electric motor, with an auxiliary motor for shifting the tool. All the latest improvements are embodied in this giant machine, which carries out every variety of operation with the greatest accuracy and at maximum speed.

"I Avoided an Operation Appendicitis Disappeared"
Mrs. James Wells, Udora, Ont., writes:—
"I took a severe pain in my right side. It was very bad at times. I tried pills and tablets without gaining any relief. The doctor pronounced it chronic appendicitis. I dreaded an operation and a friend advised Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I used them and not only obtained relief from pain, but I believe it has completely freed me of appendicitis, as it is now over a year since I have had any of the old symptoms."

Hobby Explains

He cums home feelin' sore; his wife took one swift glance, as he slumped in through the door, and then studied him askance. Clear, thunkin' was a story from the fierceness of his frown, but she fed him apple pie with the crust a goldern brown. As he shoveled in each slice, she but wondered what she'd done —ah, perhaps it was the price of the new-made chicken pen. Or, perhaps it was the fact that she'd bought 'steen bucks or less, with humility and tact for the burnin's of her short-'Or, perhaps he'd met reverse, in the game that some hour. Dare she ask, or would he cuss? Ah, she feared he'd turn more sour." While she watched his gloomy way, fragrant as the autumn's cool, and she passed the cream-filled jug, with its quaint and funny scent. Gulping down the steaming drink he sighed and said in this way: "This darned roller's on the blink —it has chafed my neck all day!"

It appears that 98 per cent. of the world's inhabitants have adopted the slogan: "Darn everybody else."

He can love her still if he discovers, her tongue is false. But not if he discovers her teeth are false.

AT BAPTIST CHURCH

occupation degraded and reviled, was kindly saked by Jesus, "follow Me." Matthew did so, and eventually recorded for us the gospel of Matthew. The Master also talked with the woman of Samaria, at the well, a despised outcast. Therefore Rev. Mr. McKechnie deduced that there are none too low in the social scale or in sin, who may not look on Jesus to notice and call. He sees the possibilities of service in us all, leads us to believe in ourselves, transforms and remoulds us to be of use.

John Bunyan, the "Swearing Tinker," of England, who gave the world his "Pilgrims Progress" and Jerry McCauley of the Water St. Mission in New York, are two simplifications of his saving grace, in more recent times. Great transformations are thus made from wonderful poor material and these great changes in one's life are made throught faith in God. We should immediately act on Divine impulses, which are most magnificent and sometimes come to us with great suddenness.

Those attending the service were again privileged to hear Mr. A. Greenlaw. His rendition of beautiful and remarkably clear enunciation) was indeed pleasing to his listeners. In the rendering of that well known selection from Alexander's Sons "Sing, Sweet Bird," Mr. Greenlaw sang with great feeling and a crescendo notes very taken with a brilliant, to be appreciated must be heard. There is a distinct absence of the guttural and nasal sounds in his' renditions and the tone is carried with a smoothness of voice that is most appealing. It was announced that, on Thursday evening's service Mr. Greenlaw would sing two selections composed by himself, viz. "Were you there when they Crucified My Lord" and "Lord, I want To be a Christian in My Heart."

These nightly meetings are very helpful to all and are so conducted that they are interesting and are not without that personal touch so often suspicious by its absence.

HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT AT CITY HALL

CITY TO DEFEND DAMAGE SUIT

Executive Committee of Council Authorize Solicitor to This Effect

At the meeting of the various civic committees held last evening considerable business was transacted. Some recommendations were adopted and passed on to the Council meeting to be held next Monday. One of the recommendations was to authorize the City Solicitor to defend the action of Thomas Holland, who issued a writ against the city and Police Constable Stitt for $5,000 damages. This action is a result of an accident when the Belleville police car, driven by Constable Stitt, collided with Holland's car. Holland suffered painful injuries and his car was badly damaged.

Recommended that the City Solicitor be instructed to defend the action entered by Thomas J. Holland against the corporation of the city of Belleville and Police Constable Stitt for damages alleged to have been sustained, to himself and motor truck by being struck by a motor car owned by the city and operated by the police department.

Recommended that Aldermen Foster, Greenlees and McCreary be a committee to meet the Public Commissioners on matters appertaining to the general welfare of the city.

Recommended that Mayor Hanna Aldermen Donahue, French and Pat terson, be a committee to investigate the purchase of wood.

Recommended that the foreman o the water works be granted $10 per month to apply on expenses of hor etc., for horse used by him in the discharge of his duties.

SUCCESSFUL BAZAAR AT BRIDGE STREET

The Annual Christmas Sale Proceeds Will Amount to $900

The annual bazaar and Christmas sale held by the Ladies' Aid of Bridge St. Church yesterday afternoon was possibly the most successful that has ever been held. The booths, each carrying out a different color scheme presented a wonderfully attractive appearance and were each one very tastefully and prettily arranged. In the centre of the room were two maypoles with streamers of rainbow coloured crepe paper which added much to the attractiveness of the scene. Fancywork and homemade cooking, useful articles and fancy dressed dolls and odds and ends were served during the afternoon, the committee in charge being Mrs. F. S Deacon, Mrs. Holland and Mrs. Bird; Mrs. Morgan is president of the Society and Mrs. Ackerman and Mrs. W. B Deacon were conveners.

The proceeds already amount to $900 and some returns are not yet in. The ladies in charge of the various booths were as follows:

Handkerchief Booth—Mrs. Lattimer and Mrs. Cooper.

Nightgown Booth—Mrs. Fiske and Mrs. French.

Doll Booth—Mrs. Deroche and Mrs. Hyde.

Baby Booth—Mrs. Ray and Mrs. Mc Kinnon.

Candy Booth—Mrs. Borbridge, Mrs. Bousteed and Mrs. Mooney.

Apron Booth—Mrs. Hunter and Mrs. O'Flynn.

Underwear Booth—Mrs. Richardson and Mrs. Wray.

Fancywork Booth—Mrs. Calloway and Mrs. Moon.

Homemade cooking Booth — Mrs. Spence Clarke.

BILLS INTRODUCED

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Nov. 24th.—Premier Bonar Law introduced in the House of Commons a bill putting into effect the constitution of the Irish Free State, and the Free State "Consequential Provision Bill". Both measures received their first reading.

FIRST DIVISION OF HOUSE

London, Nov. 24th.—The first division in the New House of Commons which occurred this afternoon was carried by the Government by a majority of 103 against the Laborite opposition when Premier Bonar Law moved that the Government be empowered to take all the time of the House for Government business during the session. The Laborites opposed it.

BISHOP FALLON REVIEWS EUROPEAN CONDITIONS

Paints Dark Picture of European Affairs—Declares German Menace Not Removed—Pays Tribute To British Institutions

A dark and forbidding picture of the state of affairs in Europe, with the German menace undestroyed, the German influence behind the destines of Russia, with ferment in the Balkans and hate and discord in the disrupted Austro-Hungarian empire, was painted by Right Rev. Mr. F. Fallon, D.D., Catholic Bishop of London, Ontario, addressing a large gathering in Massey Hall last night, under the auspices of the Christian Brothers' Old Boys. The Bishop hinted at dark and sinister influences and "hidden hands" which had been responsible for the state of affairs now existing, which he said he could almost inevitably lead to further strife. The one bright spot in Europe, he concluded by saying, was Ireland.

"Talk on Conditions in Europe," was the subject on which the Bishop spoke. He had been requested from "to extended visit to Europe and he commenced his address by stating that judgment as is given to the nations of the world. I would ask our friends who have not much to do with the matter to leave Ireland to Ireland. We are looking for no outside sympathy and no outside criticism. Outside criticism has always been the curse of Ireland. She will work out her own destiny."

Continuing, Bishop Fallon said that since the armistice there had been seven peace treaties and fifteen peace conferences. Underneath these treaties, selfish designs, unpatriotic efforts and secret influences had been at work, and explained the cause of the failure. There was a man in Rome called Peter. Five years ago he was called Benedict, 75 years ago he was called Gregory, 1,900 years ago he was called Peter. To-day he was called Pius. Outside might stood against him and archdeacons imagine a vain thing, but Peter was going to stand to his guns. The failure to call Peter in had been the supreme mistake. He was the one great moral personage in the world, and there would never be settled peace until Peter presided.

Judge O'Connell occupied the chair at the meeting and the Bishop was introduced by Very Rev. Dean Harris. Overtures were given prior to the address by the De la Salle orchestra under the baton of Signor Micelli, and Master John Cox, who is only seven years of age, sang very sweetly "Annie Marie," and as an encore "The Minstrel Boy." Cornet solos were given by Master Mark Hockbridge.

NO ARRESTS YET LIQUOR THEFT CASE

Provincial Officers Are Thoroughly Investigating Details of Case

No arrests have yet been made in connection with the liquor theft from the Grand Trunk Railway car, according to information received this morning by one of the Provincial officers, who is in charge of the case. The officers are working on the matter, however.

The theft occurred on the Wharncliffe branch of the G.T.R. when some of the thieves broke open the door of a box car which contained cases of liquor. Two cases only, were taken.

NORWEGIAN STEAMER ASHORE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, Nov. 24.—The Norwegian steamer Norhild inbound, to Montreal with 1,800 tons of general cargo, went to Bell Isle Straits. There is some anxiety locally as to her fate as she is reported to be ashore in a dangerous spot. The Norhild was on her way here for a cargo of grain.

DOUBLE CONFERENCE IS ABANDONED

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Lausanne, Nov. 24th. The plan to hold two distinct conferences, one for Near Eastern question, and for the re-establishing of peace between Turkey and Greece and between Allies and Turkey, and the second to fix the status of the Straits of Dardinelles, has been abandoned, it was stated today.

TRAPPER FINED AT BANCROFT

Hunted and Trapped Animals Without the Necessary License

Elr. Lawrence, trapper and hunter, residing in the northern part of Hastings County, fell into Game Warden Wright's net and as a result was placed under arrest for hunting without a license and trapping fur in closed season. Warden Wright had possession at the time of arrest, two beaver skins and a quantity of venison. He was taken from his shack in the wood and placed in the cell at Bancroft jail. Later before Police Magistrate Ketcheson he pleaded guilty and was assessed $100.00 fine and $20.00 costs, besides having his trappers' license cancelled and his rifle and traps forwarded to the Department for safekeeping.

SERIOUS FIRE AT ODESSA

General Store, Warehouse, Pool Room and Barn, all Consumed by Flames

Kingston, Ontario, November 23.—One of the worst fires that has visited Odessa in a long time was that which broke out early this morning in the rear of the general store conducted by D. Frink & Sons, shortly after two o'clock, and as a result the building and contents were destroyed, machine warehouse, also a poolroom and a barn. The fire was discovered in the rear of the general store shortly passing through Odessa in a car and the alarm was immediately given and the whole neighborhood was aroused. No time was lost by the villagers in getting to the scene of the trouble and when it was found to be serious the telephone operator sent calls out to all the country around for assistance and in a short time Harrowsmith there was a splendid response and a large number from the vicinity of Odessa were soon on the scene giving whatever assistance they could to stop the onrush of the flames.

It was found, however, that the efforts of those already doing their best were quite fruitless and the fire was making great headway despite the desperate attempts to stop it. Word was then immediately dispatched to the city to Major Corbett, asking for assistance from the local fire brigade to help in extinguishing the fire that was threatening the entire village. Major Corbett readily gave permission for firemen, to go to Odessa, and two cars were secured, and six firemen, besides Chief Armstrong, went out to the scene of the conflagration. They took with them a number of chemical extinguishers.

The firemen started right in at their task and when the chemicals were used the flames. After hard work, however, the fire was finally extinguished and the car which the morning left the Kingston firemen then returned to the city.

A very enjoyable and delightful evening was spent.

ROYAL WINTER FAIR POPULAR

Farm Products Greatly in Evidence—Apple Competition Very Keen

Toronto, Nov. 24th.—The second day of the Winter Fair proved to be also a success from the point of view of attendance, and those present seem to be well satisfied with the exhibits.

Judging from the manner in which the arena was packed this afternoon, one of the most popular phases of the Fair is the Hi'se Show, and almost seems surprising to think that there are eight thousand people who will turn out each night to see the beauties and breed their paces in the ring. In the old days before the war, one of the most popular social events of the year was the old Horse Show held in the Armouries, but the present function, from the standpoint both of size and attendance far surpasses anything which the city has known before in this line. The splendidly built and well groomed out the horse in many of the activities of life, but when it comes down to the show ring which can lay claim to a first-class hunter and perhaps throw its rider—the excitement still lingers

BOOSTS THE FARM

That does not mean that the Horse Show is the only thing to be seen, for now the the Fair has settled down and got into its stride, there is much else, the casual visitor must be impressed with the great importance which the Fair is to the farming community. The Winter Fair has helped out in the past and in the present, and aims to present them all before the public in a compact manner, dairying, poultry, agriculture, horticulture, fruit culture, and all those other activities which are followed for pleasure and profit on the farms of the Dominion are shown here to the best of advantage, without the counter-attractions of other exhibits to draw the attention. A small feature of the Fair may serve to show the interest which is being worked up along special lines. For instance, there is a wonderful display of new and unnamed roses in the horticultural department, which came from Indiana, and which are now to be called "The Royal" after the Winter Fair. The Indiana grower is so impressed with the possibilities of Canada's effort, that he prefers to have his roses named after a Canadian institution instead of after an American. So there will be a christening event in the rose section this afternoon at three when some lady, as yet unchosen, will perform the ceremony and receive in return a gift of the fifty beauties from Indiana.

VISITORS PASS A THOUSAND MARK

Visitors to the Local Telephone Exchange passed the thousand mark last evening, against a total of 849 for Telephone Week last year.

The display-Board of the different types of telephones, the ringing and charging machines, the storage battery room, the operating room, the Main and Intermediate Distributing Frame, the Local and Toll Switchboards, the Call Boards, the Calculagraph for timing long distance calls, the Information and Chief Operator's desk with their operators' Retiring Room, and the Radio equipment were all thoroughly explained by painstaking and competent guides.

The local Management and staff of the Bell Telephone Company appreciate the kind interest taken by the citizens of Belleville in Telephone Week, and hope that those who have not as yet had time to visit the Exchange will do so this evening or tomorrow.

PROVINCIAL CONVENTION OF CONSERVATIVES

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Nov. 20.—Confidence that the future spells success for the Liberal-Conservative party in both the Dominion and the Provincial spheres of government, was the keynote of the addresses at the opening here this morning of Liberal-Conservative Association of Ontario. Plans for the aggressive campaigning to that end will be discussed at length at the present meeting. The session this morning was largely one of organization.

POOR OLD MAN

Edward Parsnall, an aged wanderer, was picked up by a police officer this morning while he wandered about the streets. Edward is one of the old timers, from Prince Edward County, and is too independent to enter a Home for the aged, but prefers to wander about.

Soap and water, etc., will work wonders with this poor, old man in the very near future.

A GREAT INDUSTRY

The value of the cheese industry to this section of the country may be judged from the fact that upwards of two million dollars was paid out to cheese in this district in Prince Edward counties this season.

Strong winds and gales, from northwest nearly constantly, and generally moderate. Saturday, strong northwest winds, mostly fair, and quite cold.

FELL FROM 2ND STOREY WINDOW

Painful Injuries Inflicted Upon Boss Carpenter at Corbyville Plant

Mr. Frank Campbell who resides in this city was this morning the victim of a painful accident and one that will confine him in bed for some time. He is the boss carpenter at the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company's plant at Corbyville and was engaged in his duties when the unfortunate affair occurred. Mr. Campbell was in the act of painting which is being repaired owing to the fire which occurred in it on Sunday last, when he came some one or something unknown he fell out of a second Storey window to the hard ground below. It was apparent the victim was seriously injured and as quickly as possible was conveyed to the hospital in this city where it was ascertained on right that was fractured and the right arm broken near the wrist. In addition Mr. Campbell was severely bruised about the body. He is doing as well as could be expected.

ARMENIAN PAYS DEATH PENALTY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Brantford, Nov. 24th.—At 6.05 this morning Harry Deal paid the death penalty by hanging for the murder of Peter Ezoian, his landlord. Both of them were Armenians. Death in the case of Deal was instantaneous, eleven seconds being given as the time. Hangman Arthur Ellis officiated and there was no hitch.

OFFICERS RETURN WITH PRISONERS

Drive Stolen Car Back to Belleville With Four Youthful Prisoners

Chief of Police A.Vidd and P. C. Booth had a long and a cold trip from Toronto last night with their four prisoners, the youths who had stolen the Maxwell car belonging to Mr. Allen of Stirling, while he was in Griffin's Theatre here last Saturday night.

To add to the trouble, the stolen car in which the return trip was made, was in very bad shape and only bore evidence of rough usage but did not respond very satisfactorily. The brakes and clutch were very loose and the whole machine shows signs of abuse. There is a hole in the body indicating that the car had bumped something rather forcibly. The car was a new 1921 model Maxwell touring car, drk blue color and body and disc wheels.

The four youths accused youths appeared in police court this morning before Magistrate H. F. Ketchenson, who remanded them until Monday, November 27th.

They looked, talked much, and did not appear to realize their position, while they were being formally remanded. They presented every indication of a tough time when their hasty departure from Belleville.

MUSIC and DRAMA

FAMOUS RIDE TO THE RESCUE OF HENRIETTE, AT THE GUILLOTINE, A STARTLING SPECTACLE

"On these is usually created on the success of the average motion picture feature. There are many in D. W. Griffith's great dramatic epic "Orphans of the Storm," his adaptation of Kate Claxton's "The Two Orphans," which under a United Artists Corporation release, is being exhibited at Griffith's Theatre tonight, and Saturday, Monday, and next night, and in several of those Monte Blue is the hero. The famous actor, Lad Chaplin-Jeffries and originally a "wild westerns," long since won stellar eminence, but Mr. Griffith gave him the greatest role of his career in the part of Danton, leader of the French Revolutionary uprising.

Early in the story Danton's life is sought by the hired thugs that the Parisian populace to kill all the Revolutionists. Danton fights the advance guard superb'y, then finds refuge in the lodgings of the orphan Henriette Girard, who by a clever ruse diverts the pursuers elsewhere. Later, Danton repays the favor by pleading for the girl's life before the Revolutionary Tribunal and by riding with her captive even to the steps of the guillotine.

The ride to the rescue is punctuated by a battle between horsemen and a group of the Robespierre faction. This is a thrilling affair at the gate of Paris. The horses belong to the U. S. Government cavalry, and the riders are either active or ex-army men. The cavalry have been so photographed that they seem to be rushing on the at them. The effect is said to surpass even the famed Kis Klux Klan ride in "The Birth of a Nation."

The abduction scene of Henriette, the duel at Bel-Air, the streets of the blind Louise, the orphan sister, the meeting of the sisters at the Tribunal, and under the guillotine, and finally the depiction of the little heroine's impending fate, are among the other high points of a great story that weld together the old "Two Orphans" play and the French Revolution drama. Those well known favorites, Miss Lillian and Miss Dorothy Gish, play the title roles. A beautiful musical setting, played by a special orchestra, adds greatly to the enjoyment of the photodrama.

NEW VEHICLE FOR FRANK MAYO ONE OF THE BEST HE HAS HAD

Do you like action on the screen or do you like psychology?

Either way, "Afraid to Fight" offers entertainment of a snappy sort at the Regent Theatre, where it is showing. It is a Universal picture, starring Frank Mayo.

For Mayo's use Lee Kenick Brown wrote a story which mixes smashing action and jolting psychology in equal measure. Universal assigned its filming to a director who has guided Mayo many times before, William Worthington.

The leading woman is Lillian Rich and Peggy Ostvright, Lydia Yeati, W. S. McDunnough, Wade Boteler, Rocco Karns, tom Kennedy, Tom McGuire, Al Kaufman and others handle principal roles.

The story concerns a young man out of a job, half shot from the effect of being gassed in the war and badly in need of money, not only to support a mother and kid sis, but to get the little girl next door into a real child, able to play and run about. She's a cripple and the doctor's dictum that an operation costing three thousand must be undertaken within a few months or she will always be a cripple, puts a bad crimp in the silver lining.

"Hokus Pokus," a very funny Christie comedy, Round Six of the popular athletic series "Leather Pushers," and Pathe News were exhibited during the evening.

"REX" IS AT IT AGAIN

Not, since that delightful "It Walked Jimmy" has "Rex" had a real Rex comedy part, but in the snappy comedy offering which Rex is presenting at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday, he comes into his own again, in one of those uproarious comedy parts, that while you laugh, give you a little heart ing also.

In the title role of "His Majesty" he has four long and five scenes to remind you that the Rex Stock Company is not only as good, but is better than it ever was.

This comedy aside from being entertaining, like "In Walked Jimmy," carries a good lesson, and that lesson is Self-Confidence—without egotism It shows that a man without confidence in himself, will never reach the heights of man's desire, but that a man who, without being afflicted with "Swelled Head" can have abundant

QUEER FEELINGS AT MIDDLE AGE

Women Should Know How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps at This Trying Period

Shakopee, Wisconsin.—"I was nervous, tired and nervous. I could not rest, and it day and night housework, could not sleep at night and all kinds of queer thoughts would come to me. Finally I made up my mind to go to the doctor and a friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After the first bottle I could sleep better and I have kept on improving ever since. I have taken seven bottles now and am so happy that I can tell other that feeling. You may use my letter as you like."—Mrs. L. Ledden, Box 61, Brotherhood, Wisconsin.

Any woman entering middle age Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can find much benefit. During the time of life certain changes take place which sometimes develop into serious trouble.

Melancholy, nervousness, irritability, headache and dizziness are some of the symptoms. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a natural restorative, especially adapted to assist nature in her functional periods. Why not give it a fair trial?

BOUCHER SAYS HE FEELS LIKE A NEW MAN

"Tanlac has made me feel like a brand-new man," declares Herve Boucher, 1491 Dupleesn Street, Montreal, a well-known office employee.

"For the first time in two years," said Mr. Boucher, "I can eat a hearty meal without suffering afterwards. Before I took Tanlac, my stomach was so disordered that I had all kinds of troubles after eating. I had no appetite, my liver was sluggish and I felt bad all the time. I was nervous and what little sleep I did get didn't seem to rest me. My back hurt me a great deal, and I had quite a bit of dizziness, when I had to sit down to keep from falling. I couldn't find any medicine to help me and I felt weak and run down and completely discouraged.

"But it was different with Tanlac, for the very first bottle helped me and as I kept on taking it I kept on improving. My appetite is so good now I can hardly wait for meal is to come, and I eat all I want of just whatever is on the table without any bad after effects. All my other troubles are gone, too, and I feel strong and vigorous and full of energy. Tanlac is the best medicine ever saw that does all they say it will do."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

SURPRISE PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vickers Were Recipients of a Wedding Gift

The office staff and employees of the McLaughlin Motor Car Co. planned and staged a very successful surprise party last night, Mr. Fred Vickers, an employee of the firm, had just returned with his wife, from a honeymoon trip, and the party was held at their new house on North Front street. A very fine library table was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Vickers, by his fellow workers The presentation address was read by Mr.-S. S. Finkle. Mr. Vickers replied with a few remarks expressing his appreciation and surprise.

The plans for the party had been kept very quiet and the first intimation of the party that the Vickers couple had was when the truck with the library table drew up at the house and the guests-tobe were at the door.

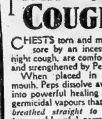

The ladies brought refreshments and a very enjoyable social evening was spent. Mr. Amos Moyse delighted the guests with two solos. He was accompanied on the piano by Miss Ingram of the office staff.

Card games and dancing were entered into both before and after supper. Willing hands assisted in preparing the supper which was very sumptuous.

Everyone voted the evening a huge success.

New York funds sell at premium of 3-32 per cent. in Montreal, Canadian exchange, after about two months in which it has been quoted at sufficient premium to make shipments of gold here profitable, again has dropped below par, and sold yesterday in New York at a discount of 3-32. Such a situation has put a stop to further gold shipments. The high point reached by Canadian exchange in the New York market was par and 5-32, due in large measure to the credits built up by Canada in loans made in the N.Y. market, and by the purchase of grain bills here. During the period when gold shipments were profitable, approximately $30,000,000 of U.S. gold was brought across the border, most of it in $500.00 and $1,000.00 bills. The imports were mostly for the account of the Canadian Government.

The export trade in grain at Montreal is quiet but the general tone of the market steady. Canadian Western cash quoted at 66c; barley 74c; corn 92c; wheat $1.12. Holland is buying considerable corn.

Winter Fair Popular

Hunters, Favorites.

While the Horse Show is the popular event of the night, the jumpers and hunters are easily the most popular of the horses. The high-steppers may count upon a nice round of grade hand-clapping but with the jumpers it is different. They are received with cheers as well as clapping, and when even the poorest of these as much as ticks a hoof against even the highest bar of the hurdles, then there is a great sigh of disappointment echoing about the vast arena. Such beauties of animals with such dainty prancing, and with such stiff-backed individuals upon their saddles, surely should never be submitted to the humiliation of defeat from any quarter whatever, but since the judges have only three ribbons, to hand out, it is hard to say how they would manage if some of the beauties did not occasionally stub a hoof or take some of the stiffness out of the backs of their riders.

Fine Apple Exhibit

In the fruit department, it would seem that the management have set at rest the question of testing the will power of the visitors, for with the brilliant display of reds and pinks and yellows to be seen in the apple section, there is about as stern a temptation as has been placed before the citizens of Toronto for a long time. From the standpoint of display, the apple exhibit is an interesting one, as it has collected the most brilliant colorings to be found from coast to coast, and there is whole section of the upper floor of the Coliseum practically dimed with the gay color of fruits.

The apple show represents the first big all-Canadian competition of the kind which has been held in the city, as British Columbia and the Maritimes—the two apple-growing sections of Canada apart from Ontario—are both represented, with British Columbia making a mark stronger bid than the Maritimes. Ontario appears to be making her first real bid for the local trade. For the past thirty years, it is pointed out, the best of Ontario's apples have gone to London and Glasgow, while the Maritime apples have also gone over the sea instead of inland. Now, in Ontario growers state that they are ready to keep some of their best fruits home, provided the Ontario public will buy them instead of going in so strongly for the British Columbia product. The Maritimes, on the other hand, do not appear to be particularly keen to get local from the standpoint of numbers, of business, as they are the weakest, any of the three big apple-producing sections of the Dominion.

In packing, as well, the Ontario apple-growers have shown a disposition to go in for the latest wrinkles, as the great bulk of the Ontario display appears in the box form which was made so popular by the British Columbia product sometime ago. They are also showing some grades in the hamper pack, which is much less spectacular, but which has a strong appeal on the local market in view of the lower cost of packing.

CONTEST IS KEEN

So far as competition is concerned, there are many grades where Ontario and British Columbia clash, while both of these provinces have grades in which they are practically free from competition. For instance, British Columbia has things its own way with the Grimes Golden, and the Delicious, while Ontario has little competition in Northern Spies. But when it comes to the Wagners, Jonathans and McIntoshes, there is a struggle for honors. Since the judging is not all finished, it is difficult to say just where the edge lies, but so far the two provinces appear to be running about even; and this is rather more than Ontario expected when the Fair opened.

In the single boxes, there is contest in the Wolmers, Jonathans and Spies, with British Columbia winning the first and Ontario the three others. In the five-box display, the provinces clash in the McIntosh grade only, and honors up to yesterday appeared to be about half and half. In the ten-box grades, the contest is in the McIntosh, Wagners and the Spies. The former is going about half and half; British Columbia is cleaning up on the Wagners, and Ontario is running away with the Northern Spy honors. In the twenty-box lots, the contest is confined to McIntosh and Spies. Here Ontario made one of the biggest gains; as all five honors went to Burlington and Clarkson districts for the McIntosh, and four honors out of five went to this province on the Spies. British Columbia got second prize only in the grade. In the hundred-box lots there are fourteen entries, six from Ontario and eight from British Columbia, the results to come later.

THE CATTLE EMBARGO

Progressive members who discussed the much talked about British embargo on Canadian cattle, stated that they did not care who got the credit for its removal—so long as it was done. Manning Doherty of Queen's Park. This Ontario Minister feels that the issue was about it and doubtless agrees with his colleague, the Hon. Peter Smith, who has stated publicly that to Mr. Doherty belongs the whole credit. Some time ago, when addressing meetings in his adopted constituency of North Kent, he was exhibiting to audiences a telegram from Lord Beaverbrook, to the effect that the Ontario Minister of Agriculture was largely responsible for bringing British opinion to the point of action.

We do not desire to deprive Mr. Doherty of any credit that he may see fit to hand himself, for it is obvious that he will need many such bulwarks for arguments when the provincial election comes next year, but the public should be reminded of further facts in the case before judging too closely. It will be remembered that Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, while Premier of Great Britain, went on record that Mr. Doherty's visit to England was a "dangerous precedent" in the way of political procedure, and that his agitation "prejudiced the case of Canada."

In the last spring session at Ottawa it was clearly substantiated that the British Ministers as long ago as 1917 gave a pledge for embargo removal to the Canadian Government, and this is further confirmed by a recent issue of The London Times, which states that "the pledge given FIVE YEARS AGO may now be looked upon as an accomplished fact."

The late Meighen Government after the war took up the matter of this pledge, given at the Imperial Conference by the British Minister of Agriculture, that the Government would remove the embargo, although the date was not fixed. Hon. Arthur Meighen further stated in the House last spring that he hoped all this correspondence would be brought down and the matter carried to a satisfactory conclusion. Thus the efforts of the Liberal-Conservative Opposition, relative to the cattle embargo, brought forth action by the King Government, and Hon. Mr. Fielding and Hon. Ernest Lapointe hied themselves to England to close the deal, and whether or not they needed the assistance of Hon. Mr. Doherty is problematical. He was in England anyway and is accorded by some individuals the credit of finally settling the controversy. It would seem that Provincial meddling in Federal matters is not only unwarranted and unnecessary, but somewhat unconstitutional.

THE RETURN TO PARTY LINES

The Right Hon. Bonar Law has a majority of something like 80 in the new British House of Commons. His supporters number more than the representatives of both kinds of Liberals and all others combined. The decline of Liberalism and the remarkable growth of Labor's representation were features of a somewhat obscure campaign. However, from out of this obscure campaign the experts draw at least one conclusion.—Sir George Younger's judgment was right when he staked all on the belief that the country was ripe for the return to straight party politics, and broke with Lloyd George at the Carlton Club meeting.

Evidences are present on all sides in Canada, that we have had enough of the group system, limited as it is, in this country. Proponents of class consciousness and sectionalism tried their strength at the Progressive caucus out west, recently, and lost. Robert Forke, the new leader, represents "broadening out" just as much as did his predecessor, Mr. T. A. Crerar. Alberta is "sure" over the outcome, and the Woods' and Morrisons of the party will no doubt open the ball-de in due course. Meanwhile the party is split into two factions even in Ontario. There are constituencies where "broadening out" is no longer a theory, but a fact. Urban delegates attend party conventions, assist to choose candidates, and run themselves proposed as candidates. In others the contrary is the case. In West Elgin a few days ago, citizens of Dutton who attended the annual meeting of the riding organization found that they were not welcome. In Russell County the line has been closely drawn.

As a matter of fact the Progressive representation in the House would have to be changed if the occupational basis were strictly adhered to. Many members of the group are described in the Parliamentary Guide as clergymen, managers, implement dealers, carpenters, etc. Take the redoubtable Mr. Hoey is a "field secretary" while J. W. King of North Huron claims distinction as an "agriculturist." One learns from the events of the Winnipeg caucus that Capt. J. T. Shaw, Calgary barrister, is not a Progressive at all, though he sat very near Mr. Crerar in Parliament. However, whether "narrow" or "broad" all sections King Government as usual, whenever votes are needed, which is just as effective as any "fusion," except that it brings no seats in the Cabinet.

There is little doubt but there will be some surprises when the forces line up for the provincial election campaign in Ontario in 1923. The great numbers that have fallen away from the U.F.O. have not vanished into thin air; they will be found voting, if not working, with the parties to which they formerly belonged. History such as has been made recently in Great Britain will repeat itself sooner or later—probably sooner.

As an evidence that he does not favor secret diplomacy, President Harding has appointed an Ohio woman secretary of an embassy.

A city council in Ohio has forbidden dogs to bark after nine o'clock at night. The penalty to the owners is a fine of one dollar per bark, thus proving the truth of the old saying that some dogs' bark is worse than their bite.

HERE AND THERE

THE TYRANNY OF FASHION

A New York woman in a letter to Dr. Copeland, the Health Commissioner, asks him to "tackle the long skirt, which is a menace to health." If Dr. Copeland uplifts decree that the skirt must be long, Dr. Copeland will be as impotent to save the short skirt as Mrs. Partington was to push back the sea with a broom. What pretty girl would have ventured to bob her hair before the signal was given?

It may be doubted whether Paris will be so arbitrary as to insist upon a skirt very near the ground. The Health Commissioner, however, is perturbed. "I was sorry to note this year in Paris," he says, "the remarkable change that has taken place in so short a time. It must be admitted that the Parisian maidens were formerly a little scant in their attire, but even so, they were wearing garments far more sanitary and healthful than the present mode demands."

Exactly the same comment might be made upon the dress of the New York girl. The skirt was considered rather too short when it appeared, but use soon silenced criticism. It was sanitary and promoted grace of movement. After a while it seemed as if the skirt for the young had always been short. Dr. Copeland is right in resisting the long skirt, although he may be rash. Enfranchised woman should not be encumbered by her draperies. If Paris goes too far there may be a revolution in America.

WORLD'S GREATEST CITY IS RICHEST COPPER FIELD

The richest copper mine in the world, with veins of pure electrolytic copper stretching in every direction, lies, not in South America, Mexico or the Rockies, but right under the streets of New York City. Proof of this statement was revealed at a recent electrical show in New York City, where a cross-section of a street corner gave a faint idea of the vast quantity of the red metal that has been put in the streets during the past forty years as the electric light service of the city has been extended. The value of this copper and of the lead sheathing that protects the circuit runs into millions of dollars. Add to this the value of the telephone and telegraph wires and the sum reaches stupendous proportions.

The cross-section of a city street shows a manhole; the ducts through which the cables are drawn, are revealed just how underground construction is carried out. Another underground section shows a sample of the first underground distribution ever laid in 1882, that put under the streets of downtown New York forty years ago, when Thomas Edison built the first electric lighting station in New York. Compared with the present method this old exhibit seems crude indeed, but as result of its success New York is now a city of clear

PRESS OPINIONS

TREES AS MEMORIALS

Toronto Globe.

A tree expert, Professor Charles S. Sargent, notes, the popularity of trees as memorials for soldiers. A warning is given against planting a single tree, which may be destroyed by fire or lightning or suffer from neglect or ignorance. The right memorial is an avenue, in which lost trees would be replaced. Care should be taken to select trees that are hardy and suitable to the soil and not subject to pests.

With these and other precautions, an avenue or a park makes a dignified and comparatively inexpensive memorial, and one that conveys a lesson by symbolizing the growth that should make up for the waste and destruction of war. A building for a public purpose is another good way of keeping green the memory of the fallen soldiers. It is all the better if some useful purpose is served, for ated.

and cessation from all activity on November 11th. Anniversary of the momentous occasion when the allied forces issued the order to "cease firing" passed without notice save for a memorial service held in the Armories by the Daughters of the Empire. But Wyndham street was busier than usual; the people were hurrying to the post-office to get their mail; the street cars were all in motion; motor cars whizzed across St. George's square, and everywhere there was evidence of a religious observance of the motto, "Business as usual."

Strangers who know not the characteristics of the Guelph people may draw a wrong inference from this incident. Citizens of Guelph are not disloyal, are not hard-hearted, are not indifferent, and it is doubtful if any community of similar size in Canada can show a better record of achievements during the Great War. But temperamentally the Guelph people are not demonstrative. The mixture of Scotch granite and Guelph limestone which is the basis of the settlement has produced a rugged, hard-hearted, dour breed.

No more impressive sight was ever witnessed in the streets of Toronto than the two minutes' silence on Armistice Day. The bare-headed street sweeper paused in reverent silence; the busy traffic officer stood at attention while all traffic was stalled; the casual pedestrian, thoughtless for a moment, abruptly stood still and raised his hat. The scene was so dramatic it told its own story instantly.

Citizens of Guelph might with profit pay a little more attention to sentiment lest future generations forget that their fathers made great sacrifices that they might not be denied "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

About the only special privilege the upper class has in America is that of kicking dust in the face of slower cars.

RUPTURE RELIEF

Appliance Expert Coming.

Rupture is not a tear but a distension of the membrane, developing doctor's swelling in the groin, therefore subject to retention. No need to suffer another day, correct, scientific with solid comfort will relieve you at once and afford lasting benefit. Observe—Thos. F. Egan, Surgical Appliances, 1082 College St., Toronto, who will visit Belleville, Hotel Quinte, Monday afternoon and night, Tuesday all day and night—1½ days only, November 27-28—Picton, Globe Hotel, November 29th.

Mr. Egan's new series of anatomical "Straight" retentive surgical aids (do now used and approved) are nature's own method. They retain like the hand, permit free circulation, allow nature to close the opening in the shortest time possible and cost little. Demand no imitations (Mens, Women, Children, Infants) for all conditions, from cord and abdominal. The most thorough dependability of these new surgical appliances, is not a matter of chance, but the result of constant tests, ethical and scientific development and never offering better retention, than old-fashioned trusses. Mr. Egan has Local Canadian testimonials for your inspection. If interested, now is the time to make yourself sound and comfortable for your work, so do not wait but call and have a free demonstration of samples right here and at your early suitable style. In fact we claim that it is the most efficient and best in the world for you. You will save time, money and worry in the end, as there is bright hope for you, no matter how long you have suffered from trusses. It costs you nothing to investigate the right brand for better service, via. "Maple Leaf Canada." Most likely, but those who you know to be interested, ask the hotel office for Mr. Egan's reception room. Tear this out now as a reminder.

LAWS AFFECTING WOMEN & CHILDREN

The following is an extract from an address delivered by Miss Charlotte Whitton on "Some Phases of Legislation Affecting Women and Children," before the Canadian Club of Women at Ottawa recently.

In discussing the "Children's Protective Act," the speaker said the the legislation had served as a model for many other countries. It was an act that Ontario should be justly proud of, though its administration was evolved some quarter of a century ago.

Women of Ontario had been instrumental in securing the Mothers' Allowance Act, on the administration of which $194,324 had been expended in the last month, and 2,607 women benefited.

"I believe that there is almost as much difficulty in enforcing legislation as there is in securing it," Miss Whitton said, in telling of several examples of very young children doing almost manual labor. "Child labor legislation needs co-operation, because if the age law for juvenile employment is high in one province a man can build a factory in the next, where youthful labor can be secured at low cost.

"There is difficulty in enforcing social legislation in this province because the laws are evolved in Toronto, where they are not familiar with the needs of other cities.

In concluding Miss Whitton spoke of the acts centering around the child of compulsory investigation, adoption act, protection of children, and subsequent legitimating act. This, she considered, to be the most forward step in child legislation in 10 years. In the past year in Ontario $22,000 has been collected by law for the maintenance of illegitimate children, and in this way it was hoped to reduce the number of such children to the minimum.

JOHN ST. ENTERTAINMENT

A very enjoyable entertainment was given at John Street Church on Wednesday evening. The main feature was the spectacle of Widow Maloney's Aut—Sisters, being a group of pictures from the family album, each "picture" being represented by one of the actors in the "Show" of which there were 29 in all. There was a doctor, minister, mayor, etc., and the parts were taken very ably some of the representations being particularly effective.

During the program there were some Scotch solos rendered by ladies of the congregation and selections were given by Rev. D. C. Ramsay and Mr. Cook. The entertainment was a great success, the Sunday School room being crowded to the doors.

HON. T. A. CRERAR.

Calgary, Alta., Nov. 23.—Despite every secrecy which is being preserved by the present board of directors of the United Grain Growers Limited in connection with their annual meeting, which opened here on Thursday, it has been learned from some of the shareholders who have arrived in the city, that a declared attempt will be made to elect a president other than Hon. T. A. Crerar. From what can be gathered there is a hon-fight in prospect.

It is stated that a large number of the shareholders, owing to the huge losses made by the company during the past twelve months are altogether dissatisfied with the present directors, and that it would not come as a surprise if an entirely new slate were elected. The slate that has been proposed, it is asserted, are openly loyal to Mr. Crerar, and if they are elected it is a foregone conclusion that a new president will be elected. This contemplated action is not unknown to the directors, who, it is said, have taken infinite pains over the selection of delegates attending the conference. As the meeting, however, is open to all shareholders, it is asserted the directors will not have an easy task in carrying the convention their way.

EJECT SPECTATOR FROM BALL PARK

Now He Sues Ball Club For $100,000 Balm

New York, Nov. 22.—As attempt to reduce to dollars and cents the mental and physical anguish resulting from being ejected from a baseball park was made by a jury in Justice Wasservogel's part of the Supreme Court today.

According to Louis S. Hirsch, he was ejected from the park of the New York American League Club last May by officers. He has asked $100,000 balm.

Babe Ruth figured in the case. It appeared, from the testimony, that the mighty batsman smacked a ball right out of the park when Hirsch left his seat to see the horse hide sphere depart from view. About this time, he said, the special police decided that he should go outside the fence and continue his search.

The special contended that Hirsch had changed his seat several times, violating park rules.

ALL SET FOR BIG RUGBY GAME

Large Crowds From Kingston Journey to Toronto To-day for Big Game

A great exodus of rugby fans to Toronto will take place to-day from Kingston for the big game between Queen's and Argonauts at the Varsity Stadium. Director of Athletics George F. Avery, who has been confined to his room with rheumatic fever for the past three weeks, stated Thursday morning that he would make the trip to Toronto, but had been advised by his physician not to attend the game if the weather is wet. . In such case Mr. Avery will likely go on through to his home in Hamilton for the week-end.

"We will beat the Argos on a dry field," said Mr. Avery when spoken to by The Kingston Standard Thursday afternoon. "I really believe that Queen's are in shape to take to any team in Canada just now, and beat them too." Mr. Avery was very confident that Queen's would win over Argos, and also trim the Edmonton Eskimos in the play-off for the Dominion championship.

"With favorable weather, all attendance records for a rugby game in Canada will be smashed on Saturday, when Queen's and Argonauts meet at Varsity Stadium in the C. R. U. Senior final. Arrangements were made yesterday for 1,200 additional seating among the ends of the playing field and in front of the stand. However, this will not be enough to handle the crowd that want to attend the game. Yesterday morning, when the plan opened for the five rows of seats, 1,800 of the C. line-up for two blocks, but the majority were doomed to disappointment.

The Toronto Mail and Empire says, "Argonauts' supposed weak wing line looked good against Parkdale last Saturday, but then the Paddiers are playing nothing but straight football. This Saturday the Scullers will be up against a line that has a big full of tricks, and, in addition, boast the best middle wing player in the game, in "Red" McKelvey. The latter is not only a great player but he is a foxy leader, and Charlie Querrie, in his palmiest days, never had anything on "Red" when it came to playing "rag." He demonstrated this in the game here with Varsity, when he kept walking over the touchline to look over his subs. and again Saturday in Montreal in the third half—the only time of the game that Varsity looked like doing something—"Red" took the edge off their good efforts by continuous rests on the ground. However, "Red," of all the Queen's team, is deserving of being on a championship team, as the Presbyterians for years was a "one-man team," and that one man was McKelvey. The latter took enough abuse in those years to last a life time, but he never quit."

DUNC MUNRO INJURES ANKLE IN FIRST HOCKEY PRACTICE

Dunc Munro, the sterling defence player of Granites, O.H.A. champions and Allan Cup holders, pulled on his skates last night for the first time this season, but was only on the ice a few minutes when his ankle, twisted in last Saturday's Argonaut-Parkdale game, was injured again and he was forced to leave the practice. The injured ankle may keep Munro out of

BASEBALL MANAGER ON HUNTING TRIP

Ed. Barrow, business manager of the New York American Baseball Club, passed through Port Hope Tuesday en-route for New York, after spending the past ten days with W. E. Brooks and party hunting at Jack's Lake.

Ed. was successful in bringing down a 200-pound buck.

Bud Fisher, of New York, was to have accompanied him, but owing to business concerning his race horses, was unable to do so.

Ed. is delighted with his hunt, and hopes to be with the same party again next year.

KINGSTON TICKETS NEARLY ALL SOLD

The sale of tickets for the Argonaut-Queen's game in Toronto is nearly completed as far as Kingston is concerned. There were six hundred reserved, and nine hundred open seats allotted to Kingston and all the reserved seat tickets are sold and over two-thirds of the bleacher tickets are gone. The office staff at the gymnasium was busy yesterday morning taking the names of those who wanted tickets and it was expected that the list would be closed last night.

The team had a light workout Wednesday morning and they were due to have another one this afternoon. Bill Hughes is sparing no pains to have the players in the best of shape for the big battle on Saturday with the celebrated Argonauts.

EDDIE GERARD LEADS OTTAWAS

Signed Contract to This Effect Already in Club's Hands

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—Eddie Gerard, one of the best all-round athletes that Ottawa has ever produced, will lead the Ottawa hockey club's squad in the National Hockey League during the coming season. It is definitely announced to-night that Gerard had come to terms with the Ottawa management and that his signed contract was already in the club's hands. Gerard is probably one of the highest paid players in the National League. He and Frank Nighbor ranked among the top notchers last Winter and with Nighbor on the missing list, Gerard will probably stand out as the best remunerated expert in the big professional loop. Gerard and the Ottawa management have had several conferences and Gerard is known to have signed for the same figure as last Winter. He will again be appointed captain and though he wanted to relinquish this honor and give one of the other players a chance to show what he could do as leader the Ottawa officials refused to entertain the suggestion. Gerard thinks that the Red, White and Black will have one of the strongest teams that has ever been on ice.

Eddie shares the view of the owners of the Ottawa Club, that nothing but soft ice and hard luck beat the Senatorial out of the honor in 1922. He is strong for getting Jack Darragh back into harness and claims that Darragh is still one of the greatest all-round players in professional hockey. Gerard also thinks Ed. Gorman will prove a decided acquisition and counts on George Boucher having one of his most successful seasons.

Manager Mike McNally brought down his puppies, Mike Erzle, here last night in an effort to land a bout here with Bobby Eber. The latter got the decision over Erzle on Monday night in Hamilton, but McNally claims that his boy was suffering from a cold and that he got leg-weary in the latter stages. However, added McNally, I lived up to my promise with the Hamilton fans when I told them I would bring a boy that would out-box Eber.

Mike Erzle, who is a brother of Johnny Erzle, has not been boxing since 1921, Monday being his first bout. Before retiring in 1921 he beat Pal Moore, Frankie Mason, Pekin Kid Herman, Mickey Dunn, Jimmy Taylor, Zulu Kid and drew with Joe Burman at Milwaukee.

Eber and M. Erzle may be matched here for December 8th.

When a man prays to be delivered from temptation, he is usually a little offended when the temptation turns him down.

BEAR MEAT FOR HOCKEY PLAYERS

Our Baseball Friend, Sandy of Port Hope, Suggests Bear Steaks for Belleville Players

Quoting our favorite author, Mr. Sandy Lockington of Port Hope, is our favorite indoor sport. Today, in commenting on the hunting season, Sandy says:

"A fine big black bear and cub were shot near Millbridge in the vicinity of Madoc on Saturday and now bear steaks are on sale in one of the Belleville butcher shops." Our corner friend suggests that coach Jack Marks feed his hockey players some of these steaks as a course in training. They will need them when we go there on our annual visit."

Jack Marks knows better than to feed bear meat to the Belleville Waiverines, out of season, for he knows that the bear says about the effect of teasing, bear meat eaters. Knowing this to be true, Mr. Lockington makes a bad break when he suggests such a thing. In view of the fact that Belleville will have a squad of ten patches, this season. Above all their Port Hope friends will be able to do on the ice is "tease" along with them, and of course its not safe to tease bear meat eaters, so we're back where we started.

JUSTICE LAMOTHE DEAD

Montreal, Nov. 24.—Chief Justice Gustave Lamothe, of the court of the Kings bench, died at his residence early this morning.

QUEENS ARRIVE IN QUEEN CITY

Tri-Color and Argos All Ready for Fray To-morrow Afternoon

Both Queen's and Argonauts finished up their heavy preparations for to-morrow's Canadian championship semi-final at Varsity Stadium, and both will take matters easy until they trot on the field tomorrow afternoon shortly after two o'clock. The C.R.U. has instructed the officials and notified the two clubs that the game must commence at 2.15 sharp in order that it be completed before the light commences to fail. Last Saturday the game did not start until twenty-five minutes to two, and towards the end it was hard to distinguish the various players on the other side of the field.

Queen's had their final stiff prep yesterday afternoon, and at midnight contained for the trip, as here they were due to arrive at six o'clock this morning. The intercollegiate champions have kept their plans very secret, like their promises during the last two weeks, and it was not until late last night that the scribes leaked out that they were feasting for the scene of the most important Rugby struggle in the history of the university. Despite the slight drizzle and the cold northeast wind which swept across the Stadium the squad put in one of their best workouts of the season, and at the conclusion Coach Billy Hughes and Director of Athletics Avery expressed themselves as satisfied with the condition of the players and the manner in which they executed the signal drills.

PETERBORO O.H.A. HOCKEY

Peterboro, Nov. 23.—Intermediate and junior O.H.A. players opened the season's training this evening at the Y.M.C.A. gym. Indoor practices will be held twice a week until ice is available. Many of last season's players were out this evening as well as a number of new-comers.

About the only thing to be said in favor of a hair bond is that it is easily kept sanitary.

It must be awful to be a book or movie censor and be horrified all the time.

G.W.V.A. TEAM WIN FROM EXCELSIORS

The G. W. V. A. and Excelsiors battled to a finish in their game at the Y. Alleys last night the Veterans were very much in form playing a very steady game and when the contest concluded the Ex-service men were on the long end of all three games. The second game of the trio was very close, the Excelsiors losing by only nine points. For the Vets. Johns and Jones were the strong men while Woodley and Woodley led off for the Excelsiors.

FINAL GAME FOR RIGGS' TROPHY

Form 3B of the B.H.S. Win Trophy by Defeating Form IV. 23-14

The final game for the Riggs Trophy of the Belleville High School was played between the girls of 3B and the girls of the Fifth Form at the Y.M.C.A. last night. It was a very fast game, every girl playing her best, although there were many fouls as the girls were excited. The 3B team has the same personnel as last year's 3A team, which won the trophy. 3B won by a score of 23 to 14. The teams:

3B—Forwards, Elda Robertson, Carol McArthur; centre, Nora Wallbridge, Grace Gilbert; guards, Evelyn MacLaurin, Helen Potter.

Fifth Form—Forwards, Elsie Fitchett, Helen Green; centres, Gussie Hill, Lois Rollins, Laura Moore; guards, Betty Williams, Helen Scantlebury.

Ex-Mayor Riggs tossed the ball as a start off, and then gladly retired to the gallery to watch the game in peace.

LAST FOOTBALL GAME OF SEASON SATURDAY

The College and Grenadier War Veterans teams will meet in a City League game on Saturday, November 25th, on the Albert College grounds. Kick off at 3.15. Referee, Mr. Tom Mason This will be the last game of football for the season. Last time these teams met, the result was a draw of our goal each.

Little brown feet, that have grown so weary,
Pleading on through the heat of day,
Mother will hold you, mother will fold you
Safe to her breast; little feet, rest;
Now is the time to come from play,
Little brown hands, that through day's long hours
Never rested, be still at last;
Mother will rest you; come, then, and nest you
Here by her side, nestle and hide.
Creep to her heart and hold it fast,
Little brown head, on my shoulder lying.
Night is coming and day is dead;
Mother will sing you songs, that shall bring you
Childhood's soft sleep, quiet and deep;
Sweet be your dreams, O dear brown head.

THE NEW COATS.

While fur is undoubtedly the outstanding feature of the winter, many of the newest coats are of cloth or tweed with luxurious fur trimming. For coats are of two distinct types—the quite short jacket reaching to the hips, either flared or closely fitting, or the quite long coat. The former will be most favored for street wear. With a small, close-fitting toque in worn, generally of duretyn or velvet, with a touch of the same fur as the coat. Caracul is black, natural color, or brown is undoubtedly the first favorite in fur, and Persian lamb and broadtail are seen in the more expensive models. For evening, capes are still worn, but for day wear, most of the best designers show coats or sleeved wraps, often with wide, muff-like cuffs.

The Short Story Ji.

JANE'S PIANO

Jane was passionately fond of music. Her father had been a great violinist. When Jane was very small they had travelled from city to city and every night her father had played to big audiences.

Then one day there had been an accident and her father was terribly hurt. All the money he had saved had to go for hospital and doctor bills. At last even his precious violin had to go. After that the violinist did not seem to want to get well. Very quietly one day he too went away to play his violin in the land where there are no accidents.

Last of all Jane's piano had to be sold to pay the funeral bills. Although Jane was only eight at the time, she loved her piano more than anything else in the world.

Jane and her mother then went to live in a very poor little house. Her mother took in sewing and they had very few comforts. Jane would have been happy, though, in spite of everything, if she had only had a piano. One day Jane brought home a long piece of paper. On it she drew the keys of the piano. Spreading this paper on the bed she would imagine this was her piano and would play upon it. Her mother encouraged her to practise upon her imaginary piano, but it was not really much fun to play on a piano with no sound from the paper keys.

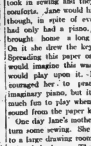

One day Jane's mother sent her to turn some sewing. She was ushered into a large drawing room to wait for the lady of the house. There in the end of the room was the most beautiful piano Jane had ever seen. Jane forgot where she was; she forgot everything but the beautiful piano. Almost against her will she was drawn towards it. She seated herself on the piano bench. Her fingers glided easily over the real ivory keys, at first making no sound. LINKED LIVES

By

D. Kinmount Roy

The sense of mastery and the joy of power at last welled up within him, his grip grew tense once more; he felt he could crush the wretch he held into impotency. Would he really do it? His original plan was to save Oona, he had no desire to injure even Kinkman, much less Heathfield,and yet he seemed on the point of shaking the life out of the crippled creature he held in his hands. Kinkman writhed in agony, while MacAlpin looked into his craven soul, until he shrunk before him, in moral as well as mortal terror.

It was only for a moment. "Yes," he told himself, "his own past was not so far behind him that he had a right to censure others, not even Kinkman." And suddenly throwing the suffering wretch from him, he wiped his hands upon the grass, as if to purify them by the healthful touch of Mother Earth from their late pollution.

Kinkman lay where he fell, his bones ached, his breath came in gasps, as much from baffled rage as from bodily pain; but his brain worked as keen and true as a machine of first-rate workmanship, driven at utmost speed.

MacAlpin stood where he could best guard Oona, and had the satisfaction, at last, of seeing the old soldier approach her, although fully ten minutes must elapse before he could reach them, for the ground was steep and broken, and Alan's best marching days were over.

That ten minutes was destined to make a deep impression on the life of MacAlpin. The men had repaired all damage to the harness and carriage, and took no more thought of the life of man in it. The movement hurt him so cruelly that he moaned in agony. The sound of suffering from his son roused Kinkman, and galvanised him into activity which an instant before seemed impossible. He had clambered to his feet with amazing speed, considering his condition, when Sandy's shrill-voiced delight broke in upon the scene:

"Look, father, look!" he piped in perfect gladness; "flowers! flowers for the lady o' the Island!"

The sight of the boy roused all the strength and all the evil passion in the miserable Kinkman. He remembered in a flash that the boy was present when he talked his plans over with Heathfield and at once he saw how his well-laid schemes had come to such a sorry ending.

Donald had never thought of harm coming to Sandy, and was unprepared when he saw Kinkman rush at the lad. At the same moment there was a sharp cry. It was not from Sandy but from Oona. Donald turned towards her, and was consequently spared the sight of the withering little fellow in the hands of Kinkman, who, after one fierce shake of murderous hate, threw him over the bank to meet his fate on the rocks below.

Kinkman laughed in triumph over his fiendish deed, as he was hustled by the men into the carriage; it was a cry of bloodcurdling viciousness which clung to the memory of those who heard it like an evil dream for many a long day.

Oona had witnessed the conflict of the two men in silent amazement, and such was her confidence in MacAlpin, that she had no misgivings as the the outcome of the battle; but the sight of Sandy in the grip of his enemy was more than she could endure, and with a cry of helpless terror she fell senseless to the ground.

The many hours of excitement, the want of food, the horror of the scene she was forced to witness and unable to prevent all seemed to be too much for her, and to bring about this merciful oblivion.

In after years, when it had all become a far-off memory, she spoke of it as the only time she had ever fainted. Frightful as the result was to the boy, still worse might have followed had MacAlpin reached Kinkman fresh from the perpetration of so dastardly crime, which he certainly would have done, had not Oona claimed his attention for a few precious moments.

Football Lessons

By AUBREY DEVINE
All-American Quarterback, 1921

Lesson No. 12. Fake Cross-Buck and Foward Pass

When the defensive backs are drawn up too close to the line of scrimmage in an effort to help stop the cross-buck play, then the quarterback should call for the fake cross-buck and forward pass play. (See diagram above.)

This play is executed by lining up just the same as for the cross-buck play. The quarterback gets the ball from the center, pivots in his position, fakes a pass to the left halfback, who bluffs a smash off the left side of the line, then makes another pass to the fullback, who bluffs a smash through the right side of the line, then runs back to a point five yards behind the line of scrimmage, and softly, she began to play one of her father's songs. From this she glided into other pieces and played on and on as though in a dream.

It was getting dusk when Jane looked up. A tall woman was beside her, and a young girl in a wheel chair was watching her closely.

"Oh," Jane gasped, blushing, "I'm so sorry. I forgot where I was."

The lady only smiled. "We have enjoyed it," she said. "Do you suppose you could come every day and play to my sister? We will pay you, and then some day you can buy a piano of your own."

Jane could answer only with her happy, tear filled eyes.

pasees to either the right end or the right halfback, according to which is open. All the men along the line except the right end should check their men and keep them from coming through and downing the passer before the pass is executed.

Right End Runs Slowly

The right end should run straight down the field until he has passed the defensive halfback, then he should cut out towards the right side line. He should run slowly until the halfback has been passed, otherwise he will be carried too far down the field by the time the quarterback is able to pass. By running slowly he is also less conspicuous than if he were making a great effort to run fast.

The right halfback should run almost directly towards the sideline. His position when the pass is caught, should not be more than ten to fifteen yards down the field. He should run slowly at first and speed up just before the ball is passed by the quarter.

End Runs Straight

Since the end runs straight down the field and the halfback runs towards the sideline, they are harder to cover, as they are going almost at right angles to each other, and the more they run, the farther apart they get, so that one man cannot possibly cover both of them.

The best time to try this play is immediately after the crossbuck play has been 'worked'for a good gain for them, the defensive halfback and fullback are usually drawn up closer to the line of scrimmage in an effort to stop the line smash. If one has been executed successfully during the play before. Then a fake line buck and forward pass catches them open. The ball goes over their heads into the waiting arms of the offensive halfback or end, and he speeds down the field for a good gain, or perhaps a touchdown.

MAKING HONESTY

THE BEST POLICY

Some Little Suggestions for Thought—Are We as Honest as We Think We Are?—Also Added Opportunities of Old Age Increase Petty Vices?

(By FRANK MACH)

Back in the days of crinolines and satin bonnets grandmother used to catch a unlikely arrow that flew and do her shopping in the land of Uncle Sam and the "spread eagle." When she returned home to with a look of intense expression upon her face and about ten dollar's worth of coffee, Sand, prunings, rice, tea, spices and other articles which were highly taxed, tied in neat packages and attached to the hoops which made her skirts puff out like the sides of a balloon. What chance had a poor Customs collector with her? None at all. He just looked hopeless as she trippingly past. All he got for his watchfulness was a sweet smile and a condescending look. And that contributed no duty to the government at all either.

To-day it is grand-daughter who is taking grandmother's place. But in the use of diapers, short skirts and woolly tams, grand-daughter does not bother smuggling much honest commodities as tea and other household articles. She goes in extensively for silk stockings, smiles and other smart creations which make the mere male glance a couple of dozen times at her in the street car or on the sidewalk. If he can get two men to ogle her forty times during a trip down-town, she considers that she has not been long wasted; but that on the contrary, it has been a glorious success. And very much of the prosperity which she uses as ogling bait she buys in the United States and through which the blooded nerve succeeds in bringing into Canada without paying a cent of duty.

Although I have devoted the two opening paragraphs to grandmas and the third female generation, they do not by any means be limited in estimate that only the feminine gender attempt to bear the Customs out of their just dues. Probably grandfather was no mean slouch in the same game. Undoubtedly he liked to smoke his cut-plug or chew his favorite brand of molasses and Virginia-grown. When he returned to border he immediately proceeded to load up his pockets with his pet tobacco. What if the Customs officer searched he was returning with not him. He asserted the Customs officer had other and far more important thing a credulous soul let grandfather slip him without donating a cent to the revenue of the country.

Of course, grandfather chuckled to his beard and fancied himself as a "slick" smuggler; indubitably the Customs man knew just what as old fraud he was; but the Customs had "slick" men to make grandfather appear publicly in the role of an unpatriotic rogue. Grandfather was merely one of those "honest" souls who would not own a five-cent piece to a neighbor but who would go to any means to evade the payment of three cents. And he felt quite virtuous in so doing!

Grandad is a splendid much on the same plan. He is strictly honest until he comes to cross the border. Then he plunges into dishonesty with both his. Cigarettes, boots and ties are his specialty. He considers, if fair game to bring home without paying anything value kept up the "benevolent" system of government under which he lives. The Customs man sees so regularly as he notes these things but he makes no attempt to take grandson into custody, because grandson is just human—and he does not make a practice of smuggling, for gain.

THAT QUEER FEELING

Our frontiers abound with good stories of smugglers and near smugglers. Almost every day some prominent Customs officer nabs an innocent-looking person with a heart full of guile. Only a few days ago what a train steamed across the border a certain man of minor commerce sat in the parlor car. When the Customs officials appeared he had nothing to declare; his grip just contained the usual effects of a traveller, pyjamas, a shirt or two and a couple of soiled collars. The Customs official passed him without a thought. But that man couldn't make his eyes behave. They marked out the Customs official, fixed on him and followed him about. It unfixed the Customs, made him worried and gave him that creepy feeling. Worse than this, that is for the man of minor commerce, it aroused a distinct feeling that he was not right in that car. The Customs official went back to the man with the shifty eyes, questioned him again; but no, he was carrying nothing dutiable.

Intuition is one of the greatest of assets which a Customs' official can have and this official had plenty of it. Intuition told him that there was contraband in large quantities in that car. He began to search for it. He hunt all under seats, overhead, went through the porter's closet like a terrier digging out a rat—he had once found $200 worth of wigs in the same closet, which gave the porter much time. and trouble to explain—and searched the ladies' toilet-room. But he found nothing. As a last resort he walked back through the smoking car and looked about in search of an inspiration. He found it. Before him was an ordinary looking man with a grip in a cane door. He swung it back and there coyly coiled up in the diminutive space reposed a large package of fur tails, worth about $130.

Back he went to the man with the shifty eyes. "Do you own these?" the Customs official asked. The man looked at them a long time before answering. "Stand up! I'm going to search you." The man stood up and the Customs official found nothing. Of course, the tail in his wallet. The discovery just cost the man of minor commerce the price of the goods, plus duty.

Invoices have caused the down fall of many an "honest" smuggler. They cost more than $17,000, and yet it came about this way: Early one morning when the fast express pulled in from Toronto, the Customs officials made their usual examination of baggage. In the sleepers grips were all opened, ready for examination. The Customs official casually inspected their contents, occasionally varying the monotony of the examination by asking some passenger if he had anything dutiable to declare. Position after position he passed, but no one gave have anything to declare!

At length the Customs came to a berth occupied by a young man. The porter told the Customs that this man was sick. The Customs official looked sympathetic, but he didn't bother the sufferer with any questions. Instead he just slipped the bag under the mattress and touched $350, worth of fine laces. The sick man promptly got much sicker.

This berth episode was only the beginning of the case. It ended in Toronto. There the Customs officer proceeded upon the "sick man's" office and store, and thoroughly combed them. Some of the goods were stolen upon invoices for goods purchased in the United States, totalling $7,000, were found. Of course, the sick man could not show that he had duly on a cent's worth of them. It was a case of paying $7,000, plus the duty or disappearing from business circles for a long time. He paid, the Government got exactly $3,500.

One customs officer's intuition netted Yes, the Customs officers have to bear when they look down hard upon some poor individual trying to turn an "honest" penny by smuggling. Take the case of the cigarette fiend runner. The whole frontier is laughing at him. This modest youth essayed to run the border a few days ago with eight cartoons of smokes. When the Customs man asked him if he had anything to declare, he acted a ragly shook his head. Then the Customs put its official fingers into the youth's coat, extracted from his grip and under the seat. One by one the incriminating cartons came out. At the end of the search the youth went but of the couch, too. He went right into the Customs House and asked to be left quietly and exactly $202. A pretty stiff price for 10,000 cigarettes, par value $12!

ENTER THE LADIES

It is the woman smuggler who gives the Customs officers the greatest troubles and incidentally, the greatest fun. Many of them are themselves seriously when they try to sneak a little contraband across the border and when they are caught. Whenever a Customs officer sees a particularly angelic expression upon the face of a woman's face, he knows right away that a large part of a Detroit or Windsor department store is about to slip into Canada without announcing its presence. If the angelic expression is unusually pronounced he generally starts to look for the entire store—and he usually finds it. A few days ago one train steamed into Canada with a couple of ladies riding in the day coach. They looked quite angelic and happy; but their knees were out of all proportions to their size. It was these knees which first caught the Customs man's eyes. They were so pronounced that they came almost up to the women's chins. It did not look right.

With difficulty the Customs officer checked back a large-sized grin as he approached he two. "Have you anything dutiable?"

They had not. They assured him so with a bland smile.

"You are sure you...have nothing to declare?" the Inspector continued. "Remember, now, you had better be sure."

The angelic ladies were quite sure. In fact, they were positive.

"Very well, then," said the Inspector grimly. "I gave you a chance. Now get up."

"But we can't," one of the women protested. "My sister is not feeling well. She is sick. Surely you wouldn't be so unsentimental as to make a sick woman move?"

"I think she's going to be sicker," the Customs man returned. "Are you going to get up, or shall I call the trainmen and have them drag you up?"

"Oh, very well," said the "sick" sister, suspiringly. "I'll get up."

She did—and the sister, electrity, and right beneath her bulged-up knees there came to light a big tobacco package.

The predicament of these unfortunate ladies with the prominent knees reminds one strongly of that of another lady who lived in one of the frontier towns. She had been in the habit of going across the border to buy her groceries in the large city, just opposite. She brought them back in the simplest manner, carrying them in a small flour sack and attaching the string to her waist. By this method the sack covered herself her skirt and there was no evidence. But one day she made the error of wearing a new gown before. When she reached the Canadian landing it was raining quite smartly. In her anxiety to get her flour sack home she got all about the unseen contraband. As she had no umbrella she simply pulled up her silk dress and let it run over her hat. Her skirt was quite short. She walked past the Customs officers with her two arms and her sack swinging about three inches below the skirt. The officers laughed so much at the sight of her that the Customs officials made their usual examination of baggage. In the sleepers grips were all opened, ready for examination. The Customs official casually inspected their contents, occasionally varying the monotony of the examination by asking some passenger if he had anything dutiable to declare. Position after position he passed, but no one gave have anything to declare!

At length the Customs came to a berth occupied by a young man. The porter told the Customs that this man was sick. CANADIAN WEST BETTER FARMLAND THAN AUSTRALIA

Many Canadians Who Went to Australia Are Now Anxious to Return—Droughts in Australia Render Farming Very Speculative

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 21.—On his way to Tokyo where he will take up an appointment as one of the secretaries of the British Embassy, Commander, H. F. B. Maxse R.N., (retired), is in Vancouver awaiting the sailing of the Empress of Australia.

After a distinguished career in the navy, Commander Maxse retired two years ago to enter the diplomatic service, since then he has been employed in the Foreign office in London, and was with the British Delegation to the International Conference at Genoa and the Hague.

His last service afloat was in H. M. S. Royal Oak, just before retiring he was sent to Poland as a member of the British naval mission which organized the Polish naval forces. Poland does not aspire to be a great naval power, but has set up a very effective Coast Defense Force, Commander Maxse states.

Mr. M. Holohan, a fire insurance agent from Shanghai, who arrived Monday night on the Empress of Asia, stated that the best fighting apparatus of those most modern description had been installed in that city, where only motor equipment is used. In Hankow the British, Russian, French and Japanese concessions maintain separate volunteer fire brigades. The British use practically all motor equipment. Mr. Holohan stated that the fire hazard in China were nature is very great, with whole streets of flimsy hoogies and never a fire well. He represents a group of Norwegian Insurance Companies, and will only accept hand-picked risks, he states that the British Insurance companies have the strongest hold in China, with the United States Companies a good second. His own companies have been operating for three years with considerable success.

In Shanghai a fire break does excellent work in protecting the docks and shipping.

Canadian farmers who have left this country in the last few years to engage in agriculture in Australia, have not found the going as satisfactory as in Canada, according to letters, the land department of the Canadian Pacific has been receiving. A number of former Canadians who are settled in Western Australia, together with other settlers have been enquiring recently of the prospect for investment in prairie land in this country.

One farmer, who left Saskatchewan fifteen years ago, wrote the Vancouver office this week that he is now satisfied there are better opportunities as a agriculturalist on the Canadian Prairies. He has 2,000 acres in Western Australia, 1,000 of which were under cultivation this year. Owing to the drought the crop was a failure. He is one of nine in his district who have decided to migrate to Canada.

The liner, Empress of Australia, will sail at noon on Thursday with a full cargo and about 500 passengers for the orient.

TEXTILE MACHINERY MARVELS

At a recent Textile Machinery Exhibition in Great Britain an original type of machine caused a great deal of interest. This machine is known as a cotton "opener" and its function is to release the cotton fibres. It consists of a slowly revolving perforated horizontal cage, in the lower part of which is a rapidly revolving mechanism of great ingenuity. A series of stampings of special form are whirled round in such a way that they subject the cotton to a series of light and very rapid taps. The fibre thus released is blown away by a strong current of air, and the result is that all the fibre is obtained without the least damage. Another interesting machine at this Exhibition was for the purpose of humidifying or impairing to the atmosphere of the factory the exact degree of dampness required to give the best results in cotton spinning. In this apparatus a very fine jet of water is acted by a jet of compressed air which is made with such force that it ruptures the water with extraordinary facility. The molecules or drops of water are in fact so minute that they are absorbed into the atmosphere without condensing or leaving any dampness on objects in the factory.

Railway News

Montreal.—Automobile accidents are still continuing at railway crossings despite all the efforts of the railways to prevent them. In the instance of Holland Centre, Ontario, an automobile drove up and stopped on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The driver thought that an approaching train would take another passing train. The driver, realizing his mistake, tried to get his car off the track before the train. But his car was stalled. The engineer was unable to stop the train, with the result that the automobile was smashed and three occupants of the car were injured.

At a meeting on Prince Road, near Holly Queen, the automobile ran into a Canadian Pacific train. The driver was going fast to stop his automobile when he saw the train. Two occupants of the automobile were injured.

A motor accident with all the thrills of a movie stunt occurred at the corner of Yonge and King streets, Toronto, when an automobile charged into one of the King street windows of the Canadian Pacific Building, making a report that sounded as though the gas tank had exploded.

The car, according to the police, was coming north on Yonge street. The signals were against the car, which in full flight grazed a Belt Line car going east on King street. It continued to swerve right across the pavement into the plate glass front of the imposing C. P. R. office building. Here, with a loud backfire from the engine, the car suddenly plunged its front wheels through the quarter-inch plate glass window. Being up against an immovable obstacle it naturally came to a standstill.

No one was hurt. The fender of the car was badly damaged, the right front tire torn off and the rear wheel badly damaged. The window was broken right across the whole twenty feet and cut to a height of about six feet in one point. The driver admitted that he was nervous at the time; he hadn't the slightest idea of what was happening.

New Liskeard.—The work of constructing the northerly extension of the C. P. R. from Cochrane to Moose Jaw is progressing at a good rate, and already the grading has been completed on 30 miles of the extension, with 10 miles more under contract. The present contract, held by Angus & Taylor of North Bay, is for the construction of 40 miles northward, the northern end being in the vicinity of Abitibi Falls, one of the greatest series of waterfalls in Northern Canada.

This extension will serve the C. P. R. as the shortest outlet of all the rail lands of any kind of importance in that part of the province of Ontario lying adjacent to the clay belt fields of Ontario. It is known that the C. P. R. has completed a survey work far into the new land to the north.

Moose Jaw.—The subway at the Canadian Pacific Rail way station is about to be put into commission. All six passenger tracks in the passenger terminal are completed, and the first four tracks are in operation. The work of completing the subway is in full swing. The stairways are in place and the interior of the subway is lined with the handsome glazed tile.

When the subway is put into commission the general public will not be permitted on the station platforms. The tickets will be inspected at the doors leading from the waiting room to the subway. Passengers alighting from trains will descend the stairs to the subway and then pass up the stairs into the depot.

The completion of the subway will finish the building programme undertaken by the company three years ago.

Moose Jaw.—Out of a total of 44,217 cars of grain loaded at country elevators on the Canadian Pacific lines in the three provinces, between September 1 and October 14, 25,500 cars were loaded in the Saskatchewan district.

The total quantity of grain shipped on the Canadian Pacific lines up until October 14th, was 69,219,495 bushels, or an average of 1,453 bushels per car.

Some idea of the enormous increase in the quantity of grain handled this year, compared with 14, as compared with the amount handled in the years omitted in 1920 and 1921, can be obtained from the figures following:

Year.	Cars Shipped.	Bushels Loaded.
1914—Estimated	43,000,000	1,075,000,000
1921—43,979,422	21 644	82,781,971
1922—65,219,495	44,217	69,219,194

St. John, N.B.—On the Shore Line division of the C. P. R. the laying of the last rail on the new cutoff line at St. Stephen towards St. John, and Fredericton, expected by the end of the week will be completed to Pennfield before the very cold weather sets in.

BOWMANVILLE WILL HAVE A STRONG TEAM

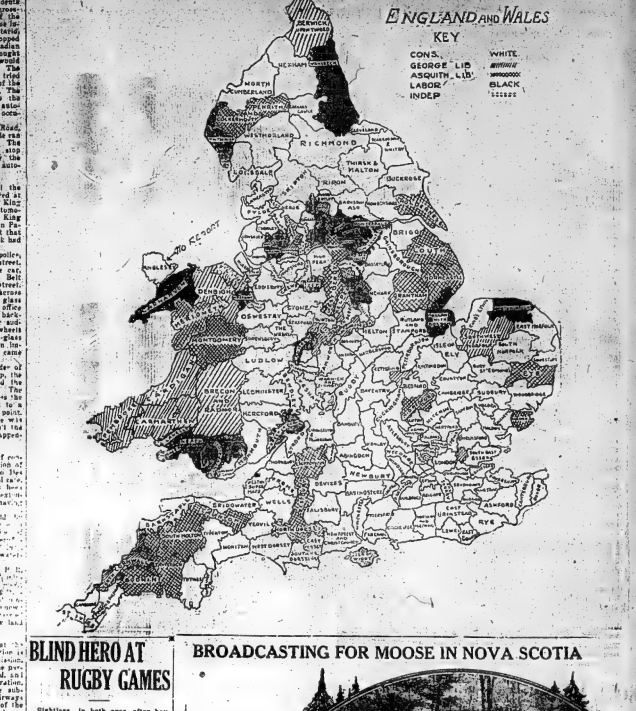

A hockey epithusiast from Bowmanville, W. J. Challis, has stated that Bowmanville fans expect to see two or three fast teams on the ice this season.

Every year the little town on the lake front has good hockey, and every year the clash between Port Hope, Bowmanville and Cobourg is very keen. This season, owing to the good showing of the Bowmanville team last year, they expect to go in and win the group honors in hockey.

Last year's players are still in the burg, and several new players including Chambers and Mills of the fast Lindsay Midgets.

Mr. Challis states that Bowmanville officials back their teams right royally, and whether winning or losing, teams always receive good encouragement.

BLIND HERO AT RUGBY GAMES

Sightless in both eyes, after having through his seamanship, and university days enjoyed the sunshine and beauty of nature, Capt. A. E. Baker, a former Queen's man who was blinded in the late war, is a remarkable example of the stoicism and courage of Canadian manhood, and today, after having been afflicted with blindness for over four years is as much concerned with the affairs of the day as those possessed of perfect sight.

Speaking to The Kingston Standard and Wednesday morning, Capt. Baker conveyed the information that he was at the Varsity-Queen's game there and was disappointed at the sad showing of Queen's aggregation. "Yes," he said "I saw the game here, and I sure will see the Argos-Queen's game on Saturday, though perhaps I will be torn between two emotions. I certainly would like to see my Alma Mater win, but then as a member of the Argonauts Club I cannot help but like to see them emerge victorious."

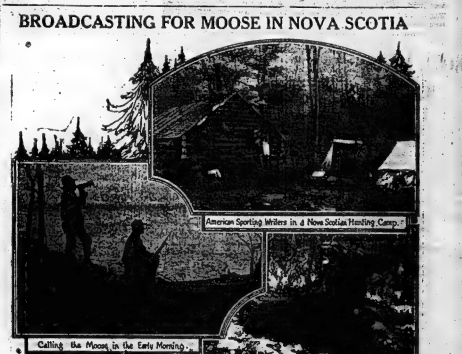

Blindness does not weigh as heavily on Capt. Baker as one might suppose, and certainly it has absolutely failed to dampen his enthusiasm, and throw cold water on his optimism.

Capt. Baker joined the Argonauts' club some time ago, and in the summer stroked for the Argos four in the Dominion regatta. His health is splendid, and in his capacity as advisor to the D.S.C.R., in dealing with blind soldiers, and as general secretary of the Canadian Institute for the Blind, he is a very active man.

Speaking of his own afflicting Capt. Baker stated that it might have been worse. "A quarter of an inch more," he said, "and the bullet which destroyed my sight might have killed me. When I see men returned from the war, with legs and arms shattered and maimed; men whose mentality has been destroyed, and civilians who can't see because of their mental blindness, I am not depressed as my own condition."

In these few words Capt. Baker demonstrated his unconquerable spirit, his wonderful optimism, and the interest he feels in those who are stricken with blindness. He referred to several prominent men who went overseas and became blind, but who through the Canadian Institute for the Blind, have now returned to their work with as much ability as formerly.

BROADCASTING FOR MOOSE IN NOVA SCOTIA

"O-U-OU-OU-OU — OU-ERAKH! Ough! Ough! Ough!"

Louie Harlow, Micmac Indian guide, stood up in the stern of the canoe with a birch bark horn pressed to his lips and sprayed the wilderness with this uncanny cry.

"Ou-ou-ou-ou—ou-erak! Ou-ou-ou-ou-erak!" was the perfectly simulated call of a cow moose. "Ught Ught!" was the limitation of the grunt of a little bull, and the combination was designed to fool a big bull moose moving in the woods when his companions hear nothing, and is the first to sight a moose or deer swimming the lake or standing on the shore. "A moose is two days, or less" is Louie Harlow's motto, and it is said that he has never yet disappointed a sportsman who can shoot. Louie's siren song will fool the wisest old bull in the woods, but it has been known to attract a resembling cat-gut. No scamatress could do better. There are smooth loops at intervals, the whole length on the outside of the horn. Every hunter is tied inside, even at the small end.

"How do I do it?" says Louie. "I ain' sayin', Nobody else knows how."

These guides have their secret tricks of trade and are proud of them. Louie Harlow is Nova Scotia's greatest moose hunter and has killed or lured to the rifle more moose than any other guide in Nova Scotia. Louie is a half-breed Micmac and opines that his other half is Scotch. He was born at Bear River on the Indian reservation, and has worked as a guide under A. D. Thomas of South Milford for 23 years. Swarthy of complexion, with a black moustache and straight black hair, he resembles an Indian less than his own son, but is master of Indian woodcraft. He can hear a moose moving in the woods when his companions hear nothing, and is the first to sight a moose or deer swimming the lake or standing on the shore. Although there is a vast area of beautiful country in Nova Scotia along the western and southern shores particularly, including the famous Land of Evangeline, the interior is the moose hunter's paradise. There are miles upon miles of lakes, rivers, and forests well populated by moose, deer, bear, and smaller animals. A favorite approach to this region is through South Milford, easily reached via Annapolis Royal, N.S., by way of Boston and Yarmouth, N.S., or St. John, N.B., and Digby, N.S. The ride from Digby to Annapolis Royal across the Dominion Atlantic Railway to South Milford is by automobile, and from South Milford, the hunter or fisherman, with a few portages, can paddle in a canoe three-quarters of the way across Nova Scotia to the Atlantic Ocean. The moose season lasts from October 1 to November 15, starting with moose calling and ending with still hunting. A dozen guides, among them such celebrities as Louie Harlow and Sam Glode, both Micmac Indians, work under the direction of A. D. Thomas along the shores of the Liverpool chain of lakes, Kedgemakooge and beyond. A Nova Scotia moose is conserving its moose—a hunter is limited to one bull a year—and the moose country will always be good moose country because that's about all it is good for, except trout fishing.

SHORT HISTORY OF WHEAT CONTROL LEGISLATION

Upon the establishment of a fixed price for wheat by the United States of America, the same course became absolutely necessary in Canada as the consequence would have been the priority of American wheat to Canadian wheat in British and other consuming markets. Such control was necessary, as well, to preserve speedy and uniformity of transportation under the hazardous transportation conditions of those times. The supervisory board which took control in Canada was under the chairmanship of Dr. McGill, and all interests engaged to make it a success. It was a success. The Canadian prices were fixed somewhat higher than the American prices sufficient to take care of the better quality of Canadian wheat, grade for grade.

After the war, in the summer of 919, wholly unprecedented conditions arose. Credits the world over were in a turmoil. The Allies were struggling and working together to hold steady the commercial fabric during the period of scarcity, inflated prices and dilapidated exchanges such as the world had never seen before. Among other plans adopted was the control of the European wheat buying through one single agency. This agency was the British Wheat Commission, operating under the British Government. This wheat commission bought all the wheat being imported by the allied countries; thereby eliminating competitive buying on the continent. At the same time the American Government, having previously guaranteed a fixed minimum price for American grown wheat, was standing by its guarantee, thus wiping out the normal market conditions in that country. In July of that year it was represented to the Canadian Government by various interests—agricultural, banking, transportation—that orders were not coming in for these Canadian supplies or any part of it. The Canadian Government had tried, and was trying to get from the British Purchasing Commission definite information as to what amount of Canadian wheat it would buy, was offering to supply could, in its purchases, was endeavouring to get some approximate quotations of the price to be paid, or, if that were impossible, as to when quantities and prices could be made known. Every effort was exhausted without result, the consequence being that no one was able to contract for the sale of any Canadian exportable wheat or consequently to bid for such wheat in Canada. Meantime there was, it is true, some speculative trade on the Winnipeg market which more than probably was the shrewd attempt of American exporters to hold the apparent level of Canadian grain above the American level, and thus fill European orders to the exclusion of dealers in Canadian grain. Should this condition have continued the grain would have moved and every day's delay in moving the crop during the navigation period entailed a heavy loss. Everywhere it was impressed upon us that the Government had to assist.

The plan adopted was to appoint a Government board to control the entire wheat surplus of this country to handle it as an agency of transport and of sale, and of delivery to millers in Canada and to give back to the primary producer the full price received less only actual expenses. The Government assumed through the Board financial responsibility, paying down a cash price per bushel according to grade, and undertaking to pay the full balance of proceeds to the original vendor as soon as such balance was known. This balance, meantime, was represented by a participating certificate. The plan operated with signal success. The farmer received approximately $2.35 per bushel cash down, and in the end something over $2.00 per bushel.

The Government of the day, as soon as it adopted the Wheat Board plan, was assailed by farmer organizations throughout the West, and by their officers. The farmer leaders themselves being called in conference on July 30th, 31st, and before the scheme was finally adopted advised strongly against its adoption. The plan in its essential principles originated with the Government, though it turned out later that something similar, but by no means the same, had been suggested by the Council of Agriculture.

In the course of a by-election in the county of Assiniboia, where the present member, Mr. Gould, Progressive, defeated the present Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Mr. Motherwell, each side vied with the other in the most scurrilous abuse of the Wheat Board and all its works. In the House of Commons more than one Progressive denounced it. Mr. McCoig of the Liberals, declared it was a frame-up of the big interests and attacked it with exuberant joy.

In the spring of 1920 there being at that time no certainty as to what would be the wheat purchasing plan adopted in Europe or what, if any, control would be enforced in the United States, Parliament, at the request of the Government, empowered the administration, should it see fit, to renew the wheat board legislation.

At that time Mr. Crerar, speaking from the Progressive benches, poured cold water upon the suggestion. He stated that he would not take the responsibility of denying to the government the power to renew for one year. He, however, strongly protested against a wheat board as a permanent policy. Later in the summer it clearly appeared that European governments were not buying through one body alone, but that each was buying separately and in competition. It furthermore developed that the United States government had de-controlled wheat entirely and restored old marketing conditions. Under these circumstances the war being past, and all war powers having lapsed, the government decided that it could not justify continuing a wheat board, with absolute and monopolistic powers suited to conditions such as prevailed before, but such as no longer prevailed. Furthermore, neither the Government nor Parliament had power so to do.

Thereupon there arose through Western Canada a long and loud demand that the Wheat Board be restored and restored at once with all its original authority. This institution that had up until then been denounced and made to do its share as a weapon of attack on the administration, became overnight an organization of boundless popularity. A new crisis of government was born, namely, the discontinuance of the Canadian Wheat Board. The discontinuance of the Wheat Board was further used as additional ammunition in a harrassing campaign by the organized and unorganized grain growers of Western Canada against the Grain Exchange, inclusive of the Board of Grain Grievers Ltd. A deluge of attacks were levelled, designed to show manipulation by grain buying interests, maltreating of the farmer to the enrichment of the dealers in grain. Farmers complained of grain mixing, the exchanging of grades to the profit of the dealer after they had been paid for the lower grade. They complained of screenings being absorbed and virtually nothing being given the farmer for them. The complainers were of elaborate methods of concealing surpluses and of extortionate dockage. They complained of being compelled to sell under pressure at a low market while the speculator waiting for a higher market took to himself the legitimate profit of the grain grower. They complained of a rank injustice to the farmer, far from market, selling by the waggon load at extortionate deduction from the track or carload price. The government of Mr. Meighen decided that these complaints should be investigated and appointed a commission under Mr. Justice Hyndman, for that purpose. Of Mr. Justice Hyndman's qualifications and his sense of honour and desire to do right there could be no question whatever. Immediately, however, a row went up led by the United Grain Growers' Corporation, headed by Mr. Crerar, denouncing the inquiry. Not able to find any honest complaint against the Hyndman Commission they had to satisfy themselves with the old meaningless assertion that it was "political." The Commission proceeded with its work. Very considerable evidence was adduced to show justification for the farmers' complaints, unconscionable deductions were shown to be made in the buying of street or waggon load grain, flagrant allegations, not without support, were made as to methods employed in concealing surpluses. Thereupon the grain dealers concerns, headed by the United Grain Growers, rushed to the courts in order to stop the investigation by injunction, in this they succeeded before the trial judge in Manitoba. The government, however, defended its legislation vigorously and sent the Deputy-Minister of Justice to Winnipeg to argue against the injunction in the Court of Appeal. The government succeeded. The injunction was dissolved. By this time, however, the election campaign was well under way and the Commission of Inquiry time its work during the campaign. The new government came into power and promptly discontinued the inquiry left the United Grain Growers' offices to indulge their practices as before and denied to the farmers the slightest redress for the grievances complained of. Meanwhile the then Prime Minister, Mr. Meighen, who had followed the evidence before the Hyndman Commission with care, determined that there was nothing within his power to do that would remove much, if not all, of what the farmers complained. Speaking at Portage la Prairie he stated his purpose, should the people return him to power, to establish a voluntary grain board with adequate powers to receive, store, and dispose of to the best possible advantage all grain committed to its charge.

This board would be financed on the credits of the federal government, and its method of operation would be the same as that followed by the Wheat Board of 1919. There would, however, be no compulsion. Farmers could choose to sell direct to a commission house or dealer, or they could choose to use the government board. In that way the farmer would be sure of getting the utmost figure for his grain, of getting the benefit of all savings and screenings, and, whether he sold by load or by car, of getting every cent the grain produced.

As was to have been expected a concerted effort was made to defame and destroy Mr. Meighen's character. Even those who well knew it was the only available means of relief, and was the right and best means of relief, joined in traducing the name of those are now shameless enough to declare that they favored Mr. Meighen's plan from the beginning.

Since the King Government came into power the farmers' interests have been ignored and worse than ignored. At the insistence of Western grain growers they decided they ought to introduce some sort of legislation that would enable them to sell they had offered the West a Grain Board. The Prime Minister, Mr. King made frequent promises through the session he pass any legislation which the farmers' party advised. This he never intended to do and this he never did. Time and again the farmers' request for a wheat board on the 1919 basis was balked and overthrown. The Justice Department ruled that the old compulsory powers as to purchase and sale could not be passed by federal legislation. The Prime Minister then promised to grant all the powers that the federal government could give, and leave it to the provinces to grant the rest. This he did not do, and this the farmer leaders well know he did not do. Mr. Meighen disclosed time and again that the legislation introduced by the government did not give the proposed board all the powers that the federal parliament could give it. It gave the Board no powers whatever over transportation—this is a federal power, and this the farmer board had. It gave the new Board no power whatever as to finance—this is a federal power, and this the old board had. As a matter of fact, the King legislation granted no power whatever which was exclusively federal. In a word it didn't give the new board a single power that any province could not have given. On the other hand ittied and hampered and hamstrung the Board by one restriction after another until there was no human possibility of the Board operating at all. All these things the so-called "Progressives" agreed to. Most members of the government deliberately designed that the legislation should be futile, and Mr. Crerar and several other Progressive leaders were only too willing that the legislation be futile. Mr. Meighen again and again declared, supported by his colleagues, that the legislation put through was a farce. He described it as a "deformed famished nonentity" and "that never would be operated and never could be operated." No man of capacity or brains would attempt to take charge of a board tied, stifled and starved as was the proposed board under the King legislation. In a word he described the whole performance as a ghastly travesty on Parliament—a contemptible fraud perpetrated on the farmers of Western Canada. This is precisely what the legislation turned out to be.

The Western farmers, and the people of Canada in general, should study the entire Wheat Board episode and judge the new government, and the Progressive leaders as well, by its miserable results. The story of the MacKenzie King Wheat Board fiasco—it unctuousness, its duplicity, its collapse, is a humiliating commentary on the Mackenzie King administration.

Armistice Day Tribute Made Possible By Keeping 7,000 Watches on Time

The stoppage of every train on the Grand Trunk Railway System for a period of two minutes on Armistice Day was arranged without danger to the travelling public. All arrangements for this two minute halt were closely supervised by the Train Despatching and Time Service Departments, and the cessation was made possible by the assurance that every man engaged in the operation of trains carried a watch synchronized with standard time.

IN the Grand Trunk, the importance of an efficient and up-to-date time service has long been recognized. The basic principle of safe operation is time. In recent years a large amount of money has been spent by railroads of the United States and Canada on what is known as "block" and the time service department, although it can lay claim to be the pioneer "safety first department," is probably the least known of any of the railway departments.

Before being accepted for service on the Grand Trunk all trainmasters, road foremen of locomotives, locomotive foremen, supervisors of track, supervisors of bridges and buildings, conductors, engineers, firemen, motorpast, train baggagemen, brakemen, yardmasters, yard foremen, switchtime and any employees engaged in construction work, train service, etc., have to provide themselves with one of the standard watches listed by the Grand Trunk time service department.

The minimum standard now required for men on the Grand Trunk is a watch adjusted to five positions, and in such state of repair as will enable it to run within a variation of thirty seconds per week. Twice a month employees under time service regulations are required to have their watches compared with standard time by the watch inspectors, who record the employee's name, occupation and variation of his watch, and send the information to the time service department on special forms. These forms are then checked off, and the men who fail to visit the watch inspector are disciplined, and those carrying watches not running within the prescribed variation are notified to have their watches attended to.

Some idea of the interest taken in this work by the officials and employees on the Grand Trunk may be gathered by the fact that out of nearly seven thousand employees under time service regulations handled twice a month, only 2.1 per cent. failed in this duty each period last year, one hundred and forty-five thousand watches being inspected and reported by the Watch Inspector during the year. The employees are not allowed to set their own watches, and it is to safeguard this that the lever set watch is required. The usual type of watch sold on the average citizen is pendant set, and such watches can be set by simply pulling out the pendant, whereas in the lever set type it takes a jeweler to set the second hand in its proper relation to the minute hand.

Among the number of serious wrecks due to lack of proper Time Service regulations, that is before the year 1906, one serious wreck at least — a prominent American road with considerable loss of life can be charged to the pendant set watch, as the engineer had set his watch some hours before, and had failed to prove it over the pendant, resulting in his watch being awry.

Years ago, when operating conditions on railroads were less strenuous and trains did not travel at such fast speeds, it was not uncommon for the only time piece on a train to be an alarm clock hung up beside the engineer at his seat. Frequently, if the train crew were not sure of the time, they would go on a siding and send the fireman to the nearest farmhouse to find out the time.

On the Grand Trunk, Time Signals are transmitted over the telegraph wires every day from McGill University Observatory, starting at 10.30a.m., and finishing at 11.00 a.m., during which time no telegraph operators are permitted to report, so that is, all telegraph business is suspended. The master clock at McGill is checked daily by astronomic readings, and its beats are put on the telegraph wires breaking in at 10.58 and beating fifty seconds except the fiftieth second when the wires remain open for ten seconds. The Signals again start to beat from 10.59 to 11.59 plus fifty seconds, when there is another pause of ten seconds, the line closing at 11.00 o'clock a.m. These Time Signals are received in part of the System at the same time by means of time receivers put in at all terminal and divisional points. All important official Watch Inspectors of the Railway also receive this time daily through a wire connected from the Railway circuits to their stores and correct their standard clocks with which they check the watches of the employees and adjust the clocks of the Company.

NEW CANADIANS GO HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

HOME for Christmas — to many thousands of Britishers now living in various parts of Canada that is more than a thought, it is a settled intent. Christmas probably means more to English people than to most others, aside to the Scotch, New Year's Day is the Day of Days. For both of them the holiday season brings a heart pull towards the Old Country that will not be denied, and to many of those who will not go it will be "home" at Christmas if they can make us all like," the holiday season comes as an excellent opportunity, and something of an excuse to make a trip back Home." For Christmas week old London draws all the world. The fascinating splendour and incomparable facilities of entertainment are at their best, and like April in the English countryside, it sets all who know her longing to be there.

It is already apparent that the 1922-day travel to Europe will this year be rather heavier than it has for some time, which may perhaps be taken as one result of the many generally satisfactory trips made through which the country has passed. Then, too, conditions in Great Britain are somewhat better established than they have been, and the welcome home will probably be all the heartier.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has made special arrangements to meet the expected increase in traffic. Trains carrying passengers will run alongside the ships at St. John, N.B., thus guaranteeing a practically uninterrupted journey from any point in Canada to the British port. A feature of the trans-Atlantic holiday travel this year will be the employment of the new Canadian Pacific Mono-cabin steamers. Technically these steamers provide second-class and steerage accommodation, but their appointments and service are such as to make them adequate for almost any standard of taste. The "Montcalm," which will be included in the holiday sailings, is typical of that class. She is an oil-burner of a total length of 568 feet, with the utmost in spacious and luxurious accommodation. In the short time that she has been running, she has proved comfortable in the last degree, and her fittings include a cellular double bottom and the very latest and most perfect navigating safety devices. Lounges, drawing, card and smoking rooms and dining saloon are the last word in modern interior decoration, and the thoughts given to comfort and good taste. A special Children's Room is a new feature, and in steerage or third class, accommodation is of the most modern description. Once again the lounges, smoking and other rooms, and the dining saloon provide unexcelled comfort and ample space.

By way of guaranteeing a through service for holiday travellers, the Canadian Pacific will run special tourist sleepers from Edmonton, Calgary, and other Western points. These will connect with special trains at Winnipeg, and will run through to the ship's side.

Sailings from St. John are arranged as follows:—"Princess" to Glasgow and Liverpool, Dec. 2, "Montcalm" to Southampton, Dec. 9, "Montclare" to Liverpool, Dec. 9, "Metagama" to Glasgow, Dec. 16.

Lord Northcliffe Speaks Of Sir Robert Borden as "Greatest Prime Minister"

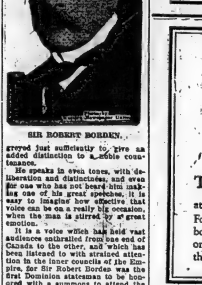

Sir Robert Borden, "a Great Prime Minister, by One Who Knows Him," is the title of an appreciative article on the editorial page of the London Daily Mail, recently, which reads as follows:

"I have met many Prime Ministers," said Lord Northcliffe recently to this writer, "but I am ashamed to say that Sir Robert Borden is the greatest Prime Minister I have ever met—and in saying this I do not exclude such giants as Lord Salisbury and Sir John Macdonald, 'the Grand Old Man of Canada.'

Prime Minister Pof Canada from 1911 to 1920, when he resigned on account of ill-health. Sir Robert Laird Borden, G.C.M.G., P.C., K.C., has returned to Canada recently after a short visit to Great Britain, where he has so many warm friends and enthusiastic admirers, and where he is quite as much "at home" as he is in his own great Dominion. "Indeed, I really ought to feel at home here," said Sir Robert, with that attractive, slow, winning smile of his, "for there are two parts English blood in one part each Irish and Scottish in my veins."

Born at Grand Pre, Nova Scotia, in 1854—he does not look his 68 years by any means—Sir Robert Borden is a man of singularly handsome appearance.

Of more than medium height, broad-shouldered, erect, he has a stately and dignified bearing. To-day by a thick crop of hair, which has proved just sufficiently to give an added distinction to a striking countenance.

He speaks in even tones, with deliberation and distinctness, and even for one who has not heard him making one of his great speeches, it is easy to imagine how effective that voice can be on a really big occasion, when the man is stirred by great emotion.

It is a voice which has held vast audiences enthralled from end to end of Canada to the other, and which has been listened to with strained attention in the inner councils of the Empire, for Sir Robert Borden was the first Dominion statesman to be honored with a summons to attend the meetings of the British Cabinet. How the great were the services he rendered there in the darkest days of the war is a matter of history, and for these alone the nation owes him a debt of gratitude which it can never adequately repay.

A barrister by profession, Sir Robert, before he became absorbed in politics, held a commanding position at the Bar in the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, and the Supreme Court of Canada, where the cold and logical working of his mind—evidenced him a most formidable opponent.

Sir Robert speaks French perfectly. His mind is a storehouse of literary allusion as well as a treasury of political and legal wisdom, and few men can tell a story better or more aptly introduce an anecdote to drive home a point in a speech.

He has no mannerisms no affectations. His manners are urbane; always cool and collected, nothing ever seems to "put him out."

And yet few men of our time have ever had their morale tested so highly; few men have had to face greater issues. A good idea of the many tremendous problems by which he has been beset for years may be gained from the vigorous anti-British agitation which is being waged so fiercely in the three great prairie provinces of Canada—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta—as a result of the failure to redeem the pledge to remove the embargo in the importation of Canadian cattle into this country.

A great Canadian and a great Britton, Sir Robert Borden's every wishes is a distinguished visitor box voyage and the years of further brilliant service to the Empire.

English Squirrel In Peril.

The English red squirrel is being gradually destroyed by the American gray squirrel, which has become acclimatized in England. The latter is a rival has great beauty, and lives on, nuts, grain, seeds, blossoms, fruit, etc., while the gray squirrel, it is said, kills the red squirrel, and by robbing wild birds' nests of their eggs and young destroys not only the pleasure but the singing and other birds.

The electric eel is the most powerful of the electric fishes. The electric shock is sufficient to paralyse, or possibly a man or large animal.

THE BANK OF MONTREAL, under authority of the Minister of Finance, is prepared to redeem the above bonds in full at maturity, without charge, at any of its Branches in Canada.

For the convenience of owners of the bonds, the Bank of Montreal will accept the bonds at any time prior to December 1st, and will make payment in each case on December 1st, as the owner may desire, either by issuing a cheque or by placing the amount to the owner's credit in the books of the Bank.

SMALL-TOWN MEN WHO HAVE BECOME BIG NEW YORKERS

It will encourage millions of men plodding along conscientiously at their tasks to know that almost all the biggest banking positions in the nation are filled by men who started humbly with smaller institutions.

The president of the largest national bank in America, Charles E. Mitchell, was born in a small town, and didn't even enter banking until he was thirty. The head of the largest trust company in the country, Charles H. Sabin, began work as a clerk with a produce dealer. The pilot of the largest bank in Chicago, George M. Reynolds, started in a country bank as floor-sweeper and errand boy. The head of the second largest bank in Chicago, James B. Forgan, migrated from Scotland as an obscure bank clerk.

Seward Prosser, the president of the second largest trust company in America, and a prominent figure in years before he, won a football on the financial ladder. The most active partner in the great house of J. P. Morgan Company, Thomas W. Lamont, is an ex-reporter who had to sweat over his own education. Mr. Owen D. Harding, the governor of the Federal Reserve Board, which guides the banking policies of the entire country, was originally a bookkeeper in Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Perry E. Johnston, a Kentucky lad who used to light street lamps to earn fifty cents a week for his widowed mother; Harvey Gibson, a New Hampshire boy who started sweeping floors in an express company office; Albert H. Wiggin, a New Englander who began work as an office boy before he was twenty, and became president of the Chase National Bank at thirty-five; George E. Baker, Sr., a country lad who used to light street lamps to earn fifty cents a week for his widowed mother; Harvey Gibson, a New Hampshire boy who started sweeping floors in an express company office; Albert H. Wiggin, a New Englander who began work as an office boy before he was twenty, and became president of the Chase National Bank at thirty-five; George E. Baker, Sr., a country lad who started as a clerk in a country store, and became the head of the First National Bank of New York; Charles G. Dawes, a country lawyer who became Comptroller of the Currency at thirty-five; Frank A. Vanderlip, who began as a country newspaper reporter, and became president of the National City Bank of New York; Otto H. Kahn, a German boy who started as a clerk in a banking house, and became a partner in the great firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

LUX

will make light work of keeping the children nicely dressed. Linens, lawns, organdies and batistes can be made to last just as long as the dark, ugly ginghams.

It is so easy to wash the children's clothes in LUX. The thin, white, silky Lux flakes, specially made by our own exclusive process readily dissolve into a rich bubbling lather, as harmless to fine fabrics as pure water itself. Just squeeze the creamy suds through and through the little garments, rinse, squeeze out surplus water, and hang to dry. Do not wring or rub.

Lux stands supreme for washing fine clothes. It is sold only in sealed packets—dust-proof!

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO. SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1922

ALL UNITED FARMERS' STORES IN ONTARIO TO CLOSE

DISTINGUISHED PERSONS INTERESTED

Few People Realize The Large Number of Notable Personages That are Directly Interested in the Coming Celebration.

The following items are taken from the files of correspondence in Mr. Mikel's office and illustrate what distinguished persons any of the proposed celebration of the 140th Anniversary of the Settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire Loyalists.

General Putnam of Vermont, a descendant of General Israel Putnam, one of Washington's most famous generals, says:

"His certainly was very kind and courteous of you to send me, together with my wife, an invitation to participate in your coming celebration of the 140th Anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire loyalists, in June 1924, to me a memorable that event. It will give me great pleasure to accept your invitation, but shall prefer not to make a formal address, as my talents, if I have any, do not lie in that direction."

"I expect to go abroad with my dif. in 1924, but that will doubtless be in the winter, so we will look forward by June I am sure. Anticipating the great pleasure of meeting you at the U.E.L. Celebration, I remain with hearty thanks for the honor of your invitation."

Hon. Mr. Justice John H. Clarke, of the Supreme Court of the United States, Washington, writes:—

"I greatly appreciate your kind-invitation to me to attend the celebration of the 140th Anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada in June 1924; and I assure you it will give me great pleasure to accept the invitation. If it is at all possible for me to do so."

Rear Admiral Sims, United States Navy, writes:

"Your letter of September 23rd has just been received with the very interesting invitation to attend the 140th Anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire Loyalists, in June 1924. I should be glad to accept this invitation if my engagements at the time permit, and if circumstances appear to be such that my participation would tend to promote the object which the association seeks to accomplish."

Charles Duquette, Montreal, President of L'Alliance Nationale, a large French-Canadian Society, also President of the Canadian Fraternal Association, writes:

"I favor the idea of the celebration mentioned in yours as President of the C.F.A., and as President of L'Alliance Nationale. I will submit your invitation to the Executive of the Canadian Fraternal Association at its session as the occasion will be favorable, and I presume that L'Alliance Nationale will participate in the President, or some other representative members to co-operate in the proposed celebration."

Lord Long writes:

"My dear Sir, I am greatly interested in your movement, pointing as it does in the direction in which we are trying to move in this Country, and nothing would give me greater pleasure than to attend the meeting in 1924."

Lord Beaverbrook writes:

"Dear Mr. Mikel,—Many thanks for your letter. I should like very much to go to your celebration. I con-

MANY CHANGES IN TELEPHONE CO.

Mr. James Cokers, is in Charge of Newly Organized Area

Forming a plan of fruther economy, the Bell Telephone Co. has reduced the number of staff, headquarter offices and plants, and have consequently increased the size of their areas. Formerly, in the district between this city and Montreal, there were three headquarter offices, Kingston, Cornwall and Brockville. From now on, the Kingston area and the Belleville area will be amalgamated into one known as the Belleville area, with headquarters at the exchange in this city.

Mr. James A. Cokers, will be area manager for the newly formed Belleville area. Mr. Matthew Graham, formerly manager at Kingston has been transferred to Montreal, and Mr. W. A. G. Spriggs, former chief clerk at Belleville, will succeed Mr. Graham at Kingston, he last manager in that city reporting to Mr. Cokers here. Mr. Harry Stone, former local manager at Picton, succeeds Mr. Spriggs here as chief clerk, while Picton will be a traffic office under the supervision of the chief operator, Mrs. Smith. Mr. C. E. Deviney, formerly local manager at Trenton, has been transferred to the mailing department at Toronto, while Miss Ethel M. Craig becomes local manager at Trenton. Miss Craig was formerly clerk in the Belleville exchange.

JOY RIDERS HAD SOME TOUR

Four Local Youths With Stolen Car, Cover On-tario Thoroughly

"Seeing Ontario" must have been the motto of the four local youths who stole the Maxwell car from Griffin's theatre one week ago tonight, for they certainly covered much ground during their absence. From Belleville, the quartette motored to Madoc, and from Madoc right through to Trenton. From Trenton they journeyed to Brantford and Galt to Toronto, then they drove west through Guelph, London and to Windsor, and back to Toronto. Then they toured the north country, getting as far north as Gravenhurst, where they lost the road and turned and drove back to Toronto where they were arrested by Detective Millar, who called upon them to halt on Yonge street, but was obliged to make a chase car and give chase before he ran them down on Greenwood Avenue, East end. When the effect from the ether boy, two of them were sound asleep in the rear seat, and knew nothing of the proceedings until they were rudely awakened at Pape avenue Police Station.

On their travels it is alleged that the boys made away with four different shoes, stealing gasoline and money. One place was over Thanksgiving week end at Barrie and another near London, Ont. It is alleged that they broke open Kinsline tanks owned by Mr. Kinsline, which is now in the possession of the police department was in touch with Detective Millar, cold runaway, the local police Department

Toronto, Nov. 25.—As a result of the mail vote, Mrs. Roe Henderson, Montreal, has been chosen to represent the Canadian section of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom at the conference at The Hague in December.

U.S. POLICY AMAZED DELEGATES

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Lausanne, Nov. 25.—Richard Washburn Child, chief United States spokesman at the Near Eastern Conference, amazed the other delegates at this morning's session by reiterating the intolerance of the United States upon the open door policy in Turkey. He read "side memoirs" delivered on July 6th to Britain, France and Italy, and said that the United States Government and public supported this policy.

BRIGHT PUPILS OF HIGH SCHOOL

Many Receive Diplomas, Medals, etc. Complimentary Addresses by Several Speakers

The Annual Commencement in connection with Belleville High School which took place in the City Hall on Friday afternoon were all that could have been desired. The pupils from that seat of learning were out in large numbers, nearly filling the hall. The members of the staff occupied seats upon the platform as did some members of the Board of Education and others. The school Board was represented by the Chairman, Mr. H. W. Ackerman, Mrs. J. A. McFee, Messrs. W. Harvey, F. S. Deacon, G. T. Woodley, W. B. Riggs, J. Elliott, A. Jones and H. Harrison, Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. W. C. Mikel.

Mr. Ackerman referred to the pleasure it was to preside over such a gathering of happy children. He also alluded to the pleasure to see many of the parents present.

Miss Katherena Patton, President of the Literary Society and Mr. H. Woodley, President of the Advisory Council gave a resume of the aims and objects of the Society as they are presented in the school. Each student was given an opportunity to develop his or her talents. Mr. Woodley, spoke of the co-operative spirit that was predominant amongst the pupils of the school. He claimed if there were better accommodations at the school the results would be better. It was the aim of the pupils was to make Belleville a better and bigger city.

A letter was read from Col. Ponton K.C., regretting his absence from the city and also stating that Charles Rankey the winner or the Carter's Scholarship for Hastings County or $100 was unable to be present at his exam at Upper Canada College, where he was doing good work.

Remarks of a complimentary nature were given by those called upon to make the presentation of certificates and prizes a few of which appeared in yesterday's issue of The Intelligencer.

Principal McLaurin of the school referred to the exercises and the pleasure it was to see so many in attendance. He also referred to the discipline of the school which was most creditable. In speaking of athletics he particularly referred to the fact that five members of the Belleville baseball team, champions of the Central Ontario League, were pupils of the High School namely, H. Mills, W. Rose, V. Weir, A. Meagher and J. Hagerman. (Applause). All had done well at school and in baseball.

During the exercises, Mrs. Dr. Sinclair and Mr. James Boodle, both, by that way, graduates of the school, rendered solos in a manner that was pleasing and were compelled to respond to encores. The pupils also livened the proceedings with songs of good school spirit.

The following additional pupils were upon the honor roll for the year:

Y.M.C.A. CAMPAIGN RESULTS

Mr. H. W. Ackerman Gives Dinner to Team Workers

Last evening at the Y. M. C. A., Mr. H. W. Ackerman entertained with a dinner the teams who have been canvassing for the $5000 fund. Singing followed the first part of the evening, Charlie Keeler leading the boys.

After the tables had been cleared, reports from the various teams were handed in, twelve of the sixteen teams reporting. The total sum reported as a result of Thursday's and Friday's work was $9210. This brought the grand total for the four days canvassing up to $6966.50. There is an apparent shortage of about $500 but this is really only of a temporary nature. It is practically certain that when other local teams report, and when the many people who have not yet been approached, have been canvassed, that this immediate sum of five hundred will be more than wiped out. Mr. Ackerman and Mr. Secretary said that they themselves had another two hundred dollars practically secured. It was arranged that all teams should get in their canvassing on their respective lists and report finally on Tuesday night next.

Mr. F. E. Mallot briefly referred to the wonderful civic spirit of Belleville citizens and thought that the support given to the building campaign was a matter of which to be very proud. Although a newcomer here, Mr. Mallot was extremely well impressed with the citizens and looked forward with pleasure to becoming better acquainted.

Mr. A. E. Bailey, on old Y.M.C.A. war horse gave a few stirring remarks and touched on the enthusiasm of the people of Belleville. He cited as an evidence of his interest in children and the rising generation, that he had adopted six and it was giving him great pleasure to assist them on their way to success. "It gives pleasure to get interested in other people and forget yourself" Mr. Bailey said.

Mr. Solomon added to the smoothness of the working of the campaign machinery, which made it a great pleasure for him to be associated with it.

Mr. Ostrom moved a vote of thanks to the ladies who had so kindly provided and served the dinner. This vote was unanimously endorsed by the company singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows."

Dr. Baker gave a few interesting remarks on the early history of the Y.M.C.A. and related how Mr. J. D. Sissons and Dr. Horace Wrinch, of Hamilton, B. C., both of whom had done so much for the Association.

The team workers all feel very grateful to Mr. Ackerman for having so kindly entertained them. They all express the desire to obtain more than the objective and there is no doubt but that by the time the final returns are made on Tuesday next that there will be a hull save over and above the $5000 objective.

HON. S. C. MEWBURN DECLARES HIS STANDS IN POLOTICS

Speaking at a Chamber of Commerce Gathering in Hamilton on Wednesday, He Voiced His Sentiments Favoring Conservatives

The political persuasions of Hon. S. C. Mewburn, member for East Hamilton, have veered, during the past few years, from Liberalism to staunch Conservatism. Of this fact, there existed no doubt in the minds of his hearers at the gathering of National Liberal-Conservatives at the chamber of commerce Wednesday night in Hamilton.

Mr. Mewburn significantly remarked that although formerly a strong Grit, he was now a supporter of the great Liberal-Conservative party. He further stated that he was one of the prime movers at Ottawa in striking out the "and" from between the two parties to make it the National Liberal-Conservative association.

The speaker plainly intimated that it was after the downfall of the union government that he lined up with the Conservatives, when that party began to recover its identity, after being fused with the opposition during the war.

"Speaking as a former Liberal, I would like to see the Conservative party develop a strong progressive

ADDITIONAL MEMBERS OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

List is Growing Daily—Objective of 500 Members In Sight

Objective Almost Reached, But All Teams Did Not Report

The names given below have been handed in by the canvassers in connection for membership to the Chamber of Commerce. The total membership to date now exceeds 280. More names are being received every day and prospects are extremely bright for the full objective of 300 being attained as soon as the campaigners have completed their rounds. Of those on the list, 75 or nearly one-third, are from new applicants. Following are the later additions to the list:

FERGUSON SAYS PROVINCE WILL OUST DRURY

Sweeping Criticism of Reckless Extravagance

Toronto, Nov. 25.—The wild extravagance of the Drury Government and the reckless piling up of the provincial debt, with no thought of retrenchment, or cutting down of expenditure, was dealt with in masterly and forceful fashion by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, leader of the Liberal-Conservative party in Ontario, who was the guest of honor yesterday at the luncheon of the Liberal-Conservative Business Men's Club of Toronto. The Government might, and it had done, willfully falsify the public accounts, he said, in order to give it a better complexion, but it would not deceive the man in the street, who knew that during the time the present Government had been in power his taxes had increased 60 or 60 per cent. The Government was taxing everything to raise revenue, and if it went on at the present rate of expenditure the province would soon be face to face with direct taxation. People were looking for leadership and guidance of taxation, but with the present Government in power there was every indication that it would increase. The former leader of the Opposition also scored the Government for the Backus deal, the full iniquity of which he lucidly exposed. It was in a word the sale of rights worthy thirty million dollars for a paltry fifty thousand.

FARMERS MADE MONEY IN THEIR FARM PRODUCTS

Operating Deficits for Year are $76,978—Net Loss is $56,222—Toronto Stores Show Greatest Loss

BREAK IN LAST NIGHT

Grocery Store Owned by John Penny Entered, And $140 Taken

The grocery store, owned and conducted by Mr. John Penny, at the corner of Moira and Coleman streets, was broken into last night and some $140 stolen, as well as part of a large box of chewing gum. The groceries and other produce in the store were not moved from their places. The empty gum container, and the money bag, turned inside out, were thrown down in the lawn and found there this morning.

Mrs. Penny, in conversation with the Intelligencer this morning, was naturally feeling badly over the large loss. Mr. Alfred Johnston, brother-in-law, of Mrs. Penny was the first man discovering to detect the theft, when he noticed the kitchen window opened, a very unusual condition. In investigation proved that the door, had not been unfastened, and that evidently entrance and exit had been made through the window, which was left open by the thieves. The bank book was also taken with the money.

During the night, a lady who lives next door, heard low talking between two or more persons, but did not take any suspicions as she did not think that this was unusual.

Mrs. Penny stated that she believed that the same thieves were in their garage on Thursday night, and it was from the garage that the tools were secured for the purpose of raising the window. There was no lock or fastener on the window.

Sergeant A. Hannan, and P. C. A. Booth are working on the case today.

PROWLER GOES UNREWARDED

On Thursday night, the residence at 163 Moira street was entered by someone who was in all probability in search of something to steal, but who left without taking anything after having made a complete inspection of the main floor of the residence. Entrance was made by raising the dining room window.

EGGS COMMAND GOOD PRICE

Dairy and Farm Products Offered for Sale in Considerable Quantities

There were many sellers and buyers upon the market this morning and whilst much farm and garden produce was offered for sale, a considerable portion was disposed of. There were not many changes to note in prices over those of a week ago. Fresh eggs commanded a rather high figure namely 65 cents per dozen, dressed chickens were plentiful and fairly reasonable in price ranging from $1.25 to $2.25 per pair, according to size and quality, ducks sold at $1.50 to $1.50 each and a few geese brought $2.50 and $2.75 each.

Potatoes were offered for sale at 6c and 8c for forequarters and 15c to 18c for hind quarters. Butter was plentiful and the selling price was 40c per pound. A few lots were sold at a slightly lower figure. Vegetables and other garden products were plentiful and sold at fairly reasonable prices. The ruling price for potatoes was 90c per bag. Apples were offered for sale in considerable quantities and prices obtained for some were from 75c to $2 per peck according to quality. Honey in the comb sold at 20c a square and strained honey in 5 pound pails from 60 to 70c.

Cider sold at 30c a gallon.

A number of loads of wood were offered for sale in wagon load consisting from half to three quarters of a cord. Prices ranged from $7 @ $9 a load, according to quality.

MASONS AT CHURCH

Members of the Masonic fraternity will attend divine service to-morrow morning at Bridge Street Church. Rev. Dr. Bell, B. D., will preside. Special music will be furnished by the orchestra of Eureka Lodge.

A LIVELY RUNAWAY

A lively runaway occurred on Pinnacle street this morning but fortunately no damage resulted. A team of horses attached to a demoeral wagon became frightened near the post office and started off at a lively pace on the street. In front of the Court House the animals became detached from the wagon, which was overturned on its side and was damaged to some extent. The horses ran for a considerable distance before being caught.

ARMAND LAVEGNE MAKES DISCLOSURES

Blanche Garneau Murder Centre of a Popular Storm—Meeting in Montreal to Discuss Murder—Taschereau's Methods Criticized—Premier Has Violated all Conception of British Justice—Habitants Becoming Less Servile.

Montreal, Nov. 23rd.—Premier Taschereau and his government will be evicted from office within one year and John H. Roberts, editor of "The Axe," will be freed from prison within one month, Armand Lavegne, once famous lieutenant to Henri Bourassa in the Quebec Nationalist movement, told a screamingly enthusiastic audience of some 2,200 that crowded the Monument-National this week.

The great majority of the audience were of a horde of politics hostile to Premier Taschereau, but the minority included a notable representation of prominent Liberals.

ALL WRITTEN DOWN.

Two court stenographers, one French and the other English, took every word that was uttered by the various speakers and, incidentally drew the scream of Mr. Lavegne, who solicitously looked in their direction in order that they might get what was said accurately in their report "for the government."

Mr. Lavegne reviewed the history of the Garneau murder, commencing with the evening of July 22, 1920, when Blanche Garneau left her work to go home and disappeared on the way.

According to the official report of the Liberal Party in Quebec "Le Soleil," all manner of rumors began to circulate within a day or two. Shortly after wards the chief of detectives of Quebec had said he knew the name of the murderer and his address and would soon apprehend him. Soon "Le Soleil" published an article to the effect that the crime had not been committed where the body had been found.

BEGAN TO HEDGE.

Eight days after crime Detective Lecosse had been charged to investigate the crime and about August 30th "Le Soleil" had declared that the girl's death was probably an accident, that she had been struck by a street car. Without warning, Lavergne exclaimed "An accident, the girl was struck by a street car, carried 150 feet, dismembered, then covered with a cloth by the tramway." On August 19th, the conductor of a street car, Mr. Hall, had identified, ten men, one English-speaking and the other French- speaking who had boarded his car on the evening of July 23rd.

During the various preliminary inquiries many witnesses had not been called and some 70 or 75 exhibits had been produced among which was a bar pin which bore the initials "H. B." which had been returned to its owner.

VERDICT OF INQUEST

The verdict rendered by the coroner's jury was that death had been due to strangulation caused by persons unknown and the police were charged to investigate the crime. One of the jurors however had refused to subscribe to the verdict and demanded why certain persons believed to have some light to throw on the case had not been summoned. But the coroner, Dr. Julien Gosselin had replied that the jurors and himself had done their duty and that it was up to the police to do theirs. Premier Taschereau had said prior to the preliminary inquest; and in his capacity of Attorney-General, "We have placed our hands on Blanche Garneau's murderers and they will mount the gallows."

Up to then British justice had always required that a man be considered innocent until he is proven guilty, but in Mr. Taschereau's glorious reign a man would be hanged before he even had a trial. Mr. Lavergne then explained how Bisset, in an Ontario prison, had boasted of his exploits and declared to his friend, Dube, that he was present when the murder was committed.

MOCK TRIAL

Dube spoke of it after he was released with the result that Bisset was brought to Quebec, Palmer was sought and found in a penitentiary. Bisset was charged with the murder of Blanche Garneau, taken to prison, and from there conducted by Detective Rioux to the home of Detective Rioux where he stayed for a month—not in prison—as one of the family. "Thus, a man accused of the vilest crimes known in Quebec in 50 years, murder and rape, is lodged in the family of a detective."

Bisset made many confessions, but when Mr. Lavergne defending Palmer took them up in court, none of them fitted in with the evidence of the other Crown witnesses.

DOCUMENTS DISAPPEAR

All these statements had since disappeared. They had been filed in the libel suit of Premier Taschereau against the Quebec Chronicle. One statement had been abstracted by Willie Amyot, a Government employe and had not since been recovered.

"After having examined these confessions," Lavergne continued, "I did not believe they did not do and which placed them in the positions either of scoundrels or imbeciles, I do not consider the Premier is a scoundrel, I will give him the benefit of imbecility."

REPEATS HIS CHALLENGE

"And there is more. So you know a paper in Montreal was sued for repeating some of my words. To give Mr. Taschereau another chance of revenge, I will repeat them again." (Thunder of applause).

"When the Attorney-General made the case against Bisset and Palmer eight months before the case came in Assizes, he knew by the officers of justice all of our alibi as well as we knew it. He knew there could be no crime proved against Palmer and Duval had later made a statement while in Bordeaux prison near Montreal to the effect that he had seen the crime committed still the authorities refused to pay any attention to his confession. Duval had been kept in the custody of a private detective for some six months and his confession was not produced at Bisset's trial when requested by the defence."

Lavergne then repeated other charges touching two political incidents in the Government.

One man was charged with having stolen $225,000 on a Government contract, yet he was let go unprosecuted. Another had stolen $85,000 from a bank of which he was the manager, yet he had not been brought before the courts.

NO FEAR OF TASCHEREAU.

"I say this," shouted Lavergne, "because I have no more fear for Taschereau's jails than I have for the man who owns them.

"What was the effect of that (Taschereau's) statement that Palmer was guilty?" he resumed, "when he said they were still guilty? It was a message to the real murderers that they were free on the streets with impunity. If these murderers were apprehended they would surely have to turn to the Attorney-General and say, "We can't be guilty" you have said we are not, as Bisset and Palmer are the murderers."

He was not worried about the new law Mr. Taschereau had passed. "If Mr. Taschereau does not establish it quickly, we will go to Ottawa and find the judges of the Supreme Court and see what can be done there. Mr. Roberts is in prison in contempt of justice for it is the first time in the history of the British Empire that a man is arrested before the Bar of the House. Somehow- ously he was accused before a magistrate-of-sedition, and thus we have this grand new principle of Liberalism, that a man may be tried in two different places at once for the same offence.

"Are we now to return to that damnable party which has soiled and stained our public life for the past 40 years? he inquired. "The press has been muzzled, rich honors, rewards and money from the Montreal papers for instance, which tried to refuse to touch this case and which only reluctantly accepted our money to advertise this meeting."

Hroff ...ath been...stipu...ay pi o.

The farmers at Quebec had formed a "family compact." Some 84 members of the Taschereau family were in the public service and had cost the province some $2,000,000 within the past few years.

"The popular storm is rising," he warned, "and it will break abundantly—sufficient to cleanse the dirt of which I have given you an instance."

SERVILITY DISAPPEARING

Mr. Lavergne then briefly resumed in English and deplored the racial traits and education of the French-Canadian in their contract in favour of the French-Canadian. "Our education," he said, "teaches us to bow down to and to believe in authority. This has not taught us alone obedience, but servility, although, thank God, it is dying out. (So have the respect of authority, but are not servile."

In conclusion Mr. Lavergne took to ...ngting Bisset Charles Lanctot, who he said was too busy engaged in his private practice while supposed to prosecute the murderers of Blanche Garneau. During that time Lanctot had given his services to Sir Charles Rose, of Ross rifle fame, that he later sued him for $40,000 for legal services rendered.

The meeting adjourned with a resolution protesting against the Government's action in the Roberts case.

WHY RHEUMATISM OFTEN COMES BACK

The Usual Treatment Does Not Reach the Root of the Trouble.

Most treatments for rheumatism do no more than aim to keep down the poison in the blood and enable nature to overcome that particular attack. Then when the system becomes run-down from any cause the disease again gets the upper hand and it all has to be done over.

Sufferers from rheumatism who have found their condition unrelieved or actually growing worse while using other remedies, would do well to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The tonic treatment with this medicine has proved in thousands of cases that it builds up the blood to a point that enables it to cast out the rheumatic poisons through the regular channels of excretion, the bowels, kidneys and skin. When this is done rheumatism is banished, and as long as the blood is kept pure and rich the patient will be immune from attack. This is proved by the case of Mrs. J. Hewitt, Beach P. O., Hamilton, Ont., who says: "For a number of years I was troubled with muscular rheumatism, which caused me a great deal of suffering. I would get rid of the trouble for a time, but it always came back. A friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I have not had an attack of rheumatism since I took them, and that is five years ago. I have also used the pills for an infant and found them equally good, and I now recommend them to my friends who may be afflicted.

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Farmers and Co-operation

This is a live topic at present. Do Farmers appreciate every opportunity given them? They surely do and know how to appreciate them. This was proven a few years ago when a couple of wealthy Montreal grain men, not handling extra business, nor profits started an up-to-date Grain Elevator and Flour Mill in Belleville to accommodate the Farmers and citizens of this district, expecting only a small return on money invested. The farmers appreciated this, and came in crowds all day long bear from their dealers, and at the mill, and the farmers surely brought; their grain to the Ocean quantities, getting the best of flour, and the highest prices for grain, paying less for their flour, and getting more for their grain than if said elevator and mill had not been here. That was real Co-operation.

WILL FARMERS still Co-Operate and derive benefit from so doing? They are doing it on a large number.

But it is now up to every farmer to support and maintain this HOME grain market.

Keep to-day the grain that we do not get milling is bringing the farmer more money than it would if we were not here.

How then, can the farmer further co-operate in holding this home market, which adds it fully develops, and is able to manufacture into the grain right here, will bring still better prices?

Well dear, every farmer should remember the convenience of being able to bring his grain, or any part of it, in bags and just when he is least busy. No need of cleaning, no dragging into cars.

Every farmer should ask for, and insist on "getting, at least one bag every month of THE HIGHEST GRADE bread flour known, perfected by many years' experience, and superintended by the expert miller, Mr. Geo. B. Jones.

MONTROSE IS the GOOD BREAD FLOUR, equal to the best and because it is made here we can sell it a little lower in price. EVERY FARMER, EVERY CITIZEN should buy a bag from their dealer or come direct to the mill, and this Co-Operative market will carry on. Just one bag of Montrose per Month will do it.

Every bag of Montrose Flour, the high-grade Bread Flour carries a BANK GUARANTEE OF Quality, money back, after trial, if not satisfied.

THE FIRST ESSENTIAL then for a good HOME Co-Operative market for grain, flour, etc., is that the farmers themselves buy the flour, it costs no more, maybe less, it is so good as the best.

THE SECOND thing necessary to maintain this home market is bring your grain to the elevator, at least get our prices before buying or selling. Remember we are the anchor, or stabilizer, or setter of prices. Buy your flour from us, either direct or through the dealer.

THE THIRD AND MOST ESSENTIAL to a good home Co-Operative market is boost, just as you have done in the past.

WE CO-OPERATED before and it paid you, will you do so again?

"ORPHANS" DRAWING MANY SECOND TIME

Beauties of Griffith Picture Such that many seek re-Thrills in Dramatic Scenes

D. W. Griffith's "Orphans of the Storm," based on the well-known stage play, "The Two Orphans," continues as the means of popular interest at Griffin's Theatre where large crowds have expressed their delight by their applause, laughter and tears. Among the crowds are not a few who saw this screen version, the engagement first began Tuesday but come back to enjoy more of its beauties.

The canvas is so vast and the figure so numerous, colorful and interesting that his work improves on the second seeing. The gorgeous tapestry is most skillfully woven with the heart-stirring, the grotesque, the lovely and the comic aids by side in harmonious wealth of detail. It is such detail, as well as the ever-present thrill, that causes "Orphans of the Storm" enthusiasts to come again and again.

Always predominantly remains the picture of Henrietta and Louise, the loveliest list of scenes are the ever-mighty canvas. The Misses Lillian and Dorothy Gish in these characters, Joseph Schildkraut as Henriette's lover and Monte Blue as Henriette's rescuer in the famous cavalry ride, continue their great hits. "Orphans of the Storm" is receiving its final exhibition at Griffin's tonight, and it well worthy of every Belleville theatre lover. A beautiful musical setting played by a symphony orchestra adds to the enjoyment of the spectacle.

FRANK NAYO AND "LEATHER PUSHERS" AT REGENT TONIGHT

You should hardly blame her for believing the man she loved was a coward when he permitted the other man to publicly horsewhip him in front of her eyes, and never lift a hand or lifted his hand to strike back. She turned away with tears in her eyes, he went on the city hospital ward.

Straight to a doctor's office he hied himself. The M. D. gave the man a hypodermic injection and an answer to the unasked question. The days sped by until another month had been chalked up on the calendar under a cluster of lights, thousands cheered. Five minutes later the man who was the talk of the town stepped out of that lighted circle the champion of the World. Without pausing he caught a train. Down the street stalked the man who had horse-whipped him. They met in the exact spot where they had parted a month before, but you must see Frank Mayo in "Afraid to Fight" at the Regent tonight to enjoy the stirring climax of this splendid story.

"Hokus Pokus" a two reel Chrisie comedy, Pathe News, and Reginald Denny in the opening chapter of the "Leather Pushers" series are being exhibited on the same program. The feature picture will be shown tonight as seventh-ity and nine-fifteen.

REX PRESENTING PEPPY COMEDY NEXT WEEK

Are you a victim of a fond parent's desire to give you a name that is "Different"? Some mothers and fathers ought to have to carry through life the awful titles that they "Wish" on their offsprings.

In the comedy that the Rex Stock Company presents at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday, entitled "His Majesty"—Rex" is cursed with the first name of "Bunker" and his surname is Bean. In addition he is cursed with a timid disposition—strange to say, for his parents were such pun, but see this is only in the play, and Rex is great enough actor to make his public believe that he is not and the present Mr. Bean was merely a reincarnation of, say Napoleon or Caesar, and with that thought firmly planted in his mind he could, without a doubt, "Turn the World in its Axis." A startling fortune teller learning of this secret fad of his arranges to sell him a mummy of one of his late lamented ancestors, one King Tut, which once in his possession transforms him from a timid shrinking, inoffensive citizen, to one of the world's big business men. The fact that the mummy has been in someone's basement does not appear until after he has undergone much.

Refusing to magry a man because he was rich.

That is what Helen Haynes did in "The Beautiful Liar," an Associated First National attraction starring Katherine MacDonald, which is scheduled to be shown at the Regent Theatre this Monday to Wednesday, matinee daily.

Helen was, to all appearance in the brokerage office of Eamons & Co., when she first saw Bobby, and she fell in love with him.

Because of the form of temptation which caused Helen to impersonate a famous actress—then together.

Try Nature' Own Internal Bathing For Constipation

Thousands of Canadians testify to the immediate relief from constipation through the J. J. L. Cascada which produces a natural movement. The 25c. 100 pill twenty-one years it has been recommended and endorsed by physicians. It has relieved men worked out-cases for and women suffering from continuous constipation, pain, biliousness, indigestion, sick headache and bad complexion.

And why should it not? Ninety-five per cent. of all human ailments are attributed to the accumulated waste in the lower intestine. That is the physician's first use that the system is toxicosity poisoned. Cascada is a natural laxative. It has no cross habit and is guaranteed not before health can be restored. Mr. Frank Stanton, of Port Arthur, Ont., writes: "I must say that the J. J. L. Cascada is the best medicine I ever saw, and I feel indebted to its discovery of this treatment. I feel twenty years younger and have not been taking medicine for any sort since using J. J. L. Cascada." The J. J. L. Cascada is for sale at all druggists who will give you free on request the booklet and booklet "Cascada" by Dr. A. Tyrrell, "The What, The Why, The Way of Internal Bathing," containing a surprising amount of information that you should know. Write or phone for it to-day. Write or phone for it to-day. Send to Tyrrells drgiesic institute, 141 College St., Toronto.

Bobby likewise felt the arrow of Cupid, and it did not take him long to propose. But she refused. It was not until he told her that he had lost his fortune that she consented to marry him. But when he found out that she was not Elsie Parmelee, the famous musical comedy queen, he—

But to see what happened after that can be seen in the picture, which is an exceptionally entertaining production. Miss MacDonald plays a dual role in it.

A two reel Hallroom comedy, Fox News weekly, and a new chapter of Robinson Crusoe serial is announced for presentation on the same program.

THE STORM IS COMING

"It'll be mighty lonesome snowed in here for four months," said Burt Wilson as he received David Stewart, a city man, into his woodsman's hut for the winter. "And while I'm sheerdo' woman myself, I'm afraid you'll miss them. You've seen a lot of them, ain't you?"

"Too darned much of them!—said David, flashing an ingenuous smile. That's what I'm here for—to get away from them."

So the two men tried the experiment that is never safe; for two humans to live together for four months, isolated from the world. They usually murder each other.

Unexpectedly, fate dropped a rest card on the table. Manette Franchard came into their lives. The winter snows caught her with the two men just after her father's death in Burr's little cabin, and learned the three in the valley; the innocent girl, the man who was "shoo-ed-do women" and the man who had seen his darned much of them.

Did the man from outside revile fate or shrivel up within a shell at this interruption? Or did he go after the girl with all his Loudian drawing room tricks? Did Burr hate the girl or fall in love with her?

"The Storm" decided the whole thing, and "The Storm" starring House Peters will be exhibited at Griffin's next Thursday to Saturday, with a matinee on Friday and Saturday. The city man and the girl are Matt Moore and Virginia Valli, while Burr Winton is played by Peters.

"The Storm" features the famous forest fire which swept the newspaper critics of New York into torrents of praise, and presents the most appealing romance and thrilling episodes of the season on the screen.

Continued liquidation in Winnipeg forced prices down 2½c to $1.10½; Nov.—1.10½; Dec.—1.04½; May—1.02; July—1.00½.

Exporters who had anticipated loading cash wheat into vessels for winter storage are selling out their grain at good premiums over the May option, regarding it safer to take their profits now than to hold it until winter. Therefore wheat at Montreal scored a decline of 2½c a bushel, to $1.10½ for No. 1 northern. Germany is reported to have bought a fair amount of Manitoba wheat for December shipment and England took over 300,000 bushels at the decline.

In Chicago the prices today, viz.—Wheat—Dec.—1.17½; May—1.16½; July—1.07 5-8.

THE QUESTION OF HOURS

For several years past the agitation for shorter hours of labor has been going on. We recognize that in many instances the demands of labor were justified. There are other cases where there are two sides to the question.

Recently that wizard of electricity, Thomas A. Edison, summed up the situation and hit at the very root of the cause of discontented labor, when he said: "I am not against the eight-hour day, or any other thing that protects labor from exploitation at the hands of ruthless employers, but it makes me sad to see young men shackle their abilities by blindly conforming with rules which force the industrious man to keep in step with the slacker. I have always felt that one of the principal reasons for human progress has been that every man had a chance to become whatever he wanted to be."

Today I am wondering what would have happened to me by now if fifty years ago some fluent talker had converted me to the theory of the eight-hour day and convinced me that it was not fair to my fellow workers to put forth my best efforts in my work. I am glad that the eight-hour day had not been invented when I was a young man. If my life had been made up of eight-hour days I do not believe I could have accomplished a great deal. This country would not amount to as much as it does if the young men of fifty years ago had been afraid that they might earn more than they were paid. There ought to be some labor leader strong enough and wise enough to make trade unions a means of fitting their members for better jobs and greater responsibilities."

Perhaps Mr. Edison is a wee bit prejudiced, but we must admit that there is a certain element of truth in his statements. Labor on the whole is reasonable, but there exists in any large body of men certain radical spirits, who are more outspoken than the others. These men advertise their ideas profusely, and, consequently, all labor is branded by the senseless wanderings of a few non-representative members.

Labor, when employed in large numbers, must necessarily be controlled by a systematic mechanical organization and often the human and personal side of things is submerged. This causes some of the discontent. Labor likes to identify itself with successful business ventures, and if properly handled by men who understand their fellow creatures, not much trouble regarding hours, or minor advances in pay will be encountered, if the alternative is a steady job under reasonably good working conditions. Radical labor leaders cannot influence labor indefinitely against its better judgment.

"MADE-IN-BELLEVILLE" GOODS FOR CHRISTMAS

We have now an opportunity to apply in a practical way the lessons learned this autumn, regarding the advisability of buying "Made-in-Belleville" goods. Purchasing of Christmas Gifts at this season of the year serves as a good impetus to retail business. The merchants of Belleville should display prominently all Made-in-Belleville products and have them placarded as such. They can in this way do a great deal to increase the sales of these articles. The purchasing public would be well advised to look over the various Made-in-Belleville products displayed and arrange as far as possible to purchase these goods. We realize though, that we do not manufacture here a full line of goods that are required for the Christmas trade, and that our present supply one hundred per cent. of the demand, but it will be surprising to find to just how large an extent, the list of Christmas gifts can be filled with Made-in-Belleville goods. This is an excellent way to encourage the community spirit, which is so valuable to any city. It will be a good advertisement for ourselves and our city. It provides a wider field for the local merchants to display original ideas in decorating their shops and showing their goods. Local workmen will have more work and there will be fewer jobless men in the city. Our money will remain in Belleville, and we will all be more prosperous. The city will have fewer demands on the municipal funds for the assistance of the needy. In fact if we all sincerely followed out the idea, the amount of good done, would be felt by all. Everyone benefits when local trade and manufacturing is in a prosperous condition! Let's all buy Made-in-Belleville Christmas presents!

PASSING COMMENT

The word "Royal" appears to be thoroughly deserved by the Winter Fair.

The Ontario Highways Department will charge motorists only a dollar extra next year. If the department would have that dollar applied to making a good plate, that will not corrode and obscure the numbers, it might get its money's worth.

"I like a fight"—Mayor McGuire.

In reality it appears that he is more favorable to a fight.

The paint business is described as being good, but, of course, that is all on the surface.

British Labor party. He is a Socialist of somewhat advanced views. The British public are not likely to regret that they favored a Bonar Law Government.

The Edmonton Eskimos have decided to show the effete East how Rugby should be played. They will be welcome so long as they do not bring Eskimo weather with them to the home of November strawberries.

The business men of Winnipeg will serve their country better by helping to market actual grain than by evolving machinery for more extensive trading in futures. Chicago dealers in futures are moving north in the same spirit in which race-track operators moved to Canada when track gambling was outlawed at home.

Hon. Manning Doherty says that the Ontario system of marketing farm produce is slovenly and inefficient. It may be from the farmer's point of view but the spread between the price received by the farmer, and that paid by the consumer, shows there is no slovenliness and inefficiency by the middleman.

The Minister of Immigration is going to let down the bars against immigration considerably. The regulations will be amended to let in other classes than farmers and domestic servants. If the Government would establish huge training schools, on the military camp system, at which newcomers could be boarded, and trained in elementary farm work, it would be a relief to all of raw immigrants into real farming.

HERE AND THERE

FOREST FIRES AND THE NEWSPAPERS.

Many newspaper editors maintain that the daily and weekly press are paying the bills for forest fires. This refers, of course, to the destruction of paper-making woods, spruce and balsam.

This statement is not exaggeratyl. Spruce and balsam are the raw materials of newsprint paper. Dear wood automatically follows forest fires as the United States pay per mills are finding today. When Ontario loses 700,000 acres of timberlands by fire in a single season, and Quebec another 600,000 acres, it is not difficult to understand that the price of depletion must be paid by the ultimate consumer of wood products. We cannot hold down the price of newsprint paper and at the same time allow forest fires the right of way.

TIMBER LANDS.

Owning timber land today is like having money in the bank, and prudent farmers are husbanding their resources in the shape of trees. A woodlot may be neglected but with intelligent treatment it can be made to give a good return either in yearly growth or in the shape of firewood. Only dead or fallen trees should be used for the fireplace or the cooking stove.

THE DEAD SEA.

We have heard of dead people, dead beasts, dead trees and dead flowers, but is there such a thing as a dead sea, and why do they call it dead? There is, and they so call it because it receives all and gives nothing. This body of water—the most remarkable in the world—is at the southern end of the Jordan Valley in Palestine. It is 47 miles long and 10 miles wide, is 1,292 feet below the sea level and is one of the hottest regions on earth. It receives 5,000,000 tons of water daily into its bosom from the Jordan river, but gives none out to refresh and nourish the valley below, which has become an arid desert on account of the close-distortions of the sea. Its water is five times as salty as the ocean, is bitter to the taste, oily to the touch and leaves a yellow stain. No fish live in the water, no flowers bloom or fruits grow on its shores, no birds sing in its neighborhood. Its barkless driftwood and shores are incrusted with salt. Its setting is a scene of desolation and gloom; it looks as if the curse of God rested on all the region.

It is a striking emblem of the selfish life. Selfishness is at the base of all sin. The world soon forgets the man who thinks only of himself. There are no selfish heroes. The gates of glory are forever closed against the man who lives for himself alone. He who would save his life must lose it, and he who would be remembered by others must forget himself. Life comes through death and true greatness through service.—Exchange.

PLAN TO PLANT ANOTHER TREE.

We plan our homes, our churches, schools,
Our boulevards, our parks and pools;
We plan our music, songs and books,
Our gardens and our little nooks;
We plan our children's hours so they
May have some sunshine every day;
We plan our lives and with a sigh
Cease planning only when we die.
But all through life how seldom we
Plan to plant another tree!

So plant a tree and watch it grow,
Through it some of your blood may flow;
And it may become a safe retreat
That friends will seek with eager feet,
And 'neath its shade in cool content,
Bless it—Your living monument;
A tree that sings a lullaby
To every pilgrim passing by,
And reaches out a friendly limb,
As if to shade and shelter him
Selfish—selfish indeed is he
Who never plans to plant a tree.

A tree, a shady, sheltering tree,
Is like a living prayer to-me,
A prayer that grace and comfort leads
To mortal men ere it ascends
In thankfulness to bless the hand
That, planting it, both worked and planned
"A tree whose thirsty mouth is prest
Against the earth's sweet flowing breast;
A tree that looks at God all day,
And lifts its leafy hands to pray;"
Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.

QUEEN'S CHAMPION TEAM

(Kingston Standard.)

The amazing spirit of Queen's which knows not defeat even when down, was never more strikingly shown than in the wonderful game at the Percival Molson Stadium, in Montreal on Saturday afternoon, when the Queen's team in the wonderful game at the Percival Molson Stadium, in Montreal on Saturday afternoon, when the Queen's team on a field that was none too favorable to its style of playing, the Queen's team accomplished the Intercollegiate Championship. Not only was it a splendid exhibition of football but it was an exhibition of football in the play of the previous Saturday when, owing to a combination of unfortunate circumstances the Queen's team was anything but at its best. On Saturday, however, there was no doubt, that it was in real form and that every player was working, not alone with all his body but with all his heart and soul, to bring to his Alma Mater the coveted championship.

It has been a long, long wait since 1901 but it has been a well well worth while and to the champion players on every one of the team's whole, They have played the game cleanly and they have played it well and the championship honors are worthily theirs.

The Standard salutes them and wishes them "many happy returns."

(New York Times.)

If Father Duffy and Vaughan had risen to his previous fame during Dunrash's life, he certainly would have figured in one of the latter's novels. The attractions of his personality were manifold. Member of a family which furnished several notable Catholic ecclesiastics, he enjoyed the advantages of helpful prestige, of influences, and of a reputation as a moral crusader. The fact that he was a favorite in fashionable society did not diminish his influence among the poor in slums for whom he spent himself. With positive convictions and with strong social ends ran political dangers, he made of himself a public teacher whose influence for good during the war he identified himself with the most intense national sentiment in England and in his country. His well-marshaled fascination about him which makes his death seem to render the world less picturesque and piquant for the time being.

The footballer had vaulted the floor with the youngest of his family for an hour or so.

At It Again.
Two old English women who had not been on speaking terms were brought together by friends who desired to patch up their quarrel. There was an embarrassed silence between them for a moment, then one ventured: "Well, Mrs. Iggins, I wish you all you wishes me."
"An' 'oo's sayin' nasty things now?" snapped the other woman.

The fact is, the men had better quit devoting so much time to criticism of women's dress and devote more to planning how they're going to retain their seats in the smoking car.

In fact I was miserable. During this time boils began to appear on different parts of my body and the pain from them made life a misery. My suffering was so great at times that I felt there was nothing left for me to do but to end it all. I consulted doctors but they all told me that if I didn't give up my work and live out of doors, I would go into a decline. As I had no money I couldn't do this. Many who could well afford more expensive cars are showing a marked preference for Dodge Brothers Sedan.

They find it easy to drive, economical to run, and comparable in beauty and elegance with cars much higher in price.

In the vast amplitude of Dodge Brothers closed body plant, this sedan is constructed with all the studious precision that marks the work of the finest custom builders.

Eighteen days are devoted alone to the 18 rubbing and varnishing processes which are responsible for the unusual brilliancy of its lustre.

Months of seasoning precede the use of the fine, critically selected ash which gives the body its rugged firmness.

The interior fittings, too, are chosen with thoughtfulness and rare good taste. The upholstery is covered with genuine mohair velvet of a superlatively rich and beautiful pattern. The seats are roomy and luxurious.

Steel disc wheels (with cord tires) harmonize in a most effective way with the new grace and smartness which Dodge Brothers have recently brought to the lines of the body.

The Daily Recipe

HOT MINCE

Among the great institutions of the autumn and winter seasons may be registered that noble confection, hot mince pies.

A humorous weekly draws attention to the current superstition that a hot mince pie may be eaten at the end of a banquet by a middle-aged dyspeptic, providing it has been baked by his mother. Hot mince pie has always been associated more or less with sleepless nights and weird dreams; theatric being as grossly libelled as the delicious Welsh rarebit.

Hot mince pie is an institution which must not be taken lightly. Those who do must suffer for their sin. He who neglects to approach a hot mince pie in the proper frame of mind, in a spirit of respect and anticipation, with an appetite whetted by a long walk in the cold air, will find that hot mince pie has a habit of sinking to the uttermost depths of the stomach with a dull, sickening thud, there to become obstinate and sulky and vindictive. But he who approaches a hot mince pie—a genuine hot mince pie of the variety which a mother alone can make—with the right feeling of intense interest in the proposition, with a lively feeling of admiration and a whole-souled eagerness, will be well rewarded.

A hot mince pie eaten under such circumstances is indeed a noble dish. The flaky crust melts in one's mouth, the savory juices have a flavor peculiar to mince pie alone. The delicious aroma conjures visions of spices and India. The mince pie induces a great, warm glow of contentment and happiness which would enable a man to survey his coal bills and reflect that it isn't a bad old world after all.

WOMEN IN LONDON GREATLY OUTNUMBER MEN

London, Nov. 23.—A record increase in the number of females, as compared with males, in the city of London during the last year is shown in the census figures. In the interval between the census of 1911 and that of 1921 the female excess in London rose from 1,127 to 1,166 as ascertained with 1,000 males.

In actual figures the females increased in London in 321,363, an increase in ten years of 72,302. The effect of the war on the female population is shown by the fact that nearly 20,000 of this increase, or about 36 per cent, is accounted for by widows. While the enumerated population of London fell nearly one per cent. during his period, widows increased in number 10 per cent.

Although there was a considerable increase in the number of persons between the ages of thirty-five and one hundred in this period, the centenarians fell from twenty, five males and fifteen females, to sixteen, six males and ten females.

CHAPTER IX

THE SWALLOW HOLE

Hardcastle, as we have seen, had arranged his plans with some care, and so far, was quite satisfied with the result. He had bought Kinkuson to do his bidding, and after a few qualms and misgivings, he got the whole thing from him as a highly unpleasant piece of business. His fine contempt for inferior human nature came to his assistance. What was the use of paying a big price and making a promise of more to have unpleasant things done for you, if you must worry over it yourself? Such restless habits of thought spoil a man's digestion, and keep him awake when he should be asleep, and Hardcastle was not the man to tamper any of these unpleasant things without cause.

This being so he chose to make things pleasant for his son and heir on principle.

It was only proper, he reasoned, that Reginald should never turn and wonder if his own chew on all fitting occasions, and learn to take his place as a leader in the country where by-and-bye, of course, he must in the natural order of things play a distinguished part. So at least the squire had planned.

And therefore while Kinkuson was doing his best to serve his employer, as we have seen, with a proper consideration for his own interests, guevie were arriving from far and near, and the old Hall was alive with brightness and cheery welcome from all corners. It was not Hardcastle's fault that these festivities should be under way at the very time Kinkuson was doing his best to give him a machine to make you taller.

He had concluded, with easy confidence, that all was well over a week or more before. But Kinkuson had found it no easy task to overcome the scruples of Heathfield, nor had Heathfield found it easy to lure Oona sufficiently far from her home to make their scheme successful; and after all their wellbaid plans, thanks to Sandy, their purpose failed as we have seen.

No such gaiety had awakened the echoes at the Fosseray since the old lord's time, at least so people said. The Squire had lived rather quietly since he came into possession, for too quietly many thought, for a man of such large estate and ample fortune. In fact it was considered Hardcastle's duty to spend freely and to keep up the reputation of the old place. Many reasons were given for his not doing so. Among them, the death of his wife; and besides, it was whispered that the old nobility and gentry of the first order had never been able to reconcile themselves to Hardcastle's regime at Fosseray.

The days of millionaire and nouveau millionnaires had not yet come; money had not been drifted to the point of covering a multitude of social and other sins; so that notwithstanding Hardcastle's widely distributed invitations there were many notable absentees, and the fact was keenly felt by the squire on his first important session.

All the same, Reginald for once was well-pleased with his father's plans, and that in itself was exceedingly gratifying to the old man, and made up for much that was lacking. The bland and distinterested manner had not failed him the young man's memory, and he inwardly cursed himself many times a day that he had allowed MacAlpin to bully him into promising to leave the lady to the seclusion she desired.

What right had MacAlpin, he asked himself, to interfere with his wishes and pleasure? It would indeed be strange, he told himself, if he could not find some means of surprising the secret from him; he, indeed, her self-constituted guardian!—he of all men!

TOM'S THEME

"Aw, shoot," growled Tom, chewing the end of his pencil and staring blankly at the broad expanse of white theme paper before him. "I'd like to know how I can write a story. You're got to have experience to be able to write. Nothing ever happens around here. This is the dandest town you ever heard of. Now if I lived in New York—"

"Oh, Tom, you're wanted at the telephone," called his mother.

"Hlio, Tom grunted into the transmitter.

"Hello, Tom. Gee, the most exciting thing has happened," the voice of Jack Duncan came over the wire. "Remember when Bill rescued that little girl from drowning up at the camp last summer? Well, say, her father's a millionaire and he wants to send Bill away to a big school to pay him for saving the kid's life. Pretty nice for Bill, eh?"

"Yeh, pretty nice, Dy." Tom went back to chewing his pencil. Where Bill was going, now, exciting things to write about probably happened every day. Aw, some folks had all the luck.

"Gee, what's that?" Tom cried, as a sudden crash and clatter was heard out in front. "A runaway!" he shouted, rushing to the porch. Down the street tore the grocer's horse, the big wagon bumping along after. As the corner Tom was horrified to see three little children playing right in the path of the runaway horse. The only other person in the street was a man just emerging from the barber shop. He stood idly leisurely riding on a bicycle. Suddenly the bicycle shot out in front of the horse; between it and the children. Waving her arms wildly in the air, the girl scared the horse so that it turned down a side street.

Tom went back to his theme, wondering who that plucky girl was.

"Oh, Tom," called his mother, "have you seen the morning paper? Some rich man has left old Mrs. Spratt all his money for the children. Won't have to go to the Children's Home, after all."

"My, that's great!" Tom cried. "Let's see the paper."

"Tom," said his mother severely, "if you allow every little thing to disturb you, you never will get that theme written."

"Aw, gee," Tom complained, "I can't write a story. There isn't anything to write about.

MUCH INTEREST IN SERVICES

Large Audience at Baptist Church Hear Fine Sing ing and Address

The first week of special services in the Baptist church conducted with the service last evening. Rev. Mr. Mc-Michie announced, however, that as originally planned, the services would continue each evening next week with Mr. Crenshaw still present. Mr. McMichie was also able to announce that the sum of the congregation had volunteered to lead a group of men in prayer before each service.

During the song service Mr. Crenshaw rendered one of his own compositions both words and music, dedicated to his mother. It was very clear that both song and singer met with the heartiest approval from the audience.

When Mr. McMichie rose to take charge of the meeting at 8 o'clock the largest audience of the week greeted him. The sections read was the third chapter of John. Mr. Crenshaw sang "I've a song in my heart" (Sacred) to the tune of "Mother Machree". Mr. McKechnie's text was John 3-16. "God so loved the world that he gave His only begotten son that whoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life."

"We have here an ocean of thought for a drop of language." This text epitomizes all the scriptures as a mountain-top dominates the plain." These texts constitute the greatest uniquive love has or can ever be given in religious truth. The text first calls attention to God, God who is by First Cause, the Greatest, the Love Giver, whom we too often forget, and whom the world is in danger of forgetting today. The text states that God loves the world of men, with all its contrasts, whites and black, English and German, rich and poor. The measure of his love is shown by the fact of his gift. Love always expresses itself by giving and the real test of the love of the gift may be made to measure the love. The gift was the only begotten Son.

Salvation is emphasized in this text. God never fails to emphasize salvation. Men did not come to redemption. To the word perish is in this text.

The recipient of the gift of Calvation is expressed by the word whosoever. That means anybody, said the speaker, who will live by Christ.

Mr. McKechnie's strong appeal to respond to the love of God was reinforced very powerfully by Mr. Crenshaw's solo "He Lifted Me," "his best solo" one was heard to say.

A brief after-meeting for prayer and testimony was held in which fully 75 per cent. of the audience elected to remain, though given an opportunity to go.

Oshawa, Nov. 24.—A meeting of the Oshawa Central League Baseball Club will be held in Wadell's Parlors this evening commencing at 7.30 o'clock. Much important business will be discussed including the election of officers and the attitude to be taken towards the athletic association which is now being organized. The baseball club have been asked to appoint representatives to meet the athletic association committee next Monday evening when it is expected all local clubs will be presented.

The baseball meeting tonight is open and players are particularly requested to be present. A good attendance should be on hand and assist in helping the club prepare for another season.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

Our Port Hope Friend Cen sures the "Amateur" Tactics of C.O.A.B.U.

(By Sandy Lockington)

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Central Ontario League will be held shortly at Belleville to consider certain recommendations from the O.A.R.A. principal among which is that all leagues affiliated with the Ontario Amateur Baseball Association adopt the residence rule of January 1st. The Central League constitution fixes the residence rule at May 15th, but there has been an agitation for some time to have this amended to conform with the Ontario Association and from all appearances the change is likely to go through this year. What the effect will be time alone will tell, but the matter should receive the very serious consideration of every officer of the Central League. From here it looks as if the small towns will be in No to remain in the league. Every year the number of importations by the different teams has increased and it is out of the question that the gate receipts will permit of carrying players from January 1st. Belleville, Oshawa and Peterboro can afford to do it, but is too expensive a proposition for the other clubs. Even then some of the officials of these clubs will endeavor to convince you that they are not carrying any players. They would have you believe that Al Heckman started out on a aeroplane trip last summer and by chance landed in Peterboro on May 14th, just in time to conform with the residence rule. Or by a similar turn of events Gallegher, Evans and Saunders of Kingston left on a dog-sled trip, Oshawa becoming their destination. Our Belleville friends would like to accept the story but out of sympathy for Williams who did practically all the pitching for Belleville last summer, points of kindness had decided to cast his lot in with the Bay of Quinte team. Numerous other examples to include Cobourg, Newcastle and Port Hope teams could be cited, but these are sufficient to show that we are simply kidding ourselves about being amateurs and it is safe to say that every league affiliated with O. B. A. is in exactly the same position." To our mind it is time to quit the kidding game, throw the residence rule in the wind and make baseball either out and out professional, or strictly amateur.

SUCCESSFUL PLAY AT CITY HALL

St. Andrew's Dramatic Society Present Clever Drama, "Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!"

A very clever and entertaining play was put on by the Dramatic Society of St. Andrew's Church, at the City Hall last evening. The prevailing theme of the play, which is also the title, "Hurry, Hurry, Hurry," is given in the first act when the audience is introduced to Mr. Hooker, an American business man, who has been dragged down into the whirlpool of affairs and faces bankruptcy in the morning. Mrs. Hooker with her thousand philanthropic interests. Floy, Hooker's fair daughter, a debutante, who boasts of "not one evening at home since my coming-out party," and Stephen, the son, who has been attending college in the "East" and whose main interest is in changing football heroes.

The whole three acts of the play take place in the drawing-room of the Hooker's, and the time is a few days before Christmas. The drama is really a comment on modern American life, which is "hurry, hurry" all the time, and something doing every minute. The most extreme exponent of this extra-modernity is Dr. Alosius Bartholomew, a friend of the family, who is an expert on "efficiency," and has so many occupations and organizations that he hasn't time for any of them.

On the evening in question, Mr. Hooker breaks the news that his business is a failure, everything they have is lost. The only salvation for the family is shown to be his Aunt Sophia's will, which leaves everything to Floy, their daughter, but with this disconcerting provision, on which the rest of the action of the play hinges, that "she must be engaged before she is 21, and married to the same man before she is 22." As Floy's 21st birthday happens to fall on the following day, the "fun" begins. Keeping her in ignorance of the whole matter, Mr. and Mrs. Hooker reluctantly and Steve enthusiastically try to have Floy engaged before midnight that night. Steve's advances as the ideal husband, his college friend, Ted Stone, the football wonder, the rest of the family, Jack Crandall, a broncho buster by occupation, and an author by the side whom Floy is in love some months before, and rather liked; in addition Dr. Bartholomew stands on the outskirts, as a man experienced in proposing.

Taking the fact into consideration that Floy is "thoroughly such of men," interesting situations follow one another rapidly, until a few minutes before midnight, arrives, with Floy "engaged" to Dr. Bartholomew, purely as a business arrangement to save her family from ruin. But Floy decides before the fatal stroke of twelve that she would rather be poor than marry such an unsavoury and the play ends satisfactorily with her engagement to Jack Crandall, who has "really" been in love with him all along.

Miss Harriet McIntyre, as Mrs. Hooker, had the heavy role of the play, and her impersonation could not have been improved upon. She looked and acted the part of the wife of a successful business man. Miss Phyllis Stewart gave a charming portrayal of Floy, the debutante daughter, and Miss Sylvia Ross, as Letitia Brown, a lanfishing debutante, who "knows so much," was very good. Miss Reta Stevens as Rita, the maid, took that smaller part well. Of the men in the play, Mr. Noel Thompson as Jack Crandall, and Don Mac Pariane as Steve Mooney gave worthy performances; John Mills took the part of a comic butler of the football hero, who also made a decided hit. Altogether the play was wonderfully well-presented and thoroughly pleased the large audience. St. Andrew's Dramatic Society are to be congratulated on this achievement, and give good promise for the future.

FURS AND MILLINERY

FURS REMODELLED AND REPAIRED

Advice That Was Good:

FOR many months we strongly recommended investors to purchase Canadian National Railway Fully Registered Debentures.

Time after time we advised the purchase of securities that we considered would appreciate in value.

Foremost amongst our recommendations during the past year was Toronto Suburban Railway 5% debentures maturing 1961, secured by a first charge upon the Radial Line from Toronto to Guelph, OWNED and OPERATED by the Canadian Government.

The price of these debentures has advanced as follows:

Dec.	1921	Price	62.25	Yield 7.80%
Jan.	1922	"	66.49	" 7.00%
		"	to 71.00	" 6.60%
Feb.	1922	"	74.54	" 6.25%
		"	to 76.81	" 6.06%
June	1922	"	77.49	" 6.00%
July	1922	"	81.00	" 7.75%

Those who acted upon our advice and purchased at the low price of 62.25 now have a profit of over 17 points, which is equal to 27% on their investment, in addition to the interest which they have received regularly.

These Fully Registered Debentures are now being offered at a price of 83, to yield the investor approximately 8.45%, at which price they are still a Bargain and a Safe Investment.

For those, however, who desire to purchase a good Security that has possibilities of increasing in value similar to those of the Toronto Suburban Debentures a Quick Profit

We recommend Canadian National Railway 4% Fully Registered Perpetual Debentures originally issued by the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway, secured by a First Mortgage on the line from Toronto to Ottawa, now OWNED and OPERATED by the CANADIAN GOVERNMENT.

TEN LIVES LOST IN CONFLAGRATION

GIRL GUIDE RECEIVES MEDAL

Interesting Presentation at Sacred Concert in Griffin's Last Evening

Griffin's Theatre was crowded to the doors last evening for the Sacred Concert in aid of the Belleville Girl Guides. The main feature of the concert was the presentation of a silver medal for life-saving to Miss Margaret Blaind, a Guide of this city, for her heroic act in saving little Walter High from death by snatching him from in front of an approaching train last June. The Belleville Guides accompied the 1st sexts in the lessons. Mayor Hanna was the Chairman of the evening and explained that the proceeds of the concert were to go for the purchasing of hats for the Belleville Guides. Besides selections by the A. S. Band, there were solos by such well-known Belleville artists as Mrs. Kember, Mr. Jas. Booth and Mr. Bankier. Their efforts were much appreciated by the audience and they were enthusiastically encored. Continued on Page eight

SPECIAL SERVICES IN CHRIST CHURCH

Bishop Dewdney Gave Impressive Address Relative to Missions

The services in Christ Church yesterday were exceptionally impressive and inspiring. At the eleven o'clock service the Rt. Rev. Dr. Dewdney, Bishop of Keewatin, delivered a wonderfully clear and comprehensive address on the work of Canadian Missions among the Indians and Eskimos. He traced this work from its beginning 102 years ago by the Rev. John West on the Red Rivers showing the marvelous growth and development made in that period, and emphasizing the urgent need of loyal support if this work were to be maintained in the future.

In the evening the large congregation present were a concrete example of the results of these efforts in the person of the Rev. Maurice Sanderson, a Labrador Cree Indian Missionary who delivered a powerful and impassioned appeal for help on behalf of the heathen and ours, who had in so many ways demonstrated their staunch loyalty to King and Country, a people in the north of the land and the most that we can do to help them not only to maintain the work already undertaken, but also for the many loving heads who are yet in heathen darkness right here in Canada may receive the Word of Life.

After two such presentations of the Missionary needs of the work in our own Dominion a most generous response is surely to be expected that the mission appointments will not only be maintained in full but far exceeded.

THE MANUFACTURE OF "MOONSHINE"

Neat "Distillery" Discovered in Cabin in Dense Woods Near Havelock

In response to the information received by cavise Officer W. H. Boller Peterborough, of the manufacturing of illicit spirits in a swamp, ten miles north of Havelock, Provincial Constable Geo. Cookman, License Inspector J. Stewart and Excise Officer W. H. Buller left at once for the scene of unlawful distilling.

The party arrived at the swamp at dusk, and with great difficulty proceeded through the extremely dense underbrush. Their search was finally rewarded, when they found themselves at the door of a cabin, which had been previously described to them over the 'phone.

The cabin had just been recently constructed of logs, with poles across their top and moss carefully packed in between the logs to prevent the escape of with tar paper. Both completely covered the roof.

On each side of the cabin of twelve feet by twenty feet, were a number of barrels on racks; and on investigation the officers found that barrels containing altogether about two hundred gallons of mash, two barrels of water and one barrel to be set up. Seven empty tubs were found, but a big boiling tank which occupied the middle of the floor was empty.

The cabin was deserted, the moonshiners evidently hearing of the approach of the officers.

DR. LAVELL AT ROTARY

Former Queen's Professor Gives Talk on "Cure Of Criminals"

Dr. Lavell, former Queen's professor and now in charge of the Ontario Parole Board, was the speaker at Rotary today, on the subject, "The Cure of Criminals." Dr. Lavell explained how that our representatives to parliament must make laws, and that excellent body of men so often resented, the police enforce the laws. Then the judges and the magistrates, who pass sentences and the law breakers are placed in the institution. The wardens in charge of the four Provincial institutions are good men, strict disciplinarians, and good judges of men, and their seconds are worthy of working under such wardens. Sometimes men receive their freedom by license of ticket to leave, but this Dr. Lavell felt was bad business for outside poverty to come over the heads of magistrates and judges. The personnel of the Ontario Board of Parole is seven men and one woman, who are not influenced by politics, church, party or patronage. In 2 years three hundred men were allowed out on parole and only two escaped.

Instead of becoming hopeless jailbirds, these men were made good citizens. Salvation Army, Rotary Clubs and Chiefs of Police, have co-operated very greatly in this work. While out on parole prisoners receive no pay or guns, no appearance of custody. Criminology is a purely experimental subject, and must be dealt with more by a sentimentalist nor a revengeful person.

In closing, Dr. Lavell expressed his belief that a sentence of one week' solitary confinement, with bread and water, and cheese, together with a long sentence of parole would be infinitely better than the present low sentences meted out to criminals.

Major Gordon Johnson, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Glasgow, was a guest, and a few words expressed his pleasure at another visit to Belleville. Rotarians Dr. Bleakley, Doug Ramsay, Norm Turner, three of the boys were the tri-color and gave the the Queen's toast. A vote of thanks to the committee originated by Dr. Lavell

Congratulations were extended to Rotarian Jim Ellis on his recent marriage and to Jim Jenkins, who from now on has a new son. Mr. Jenkins responded.

EUREKA MASONIC LODGE AT BRIDGE ST METHODIST CHURCH

Celebration of 50th Anniversary of the Lodge—Dr. Baker Preached an Inspiring Sermon—Special Music By Eureka Orchestra

The 50th anniversary of the installation of the Masonic Eureka lodge was fittingly celebrated yesterday morning by attending divine service at the Bridge Street Methodist Church. There were over two hundred Masons present including several grand lodge officers including his Worshipful Brother, Grand Master W. Y. Ponton. The Eureka band accompanied the choir and rendered an excellent program of music.

The service were conducted by the Rev. E. E. Blatchford, pastor of Bridge St. Church.

Rev. M. Young delivered the worship ful address. Mrs. Bleakley rendered an excellent solo. Music was supplied by the members of the Eureka orchestra, R. Hinch's leading.

Dr. E. N. Baker preached a most inspiring sermon, taking as his text Revelations 4—7.

Doctor Baker emphasized that the most important thing in this world was "life". Souls of us were only half alive. The service yesterday was very inspiring and will be long remembered by all those who were fortunate enough to be present.

At night Rev. Walter E. Millson of the Dept. of Social Service and Evangelism, and Rev. Mr. Millson assisting a week for evangelistic services in Bridge Street Church. He is a specialist in that work.

PROHIBITIONISTS IN CONVENTION

Prohibitory Laws in Canada and United States Discussed

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Nov. 27.—Ways and means for the enforcement of existing prohibitory laws in the United States and Canada, was the subject for discussion at a certain raiser at the session of the convention of the World League Against Alcohol today. The chair was taken at the special session for this purpose, by Orville Polland of New York. Discussion as to methods of enforcement was vigorous and at times denunciatory of the work of law enforcement officers along this line. Several speakers declared that there must be radical changes in prohibition territories to secure required respect for the law.

BRIGHT SERVICES BAPTIST CHURCH

Large Congregations Present With Much Interest Manifested

A congregation which filled the auditorium to overflowing even after a large number of extra chairs were provided, enjoyed the service in the Baptist Church, on Friday evening. Mr. Greenlaw, with his usual skill, soon had the audience singing the hymns, and old and new, with much enthusiasm. A selection by a mixed quartette and two solos by Mr. Greenlaw made up the special musical program.

Mr. Greenlaw's virdous love of singing and his quite obvious sincerity, help him to grip his hearers each time he sings.

Rev. Mr. McKechnie, using as his text, the story of the slaying of Abel by Cain, traced the cause and the effects of sin in a forceful fashion.

The cause of sin is to be found in wrong deified by various sinful processes. If we would escape the tyranny of will, the heart must be kept clean.

The effects of any given sin are set confined to one individual or one place, but "our evil deed will follow on to send, forever and forever."

The only way in which men may release their hearts and keep them clean, said the preacher, is by a full surrender to Jesus Christ.

Next week's service will meet for prayer in the Sunday School room, preceding tonight's meeting a group for men, one for women and one for the young people.

ARMENIAN ORPHANS FOR CANADA

Ottawa, Nov. 27.—A resolution urging the Dominion Government to take immediate steps to bring a large number of Armenian orphans to Canada, was endorsed by a large gathering at Knox Presbyterian church last evening, following an address by Dr. Vincent, Secretary of the Armenian Committee of Canada.

PROVINCIAL GOVTS. ASKED TO FORM BOARD

Calgary, Alta., Nov.—27.—The Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta Governments will be asked to organize a workable wheat board by the United Grain Growers Limited, the shareholders decided at the concluding session of the annual convention Friday afternoon. If these Governments find they need enabling legislation from the Dominion Government they will be requested to ask for it.

TURKS ESTABLISH ABSOLUTE PROHIBITION

Adrianople, Nov. 27.—Establishment of absolute prohibition was the first care of the Turks after their entry into this city last Friday. The measure, promulgated soon after the arrival of General Tahir Bey, the new governor, imposes the population rather disagreeably. Olives and gods decked with flowers were slaughtered under triumphal arches, as sacrifices of thanks to Allah. Tahir Bey has asserted the sovereignty of Turkey throughout out Eastern Thrace.

TEN LIVES SACRIFICED IN BURNING OF COLLEGE

Terrible Catastrophe Occurs at St. Boniface, Manitoba—Cause of Fire Not Yet Ascertained

Winnipeg, Nov. 27.—Work of searching of the ruins of the St. Boniface College, destroyed by fire on Saturday is proceeding. No additional bodies have been found. List of those believed dead still remains at ten.

Winnipeg, Nov. 26.—Ten lives believed lost, a score of students fatally ill, and damage approximating one million dollars resulted from the destruction by fire early Saturday morning of St. Boniface College, the institution conducted by the Jesuit Fathers in the city of St. Boniface. Only one body has so far been recovered, but its condition renders its identification impossible.

How the fire originated is still unknown, but the rector, Rev. H. Bourgeot, declares he was awakened a few minutes before 2 o'clock by some loud noise, which is ascribed to an explosion, and when he stepped out of his room on the main floor he found the eastern section of the building burning and full of smoke so that he was unable to reach the telephone in the front lobby, and had to arouse the house by a hand-bell and an electric gong. The rest of the faculty responded, seeking the dormitories to arouse the sleeping students.

The injuries received by students and members of the faculty in jumping from upper windows consist of bruises, cuts and some minor fractures. The more serious cases were

KLU KLUX KLAN MAY ORGANIZE IN CANADA

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Nov. 27.—The first step toward the international organization or Ku Klux Klan will be made in Canada it was announced here yesterday by Rev. Oscar Haywood, National Lecturer of the Klan. In making this announcement, he said that he had received hundreds of applications for membership from residents of Canada, and the British Isles, and that the campaign in Canada would begin as soon "as officers could find time to do it.

ST. ANDREWS DAY COMMEMORATED

Sons of Scotland and Members of Other Societies Attend Church Parade

Members of Camp Rob Roy Sons of Scotland, accompanied by members of the Sons of England and Orange Societies, on Sunday afternoon attended divine service in St. Andrew's Church. The occasion was the commemoration of St. Andrew's day, which occurs in the present week. There was a good turnout of members of the various societies and the parade to and from the church was led by Prof. Zimmerman's pipe band playing appropriate selections.

The sermon for the occasion was delivered by the Rev. H. T. Kerr, Pastor of Shadyside Presbyterian church at Pittsburg, and a brother of Rev. A. E. Kerr, Pastor of St. Andrew's.

The latter, previous to the discourse being given on behalf of the society of the church, extended a hearty welcome to the members of the various societies assembled. Rev. Mr. Kerr chose as the basis of his remarks, the 18th verse of the 1st chapter of Numbers.

"And they assembled all the congregation together on the first day of the second month and they declared their pedigree after their families by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names from twenty years old and upwards.

In his opening remarks, the divine stated that when God gets ready after some great disaster or calamity He summones to write new pages in history. When God wrote the Egyptian bondage and slavery of Israel and emancipated all, a new page in the world's history of the day was written. The speaker spoke of the methods employed years ago as outlined in the text of yesterday and

MEMORIAL WINDOWS DEDICATED AT ST ANDREW'S CHURCH

Rev. H. Kerr of Pittsburg, Pa., Delivers Fine Sermon After Unveiling, and Also Preaches Anniversary Service in Evening—Mrs. H. Pritchard Unveils Windows—Six of Family of Seven Present, and Memorial Windows Dedicated to Memory of Mother

Rev. Hugh T. Kerr, Pastor of Shadyside Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh, Pa., and brother of Rev. A. S. Kerr, Pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church of this city, had charge of the services at St. Andrew's church on Sunday morning, when three memorial windows were unveiled in that church to the memory of the late Mrs. William Kerr, his mother.

The church was well filled, and an excellent service was conducted by Rev. Hugh Kerr, assisted by Rev. A. S. Kerr and Rev. Dr. McTavish of this city. Six of the seven members of the Kerr family were present at the service, and the windows were unveiled by Mrs. H. Pritchard, of Toronto, daughter of the late Mrs. Kerr.

There are three windows, two small ones and one large one, all of beautiful stained glass. They were made by the Thomas McCausland Co., of Toronto. On one window are the initials I.H.S. (In His Service), and on the other window—Alpha, Omega.—"In the beginning and the end." The other has the words, "Behold the lilies of the field, how they grow!" and on the other, "Suffer little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." Suitable texts are engraved on the glass.

The excellent and appropriate sermon, which was indirectly on the life of the pastor's mother, but directly on the mothers of Canada, was chosen from Proverbs, 31st chapter, and 25th verse. In opening his discourse, Rev. Mr. Kerr explained that the windows were erected to the modesty of one, who was always reluctant to appear in the public eye, and who through infirmity was unable to appear in public for a number of years prior to her demise.

"My mother," said Rev. Mr. Kerr "was one of the old type of mothers of Scotland who came from an old fashioned home. St. James Barrell once said in addressing the students of a great Scottish University, "There are three things in Scotland to be found, four of the five are to be found in four ordinary large cities, but the fifth university is in the humble homes which supply the students for the other four universities." From a home my mother came."

Incidentally the speaker pointed out, that while our roads in Canada might be better, our homes more pretentious and our modern conveniences of every sort of a higher standard than those of Scotland, yet it was just a question whether our civilization and the really worthy characteristics of our people, were of as high an order, as those found in Scotland to-day.

"Home," continued the speaker, "has been defined as a place where we are treated the best, and where we grumble the most", and that definition gives great provocation of thought. Home, however, is really what mother makes it.

"Unselfishness is a great quality in any mother, and was one of the greatest qualities of my mother. Unselfishness is the training school of children, where their wills and per-

MUSIC and DRAMA

REX IN UPROARIOUS COMEDY AT GRIFFIN'S

"To Indulge in Self Pity is Self Destruction", is an old and true statement, and that is the moral of the next happy comedy which the Rex Comedy Company are presenting at Griffin's tonight to Wednesday, titled "His Majesty." Not since their delightful comedy "As Walked Jimmy", has "Rex" had a real comedy part, but in the comedy this week he has one of those uproarious comedy parts that while you laugh heartily, it gives you a little tug on your heart.

"His Majesty" aside from being very entertaining carries a great lesson and that is, a human in self confidence without egotism, it shows that a man without confidence in himself, will never reach the heights of man's desire, but that a man who, without being afflicted with "Swelled Head" can have abundant confidence in himself, and really believes what he thinks can master anything.

Two vaudeville specialties will be introduced between acts, one a real novelty titled "Piano-ville, by Gloria Maddan and Joe Kelly.

NO LIE NEEDED FOR "THE BEAUTIFUL LIAR"

The Katherine MacDonald fans—and they are legion—will be in evidence at the Regent tonight to Wednesday, (matinee daily,) where that talented star is appearing in "The Beautiful Liar," an Associated First National attraction.

The story relates the outcome of Helen Haynes' lie— and it is capital comedy-drama. She was forced into the lie, and before she had extricated herself from the complication which it brought about she had cause to regret that she had allowed herself to become inveigled into the conspiracy.

The author, George Marion, Jr., has furnished a climax which is truly novel. Charels Meredith, Wilfred Lucas, Kate Lester and Joseph J. Dowling are in the supporting cast.

A two-reel "Ballroom Boys" comedy, Fox News, and a new chapter of the popular adventure play "Robinson Crusoe" are being exhibited on the same program.

THE STORM IS COMING

New York woke up one morning to find itself talking about a new sensation the play, "The Storm", written by Langdon McCormick. It is a very dramatic piece laid in the clean North woods; its scene was its fame flaming up in the Theatrical sky than Universal bought it and made it into a nine reel production starring House Peters, Virginia Valli and Matt Moore. "The Storm" was directed by Reginald Barker, who has produced the famous forest fire scenes, which swept the newspaper critics of New York into fervent of praise, is also presents the most appealing romance and thrilling episodes on the screen.

The opening chapter the great historical serial "Buffalo Bill," featuring the famous scout, daredevil Art Accord, a two-reel Century comedy, and a beautiful travelogue are being exhibited on the same program. The enjoyment of the entire program is enhanced by the introduction of a special musical setting played by a symphony orchestra.

Changed Times.

Mrs. Millicent M. Miller, the noted eugenist, said in an address in Denver:

"On a beach one summer day, a half-dozen girls in red, one-piece bathing suits were playing ball. There were some cows in a nearby meadow, and, after a bit, the farm hand who was in charge of them went up to his boss and complained:

"Say, boss, them gals is a-carin' my cows."

"Ah, Jethro," said the old farmer, with a sigh, "Times is changed since I was young. In them days it was the cows wot scared the gals'."

A NOVEL FORM OF MAGNETO

So much inventive talent has been expended on the design and construction of the magneto, which produces the spark for motor cars and aerial engines that one would hardly consider it possible for a radical improvement to appear. Nevertheless a British engineer has produced a new magneto which is lighter and less costly than any previously existing form. In the ordinary magneto the field magnet is stationary and the armature revolves. In the new magneto the armature is stationary and the field magnet (which is very much smaller than usual) rotates. Owing to the armature being stationary, it can be insulated in an unusually thorough manner and without any complications. The contact breaker is also stationary and is operated by a revolving cam so that the business of cleaning and setting the contacts is reduced to the simplest possible terms. The magneto and the cam-like in fact the only revolving parts. Tests show that notwithstanding the exceptionally low weight of the machine excellent sparking is procured.

Some laws are sane and just and necessary, and the only thing you can say against them is that they are unconstitutional.

THE CARE OF IMPLEMENTS

(Experimental Farms Note.)

The annual loss due to ignorance or neglect in the care of farm implements is appalling. Figures have been published from time to time showing depreciation on implements from lack of shelter and care, still many farmers winter their implements in the field where they were last used, or scattered about the farm yard. A manufacturer, if he is to prosper, must keep his production cost at the lowest possible figure. The same applies to the farmer, who is no less a manufacturer, and one of the ways in which he can materially cut down his expenses is in the proper care of his implements and tools.

All implements whenn ot in use should be under cover, and not left exposed to the influence of the weather. A machine or implement should be set in a elaborate affair. It can be wholly closed, so much the better. It should be conveniently situated, and the front should consist largely of roller doors, so that any implement can readily be obtained. As to the arranging of the various implements, a binder being used practically at one season of the year, may be stored in a far corner, leaving space nearer the door for mowers, sloughs and other implements used at various times throughout the season.

A stitch in time saves nine, and many an expensive repair item might be saved by repairing a machine at the first appearance of trouble. When implements are taken out they should be looked over carefully, nuts tightened, adjustments and trivial repairs made, which if left might develop no end of trouble. Far too little machine oil is used, causing excessive wearing on bearings and castings, and working untold injury on the machine. A coat of paint not only adds to the appearance, but greatly prolongs the life of both wood and iron. Polished surfaces, such as plough shares and mould boards, should be smeared with grease or painted with kerosene and lamp black when out in use.

A good farmer must be a good mechanic, more especially if he operates tractors and other large machinery, otherwise his repair items will be high, and the usefulness of the tractor or machine greatly impaired. If possible avail yourself of some course at a tractor school, and become familiar with the intricacies of your motor. In this way you will obtain better service, and the repair items and mechanic's bills will be reduced to a minimum.

A work shop, with a small forge and anvil, and some good tools for both wood and iron, is a great convenience, and indeed a necessity on many farms. Having this, many repairs and adjustments can be made, though thara pointed and sharpened, and a host of other things done that would necessitate a trip to the local blacksmith or machine shop.

No one takes more pride than the owner of a well-ordered and cared for farm where there is a place for everything and everything is in its place.—R. G. Newton, Superintendent Experimental Station, Invermere, B.C.

MINERALS IN THE DAIRY COW'S RATIONS

One hundred pounds of normal milk contains on the average 75 pounds of mineral matter, so that a cow, giving upwards of 40 pounds of milk daily is producing about 5 ounces of mineral matter daily. In addition to the mineral matter necessary for milk production, a considerable quantity is needed for the proper development of the fetus, especially during the last few months of pregnancy. The ordinary winter or stable ration which a cow receives during the flush of the milk flow may not provide minerals in sufficient quantity to supply the above demand, and, consequently, a call is made upon that stored in the body, mainly in the bones. If the supply stored up in the body becomes depleted the milk flow will be adversely affected, for nature will not allow the composition of the milk nor interrupt the bodily functions of the mother or the development of the fetus. Arguing on this basis, it may be said that the supply of mineral matter might well be a limiting factor in milk production.

As a general rule, especially in summer, dairying, the ration supplies all the minerals necessary, but in cases of extra heavy production, combined with advanced pregnancy; of either rations and on soils the crops from which are deficient in mineral matter, a supplementary mineral ration may be necessary. Grass supplies mineral matter in good quantity and in readily available form, so that as long as good pasture is available a supply of mineral matter is guaranteed. It is when the pasture is short or when winter feeding commences that substituting for natural minerals must be provided. Feeds rich in minerals may well be considered first, since there are some which are also good dairy feeds. The outstanding ones being bran and legumes, such as alfalfa and red and alsike clover. The oral allowances of these feeds will go a long way towards supplying the demand. Where an extra supply of mineral matter is considered necessary, this may take the form of steamed, edible bone meal and ground rock phosphate, one pound of each to every 100 pounds of meal. At the same time, in fact, at all times, a liberal allowance of common salt must be given, as it is from this that a good portion of the mineral requirement comes.

As indicated, supplementary mineral feeding is to be recommended during the final stages of the lactation period and during the rest period following, so that lime and phosphorus may be stored up for the heavy call which is made upon them during the subsequent heavy flow of milk. It may well be continued throughout the whole lactation period where production is abnormally heavy.—Geo. W. Muir, Animal Husbandman.

AUTOMATIC COLLIERY PLANT

A very interesting equipment for handling coal at its head is now built by a British firm for a large colliery in that country. The plant is operated by hydraulic power and includes apparatus by designed cages for loading and unloading the tubs in which the coal is conveyed. The system of charging and emptying the cages is done automatically by hydraulic machinery. The special feature of the plant is that the whole of the operations are controlled from a central point. All the pumps, trains, accumulator cranes, steel structures, and other parts of the equipment are being designed and produced at one factory.

STIRLING ITEMS

Recent Gas Discovery to be Investigated by Government Expert This Week—Car Stolen in Belleville Returned to Owner—Lined as a Taxi-cab by Belleville Police

Stirling, Nov. 27.—The Provincial Gas Commissioner is expected to visit the village of Stirling this week to investigate the possibilities of commercializing the supply of natural gas recently discovered there near the high school building. In well digging operations a few weeks ago natural gas emitted from the well was being ignited and soon ignited, causing a test flame. The well was sunk nearly eighty feet and the water supply although was very salty to the taste. It is hoped that these existing possibilities may develop into a permanent supply of natural gas and much local interest is accordingly being manifested in the matter. The well was successfully capped and the flame extinguished, but the flow of gas still continues uninterrupted.

A new bridge is being erected to cross Rawdon Creek here, the steel structure formerly used at Foxboro, on the Provincial Highway at that point having been purchased for that purpose.

Numerous auction sales of farmers' stock and implements are being conducted in this vicinity and fair prices prevail.

The cold weather has arrived at this point. The mill pond is sealed solidly and the first snowfall of importance came this morning. At the same time the supply of coal is exhausted, but considerable wood is being brought down from the North.

Local merchants report trade very quiet for the season of the year. Conditions in the mill pond as sealed solidly and the first snowfall of importance came this morning. At the same time the supply of coal is exhausted, but considerable wood is being brought down from the North.

The automobile owned by Mr. William Bowen here, recently stolen in Belleville and subsequently recovered by the police, shows very little damage from its rough usage by the culprits. The brake bands are rather worn and one fender is damaged, but repairs can be made at a cost of a very few dollars. It is stated that Mr. Allen was required by the Belleville police to meet the cost of police circulars printed, telephone bills. Officers' expenses to Toronto and other dabomenents in connection with the arrest of the thieves. This would appear quite regular but it is not understood why the recovered car should be taxed by the officers of the law to cover the four arrested men from Toronto to Belleville. This is the first time that the car was used as a taxi-cab and if it had not been so used in this instance, railway tickets would have been required to cover transportation of those arrested, and the cost of same met from the administration of Justice funds. The spare tire and two new tubs together with some tools and auto accessories, which were in the car when stolen are missing, while a laden coal which was also in the can when taken, was still in the seat. It is known where the missing articles were disposed of. One of the accused prisoners was in trouble in Stirling some time ago, having been caught in the act of burglarizing a local hardware store.

Paris, Nov. 2.—A project to secure better instruction in farming for the peasants of France by the use of motion pictures has been approved by the cabinet.

An annual appropiation of 200,000 francs is available to buy picture machines for agricultural schools and community centers where the farmers will see the application of scientific methods by their work.

The money is to be taken from the receipts of the parimutuel betting machines, operated under governmental supervision at horse races.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT

Hilton sons, and Hawkins, the driver, and Dr. Hilker were huddled together in the seat of the wrecked car.

Mrs. Carle, in the Cox car, was pinned beneath it. Mrs. Tudhope was thrown to the pavement and was unconscious when picked up.

Help was speedily given by passing motorists. Although the accident happened at 1.15 in the morning, all doctors in the neighborhood were absent, and it was not until about an hour later that medical attention could be given the injured. When it was found that Mrs. Carle and Mrs. Tudhope were seriously injured, arrangements were made over the long distance telephone to have Dr. Herbert Bruce and Dr. H. B. Anderson in readiness to receive the injured ladies on their arrival at the General Hospital.

J. W. Gray was pulled from the wreckage in a dying condition. He was rushed to Oakville in an automobile, but succumbed to his injuries just as he reached town. He suffered a fractured skull. After receiving medical attention in Oakville, Dr. Hilker and Hawkins were taken to their homes in Hamilton.

Chauffeur Richards said that the Hamilton car appeared so quickly in the centre of the road that, when warning that he scarcely had time to do anything. He attempted to swing his car over, but did not succeed in doing the rapidity with which Hawkins' car moved when he applied the emergency brakes. It was too late, and when Richards recovered himself he was lying beside a fence. He knew that Mrs. Tudhope was following closely, but she likewise was in a similar position and was obliged to plunge head-long into the two wrecked cars.

An inquest will be held at Oakville tonight.

DESPITE WAR LOSSES GERMANY LEADS IN RAILROADS

Berlin, Nov. 3.—Despite the loss of 7,400 kilometers (about 4,535 miles) of railroads as a result of the war, Germany still maintains her pre-war position as having the largest railway system in Europe, according to figures announced here. Her total distance is given as 57,545 kilometers. Canada and Newfoundland, 64,012, and British East India 58,450.

The distance in kilometers of other nations' railways is reported as follows: European Russia, approximately 57,000; France 53,501, including approximately 9,000 in Alsace-Lorraine; Great Britain, 39,372; Australia, 38,071; Argentine 37,266; Brazil, 28,128; Mexico, 23,492; Italy, 18,000; South African Union, 18,468; Central Asiatic Russia and Siberia, 17,330; Poland, 15,820; Spain, 15,330; Roumania, 11678; Belgium, 11,095; China, 11,094; Jugo-Slavia, 8,055; Chile, 8,031; Hungary, 7,053; Egypt, 7,022; Austria, 6,230, and Switzerland, 5,345.

CAVIAR COMES BACK AGAIN IN RUSSIA

Petrograd, Nov. 25.—Russia this fall is enjoying the greatest caviar feast in many years. War, revolution, famine and lack of rail transportation interfered greatly with the caviar continues a great luxury, costing a dollar or so a smack, here it is doled out to all comers for about a dollar, or its equivalent in Bolsherik money, a pound. Fresh caviar and best pressed caviar may be had for fifty cents a pound, and even less, and is very popular with the workers.

MEMORIAL WINDOW IS DEDICATED

sonalities are considered." Mr. Kerr explained that the threads of any family might not see the stellar qualities of their mother in the same light, but would see such qualities as the varied colored rays of light are seen after having passed through a prism.

"For instance," said he, "being a junior member of our family, I was more or less dominated over by the senior members, and thus was unable to assert a unique personality, and like Goliath in Saul's armour, did not feel at home in the made-over clothing of the senior members.

"Despite the fact that both father and mother came from Scotland to this new country, not particularly equipped or prepared for the educational life, yet by displaying unselfishness that was really a passion, they prepared us for the cultural ideals of this life, instead of allowing us to go out into the world for ourselves, as they could have more easily done. Spend and be spent,' was their ideal for us, and as a result, any mother was like a good many other people who deserve much but get little. Her most loving reward, however, was in her sacrifices and the results from having cast her bread upon the waters. Those who love life lose it, but those who lose life, shall find it again.

"Sympathy was another great quality in mother's life, and possibly the most remarkable quality of all. Endowed with excellent health, strength, and physical vitality throughout her life until the last illness laid hold upon her, mother was a typical example of that peculiar Scotch mysticism, found in certain types of Scotch persons. Her kindness and sympathy not only extended to her fellow beings, but birds, (even sparrows), flowers, and even nature. The great World War was regarded by her, as being a terrible loss of children. And any family or enemy received her sympathy as well as the struggling humanity on our own side in the great war.

"The third great quality was Spiritual value. To-day we hear much pessimism and unrest, and the decline of our nation, of the restless, flippant, superficial and unmanageable children, who are being reared in this generation. The reason for this condition, is the fault of their parents, who are the same themselves, and who refuse to pay the old price of life, blood and tears for spiritual children. Any family is balanced organism, and no father can expect the respect for his children, if he ever provoke them to wrath."

Although brought up amidst the old Puritanical ideas now much in disuse and criticism, when speaking on Sunday was a grave breach of spiritual discipline, and the throwing of a stone much worse, the speaker frankly stated that the details of how Sunday was kept matters little, and were left to the family as the people considered God to be a Great Reality, and are face to face with this tri-unpleasant certainty. "I have but little use for the Pharasaical interpretation of life", commented the speaker, "but this reasonable quality displayed me by my mother which always showed me her sincerity in the great fact that God is a Reality, and we all must face Him".

In closing, Rev. Mr. Kerr named a great Scotsman who went into the jungles and unexplored lands to further Christianity, education and civilizing death, but placing service ahead of their dearest and nearest relatives, so that this world would be that much further advanced as a result of their having passed upon the earth. Men like James Chalmers, David Livingstone, Alexander McKay and Alexander Duff were mentioned as typical examples of men who came from humble homes but from great homes in the spiritual realm, whose qualities were demonstrated to them throughout their early life by their mothers, with the gratifying result, for as Lou Wallace once said, "the reason God made mothers was because He couldn't be everywhere."

During the morning service, Miss J. Murray of Toronto, rendered a solo in excellent voice.

At the evening service, which was really the Anniversary service, the church was crowded to the doors, it being found necessary to provide chairs to accommodate the large crowds.

Rev. H. Kerr of Pittsburgh, had charge of the evening service, and as in the morning, delivered an excellent sermon from the text, "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son" that whosoever believeth in Him, should not perish but have everlasting life." Solos were rendered by Mrs. Leslie and Mr. Bankier at the evening service.

Six of the seven members of the Kerr family were present at the services. These present were Dr. William Kerr and Dr. Thomas Kerr of Toronto, Dr. Robert Kerr, of Hollywood, Pa.; the Rev. Hugh T. Kerr, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Rev. A. S. Kerr, of Belleville, and Mrs. (Dr.) Margaret Pritchard, of Toronto. The other member of the family, who was unavoidably absent, was Dr. John Kerr, of Springfield, N.Y.

A CHEAP ROLLER BEARING

The success of ball bearings on bicycles and other light machines led investigators to design a more powerful type of bearing for heavier machinery. Rollers were substituted for balls so as to afford greater strength and larger bearing surface; and in many cases great success has been achieved by these use, especially where economy of power is of great importance. The development of the roller bearing has, however, been hindered by its high initial cost. Consequently, it is good news to many engineers to learn that a firm has brought a simplified form of roller bearing which competes with the ordinary solid bearing in price. The usual plan is to arrange the rollers in a cage, but in the new bearing the rollers are kept in position by intermediate distance pieces which are held in alignment by two peripheries which run in curves and thus serve the double purpose of keeping the distance pieces in line and of acting as retainers. With the aid of this bearing the highest economy can be secured without heavy initial expense.

THE BANK OF MONTREAL, under authority of the Minister of Finance, is prepared to redeem the above bonds in full at maturity, without charge, at any of its Branches in Canada.

For the convenience of owners of the bonds, the Bank of Monreal will accept the bonds at any time prior to December 1st, and will make payment in each case on December 1st, as the owner may desire, either by issuing a cheque or by placing the amount to the owner's credit in the books of the Bank.

Use it—and you will see the difference

Pocket sun dials tell time, yet you prefer an accurate watch, though it requires winding. Similarly, for 50c or less, you can buy a toy kind of clutch pencil with wobbly uncertain point—but you prefer a finely made pencil of precision—like EVERSHARP.

The principle of operation that makes EVERSHARP write with satisfying smoothness and surety depends on the exclusive rifled tip that keeps the lead from slipping and wobbling. The success of this rifled tip is the success of EVERSHARP—and no other pencil can use this rifled tip.

Supplementing the perfect EVERSHARP tip are other excellent features that contribute dependability, convenience, economy—all in every EVERSHARP, regardless of what you pay.

Select your EVERSHARP today—or get an extra one for your desk. Gold, silver and enamel finishes; priced from 75c to $75. Sold everywhere.

WE RECEIVE WHAT WE GIVE

Believing that the world is round we must then realize that if we start out in a certain definite direction and travel long enough and far enough that we will eventually and ultimately return to the very spot from which we started. For if we have had the experience of proving out this statement from personal investigation, but in other ways it is being daily confirmed. Everything is circumvented. Take scandal and gossip, for instance. Start a mean story about your neighbor, or send out a scandal, and if you wait long enough this gossip will return to you with a very unpleasant kick.

On the other hand if we attempt to take a charitable view of people and only spread gossip of a kindly nature we will receive the same in return, because the world is round.

Probably nothing gives better returns to us than taking a charitable view of all people and things. Every time a piece of slander is spoken, it depreciates the actual value of humanity. Let no better reason than for selfish purposes, it is a good practice to follow that policy described as broadminded. We keep our friends and make new ones by so doing, and we also hold that it is with our friends that we do business, thus the more of them we have the better are our opportunities.

There is another dividend we receive from our investment in a charitable disposition. This is the cheerful greetings we get from our fellow citizens. In dark and stormy days, it is one of the greatest inspirations possible, to have our friends behind us. The satisfaction thus obtained cannot be measured by any dollars and cents value, and at the same time approaches that ideal sought for by all of us,—perfect happiness.

BUY-WAYS OF THE PRESENT

Under the above heading George Britnel Beal advises us all to "hamper up our pencils, grab a bunk of paper, get that Christmas shopping list under way." It would seem that we are quite as able to select our contemplated gifts today as we are three weeks hence. If there is any lingering doubt in our minds as to whether a necktie or a half dozen assorted hankies is to be father's annual reward for check-writing on a major scale, putting our decision off until the last mad rush won't help us much. By shopping now we can give an additional mite of Christmas cheer to the many clerks and sales people who would elsewise suffer from our eleventh-hour impotuosity. We gain something by delay. We can convert what should be a happy task into a miserable duty. We have time a plenty now to sort our relatives and friends into convenient pigeon-holes. We can select the thing that we would best like to give this or that person with due consideration for individual likes and dislikes, and a due regard for our own financial limitations. Later, stern necessity will render this, less easy of achievement. Make ourselves a little Christmas present of unexpected peace of mind by early shopping., The present is the time for presents. Do it now.

Now that the world is made safe for democracy, the only task remaining is to kill off the minorities.

The Sultan of Turkey now knows something of what it means to be a refugee. In his name over a million Christians have been turned out of their homes in Asia Minor and Thrace,—And now the Nationalists, having no more use for him even as a figurehead, send him adrift to find a home among Christians.

o o o

The number of turkeys raised in the United States today is about one-half the number raised in 1912, according to official figures, while the price is about double. Possibly the farmers are satisfied at receiving the same revenue for half the product. But the ultimate result may not be satisfactory. The turkey has become, not one of the staple foods, but a luxury. With many families the advent of the bird is a sort of ceremonial observance for Thanksgiving Day and Christmas. The consumption would be immensely increased if the prices were reduced.

HERE AND THERE

NA QUITE SO.

That very popular American story writer, Mr. Rex Beach, has been explaining why he left the law for literature. He says—

"I read Blackstone, but I didn't like the plot. How he ever got into the 'six best sellers' I don't know. I put my feet on the desk and read what a lot of brighthows had to say about 'torts,' 'contracts,' and 'common law,' but never got one good chuckle. I laugh out of the whole bunch. I preferred Richard Harding Davis or George Ade. Sometimes I went on a still hunt for stories, and when I got them they couldn't even hold on their ankle with my two brothers told the jury how their clients had been abused. My brothers are real lawyers, curators, you know, with a shingle and not any that is only eloquence I ever developed was when I drove a dog-team."

Blackstone's "Commentaries on the Laws of England," whose "plot" stumped Mr. Beach, is a masterly work, and is still, I think, the best of its kind. It has been translated into French, German, Italian, Spanish, Swedish and Russian. It was the Court, Middle Temple, Sir William Blackstone was much disturbed by revelry over his ceiling. The reveller in chief was Oliver Goldsmith. It should not say that the "Commentaries" were ever among the "best sellers," but in about a century considerably more than twenty editions and numerous reprints were published. I can say that I read a great deal of this work in my teens, and with a delight and profit, and I think that Lord Riddell would agree with me that Mr. Rex Beach's estimate of Blackstone leave something to be desired.

A SPIRITUALIST'S FUNERAL.

Mr. Punshon, the late Robert Burdette, the American preacher who reluctantly conducted the funeral of a spiritualist. After the service he gave a short address, referring in terms of Christian faith to the happy life of the departed brother. When he sat down, the widow jumped up and said that while Burdette had been reading she had been in spiritualistic communion with her dead husband, who assured her that Burdette's picture of the after-life was wholly fictitious. When the lady had finished, Burdette rose and quietly replied that he had for a Christian minister for nearly forty years and in the course of his ministry had delivered over two hundred funeral sermons. "But," he added, "this is the first time in all my long experience that I have ever had any back-chat from the corpse."—John O'London's Weekly.

ANYBODY CAN HAVE MONEY.

There is no mystery about getting rich. Anybody can have money. A millionaire invited a young man employee to lunch. He led the young man to a plain lunch-place and ordered two plates of hash and coffee. When the hash came, one the young-man's plate was a silver dollar. The millionaire said: "I am going to make your fortune during this lunch hour. If you will let me. Now the kind of lunch you expected to eat with me would have cost one dollar or more for each of us.

A man gets so much strength and gain out of fifteen cents' worth of bread and cheese, or fruit in season, as out of five dollars' worth of fancy things.

You can make better use of a dollar than eating it. Come with me to the bank; start an account, and begin your fortune with that dollar. I know advice is cheap But here is the secret of my getting rich: I never spent a dollar when I could make a dime do!

A rich man asked a neighbor, whose income was no larger than a present-day carpenter's income, "How much spending money do you give your boy each week?" The neighbor replied that he gave his boy one dollar a week.

"How much does he save of that?" asked the other rich man. "None," replied the neighbor. The rich man said, "I give my six-year-old boy only fifteen cents a week, and I make him save five of it." This rich man believed that as soon as a boy is old enough to understand spending money for trifles, he is old enough to be taught to take care of the money he receives.

GLADSTONE AND THE GINGER-NUT.

A memory of Dr. De Witt Talmage, a great oratorical preacher—

"It was just after a silly woman had thrown a gingernut at Mr. Gladstone and cut the Grand Old Man's eye. Talmage was furious at the outrage, and in his sermon declared that before the sun went down that day America's thundering denunciation of the vile deed would reverberate across the Atlantic—I suppose that the rabies for the thunder, but the reverberations did not come. A fortnight later the New York Herald came to hand with a single-line note on the incident—as usual, Gladstone takes the cake'."

"In New York, so the story goes," writes Mr. Porritt, "a group of men were discussing what was the greatest man that had ever lived. Caesar, Homer, Alexander, Napoleon, Lincoln—all the great world heroes were mentioned and canvassed. Then someone suggested the name of Jesus, and in the silence that fell unanimity seemed certain, when a Jew broke in with the remark, 'Yes, but the fellow who imported interest was no fool'."

Mr. Porritt recalls a story of an Armenian student at New College who, in sermon class, took the text, "As the hart panteth." He rendered it: "As the hart pants after the water breaks," and in announcing his divisions said he wished to speak (1) on the pants of the Psalmist, (2) on pants in general, and (3) on some Free Church pants."—John O'London's Weekly.

THE WOODS.

And I have loved the woods, the boundless woods
In all their glory and their majesty;
Magnificent—the forest solitudes,
Eloquent of God and liberty;
Yes, loved them ever since I was a child,
When of the mighty trees the shade I sought,
Where Nature as a mother on me smiled,
And in her love a lofty lanuage taught,
Unknown to the vain world, until their name
Unto my heart was an enchanter's wand,
Arousing my spirit until aflame
I was helped rejoicing, to the my stand
Where never the foot of the spoiler trod,
In the Great Temple of the Living God.

NEWS FROM THE OTHER SIDE

Interesting Letter From Woman in South Africa

Johannesburg, South Africa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness and because I felt run down. I tried a lot of medicines before I tried yours. One day I was standing on my stoop when a boy came up to me and handed me one of your little books. I read the book and the next day my husband went to the Chemist's and bought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel quite strong and well now as I am on the fifth bottle. I have written to my sister and told her all about the wonders it has done for me, and I am quite willing for you to use my name as I can not thank you enough for what it has done for me."—Mrs. W. P. Rous, 152 6th Ave., Maytal, South Forresburg, Johannesburg, Africa.

It is this sort of praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, given by letter or verbally, one woman to another, that ought to commend this splendid medicine to you. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women's ailments (in use nearly fifty years), and the fact that it has helped thousands of other women, should prove to you to give it a trial now. It can be safely taken by any woman—young or old.

PRESS OPINIONS

CANADIAN PRODUCTIONS

(Peterboro Examiner)

Canadians are more in touch with theatrical organizations as the Dumbells and Mr. Stuart-White's company, the latter of which has just finished an engagement here, for giving us a Canadian and British atmosphere that is usually missing from stage attractions seen in this country.

Mr. Stuart-White's productions always abound in Canadian references and allusions, and are never lacking in local colour in that regard, while the invariable mention of the audience's standing the National Anthem at the conclusion of the play is a refreshing novelty, and one for a performance that is one hundred per cent. British; and they are doubly welcome on that account.

Most of our stage productions, of course, come from the United States. They are written and staged for American consumption, and viewed from that angle leave nothing to be desired.

Often, however, especially in musical productions, there are sons and allusions that seem strangely out of place in a Canadian theatre, so much so that one wonders why during the Canadian revue the constant references to "Old Glory" and "God's Country," etc., are not eliminated.

The fact that they seldom are, makes a visit for man all-Canadian production a refreshing and appreciated occasion.

COUNT-THE COST BEFORE YOU BUY

(Toronto Telegram.)

Nearly every day sees a new solution of mining stock in Toronto. And the avidity with which each new issue is eaten up by the public promises an epidemic of financial indigestion before spring. When the snow covers the northern country the "soldest" blooms of all its glory. The "sales" and the "promoter" too often go out with the spring freshets. Many mining propositions are legitimate efforts at development of prospects. Some are simply attempts to exploit the public. Most of them are speculations rather than investments. And the old rules still hold:

(1) Three hundred prospects will probably produce one mine.

(2) Don't put a cent into mining ventures that you can't afford to lose.

EVEN TORONTO KICKS

(Toronto Telegram.)

That a certain per centage of the population will continue to contribute to the "sucker" rather than lose a fair fields at every corner goes without saying. The immunity is worth the price. But people of limited means who have scraped the cupboard bare in order to pay their taxes are entitled to a chance to win the street without being subjected to the scornful glares of agents of a charity they cannot afford to encourage.

Tag days have done good work in the past. They are now developing into a nuisance before they become an abomination.

Woman's Sphere

THE TRUANT.

Ten thousand little worries
Plucked at my shirt to stay
Within the house and tend them;
The room all called "Away";
"Mend me our radiant garments
That grow so singing faded,
And hear the happy piping
Of children at their games."

So I locked my doors and windows,
I fled in dancing feet
To the silver hollow of beauty
And oh, my way was sweet!

And then in the haunting twilight
I opened wide my door,
Up up the chimney they had climbed
And were no more.

My worries were no more!

PARSNIP SAUTE

Wash parsnips and cook until tender in boiling water. Drain and cover with cold water, with the hands rub off the skins. Mash and rub through a puree strainer. Season pulp with salt, brown sugar, butter, cream and cooked and dredge with flour. Saute a golden brown in equal parts hot butter and chicken fat.

The Daily Recipe

SMALL OYSTER SOUFFLES

Take twelve oysters, add a little water, and bring to a boil. Then remove, strain and chop rather coarsely. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, add one tablespoonful of flour and stir over the fire for a minute; add three-fourths of a cupful hot milk, stir well, season with salt and red pepper, cook for ten minutes and strain. Now add the chopped oysters, reheat, and stir in very gradually two yolks of eggs and one-fourth the first until the eggs begin to set. Remove the saucepan from the fire and add the white of egg beaten to a stiff froth, and mix gently with the other ingredients. Fill ramekins or other small fireproof dishes with the preparation, sprinkle a few fried bread crumbs on top of each and a little melted butter. Then bake in a moderate oven for twelve minutes or until well browned.

THE MODERN GIRL

The following may not be very good poetry, but it tells an all too common tale just the same:

Maude is in the garden,
Cutting pretty flowers;
Clara is in the hammock,
Dreaming by the hours.
Rose is by the brookside,
Where it's nice and cool;
Mamie rather jaded,
From the grind of school
Nell is in the parlor,
Just to watch a nap;
Rita's on the front porch
Flirting with a chap;
Frankie's in the orchard,
May is in the grove, and
Mother's in the kitchen
With a red-hot stove.

REVISED VERSION

"OLD KING COLE"

(Otto L. Anderson)

Old King Coal
Was a merry old soul,
But smokes he had many,
For the people burned wood
Whenever they could,
And saved themselves many a penny.

Now Old King Coal
Has been under control
And he wears a large smile on his brow,
For the get that kills
Has robbed our bills,
And the trees do not grow there now.

FROM RUSSIAN NAVY

Moscow, Nov. 26—Henry P. DuBellet, Jr., of New Orleans, La.; 20 years old, who was conscripted into the Russian army in 1915 because he could not show papers proving non-Russian citizenship, has been permitted to leave Russia upon representations made by the American Relief Administration.

When DuBellet eventually found his identification papers, he managed to get a statement from Soviet authorities acknowledging his American citizenship, but the naval commanders at first refused to recognize these as entitling him to release from naval duty. The intervention of the American Relief Administration then was successful. DuBellet has gone to Paris to join his father.

HOW ONE WOMAN SPREAD THE NEWS

Examples of the way in which stories grow by repetition until the real fact in the case is lost in vague and uncertain statements are illustrated by the story from the Washington Post, told by a woman who had been spending some time in a summer resort.

"Of course I made many acquaintances at the hotel," she said, "and one day Mrs. Green, who was rather rude, I didn't care particularly for Mrs. Jones, but I was curious to know why she had acted as she did, for she had been especially cordial to me; so I asked Mrs. Smith.

"Mrs. Smith said that Mrs. Jones said she had been told that I had spoken of her as a 'smart Aleck.' Mrs. Smith further said that it was all over the place that I had used the expression. She said Mrs. Brown had told Mrs. Jones.

"I went to Mrs. Brown and asked her about it. She said that Mrs. Green had told her I said it. I went to Mrs. Green and she admitted telling Mrs. Brown that I had said Mrs. Jones was entirely too smart; not a 'smart Aleck,' but entirely too smart. Mrs. Green had not heard me say it, but Miss Grey, who told her, had.

"I went to Miss Grey. Miss Grey declared that she had it from Mrs. White herself. She said Mrs. Jones was too smart, not 'entirely too smart,' but quite 'too smart.' So I went to Mrs. White.

"Mrs. White stood firm. She said I had called Mrs. Jones too smart, and she heard me say it time and across the room, and that Mrs. Black was with me when I said it.

"I went then to Mrs. Black and put the matter to her. Mrs. Black is an Englishwoman, and said her when she was where I had spoken ill of Mrs. Jones. She could not remember at first; then after a bit she began to laugh.

"'I know how the story started now,' she said. 'Don't you remember the two lady-nursing women you and I were sitting in the parlor, and Mrs. Jones came through dressed in that blue knitted suit? I said when I saw her, "How smart Mrs. Jones is today!" and you said, "Too smart for a day like this. It's going to rain."'"

"And there it all was. I had thought Mrs. Jones too smartly dressed to venture forth during a threatening sky. Did I go to Mrs. Jones? No I was so disgusted with the whole affair that I never mentioned the matter again, and I never saw Mrs. Jones will always believe I called her a 'smart Aleck.'"

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS OF BUSINESS.

Handle the hardest job first each day. Easy ones are pleasures.

Don't be afraid of criticism—criticism yourself.

Be glad and rejoice in the other fellow's success—study his methods.

Do not be misled by dullers. Avoid ruins the finest fabrics.

Be enthusiastic—it is contagious.

Do not look for luck—that success means simply money-making.

Be fair, and do at least one decent act every day of your life.

Honor the chief. There must be a head to everything.

Have confidence in yourself, and make yourself it.

Harmonize your work. Let sunshine radiate and penetrate.

RUSSIA IMPORTS COTTON TO START SPINNING MILLS

Moscow, Nov. 1.—The Russian textile industry is just now passing through a crisis and, in order to save 120,000 workmen from unemployment, the government has permitted the state cotton comittee and the textile syndicate to import 2,000,000 pouds, or 35,000 tons fi cotton, assigning for this purpose a six month's loan of 20,000,000 gold rubles.

The new economic policy of the Soviet government has given rise to a number of combined state trusts in the textile industry, and many factories which have been idle for the last four years are now running. But the revolution ruined the cotton planting industry in Turkestan and the Caucasus, and no fresh supply of raw material was forthcoming. Thus the factories had to use up their small stocks of cotton left over from prewar days, but this, together with the expected harvest of this year, will hardly last them till next February.

Working at the rate of one-fifth of the pre-war production, the requirements of the Russian textile industry for the next year is estimated, at 4,000,000 pouds of raw material for 1,000,000 spindles. This year's harvest of cotton is estimated at 700,000 pouds, while the remainder of the amount necessary for production will have to be purchased abroad, chiefly in Bukhara, Persia and Khiva.

No extreme fluctuating of the Canadian dollar is predicted in the near future and it is expected to remain close to par. Closed at par yesterday.

LINKED LIVES

By D. Kinmount Roy

While the young man was in this mood, Doubts, who was deep in his master's confidence, readily undertook the task of solving the mystery. Doubts was under no obligation to absent himself from the island, and his master with fine sophistry justified his remaining to himself, and was pleased that he had found a satisfactory way out of the difficulty.

MacAlpine knew, as all the world seemed to know, that gaieties of unusual magnificence were commencing; and from his knowledge of the squire, he inferred that Hardcastle was not all best on pleasure and hospitality; but that underneath the craving for social distinction, he had some serious purpose, looking toward the safeguarding of what he most prized; and MacAlpin was convinced that if a crime were again necessary to the accomplishment of his purposes, Hardcastle would not hesitate to commit it.

In short, as things were, the old scoundrel had no choice but to confess himself a great offender, or sin yet deeper, and cover up his iniquities.

MacAlpin, for all his dullness in accepting the obvious explanation, had no great difficulty in connecting those feelings with Kinkman's abortive attempt to carry off the "lady of the Island." He had foreseen danger to Oona, and he had made preparations to meet it, in which he had taken the old soldier into his confidence, and Graham, without being strikingly explicit, had given Janet explanations which prepared her for much which followed.

But MacAlpin, notwithstanding His sense of impending danger, had quite failed to read the signs correctly; and as we know when the time came, he was taken by surprise, and but for an accident, might have failed in the purpose to which he had pledged his life.

There was now no time to be lost; and mounting Oona upon the good horse—Duke—MacAlpin led the way, with Sandy in his arms, while Graham followed leading Duke along such paths as Donald considered safe and secret.

The mood was young, and gave a feeble light where the density of the trees did not quite obscure it. The darkness was not great but the mental and physical strain was beginning to tell upon everyone, and yet much remained to be done and the consciousness nerved them to renewed effort. Leaving Sandy in an overhanging recess he could be found, after doing all in his power for him, and with Duke near by, the two men made their way to the "Lovers' Isle"—carefully guiding Oona by the best paths known to them, and across the narrow footbridge of which we have heard before.

Although it was night, when no one would be likely to find their way voluntarily on such a lonely spot, Graham gotHerike, insisted on mounting guard at the island end of the bridge, while MacAlpin made his dangerous journey with Oona.

A few bushes had been secreted in a cleft of the rock, over which some branches were so drawn that concealment was perfect. MacAlpin conducted them, much to Oona's wonder, and also some food, which she sorely needed after a fast of so many hours.

During the few minutes spent thus, MacAlpin contrived to explain his plan to her, and although she was quite unable to understand what was intended, the whole thing being so new and extraordinary, she was quite satisfied to trust MacAlpin to the end, as she had, with a woman's keen instinct, trusted him from the first. His own preparations were soon made and wrapping a plaid of many colors around her, together with the request that she would shut her eyes and keep them shut until he told her to open them, he was ready.

"But it is dark,' she pleaded, 'and I cannot see with my eyes open!'

"Why then, close them, prayerfully!" Donald would be content with nothing less, and Oona at last complied in good faith. He told her that he was going to take her down a steep place and through falling water, but she need have no fear. Mrs. Graham would follow, and she would be safe under his care from all harm.

For a moment he felt about among the undergrowth, where a tiny stream of water seemed to lose itself in the ground, and then taking Oona in his arms, he began to descend into a veritable abyss by means of a rope ladder which he had firmly secured for the occasion. It was well Oona could not see, for down, down, down, slowly and steadily into the depths MacAlpin made his way. The sensation was curious and not a little alarming. Any one who has been down a well, or other mine, can recall the sense of vacancy, the helplessness, the sound and sense of falling water, the chill dampness, and the wonder when it would end or if it would end at all.

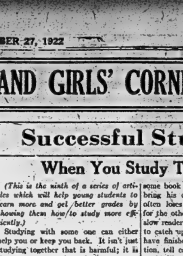

MacAlpin's breathing told her that the task was no light one, even for him. His powers for rest, when he leaned against the rocky side of the chasm, and the slowness with which he moved downward, all indicated the difficulty of the undertaking.

It seemed to her as if the descent would never end, and the sensation of the immediate present was such that she gave a thought as to where their journey would terminate; for among all the strange and startling experiences of the day, it was the most extraordinary and mysterious. Over twenty minutes must have passed before MacAlpin was able to make sure that the first stage of their journey was completed, and that they might, without doubt, stand on terra firma once more.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' CORNER

SPORTS STUDY SCHOOL — PLAY HOME WORK

The Short Story Jr.

CINDERELLA ON THE FARM

Florence sighed as she thought of spending a whole week with Aunt Grace and Dot on the farm. Of course she liked Aunt Grace and Dot. She loved to have them visit her in the city, for Dot could think of the most wonderful games to play. "But oh dear," she thought, "there won't be any time to play on the farm. There's always so much work to do." By the time we get the dishes done from one meal it's time to set the table for the next." Florence was not very fond of work.

But then was a wonderful surprise in store for Florence at the farm. Her cousin Dot never worked at all—every thing was play to her.

"Let's pretend we are enchanted princesses," she said the first day Florence was there. "Now we have to work until we are set free." They set to work, laughing at the old dresses they had been dressed in, and at the cruel witch who had captured them. The dishes were done before they knew it.

"Now let's sweep the kitchen, and maybe the old witch will set us free sooner," said Florence, surprised at how much fun they were having.

"I'm going to be Cinderella today," announced Dot, as the girls at last came down to breakfast.

"Then I'll have to be of the step-sisters, I suppose," laughed Dot. "Oh no, that wouldn't be any fun. I'd just have to sit around and look proud and haughty and I couldn't help you. I guess I'll be Cinderella, too."

That evening when Dot's older brother came in from his work he heard the girls talking in the kitchen. Smiling to himself he stole softly through the house. Soon he appeared at the kitchen door, the couch cover draped artistically over one shoulder, his mothers best hat with a long ostrich plume on top of his head.

"I'm the Fairy Prince," he cried, "and I'm looking for two Cinderellas to drive into town to the movie with me." He wondered two big somethows from behind his back. "Do you know any one these slippers might fit?"

Both girls made a dash for him, shouting with laughter. Grabbing her brother around the neck, Dot cried in delight, "They'll fit us. They'll fit us. I can get both my feet in one," while Florence, suiting her actions to the words, hopped around the kitchen in the big overshoe.

Finally, when Dot had caught her breath, she began to descend into a veritable abyss by means of a rope ladder which he had firmly secured for the occasion. It was well Oona could not see, for down, down, down, slowly and steadily into the depths MacAlpin made his way. The sensation was curious and not a little alarming. Any one who has been down a well, or other mine, can recall the sense of vacancy, the helplessness, the sound and sense of falling water, the chill dampness, and the wonder when it would end or if it would end at all.

Successful Studying

When You Study Together

(This is the ninth of a series of articles which will help young students to learn more and get better grades by showing them how to study more efficiently.)

Studying with some one can either help you or keep you back. It isn't just studying together that is harmful; it is the way you go about it. If you are studying with some one, the two of you should first of all decide just exactly what it is that you wish to study and how much time you have to spend, exactly.

Do not read a book together.

If you have a number of pages in some book to read, each of you should be responsible for a certain part. Then often does the thought while waiting for the other to turn the page, and the slow reader is inclined to skim the page to catch up with the other. After you have finished reading a chapter or section, tell each other what you have read. First one can tell all he remembers, and then the other can add points that are left out.

Use Drills Together

When you have to memorize verses, drills, or lists of dates, studying together will help. One of you can be teacher, hearing the other recite and correcting carefully. Then the reciter can become teacher.

Never prompt unless absolutely necessary.

When you are studying with some one, do not let them "take the work out of your mouth." You should take plenty of time to think and not ask for help unless you are completely lost; otherwise, you will find yourself using the other person for a "crutch."

Correct Written Work

One good way to study together is to do written work. In this way you are not so likely to get off the subject as when talking a lesson over. After you have read a lesson, get together and think out some questions that must be answer it, and then write short answers to questions. When you have finished, exchange papers, open your books, and see how nearly correct the answers are, giving each other a suggested grade. In this way what mistakes another has made and looking up the right answers you will remember more easily.

Two people cannot study well together if they simply divide "up the work, for that is not fair to themselves or the teacher. Nor can they study well if one does all the giving and one all the taking. There's a lot of difference between studying with some one and studying for some one.

Answer to last puzzle: Water, waves, willow, wall, walk, wade, wash, wood, wag, watch.

SAILING SHIP INDUSTRY IMPROVEMENT.

London, Nov. 8.—The annual report of the British Sailing Ship Owners Association, which has 910 ships of 113,046 net tons on its books, says that the depression of the shipping industry for the past year has been greater than at any period since the war. Despite the fact that freights are still unremunerative, however, conditions in the sailing ship industry are improving.

At the recent annual meeting of the Association the chair was said the number of shipping freights was 40 in January, 1921; 33 in December, 18-21, and in September, 1922, it was as low as 27. Although there had been a smaller decrease in the number of sailing ships since pre-war times, as compared with the previous decade, the result was due principally to the increase in the United States, which had increased 43 per cent. of the world's sailing tonnage.

LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED Toronto

"Pep" Leadley's Field Goal Wins Canadian Rugby Title For Queen's University Eleven

QUEENS CONQUER ARGOS IN WONDERFUL GAME

Football the Magnet at Toronto Saturday—Record Crowd Witnesses Great Battle—Leadley's Drop Kick Won the Game

For the first time since 1904, Queen's University senior Intercollegiate rugby team earned the right to compete for the Canadian championship, when Saturday, at Varsity Stadium, they defeated and eliminated the Argonauts by a score of 12 to 11.

First one team, then the other, led. At quarter time they were on even terms, with three points each. In the second quarter the Tricolor counted three points more and the jubilant visitors left the field with that slight margin of advantage. The commencement of the third quarter saw the Argonauts force a strong offensive, which Queen's was quite able to withstand, and by adding eight points to their score, the Double Blue went into the final period three points to the good.

Never has there been witnessed a more magnificent clash of brain and brawn than the last ten minutes of the game. Fast by foot Queen's defied the Argonauts back upon the defensive, and then, with only a few minutes to go, Leadley kicked the field goal which gave his team the splendid final victory.

Not since that classic struggle of 1914 between McGill and Varsity, has such a hard fought, gruelling game been seen on a Toronto field. Point for point the teams fought each other every inch of the way, every second of the hour of play. Every chance of strength, every atom of skill was thrown into the struggle by both teams, in the titanic endeavor to snatch the palm of victory.

From the first kick-off to the final whistle neither team held sufficient advantage to permit of a slackening of the pace, of a breathing space between the crash of line against line, the nerve-wracking battle of pants between the half backs, the feint of wits between the quarterbacks. The slightest falter, and an advantage gained was lost, to be regained only by a terrific endeavor. As a rugby game, it was an epic that will be written into the sporting history of Canada for all time to come.

SOME FACTS OF THE GREAT GAME

Figures do not lie. There are several interesting facts to be derived from the "box score" of the Eastern Canada final.

Kicks—Queen's 23, Argos 22.
Returned kicks—Queen's 2 Argos 4.
Fumbles—Queen's 3, Argos 6.
Recovered fumbles—Queen's 0, Argos, 4.
Yards gained—Queen's 13 times Argos 18 times.
Yards lost on penalties—Queen's 30 yds., Argos 105 yds.
Outside kicks attempted—Queen's 0, Argos 2.
Rouges—Queen's 1, Argos 2.
Touchdowns—Queen's 1, Argos 1.
Converts—Queen's 0, Argos 1.
Field goals attempted—Queen's 2 Argos 1.
Field goals, successful—Queen's 2 Argos 1.
Paid admissions—16,367.
Receipts—$16,056.45.
Each Club's share—Approximately $4,000.
—Both failed.

Lionel Conacher did not lose the game for the Argos. As a single individual force his Saturday performance was outstanding. Batsone, his old team-mate for Queen's played a cool and collected game and his iron nerves and brainy play was exhibited in the clinches. Football strategy in these two players was most prominent. The tide of fortune, however, can change in a fraction of a second and it is this uncertainty that goes to make football the attractive sport that it is. Queen's showed their strength and they won a victory that no one can begrudge them. The new champions of the East should be heartily accorded the credit that is theirs and they are to be congratulated for the winning of their first Eastern title for twenty-three years. Argos put up a game fight, but the "Presbyterians" had the "knock out" punch and delivered it cleanly.

FINAL GAME AT KINGSTON NEXT SATURDAY

Hewison of the Canadian Union received a message from Manager Lelberman of the Edmonton football team, Western Canada champions of the east, that the team will leave Edmonton tomorrow morning for Toronto, arriving there on Friday morning and departing almost immediately after their arrival for Kingston, where they desire to practice on Friday afternoon. Until the arrival of the message from Edmonton there was some question as to the scene of the national final, but, as both Queen's and Edmonton prefer to play at Richardson Stadium, the Limestone City will get the game.

Many interested citizens took advantage of The Intelligencer Bulletin service on Saturday's game, and for the convenience of those who are unable to attend the final, spot week at Kingston, a special reporting service on the match will be available from our own representative, direct from the playing field, and the scores by quarters and any special features on the play will be bulletined during the afternoon.

HOCKEY TALK NEXT WEEK

Cold Breezes Remind Sports men That the Great Winter Sport Will Soon be Commenced

Since the big ball game in Guelph about a month ago spun down in this city has been rather quiet, except for the usual rumors of new additions for next years Grand Trunk team, some of which are unfounded of course. There promises to be something doing next week, however as the hockey season will officially open "in black and white."

The ice boys have been working hard on the rink, but the weather has been mild for the snow league with the result that the rink has given away in a couple of instances, and the odd rain storm has been forced out into the cold silent spectators.

When the Intelligencer opens the gate to the hockey dope, the usual practice will be provided, namely to handle the truth carefully, and confine all remarks reasonably to facts and the truth.

RUGBY PLAYER BADLY INJURED

Displaced Vertebra in Scrimmage, but Will Completely Recover

Newton Foster, son of Mr. J. H. Foster, of Chapman, was seriously injured on Wednesday of last week at the High School, at Tweed where he is a student. He was taking part in a game of rugby, and in a scrimmage his neck was badly twisted. The injury failed to respond to local treatment, and he was sent to Belleville where an X-ray examination was made and it was found that the vertebra was displaced. He was given special treatment, and we are pleased to say that his complete recovery is assured.

COBOURG CLUB RE-ORGANIZED

At the annual meeting of the Cobourg Baseball club which was held in the town council chamber early this week, the following officers were elected.

Honorary President—Mayor Maher, W. J. Crosen, A. R. Dundas, J. D. Hayden.

Honorary Vice-Presidents — W. L. Allen, Thos. Green, L. H. Wilson.

President—Rev. Father Corkery.
Vice-President—F. E. Allen.
Sec./Treas.—C. R. Gummow.
Executive Committee — Geo. P. Strong, T. J. Turpin, H. C. Hazlenbetham, Arthur Cauley, J. J. Stinson, E. C. Hillard, Chas. Brenner, with power to add to their number.

The question of appointing a manager was left to the officers and executive committee.

HOCKEY RUMORS.

Nolsey McNeil, who played ball last summer, will try out in goal with the Frontenacs of Kingston and "Mickey" Murray, who held down third for Lansdale, will likely guard the nets for Aura Lee seniors.

PRINTERS WIN FROM TEACHERS

At the Y.M.C.A. bowling alley on Saturday night the Printers and Teachers team played, and the result was a pretty win for the typos in the total score and in three single games. Harrison for the winning team made high single score 227 and high three string 570. The players and scores were as follows:

TEN LIVES SACRIFICED

rushed to St. Boniface Hospital.

List of Dead.

The list of missing, furnished tonight by Rev. Father Lacouture, Prefect of Studies and Discipline, is as follows:

Rev. Brother Stormont, 46, Inkerman; Lawrence Legree, 15 Wellington; William A. Tait, 15 St. Boniface; John A. McGlynn, 9 Winnipeg; Leopold Tremblay, 8, Winnipeg; Henry Pelissier, 35, Winnipeg; Joseph Duquette, 16 Whitewood, Sask; Lionel Fourrier, 16, Elk Horn; Olivia Laflech, 1, St. Charles, Man. and Joseph Gilbert, 16, Marisopolis Man.

In addition to the foregoing the police of St. Boniface have been informed that a boy named Lagoe is dead, living at La Salle, Man., had not been seen since the fire.

Asked as to a rumor current that the cause of the fire had been incendiarism, Father Bourque refused to commit himself to this theory, but explained that the fire had started in the Music Hall in the basement and the college authorities were at a loss to account for a terrific explosion which followed the outbreak of fire. It had been first reported that the fire started in the physics laboratory, but this was denied by Father Bourque, who stated the laboratory was located on the third floor of the building.

Montreal, Sept. 27—Apart from the negro problem in the South and the Oriental question in the West, two great evils which must be fought in the United States today are the Hearst press and the Ku Klux Klan, according to James Morton, K.C., of New York, who addressed the Reform Club here Saturday. His solution of the racial problem, was the breakdown of all language barriers by the universal teaching of Esperanto.

SUCCESSFUL SEWAGE DISPOSAL

In the development of sanitary and efficient methods of disposing of sewage, British engineers and manufacturers have played a very conspicuous part. Some time ago the chief chemist and just and general manager of the sewage disposal department of British city set up a large-scale experimental plant on a new system designed by him. It is based on an ingenious combination of biological and aeration methods of purifying sewage, and the experimental plant has proved so successful that it is to be extended to deal with from fifteen million gallons per day during the dry weather and up to three times that volume during the storm periods. The conversion of the plant to the new system is estimated to cost about £250,000 and although this sum appears large it represents only half the capital outlay necessary on other systems for giving equal purification results. Moreover, the area of land occupied by the purification plant is only one sixth of that otherwise required.

"I Can Now Do My Work Without Feeling Tired"

Mrs. A. Moffatt, Roxton Falls, Que., writes:

"I suffered from a run-down system and nervous debility. I could not sleep or rest at night, and felt so weak I could not walk any distance. I took several tonics, but they only helped me while I was taking them. Mother advised me to take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I felt great benefit from the first box, and continued taking several boxes. Today I feel like a new woman, and can able to do my work without that dreadful tired feeling."

SOUR MASH TOO MUCH FOR FOWL

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 22.—Hilarity in a poultry yard where 2,500 fowls were said to be drunk, resulted in the arrest of O. S. Siedell, of Cudahy, a suburb, on a charge of violating the Volstead Act.

Neighbors sent calls to the police that "something awful" was going on in Siedell's poultry yard. The officers quickly responded and they later declared they saw 600 geese, 200 1,000 ducks dashing madly over the surface of a small pond, and 1,000 chickens strutting on their heels, intoxicated with outstretched wings about the yard, or siding with the geese in their battles.

The officers pronounced the fowls all drunk and stated they found evidence they had been partaking of sour mash. The confiscated the still, a 100 gallons of liquor and several barrels of the mash. Siedell was put in the county jail in default of $2, baking a cannon. The poet's ancestral their pedigree and so do we. Our feminists century Anglo-Saxon civilization is grand, but a price was paid to obtain it. The land we love and the scenes we admire and enjoy are the gratitude of many shed down the centuries. We are heirs of a traditional family of names; names that were prized and good. A good name is better to be chosen than riches. Let us be true to family tradition. Let us remember our inheritance for it was gained to have such a national position as the English, Scotch and Irish possess. Every nation has its glorious and years ago, it was considered a heritage for one to declare that he was a Scot. Men like Nelson, Shakespeare, Tennyson, were her sons of their day and we use Lord McCrae, King Edward, "Sir Flanders' Fields," a hero. We live in a land of Anglo-Saxon ideals, ideals that have been procured and won through the sword and pen. What is it that is making India today? It is the inbreeding of British ideals, of mighty ideals for the betterment of that country. Great Britain stands today as she has always stood, true. We will stand in our day true to our ancestors. We belong not only to our family and our nation but we belong to God. Our lives go back until they touch God, and in us rests our allegiance to Him. We are made in the image of God, and every little life's of infinite value in His sight. On this has brought to face to face with a new day and a better civilization. We are children of Scotland, England, Ireland, and Canada, but greater, we are children of God. Are we worthy of that inheritance? Can we claim that pedigree? We are born not to be kings, but children of God. No are we children of God, but with folk now appear what we shall be.

ST. ANDREW'S DAY IS COMMEMORATED

Special music was rendered by the Choir and a trio composed of Mrs. Nicholson, Miss Lash, and Mr. E. Mouck, sang with much effect, "Sir of My Soul."

Wedding Bells

HUME—JENKINS

A quiet wedding took place this morning at St. Michael's Church Presbytery, when Miss Aileen Jenkins was married to Mr. William Hume, of Corbyville, and Miss Aileen Jenkins, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Jenkins, of this city. The couple were unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Hume later left for Montreal and other eastern points. Their many friends in the city and vicinity will unite with the bridegroom in wishing them every happiness and prosperity through life's journey.

The concrete dam across the Moira River at Corbyville was completed last week. The construction of this dam is expected to meet the situation relative to the storage of a sufficient volume of the river water, which when released from time to time, will flush the steam and clear the bed of all debris and contamination between the distillery and the Bay of Quinte.

She's Astonished Declares Mrs. Guay

"The fact that Tanlac has relieved me after so many other medicines failed, makes it seem all the more wonderful to me," said Mrs. Joseph Guay, 185 Du Roi St., Quebec.

"I suffered so from indigestion for two years that I finally became terribly run down. I lost my appetite, and was the odor of food coming, I was seated me, and I suffered so from gas and bloating I could hardly breathe. I had such awful pains in my back I just couldn't stand straight and I was so nervous I could hardly sleep any at all, and I became so weak I couldn't do my housework. I was discouraged, because in spite of everything I tried, my condition kept getting worse.

"But the way Tanlac overcame my troubles is astonishing. It has seemed to be the very thing I needed and I could see a wonderful change from the very first. My appetite is fine, my digestion perfect and the pains have entirely disappeared from my back. My nerves are as steady as can be, my sleep is restful and I get up mornings feeling fine and ready for my housework. Truth is, I feel like a new woman. Tanlac would be cheap at many times its price.

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

ANOTHER HOTEL BECOMES GARAGE

One of the most important real estate deals of the year was consummated Saturday afternoon at Lindsay, when Mr. W. D. Fee, of the Fee Motors, purchased the entire Butler House property, and will take possession on Jan. 15th, 1923. It is his intention to erect one of the finest Ford service garages in Eastern Ontario, a garage that will be up-to-date in every respect—all the conveniences where motorists will receive the most careful attention and be given the best of efficient service.

INSPIRING SERVICES AT CHRIST CHURCH

Indian Minister and Bishop of Kewatin Deliver Fine Sermons

In St. Thomas Church yesterday morning, the Rev. Maurice Sanderson, full-blooded Indian clergyman, preached a very interesting sermon on "The Evangelization of the Red Man," especially dealing with the Crees and Ojibways. He stands as a living witness to the work which Christianity is doing around him, as he is a fluent speaker and a cultured Christian gentleman. The large congregation assembled listened intently for three quarters of an hour.

In the evening the Bishop of Kewatin preached and in his discourse pleaded for the work among the Indians and Eskimos. The Bishop has a pleasing personality and is a very earnest and persuasive preacher.

MANY HOTELS REFUSED RENEWAL OF LICENSES

Two at Port Hope, Two at Cobourg and Two at Campbellford Refused Licenses

Two Port Hope hotels, the Ontario House and the British, have been refused standard hotel licenses. The proprietors have their choice now of conducting a boarding house or giving all their attention to the bar, but the combination will not be permitted. If they cater to boarders then they must not sell soft drinks or tobacco and if they prefer the latter they must haul down the boarding house sign. The closing off of these licenses becomes as a result of a visit of Provincial representatives here last summer. The fact of the proprietor of the Ontario House being fined twice for infractions under the Ontario Temperance Act, was responsible for the loss of the license there, while the British was not equipped to the satisfaction of the Inspector.

In Cobourg the King Edward and St. Lawrence were cut off and in Campbellford two more were refused a renewal of licenses.

EIGHT-HOUR DAY IN DENMARK

Copenhagen, Nov. 27.—The eight-hour day law in Denmark will be extended for the years 1923 and 1925 as the result of a report made recently by the Board of Social Welfare.

This law, which was enacted a year ago to remain in force until the end of 1923, has been attacked by many interests as being responsible for the increases in the cost of living, but efforts to have it rescinded have failed.

The Board, in its report, stated it believed the law was responsible for much of this increase, but that it contained many advantages for the work people which more than offset this disadvantage.

CALLED BY DEATH

LORETTA BLANCHE ROSS

After being in ill health for some time, Miss Loretta Blanche Ross, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ross, 71 Geddes street, died on Sunday, deceased, who was in her 30th year, was born in Belleville where she had resided all her life. She was a young lady who was beloved by all who knew her. Miss Ross was a member of St. Michael's church. In addition to the parents, three sisters, Agnes, Josephine and Jean, survive. To the bereaved will be extended the heartfelt sympathy of many friends.

MRS. M. BISCOMBE

At midnight on Sunday, Mrs. Marion Biscombe, an aged lady, passed away at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Barragar, 60 Octavia street. Deceased was 82 years of age and was the widow of the late Mr. Benjamin Biscombe. She had resided in this locality all her life and was a lady much respected by all who knew her. Mrs. Biscombe was a member of the Methodist church. Two daughters, Mrs. W. J. Church, of Norwich, Eng., and Mrs. J. A. Goodsell, of this city, survive.

MRS. RICHARD NAYLOR.

In the passing of Mrs. Richard Naylor, which occurred this morning at the residence of her sister, Mrs. J. D. Henderson, Smithfield, there passes a former well known and much respected resident of Cannifton has entered into rest. The deceased lady was in poor health for some time and her demise was not unexpected. Mrs. Naylor was in her 58th year and was born at Cannifton, being a daughter of the late Mr. William Moorman. She had resided for some time in Rochester, N. Y., also at San Francisco. From the latter place she came to the home of her sister, Mrs. Henderson, for some years a member of the Methodist church, and had many friends in this locality who will regret to learn of her demise. Her husband predeceased her. Five step-children and many other relatives survive.

PLAYING "SHERLOCK" ON CONAN DOYLE
Canadian Amazes Creator Of Most Observant Detective

Of the many thousands, perhaps millions of people who have at one time or another read the famous Sherlock Holmes stories, not a few have paused to wonder at the mind of the man who created the famous detective.

Not a few, too, must have paused to reflect upon Holmes' remarkable powers of observation. What to the average mind was a closed book to Holmes conveyed an entire story.

He knew by the mud on one's boots what regions of the city had been visited; he remembered the number of steps leading to his rooming house; the number and kinds of trees in his neighborhood.

One would have imagined from these facts that the mind responsible for this romantic figure would itself be extremely observant.

It so happened that some years ago Sir Arthur Conan Doyle had occasion to visit Canada.

Into one city he came ahead of time. Preparations were therefore not quite ready, nor was there the customary welcome.

Sir Arthur as he stepped off the train and left the station was heard by one reporter to say again when I was over here before I was asked if I had ever written any books. Now I am asked whether indeed he were not Conan Doyle.

"I am," replied Sir Arthur in some surprise. "But how did you know?"

"Well" said the reporter, "it's like this. I have been reading in the newspapers that you were about due here. Then again when I saw you come off the train I noticed that your sleeves were rather frayed and that your elbows looked as if they had seen better days. 'Aha, an author,' I said to myself.

And putting two and two together after the fashion of your own inimitable silence. I came to the conclusion that you were none other than Conan Doyle."

"Admirable," said Sir Arthur, imitable Holmes, I came to the conclusion that you were none other than Conan Doyle."

"Admirable," said Sir Arthur, imitable Holmes, I came to the cogratulate you on your powers of observations."

"Not at all" said the stranger confally. "One thing more though, I did not mention, I noticed as you came off the train that the ink on the pen carrying in your hand had plainly marked on it, "Arthur Conan Doyle!"

London, Nov. 27.—Execution of Erskine Childers which took place at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, draws no favorable condemnation in the London Morning Newspapers today. Neither surprise nor censure are indicated, although somewhere is recognition of Childers' ability and courage and the editorials deplore that his life had such an ending.

GIRL GUIDE RECEIVES MEDAL

ed. The varied program given by the Band could not have been improved upon and everyone present enjoyed the excellently rendered selections.

Mayor Hanna, in making the presentation to Miss Bland, explained that the Provincial Commissioner, Mrs. E. B. Smith was unable to be here to present the medal and read a letter from Lady Aberdeen, President of the Girl Guides' Association, asking Mayor Hanna to make the presentation.

The highest award that can be won by the bronze cross, which has never yet been given to a Girl Guide in Ont. Britain or here. The first Canadian Guide to win the Silver Cross was Edel Lever of New Liskeard, in 1917, for rescuing her four small brothers and sisters, when her house caught fire. The second cross was awarded to Grace Tyson, of the Victoria B. C. Company, for saving one of her companions from drowning; 3rd to 1918, to Dorothy Hoggan, of Dawson, Y. T., for rescuing her mother from drowning; 4th, Olive Hodgson, of Bridgewater, N. S., Company, for rescuing a little girl from drowning; 5th, Margaret Bowerman, of Ingersville, Ont., Company, for rescuing a child in front of a train.

Miss Bland's awards of the Guides are:

(1) Bronze Cross—presented to the highest possible honor that a guide can win—can only where the claimant has shown special heroism or has faced extraordinary risk of life in saving life.

(2) Silver Cross—for gallantry, with considerable risk to herself.

(3) Badge of Merit—For a Guide who does her duty exceptionally well, though without risk to herself, and for cases of specially meritorious work for the movement.

Mayor Hanna, in addition to presenting Miss Bland with the medal was to follows:

The presentation that I have the honour of making this evening is indeed a unique one.

The recipient of this medal, Miss Margaret Bland, a local girl guide, has lived up to the highest ideals of woman of the girl organization of which she is a member.

The particular act for which the medal is awarded sounds like one in a book. Last June a little tot had toddled out on the railway crossing at James Street. There is always one aware of danger as a train swung rapidly around the curves from the west. Miss Bland saw the little tot, must surely be sacrificed, when our young heroine sprang to the rescue. It required quick thinking, and every ounce and unselfish acting to save the life. A minute's hesitation to count the cost and it would have been too late. But Miss Margaret Bland did not hesitate. She ran quickly in front of the train and snatched the little child to safety.

In presenting you with this medal Miss Margaret, I want you to know that the whole City is proud of you.

I have read that the Ontario Headquarters of the Girl Guides has written to say Ontario is proud of you, and I want to add that the glory of Canada can come to you long as it has proved.

You may be proud to wear this medal, which has come clear across the sea from your headquarters in London, England, remembering that you have been true to the best old British traditions of self-forgetfulness.

I have much pleasure in presenting to you this medal.

Yours sincerely,
James Hanna,
Mayor, City of Belleville.

To Miss Margaret Bland,
Belleville, Ont.

Mr. Hanna also made another interesting presentation to Miss Bland, that of a silver chain for her medal, given to her by the mothers of the bay, whose children attend the girl guides, accompanied by this letter, which was read to the audience:

To Miss Bland:

Dear Margaret,—Knowing you were to be presented with a silver cross to-night for bravery, I thought I would like to give you a chain to go with it to show my gratitude and appreciation of your saving the life of my little boy, not knowing the danger he was in, as I was away on a Messager boy. I hope you will like the chain and may you have success in all your undertakings through life.

Yours sincerely,
E. Hicks.

With Miss Bland on the platform when the presentations were being made, was Miss Doran, leader of the patrol to which she belongs.

The program of the evening was as follows:

EYES OF THE DOMINION ON LANARK

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PASS RESOLUTION

The Chamber of Commerce last night passed unanimously a resolution urging that the celebration of the 146th anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada by the Loyalists, be held here.

Belleville Canton No. 8, I.O.O.F., have also passed a similar resolution.

A few days ago the Intelligencer outlined in an editorial the advisability of all local organizations passing resolutions such as have been passed by the above organizations. It is to be hoped that others will follow so that the civic authorities will feel that the public is behind them and that they will be justified in taking additional steps to secure the celebration. Mr. W. C. Mikel has spent a great deal of time and money in lining up the facts and placing Belleville before the eyes of the various committees in charge of the choosing of the place where the convention is to be held.

SUIT AGAINST CITY DISCUSSED

Special Committee of the Council Will Endeavor To Have Same Settled

A special committee of the City Council composed of Aldermen Foster, McCreary and Greenleaf, yesterday met the Police Commissioners in reference to the petition which occurred between the police car and a truck the property of Mr. Thos. Holland.

Ald. Foster stated that the committee intended the matter over with the Commissioners and the pending suit instituted by Mr. Holland for $2,000 damages. The committee met at the option after hearing evidence that the police were in no way to blame for the affair.

Ald. Patterson—The Committee has only heard one side. Get the other side of the story and if we are liable the matter might be settled amicably and for much less than $5,000.

Ald. McCreary was in favor of the case being settled out of court if it was at all possible to do so.

A motion prevailed that the members of the above committee meet Mr. Holland and hear his version of the case with a view of settling the matter.

MAY SEVER RELATIONS WITH GREECE

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Nov. 28.—There is the strongest possibility that Great Britain will sever diplomatic relations with Greece, if the death sentences imposed on the former Greek Cabinet Ministers are carried out, it was stated in official circles today.

On the left is Dr. E. J. Moore, of Wednesday, Ohio, assistant general secretary of the Anti-Saloon League of America. In the centre, Harry S. Warner, Chicago, president of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association, and on the right Dr. Gifford Gordon, Victorian Anti-Liquor League, who are attending the meeting of the World League Against Alcohol in Toronto.

COAL SHORTAGE IN THE CITY

Mayor Authorized to Procure One Hundred Cords of Mixed Wood

During the Council proceedings last night there was some discussion in reference to the fuel situation in Belleville. Mayor Hanna stated the situation was rather critical. Dealers had to quit taking orders as they could not fill them. There were some in the city who virtually had no fuel, and the outlook was bad.

Ald. Greenleaf stated that there was egg and larger sized coal in the city. This was the main reliance for the matter and some of the coal dealers had received up to the orders of the Fuel Controller.

Mayor Hanna—The Provincial Fuel Controller has no power in the matter.

Ald. Foster said it was possible to get soft coal and possibly it would be a good idea to get a supply for the city works.

It was decided to instruct the Mayor to procure 100 cords of mixed wood and the price of same would be $8 per cord delivered at the house.

COLLECTION PLATE COLLECTS ODD COINS

When the collection plate went the rounds at the service held at Griffin's theatre on Sunday evening, it collected some rare and valueless coins, which will be very welcome to the Girl Guides, to whom the collection went, when they go out to spend the money in the purchase of articles for their Association member's heads.

There were four small, aluminum pieces, smaller than a sixpence, donated. They are under weight of course. A fifth one, was made slightly heavier by having been wrapped in the foil. Then there was one pretty but feather like contraption which told the world that it was good for a 5 cent purchase in a well known store at Bowmanville.

If this were the editorial column, the Intelligencer might spend a few lines in explaining what is thought of such "good sports" who enjoy an entertainment, and treat that costs $16 per ton, and in payment tender a worthless coin.

NO WORD OF "KATIE ECCLES"

But Schooner "Lyman Davis" is Aground Near Waupoos Island

The schooner Lyman Davis is aground at Waupoos Island, and a Kingston tug will be sent to the scene of the trouble today, in an endeavour to tow the stranded schooner off ground. She will be towed into Kingston. When in conversation with the Intelligencer this morning, Mr. William Schuster, coal merchant of this city, stated that the word has as yet been heard of the other boat supposed to have sunk in Summerday. This boat is the Katie Eccles, and she was loaded with coal for the Schuster Co. Although Mr. Schuster has kept the shipping news since the first word was received that the Katie Eccles was reported lost, he has been unable to locate any information as to her whereabouts.

The Katie Eccles left Oswego on Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. loaded, and arfor Belleville, but she was caught in the storm on the lake Sunday evening and latest reports are to the effect that it is now believed that she has foundered with crew and coal. This coal has been hauling coal for the Schuster Co. since the resumption of work in the coal mines following the coal strike last year. It is believed that the damages to the Lyman Davis will not be very extensive.

The "Katie Eccles" carried a crew of two and a cook, and it is feared she has gone down. She is owned by Capt. Mitchell, of Portsmouth, and left Oswego for Belleville, following the schooner Lyman Davis out of the port. Her captain of the Davis whose own vessel is ashore, stated that he saw her astern for a consider-able distance. She had a trailing boat and appeared to be in trouble. That was the last seen of her, so far as is known. She may, however, have made shelter. Her crew consists of Capt. Mitchell, his son, and a Mrs. Lloyd, of Kingston.

The schooners Darpaw and Horace Taber both belonging to Kingston, which left Oswego yesterday afternoon, with hard coal, are ashore on Four Mile Point, filled with water and in a very critical position. Both schooners are owned by Capt. C. Darpaw. The former carried 225 tons of hard coal for Kingston, and the Taber a like cargo for Collins Bay.

Capt. Darpaw, who arrived in Toronto this morning, stated that although his boat was hard on, he thought he could be released. The schooner Horace Taber is in a bad place, and it was feared that she might break up.

PROHIBITION REGULATIONS DISCUSSED

Toronto, Nov. 28.—The best methods for international co-operation for law enforcement on both sides of the boundary lines in which prohibition or partial prohibition is involved in either country, was one of more important subjects discussed at today's convention of the World League against Alcoholism. Arthur J. Davis, of Boston, Massachusetts, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America presided at the discussion.

SENATOR PROUDFOOT SHOWS NO IMPROVEMENT

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Nov. 28.—The officials of Wellesley Hospital this afternoon reported no change in the condition of Senator Proudfoot.

IRISH SENATE NOMINATIONS

Cork, Nov. 28.—By a vote of twenty to ten, the corporation today decided to make nominations to the Irish Senate created by the Free State Constitution.

C. OF C. HOLDS GENERAL MEET.

Larger Attendance at Last Night's Meeting Than at Any Previous Meeting in Two Years

Last night's general business meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was the most largely attended meeting of its kind held in two years. The certainly augurs well for the success of the organization during the year to come.

The new applications for membership were received at this meeting, and 80 of the names were voted upon and accepted. Secretary Treasurer Bleasdell, of the Chamber of Commerce, presided over the meeting, and read a very encouraging report of the industrial situation here in Belleville, showing that the city had done better in this connection during the past year, in the way of locations of new industries than any other city of its size in the province of Ontario.

Mr. J. O. Herity, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce now had 250 names on the list of the organization, the Chamber of Commerce now has 250 members, and with a supplementary drive was being organized to raise 50 additional members and bring the total

ONE MILLION FOR RELIEF

This Sum Required for Fire Sufferers of Northern Ontario

The following telegram received yesterday by Mayor Hanna is explanatory of itself:

Toronto, Nov. 27th.

Mayor Hanna,
Belleville, Ont.,

Sir—May we respectfully ask your city to raise any amount for the Northern Ontario Fire Relief, equal to one half mill on your total assessment either by way of levy or voluntary contribution. Peel county has successfully done this and are contributing a substantial amount. Who will be the next to come to the aid of these stricken people? One million dollars is required for emergency relief.

The Northern Ontario Fire Relief Committee

FRANCE DISCUSSES DIRECT ACTION

Paris, Nov. 28.—The plan for direct action by France as a solution of the reparations problem was submitted today to a full Cabinet with President Millerand presiding. A plan practically the same as that of the state coal mines and the collection of export taxes in Ruhr District, together with absolute control of that section of the Rhineland now occupied by the French Military, is believed to be the plan was approved. The ministers would not discuss it.

CABINET MINISTERS ARE SENTENCED TO DEATH

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Athens, Nov. 28th.—All but two of the former cabinet officers and army officials accused of high treason in connection with the Greek debacle in Asia Minor have been sentenced to death by the Military Courtmartial that heard the charges. Sentence of imprisonment and degradation was imposed upon Admiral Goudas and General Stratigos.

SCHOLARSHIP WON BY BRIGHT YOUTH

Friends of Rev. Canon Heeney of St. Luke's Church, Winnipeg, and former Rector of Christ Church, Belleville, will be pleased to learn that his son Arnold D. Heeney of St. John's College, Winnipeg, has at the age of twenty years, won the Rhodes Scholarship, from the University of Manitoba for 1924, which scholarship entitles him to three years at Oxford. Rev. Canon Heeney has just returned from England, where, for the last four months, he has preached and lectured on many places.

LENGTHY SESSION OF CITY COUNCIL

Much Discussion Ensues Upon Matters Brought to the Attention of Municipal Legislators

The session of the City Council last night was prolonged owing to lengthy discussions upon some matters that were not of great importance. A number of recommendations were adopted slip some motions. Mayor Hanna was authorized to procure 100 cords of wood for use of citizens.

Members present were Mayor Hanna, Aldermen Patterson, Thompson, Donohue, Robinson, Greenleaf, McCreary, Foster.

Reports of Committees, etc., were laid on the table and council went into committee of the whole on reports, etc. Ald. McCreary in the chair. The accounts passed by the various committees were adopted also the following recommendations were disposed of.

That the True Blues be allowed the free use of the city Hall on Friday, December 15th to hold a concert in aid of the True Blues Orphanage—Carried.

That the City Solicitor be instructed to defend the action entered by Thomas J. Holland against the corporation of the City of Belleville for Police Constable Stitt for damages alleged to have been sustained to himself and machine owned by being struck by a motor car owned by the city and operated by the police department.

That Mayor Hanna, Alderman Donohue, French and Patterson, be a committee to investigate the purchase of wood.

That the foreman of the water works be granted $10 per month to supply an expense of fuel, etc., for horse used by him in the discharge of his duties.

It was recommended that Ald. Foster, Greenleaf and McCreary be a committee to meet the Police Commissioners relative to matters appertaining to the city.

Ald. Thompson moved in amendment that Ald. Foster be not a committee to interview the Police Commissioners.

The motion was being taken the amendment prevailed.

A report was presented that the proper number of names had been secured for the qualification of the Parks Commission Bylaw at the civic election in January.

The Committee was and reported. The report was received and adopted.

Big Event to be Staged Here on December 11th—Railway Magnates and Other Prominent Persons are Expected to be in Attendance

At the City Council meeting last night a deputation from the Chamber of Commerce was present to ask the members of the council to participate in the celebration and banquet to be tendered to Mr. W. D. Robb, President of the Grand Trunk Railway System on Monday, December 11th. The members of the Council will do all in their power to make the event a memorable one. It is expected that some railway magnates from nthe United States and Canada will be here that day, also Mr. Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson stated the committee of the Chamber of Commerce desired to make this a civic affair on December 11th as Mr. Robb. The importance of this reception to Mr. Robb who has done much for Belleville and the surrounds. The one of one man who has made good, and the reception and banquet should be a success and the citizens can safely leave it to us.

Mayor Hanna—The Council appreciate what the Chamber of Commerce is doing in the matter and the Council will do their part in reference to the celebration and reception.

Mr. Ketcheson—The citizens will no doubt decorate their places of business. Some banners should have to be provided. It was also decided to give the freedom of the City to Mr. Robb. If there is any expense the Council should bear that.

Mr. Herity—We expect Mr. Thornton here, Hon. Geo. J. Graham, also some prominent railway men in the United States and Canada.

Mr. J. Bone spoke of the great benefit the city receives from the G.T.R. He would like the affair to be a success. All should unite in making it a great success. Make it a great event, like a ball holiday.

Mayor Hanna—The G.T.R. shops will be opened that day for inspection.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson—The suggestion was made that the City Engineer prepare a plan of the city showing the places radiating into the city and be placed in the banqueting hall of Hotel Quinte the night of the banquet.

Ald. McCreary suggested that a presentation be made to Mr. Robb which would be worthy of our guest.

Mr. J. D. McMillan—The best present you could give Mr. Robb is the freedom of the city. By making this function a success we will be doing much for Belleville. We could take care of industries here and the G. T. R. is able to assist same. Brockville is putting forth its efforts to get industries through the G.T.R. We desire to get for Belleville all we can. Let us do our best to outdo Brockville. The money we expend in regard to this function will return to the city one hundred fold.

Ald. McCreary—The citizens should make a presentation to Mr. Robb, and it could be done by private subscription.

DISTILLERY RECEIVES LIQUOR CARGO

Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company, Limited at Cobourg came into possession of a consignment of liquor this morning which is once more their property. This consignment of liquor is the boat load which was seized at the Government wharf here last Spring, the result of which was the trial of George Woodward of Toronto, owner of the boat on an S.T.A. charge.

The liquor was placed in the former offices of the Provincial Police on Church Street, but was later placed in custody in a portion of the County Jail. This morning it was released after a having served some six or seven months, and will now be used in another service

Woodsworth, and the consignors, the Canadian Industrial Alcohol, Co. of Corbyville, were acquitted on the charges preferred against the O.T.A. as no case was made out against them, so the liquor seized must be returned to the former owners.

CONSTABLE'S CASE CONSIDERED

Commissioners Reduce Constable to the Status of a Probationer

At a meeting of the Police Commissioners yesterday at which Judge Deroche and Mayor Hanna were present, the following resolution in reference to constable Evans was adopted:

That the suspension of P. C. Evans made by Chief Kidd on the 17th day of November 1922, for conduct unbecoming a police constable be confirmed and that such suspension remain in force until the 1st day of December 1922, and that the said police constable W. F. Evans be reduced to the rank of a probationer constable and to remain so reduced until such time as the Board may direct otherwise.

REV. MAJOR BRUCE HUNTER ADDRESSES HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS

Inspiring Address Before Scholars in High School Auditorium This Afternoon

This afternoon at three o'clock the Rev. Major Bruce Hunter, delivered an address to the scholars of the High School in the Assembly Room. The students will be unable to be present at this evening's function of the unveiling of the memorial tablet, as the capacity of the hall is limited.

The Major delivered a very inspiring address on "The Heart of a Soldier." The soldier is characterized by the spirit of conviction, the spirit of loyalty, and the spirit of self sacrifice. Those virtues are all summed up in Sir Galahad.

Ald McCreary suggested that a presentation be made to Mr. Robb which would be worthy of our guest.

Rev. J. D. McMillan—The best present you could give Mr. Robb is the freedom of the city. By making this function a success we will be doing much for Belleville. We could take care of industries here and the G. T. R. is able to assist same. Brockville is putting forth its efforts to get industries through the G.T.R. We desire to get for Belleville all we can. Let us do our best to outdo Brockville. The money we expend in regard to this function will return to the city one hundred fold.

Ald. McCreary—The citizens should make a presentation to Mr. Robb, and it could be done by private subscription.

IRISH TELEGRAPH WIRES CUT

Dublin, Nov. 28.—Telegraphic communication between Dublin and all towns in the south and west of Ireland was interrupted today because of widespread wire cutting early this morning.

MUSIC and DRAMA

"AMERICAN BEAUTY" AS "EMPRESS OF FOOTLIGHTS"

Have you ever taken part in society benefit? Have you felt the thrill of a first performance before the footlights? Have you ever suffered from the agonizing self-consciousness when the curtain went up on your premiere stage performance?

If you have you will sympathize with the little "Wall Street" working girl who essayed the rôle of a musical comedy queen at a benefit staged by the "Four Hundred" at one of America's most fashionable summer resorts. That is the situation you will find in "The Beautiful Liar," Katherine MacDonald's latest comedy-drama for Associated First National, at the Regent Theatre last night, wherein the "American Beauty" takes the dual rôle of a broker's secretary and the empress of the footlights.

In order to help out a hotel manager, about to lose his job, the working girl agrees to impersonate the star and succeed for herself a month's vacation in the midst of the "upper class." How she succeeds in the masquerade, how a young millionaire falls in love with her, how complications set in when the real star returns in time to see what is being done, give the play a tang of excitement that makes it impossible to close the action for even a second.

"Circus Horses," an amusing Hallroom Boys comedy, a new chapter of "Hitchhike Across the World" and Pox News were exhibited during the evening.

THE STORM" IS DYNAMIC FILM STORY

House Peters Stars in Screen Version Of Great Stage Success

After all, a picture is essentially a story, and the plot therefore is the most important element. "The story's the thing."

"The Storm," coming as a Universal-Jewel attraction starring House Peters, to Griffin's this Thursday to Saturday, with a matinee Friday and Saturday, was adapted from the New York stage sensation of the same name. Theatrical history was made by the play, written by Langdon McCormick, it is grippingly dramatic, and besides the elements of simple drama there is woven into it the theme of two kinds of fear that men may feel toward women.

One man is the triangle of the story if afraid of women because he loves nothing of them, has never been anything of them. He's a woods-man, primitive and honest.

The other is the product of London and Paris society. He fears the gentle sex because he has "been too darned much of women."

The woman in the case is an innocent French Canadian girl, forced to live with the two men for four long months through being hemmed in by a snow-storm.

On this novel situation McCormick constructed a story that holds the interest to the last by its very unusualness.

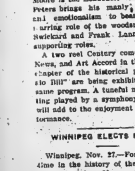

The reproduction of the snow-storm scene and the devastating forest fire establishes new records for sensation, action and thrills, even in these blase days. Throughout the action Director Barker has maintained the element of suspense so splendidly that even the most thrill-proof movie fan is going to sit spell-bound. Nothing like it has ever before been presented, and it is easy to understand the glowing combination of words on picture and drama since by the metropolitan press of the country.

Virginia Hall is the girl and Matt Moore is the Londoner, while House Peters brings his manly, dreadnaught embodiment to bear on the charming role of the woodsman. Josef Swickard and Frank Lanning have supporting roles.

A two reel Century comedy, Pathe News, and Art Accord in the opening chapter of the historical play "Buffalo Bill" are being exhibited on the same program. A tuneful musical setting played by a symphony orchestra will add to the enjoyment of the performance.

WINNIPEG ELECTS MAYOR

Winnipeg, Nov. 27.—For the first time in the history of the city, Winnipeg elected a Mayor endorsed by the Independent Labor Party, when S. J. Parapet, M.P.P.-elect, was returned as chief magistrate with a large majority over Alderman J. R. Sperling. Farmer's election is conceded by Sperling. Farmer was twice an unsuccessful candidate for Mayor.

EMPRESS OF BRITAIN SAILS

Quebec, Que., Nov. 27.—The Canadian Pacific 16,000 ton Empress of Britain is in command of Capt. J. Turnbull, C.B.E.R.D.R.N.R. sailed from Quebec this afternoon on a 415 o'clock sailing for Liverpool including 65 in the saloon. The Britain left on her last trip of the season for Cherbourg and Southampton. Among the saloon passengers were, Col. J. O. Smith, Canadian Immigration Agent General of London, and Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Britton the lightweight pugilist. The former gives no definite statements but in a general way expresses himself along the lines that he was returning to Europe to carry out an entire immigration scheme which would be put in operation forthwith.

The latter returns to Europe to visit his parents in Bohemia. He has not seen them in eight years. He also hopes to arrange for several fights in European countries.

LENGTHY SESSION CITY COUNCIL

BYLAWS

Ald Patterson introduced a Bylaw authorising the construction of a sanitary sewer on Charlotte street.

Ald. McCreary was chairman of the whole on Bylaws and the bylaw was passed through its various stages and numbered 2440.

MOTION

Moved by Ald. French, seconded by Ald. Patterson that the construction of the sanitary sewer on Charlotte Street be undertaken by the Public Works Committee.

Ald. Donahue—It would not be advisable to do it this season unless we had extra fine weather.

The motion prevailed.

The matter of the 5 per cent held back on James Street sewer contract was referred back to the city Engineer and Solicitor for report at the next meeting of the Council in accordance with the recommendation of the public works department.

A number of enquiries were asked and answered.

Ald. Greenleaf moved, seconded by Ald. French that the recommendation of the Committee of the whole, that the Council as a whole be a committee to meet the Police Commissioners in matters of interest to the city, be rescended and that the original recommendation be confirmed.—Carried.

Ald. Patterson moved, seconded by Ald. Thompson that the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association be given the use of the City Hall for their annual convention on January 4th and 5th.—Carried.

Ald. Robinson moved, seconded by Ald. Thompson that steps be taken to complete the Neal Dundas street sewer in a workmanship manner in order to put the sewer in a condition that will meet the requirements of the contract and specifications, and that a strict account be kept of the cost of the work.

Referred back to committee.

Ald. French moved, seconded by Ald. Patterson, that the construction of the sanitary sewer on Charlotte street be carried out by the Public Works Department.—Carried.

Ald. Donahue moved, seconded by Ald. Thompson that the City Engineer make an estimate of the cost of a relief drain on Memorial Park and if found that the Public Works department have sufficient money on hand to construct the drain that they be authorized to proceed with the work.—Carried.

Ald. McCreary moved, seconded by Ald. Greenleaf that a 500 Watt light with reflector be installed at Front and Bridge Streets, instead of a 250 Watt light as already authorized by the Council, said light to be an all night service.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Foster, seconded by Ald. McCreary that the city purchase 10 cars of coal as offered by the Rolsster Company with a view of selling same to the public, should there be a shortage of fuel this winter. The coal to sell at a nominal price.—Carried Council adjourned.

SINCLAIR'S

Afternoon Frocks .. of Distinction ..

Of Course Canton Crepe leads in the materials and how well it lends itself to the Scarcely draperied and floating panels. Charming indeed, are the styles with hardly two of our models alike. A Frock of Walnut Brown Canton accordeon pleats in the skirt, with a bit of henstitching about the blouse. A Navy one is effectively beaded with steel, while a Frock of Black Crepe and Radium Lace depends on a vivid flower and lace drapings for character. Of Periwinkle Blue is another with four pleated panels. These are only a few of a most complete and carefully selected collection of beautiful Frocks. $15.00 to $42.50

COATS That Satisfy

If it's an Ulster on English lines—we have it; if it's a Dress Coat—we have it, and the quality of every model is apparent. Of British Tweeds in all shades are the Barbaricles, Hurlingham, Chatsworths and Coon Collared Bromleighs $16.50—$55.00

For dress occasions the Braided French Velour takes first place. In Brown, Reindeer and Beaver, with peasant or bell sleeves, all-round or semi-belted, their collars are of warm Beaverette. $29.50—$50.00

Christmas Blankets

If Blankets appear on your list you should buy them now while there is a choice of colors. Kenwoods are popular because they do not felt nor shrink with laundering. In Plaids of Blue, Rose and White, or Rose, Tan and White, or combinations of Rose, Maize, Tan or Blue with White $8.25 each.

MOVEMENTS OF GRAIN IN THE WEST

Bumper Crop in West Creates Record Figures

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 24.—Since the opening of the crop year grain inspections of the Canadian Pacific western lines totalled 82,262 cars of which 72,- 084 cars were wheat. This is the greatest number of inspections for this period during the history of the grain movement on the western prairies, even exceeding the bumper crop year of 1915 when the total was 74,836 cars of which 68,170 were wheat. During the same period last year the total inspected was 58,022 cars of which 50,918 were wheat. On the loaded basis this year the Canadian Pacific Railway has handled 60.5 per cent of the inspections between September 1 and November 24, and 59.3 per cent of the total cars inspected. Out of the 72,084 cars of wheat inspected those containing No 1 Northern amounted to 46,936, the remaining were as follows:—Manitoba hard 141; No. 2 Northern, 8,472; No. 3 Northern, 4,056; No. 4 Northern, 3,431; No. 5 Northern, 995; No. 6 Northern, 29; No grade, 2,005 and durum, 1,262. Out of the total inspections of grain this year only 20 cars have been condemned while 1,099 cars were rejected. Sundry lots were presented 60 cars and feed 14 cars. There were rejected on account of sprouting 25 cars. Inspection at Prince Rupert totalled 574 cars, Saskatoon 257 cars, McGregor Hat 982, Edmonton 3, Vancouver 8 and Calgary 2029, the last being the point where export for the Orient is inspected. During the grain season this year the Canadian Pacific on its western lines has shipped or handed 127,967,267 bushels compared with 101,627 907 the 1915 crop year, while last year this total was only 80,- 390,017 bushels. By rail and boats the company has transported from the lake head this season 100,758,690 bushels of which 98,791,455 bushels were by water and 4,049,237 by rail. In 1915 there was shipped by rail and boat 61,172,320 bushels and in 1921 78,327,351 bushels from September 1 to November 21 grain cars loaded on the Canadian Pacific totalled 89,093 compared with 75,681 for same period in 1915 and 56,053 cars for last year. In these districts served by the Canadian Pacific western divisions there was marketed Thursday, Nov. 23, 1,548,183 bushels compared to 470,707 last year for the same day this year 13,060 cars were loaded while last year the figure was 345 cars.

MASQUERADES AS MAN, RECEIVES THIRTY DAYS

Winnipeg Girl Arrested in Montreal With Two Ottawa Youths

Montreal, Nov. 27.—Alice Martin, a twenty-year-old girl, who claims she is from Winnipeg, was sentenced by the Westmount police last night for masquerading in male attire in the company of two young men, who gave their names as Peter Trudeau, aged 22, and Rene Ouitet, aged 24. When apprehended the trio were loitering under the balcony of a house on Prince Albert avenue. Brought before Magistrate Boulton in the Westmount Police Court this morning, the masquerader received a thirty-day sentence, while her companions, neither of whom had a cent, were sentenced to 15 days in jail, with the option of a fine of $20. The girl's sex was not discovered until her stepmother was called to identify and searched at headquarters, aroused the suspicions of the police. Westmount authorities describe her as "the bunnest of the three bums."

Banquet and Reception

Mr. M. Robertson—This is an important occasion for the City of Belleville, and the city is honored by having Mr. Robb and other railway magnates visit the city. Over a million dollars is spent here yearly in wages, etc., by the G.T.R. We should do our part and double what Brockville is doing.

Mr. J. D. McMillan—The shops and other buildings of the G.T.R. will be open that day. Especially for that day a considerable sum, namely $400, will be expended for decorations, etc., at the G.T.R. station and library. This is not G.T.R. money but the library fund.

Mayor Hanna—The Council will do all in its power to make the affair a success.

Mr. Henry—Have a committee to look after cars also a committee on decorations.

Mr. A. McGie—The impression made that day will mean much for Belleville.

COMMITTEES SELECTED

Ald. Thompson, H. O. Scott and W. J. Moffatt were appointed a committee to look after some for the day.

Aldermen Patterson, Greenleaf and Mr. H. E. Fairfield were selected as a committee on decorations.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson thanked the Council for the courtesy extended the members of the Chamber of Commerce and the appointing of Committees. All found unite in making the event the success we desire to have it.

Mr. Henry suggested that a half holiday be observed on that day and especially in the schools. He also thought it would be fitting to assemble the children at the county home on that day. Robb might review them.

Mayor Hanna—The Council will do what it can in this regard.

Ida Ada Mc. Meeker died by asphixiating herself with gas at her home in Chicago.

C. OF C. COMMENCE SPECIAL SESSION

al up to 500 members. The campaign was conducted entirely by the Association's own men and at an extremely moderate cost.

The principal feature of the evening was an address given by Major Gordon Johnson, Canadian Trade Commissioner for Glasgow. Major Johnson outlined the work of the Department of Trade Commissioners at Ottawa, and the work of the representatives of this department who are located in various parts of the world.

A motion proposed by Mr. W. C Mikel, K. C., was unanimously endorsed. The resolution was, to invite those in charge to hold the 150th Anniversary of the United Empire Loyalists, settlers of Canada, here in Belleville.

Lieut. Col. W. N. Ponton, K.C. gave a brief, but suggestive address about the Immigration problem and urged that stronger efforts should be put forth to induce Immigration from the British Isles to Canada, and to prevent the migration of our Canadian population to the U. S. A.

Announcement was made by the Chairman, of the Banquet to be tendered to Mr. W. D. Robb, General Manager, G. T. R., by the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel Quinte on Monday evening, December 11th.

During the afternoon, it was stated that the G. T. R. shops here, will be thrown open to the general public and the staff will be pleased to welcome any citizens who may wish to inspect the shops.

A presentation of the Key to Belleville and the freedom of the city will be given to Mr. Robb at a time and place to be determined later by the committee.

It is expected that Sir Henry Thornton, Pres. of the Canadian National Railways, Sir Joseph Flavelle retiring Chairman of Board of Managers, and Hon. G. P. Graham, Acting Minister of Railway and Canals, will be present, and deliver addresses.

Some discussion took place with reference to the Marble Industry of Hastings County and the prospects of its development.

Towards the close of the meeting, the President invited suggestions as to means and methods that might be adopted to increase the interest in the Chamber of Commerce work on the part of the general membership.

"I Had Billous Attacks and Stomach Weakness"

Mrs. Wm. Robinson, Yorkton, Sask., writes: "I suffered from stomach and liver trouble, and used to have billous attacks so bad that I could do nothing for weeks at a time. Sometimes I was sick to such that not even a drink of water would stay on it. On my doctor's advice I began to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and must say that they have made me well and strong."

CLOSING THE U.F.O. STORES

The recent decision of the United Farmers of Ontario Co-operative, to discontinue operation of their retail stores throughout the Province, will surely cause dissension, unrest and lack of confidence in their ranks.

Departmental-store methods have not succeeded in this instance and should not have reasonably been expected to. The general manager, Mr. H. B. Clemes, is said to have admitted that these stores were one of the functions of the company which should confine operations to farmers' cattle, cream, etc., and not to sugar, cocoa, etc., and other products of the traders.

The stores conducted in the City of Toronto are responsible for the most of the losses incurred, but the produce branch at Morrisburg shows a deficit of over $11,000 and the live stock dealings at the Montreal branch augment the balance on the wrong side of the ledger.

Apparently one of the original ideas in the constructive business principles of this organization was to gradually eliminate the wholesaler, agent, merchant, tradesman and in some instances the manufacturer. Indeed, this has been all but accomplished in some sections. During the comparatively short time that the U.F.O. venture has been functioning, creameries, wholesale businesses, cold storage, flour mills, produce markets and auctions, commission sales depots, etc., were established and in conjunction a chain of retail stores have been in operation in Ontario.

Car-lots of various commodities were wholesaled, retailed and otherwise distributed, and, in all, an approximate total of $18,000,000 worth of business was transacted in a yearly period. It would appear to be economically impossible for any co-operative concern, not so particularly or very outstandingly qualified, dealing in such a plethora of commodities and in such magnitudes, and with such a number of shareholders to satisfy, to trade at any great profit. It seems like a case of the purchaser expecting to buy his own goods (and to re-buy some of them in fact) at prices lower than obtainable on a profitable business basis elsewhere, and to then expect reimbursement in dividends on the turnover of the enterprise generally. Anticipation has certainly proved to be greater than realization here. A seemingly laudable excuse may be expected to be advanced, that these schemes were launched in perilous business years. Quite true, but there must have been some short-sightedness somewhere in attempting to operate. The influence of many factors in determining prices has been abnormal. There have been many annoying features that have caused many well-merited projects to crumble, and fall to the ground. Budget adjustments with unforeseen and untried taxation clauses, long periods of credit, forced liquidations, the uncertainty of never buying, exchange fluctuations, panicky commodity markets, credit impairment, and many other imporant problems have severely taxed the expert minds of business men who have followed special lines of commerce that have been established for many years. Thus the past few years, practically unprecedented, have been out of season for the operation of such tremendous business schemes as planned by the U.F.O. This "broadening out" policy does not seem to go very well, either at Ottawa or Toronto, and now since these ventures have proved an expensive experiment both in Ontario and the West, those concerned will now awaken to the cold actualities of the old, old story about politics and business. The light of truth is spreading and while it is likely that no one in particular will be to blame, there will be many who through party affiliations and expectant co-partnerships will probably have the temerity to point out to their associates and friends the errors of their ways. When this is done someone is going to lose the prestige that was theirs. Mr. Crerar has already made his exit from Ottawa. Who is the next victim?—The piper must be paid.

PASSING COMMENT

The Progressives and Liberals who are endeavoring to arouse interest in party fusion may stage a quarrel to be followed by a split. The possibility of a snap vote will be closely watched by the whips in the coming session at Ottawa.

If Andy Gump is unseated in the recount now proceeding in his Congressional District he might institute a search for bogus ballot boxes in the country lakes. They are sometimes used in election campaigns and perhaps Simon Skink may have been induced to resort to such subterfuges. It was a hot election in his era. And may never have heard of bogus ballot boxes before. He can get valuable information from some "Old Timers" in this county if he so desires.

That report as to the attempted bribery of the Attorney-General of Manitoba should be thoroughly looked into. It may or may not be true, But the public wants to know the truth.

It is said that ten carloads of canned Chinese eggs have arrived at Toronto. What will happen when the lids are taken off? But the public would like the lid off the whole matter.

The masculine shivellers along Lake Erie who salvaged the whiskey bottles from a wrecked vessel while a woman saved the crew are saved from derision only by an ignoble anonymity.

Wrangell Island would be an appropriate place for the diplomats to hold the next conference.

If Kingston the public are still talking about saving daylight instead of saving for Christmas.

As a winter bathing resort the Dardanelles can always be depended on to keep the diplomats in hot water.

Whatever the Department of Justice may or may not do in the Merchants Bank case, the members of the court of last resort—the Parliament of Canada—assuredly will consider it.

It will be well for sufferers from diabetes who are hearing of insulin as a cure for it to remember that trials of it are going on in the hospitals; the results of these should be waited for.

HERE AND THERE

THE LAZIEST MAN.

Speaking of his first visit to the United States, Lord Dunraven, who is a "good mixer," as his American friends would say, tells an amusing story:—

"Even in that first visit I made some friendships that have lasted. One very queer friend I made in New York—the laziest man I ever met. I went to see him one afternoon and found him in bed. 'What is the matter? Oh, nothing,' he said. 'I am not going to get up any more. What is the use? I get up in the morning and have all the trouble of dressing—look about my rooms a bit, dress some more and go out, and load about and have a cocktail and lunch somewhere; come home and shift into another kind of kit, and pay a visit or two, and have tea; home again, and undress, and dress all over again; go and dine at a club; come home and undress, and go to bed—life is all getting up and going to bed, and dressing and undressing, and I am sick and tired of it. I have come to bed. It is very comfortable, and there I mean to stay.' And I believe he did."—John O'Londen's Weekly.

ON LOSING THINGS.

We have just read that there was once a man who pinned up the French verbs on one side of his study door and the Italian on the other. He claimed that he learned these two languages as he went in and out of the room.

His boast was that he never lost time; but the disorder of such boasting is that there are other things to be lost besides time. A man in a hurry, a man always occupied, may lose his own soul. We much prefer the idea of a man who capered over the portal of his front door the very beautiful words:

Enter, O Lord, my house with me
That I may enter Thine with Thee.

That man may have lost time, but he was not a stranger in his own mind. He could enter freely, and find it filled with ideas which were like cheerful guests, gracious with welcomes.—The Canadian.

TWO PREMIERS.

In these highly-exciting political days the following reminiscence of Beaconsfield and Gladstone has a special interest. The author had made his first speech in the House of Lords, which was a success. Lord Beaconsfield, then Premier, sent "Tommy" Wolff and an intimation to come to see him in Downing Street whenever he liked:—

"Of course, I looked upon that invitation as something florid politeness; but some days after the Prime Minister stopped me when leaving the House and asked why I had not been to see him. I said naturally that I was going to bother a Prime Minister. He replied, 'I mean what I say. I would like your friendship, and I hope you will value and cherish mine.' Whether he really wanted it or not I very often felt doubtful, and wondered whether it was not an oriental flowery figure of speech. It was, at any rate, a very pleasant form of reception, very different from that of his great rival on the only occasion on which I saw him on a matter of public business. Gladstone rushed into the room brandishing a bundle of proofs. 'I am very busy correcting proofs; what can I do for you?' 'If you are so busy,' I said, 'shall I come another time?' 'I am always busy, just as busy; what is it you want?'"—John O'London's Weekly.

A LEAF.

It floats upon the stream, down winding way
Where Autumn's silence calls it to its fate;
Clothed in crimson splendor, far to stray,
Fallen from its lofty, swaying state.
Upon the tree, when all the world was gay,
It lived in darkness, deep and sunny hours,
Dancing its youthful measure all thro' May—
Above the sparkling plain—the breath of flowers.
It lifted a cozy roof at Autumn's touch,
And trembled at the wind's ardent caress,
To live forever on the tree! Oh, such
Is not its destiny! In quietness
Down wildling away, it floats upon the stream—
Close-wrapped within the mystery of Death,
Oh, tell me, do you yearn to believe and hope?
Again of joys—priceless as living breath?

PRESS OPINIONS

MUNICIPAL CANDIDATES.

(Peterborough Examiner.)

The contention that there should be an early start in the campaign to secure capable municipal candidates is met by the objection that so long as half of the electors refuse to take enough interest in the matter to exercise their franchise, there is little use in trying to induce good men to offer their services.

Undoubtedly that is a serious weakness.

Citizens who are capable of good service in the municipal government hesitate to allow their names to go before the people realizing that many of those electors who should support them will neglect to vote.

Thus the opportunity to secure qualified candidates with business training and experience is often lost.

Cannot that handicap be overcome, as in the interest of Peterborough it should be overcame?

The ratepayers' association in each ward might do much to solve the problem.

If in each of the five wards of Peterborough a little coterie of public-spirited citizens could get together and plan out an organization that would help to dig up good candidates, and then get the vote out and help to elect them, much might be accomplished.

The old haphazard method of getting affairs drift along until nomination day, and trust to luck that enough capable men will come along of their own accord to offer themselves as candidates, has long out-lived its usefulness, if it ever had any.

So long as we in Peterborough are content to adhere by that weather-beaten, moth-eaten, leave-it-to-Providence system, we cannot spect our municipal bodies to be even thoroughly representative, let alone capable and efficient.

SIR ADAM IN TORONTO.

(Toronto Star.)

Sir Adam Beck left the city council chamber in disgust because the chairman would not let him take part in the debates. During the past year Sir Adam has been "sitting in" at council meetings, speaking when he liked, and in fact doing everything but vote. He should have been slapped long ago. What ratepayer of Toronto could get to council meetings and keep interjecting remarks without being expelled from the chamber

WIT AND HUMOR

Well Remunerated.

The second visitor read the bill through in all its horrible detail, while the landlady watched for signs of weather.

But there was no storm. All he said was, "Ah, well, madam, I am glad you have enjoyed our stay here."

No Maybe No Love.

Old Crusty—"You want me for my daughter? Why, young man at your present salary, you could not even board her."

Suitor—"Oh, yes, sir! I could keep her in above."

Old Crusty—"Above! Where do you mean, sir?"

Suitor—"Well, I asked for her hand."

Clever Dodge.

"I sent ten cents to the fellow who advertised to tell you how to take out wrinkles in the face."

"And did he tell you?"

He did. He said, 'Walk out in the open air at least once a day, the wrinkles will go out with you.'"

Stronger Half.

"Really," said the worried husband, "you do nothing but spend money. First you make me take a box at the theatre, then you drag me to supper, and now, to complete the extravagance you want a taxi. I ask you seriously, where is this going to end?"

"Home, darling," was the wife's exasperating reply as she stifled a yawn.

No Argument.

In the county court a man declared that he did not sign certain document, whereupon counsel triumphantly showed it to him and said:

"See, did you sign that document?"

"No."

"Will you swear to that?"

"Yes."

"Why are you so certain?"

"Because I can't write."

Pen-Arranger.

An old Scotchwoman was told that her minister used notes, but would not believe it. Said one: "Gang into the gallery an' see." She did so, and saw the written sermon.

After the luckless preacher had concluded his reading of the last page, he said, "But I will not en large."

The old woman called out from her lofty position, "Ye canna' en canna', for your paper's gireout!"

TO A MERRY CLAN.

Singing heart and singing lips,
Skies of grey or blue,
Singing tears and tears away,
Finding joy in every day—
Here's my song to you!

The roads of life must often lie
Weary for the feet,
But a comrade with a song
Can make the long miles fleet.

Over the twilight miles come down
Love with a song can make
The Heavens, silent in the dusk,
To thrill to human break.

The mighty harps whose strains
Were thrilled
The world with wondrous art
Serve, made no greater than the lips
That cheer a lonely heart.

And songs that lighten toil and care
Are echoes caught from far,
Beyond the verges of our days,
Beyond the evening star!

Singing lips and singing heart,
Days of grey or blue,
Singing tears and tears away,
Finding in December May.—
Here's my song to you!

LAMB STEW A LA CREOLE

Wipe 3 lbs. lamb, cut from neck or shoulders. Cut into pieces 2 in. square. Melt ¼ cup dripping, add meat and stir and brown evenly. Add 2 onions thinly sliced, 1 sprig parsley, small bit bay leaf, 2 cloves and ½ teaspoon peppercorns (tie the last 3 spices in a bit of cheese cloth) and boiling water to nearly cover meat. Simmer slowly until meat is tender, (about 1¼ hours). Then add 2 or 3 small carrots, scraped and cut in lengthwise pieces, season with salt. Parboil 6 medium-sized potatoes cut in thick slices, 5 minutes, drain, add to stew; add 2 cups thick tomato puree and simmer slowly until vegetables are tender. Add more water if necessary. Remove spices, add 1 cup French peas when heated through, turn into deep, hot platter and sprinkle with chopped parsley.

The Daily Recipe

DELICIOUS STEAK DISH

Two lbs. of round steak, tomatoes, grated cheese, tiny onions, small carrots, parsley, asparagus tips, salt and pepper. Have the steak cut about 2 inches thick. Rub some salt and pepper into it, place in a baking dish, add about a cup of water and little chopped suet and let it bake for half an hour, then cover with the onions and scraped carrots and cook another half-hour, adding more water if needed. Now put a layer of tomatoes and asparagus tips, cover with buttered bread crumbs to which a tablespoon of grated cheese has been added. Bake 20 minutes, remove carefully to a platter, sprinkle over with parsley and serve with brown gravy made with the liquor in the dish. The tomatoes or asparagus may be omitted if desired and the steak be very savory.

NOISY MOTOR CYCLES

It is a curious fact that the smallest motors are generally the noisiest. A large wagon will get along with only a fraction of the noise made by an ordinary motor cycle. Consequently it has been found necessary in Great Britain and elsewhere to impose legislation involving the fitting of adequate silencers to motor cycles. Many prosecutions have taken place lately against motor cyclists on the ground of excessive noise, but the defence has been put forward that the silencers fitted were of standard make and that the noise was not really abnormal. From this situation there has arisen a demand for an instrument which would accurately measure the degree of noise and so enable some degree of uniformity in legislation to be put into force. To meet this need an ingenious instrument, known as the Audiometer, has been devised into service. This was first designed by a British inventor to enable the noises on underground railways to be investigated. The investigation has already led to very useful results, and the instrument is likely to become a regular feature in connection with the reduction of motor cycle noise. Incidentally the instrument has elicited the fact that the hearing of different people varies very considerably and also that the hearing of each individual changes under different conditions. Many people, for example, cannot hear so well immediately after a meal as at other times.

IRISH CONSTITUENT

London, Nov. 23.—The bill setting up for the constitution of the Irish Free State and known as the Constituent Act, was published here today, and provides for the temporary continuation of the present system of legislation and gives the Irish Free State power to adopt acts applicable to all or dominions.

It is declared that the National language in the Free State shall be Irish, with English given equal recognition as an official tongue. Parliament will consist of the King and two houses, Chamber of Deputies and Senate, known generally as Oireachtas.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE MAKES PROGRESS IN MEXICO

Mexico City, Nov. 27.—The woman's suffrage movement is making some progress in Mexico, but high government officials have declared that the time is not yet ripe to grant the franchise to women. For several years a desultory propaganda to this end has been conducted, but the movement received its greatest impetus recently when Senator Nieto, governor of the state of San Luis Potosi and recently declined in the treasury, submitted a project to his state legislature providing for woman suffrage.

Governor Nieto's action provoked much discussion in the press, and it believes it will fail of passage. Secretary of Interior Calles stated recently to newspapermen that, although he strongly favors woman's suffrage, he is of the opinion that a great deal of educational work must be done before it can be accomplished.

The state of Yucatan extended the vote to women several years ago but reports from that state say it has not been generally used.

WAYS OF SERVING OYSTERS

Oysters are frequently eaten raw as a relish for the first course, which affords a delicious morsel, but is the better economy to cook them in one of the appetizing ways in which they can be made to yield more nourishment and contribute an important part of a meal at which they are served, or they may be so cooked that they form a meal in themselves without anything else. They give variety to the diet and are a boon to the housekeeper who is tired of ringing the changes on beef, mutton and pork.

There are many new ways of cooking oysters that are not generally known, in addition to being used as a relish, fried and stewed, they can be baked, broiled, scalloped, fricasseed, pickled, panned, roasted, grilled, made into croquettes, used in pies alone or with other fish or meat, made into patties, tarts, puddings, served with vegetables or eggs, used on toast, made into stuffing, used as a garnish, spiced or jellied for a relish, or baked in the shells. These are a few of the methods of preparing the way in which they can be used.

Pigs in Blankets

Drain twelve oysters, wrap dry and lay each oyster across a thin slice of bacon. Sprinkle with paprika and chopped parsley. Roll each oyster in bacon, securing with a wooden toothpick. Brown slowly in oven and serve very hot.

Oyster Balls

Stew one quart oysters and chop fine. Take two cold potatoes, mash and mash them, and rub through a sieve. Then add one-half cupful thick cream, pulse of four eggs, the oysters, one tablespoonful chopped parsley and seasoning of salt, pepper and grated nutmeg. Mix well mixed, form into small balls, then flour them and fry in smoking hot fat.

MANY MUNICIPAL NOMINATIONS

Municipal nominations for civic offices will be made yesterday in Guelph, Windsor, Brockville, Port Arthur, Kingston, Niagara Falls and other points throughout Ontario. Interfields are prevalent. At Niagara Falls, the City Manager form of government will go into effect.

LINKED LIVES

By D. Kinmount Roy

When at last he was able to strike a light the wonder of their surroundings was overwhelming to Oona, who saw it under such startling circumstances and for the first time.

They were in a grand cathedral-like cavern, over four hundred feet in its length, and perhaps a hundred and fifty feet wide and nearly a hundred feet in height. The floor was of fine sand and small round pebbles, and as regular as if it had been intended for a ballroom. To reach it they had made a descent of five hundred or more, through a well-like chasm which few would attempt at any time on their own with a human burden. Nothing, indeed, but dire necessity could induce any one to make the attempt. The descent had been unusually dry, and the volume of water which found its way into this strange abyss was correspondingly so reduced that the perilous journey was made under the most favourable conditions. Had it not been so, it is doubtful whether MacAlpin, with all his daring would have ventured even under the severe pressure of the moment.

From the main cathedral-like expanse there were winding galleries and almost regular stairs or steps, and subcaves and openings in bewildering abundance which bewildered all but MacAlpin's directions, giving to the whole an almost limitless aspect of vastness.

The situation was weird and awe-inspiring in the extreme, with ghostly shadows and yawning chambers, not fathomed by the hand of man, and of which few human eyes had ever seen.

The little cascade through which they had in a measure passed was now no more to them than a thin veil of sparkling beauty spread over the rocks and blown into millions of diamonds by some invisible breath, and glowing in innumerable prisms of unspeakable loveliness. A story of wonders hid from human eyes, it was indeed an enchanted Castle of Sorcery in which MacAlpin had brought her, and of which she would speak to wondering listeners in afterdays.

By a long detour of many miles these wonderful caves could be reached by any one in the secret of the labyrinth of paths which led to them, but there had been no time to reach them in that way now. It was evident that they had been used at some time in the past by smugglers or perhaps robbers; but for as long as MacAlpin could remember their existence was regarded as a myth, and even the Island of Two Streams was so protected by superstition dread that the clue to the caves had long been lost. Nor is this much to be wondered at, for in those days everything in the realm of nature was little known, and it has been left to modern science to interpret these manifestations of hidden forces to the eager intelligence of our own time.

darkness more than once since his last interview with the squire, and had made preparations in case of such need as now existed, so that some measure of safety and comfort was secured, as well as shelter and safety. When it was unsafe to remain in the island, he made the long journey by the winding paths we have mentioned, and which he in fact had discovered working gems, and save for the chance intrusion had been left in sole possession of the wild creatures of the wilds.

Graham followed slowly and painfully. He would have followed MacAlpin anywhere in the service of Oona. His amazement when he recovered his breath was extreme, and the story he had been in all his canvassing had he been through an experience so awesome and extraordinary, he had be very much afraid of a man who had penetrated in like manner into the heart of the world, and who at the same time was possessed of such a power over the forces of nature. He had seen many things in his time, but something that's all he could not understand, and a pallid light upon his face that was not there when he had left him in the morning.

The Short Story Jr.

JEANNETTE'S ALLOWANCE

All my life I have wanted an allowance. I had a father strict and old-fashioned, though, and he said he would rather I'd come to him when I wanted money. He really is a dear and almost always gave me what I ask for, but just the same I thought it would be nicer to have an allowance, so this fall I brought up the subject again.

I was surprised when mother took my part. "Yes, Charles," she said, "now that Jeannette is in high school I believe it would be a good thing to give her an allowance."

"All right," Dad agreed, "I guess maybe she is old enough now. I'll give her five dollars a week."

I thought Dad was very generous. I knew I had never asked for that much spending money in a week. "But you'll have to save it and buy all your Christmas presents yourself," he added.

"Oh, of course," I cried, "why I can buy my own clothes on $20 a month."

Dad only said, "We'll see," and looked at mother. He paid me my first week's allowance right away. I had never had a whole five dollar bill to spend in any way I chose before. I called up Lillian and we decided to go down town. Lillian asked her father for the price of a movie—she doesn't have an allowance yet.

I was feeling so rich that I told her I would treat her. Then I bought some candy and nuts, and, as Lillian still had the money her father had given her and we had more than I knew what to do with, we decided we would go out to the store for a little while. I was surprised when we left the park to discover that I had only two dollars and fifteen cents left. A poor cripple was on the corner so I gave him the fifteen cents and went home with just $2.00.

That would have kept me going perfectly well for the rest of the week, but the very next day Miss Clark announced that we would have to have a new history book, and the price was $2.65. I told mother, and she said that was what my allowance was for. I didn't know what to do. Lillian offered to lend me a nickel until next week, so I didn't have to ask dad.

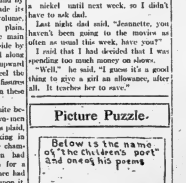

Last night dad said, "Jeannette, you haven't been going to the movies as often as usual this week, have you?"

I said that I had decided that I was not going to go much except on Saturday.

"Well," he said, "I guess it's a good thing to give a girl an allowance, after all. It teaches her to save."

Gifts Mother Would Like

A recipe box for mother will please her so much more if some of your own work has gone into the making of it. Any cabinet at the left of the picture is just an ordinary wooden file box for recipe cards. It is more attractive and much handier than a cook book.

This, as well as the other gifts, is painted with enamelac or sealing wax paints. The sealing wax paints you can make yourself by buying sealing wax sticks in yellow, blue black and white. Break each stick into three or four pieces, place in a small cup, and cover with denatured alcohol. Let the mixture stand overnight and by morning the paints are ready to use. Make them the right thickness by adding a little more alcohol, if necessary.

Paint Chel on Cabinet

For the cabinet, use the blue paint or green enamelac. On this paint the little white-painted chel with a puffy white cap and a big yellow plum pudding. If you do not draw very well, cut from a magazine a small figure with cook's cap and apron. Place it on the box while the paint is still wet, and when the box has dried paint over the little figure carefully with black, using a fine brush.

You might make for mother or aunt a bread board and knife decorated with a butterfly and daisy design in white, yellow, and green. A yellow border, is painted around the edge of the board. White butterflies edged in black, and yellow daisies with black centers are painted on, as shown in the picture above. Cut-outs can be pasted on and colored, as suggested for the recipe box. The handle of the knife is painted yellow, and the design is painted in blue and black.

Make Over a Crumb Tray

A white enameled crumb tray may be beautified by painting with paper cuts. The edge of the handle is painted black. The petals should be yellow edged with black, with the centers black.

If you had to buy any of these handpainted gifts, they would cost more than most girls can make their pocketbooks cover at Christmastime, but, if you like to work with paints you can make delightful presents at very little expense. The sealing wax costs about eight cents a stick, and the articles to be painted can be purchased at any variety store.

KINGSTON FEARS "ECCLES" IS LOST

Kingston, Nov. 28, 2.45 p.m.—No further word has been received in the city about the fate of the schooner Katie Eccles in charge of Captain Mitchell of Portsmouth. Many marine men are of the opinion that the steamer is lost but there are others of the opinion that she is lying in somewhere for shelter.

A PURE HARD SOAP

SURPRISE Soap

Real Good Soap

A Big Bar of Good Soap—Bright, solid soap with fine lathering and cleansing qualities for the family wash and household use.

For use in washing machines shave or slice a portion of the "SURPRISE" bar direct to the machine—It will do fine work.

Soak the Dirt out.

THERE is such a simple easy way of washing rompers, school ginghams, play clothes, etc., that you won't mind how many there are—thanks to Rinso.

First, make the wonderful Rinso liquid. Take half a packet of Rinso, thoroughly dissolve it in cool water, and add three quarts of boiling water. Then lay your clothes to soak in the tub of cool or lukewarm water. After one, two or three hours or in the morning give them a thorough rinsing and the dirt just runs away. No need to rub on the wash board so that holes come and colour goes.

Rinso is a wonderful product, scientifically made to wash clothes by soaking — different from soaps, chips and washing powders, and used differently.

Do not put Rinso into the tub from the package, but make the Rinso liquid first.

IF YOU HAVE A WASHING MACHINE.

Follow directions as above. After soaking the clothes wring them into machine, add enough fresh Rinso liquid, operate and rinse, and you will have the sweetest, cleanest clothes you ever saw.

QUEEN'S MEN SEE BIG GAME

After Riding "Beams" on Freight Trains to the Queen City, and Pooling Resources

Kingston Standard tells rather a good story in connection with the big Queen's-Argos Rugby game on Saturday. It states:

Long on enthusiasm but short of cash six Queen's students left this city on Friday night and proceeded to get to Toronto by freight train. They succeeded in eluding trainmen and railway guards and reached Toronto about noon on Saturday. When they reached the King Edward Hotel they were greeted by the Kingston crowd there and they at once proceeded to pool their resources. They had just $5 among them, in fact this amount was discovered by three of them the others being "dry."

Pinning their faith to their favorites the doughty Queen's team in the gruelling battle ahead, the sextette soon found a Toronto man who was wagering seven to five on the result of the game and holder of the "pot," the only five dollars they had between them and Kingston, immediately staked it on Queen's. The result was that the sextette owned $12 after the game and their enthusiasm was unbounded.

Quite different was the plight of four other students who made up a party on Friday and who also proceeded by way of freight trains to Toronto. They were not so successful, obstacles held them up, train connections were bad, railway men and guards were not so friendly, and the result was that they did not arrive in Toronto till about six o'clock in the evening, long after the game was over. When the "travellers" reached the quarters of the team they were disappointed over not having arrived in time for the game, but they were cheered by its result. Willing friends soon told them of the great features of the struggle and in the general rejoicing they soon forgot the difficulties which had encompassed them on the way and their disappointment at not seeing the game.

Both parties were able to return to the city on the regular train with the first of the fans.

REDS WIN BOWLING GAME

Last night's game at the Y.M.C.A. Bowling Alleys, between the Printers and the "Y" Reds was a closely contested affair. The Reds took the first game. The Printers came right back and annexed the second. However, by making a strong finish, in the last game of the series, the Reds managed to pull out a win by a narrow margin. For the Printers, Wentworth gave a strong lead, rolling 373 for the three strings. Gilbert, of the Reds, led off his teammates with 339 for three strings. Pearson also bowled.

Tonight's game will be Excelsiors vs. Ritchie's.

WILL CONACHER TURN PRO?

Canadiens After Him Red Hot and Ottawa Amateurs After Him for Next Year's Rugby

Ottawa, Nov. 28.—The Ottawa Journal, on its sports page Monday carried the following:

"Lionel Conacher is coming to Ottawa, according to a well-founded report in circulation yesterday. In fact, it is stated that a position has been secured for him here, and Conacher will be tired of Toronto where his efforts have gone unappreciated in the main. Conacher has been reported going to Montreal, Hamilton and other centres, but this is the first time that Ottawa has definitely been hinted as his future residence. The Journal was skeptical of the report till its source was disclosed, and is in a position to state that a great effort is being made to bring him to Ottawa. With Conacher, Ottawa would have one sweet rugby team to look forward to next year."

Then again it is reported that Leo Dandurand of the Canadiens is hard on the trail of Conacher and wants him for his Habitants. Last night he talked for a considerable time with Conacher over the long distance phone and would not take no for an answer. When Conacher refused to waver Dandurand made the conversation fly stating he would come up to-day and would see Conacher this evening. He also added the information that he would make the local boy the biggest offer he has ever had to turn down. Close friends of Conacher state that he will not consider the offer, no matter how much the Montreal owner unloosens the purse strings, as he has completed arrangements whereby he will go into business for himself at the first of the month.

QUEEN'S OUT FOR PRACTISE.

Three Players Slightly Used Up But Not Seriously Handicapped

Queens Rugby team, victors over Argonauts, are holding their first practice in preparation for the final game with Edmonton Eskimos next Saturday, this afternoon. The players are training again, in the arena and are confident that they will put the Western winners on the shelf in quick order. Apart from McKelvey, McLeod and Carson, the team is in splendid shape. McKelvey and McLeod both received kicks in the back, while Carson got a black eye during the game, but the injuries are not serious. McLeod will probably rest up until Wednesday.

Coach Billy Hughes went to his home in Montreal over the week-end and will doubtless return today. Queen's are determined to cop the Dominion title and look for a great victory on Saturday. The seating capacity of the stadium will probably be increased, but as yet no definite arrangements have been made. At present the ground is covered with a couple of inches of snow, but the field is expected to be in fast shape for the game.

Skating on C.C.M. Chrome Nickel Steel Is Exhilarating

As one enthusiastic skater said: "Skating on C. C. M. Automobile Skates is just like flying. You glide along with hardly an effort."

Much of this exhilarating difference is the result of the steel used.

C. C. M. Automobile Skates are made of Special Chrome Nickel Steel as used in the costliest motor cars and the finest edge tools.

This steel takes a hard, keen, knife-like edge that grips the ice so you get full power out of every stroke. And it glides along the ice with marvelous ease and swiftness.

While hard as glass on the outside C. C. M. Skates are not brittle. The ingenious C. C. M. heat-treatment leaves an interior "core" of tough steel, that makes C. C. M. Skates practically unbreakable.

You've maybe skated on your old skates a long time now. Why not put on a pair of C. C. M. Skates and enjoy the thrill of skating on Special Chrome Nickel Steel?

"Would Wake Up Screaming"

"The Least Sudden Noise or Loud Talking Would Startle Him."

"Up to the age of eight, my boy was a strong, healthy lad, full of life and energy. While playing leap frog one day with some boys of his own age, and, while in a stooped position, a big boy jumped on his back and in falling my boy caught his foot in an iron grating and dislocated his hip. The pain was so great that he fainted and the other boys were so frightened that they ran away. For hours he suffered terrible pain and when found and brought home was very weak, with his thigh and leg swollen twice its size. The doctor set the bone but the pain and exposure were too much for the poor boy and he became unconscious. A high fever set in and for weeks he lay between life and death, raving for hours at a stretch. One day he opened his eyes and murmured 'Mother,' but this is the only word he could utter he was so weak, but I knew the worst was over. He got stronger but for months was in a nervous condition. The least sudden noise or loud talking would startle him and he would begin trembling. He was quite lame and the swelling still remained. The doctor gave him a tonic and told me to rub the leg with olive oil. This reduced the swelling and took away the lameness, but the nervousness remained. The poor child would waken in the night screaming at the top of his voice. The doctor gave him several different tonics but they were no use. I finally got a circular about Carnol and it seemed so different from other tonics I had heard of, that I thought I would get a bottle. Three bottles were all that was needed to make my boy like his own self again. It is hard to convince my friends that the change in him now is entirely due to Carnol. Of course I still have to watch him and give him Carnol occasionally but I know that he will soon be as strong again as ever he was."

Mrs. P., Montreal.

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 2-22

"HIS MAJESTY" AT GRIFFIN'S

Excellent Presentation Given Last Night to a Fair Attendance

Last night the Rex Stock Co. played "His Majesty" and it is easily one of the best offerings we have had from this company to date. It was somewhat disappointing to the play-goers and the manner to them the scene only a little more than three quarters filled. The offering, last night was excellent, and the whole company showed up to excellent advantage. The cast of characters somewhat exceeds the number of the members of the Rex company which necessitated two characters each being taken by members of the actors.

The play has a well designed plot running throughout and holds the interest of the audience till the last act is completed. The show is a long one too, the curtain rose at 8:15 and the performance was not concluded till after eleven. Rex Hesgrove as Prince Beau, Wm. Yale as "Pop" and Miss Swaggie as The Flapper took the honey parts and executed them to the King's taste. Worthy also of special mention are Joe Kelley as The Waiter and Balthasar, and Florence Winters as Gramma and the Countess. The other members of the company also did excellently and it is almost unfair to select any one in particular as being better than the others. The whole company appears well balanced and is improving every week, it seems.

The vaudeville presentation last night was also worthy of note. Joe Kelley and Gloria Machan gave instrumental duets and solos with two special pianos. They are both excellent pianists and seem equally at home in jazzy ragtime or in the classical music. It was a treat to hear them.

This company deserves better patronage than was given last night. It is hoped that there will be a full house to-night and to-morrow.

GREEK MINISTERS EXECUTED AND BRITISH REPRESENTATIVE LEAVES

London, Nov. 28.—The Greek former ministers condemned to death by a military court at Athens have been executed, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Athens this afternoon. It was stated here that the immediate withdrawal of the British minister at Athens will result from these executions.

London, Nov. 28.—The British Minister at Athens, F. O. Lindley, recently informed the Greek Government that if the prisoners were executed he would depart. Upon receipt of the news of the executions the Foreign office stated that Mr. Lindley had probably already left the capital.

Athens, Nov. 28 (Later)—Six former Cabinet officers and army officials convicted of high treason in connection with the Greek military disaster in Asia Minor were executed today.

XMAS BUYING

The buying public should now begin to arrange their Xmas shopping. Belleville merchants have provided a good display and a careful selection and wide range of quality goods is available for the season.

To relieve congestion in the stores, the "shop early" slogan should be adopted. Christmas buyers would be well advised to read the advertisements appearing daily in The Intelligencer. Study carefully the interesting announcements and store thoughts the merchants wish to convey to you, plan your purchases, visit the shops, inspect the displays of gift goods. Then buy and Buy in Belleville.

While an extensive Xmas trade is looked for the Holiday shopping from city and country will greatly assist the merchants and their clerks by shopping early in this busy season to the mutual benefit of all.

The... Public!

Has to a great extent, come to the realization that glasses are only a part of ocular service. Glasses must not be picked from a tray ready to wear. Before a prescription can be written there must be a thorough examination made by a competent professional man, who has secured special training for this work. Our ocular service is not a merchandising business; our examination is not only thorough but is careful, and is backed by 29 years' daily practice and the most modern scientific instruments.

UNVEILING OF TABLET.

At the High School building this evening a memorial tablet will be unveiled at 7 o'clock. The tablet is to commemorate the pupils of the school who gave their lives in defence of humanity during the great war. Rev. Bruce Hunter will deliver the address.

COUNTY COUNCIL MATTERS.

It is stated that the County Council will meet next Tuesday, Dec. 5, at Shire Hall with Warden Kells in the chair. When this session closes it is likely that the majority of the present incumbents will go back to their electors for next year's Council. The present unsettled condition of politics both in the Dominion House and the Provincial Legislature does not seem to materially affect county affairs.

County Court is scheduled to open on Tuesday, December 12th, two weeks from today. Several cases appear on the lists.

THIS MAN SELLS PICTURES

Citizens of the West side of this city have complained during the past few days about a stranger who is going the rounds over on that side of the city selling water color paintings. He represents himself as a patient at the Christie street Military Hospital of Toronto, and states that he is a returned soldier. In connection with a hard luck story, he offers pictures for sale. The price of the pictures vary from one door from 25 cents to $1.00 each. Several Bellevillians state that this gentleman must have overseen a good deal of territory if his statements relative to his travels are to be believed. A few odd Jaunts to England, United States, the Antipodes are more passing incidents in his young mind. He is offering special bargains in all sizes and if citizens wish their physiog enlarged for contests. A Conservative won the seat in 1908 and was re-elected in 1911. In 1917 a Conservative, Dr. A. E. Hunter, carried the present riding by 3,207 votes. He was succeeded by the late Hon. J. A. Stewart at a by-election in 1918. Mr. Stewart was then returned by acclamation, but in 1921, he carried Lanark by a majority of 2,655 in a three-cornered fight. He polled 9,250 votes against 6,813 polled by Dr. Preston, a Progressive, and 154 by Ferguson, a Labor candidate.

The Progressives were unable in the Federal general election to repeat the victory which they had secured at the Provincial general election only a year before, in October, 1919, when they carried both Lanarks and succeeded in defeating the veteran Hon. Dr. Preston in North Lanark by 83 votes in a three-cornered contest.

The Progressive have refrained from nominating a candidate at the by-election to be held on Monday next, and the Liberals have taken the field with David Findlay, of Carleton Place, a personally popular manufacturer, as their candidate. They are hoping however they did not oppose the Progressive candidate in 1921, to secure a considerable proportion of Progressive votes and to swing in line behind the Liberal banner men who left the Conservative party to join the Progressive or United Farmers' forces, because they thought they might promote the interests of the farming community by organizing an Agrarian party. Premier King and his supporters, it is said, are proclaiming their friendship for the Progressives and pointing to the passage of the Crow's Nest Pass and Wheat Board legislation of last session, chiefly for the benefit of the Western provinces as evidence of that friendship. On the other hand, it is pointed out that the standing of the parties in the House of Commons last session was: Grits 117, Progressives 65, Conservatives 50, Labor 2. The Liberals, thus, were actually in a minority of one in the whole House.

Christmas now in the time. Their pockets will be lighter at the finish anyway.

Obsequies

LORETTA B. ROSS

The funeral of the late Miss Loretta Blanche Ross took place this morning from the family residence, 71 Geddes street and was attended by many relatives and friends. At St. Michael's Church Rev. Father Killen conducted services and at St. James Cemetery Rev. Father Whalan officiated. The bearers were S. Curry, T. Christie J. Boyle, L. Manley, T. McDermid and R. Ross.

MRS. BISCOMBE

The body of Mrs. Biscombe was this afternoon consigned to the tomb at Belleville cemetery. At the residence of Mr. Barrager, Pinnacle street a service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Malott, Pastor of Bridge Street church. The funeral was of a private nature.

Beware Infectious COUGHS

Do you realise the risk you run riding in a crowded train, or street-car without a Pepsodent in your mouth?
Every sneeze, every cough, fills the air you breathe with countless disease-germs that immediately make for your throat and chest. Be wise, always carry Peps, and occasionally let one of these germ-killing tablets dissolve in your mouth to ward off the infection. Then you will not be a "pall of cold" on the morrow, win the possibility of influenza, pleurisy or pneumonia.
Just as you breathe in the germs that cause tuberculous throat and lung ailment, etc., so you must breathe the soothing germ-killing Peppermint-essence to protect the germs the saliva and heal many of the sudden colds, bronchial coughs, sore throat, laryngitis, night cough, hoarseness, and chills, grippe, sore throat and chest weakness in old and young whooping, bronchitis and chest weakness in old and young.
Of all Druggists and Dealers, or the Peps Co., Bathurst Street, Toronto.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT CANADA CEMENT WORKS

Life Crushed Out of Alphonsus L. McWilliams, an Employee at the Plant

At the Canadian Cement Company Plant at Point Anne a fatal accident occurred last evening resulting in the death of a young man named Alphonsus Legouis McWilliams, aged 21 years and 9 months. The victim was engaged as a fireman at the plant and about 6 o'clock some cars laden with clay were being backed into the store house, when McWilliams made an effort to place a block against one of the car wheels to prevent it going forward. Whilst the accident was not witnessed by any employee it is thought that the glove of the right hand was caught between the wheel and the block. McWilliams was drawn under the wheel in such a manner that his chest was crushed and he sustained other severe internal injuries of such a nature as to cause almost instant death. The body was released from the wheel and Dr. Boyce, coroner of this city, was notified of the occurrence. An inquest was opened and adjourned for a few days. The jury viewed the body and heard evidence as to identification after which it was conveyed to Tickell & Sons undertaking establishment where it was prepared for interment.

The victim of the unfortunate affair was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. McWilliams who reside in the 8th concession of Tyendinaga Township where he was born. He had worked for some time at the cement works and was deservedly popular with all the employees. McWilliams was a member of Island athletic and was an exceptionally good hockey player. Deceased was a member of the Roman Catholic church. In addition to the parents four brothers and four sisters survive. The brothers are Leo, William, Isaac and Hedley and the sisters are Misses Mary, Helen Matilda and Anne all at home. The sympathy of a large circle of relatives and friends will be extended to those called upon to mourn the loss of a loved one. The body was this afternoon conveyed to the parents home in Tyendinaga Township.

EASTERN C.P.R. AGENTS MEET

Conference Held Today at Hotel Quinte

A conference of the Eastern agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway was held at the Hotel Quinte this afternoon. Agents between Kingston and Toronto were present. Luncheon was served in its room of the Quinte. This meeting was called to discuss genera problems, common to agents, in the district. "KATIE ECCLES" IS LOCATED

Brief Message States She is Aground on Timber Island

Picton, Ont., Nov. 29.—A telephone message received about 3.30 p.m., today from Milford, stated briefly that the schooner, Katie Eccles, was aground on Timber Island. The message gave no details as to whether the boat was badly damaged or not. The Captain stated that he desired assistance and word was accordingly sent to the Rogers Sand Washing and Salvage Co., of Kingston. It is presumed that the crew of two men and a boy are safe, as no word to the contrary has been received.

Later—Up until the hour of going to press, Mr. Sherbon Co. of this city, state that no further word has been obtained from the schooner.

COACH JACK MARKS AT LIONS' CLUB

Mr. Jack Marks, trainer of the Bellevilles, and hockey coach of this city, was the speaker at the Lions' club here today, at the regular weekly luncheon, and at which Mr. Clark's remarks were confined to sports, he having been actively associated with not only amateur but also professional sport, all his life.

Mr. Marks stated in his talk that he had sufficient material for a good junior and intermediate hockey team for this city, this season. The Belleville sheiks have turned out their open rinks for the development of the youngsters, was Mr. Marks' opinion, and he assured the Lions' club members that his co-operation would be unconditionally forthcoming, should they decide to open rinks at the public schools.

Club Barre Licence presided at the luncheon in a very capable manner. There was a large attendance at the luncheon today.

BRITAIN TO SCRAP NO MORE SHIPS

London, Nov. 29.—According to the statement of Leo Amery, financial secretary to the admiralty, Britain will not scrap any more warships under the Washington treaty until other nations have taken action and scrapped their ships, France and Italy have not yet signified the treaty.

MAROONED PASSENGERS COMPLAIN OF THE SANITARY CONDITIONS AT GROSSE ISLE

The Few Comforts Accorded Were Supplied by Steamer "Montclare"—Government Apparently Careless in This Regard

Toronto, Nov. 28.—The government evidently have been very careless with regard to the sanitary arrangements at Grosse Isle, Quebec, as is evidenced by the following story:

Very little comfort was given quarantined passengers arriving here last night from Quebec by the steamer Montclare, and the Dominion quarantine station at Grosse Isle, as a result of a case of small pox being found on board.

"It was dark and raining when we landed," said one today. "There was no fuel, no food, and no bedding on the island, some had to walk in the rain through a quagmire, knee deep in mud. C.P.R. put off bedding, food and fuel.

"Only after they all ordered to strip and go through the sulphur baths and our clothes were taken from us to be fumigated, did we rest.

"While this was all necessary, it could have been done in a much more delicate and decent way than it was.

"It was very hard on the women some of them lawyers at age, and children with children a few weeks old, and, who had all to strip, regardless of state of health, and bare baths.

"The sanitary conditions were far from satisfactory, in fact, they were really bad. But apart from that there was absolutely no provision for us on the island, and all we got in comfort we are beholded for, to the 'Montclare's.'

A letter was sent to the Dominion Minister of Health, Hon. Dr. Beland, about the unsanitary conditions, and says another letter was sent by request, that some permanent reforms be made, so that such an incident should never happen again. It was Mr. Hopkins, who gave the interview about everything being satisfactory, who was one of the prime movers in the sending of the letters to Dr. Beland. The letter was drawn up by a Mr. Purcell, a King's Counsel and Mr. Houston was among the signatories.

Mr. Houston today declined to say anything at all in connection with the matter.

There were about one hundred passengers quarantined. The principle of release which was followed was that when the vaccination "took," the passenger was despatched home. A few got away in four days, some in five and six days, but there were still eighty left on the island on Saturday.

Women students were among those who marched in the recent communist procession in Berlin.

RIGHT HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN ATTACKS KING ADMINISTRATION

Effective Speech at Smith's Falls—Mr. King's Attitude on Railways and Near East is Criticized—Debt is Increasing

Smith's Falls, Ont. Nov. 28.—With his accustomed vim, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen plunged right into the by-election campaign now being waged in Lanark. The speech was delivered at Smith's Falls, and was in the interests of Dr. R. F. Preston, the Conservative candidate. The struggle is attracting attention from all over the Dominion because a Liberal win will give the King government a majority of one over the Conservatives and the Progressives in the House. At present the government is one in the minority over the combined members of Conservatives and Progressives.

In this town, which includes a large percentage of railway employes among its population of 7,000 souls, the Conservative leader declared that the King government had been guilty of vacillation and weakness in dealing with the so-called Near East or Turkish situation; that it had exploited the directorate of the Canadian National Railways and failed to implement its promise of co-ordination of the lines comprised in the system; that it had been untrue to its pre-election promises and extravagant in its expenditures.

Spoke For Labor

On the same platform with Mr. Meighen, Hon. Senator Gideon Robertson, ex-Minister of Labor, and a leading spirit in the Order of Railway Telegraphers, spoke in refutation of the claim of Premier King and his Cabinet colleagues to be "friends of labor." He told the audience assembled in the Rideau Theatre that the Meighen government had planned to appoint a representative of labor to the Board of Directors to manage the consolidated National Railway system, but would have selected that representative from the ranks of the railway organizations. Senator Robertson said he feared the appointment of President Tom Moore of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada would be regarded as a doubtful compliment to labor, inasmuch as there were 100,000 railway employees in the Domin-

GREAT BRITAIN HAS SEVERED RELATIONS WITH GREECE

Executions Yesterday Startle the World and Cause London to Recall the British Minister

Athens, Nov. 28.—The British Minister, F. O. Lindley, has notified the Greek Government that Great Britain has broken off relations with Greece and that he is leaving Athens today.

C. H. Bentinck, British member of the Financial Control, remains here.

A statement issued by the court martial which condemned to death the former Ministers, giving the reasons, for imposing the sentences of death, says in effect that the decision was recommended from the people, the danger involved in King Constantine's return to the throne, and that although Greece was bringing away from her alliances, they did their utmost to consolidate Constantine's throne in order to enjoy office under him.

"By terroristic methods," the statement adds, "they stifled all public opinion contrary to them, arranged with General Hajianestis a pretended

EUREKA LODGE 50 YEARS OLD

Golden Anniversary is Commemorated in a Befitting Manner

Eureka Lodge No. 283, A.F. & A.M., of this city, last night commemorated its golden anniversary, having been in existence for 50 years. At the annual communication of Grand Lodge held in 1872, a warrant was recommended to be granted to 13 members of the craft for the institution of the Lodge. Of those 13 who were the charter members, but one is living today, namely Rt. Wor. Bro. S. S. Lazier, who in 1872-'22 was Master of the Lodge. In 1887 V. Wor. Bro., Col. F. H. Hambly, was the Worshipful Master. Both of these brethren were present last evening and were tendered a hearty welcome. Rt. Wor. Bro. J. O. Herity was in the chair, and filled the position most acceptably. R. W. Bro. R. A. Backus, of this city, District Deputy Grand Master, also paid his official visit to the lodge. There was a large turnout of the brethren. After Lodge business had been completed, a banquet was partaken of and a toast list was carried out. The toastmaster was Wor. Bro. E. D. O'Flynn, Master of the Lodge. A very lengthy toast list was carried out. The toast to Eureka Lodge, was proposed by V. Wor. Bro., Col. F. H. Hambly and was responded to by Rt. Wor. Bro Col. S. S. Lazier. The orchestra in connection with the banquet provided tuneful selections, and solos were given by Bro. Harry MacIlroy, Bro. Stewart Bathman, and Bro. Jamie Booth. It was Lodgich which will belong remembered by the brethren present, as it was the occasion of the Grand Lodge visit as proposed by the toastmaster and was most responded to. Most thoughtful, the Grand Master of Canada, Bro., Col. W. S. Poston, K. C.

POINCARE WRITES BONAR LAW

Paris, Nov. 29.—Premier Poincare has written Premier Bonar Law, offering to go to London next week for a conference preliminary to the proposed Brussels meeting to consider the reparations and inter allied war debts. Premier Poincare urged the necessity of convening the Brussels meeting not later than December 15 as the latest date which would permit the allies to make decisions before January 16.

CABINET CONSIDERS BARRIE'S CASE

There is nothing new in reference to the case of Maurice Barrie who is under sentence of death here. Major Ponton, who defended the accused has done all in his power to have the sentence commuted to life imprisonment. The petitions which were circulated in the city and lower portion of Hastings County contained over 7,000 signatures. These were presented to Sir Lormer Gouin, Minister of Justice who in turn will present them to the members of the Executive Cabinet which body will consider same. A decision in the matter is anticipated within a few days.

ARREST BOY AT ST. JOHN'S P.Q.

The local Police Department today received word to the effect that the Railway detectives at St. Johns, Quebec had arrested the youth who is alleged to have entered and robbed the grocery store of Mr. John Penny, corner Moira and Coleman streets last Friday night.

The boy, who is a Marchmont Home boy, is aged 15 years, and when arrested he was using Smith as an alias.

This boy who was very unmanageable was to have been deported to England in the near future, but he forestalled the authorities and cleared out.

Sergeant A. Harman leaves tonight on the midnight train for St. Johns and will bring the boy back to this city.

DETROIT MAYOR MADE SENATOR

Will Succeed Senator Newberry

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Lansing, Mich: Nov. 29.—Mayor James Cocsens, of Detroit today was appointed by Governor Groesbeck to the United States from Michigan to fill the unexpired term of the former Senator Truman Newberry, who resigned. Mayor Cousens has accepted the Governor announced. He will take his seat as soon as his Detroit affairs can be arranged.

TELEGRAMS TO BE DISPATCHED

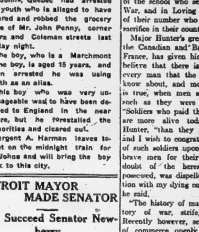

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Portsmouth, Eng., Nov. 29.—Colonel Wilson, the chief Conservative whip announced today that telegrams would be dispatched to the world summoning all Economic Conference of representatives of the Dominions and Mother country. A. Neil Primer Minister, Bonar Law in his election address, stated would be called.

BRITISH MINISTER LEAVES ATHENS FOR LAUSANNE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Nov. 29.—A Central News despatch from Athens says that F. O. Lindley, the British Minister to Greece has left for Lausanne to confer with Lord Curzon the British Foreign Secretary.

Major Bruce Hunter, well known veteran Padre of the Great World War, was the chief speaker at the unveiling of the memorial tablet at the High School here last evening in honor of the students, ex-students, and teachers of the school who served in the Great War, and in Loving Memory of those of their number who paid the supreme sacrifice in their country's cause.

Major Hunter's great experience with the Canadian and British soldiers in France, has given him every reason to believe that there is something about every man that the world does not know about, and more especially this is true, when men are under pressure such as they were under in France. Soldiers who paid the supreme sacrifice are more alive today", said Major Hunter, "than they ever were before, and I wish to congratulate the relatives of such soldiers upon having had such brave men for their relatives". "Any doubt of the immortality which I ever possessed, was dispelled by my association with my dying comrades in France" he said.

"The history of man has been a history of war, strife, and bloodshed recently however, scientific men of commerce openly stated that war could not be possible, as they possessed means of making war impossible, and almost every Canadian believed that with our great system of education, we would be held together, and war

ALBERT COLLEGE BOARD MEETING

Large and Enthusiastic Meeting Held Yesterday at the Local Seat of Education

Yesterday there was held one of the most enthusiastic and best attended board meetings that has been seen in the history of Albert College.

Dr. Chown, the General Superintendent of the Methodist Church, presided and Dr. Graham, the Secretary of Education, was also present.

Two important matters were considered. The first of which was that the Board instruct the building committee to call for tenders in the new year and to commence building operations in the spring, continuing same until the structure is complete.

The second matter was one of finance. The committee was instructed to commence collecting everything that when the building was complete, it would be free of debt.

A full report of the proceedings of the meeting will appear as soon as same is available for publication.

CLAIM MONEY EMPLOYED ALONG CHANNELS NOT AUTHORIZED

Co-operative Stores Subscribers at Issue With Management of Concern—Structure Purchased Under Agreement

Brantford, Nov. 28.—It is a matter of current talk here that the farmers of North Brant are to seek legal action in the matter of $15,000 worth of demand notes given to Brant Co-operative Society.

W. C. Good, M.P., is president of the Co-operative, while the directors are John A. Campbell, A. J. Dunstan, John W. Clark, and George Keen is the secretary.

These notes were, according to reliable information, given by 87 farmers in amounts ranging from $100 up to $1,100, and the agreement that develops now is that owing to the losses made by the society the farmers are being called for the money, and they claim that the money was given, some $15,000 in all, for the purpose of buying merchandise for the society.

Inquiry into the management of the company, however, develops the fact that some $12,000 of this money was used for improvements to the building the society bought in Brantford for $80,000 from the Dominion Flour Mills.

The building was bought on an agreement with the Montreal concern, and the money was raised in the farmers' notes of $25,000 by bonds. There are 120 bondholders and it is now said that some of these bonds are "worthless" and are prepared to put up another $40,000 to save their original money. The total cost of the plant is also said might be a case where the shareholders would lose everything.

At any rate the sum of $7,000 is due the Dominion Flour Mills under the agreement and must be paid Dec. 1. The success which the bond holders are having in trying to save their money is watched.

The Brant Co-operative was organized in 1917. The business did not commence until 1921, and the farmers were asked to raise $15,000 to keep the company going.

THIS MAN WAS WELL AND TRULY MARRIED

His Brother Slipped the Handcuffs on Him After He Said "I Will", but Lost the Key

Ingersoll, Oct., Nov. 28.—Handcuff snapping, like bedroom comedies are becoming epidemic in western Ontario and police officials are busy warning their men to keep the clips off the wrists of the innocent.

The case of the Norfolk county constable who locked the hands of his friend when they were starting off on a trip to the south would be bad enough. They phoned to Ingersoll chief of police to meet the train with a handcuff key because the officer had lost his and the friend was beginning to see his temporary bride. Ingersoll key would not fit the Norfolk lock and the message was relayed on to Woodstock. Another officer met the pair with another key and when last heard from the process was being repeated from town to town.

But the real mixup came when a London business man undertook to inject some comedy into the proceedings when his brother was married in Bowmanville a few days ago. The Londoner hunted around till he found the town constable and arranged to borrow the officer's handcuffs. At the wedding the bridegroom snapped the cuffs on the wrist of the groom to signify how the newly wed had sold himself to for the life of a benedict. The joke was great. Lots of laughs. But just then the bare of the comedy hadn't covered that he had lost the key. The time to start on the honeymoon was crowding in on the party when in desperation the Londoner rushed up the village blacksmith. Anvil and vise were lugged in and up at the glad ring room table, and with hacksaw and chisel the smithy freed the prisoner. Now the constable with the remaining mien has served formal notice on the Londoner to "replace them cuffs forthwith."

HON. MR. MEIGHEN ATTACKS KING GOV.

lon. Senator Robertson made no reflection upon the ability or good will of Mr. Moore, but pointed out that Mr. Moore had had no experience of railway operation or railway conditions.

The audience which assembled to hear the Conservative leader in the city hall was not great to find accommodation in the Rideau Theatre. It was necessary, therefore, to call off their appointment. Robertson and other members of Parliament present to speak to an overflow meeting in the Main Hall. In both audiences there was a large proportion of women. Both meetings were attentive and gave to Conservative leader an enthusiastic greeting, when he appeared on the platform and displayed their appreciation of his thrusts and his eloquent passages by rounds of applause.

Mr. Meighen's voice trembled slightly when he spoke of Hon. J. A. Stewart, who was a member of his Government, and whose death has necessitated the present by-election. He also seized the opportunity to express the hope that Hon. W. C. Kennedy, the present Minister of Railways, who has been seriously ill, would soon be restored to health and strength. He then turned to the political issues of the day. Dr. Preston, the Conservative candidate, he asserted, could be relied upon to defend which demanded vindication by Lazark County. Mr. Meighen declared that the record of Dr. Preston had consistently endeavored to befool the people of the country.

National Debt

The Government's claim to have effected economies, he answered by pointing out that the expenditure had been increased by more than forty million dollars in the past year and the current expenditure was over $12,000,000. Those increases he asserted were due to extravagance, and extravagance was due to negligence and incompetence.

"Liberalism under Mr. Mackenzie King," said Mr. Meighen, "has been content but systematic befooling of the Canadian people."

Mr. Meighen denied that the Government had co-ordinated National Railways. It had continued to operate the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Northern systems separately and lost to the country some fifteen million dollars. "I hope that Sir Henry Thornton is worth $50,000 a year, nearly twice what D. B. Hanna an experienced and successful railway man, received as president of the National Railways," said Mr. Meighen. I rather envy Sir Henry the $8,300 he will have drawn before he starts work. I have never been able to make a contract like that myself. I would like to see him change his habit of speech-making for a habit of railway economy. Attendance at banquets in England is not doing much for the National Railways."

Mr. Meighen compared the former directorate of the National Railways which was composed of prominent railway and businessmen, chosen without regard to their political affiliations, with the new board of seven men, not one of whom had had an hour's experience of Canadian railway operation. He said that the new board had been appointed by a government, certain members of which had favored government ownership, denounced the National Railways and declared that those railways could not succeed.

Political Exploitation

The turning out of the railway directorate after a change of government had discouraged the people in the railway organization, who saw in it the hand of political exploitation. Speaking of the Near East situation of a few months ago, Mr. Meighen said that Canada, the major Dominion of the Empire, whose support meant most to Britain in her diplomatic difficulty, had remained dumb. Hon. George P. Graham had said that "Canada had shown she had courage to say no." "I say," proceeded Mr. Meighen "that the Canadian government has not the courage to say either yes or no. If Canada said 'no,' more shame to her. No one knows what the question was or what the answer was except the government, and the government, situated as it is, will act the same in every emergency. We must do our share to demonstrate the solidarity of the Empire. This government has failed at the first test and will fail at every similar test. I am one of those who contend that we are not doing our honorable share, but are sponging on the Empire. The Genoa-King government says, 'We cannot send troops until Parliament decides.' We didn't in 1914, but that did not prevent the government then from deciding its course and committing it to Parliament. If we have a government which will not do that, we have a government, the like of which is hardly to be found in any other British country. The government,' said Mr. Meighen, "had shown vacillation and weakness and debility in dealing with the Near East situation."

BOY SCOUT NEWS

The Boy Scouts are off to a good start, bugle band going full steam, lots of badge work, lots of sport, big annual mission banquet not far off. SIR HENRY THORNTON ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 28.—Among those who arrived on the Olympic to-day were George Gibbs, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who has been abroad advising English railroad heads as to the use of electricity on British roads, and Sir Henry Thornton, chairman of the board of directors of the Canadian Government railroads, who arrived with Lady Thornton.

KINGSTON VIEW OF THE APPLE QUESTION

We reprint below an editorial from the Kingston Standard which we believe to a certain extent represents the general situation existing at present. The question was dealt with in our own editorial columns last week. There are, no doubt, many apple growers who are grading and packing their product according to the best principles, but there appears to be a large quantity of apples marketed with little care or attention given to grading and these are responsible for all Ontario apples getting more or less of a bad name. The Kingston Standard says:—

THOSE FINE APPLES

There is at the present time one of the finest displays of Ontario apples in one of the grocery store windows, the equal of which has not been seen for a long time. It has come at an opportune time, when a discussion is going on in the Press as to why Ontario apples are not being distributed from British Columbia, and other places. It also comes at a good time for people to lay in their winter supply of apples; and might we again mention that to keep them from soft rot for a long time it is a good plan to bury them in clean, dry sand. Put down a layer of sand, on this arrange the apples so that they do not touch, and cover with another layer of sand, and so on.

This show proves what good apples there are to be had in Ontario, and the question naturally arises as to why we do not get more of them and at cheaper prices. A letter to The Toronto Globe from a farmer in Manitoba, who has been buying Ontario apples, and he bears out what we have frequently pointed out before, that the growing, picking, grading, packing and storage in Ontario are at fault, and allow apples from other places to secure the markets. He describes our present methods as "most shameful," and states that there has been no improvement during the last forty years. He says that he may fall to get a basketful of good apples from a barrel oven, the rest are culls. That is a exaggeration, often heard at home as to the preponderance of culls.

Of course it is a pretty big matter to handle, but it is evident that if Ontario is to hold her own with her apples—which cannot be beaten—she will have to wake up.

EXCESS OF WOMEN OVER MEN IN ENGLAND

London, Nov. 27.—Some effects of the War on the population and housing in London are indicated in that part of the county series of the last census devoted to the metropolis published recently. In the county borough the present population is 4,484,523, made up of 2,071,870 males and 2,413,044 females. This is a decrease of 54,762 of the male population in the last ten years, and an increase of 17,490 in the female population.

Afternoon Frocks .. of Distinction ..

Of Course Canton Crepe leads in the materials and how well it lends itself to the Season's draperies and floating panels. Charming indeed, are the styles with handly two of our models alike. A Frock of Walnut Brown features accordion inserts in the skirt, with a bit of brush'ndicular about the blouse. A Navy one is effectively beaded with steel, while a Frock of Black Crepe and Radium Lace depends on a vivid flower and lace lapages for character. Of Periwinkle Blue is another with four lapages for character. One of a most complete and pleated panels. These are only a few of a most complete and carefully selected collection of beautiful Frocks. $15.00 to $42.50

COATS That Satisfy

If it's an Ulster on English lines—we have it; if it's a Dress Coat—we have it, and the quality of every model is apparent. Of British Tweeds in all shades are the Burberettes, Hurlingham, Chatsworths and Coon Collared Bromleighs $16.50—$55.00

For dress occasions the Braided French Velour takes first place. In Brown, Reindeer and Beaver, with peasant or bell sleeves, all-round or semi-belted, their collars are of warm Beaverine. $29.50—$50.00

Christmas Blankets

If Blankets appear on your list you should see them now while there is a choice of colors. Kenwoods are popular because they do not fade nor shrink and are guaranteed. Plaids of Blue, Rose and White, or Grey, Tan and White, or combinations of Rose, Mauve, Tan or Blue with White $8.25 each.

Southdown Blankets in Pink and Blue, 64" x 84" $8.00 and $9.00 pair.

UNVEIL MEMORIAL AT HIGH SCHOOL

would never come.Suddenly in a few days, we were thrown into the blistering hell of war; however, and all points obstinate.

Present day historians say that war always was, is and will be, because they hold that war is the expressed will of God.

"My whole being", continued Major Worden, "with shocked rebellion against this theory, because war is cruel, inhuman and vile. It does not uplift, inspire, ennoble or correct anything. It stirs up envy, hatred and jealousy." "I believe in turning my back upon the dark and, ever looking forward to the light, trying to realize the League of Nations, when Peace will cover the earth, and all disputes will be settled by common law."

The Christian interpretation of war, as given by Major Hunter, who though a minister of the gospel and proud of the fact, yet terms himself as a man among men, was concisely explained.

"God loves peace, harmony, concord and unity, when all men are brothers, and only this why can we progress." "Man has always fought for self preservation, from the earliest times, but today we find men who feel that they have other and higher rights, and especially one great right especially, the capital R for which they will gladly fight, and if need be, lay down their lives. This is the light of the united mind, and the right for which the men whose names appear upon the Memorial Tablet have fought. They were willing to suffer themselves, in order to attempt to make the world know war no more."

"I have seen the Christ on the battlefields of Flanders", exclaimed the Major in closing. "And I have heard His voice." I have seen him with a grimy face, a tired body, a bended frame, with aching feet, and covered with mud." "I have seen him crucified,but thank God I also saw Him risen." "I am glad that His present at all peace conferences, endeavouring to show men the folly of further war, and also showing that the impossibility of peace without the spirit of Christian Brotherhood." "The British Nation stands ahead of all other Nations in the possession of the Christian Brotherhood, and she will do much towards making peace "permanent and possible."

The service was opened by Mr. H. W. Ackerman, Chairman of the Board of Education, after which the hymn, "O God our help in ages past," was sung, and the Lord's Prayer was repeated. Rev. N. S. McKechnie, B. A., pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, read the 90th Psalm and Rev. D. C. Rose-may offered up the Memorial prayer.

Colonel William N. Ponton, K.C., gave a short but appropriate address dwelling upon the noble work of the gallant Canadian soldiers in the cause of righteousness and the undying glory they had made for their country. Col. Ponton has been greatly interested in the Belleville High School for more than 60 years, and feels that to be further well and highly esteemed, as the school and its students and teachers have been, the students must be well housed, and he hoped that soon a new and comfortable building would house the magnificent memorial tablet.

In unveiling the beautiful bronze tablet which was draped in the Union Jack, Colonel Roscoe Vandervoort, D. S.O. expressed his great pleasure, pride and honour in unveiling the tablet. Col. Vandervoort mentioned two of the officers who paid the supreme sacrifice, as being two of the greatest soldiers who wore the uniform in the Canadian army in France. These have young men were Captain William Hudson and Lieut. Bert Allen.

"These men," said Col. Vandervoort, "Were as gallant a pair of officers as served in the Canadian Corps."

The tablet is about 5 feet square, of bronze and has been mounted on the west wall of the assembly room of the High School. It contains the name of each student, ex-student and teacher from the school, who served in the great war. In the centre of the tablet the names of those who paid the supreme sacrifice appear in larger block letter, and after their names the following verse appears:

They died for Justice
Justice owes them this,
That what they died for be not overthrown.

The tablet is a very fine one and a very fitting memorial to the worthy cause of which it will ever be symbolic.

NO GAMES PLAYED IN INDOOR LEAGUE

Although two games of Indoor Baseball were scheduled for last night in the Armouries, when the league was supposed to have opened; nothing happened in the way of games. The G. T. R. and Shoemen were to have played in league No. 1, but the railroaders did not put in an appearance, hence no game. The second game between the G. T. R. No. 2 and the Express Co., did not take place either, as the G.T.R. No. 2 squad failed in appear. A practice game was played.

Dogmatic? Rather!

The Chinaman could speak but little English, and the Englishman could speak no Chinese, but the same, the dinner went off very agreeably. The two men sat in silence, while a near Chinese waiter served up dish after dish of surprising delicacy.

The Englishman ate heartily of this stew. Then he closed his eyes, lifted his hands, and shook his head with an air of ecstasy. After this pantomimic compliment to the dish, he said, interrogatively:

"Quack, quack?"

"No, no," said the Chinaman, "Bow, wow!"

And the Chinaman has not yet discovered why the Englishman ran.—Exchange.

CONACHER WILL STAY AMATEUR

Leo Dandurand's $5,000 Offer Would not Buy Argos' Big "Mogul"

Leo. Dandurand, successor to the late George Kennedy as Montreal professional hockey impresario, and the Beau Brummel of the National Hockey League, arrived in the city yesterday morning and left last night with his sankroll undiminished and his roster of players for the Canadiens no larger. The foregoing means that he was unsuccessful in his effort to secure the signature of Lionel Conacher to a contract to play for the French-Canadians this Winter. On Monday night Dandurand's telephone office was refused by Conny, but he made a personal visit to the city, and before approaching the local star paid a visit to the bank and obtained $5,000. He offered this amount to Conacher for a month with the Canadiens, but received the same answer as on the previous evening.

This is one of the largest offers made to an amateur to turn professional, but while there are better hockey players in Montreal, Dandurand knows his big business instincts, as the local boy would be a great drawing card and that his professional backers would be well looked by the magnates. In refusing the offer Conacher stated that he would like to remain another season in the preaching season, for a while at least, but that he would be out with the Argonauts next Fall and hopes to be in their midst. In regard to the Canadian Rugby championship, Conacher has had good offers both to Montreal and Ottawa, but has also refused them, and will remain in Toronto.

MAY BAR PRO COACHES FROM PENALTY BOX

This With Other Important Problems Will be Settled at 33rd Annual Meeting of Ont. Hockey Association

The list of amendments to the constitution to the rules of competition governing the intermediate and senior series, which are to be dealt with by the delegates to the 33rd annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association, which is to be held in the Temple Building on Saturday morning next, commencing at 10 o'clock, is a lengthy one and is sure to bring out a great deal of discussion. Some very interesting changes are contemplated.

It is proposed to have all the past presidents of the association living in Toronto form an advisory board to the association, with power to vote only at annual and special general meetings.

Another amendment would bar members of the Executive from playing on any O.H.A. team, while there is also one to allow junior players to play intermediate and senior games for the same club without any restrictions; play as many senior and intermediate games as they wish and still be eligible for the junior series the same season providing they qualified under the age rule.

But the amendment which is likely to bring out the longest debate is the one providing for the appointment of coaches and trainers. It is proposed to keep them out of the penalty box and allow the players' bench, and to forbid them to direct or interfere with the play or players during the game. It is understood the present day coaches or trainers will not even be allowed to sit in or near the penalty box or on the players' bench while a game is in progress. To the side offending the penalty proposed is the loss of a player for five minutes.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Callery wish to express their sincere appreciation of the many kindnesses shown them by their neighbors and friends in their recent bereavement, also for the many beautiful floral tributes.

HON. JAMES MURDOCK RETURNS FROM GENEVA

C.P.R. Steamer "Empress of Britain" Lands at Quebec With Large List

Quebec, Que., Nov. 27.—The Canadian Pacific sixteen thousand tons, Empress of Britain, in command of Captain J. Turnbull, C.B.,R.D.,R.N.R., from Hamburg, Cherburg and Southampton, arrived and docked at Quebec on his last trip of the season, with 308 passengers, including 70 in the saloon who were disembarked this morning at 8.30 o'clock and at 8.55, were speeding west on a special steam, er train along with 118 second class passengers.

Among the returned Canadians in the saloon were Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor returning from the Geneva Labor Conference, accompanied by Mrs. Murdock and Miss E. Murdock, who on the arrival of the steamer, drove to the C. P. R. Station and took the midnight train for Ottawa, and Mr. W. C. Coulter, of Toronto, who represented the manufacturing interests at the labor conference of Geneva, and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Langstow, Cobourg, Ont. In the saloon was a passenger traffic official under the name of Lord Rosmore, which turned out to be an act of impersonation. While on the passage from Liverpool, the officers of the Empress of Britain received a wireless that Lord Rossmore was in Richard Doherty of London, and was on his way to Honolulu. His position however, has caused him to be held up here by the immigration authorities.

Mr. W. C. Coulter, of Toronto, who is returning from the Geneva Labor Conference, in an interview, said that the business transacted was one of the greatest importance with the exception that a vote was taken in committee to reduce the executive body which was becoming unwieldy for many overseas delegations delegates on that executive, but Hon. Ernest Lapointe who took up the matter and made an eloquent speech before the general body has succeeded by his eloquence in having the Canadian representatives on the executive. Mr. Lapointe spoke in French and the majority of the delegates present being familiar with the French language, including those who did not speak English, his speech in the French language so appealed to the delegates that he gained his point.

Mr. W. C. Egan, Canadian Trade Commissioner for South Africa, was also among the prominent saloon passengers of the Empress of Britain, who, in an interview said, while we were looking for more trade with South Africa, Canada is doing remarkably good trade with that part of the Empire. He said: "Mr. Egan, the steamers of the Elder Dempster line, the company that is subsidized on the route from London to South Africa, are probably using more cargo space than any other steamers going to South Africa, with perhaps the exception of the Oil steamers from the United States.

CATTLE RAISERS OF WESTERN ALSO REPORT HEAVY LOSSES

Orsk, Russia, Nov. 1.—Efforts are being made here to revive the trade with Asia cattle trade of the days before the war. Then three were cattle kings among the nomadic tribes who possessed as high as 30,000 head of sheep, cows, steers, horses and sheep, and the entire country was given over to cattle raising and the production of grain.

But today these herds have been so reduced that the owner who has even a hundred head considers himself fortunate. The Orsk factories, in the old days, used to turn out hundreds of thousands of hides annually, but this industry today is at a standstill because of the slump in cattle raising. As a result there is much unemployment in the district, and scarcely enough grain on hand to last the people half through the winter.

FARMER'S WIFE REGAINS HEALTH

Gives Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fork River, Manitoba.—"I saw in the newspapers where Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing so much good to women, and as I needed something I began to take it. I used to be very sick but I am not now. I live on a farm in the Swan-stand district and we have to do all our own work. I tell all the women I see what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound done for me. I think it saves me from going to a doctor and is the best medicine women can take."—Mrs. WM. CODRAN, Fork River, Manitoba.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for the ailments peculiar to women. It is prepared from medicinal plants, with care and accuracy. It can be taken by women of any age.

Women make a serious mistake in doctoring themselves to become so weak and nervous that it is only by impossible for them to attend to their necessary household duties.

Such symptoms as pains and irregularities, all-gone feelings, backache, headache, hot flashes, nervousness, with a general run-down condition, indicate some form of female trouble.

The Vegetable Compound has brought relief to thousands of women suffering from such ailments. Let it help you.

THE CHILDERS INCIDENT

The fact that Erskine Childers, who was executed in Dublin on Friday morning last, was an Englishman, and not Irish-born, may be some consolation to those of Sinn Fein activities still contriving and in rebellion against the Irish Free State. This erratic Englishman was well educated with a view to a public career, which would doubtless have developed towards great usefulness for Great Britain, had he not been attached with De Valera's ideas. For months past he was regarded as Valera's chief lieutenant and many of the dastardly outrages perpetrated in Ireland recently may be directly traced to his instigative mind.

There are, naturally, many phases of public opinion in connection with this execution, and therefore an accurate representation of the facts of the case should be forthcoming. His offences were certainly serious enough to warrant the penalty that was his. Since Childers' arrest by the authorities in Dublin it was found that he was a drug-addict, several bottles of morphine having been found on his person, and one fails to understand why the use of this or any other drug should be adequate remedy for his distressed conscience and perplexed mind. It can be conceded that he must have been more or less of a degenerate or he his father, the late Rt. Hon. Hugh C. Childers, was a statesman of outstanding ability, having been one of Gladstone's most trusted advisers and a member of his Cabinet.

Childers was never wholly trusted by even his Irish colleagues and his traitorous mind was working in his own behalf during his last hours, when he had the audacity to apply for a writ of habeas corpus. The use of drugs may have temporarily strengthened his nerve in this regard but his truly erratic features were demonstrated in this action. For years an open traitor to his country, one of the ringleaders in the movement leading to the Irish Kingdom, confined only by its active rebellion against the Crown, and a sworn citizen of the "Irish Republic," he based his final plea upon his rights as a British subject.

It can be assumed that, if the different factions of the Irish people will temporarily shelve their differences, pending peaceful and fair settlement, the evolution of time will work great changes in the situation. Time is a great healer, and while possibly many incidents may be forgiven but not forgotten, attention should be turned to things not politic and the commerce of the country continually promulgated for mutual benefit.

Doubtless many individuals concerned in the Irish troubles are of sincere mind and are striving toward goals which they believe idealistic to meet the existing situation, but men of Childers' type, whose final fate may have a tinge of martyrdom to their followers, are an object of mingled pity and scorn. Few will mourn their tragic fate and everybody should be willing to forget them.

The Irish question generally is indeed far too broad for editorial comment in these columns. We Canadians, while tremendously and most vitally interested, are too distant from the spot to keep continually posted as to the minute details concerning the situation from every angle and it is difficult for us to truly understand the sometimes seemingly eccentric and unprecedented proposals and methods employed for final settlement; but we are also perplexed as to the ways and wherefores of so much bloodshed with its heartaches, such wanton guerilla battle that seems feudalistic, when all differences, (even though civil warfare has been the outcome of many constitutional questions in other countries in precious years, in these civilized and deep thinking times), might be definitely settled by competent and understanding arbitration to final achievement.

HON. HOWARD FERGUSON FORTELLS OF VICTORY

From all parts of the province reports of the organization campaigns of the Conservatives are coming in. Probably the meeting which attracted the most attention was the occasion on which the Liberal Conservative Business Men's Club of Toronto recently entertained at luncheon the Hon. Howard Ferguson. This luncheon can hardly be said to be of the nature of an organization meeting, but rather was one of those preliminary get-together affairs.

In introducing Mr. Ferguson, the chairman, Mr. R. C. Matthews, suggested that as business men were present, financial problems would be in order. Mr. Ferguson took the suggestion and briefly touched on some financial figures. He said that in 1910, the Provincial Debt was $62,000,000, which had been accumulated over a period of 42 years, and at that a large portion of it was spent on developing utilities. When the Drury Government came into office it complained of that debt. At the end of 1921 the provincial debt had increased to $204,000,000 or had been much more than doubled in two years. The expenditure of the Hearst Government in 1919 was $47,000,000. The Drury Government during its first year in office spent $68,000,000 and in its second year $120,000,000. Figures for the expenditures for the third have not been officially given out but it is conservatively estimated that they will be sufficiently great to add at least $30,000,000 to the debt. In an attempt to conceal these large additions to the debt, he stated, that absolute falsification of accounts had been resorted to. Last year at least $2,000,000 had been collected after the fiscal year had been concluded on October 31st and had been paid to the account of the previous year. This practice led one to believe that the figures for the present year might reveal a similar treatment. Nevertheless the Ontario taxpayer knew that his taxes had increased from 50 to 60 per cent. in the last three years, due to reckless expenditure. All these figures spelled disaster for the Drury Government when they came to the polls.

At the Provincial-wide gathering of the Liberal-Conservative party held at the King Edward Hotel in Toronto on Friday last, a spirit of optimism was predominant. All parts of the province were represented by delegates who reported that the Drury Government were losing the confidence of the people. Westgrenville, formerly a U.F.O. stronghold, brought the most optimistic reports. The Hon. Howard Ferguson urged every riding to complete their plans of organization at the earliest possible moment. The delegates were greatly inspired by his address. A general feeling of optimism prevailed at the opening of the meeting and increased as it proceeded. The delegates came to hear facts and they heard them. The result is that all carried away the feeling that when the Conservative banner is raised in the next election it will be carried through to certain victory.

THE Y.M.C.A.

The success of the campaign for $5,000 that has just been completed, is a great credit to the city of Belleville. Probably few cities in Ontario have so many prominent citizens actively interested in the Y. as we have here in Belleville, which is, in a great measure, the reason for the success of the local organization.

Probably few realize to what extent a good Y. is able to exercise an uplifting influence on the community in general. The Y. attracts the young boys and directs their ideas along healthy lines of activity. The average healthy boy has a superabundance of energy and out of sheer lack of channels through which he can work off this energy, is tempted to go wrong. Boys delight in sport and the Y. offers them sport in all lines. They always have a capable physical director who can intelligently take charge of a boy who is not physically strong and advise corrective exercises and athletic pursuits that will build him up into a strong youth.

Thus the coming generation of business men are directly influenced for the better through the medium of such an organization. Those in health are encouraged to use their talents in a direction that is good and at the same time appeals to the boys. The weaker boys are given an opportunity to become strong. The moral and physical sides are built up at the same time. It is an Association that exemplifies the practical side of religion, which appeals to the boys more than the purely theoretical ideas.

Thus we are proud of our present building, our influential citizens who identify themselves with the Association, and of all those who so generously support it. They are all a credit to our city, and we feel in times to come, their faith in the boyhood of Belleville will not have been built on false hopes.

PASSING COMMENT

Skill in contortion isn't really essential to happiness unless you have an upper berth occasionally.

It is said that Nature gave us tonsils for a wise purpose; the doctors must fully appreciate the wisdom of Nature.

The trouble seems to be at Ottawa, that the King Government started without a definite idea and is continuing its career likewise.

Like Sir Roger Casement, the fate of Erskine Childers was an instance of another good man gone wrong.

Toronto is feverishly seeking a new slogan. What's the matter? Has it wearied of trying to live up to the old patronymic of Toronto the Good?

HERE AND THERE

FRIENDS.

Friends don't make a man, but if a man has the right qualities, the right personality, the right caliber, he cannot help making friends; they just feel drawn to him. The thing to do is not to set out to cultivate friends who, you figure, may prove useful, but to cultivate and develop qualities and abilities that increase your own usefulness. If you do that, and do it, of course, on the square, the friendship part will take care of itself.—Albert H. Wiggin, President Chase National Bank of New York.

THE TENANTS.

There are a host of tenants in my heart
Queer little loves that will not go away:
Light, vagrant melodies of yesterday;
Stray echoes of wit that have not worth nor art,
But are of some past happiness a part;
Odd bits of verse, so slight and lustrive
One wonders why their lilting charm should live.
And yet through endless memories they dart.

And then come odors: tang of sea salt air,
And mingled scents of some old city street,
Fragrance of woods, where love was wont to lure,
Incense of some old rain chapel, smoky sweet;
Gathered from many regions, near or far,
A host of tenants in my heart live on.

PRESS OPINIONS

REV. C. W. GORDON SHOULD CLEAR UP MYSTERY OF $50,000 BRIBE SCANDAL.

(Toronto Telegram.)

People who try to bribe policemen should be fined $50,000 and costs. An attempt was tried to bribe an Attorney-General should escape free from an attempt to pervert the course of justice.

If Rev. C. W. Gordon really knows of "somebody" who offered the Attorney-General of Manitoba $50,000 for a fair administration of the liquor law, his plain duty is to tell who that "somebody" is.

Before the Presbyterian Synod, Rev. C. W. Gordon declared that he knew of "a respectable man" who was guilty of one of the most pernicious offences mentioned in the statute law of Canada. If that is so, some "respectable" and presumably wealthy citizen is being allowed liberty, respect and punishment by the strange silence of Rev. C. W. Gordon.

Mr. Gordon declared that $50,000 may have been offered by a "respectable" man to Attorney-General Craig. If bribery was attempted with impunity, Manitoba is the home not only of a private citizen who ought to be in the penitentiary, but also of an Attorney-General who ought to be in private life.

Manitoba is also the home of "The Sky Pilot" who knows of an anti-social offence, but will not disclose enough of his knowledge to let his fellow-citizens take punitive and protective measures.

The fellow-citizens of Rev. C. W. Gordon are no doubt curious to know whether there really is an effort to lay up the Attorney-General and whether there is no heavier penalty for attempted corruption than the emasculated reproaches of a sensation-monger. It is within the power of Rev. C. W. Gordon to satisfy that curiosity. As long as he remains silent the Presbyterian Synod must continue to look on to the $50,000 bribe scandal in the role of Rev. C. W. Gordon, the eminent exponent of Methodist Conscience. The well known author of fiction; and the public at large must wonder why the Presbyterian meeting place of official Presbyterianism is being degraded into a try-out place for moving-picture actresses.

DE VALERA'S TWO HORSES.

(New York Times.)

The so-called Army Executive of the Irish Irregulars substitutes the other "horse" on one up, in proclaiming a little Parliament of their own, and agrees put forward Mr. De Valera as the candidate of the civil branch of their Government. The best comment on this proceeding was made by Mr. Lloyd George in the letter which he which fell into the hands of the Free State authorities, about the middle of September, and very widely published them. Writing to a member of his Cabinet, he said: "The task of riding two such horses as the civil and military will be too much for any "Executive." He remarked, that the "insuperable difficulty" which he saw in this place responsibility" upon he civilian President, but to give him "no voice and no authority." He added: "If I do not get the position made quite clear, I shall resign publicly."

In a later letter De Valera gave an outline of the political situation in Ireland as he saw it. He said that he could not agree to the Republicans getting themselves up as the legitimate Dail Eireann. His explanation was illuminating:

> Rory O'Connor's unfortunate repudiation of the Dail, which I was so foolish as to defend even to a straining of my own views in order to avoid the appearance of a split, is now the greatest barrier that we have. Because, even if we had the allegiance of the Army, the united strength to make our will effective. We cannot, as in the time of the war also, be a law unto ourselves, no authority derived from the vote of the majority of the people. We will be pulled down definitely by the electorate in a few month's time, in any case, because it challenged we could not as a Government declare, let the people decide by vote as between the two Governments. If the people were to be given the decision, that would mean the worst of all—turning down the republic.

After this it is not surprising that opinion in Ireland, even among the Republicans, was that De Valera had made it impossible for himself to hold hereafter any position of authority. The last straw of the refusal by the Army Executive can be intended only as a flourish, preliminary to something else. The Dail Eireann, if it proves, ceased to be even a convenient figure head in Ireland.

A New Law Enforced.

"I'll just fine ye $25 for speedin'," said the police magistrate, "but I wouldn't have been in such a hurry to get through your long if I hadn't thought I saw a well-dressed looking town I ever laid my eyes on."

"And $10 for contempt."

"Contempt, was that?"

"Our town is a village not far from Kingston, and we have a law in force there that no one can be fined more than he has in his pocket at the time. I'm a poor man, your honor, and I only had $35 with me."

WIT AND HUMOR

About Face.

The little girl was in the garden, really crabbing a pet kitten that was up a tree. On account of the thick foliage she could not see that the kitten was climbing higher all the time.

"But her sister, who had been watching from an upper window, and could plainly see the kitten, called distractedly.

"Minna, Minna, come into the house! You're calling the wrong end of her!"

A Good Excuse.

Domestic (from next door)—Please, mum, mum sends her compliments, and will you let your daughter sing and play the piano this afternoon?

"Why, certainly. Tell your mistress I'm glad she likes my daughter's voice."

"Oh, it isn't that, mum; she's entertaining a visit from the bailiffs, and she wants some excuse for asking him to reduce the rent."

Wasted Effort.

"Pa, what is a synonym?"

"Why, er—a synonym is a word you use when you don't know how to spell the word you started to use in the first place."

"Then what is a homonym?"

"Why, er—a homonym is a word that sounds like it ought to be spelled another way, but isn't."

"Then what is a pseudonym?"

"Why, er—a pseudonym is a word that looks like it ought to be pronounced one way, but is pronounced another."

"Then what is a—"

"Oh, for goodness sake, run out and play with your brother!"

Not Likely.

An undertaker inquired so persistently after the sick that he was known as "Old Death Hunter."

An invalid woman took apartments near him, and he called at once, and was informed by the landlady that the poor, dear thing was gone. Slipping ten shillings into the woman's hand, he whispered: "At what hour did she depart?"

"By the 9.30 train to Chester," was the reply.

He Liked Them.

"Yes," said the young man with plaid trousers and a big watch-chain, "I must confess that I am deficient in neglected beauties."

"Perhaps the modern music hores you," said the pleasant young woman. "I does many people, you know."

"Yes, I don't care for modern music. There is one thing about the old songs that I like very much."

"What is that?"

"The fact that nobody sings them."

No Limit.

An old lady who was gathering statistics for a temperance publication, obtained some of her information from brewers' men. Taking one day to a dray-man driving a big load, she said:

"Individual—she always found how many glasses of beer you drink in the course of the day?"

The man took his cap of his head, scratched his head thoughtfully, "I don't know as I can rightly tell. Some days I only 'as about thirty but—" brightening up—"on the other 'and sometimes I 'as quite a lot!"

An Excellent System.

"Yes," said the young man with plaid trousers and a big watch-chain, "I must confess that I am deficient in neglected beauties."

"Perhaps the modern music bores you," said the pleasant young woman. "I does many people, you know."

"Yes, I don't care for modern music. There is one thing about the old songs that I like very much."

"What is that?"

"The fact that nobody sings them."

An Improvement.

Father: "What can you offer my daughter that equal or excels what she has now?"

Young Suitor: "Well, I think the name of Montgomery is an improvement upon that of Briggs."

Shark for the Lady.

A young woman at her first dinner party after arriving in India, was alarmed when the sporting subaltern who had taken her in said suddenly:

"Oh, I must show you my tame shark after dinner, I have just had it painted black and polished."

It didn't occur to him that she would be ignorant of the fact that

Woman's Sphere

THE GOLDEN BIRD.
(James Stephens, in The Nation and the Athenaeum, London.)

If Joy, the Golden Bird, would fly,
Do not close a hand upon her;
She belongeth to the sky,
With all the winds of heaven on her.

Only when her wings are free
Bird of Lovely Life is she.

He who Joy of Life would store
Heavy or big he widely open;
Throw the key out with the door,
Throw the hope out with the hope-
Give her, as she finds in sky,
Place to dip and soar and fly.

She will come again, I wist;
She of thee shall not be frightled,
She shall sing upon thy fist;
By her shall thy dark be lighted;
By her freedom thou art given
Night and noon to joyous heaven.

OYSTER SALAD.

Let fifty oysters just come to a boil in their own liquor, skim them out and season with three tablespoons of vinegar and a little salt and pepper. Cut four cucumbers celery to make a pint, using only the tender part. When ready to serve, mix well with the oysters. Have ready a little more than half a pint of mayonnaise dressing; add part of this to the oysters and celery, arrange in a salad dish, pour over the remainder of the dressing and garnish with white celery leaves.

SCALLOPED OYSTERS

Take 1 cup of soft bread crumbs and 1 cup of cracker crumbs into 1 cup of butter. Sprinkle the bottom of a buttered baking dish with the crumbs then place on these a layer of well cleaned oysters cut in small pieces. Use in all about 2 cups oysters. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add alternately 2 or 3 more layers of crumbs and oysters, then add 1 cup of scalded milk. Bake in a hot oven about 20 minutes. Garnish with parsley and small toast triangles.

LINKED LIVES

By

D. Kinmount Roy

There was not the least chance of any human being invading their strange solitude; still, the old soldier felt more satisfied and confident having the means of defence by him. The fire burned merrily, throwing a ruddy light into the nooks, revealing the pillared marvels of their retreat in stately majesty. It was indeed a weird scene.

Before settling himself for his night's visit he drew forth a volume which he had carefully secured inside his vest, saying softly to himself, "My mam tak' the Buik,' for what was not spoken aloud hardly seemed his own, and now he went through his devotions as if a score were present. Having made this announcement to himself, he uncovered his head reverently, and read aloud in an undertone the eleventh chapter of Hebrews, reading the twentieth verse over more than once. 'The world wasn't worthie o' them,' bidin' in dens and caves o' the yirth! Thank God!' he ejaculated with fervour, 'for nae noble ance! Nae liber tas o' heroes ever was grant in this nae e'en Lord Wellington and the lave o' them, gruan ait-they are. The fear mare o' their example is wi' us, e'en here the nicht, their example let us follow!' And the old soldier, having finished reading, knelt down and prayed with great fervour, trying to speak softly, lest he should wake Oona. He need not have been so careful, for she was wrapped in profound slumber, and even had it not been so, the murmur of the falling waters below would have masked effectually any ordinary sound.

Having finished, he listened, but no noise save that of the watchful broke on the stillness. 'God bless her,' he whispered, 'she mauna wake and think she is by her ain sel, in ony ole' place on this!' His duty was undoubtedly plain to the old soldier, his place was with Oona, but for all that, he was a little concerned for the Rev. Hector Fordyce, who would have to be content with a much less efficient nerse to attend him in the discharge of his solemn duties on the coming Sabbath day. It was a pity, he told himself, that a man could only be in one place at a time, but it certainly was so ordered; and his first duty was to the lady safely in the care of from him. And so thinking, in spite of his best efforts, he also passed into the land of dreams.

Donald had made all possible haste, and having emerged from the chasm, he ran at his utmost speed to where Sandy lay. He had not dared to think how he might find the boy. As he approached he heard a moan faint and weary, saying, 'Faither, Sandy wants a drink.' It was a glad moment for Macalpin when he heard it, but yet it smote his hert a sharp pain, as he took in the fact that Sandy might have called many times for his father in vain. He soon brought water from a nearby spring for the thirsty boy. The little fellow's face was wet with tears; Donald wiped them dry. 'Diana greet, laddie,' he said, 'faither's here the noo!'

'Faither,' the little fellow said, 'I canna get up!'

'Diana try, laddie,' Macalpin said, hoarsely; 'faither will carry the ain laddie hame to mither, and then when you rest, maybap Sandy can get up!' And the boy was content, for so well was every quite so good to Sandy as faither's.'

But when the morning came Sandy was still unable to use his limbs, while the shock seemed to have had the extraordinary effect of lifting the mental cloud which had darkened the boy's mind.

It was hard to believe it at first, but it proved true. The doctors considered the case a very remarkable one, but stated that similar cases were not unknown. The curtailment of his bodily powers was a sad deprivation to such a child of nature, but the brightening of his mental vision was a large compensation, giving his thoughts wings, so that the tongue of the stammerer could at last speak plain.

Such medical help as could be procured was of course forthcoming, and all that loving care could do was done. The brave patience of the little lad was very marked; and his loyalty to the 'lady o' the Island' was in no way diminished; his concern for her safety still held the first place in his mind.

Meanwhile the time passed pleasantly enough at the Hall where Mrs. Dixon, the squire's sister, and her daughters Constance and Alice aided Hardcastle, for we might say, relieved him of much of the fatigue and responsibility of entertaining his numerous guests. It was two days after the events related, when the ladies had beaken themselves to the drawing-room and were discussing the ball given by the Squire on the previous evening. It was on a scale of magnificence in advance of anything that could be remembered of the kind, and dancing had been kept up till dawn. The guests from town were comparing notes, and amusing one another at the expense of some of the local guests, while Grace Skidmore sat at the piano, playing softly for her own enjoyment, and evoking harmony so wild and pathetic, so full of mystery and long ing, that all were soon wrapped in the invisible mantle of sweet sound, and more than one paused to listen, and gave themselves up to the mood of the moment. Now a dirge sobbed and wailed through the spacious apartment, like the passing of departing deities, and now a song of passion, glaring brain and blood; and again a note of triumph like the shout of a conqueror rang out with strange insistence, compelling attention, and staying the ball-guide and upon the tongue.

But then George Fullimore strayed in from the dining-room, convulsed with mirth which he struggled manfully to control, followed by Reginald Hardcastle a few minutes later, looking the picture of misery and chagrin.

THE TURKEY'S THANKSGIVING

"Just fourteen more meals till Thanksgiving. Just fourteen more meals' till Thanksgiving," crowed the big fat rooster, looking at the proud turkey suspiciously. A shudder ran through the turkey's feathers. He knew what that meant. Two years ago his father had disappeared, never to return, and last Thanksgiving he had seen the last of his big brother.

He had never known what had become of them till the big fat rooster told him with much glee. The rooster was jealous. The sooner Thanksgiving came, the better, he thought. When the turkey was killed then he would be king of the barnyard. He could hardly wait until he could strut around and look just as proud as he wanted to. If the truth must be told, the big rooster was just a little afraid of the turkey. The turkey was strong, er, and he would stand for no foolishness. Lately, however, he had somehow been different. He no longer fought, and it seemed to make no difference to him whether he had anything to eat or not. He moped around the barnyard all day long and paid little attention to the rooster's taunts.

Time slowly gradually passed, and Thanksgiving grew nearer and nearer. Every few days the farmer caught the turkey and anxiously felt his breastbone. Then the rooster would crow loudly, "Just six more meals till Thanksgiving. Just six more meals till Thanksgiving," and would add," I hope you're nice and plump."

The poor turkey would shudder and go off in the corner, where his feathers would stand on end with fright. He was so scared he could no longer sleep nor eat.

Finally the day before Thanksgiving arrived. The turkey had no more interest in life. The rooster already trotted proudly up and down the barnyard. The farmer and his wife came out for the turkey. With a proud swish of his tail the rooster mounted a stump and crowed lust- death.

Model Aeroplane Building

ARTICLE VI

How to Attach the Wings

(This is one of eight lessons which will tell how any boy can make a complete model aeroplane which will fly under its own power. Warren DeLancey, writer of the articles, was formerly president of the Illinois Model Aero Club, a group of boys who build and fly their own models and who hold nine of the best world's records for model aeroplane flying. Clip these articles until you have the complete set, including the directions for flying your machine.)

Use Tissue Paper Covering

Strong tissue paper makes the best covering for the wings. The main wing is covered on top. Go over the wing-beams and ribs on this side with household glue and then lay a sheet of the tissue paper on over this. The surplus can be cut off from around the edges with an old razor blade or lamp knife. Make the paper on the wing tight and smooth by pulling at the edges.

The tail-planes and rudder on the motor-base can now be covered with tissue paper in the same manner as the wing.

The fail-plane should be covered on the under side and the rudder on either side. This completes the work on our model and it needs only to be assembled before it is ready to fly.

FLAT RACING SEASON HAS OFFICIALLY ENDED

(By Canadian Press)

London, Nov. 25.—Flat racing for 1922 officially closed with the running of the last race on today's program at Lingfield Park and, while the season has been a most brilliant and successful one, it carries into history with it the not altogether desirable distinction of having provided an unusually large number of reversals of racing form, particularly in the classics and the more important Cup and Stake events.

Taken in their entirety, racing conditions this year have been most favorable. While the early Spring meetings experienced cold weather and it was necessary to abandon the Newbury Spring meeting on account of a snow storm, trainers were later or spared the ordeal through which they had passed a year ago—the long dry spell with its accompanying hard ground that plays such havoc with their charges, particularly the two year-olds. Throughout the season rain fell at most opportune times and Spring to keep the ground from becoming too hard, was an important factor in the development of a large number of exceptionally promising juveniles.

Racing got off to an excellent start this Spring. There was ample water for all, the number of horses in training exceeding those of any previous year and the entry list for the principal races for two-year-olds were unusually large. This was particularly gratifying in view of the fact that the preceding year, owing to the drought and its accompanying training hardships did not hold out much promise for any outstanding three-year-olds this season.

During the season just closed racing form has been turned topsy-turvy on many occasions. This is, of course, partly attributable to the abnormal conditions of a year ago. Juveniles that were difficult to get in training hard badly last year, while many of the apparently successful ones turned out to be disappointments this season. (1)

This year's classics have been a series of surprises. The first, the Two Thousand Guineas, went to Lord Queensborough's St. Louis, who defeated the favorite, Lord Woolavington's Captain Cuttle. Two days later, in the One Thousand Guineas, Marshall Field's filly Golden Corn, a hot favorite, finished third to W. T. Parr's Silver Urn, a ten to one shot. In the Epsom Derby St. Louis went to the post a favorite, but the winner proved to be Captain Cuttle, who with Lord Astor's Tamar in second place, were by the root at 11 to 1. The Oaks went to the favorite, Lord Astor's Pogrom, with Sonbriquet in second place, two outsiders making a duet in which she had finished in the One Thousand. The St. Leger, the last of the five great races for three-year-olds, was one of the most open and attracted the largest field that has ever faced the starter for this event in the past by a century. For weeks previous to the race as soon as a horse was installed favorite something interfered to cause him to cause a withdrawal. Thus Captain Cuttle, St. Louis, Tamar, Pondeland and Craigangower were installed favorites in turn. Influenced by the open nature of the race, Tamas, the winner of the French Derby, kept his engagement and was installed as favorite. He proved fractious at the post, however, and was left flat-footed. Lord Lonsdale's Royal Lancer, a 25 to 1 shot, was the winner, beating Lord Derby's Silurian by two lengths. In the Newmarket Jockey Club up six weeks later Royal Lancer started favorite in a field of five, and finished second to Sir Abe Bailey's Black Humour, who had established absolutely last in the St. Leger.

The reversals of form were not confined to the three-year olds, however. In the Lincolnshire, the first important race of the season, Gnarely, a 20 to 1 shot, was an easy winner in the Great Metropolitan at Epsom. Sangrail at 20 to 1 easily won from Flint Jack, while on the following day in the City and Suburban, the now favorite Gnarely could do no better than finish third to Paragon. The Great Cup Stakes went to Chevalier, a 50 to 1 choice, while in the Chester Stakes Collaborator, the favorite, finished last in a field of four. Royal Ascot furnished several upsets, the Ascot Stakes going to Double Hackle, with the favorite in second place; Golden Myth, at 6 to 1, and 8 to 1 respectively, won the Gold Vase and the Gold Cup, while Varzy, at 5 to 1, won the Hunt Cup. Just a month later Golden Myth was again responsible for the downfall of the favorite when he won the Eclipse Stakes from Tamar, the three-year-old favorite. The Sweepstake Cup, (Goodwood) which this year attracted the largest field in fifty years, went to Tetrameter, at 10 to 1, with The Night Patrol at 50 to 1, in second place. The Cesarewitch, the principal autumn handicap, went to Lisbon Prince, a hundred to one shot, with The Villas 2nd, at 40 to 1, in second place. Rebo, at 25 to 1, won the Cambridgeshire, with Hasty Match, at 50 to 1 in third place.

The outstanding four-year-old of the season is Sir George Bullough's colt Golden Myth, by Tredennis-Gold Lily. Of his five starts this year he won four and was placed second in the fifth. His first win was in the Queen's Prize at Kempton and following this he won a number of racing doubles, the Gold Vase and the Gold Cup at Royal Ascot. Subsequently, he won the Eclipse Stakes, respectively, are run with but one day intervening and that it is no mean feat to have succeeded in lead a second behind by the fact that it is over 40 years since it was duplicated, Isonomy in 1879 having been the last previous winner of the double. Having proved his worth as a stayer, Sir George entered his colt for the Cup Handicap, a mile and a quarter sprint, which he won by a head from Lord Astor's Tamar. Golden Myth was scratched from racing after winning the Eclipse, and carried with him the unique record of having been implicated in such a race in which he started. As a yearling Golden Myth was sold to Sir George for £700, while Varzy, alone he has won for his owner approximately $70,000. He is an exceptionally fast and well proportioned son of Bend Or and Hermit strains through his sires and the St. Simon and Bend Or train through his dams.

Whatever may be said against the season's three-year-olds,—and it can be safely said that the Jockey Club was not standing one this year—several smart juveniles were developed during the year. Lord Woolavington's colt Craganour, by Hurry On out of William's Pride, after losing her first race carried the Woolavington colors to victory with the "Gimcrack" and was conceded to be the champion of her age. Lord Glanely's Diadumenian colt, by T. F. Rawkins, the official handicapper for the Jockey Club, who in addition to his duties as such is the leading Handicap placed Town Guard at the head of the list with an impost of 134 pounds, a decided tribute to the merits of the bay colt by Sir Enzer out of Lady Burghley, was in second place, with Lord Woolavington's Fairway third. O'Malley-Keplars Law colt owned by Lord Furness and Cos. H. H. Aga Khan's Diophon, a Diadumenian filly, the champion of her sex, were each allotted 126 pounds. Lord Derby's Fairplay, ridden by Michael Beary, the winner of the only race in which Town Guard was beaten this season, was allotted 124 pounds, while Lord Glanely's Diadumenian colt, who was allotted 122 pounds.

Lord Woolavington's colt was not to be cider for the season without filling a victim to "the uncertainties of racing," however, and in the Criterion Stakes at Newmarket just a month ago was soundly beaten by Papyrus, a Tracery-Miss Matty colt owned by Mr. Marshall Field's Friar's Rock only. Drake did not meet Town Guard throughout the season and the only time he was seen in opposition as to the four-pound superiority of Lord Woolavington's colt over Mrs. Wilson's filly was collateral running—and that is not always convincing.

The Free Handicap went to the unbeaten colt by Swynford out of Galopade, owned by Lord Derby. The winner occupied thirteen lengths in the handicap, with an allotment of 117 pounds. Earl; in the season the Galopade colt never experienced hard during October won the Kempton Park Nursery Handicap, the Suffolk Nursery in Newmarket, the Cesarewitch Handicap, at Sandown Park in June Lord Derby's colt won the British Dominion Two Year Old Plate.

EXCELSIORS WIN FROM RITCHIES

The Ritchie Co. Team made a good stand against the Excelsior Par-Pan-Fire. They lost the first game which was fairly even but won the second by a goodly margin. Excelsiors however, came back and won the third, which gave them the win. The final totals varied by only 67 points R. Woodley rolled a tidy three-string at 851 and the Ritchie Co. were also well up. Scores and averages follow:

VILLA WINS FROM MONTREAL

Boston, Nov. 27.—Pancho Villa, American flyweight champion, went out of his class again here tonight and defeated Young Montreal of Providence, winning the decision in 12 rounds. Villa had an advantage of 3 pounds, held Montreal even in another and was only slightly behind in the one round in which the Providence fighter had any advantage.

Villa weighed 117 pounds and Montreal 116.

Montreal, a head taller than the Filipino opponent, managed all of racing doubles, the Gold Vase and the Gold Cup at Royal Ascot. Subsequently, he won the Eclipse Stakes, respectively, are run with but one day intervening and that it is no mean feat to have succeeded in lead a second behind by the fact that it is over 40 years since it was duplicated, Isonomy in 1879 having been the last previous winner of the double. HOW GOOD IS CONACHER?

Is He Best Half Back in America or Just in Canada?

The sport writers of the Toronto Daily Star are getting the sporting page of that journal in dutch, by reason of their unreasonable prophecies of coming events, and the over estimated worth of outstanding players who have already made reputations for themselves in the annals of sport.

One Athol Gow, for more upon a time proved great for a Toronto Star sponsored ball team by the name of Hillcrests, and his campaign, to use the words of the prophets, was a "frost". In fact he never has perfected but few articles in his paper since the baseball season ended on October 12th last (for Hillcrests are suddenly at Peterboro). He did appear in black and white, however, recently, just long enough to condemn Jimmy Ralph, the Star, a person from Oshawa, writing under a "consensus" name, was building him about as much prose agent ability, and asks that this person come out in the open and disclose his identity. Following after this article that Hillcrests were "advertised" at Peterboro, and its only reasonable to suppose that Hillcrests would not from behind the fence, now that Gow has cede down off his load of hay and Jas. D. Mann, Queen's former star boxing promoter is also a sport writer and Lou shifts a wicked pen. He writes that Jimmy Conacher is a bruised and battered man, fighting hard and taking terrible punishment, in an effort to show the fans that Art Marsh's rep. as a prophet.

But that is not all. The Toronto Star comes out with the announcement that Conacher is the best backfield in AMERICA, and that he is so much better than the rest that his brand and both shoulders are towering above the others.

Speculation is pleased to announce that one man has grown tired of such guff that he has used the Sport page of the Toronto Star to show their sport writers how it is what's done.

Sporting Editor Star: The writer is a ruby enthusiast and welcomes heartily the opportunity of discussing and witnessing many games on both sides of the border.

One statement in last night's issue of your paper really needs either a correction or an explanation. I refer to your remark, "Behind the line Argo have a back-field) also stands head and shoulders over any other in the league." I presume you have in mind Conacher.

If you mean in the above that Conacher is superior to his class but the latter is limited.

May I point out a few back field men in the Intermediate ranks in the United States and who are no doubt our all-American "chieftain", Mr. Camp, would like to have on his team. I refer specially to Cony: Jordan, p.h.h., Yale; Hewett, ch., Pitt-burg; Zimmerman, fl., Syracuse; Shiverick, h.b., Ohio State; Thomas, fb., Chicago; Erickson, l.h.h., W. and J. Tryon, r.h.h., Colgate; Kipke, q., Michigan.

Kipke is undoubtedly one of the greatest local field men in the United States. He and Cony were to be seen in action together and closed on their heels came Jordan, Yale's all round athlete and proper tackling, the latter would have the appearance somewhat like this:

It might be of interest to others reading your columns daily if they also read the opinion of others, some will prefer. We all must agree, however, that Cony is the class in Canada.

UP STREAMERS 45—8. H. S. 21,

At the "U" gym last evening the Upstreamer Basketball team defeated the H. S. Alumni High School team by the score of 45-21. The score does not indicate the play, as both teams played well. The line-up was as follows:

Upstreamers—C. Seferry, R. Miles, F. Miles, H. Anderson, G. Watts, C. Hall.

B. H. S.—L. Barlow, J. Hurley, E. Christie, W. Strachan, R. Emerson, P. Cole, S. Curry.

ESKIMOS LEAVE FOR KINGSTON

All Players in Good Trim, Expect to Pull Out Win

Men Remove Snow From Western Field and Cover It With Straw for Practices

Edmonton, Alta., Nov. 28.—The Eskimos, champions of the western Canadian rugby group, left this morning on their long journey to Kingston to meet the team representing Queen's University in the finals for the Dominion honors.

All the members of the team were in fine condition on leaving, despite the fact that it is now more than three weeks since they played their last game in the league. Harry Batt, Fourth, 'Beacon' White has had them under careful supervision all the time and light practices have been the order for the players to keep in trim for what they believe will be the hardest match they have had. They are not under-rating the Kingston Collegians but believe that with the ordinary breaks they will pull out a win.

The team will go by way of Toronto, which will be the first break in the journey, and they were accompanied by a number of prominent rugby followers, as well as local newspapermen, one of whom, at least, will be in communication with the paper from time to time from the Kingston Stadium during the game. The keenest interest is being taken in the contest.

Everything points to a record crowd at the great game for the Dominion championship, and with the field in fine shape, one of the best games is looked for. When Referee Lindsay Malcolm blows his whistle at the Stadium removing the snow from the field, and this, was practically completed this afternoon, Loads of straw were brought in the sleighs, and spread over the playing field, so as to protect the ground in the event of milder weather. In the event of a storm, it is probable that the Athletic Board will have canvas placed over the straw, so that it can be seen that nothing is being left undone to have the field in first-class shape for the game.

Coach Hughe, Bulk.

Little has been done regards the work of Coach Hughe, Bulk, Eskimo at the hands of the Canadian Rugby Union, but it is stated that the coach will be on the job Wednesday. The price, etc., has not as yet been arranged. Coach, Bill Hughes, who is also a referee, left on the week-end arrived back in the city at 1.40 this afternoon. There had been the usual talk that Frank Shaughnessy of the McGill coach, would be on hand as did Queen's for the balance of the season, but he has not been. Hughes returning to the city alone. He motored from the outer station direct to the Arena, where the Eskimos have already returned to training quarters.

Ottawa Wants 200 Seats.

Ottawa has already sent in a request for 200 seats, and it is expected that another request will be received, while other places have put in applications. Toronto, for instance, will ask for a block of seats.

The question of officials has been left to Capt. McKelvey, Pred. Baker and Prof. Drury, and they will confer with the executives and representatives of the Eskimos regarding the men who will handle the game. Referee Malcolm of the Eskimos, has suggested Murray Thompson, former Varsity star, as umpire, with either Dr. Ross Mitchell or Harold Saunier Lawson as head linesman.

MURRAY THOMSON WILL OFFICIATE

Moose, Jaw, Nov. 28.—E. Murray Thomson has been notified that he has been appointed to officiate at the Rugby game at Kingston between Queen's and Edmonton Eskimos on December 2nd, according to Mr. Thomson will leave at once for the East.

Paris, Nov. 23.—The Supreme Council of Russian Monarchists, representing all that is left of monarchist in favor of return of Czardom in Russia has just completed a five days conference in Paris during which the Grand Duke Nicholas, former commander in chief of Russian army, was elected successor to the throne of late Czar.

ST. PATS WIN INITIAL GAME

Beat Edmonton Eskimos 2-1 —Roach, in Goal, Plays-ed Good Game

Winnipeg, Nov. 28.—The world's championship St. Patrick's hockey team were victorious in their first game of the Western tour here to-night, defeating the Edmonton Eskimos two to one All the goals were scored in the second period.

The win was rather a lucky one as a soft shot from Randall's stick, which Kinkler pulled into the Edmonton net when it was a foot outside the post, decided the conflict in favor of the St. Pats. But it was the greatest exhibition of hockey staged on Winnipeg ice for many a year, and abounded with thrills from gone to gone.

Uncanny Work by Roach.

Toronto won because they showed more finish than their more aggressive opponents, who carried the play into the St. Patrick's territory for the greater part of the game, but the puck always rebounding to Jack Roach, the little Toronto goalie, stopped attack after attack when the Eskimos worked through for what looked like a sure score. It was one of the prettiest goalkeeping performances ever witnessed here.

The lightning rushes of Simpson was the feature of the Edmonton play, while Stuart and Randall did the heavy work for the Easterners. Teams:—

Toronto—Goal, Roach; left defence, Cameron; right defence, Stuart; centre, Randall; left wing, Noble; right wing, Dye; subs, Andrews, Denford, Scott and Simpson.

HOCKEY NOTES FROM HAMILTON

Hamilton, November 28.—The Tiger hockey club has engaged Ernie Rumiens, of Peterboro, to act as coach of the senior and junior O.H.A. teams. Rumiens played hockey for a number of years in the east, and was also in the both when Cobalt and Haileybury were such deadly rivals in the great winter sport. Rumiens is expected to get away to an early start this season, and will start to practice just as soon as the ice is in the arena and the practice hours are allotted.

John Ross Roach, goalkeeper for the St. Pats. of Toronto, was a visitor in the city yesterday, coming up from Toronto with Bert Corbeau, of "Burch" Arbour. The latter pair signed their contracts yesterday. Arbour has taken on considerable flesh during the winter months, and will have to do some reducing before he will be ready for a strenuous game.

George Carey, who has been traveling in the old land, arrived in Halifax yesterday, and wired Percy Thompson that he would be on the job here when the practices start.

Corbeau motored to Hamilton yesterday and left his car here, which means that he will be back shortly.

Goldie Prodgers did not arrive in Hamilton yesterday, as expected, but will be here next week to take up his winter quarters.

Talk of a hockey arena for Buffalo is being revived, and it looks as though one will be constructed there before another season rolls around.

The Hamilton Amateur Boxing club, which conducts the amateur tournaments here, may change the date of its next show so as not to conflict with the opening of the professional hockey season here. The show was booked for December 18 and 19 at the armories.

The Beavers are counting on having a strong team this season, it is said. Last year there were two intermediate teams in the city, and the playing strength was divided as a result. There are many promising juniors eligible for the Tiger team.

PRESTON HOCKEYISTS START TRAINING MONDAY

Preston, Nov. 28.—The hockey committee of the Preston Athletic Association met at Secretary Heisse's office, here tonight, and matters pertaining to hockey and the approaching season were discussed. Alvin Hobbard, well known hockey referee throughout Ontario, will represent the Preston Hockey Club at the annual meeting of the O. H. A. Messrs. Robertson, Rogers, Whitney and Heise were appointed a committee to meet the Arena management on Friday night to make final arrangements for the ice palace for the winter season.

Coach Bourgeau will arrive at the end of the week, and training is warmed up considerable on Monday next. On paper the local intermediates look stronger than last year, and, if the proposed merging is upheld, with the O.H.A. Kitchener, Stratford, Galt and Preston, the locals should have no trouble in holding their own.

MUSIC and DRAMA

REX PRESENTING GOOD COMEDY AT GRIFFIN'S TONIGHT

"His Majesty" is the title of the new fun comedy triumph, which is being presented at Griffin's tonight by the popular Rex Stock Company. The comedy is in four sets and five scenes, and the usual careful attention to appropriate scenic background and furnishings is evident throughout the play.

The theme of the story or the movie of the play concerns a message of love out to everyone, and goes to show that we are as big as we think we are, and also, we are small as we think to imagine ourselves. This delightful comedy while it carries a great lesson in the moving generation, is beinful of comedy, and gives every member of the Rex company an opportunity to step into the spotlight of favouritism.

One of the best vaudeville specialties introduced this season is being presented at this week, by Jos Kelly and Gloria Machea who present a snappy musical offering that has found favor with the vaudeville playgoers judged by the generous applause accorded the turn at each performance.

"AMERICAN BEAUTY" PLAYS TWO PARTS IN NEW PICTURE

Katherine MacDonald, known internationally as "The American Beauty," plays a dual role in her latest picture, "The Beautiful Liar," an Associated First National attraction, which is being exhibited for the last time at the Regent tonight. Alternately she takes the parts of Elsie Parmelee, a famous dramatic actress, and Helen Haynes, a stenographer in a Wall Street broker's office. The picture affords her exceptional opportunities to display her talents in the fullest extent. It is conceded to be one of the best pictures in which this favorite of the screen has ever appeared.

A two reel Hallroom Boys comedy, a new chapter of the popular chapter-play "Robinson Crusoe," and Fox News are announced for exhibition on the same program.

FILM CALLED HIT OF YEAR BY CRITICS

"The Storm," the Universal-Jewel attraction which has won widespread commendation as the outstanding screen success of the year, comes to Griffin's to-morrow night, to Saturday with a matinee Friday and Saturday, for an engagement of 6 days. An all-star cast, headed by House Peters, makes the screen version of Langdon McCormick's world famous play, an artistic triumph that holds the spectator spellbound. Virginia Valli and Matt Moore play the chief supporting roles. In fact, this stellar trio carry the burden of the majority of the scenes.

With the action of the storm laid in the northern Canadian woods, exceptional opportunities were offered for intense dramatic scenes, and Director Reginald Barker took full advantage of such chance to build up the suspense element. The forest fire scene, in which the flames sweep along in leaps and bounds, is magnificent and extends the thrilling mechanical forest fire given in the stage presentation.

Photoplay critics in New York, Chicago, and other metropolitan cities have been unanimous in their praise of the greatness of this Universal-Jewel and Manager Forhan of the Griffin Theatre is to be congratulated upon showing it here.

Pathe News Weekly, 1 two reel Century comedy and a record in the opening chapter of the gripping adventure play "Buffalo Bill" are being exhibited on the same program.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN AT REGENT TOMORROW

J. Warren Kerrigan's latest Brunton production, "The Coast of Opportunity," adapted from the popular best seller of that title by Page Phillips, the eminent New York novelist and magazine writer, will be given its premiere tomorrow at the Regent theatre.

In this picture Kerrigan takes the part of a young mining engineer who finds his fortune in copper in an isolated desert region of Old Mexico. The star is supported by an unusually brilliant cast, headed by Fritzi Brunette. The direction is by Ernest C. Warde and Jack Cunningham wrote the adaption.

A new Vodevil Movies with its bill of class vaudeville program, a Stan comedy, a Kinogram and other selected plays are announced for presentation on the same program.

GERMAN TEACHERS REBEL AT WAGE OF FIVE CENTS A DAY

Cologne, Nov. 6.—Objecting to a wage of twenty-three marks an hour, the teachers in Cologne's continuation schools have struck for more pay. Similar action already had been taken by the faculties of vocational institutions at Duisburg and Essen.

The Cologne staffs include teachers from the public grade schools, engineers, and artists handicrafters. Sometime ago they were conceded sixty-three marks an hour, but their union alleges no actual payments were made at this rate.

At the prevailing rate of exchange, twenty-three marks hourly means a wage of less than five cents for an eight-hour day.

International Convention on Prohibition Is Optimistic

Toronto, Nov. 29.—That there will be remarkable strides towards total prohibition as a result of the international convention of the World League against alcoholism, which is in its final session here today, is the confident assertion of leaders of the movement. The necessity for securing fullest possible co-operation of religious organization in movement, was emphasized by speakers of all denominations this morning. It was declared that prohibition and religion should go hand in hand.

ROSS CALLERY

The funeral of the late Ross Callery took place from his late residence at Camillton yesterday afternoon. Services were conducted at the home by Rev. Mr. Farnsworth, assisted by Rev. Mr. Kenny, of Campbellford. The funeral was largely attended. Burial took place at Belleville cemetery. The bearers were J. Farley, L. Waite, W. Badgley, G. Storey, H. Lawrence and F. Farnham.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Editor,—

Talk about worries, boys, but isn't Andy having his own sweet time of it? The election thills are nothing to this present nerve strain.

Andy told me that he missed that bonanza he got in his good friend Jerry's job chance has a fellow to get a return on investments of his kind except if they turn an election into a burlesque and start a recount. As long as Andy kept gaining votes, nobody cared, but get how what they are doing now, denying the will of the people and taking votes from him. You know a candidate that is independent and 100% for the people cannot stand still and let that sort of thing go on. Mr. Naylor, Chif Booth and Andy, and Mrs. Crawford, all rooted for Andy, and do you suppose they will stand still and see Andy cheated out of his seat in Congress? No Sir.

Nor "Mie" won't stand for it either, the sembled Irish, and says she says Andy has just got to stay elected. What would she do if they unseated him.

All the other ladies say the same thing. You know a lady cannot bear her vote. Probably you don't know that, it is true. Ladies always play winners.

The Shiuk crowd are no fools, either Andy, and it is going to be a big fight, a fight to the very finish.

Now Uncle Jim is an old political rotation of Andy's and maybe he will be able to help a little. We have told Andy to lay low and we think he will.

Andy called count on the help of the ex-service men. He gave them fifty simoleons, and they are turning out strong to elect the boy.

The plurality of twenty-four—just a plain two dozen—is all that is between Andy and defeat. There are many precincts to hear from yet tho' say it is nervous waiting.

"Mie" has all the new gowns, you know, and she says, she will wear them in Washington, and when "Mie" says, she will, in a way like she said that,—she will—that's all there is to it. Just you wait till you see what "Shiny" plans are, also the plans of the ex-service men. Andy will sure go down to defeat if he does go down with a low flying, and only silver a right royal battle.

Now Mr Editor, we count on you to help us, and I hope you will see the whole thing, though.

Yours, till the present is over,

Andy's Pal.

EMMANUEL CHURCH BAZAAR AND TEA

Ladies' Aid Hold Successful Sale of Fancy and Useful Articles

The bazaar and tea held yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of Emmanuel Church was a decided success and reflected great credit on the efforts of the ladies in charge. The booths decorated in various colour schemes and filled with fancy goods, home cooking and various useful articles presented a very attractive appearance. The homemade cooking and candy stall was presided over by Mrs. J. W. Barlow and Mrs. Holling and was decorated in green and white; the fancy work and apron booth which was in violet and white was in charge of Mrs. Henry Thompson, assisted by Mrs. H. A. Thompson, Mrs. James Barlow, Mrs. Follwell and Miss Ida Follwell.

The tea room, prettily decorated in yellow and white was a popular spot; Mrs. Henry Thompson was the convenor; Miss Hampton poured tea at the head table and the assistants were Mrs. R. H. Ketchenon, Mrs. Willis-un, Mrs. W. Andrews, Miss Holly Thompson, Miss Tibbett, Miss Edna Barlow, Miss Irene Hallam and others.

The proceeds from the sale and tea were about $100.

"There Were Many Things Which I Could Not Eat"

Mrs. H. Robert Wells, English Harbour, Trinity Bay, NBd., writes:

"I was troubled with nervous dyspepsia—so much so that there were a great many things I could not eat at all on account of the distressed feeling afterwards. I used many different remedies, but they did me little good. Finally I tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and was surprised at the relief this combined treatment gave me in such a short time."

BAZAAR AND TEA AT PARISH HALL

Ladies of St. Thomas' Church Hold Successful Affair

A very successful bazaar and tea took place this afternoon in St. Thomas' church Parish Hall under the auspices of the ladies' organization of that church. The hall presented a very attractive appearance, the main color scheme being yellow and white. Along the end of the hall facing the door was the home cooking booth, where an abundance of tempting dainties—cakes, tarts, jellies, preserved fruit, etc.—was displayed. This booth was in charge of Mrs. Bird, Mrs. Tilley and Miss Bray. On the right side of the hall was the fancy goods stall, which was decorated in blue and white and contained a beautiful array of all kinds of knitting, crochet, embroidery and fine needlework. This booth was in charge of Miss Corley and Miss Thompson. The fancy goods stall with all kinds of aprons, kiddies' rompers, etc., was in charge of Mrs. Ackerill, convener, and Mrs. Bunnett and Mrs. Allcock, assistants. Mrs. Howse had charge of the Fish Pond, and the ladies in charge of the Baby Booth were Mrs. Tourner and Mrs. Parcer. St. Agnes' School had a very pretty display of fancy goods, aprons, etc., and this booth was in charge of different girls of the school.

The tea room, in the basement, looked charming, with its yellow shaded lights and white and yellow linens. Mrs. Wiseman presided over the tea tables with several helpers. Mrs. J. A. McFee was general convener of the whole affair.

INTEREST IN BY-ELECTION GROWING

"KATIE ECCLES" IS PROBABLY A TOTAL LOSS

Wrecking Company Report She is in Very Shallow Water and that Salvage Operations Are Improbable

Kingston, Nov. 30.—More or less definite reports from the schooner Katie Eccles have been received through the Donnelly Wrecking & Salvage Co. Mr. Hillier Donnelly, who was in the vicinity of the wreck with the tug, Mary F. Hall, states that the vessel is hard aground on the east side of Timber Island, and that she will be a total loss. The schooner had been driven on up as far on the shore that it will be impossible for a tug to get close enough to pull her off. Mr. Donnelly said that he did not think that the schooner was resting in more than four feet of water. It is evident that the crew is O.K. as smoke was coming out of the smoke stack on the cabin.

Whether or not the barge of coal which was consigned to the Schuster Company can be saved is a question. On account of the low water it is thought that the chances of getting the coal are very slight.

In connection with The Intelligencer today, Mr. Schuster of the Schuster Co., for whom the coal on the Katie Eccles was consigned, stated that they have practically abandoned hope of getting the cargo of coal to Belleville. Mr. Schuster is also confirming the report that the crew is safe.

AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH

The special meetings are being continued at the Baptist Church each night this week in spite of the fact that there are many meetings in Belleville this week the interest is being maintained and the services are being well supported.

Mr. Greenlaw with his fine and sympathetic rendering of simple gospel songs never fails to reach the heart of his audience.

On Wednesday evening Rev. Mr. McKechnie, spoke of Justification by faith. The speaker showed that strict faith in the Crucified and risen Christ is a vital and transforming power in human life God can afford to justify those who believe. The outcome of such faith will be found in lives that are marked from sinful and selfish pursuits to the service of God and man. At tonight's meeting Mr. McKechnie will speak on the subject "Temptation and God."

THE SCHOONER "LYMAN DAVIS" TO BE LIGHTERED

Kingston, Nov. 29.—The Donnelly Salvage and Wrecking Company crew, which was, at Wasquos Island on Tuesday, to try and release the schooner, Lyman Davis, found that she was so hard on that before she can be pulled off her cargo will have to be lightened. The tug Mary P. Hall, returned and on Wednesday morning cleared with a lighter.

CHILDRENS' AID SOCIETY ANNUAL MEETING

At the time of going to press, the annual meeting of The Childrens' Aid Society was being held at the Lecture Room of the Y.M.C.A. here. Election of officers will take place at the meeting. Rev. Dr. C. Rasmus, President of the Society is presiding. Tonight, Rev. Peter Bryce of Toronto, Chairman of the Mothers' Allowance Board, will address the meeting in the Oddfellow's Hall.

LIBERAL WINGS MAY UNITE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Nov. 30.—H. H. Asquith has written a letter to the Right Hon. George Lambert, prominent Liberal member of the House of Commons regarding the proposed reunion of the two wings of the Liberal party, in which he states that he regards a United Liberal party, possessing Liberal policy on Liberal lines as a vital necessity to the state. "I have never placed and never shall place obstacles in the way of its achievement."

AUTHOR SAYS HAIG, NOT FOCH PLANNED BIG OFFENSIVE

Says Sir Douglas is Responsible for the Counter Offensive Which Finally Ended the War

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Nov. 30.—Another book telling just who won the war is off the press. But this one, by George A. B. Dewar and Lieut. Col. Boraston, entitled "Sir Douglas Haig's Command" is of special interest to the British public because it makes the astonishing statement that it was Haig and not Foch who planned the counter-offensive which ended the war.

MED. ASSOCIATION HEAR GOOD ADDRESS

Dr. O'Connor of Kingston Speaks on Ocular Diseases

Dr. R. C. O'Connor of Kingston, was the speaker at the meeting of the Medical Association of this city, held at the Chamber of Commerce last evening. Dr. O'Conner, who is an eye specialist, gave a very comprehensive talk on ocular diseases, which was very interesting and instructive to those present.

Dr. O'Connor presided at the luncheon, which was held in connection with the Association meeting.

CITIZENS REQUESTED TO LOAN MATERIAL FOR DECORATION

Alderman Greenleaf is at the head of the committee which are to decorate the city for the reception of Mr. W. D. Robb, on Monday December 11th. The importance of this occasion and the far-reaching effects of a good impression on the visitors, is hard to briefly describe, but in short, it will be one of the most important days in the recent history of Belleville.

It is proposed to decorate the poles on the main streets with evergreens and flags. In this connection citizens are requested to get in touch with Alderman Greenleaf and inform him of any material that they could loan him for use in the scheme of decoration. It is just possible that arches may be built and a somewhat more elaborate plan carried out.

In any event it will be of great assistance to the committee, if citizens will come forward readily and loan any flags and bunting for decorative purposes.

FREE STATE CONTINUES POLICY

Executes Rebels That Have Arms on Them When Captured

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Dublin, Nov. 30.—The Free State government is continuing all its policy of carrying out a death sentence against all rebels captured while bearing arms. Three men were executed this morning, one for possession of a revolver and the others for carrying bombs.

STERLING BANK WON CASE

Two Members of Defunct Sheffield United Farmers' Club Will Pay

At Kingston on Wednesday, Judge Hall gave judgment in a case which is of unusual interest, brought by the Sterling Bank against two farmers living near the village of Tamworth, who are members of a defunct U.F.O. organization called the Sheffield United Farmers' Club. After doing business for four years the club terminated its activities in 1921 and at that time was indebted to the bank. As it was not an incorporated body the bank brought action against each of its members who had been active in its affairs. It was impossible to bring action against the club itself which had no corporate existence. The trial was started at Tamworth last September, but was adjourned, and was completed in Napanee last week. The judge finds that the defendants are liable for the amount of indebtedness with costs.

DE VALERA REPORTED TO BE ATTEMPTING TRIP TO AMERICA

In Hiding Near Greenore, From Which Place There is a Daily Boat Service

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Nov. 30.—De Valera is reported to be attempting to leave Ireland for America, says a despatch to the Evening News from Belfast. He is said to be in hiding in Carlingford Mountains, overlooking Greenore, County Louth, from which there is a daily boat service to Holyhead.

EXCELLENT ADDRESS BRIDGE ST., MISSION

Rev. Mr. Millson Gives Powerful Sermon On Decision

Last night at Bridge St. Church the Rev. Mr. Millson gave a powerful address on Decision. His sermon was based on the words of Jesus, "no man is fit for He is ancient Mr." Half-heartedness and timidity he claimed were the bane of church life. Men try to find a middle course between serving Christ and serving evil. But there is no middle course. Men must be out and out for Christ if they would serve Him. He spoke, too, of the value of definite expression in the way of open religious faith and purpose. The sermon was listened to with rapt attention and a splendid response was given to the Rev. Mr. Millson's appeal for committal to Christ for salvation and service.

During the evening Mr. E. A. Ribley sang with fine effect the solo "Alone". Professor Hunt presided at the piano.

Mr. Millson has but two more nights for Belleville when he goes to Harris for a similar campaign. His address on Friday night will be of special interest to students and young people.

KATIE ECCLES IS ADRIFT

PHONE MESSAGE SAYS SCHOONER IS SOMEWHERE BETWEEN TIMBER ISLAND AND KINGSTON

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 30.—This afternoon a telephone message from Captain Harry Mitchell of the schooner Katie Eccles stated that she was adrift. Evidently she was not very hard as was reported yesterday when it was stated that she was driven so hard aground that she was resting in four feet of water. Other reports that the hull broken her back, are evidently in error.

During the storm last night, the schooner was refloated and went adrift. The crew were on the island and are safe.

The direction of the wind was such that she drifted North-East and is somewhere south of Amherst Island, although her exact position is not known.

The extent of the damage to her hull, if any, is not known, but evidently she will be leaking badly after her grounding. Attempts were made to locate her and save her cargo because it allowed to drift in definitely she might sink or go to pieces on the drifted scheme.

Editor's Note—Mr. Bolair of the Schuster Co. speaking to the Intelligencer this morning said he press stated that the boat had not been located yet and that as far as he knew the report of a Belleville boy being one of the crew, was incorrect.

SUDDEN CALL TO TRAVELLER

Col. McPhee of Barrie, Fatally Stricken in Local Hostelry

Death came with awful suddenness last evening to Col. J. H. McPhee, of Barrie, a traveller for the Barrie Tanning Company. Yesterday the deceased was in the city registering at the Kingsley House. After dinner Col. McPhee went to Pierson where he transacted some business, returning in the early part of the evening. He intimated to his friends that he was not feeling well having a pain in his chest. He then sat down in one of the large chairs in the sitting room and soon after Mr. Kingsley and others in the room heard deceased breathing very heavily and a gurgling sound coming from the throat. They carried col. McPhee to the front door for air but he expired. Dr. Faulkner and Drake were summoned and pronounced death as the result of heart trouble.

Col. McPhee was about 50 years of age and was popular with those with whom he did business. He was once prominent in the Masonic Society being a Shriner and also belonged to the Scottish Rites. A widow and two children survive. The body was taken to Tickell & Sons' undertaking establishment where it was prepared for burial. This afternoon it was sent to his late home at Barrie.

EXECUTIONS IN GREECE ARE BLAMED ON REVOLUTIONISTS

Britain May Resume Relations When Revolutionary Committee is Discarded

London, Nov. 29.—Premier Bonar Law announced to-day that the Government regarded the execution of the former Greek Ministers as the work of the Greek revolutionary committee alone. This is interpreted as meaning Great Britain will resume relations, broken off with the departure of Minister F. O. Lindley, when the committee is disposed of which is expected to occur soon.

British opinion generally is horrified at the executions, which are regarded as a reversion to barbarism. However, there seems to be a general feeling of regret that the revolutionists did not vent their anger on ex-King Constantine instead of what are regarded as a group of puppet ministers.

RAILROAD TRAINMEN ANNUAL "AT HOME"

Large Crowd Present at Enjoyable Function—Fifth Annual "At Home" of Railroad Trainmen

At Johnstone's Dancing Academy last night, The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, East Toronto Lodge, No. 106, held their fifth annual At Home.

The spacious hall was crowded, as even a record had congregated for this well known annual event, and a most delightful time is reported by everyone present.

Full arrangements for this memorable event were in the hands of Mr. H. L. Johnston, the President, and Mr. T. L. Warren, Secretary. Music for dancing was supplied by Sill's orchestra, which was augmented for the occasion with the result that the music was of first order. A large, varied, and interesting program of dancing was carried out.

Paris, Nov. 30.—Premier Poincare has accepted the invitation of Bonar Law to a conference of Premiers of Britain, France, Italy and Belgium at London, Dec. 9 and 10 to discuss German reparations.

CONSERVATIVES EXPECT TO CARRY LANARK

Government Sends in a Battery of Speakers in Effort to Win Riding—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen Makes a Very Convincing Speech—Leaves a Great Deal For Premier King to Answer

Almonte, Nov. 30.—Although the general opinion prevailing throughout the riding is that the Conservatives will carry Dr. R. P. Pennino to victory, neither side is relaxing its efforts. It is some years since a straight party fight has been waged in this constituency, which adds to the uncertainty. The Liberals are spending money freely for organization and advertising purposes, and have sent in a battalion of speakers including Cabinet ministers and members of Parliament to assist Mr. David Findlay, the Liberal candidate. Dr. Preston has had a greater political experience than his opponent, and also enjoys a wider personal acquaintance. He has been in politics for years, having spent more or less of this time in the provincial arena. He has practised medicine here, and, as he says, has "shared into Lanark some four thousand of its population. On the other hand this is Mr. Findlay's first venture into politics. Mr. Findlay is a married man while Dr. Preston is a bachelor. Supporters of both are making studies of feminine psychology to determine which has a better chance of pulling a majority of the women's votes. Conservative workers at the present stage of the campaign seem to have more confidence of victory than their Liberal antagonists have or are prepared to show. The Liberal leading supporters say that he will "at least break even in the northern half" of the constituency which in the last war fighting ground for both Conservatives and Liberals, and will carry the southern portion of the county by a good majority.

Orange Order Strong.

In the first place the Orange Order is strong in Lanark County, and its members are far from pleased at the last general election of the "Local Liberal bloc" in the Province of Quebec and the possibility of Quebec domination of the Government of the Dominion. Note is being taken of the fact that the election of Mr. Findlay would usher the Liberals in control of one over both the other party groups in the House of Commons, and attention is being paid to the call to Progressives contained in an article in a recent issue of the Farmers' Sun, the official organ of the United Farmers of Ontario, to vote for Preston and preserve the Progressive balance of power in Parliament.

Meighen Speaks at Almonte.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen set the work tonight systematically to ... way that the people know what the King Government is urging the election of the Liberal candidate. By plain logical statement of facts he riddled the Government candidate's appeal for support and he left a long list of arguments for Premier King to answer when he comes here tomorrow night.

The Conservative leader and the Conservative candidate addressed an audience which overcrowded the municipal hall of this town. They spoke to a fine representative crowd of townspeople engaged in industrial pursuits and of farmers from the surrounding townships, and they were accorded a hearing and given reception which augured well for the success of their cause on Monday next. Mr. Meighen tonight dealt with subjects upon which he did not touch in his Smith Falls speech of last night. For one thing, he replied effectively to the complacent announcement of Hon. W. R. Motherwell, the Liberal Minister of Agriculture, that the King Government deserved credit for securing the removal of the British embargo against the importation of Canadian cattle since last September. In the first place, Mr. Meighen pointed out that the embargo had not yet been repealed, but would not be at the present session of the British Parliament. "If it was," asserted the Conservative leader, "the present Government would not be entitled to credit for its removal." He traced the history of the efforts of successive Canadian Governments since 1898 to have the objectionable restriction abolished.

Fears Action of Fielding

"What I fear," continued Mr. Meighen, "is that the representatives of this country in England this year, Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Ernest Lapointe have assented to co-

HUSBAND AND WIFE BOTH WIN OFFICE

Kingston Man Sent to Council and His Better Half To School Board

Kingston, Nov. 29.—Nine Aldermen were elected by acclamation to the City Council for 1923 when the time expired for candidates to file their qualification papers. There will be no contest for Aldermanic honors in Cataraqui, Frontenac and Rideau Wards, while only in Frontenac Ward will there be a contest for School Trustee. Of the 61 Aldermen nominated on Monday only 27 qualified.

The Aldermen returned by acclamation last night are: Cataraqui Ward, Charles S. Anglin, W. J. Driscoll, Enoch Godwin; Frontenac Ward, Rev. J. D. Boyd, Wm. Holder, Howard Kelly; Rideau Ward, John Holder, George Lamrey, C. C. Nash.

The School Trustees elected without opposition are: Sydenham Ward, H. D. Whittemore; Ontario Ward, Mrs. S. Reville; St. Lawrence, L. T. Hunt; Cataraqui Ward, Mrs. Enoch Godwin; Rideau Ward, Mrs. Newlands; Victoria Ward, Thos. Mills.

A very unusual situation presented itself when Mrs. Enoch Godwin was elected by acclamation to the School Board, and her husband to the City Council, and it is the first time in the city's history that a lady has been on the School Board while her husband was on the City Council.

G.W.V.A. CONCERT PLEASING EVENT

A Good Program Presented by Soloists and Orchestra

A concert to assist in providing funds for the G. W. V. A. Christmas tree was held in the City Hall last evening and the attendance was not as large as it should have been for so worthy an object, but those present had a thoroughly gifted. Those who did attend were amply repaid, for an excellent programme of a varied nature was given.

Mayor Hanna was Chairman, and filled the position in his usually affable and able manner. In a few remarks he referred to the Christmas tree and the object for which it was given especially, a most worthy object and urged upon all present to do what they could to assist at this time of the year.

The Bridge Street orchestra was present and during the evening rendered a number of selections that were much appreciated.

Miss Edith Penn and Phyllis Bonar were the pianists.

The programme given by vocalists and readers was good, and all were compelled to respond to encores. Those taking part were as follows; Miss K. Walton, solo, My Love is a Muleteer.

Jas. Booth, song, On the Road to Mandalay.

Mr. Bankier, song, Tim Lee is at the Fight.

Mr. Harrett, song, Love's Garden of Rose, encore.

Dr. Hafner, song, Carrisima.

Mrs. Duff, song, Sweet Little Woman of Mine.

Miss Potter, Sleepless Night, piano solo.

Mr. Finley, recitation—The Old Horse.

Miss M. Lloyd, reading, The Obituary Notice.

Mr. P. Cook, solo, Devonshire Cream and Clotted.

Mrs. Binger, solo, The Fairy Pipers.

The programme closed with the National anthem.

VENIZELOS DEPLORES EXECUTIONS

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Paris, Nov. 30.—Venizelos, the former Greek Premier is quoted by the Lausanne correspondent of L'Liberte, as follows: "I deplore the tragic events that have taken place in Athens. The Greek Government publicly stigmatize in my presence the acts of Athens, I should be under obligation to leave Lausanne."

RUINS OF ST. BONIFACE COLLEGE

Ten lives were lost in the fire which swept St. Boniface College, Manitoba, on Saturday morning. This picture was taken at four o'clock and shows the south side of the college, where the laboratory was located. A full explosion was heard by those who were awakened by the fire. The Ku Klux Klan or their sympathizers are suspected of the outrage by the Jesuit Fathers connected with the institution, which was one of the oldest Roman Catholic colleges of Canada. St. Boniface is adjacent to Winnipeg.

Specialist Said ECZEMA Was Incurable

but he reckoned without Zam-Buk

Writing from Sweetwater, Texas, U.S.A., Capt. Oscar W. Petty, says:—"For four years I had an obstinate dry eczema. My skin peeled off, and disfiguring scales as of the scorpion came on my face and head. A well-known skin specialist said the eruption could not be cured, but friends put in hand to me to try some Zam-Buk. To my great delight, I soon saw an improvement. The peeling skin stopped within a week. At the time I started with Zam-Buk the eczema had spread all over my body, so that it took considerable perseverance for however I am thoroughly effective. But now, by delighted to inform you, that now, by the use of Zam-Buk, my skin is in perfect condition."

I have a friend who also suffered from a similar disease to skin affection, to his case too, within a few days Zam-Buk was acting splendidly. He tells me that Zam-Buk beats anything he has ever known."

Zam-Buk cannot be equalled for ulcers, eczema, bad legs, piles, chronic sores, wounds, and all germ diseases and festering. 50c. box, all druggists and stores. FOR TRIAL SAMPLE send 1c. stamp and mention this paper to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Fruit Growers Proud of Their Victory—Burlington Display One of Big Show's Features

Ontario farmers may have something to learn from growers in British Columbia in regard to marketing, but they do know how to produce apples. Not only was this fact demonstrated at the recent Imperial Fruit show in London, but again at the Royal Winter fair yesterday. A what Percy Hodgetts, of the Ontario fruit branch, declares to be the best exhibit of apples in the Dominion, the product from Canada's Pacific province went down in defeat. Growers from both British Columbia and Ontario made a big effort, displays lacked nothing to attract the eye, the individual packs in the 3,000 boxes in competition were perfect. British Columbia's sorting once they had the total number of exhibits, Ontario came next and Quebec and New Brunswick lagged far behind. The fight was between this province and the one that has been flooding Toronto market will highly colored fruit during the past month.

The show apple of British Columbia is known as the Jonathan. Growers from the far west province will concede that Ontario produces good Spys and perhaps some of the cooking varieties, but their Jonathans—well, they are about perfect. Today they are not so sure. In the classes open to 20, 10 and single box exhibits in Jonathans, Ontario carries off the premier awards, with British Columbia following. In the McIntosh varieties the "Mac" proved also led, though a single win in Spys was reported by the exhibit from the Coldstream ranch.

A story going around the show explains the defeat of the B.C. apple. Apparently, they will not stand up. According to Prof. A. H. McKenzie, of the O.A.C., Guelph, the product from the west, although on exhibition only a few days, is already beginning to show inward signs of wear. The flesh of the apples is becoming brown and mealy, although the skin remains as attractive as when the fruit was first picked.

That Ontario growers were correct in their efforts to remove the slur cast upon their apples is indicated by the rigid selection of the fruit sent to the Royal. "One basket lot which I entered was selected from over 200 baskets of first-class fruit," stated Paul Fisher, of Burlington.

The exhibit of the Niagara Peninsula growers was made up by Messrs. Fisher and Smith, of Burlington, and is one of the outstanding features of the fruit section of the Royal show.

New Brunswick scored a win with Scarlet Pippins, an apple very popular in the maritimes, but little grown here.

Mrs. W. H. Brickman returned home on Saturday after a week's stay at Port Hope.

PROVINCIAL DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE REPORT ON FARM CONDITIONS

Live Stock Now in Winter Quarters—Mild Autumn Permitted Young Cattle to Remain Out Late, Improving Their Condition—Newsy Notes From All Parts of the Province

Nearly all live stock are now in winter quarters, young cattle having had an unusually good long stay on pasture this fall. Farm animals are in good condition generally, and the supply of fodder on hand was never fuller.

Fall wheat on the whole has an encouraging appearance as it enters the winter.

The touch of wintry weather now prevailing has halted fall plowing, but a larger area than usual has already been turned under.

Waterloo says that the milk flow has fallen off more during the last two weeks then it did during the summer and fall.

Frontenac farmers are receiving from $10 to $12 a ton for baled hay. Lennox and Addington reports good timothy hay going at $9 a ton. Waterloo places the price of hay at from $13 to $14 a ton.

Prices for turnips have been so low that many who raised them for shipment are piling them in the hope that they may be worth more in the winter.

A farmer in Lennox and Addington recently sold 41 bushels of red clover seed at $10 a bushel.

Prescott and Russell says: "All the late hives which will be wintered in cellars have been taken in. The clear and open weather of the fall has permitted a good many cleanings; flights, and it is expected that under such circumstances they will winter very well."

Waterloo claims that farm hands can be procured with little difficulty. The Halton representative has also found employment for a number of good workers.

Kenora thus alludes to a source of winter revenue to many farmers in the northern districts: "Now that everything is frozen up all the farmers that can get away are busy in the bush with their teams, or hauling gravel for roads and the pulp mill for which they receive $6 per day."

Frontenac reports: "The lack of rain has seriously affected the water supply in this district. Many wells have given out and farmers are obliged to haul water several miles for their stock or drive them to the supply."

The Prescott and Russell representative speaks of the comparatively low egg production this fall, stating that only a few dozens seem to be available.

Many poultry raisers in the St. Lawrence and Ottawa counties are busy preparing for "Turkey Day."

Huron says: "Each week seems to be adding to the number of cattle being brought into the county for winter feeding and finishing. One drover told me this week that eight car loads of stockers and feeders had been brought into their station already this fall. If this is representative of the rest of the shipping points in the county, it would seem that about 5,000 cattle have been brought in for winter feeding."

Kent says: "One farmer here travelling

FOX RANCHING AS A BUSINESS

A bulletin of much interest and value to those engaged in rearing the silver-black fox in captivity has recently been published under authority of the Dominion Minister of Agriculture. The pamphlet is entitled "Fox Ranching in Canada," the authors being Messrs. J. A. Allen and J. Ennis Smith, respectively, Animal Pathologist at the Fox Research Station at Charlottetown, P.E.I., and Biochemist at the Research Station, at Hull, Que. The subjects dealt with include the construction, the management and sanitation of ranches; the diseases of foxes, and the scientific nutrition and the feeding of foxes.

It was not until as late as 1910 that fur-breeding became a recognized industry in this country. In that year a pair of foxes sold for $3,000, and in 1913 a pair sold for $20,000, but the top price was reached when $35,000 was paid for exceptional specimens. At the height of the boom speculation took options on unborn cubs. The war brought an end to such practices, and the industry became stabilized. Today, states the bulletin, the market value of foxes per according to quality and performance. Fox ranks from $500 and upwards, so it is estimated that last year over 2,000 pair of live foxes were exported. Prince Edward Island and that 5,000 pelts were sold, the average price of which was $370 per skin.

While to Prince Edward Island must be credited the inception of fox breeding as a commercial prospect, the business has spread until ranches now exist in Ontario, Quebec and in several other provinces. The bulletin constitutes a guide to accepted practice how some of the pitfalls incidental to the business may be avoided.—Issued by the Director of Publicity, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

SOUNDS OF THE FARM

When the bobolinks are singing,
Somewhere along in June,
There's another music ringing
That isn't much for tune;
But it sets my heart a-dancing
In a very happy way
As I ride, with horses prancing,
On the mower cutting hay:
Clickety-click, all day.

And when July is closing,
Or August just begun,
Then the fields with heat are dozing
And the world is full of sun.
I start my binder clacking
Around the field of wheat,
And though melody is lacking
To me the sound is sweet:
Clickety, click-click, click-click, click!
The song of the ripened wheat.

When all the birds are flocking,
With many a gathering call,
And the cold flaks all are talking
About the signs of fall,
Some morning shrill and stirring
Comes the thresher's whistle clear
And soon the steady purring
Of the big machine we hear:
Harvey, sim-sim, purrs!
The best sound of the year.

Peter McArthur.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER

DAIRY PRODUCTS

Their Value in Promoting Physical and Mental Well Being of Both Child and Adult

Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap," was the text that Miss Helen G. Campbell, of the Dominion Dairy and Cold Storage Branch, selected on which to found a recent address in which she undertook to prove that Dairying was Everybody's Business. The speaker explained that it was not her intention to deliver a sermon, but, as a matter of fact, she delivered a homily so full of truths calculated to benefit and inspire the hearers that it might have been given voice in any edifice, sacred or secular.

One of these truths that came out early in the address, and which every parent should pay heed to, was that to train in child in good food habits is one of the fundamentals in making him or her a success in life. In her address, Miss Campbell then proceeded to point out the various virtues that dairy products possess, not alone in body-building and mental development, but also in the general capability of accomplishing big things. She traced plant life through absorption by the cow to the making of milk and cream and thence to butter and cheese, which all contained that element necessary to every form of life, namely, vitamines. In our climate, she said, where homegrown green vegetables were not obtainable at all seasons, we must depend to a large extent on our dairy products, and insisted that the more we do so depend the better health we should enjoy. She quoted Metchnikoff in proof of her assertion that milk promoted longevity, and Dr. McCollum, the widely known scientist, as saying in advocacy of the greater consumption of dairy products, that their extension in use was the first and most important principle, and that "the basis of preventive dentistry is satisfactory nutrition during development"; in other words, that the consuming of dairy products leads to good teeth. Scientists maintained, said the speaker, that we should use at least a quart of milk a day either as a drink or in some form of food. The ordinary Canadian diet was said to be lacking in sufficient lime, and milk supplied this substance in greater quantity than any other common food. Lime was important to both mother and child. Having pointed out how luminous and wonderful profited by the plentiful use of dairy products in the promotion of their own health and that of their employees, Miss Campbell declared that she sometimes thought that commercialized professionalism in their down-town lunch at least, are more faithful followers of the doctrine "drink milk" than any other class of people. In her closing passages the lady referred in terms of praise to the distribution of milk in schools and to the welfare work of the Home and School Clubs of the Border Cities.—Issued by the Director of Publicity, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

WRIST 'KERCHIEFS FIND FAVOR

(Associated Press)

Paris, Nov. 28.—The wrist handkerchief which first appeared in Paris several weeks ago, has become quite the thing to wear this fall. The smartly dressed women encouraged the craze with the result that the price has been run up as high as 100 francs each. The little handkerchief of crepe de chine is held by a loop on a dainty wristband of leather or ribbon.

New York funds closed yesterday at from par to 1-32 per cent. premium.

A firmer tone in the New York market yesterday. Yesterday's rally appears to have established confidence in the better grade of stocks. Sinking spells are looked for in the market during the next thirty days because there are probably plenty of stocks about to be sold to register tax losses, and the weak spots will be selected to pick up issues to hold for profit taking next year.

Cash wheat sold higher yesterday. Dec. wheat $1.04 at Winnipeg and Dec. wheat $1.07⅞ at Chicago. Foreign countries buying and a liquidation of the longs reflected in the buying. A leading speculator on the bear side is said to have abandoned his position and is buying heavily to even up his account. Heavy rains reported from Argentine. Light stocks at the seaboard and possible close of St. Lawrence river navigation within a week stimulated the advance.

Initial Unit of New Power Plant for Gold Mining District is Now Nearing Completion

Financing Plans Announced—Company's Bonds Are Surrounded With Exceptional Safeguards—Estimates of Net Earnings

Toronto, Ont., October 29—Special)—A new hydro-electric power company has been organized to furnish northern gold mining districts with power and assist in the development of that rich territory. It is known as the Great Northern Power Company, Limited.

The bonding power is limited to $2,000,000 and the initial issue amounts to $650,000. It is capitalized at $2,000,000 common stock the shares having a par value of $10 each. The offering of the first issue of bonds is being made attractive at a price of 95 and accrued interest which will make yield on investment about 7½ per cent. In addition subscribers will be awarded a substantial bonus in common stock.

The company is now building the initial unit of a plant on the Montreal River at Indian Chutes, in the midst of a great gold mining district. It is so situated that transmission lines can reach and serve all the best known developments. The dam is now under construction and it is expected to be completed by the end of this year and the first power unit of 3,150 horse power ready for distribution early in 1923.

Conservation Rights.

The ultimate capacity of the Indian Chutes plant is 6,500 horse power. At Big Bend Falls, a point twenty miles further up the river, another site is available where 6,000 horse power may be developed. Engineers declare that there is no danger of scarcity of water to turn the wheels as rights have been given the company for the conservation of sufficient water for its requirements in Whitington Lake at moderate cost.

With the completion of the first unit of 3,500 horse power it is estimated that the net earnings will be over $375,000, or more than four and half times the amounts required for payment of the bond issue. These earnings will show at the rate of 13 per cent. earned on common stock. Based on contracts already acquired with responsible companies the first unit of 3,500 horse power is expected to earn $100,000 net against the $59,500 per annum required for bond interest.

The safeguarding of the position of the bonds has been made a feature of the company's financing. No additional first mortgage bonds may be issued except to the extent of 75 per cent. of the cost of further expenditures on capital account and then only provided the net earnings after such further expenditures have been earned 1½ times for twelve consecutive months within fourteen months of the offering. Any sinking fund which will commence to operate Nov. 1 1925, will be sufficient to retire the entire issue by maturity in fifteen years.

Bonds may be purchased in the open market or called at 105 and accrued interest for sinking fund purposes. The company agrees to pay no dividends over 4 per cent. on the common stock until half the outstanding bonds are retired and no dividends over 6 per cent. until the entire issue is retired.

MR. LONGWORTH TELLS A FORD STORY

Congressman Tells Why He Declined to Execute a Political Errand

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 29.—While engaged in recent political manoeuvring in Southwestern Ohio, Congressman Nicholas Longworth engaged in considerable storytelling among his constituents, and in doing so revealed certain incidents in his political career. According to Longworth, it became known in the East in 1920 that Henry Ford had fallen out with President Wilson and was a possible convert to the Republican way of thinking. Longworth's story is that he was called upon by the Republican National Committee and requested to act as messenger to the sleuthful Mr. Ford with an offer to exchange certain favors for Ford's support of Harding for the Presidency.

The Ohioan, while expressing himself as very anxious to aid the Republican Party and the candidacy of Harding, demurred. His hesitation aroused decided curiosity on the part of several National Committeemen, and this anxiety took the form of a question as to why he feared success and only seven, persons in the whole world who, even sure not to be injured by the fighting. There were the six sons of the Kaiser and Ethel Ford.

"Well, it's this way, gentlemen. I said, gentlemen, I say, the Congressman's answer was:

"Well, it's this way, gentlemen. If Ford's answer was: "Well, it's this way, gentlemen. I am the Congressman's answer was: "Well, it's this way, gentlemen. If I go to see Ford, gentlemen, Henry knows I'm going, who said that there were seven, jit."—New York Times.

THE LITTLE RED SCHOOL HOUSES OF ONTARIO

The little red school houses that are so familiar to all of us, who have spent our early days in Ontario, have apparently served their day, if the figures given out by the Hon. H. H. Grant, Minister of Education are to be taken seriously. They also furnish proof of the necessity of finding a substitute, and consolidated schools appear to be the only remedy in sight. It is not very economical for our province to continue to pay large grants to schools in which the attendance consists of a bare handful of pupils. The Minister of Education goes on to say that there are 1,932 schools in this province with an attendance below twelve, and 1,800 more which have an average attendance of only a dozen. Grants are actually being paid to six schools with but one pupil each. Twenty-seven schools have only two pupils, fifty schools have only three, and there are no fewer than 641 schools in Ontario with an attendance of from six to nine pupils. This condition of affairs represents gross extravagance and should not be tolerated much longer. Could any private enterprise be conducted along such lines and succeed? The people should become acquainted with these conditions and learn of the folly of attempting to carry on schools with such small attendances. They should be shown how much more economical, and more effective it would be to inaugurate the consolidated school system.

One or two very successful consolidated schools have been built, and are operating in Prince Edward County. The Minister of Education claims to be a firm believer in the consolidated school system, but so far, as the figures above would indicate, but little progress has been made with the idea. Rural ratepayers have not been shown the advisability or necessity of the change.

Probably these little red school houses, which have done such valuable work for this country, are doomed. Their record will long go down in history, as some of the most famous men in the Dominion have received their early education in them.

It is to be hoped that the present and the succeeding Departments of Education will give their attention to this matter and check the waste and at the same time improve our educational facilities in Ontario.

BUSINESS AND POLITICS DO NOT MIX

The Oshawa Reformer recently painted a gloomy picture of the United Farmers' organization in Ontario. This paper is edited by J. C. Ross, late editor of the Farmers' Sun. The sum and substance of the moral pointed out, in the article, was that politics had played the mischief with the business end of the system. Later events have only proved the truth of Mr. Ross' statements.

The Regina Leader, commenting on the serious loss of membership experienced by the United Farmers of Alberta, states also that in Saskatchewan the Grain Growers' Association has today only 15,000 members, compared with 21,000 at the commencement of the year, and 40,000 three years ago. The Leader, too, is of the opinion that mixing business and politics is bad for business. Indeed, it declares that "when politics are allowed to enter into co-operative business it is doomed.". The Leader expresses itself as follows:

"Another angle of this revolt against mixing politics with business is seen in the present disturbance in the United Grain Growers, Limited. The shareholders are convinced that their interests are being subordinated to the political ambitions of a clique. At their next annual meeting there will probably be fur in the air. The United Grain Growers is one of the most considerable grain-handling organizations in Canada, but its shareholders have discovered that business and politics as easily as oil and water—and sloppy so, profitably. The experiences they are now having should be a lesson to every co-operative elevator company in the country. Co-operation was adopted here in preference to government ownership, because it was thought that it contained less danger of political manipulation. When politics are allowed to enter co-operative business it is doomed."

HERE AND THERE

THE MOST DANGEROUS TIME OF DAY.

"I cannot tell you the most dangerous spot in the United States," says Mr. Butler, "but I can tell you one of the safest; if you are willing to do what you are told to do for your own protection. It is at Forty-second Street and Fifth Avenue, New York City, one of the busiest street intersections in the world and one of the best protected in your city, wherever you live, one of the safest places for you is likewise at the busiest street intersection, because traffic men are on duty to save you from harm through your own carelessness.

"For nearly all of us the most dangerous time of day is between four and five o'clock in the afternoon. This might be called the 'fatigue' hour. Then, whether we are engaged in some hazardous occupation in machine shop or factory, or following ordinary work in offices, or returning home from a shopping trip, we are tired, and more careless than at other times of the day. Watch yourself, and see if the little slips you make with the ink bottle and pencils, the small collisions you have with objects in the office or at home, do not occur more frequently about this hour. Of course, whether or not these little slips result in bad accidents, depends upon circumstances and your environment at the time."—Louis F. Butler, Travellers Insurance Co.

IT ISN'T WHERE YOU 'GO'—IT'S WHAT YOU DO WHEN YOU GET THERE.

Mr. Blank, the editor of a country paper in Western Ontario, says that he gets a lot out of his trips to New York. Blank keeps his eyes and ears open wherever he goes.

But there are many men who do a lot of useless gadding around. I wonder if you know the kind. Maybe there is one in your office. I mean the chap who gets bored with his job (or his home), and suddenly announces that he guesses he'll take a run over to Toronto and Hamilton. You ask him what for. Well, he wants to "get in touch with the situation;" he wants to get "the feel of the market;" he wants to find out what "folks are thinking." He has no specific business either in Toronto or Hamilton, but he's got the wiggles and must take to the road. So he goes away for ten days, spends $100, sees Ziegfeld's Follies, plays a little bridge, hears a lot of new ones, says the new hotel in Hamilton is "a bird," and returns to his job with nothing else to his credit that is really a definite result of his trip.

A few years ago I knew a very remarkable man who did this regularly about once in a big while. He went roving all over the globe—setting in touch with the "sentiment," learning the "temper of the people," finding out what "folks are interested in." And once, when he was away on a very long trip, a lot of smart guys took his business away from him!

Of course much depends on your job. If you're a salesman assigned to a specific territory, you've got to travel theodoth that territory and see your customers. And no matter what your work is, an occasional trip to another part of the country is a good thing—provided you listen and look when you travel. But the vast majority of us are best employed when we are at our own desks on the job. And don't forget—wherever you are—that by sticking at your job you are not going to miss all the opportunities to gain people and places of the country. If your office is in Montreal, plenty of wandering-Winnipegers and Torontonians will come along and tell you all about "the sentiment" in Winnipeg and Toronto, if you will only hold your tongue and let them. And the cost of the railway fare and the hotel service will be theirs, not yours.

Also observe that this useless wandering around is not confined to important men in large companies. I once hired an office boy because I could not discover a reasonable excuse to keep him glued to the bench where I wanted him to stay seated until I needed him. He was the largest single patron of the water cooler in the place—and the best collector of baseball gossip on the floor.

The other morning I stood at the 125th Street Station of the New York Central Railroad in New York and watched those glistening rails. No other rails shine as they do—for a thousand train glide over them every day. They do—for a thousand trains glide over them every day. I like how many of the folks who ride on them are travelling on definite business? And how many "transact" that business when they reach their destination?

The next time you buy a railway ticket, ask yourself what you are going for. The question is pat and, perhaps—whether you are selling out on a wandering whim. Hamilton to sell a new brand of suspenders, running up to Galion to see Ellen's new baby, or supposedly departing for Vancouver to "look over the situation."

AUTUMNAL.

I shall come home when the Autumn stars,
And entering in across the lighted sill
Be glad of red coals glowing through the bars
To warm my hands . . . and this already inner chill,
For I have walked old, lonely roads today.

When thin and yellow sunlight seemed afloat
With mist and wood-smoke that's with their way
Of drawing something tight about the throat.

I shall feel safer when I close the door
Against the dark's vague tugging griefs and fears—
For there, where firelight falls across the floor,
I Will be a stone of gray assembled years,
Old friends and wise with whom I learned to make.

A way of smiling when the heart would break.

PRESS OPINIONS

KINGSTON'S 200TH ANNIVERSARY.

(Kingston Standard.).

It is well that the Kingston Historical Society intends to take up rigorously the question of the city's 150th anniversary next year, as it needs a body of this sort to arrange for as fitting a celebration as possible. As should anticipate that it will find no great difficulty in obtaining fresh members, who would aid the present ones in securing funds and arranging for suitable pageants.

The suggestion to place memorial plaques on historic buildings is a good one; but might we suggest that the foundation of the long talked of Museum would be the best, most useful, most interesting and most lasting memorial? We confess to being a little tired of urging a Museum, but intend to keep on pleading till one is established. This old historic city should have one of the best in Canada, and it is to be related that many other cities have already founded them. The site is waiting at the Turney Tower.

DRY THROATS IN AMERICA REDUCE WINE PRODUCTION

(Associated Press)

Rome, Nov. 23.—Prohibition laws in America continue to have their effect on the production of wine in Europe, especially in Italy and Spain, the most important wine growing countries on the Continent.

According to the international institute of Agriculture, the 1922 vintage in Italy is estimated at 726,000,000 gallons, or about 18 per cent below the average of the previous five years. In Spain the yield of wine is expected this year to be 475,000,000 gallons, or eight percent below the last five years.

WATCH FOR ADVT.

A LITTLE WEE PUP

A little wee pup with his soul in his eyes,
Owns me for his lord and master,
The wealth of affection his puppy heart holds
Is mine throughout joy or disaster.
He comes at my call, let me call when I will,
And regardless of wind or of weather,
He'd trudge uncomplainingly number-less miles
So long as we travelled together.

This little wee pup with his soul in his eyes,
Takes patiently all of my teasing;
He wriggles and wrestles and tumbles and bumps,
Just happy to know he is pleasing.
If I should be weary, he lies at my feet,
Alert, but awaiting my pleasure,
His silky ears listening for word or release,
When he may be gay without measure.

My little wee pup with his soul in his eyes,
Barks fiercely at sight of a stranger,
Then glances protectingly at me to show
How surely he'll guard me from danger.
Our compact of friendship perforce must be mute,
Alas that it cannot be spoken!
But this I well know—by the little wee pup
That compact will never be broken.

Oh, little wee pup with your soul in your eyes,
How can I deserve your devotion?
How can I live up to the standard you set,
Of friendship and tender devotion?
This thing I would whisper within your soft ear—
"Forever and aye I'm your debtor!
I've given you bread, but you've given me love!
For knowing you I shall be better."
—B. Y.-Williams, in New York Times.

EASTER ISLAND HORRIBLE PLACE TO LIVE

London, Nov. 28.—Easter Island, the land of mystery of the South Pacific, virtually devoid of vegetation and without bird life of any kind, is a horrible place to live, according to a New Zealand scientist who is now in London after a five months stay on the island.

No trees grow on Easter Island because it lacks water and the heavy winds wreck them. No birds live there because there are no worms in its dry soil; there are no mosquitoes, but this lack is more than compensated by vicious local flies.

The island is triangular, 12 miles by nine by seven, and is remote from the track of ships. Two hundred Polynesians inhabit it, and they suffer perpetually from hunger, according to the investigator, who is Professor J. Macmillan Brown.

It is famous for its high carved stone images, the origin of which never has been determined. Professor Brown says the island cannot have been long inhabited. He fixes 1680 as the date of the first settlers, and consequently of the setting up of the strange stone gods. It was first sighted by white men in 1686, and first explored in 1723, when it had 2,000 inhabitants.

Woman's Sphere

A PRAYER

Let me be little kinder,
Let me be a little tender,
To the faults of those about me;
Let me judge a little more;
Let me be when I am weary
Just a little bit more cheery;
Let me serve a little better
Than that I am striving for.

Let me be a little braver,
When temptation bids me waver,
Let me strive a little harder,
To be all that I should be.
Let me be a little sweeter,
With the brother who is weaker;
Let me think more of my neighbor
And a little less of me.

DINNER MENU

Friday, December 1st.

Creamed Salt Codfish Paniotte
Baked Potatoes, Cabbage Creole
Beets in Drawn Butter
Cress and French Endive Salad
Vanilla Dressing
Peach Roll (Dried Fruit)
Hard Sauce Coffee
CREAMED SALT CODFISH A LA PAULETTE

Pick "middies" of salt codfish in thin small flakes (there should be 1 cup); cover with cold water, let stand over night; then drain and rinse thoroughly in several waters. Cover with fresh water and heat slowly to just below boiling point; drain, melt 1 tablespoon butter, add 2 tablespoons flour, stir until smooth and frothy; then add slowly 1¼ cups milk while stirring constantly; then boil 1 minute. Reheat fish in sauce. Remove from range and stir in one well-beaten egg, stir until egg thickens mixture. Serve in hot, shallow dish, surround with border of mashed potatoes or serve with baked potatoes.

The Daily Recipe

BOILED SWEET POTATOES.

Every particle of soil should be scrubbed from the potatoes, for the earth flavor destroys the delicate flavor of the potato. Also remove the fine roots that adhere to some of the potatoes, and if the ends are brown or look decayed, cut off a slice, just enough to remove the imperfect part. Boil them gently until they are tender enough to be pierced with a fork; then drain off the water and set the boiler on a warm plate with the cover pushed a little to one side, and let the potatoes steam for a few minutes; then peel them and serve with hot butter or drawn butter sauce. In this way the potatoes will be dry and mealy. They will cook quite a little after they are drained, as they retain a high temperature in the middle for some time after being taken from the fire. If you have a warming oven, after draining you may place the boiler, uncovered, in this oven and they will dry out nicely.

MATINEE GRIFFIN'S
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
FOR "THE STORM"

BED sheets and counterpanes—bath towels and bath mats that you dread to clean on wash day.

Just let them soak themselves perfectly clean with Rinso—the new scientific form of Soap in granules.

Do not put the Rinso direct from the packet into the tub. Make the Rinso liquid first.

Mix half a package of Rinso in a little cool water until it is like cream. Then add two quarts of boiling water and when the fresh lather subsides put it in a tub of cool or lukewarm water and you will have enough for a batch of clothes.

If the clothes are extra soiled, use more Rinso.

THE THREE-PIECE COSTUME

The three-piece costume continues to hold an important place in fashion's ranks. In the varied interpretations of this practical as well as fashionable mode every woman may discover a model that meets her requirements. The choice of clothes depends so much upon the sort of social affairs one attends and upon one's surroundings. Main Street is not unlikely to demand the scintillating brilliancy that the avenue expects of its frocks for evening wear. But Main Street is, nevertheless, up and coming when it plans its wardrobe and desires costumes smart as possible but which are appropriate to social affairs conducted on a rather simpler scale.

Fashion magazines and papers have done much to educate women who are distant from fashion centres in the art of planning and choosing clothes that are correct and suitable for each occasion.

The three-piece costume, whether it takes the form of a dress and coat or a dress and cape, is one that is admirably adapted to the needs of almost any woman, no matter where she lives or what her social position. Always smart, it has infinite possibilities as to color, material, or combination of fabric.

COURAGE

By Walt Mason.

When Mrs. Spick, a neighbor dame, had lost her muley cow, I called to say it was a shame, but said that dauntless frau, "Why worry? Twill be all the same, a hundred years from now." It was for her grievous loss; she sold some milk and cheese, which helped to buy the Worcester sauce, the twines, and teas; but patiently she bears her cross, and smiles at fate's decree. Her logic's such as pagans write, that much I most allow; but still it makes her outlook bright, and soother her furrowed brow; her griefs will be forgotten quite, a hundred years from now. And we will grieve for wife and me, and those of every man, and putting up a feeble whine is but a caitiff's plan: our eyes should taste not precious brine throughout life's little span. It is in vain to cry, "Alas," to raise a dismal row; while all life's ills still pass beneath time's speeding plow; your choicest woe will cut no grass a hundred years from now.

Why Physicians Recommend Magnesia For Dyspepsia

"Take a little magnesia after meals" is now a favorite dyspepsia prescription among thousands. The reason for this lies in the fact that practically ninety per cent of all stomach trouble is due to acid which irritates and inflames the delicate mucous membrane lining of the stomach and makes natural digestion impossible. Medicines, drugs and diets all fail simply because they do not remove the acid, the cause of all the trouble. The value of magnesia, which is neither a medicine nor a drug in the ordinary meaning of these words, lies in the fact that it neutralizes the acid. Of the many forms of magnesia such as the oxide, carbonates, milks and fluids, the best is undoubtedly Bisurated Magnesia, a teaspoonful or four tablets of which in a little hot water, after meals, immediately neutralizes the acid, stops the fermentation of the food and thus insures painless, natural digestion. Pure Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist and stomach sufferers should give it a trial.

BRITISH ACTRESS ASPIRES TO PARLIAMENT

(Associated Press)

London, Nov. 23.—The staid and stolid faith of Parliament are liable to receive a lighter veil if Miss Kryle Dellew, a London comedy actress, is successful in her fight to represent the Brighton (seaside) district in the next election.

Miss Dellew has been active in women's suffrage movements and she expects to carry on an extensive campaign in Brighton, despite the fact that she will continue her stage engagements without interruption.

LINKED LIVES

By

D. Kinmount Roy

'My dear Reginald!' exclaimed Mrs. Elton, 'what is the matter? have you been ordered an foreign service? You don't deny it; we know you had applied!'

'No, hang it, nothing half so good, worse luck!' he replied with scant ceremony, as he bit his moustache as fiercely as any swash-buckler of old romance.

Mrs. Radcliffe, whose bearing was a trifle dull, in her character of chaperon for two young ladies, piqued herself on knowing the ways of marriageable men; and dropping into a seat beside him, she purred softly with a world of sympathy and understanding in her tone.

'Ah! these affairs of the heart are so dreadful and so interesting—shocking! I hope none of my dear girls are in it!'

'Oh, no,' exclaimed Reginald, rising hastily, 'nothing of the sort—on my honour, no. It concerns a lady you've never thought of such a thing!'

'Pardon me, Madam,' said his friend Pultinore, bowing gracefully to the elucidate, as Hardcastle is not in a state of mind to do justice to the occasion. They have an island in their haste, madam, a beautiful island, where fairies hold high revels on fitting occasions, and dance to celestial music, and where only the duly initiated can hear or understand, but only a babble of passing whirrs and the moaning of wind in the tall pines; and to this enchanted island a maiden of wondrous beauty has been wont to repair, and there she weaves garlands of exquisite loveliness, and chants melodies that might well charm the nymphs of the river Dryope, from which the island takes its name. And now, madam, it seems likely that has a flower or a bow of ribbon behind her.'

The company had drawn together as Pultinore told his tale.

'What a gift for fiction you have!' remarked Crostance Elton.

'How do you know all this?' questioned Mrs. Radcliffe with practical directness.

'How do I know it, gentle ladies,' replied the narrator, taking in the whole company with a graceful wave of his hand; 'I know it by a hundred good tokens, by hunger and thirst and weariness and bitter disappointment, all of which I labour most assiduously to avoid.'

'I believe you!' drily remarked Herbert Masterman, who had heard only the concluding sentence.

Pultinore's face darkened for a moment, as he glanced at the speaker—but he continued as though there had been no interruption—Hardcastle and I are perils since morning for the chance of a sight of the island beauty, and all in vain. We reached the Hall so very late, you know, were and footsore—to learn that the lady had vanished, carried off, it is said, by highwaymen. I should to be all the evidences of a fierce struggle, to tell its own tale, and an old soldier named Adam, whom I interviewed so be the lady's guardian and general factotum, has also disappeared, murdered most likely, and thrown to the fishes. The river is deep and swift, and may never give up its dead for any practical purpose of evidence.'

'That at least is the theory of the squire and his brother magistrates. But my theory is quite different.'

'What is it?' exclaimed half-a-dozen voices at once.

'Why, that the river gods were so smitten with the beauty of this peerless lady that they have drawn her within their charmed circle, and while we are mourning her loss, she is no doubt disporting herself in effland, and dancing to celestial music!'

'Have done, Pultinore,' said Reginald Hardcastle, coming up to the group as the last sentence was finished.

'Why, it's a telegram!' remarked Masterman; 'Pultinore is coming out in a new character.'

'I'm perfectly wonderful,' exclaimed Mrs. Radcliffe; 'I will strictly forbid any of my dear children going near that river. I've never can tell what may happen.'

'It would be perfectly safe in their case, madam,' gravely explained Pultinore; 'I can assure you of that.'

'No, no,' protested Mrs. Radcliffe. 'I don't believe you, George Pultinore. I don't believe you; you are making it all up—you are—well, you are—' At this point the rest of the party trooped in from the dining-room, and the remainder of the sentence was never heard.

The company soon broke up into little groups, discussing the startling event; some with eagerness, others with indifference or amusement. Mrs. Allerton, a queer little bird of her taken little part in the conversation, seated herself comfortably near the Squire, and asked him with some interest, if the lady were supposed to be in any danger of life or character. 'Oh, not in the least!' the Squire answered readily. 'Did you say,' she queried, 'that she was some person of consequence?' 'Oh, by no means,' he answered hurriedly; 'my lady at all—came from nowhere—a perfect stranger save to a few poor people of no account.'

'But she was very beautiful,' persisted Mrs. Allerton; 'they all say so.'

'My dear madam,' said the Squire bowing, 'all ladies are beautiful, that is, all of my acquaintance.'

'Oh, Sir Squire Hardcastle, why do you say such things!' and she raised her fan threateningly.

'Well,' said the Squire, with his best judicial air of great candour, 'because it is quite true, madam. I assure you!'

'What was the lady like?' enquired Mrs. Radcliffe, coming up to them at the moment, 'no one seems to know. She might be a real mermaid or fairy for aught we can tell!'

HER THANKSGIVING GIFT

"Thanksgiving without turkey!" repeated Deborah with trembling lips.

"If your father were well enough to go hunting, it would be different," sighed her mother.

"Turkey, turkey," wailed Baby John, feeling that something was wrong.

"I'll bet that stingy old Mr. Wilson has a couple of extra ones," fumed Deborah. "I saw him go hunting early this morning, and he came back carrying what looked like three deer. That pigskin hero of his will eat them all, I'm sure. And here we haven't any."

She put on her wraps, bundled up Baby John, and got out the rude sled her father had made for them. As she trudged across the snow, pulling the youngster on the sled. She had made up her mind to ask Mr. Wilson if he would let them have a turkey, providing they paid for it in cross later on.

The Winslow house was the only other cabin on that part of the frontier. Deborah had to make her way through a stretch of snow-blanketed woods, so, leaving the sled behind, she had to go part of the way alone. She was walking along swiftly, when suddenly she saw, peeping out from behind a rock in the path ahead of her, a shining feather.

She caught her breath so quickly that for an instant she thought it was a feather meant. The settlers had not been bothered by Indians for some time, and were ever on the lookout for trouble.

Her first thought was to turn back and run as fast as she could, but that might mean bringing the savage at her with a whoop. Baby John was waiting on the sled at the entrance to the woods, and the Indian, chasing her on, might find him, too.

She could not go back. She must walk on bravely, as though she didn't see anything. The path turned just a little past the stone, and also could pretend she didn't see the savage at all. There was a chance that he would let her go by.

As she came close to the stone, she noticed a little trail of blood across the snow. The savage must be wounded. She hesitated a little, and then went on. The feathers remained motionless, but she seemed something peculiar about the way they stuck out. She stole another glance, fearfully. Then she ran right up to the stone.

There on the ground lay a dead turkey, shot, as she had evidently shot him, but he had got away, only to die later in the woods.

"Baby John!" she cried, running back down the snow covered path, "I've found our Thanksgiving dinner!"

Following Orders

The domestic science teacher wanted some plums and one of the boys was called out of his class to go after them. "Pinch a couple," warned the teacher, "to be sure they're ripe."

The boy came back and handed her the sack. "I pinched a whole bazful," he announced gleefully. "Here's your money, back."

Salesmanship

"Here's a book," said the young salesman, "that you can't afford to be without."

"I never read," answered the prospect.

"Well, buy it for your children."

"I'm single, and an orphan."

"Well," said the salesman desperately, "don't you ever need a nice heavy book to throw at your dog there?"

The Caveman Writer

"There's one thing to be thankful for," sighed the writer in the stone age, "I've had almost enough stories sent back to build my house."

Accounting for It

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself," said the teacher to Johnny, "coming to school with your face so dirty. Look at your brother. See how nice and clean his face is."

"Well," answered Johnny, "it's his birthday."

EVERYTHING SET FOR BIG GAME

Queen's Stadium Cleared of Snow and Straw Strewn Over it

Arrangements for the big game on Saturday between Eskimos, of Edmonton, and Queen's are fast being completed, and Wednesday morning the sale of tickets for the greatest encounter of the season opened at the gymnasium office and immediately there was a clamor for the pasteboards.

When asked at Queen's this morning how many tickets there would be on sale Queen's authorities could not definitely say, but they have a large number of non-student tickets to be sold at $1.50 each, while the bleacher tickets will sell at $1.00.Standing room accommodation has been placed at 500. There was a line-up for over an hour at the gymnasium office and tickets were being eagerly sought. There are no reserved seats and those desiring tickets must secure same at the gymnasium office. People who were in the habit of having their tickets put away for them will have to call up to get them or they will be disappointed.

In respect to the sale of the tickets a number of Kingstonians complained yesterday that after standing in the line for a full hour waiting they had been able to get seats only at the back of the grandstand. It is understood, however, that the arrangements for the issue, and the sale of tickets are in the hands of the Canadian Rugby Football Union and that Queen's are in no way responsible or to be blamed for the disposition of the seats.

It seems nice to have the Dominion finals being played in Kingston. The tourist papers do not think that very many will come from Toronto to see the battle, but on the other hand the Ottawa people who have been following Queen's through all the season are coming up again as are the Hamilton people. All arrangements have been made for special train over the C.P.R. from Ottawa to Kingston, leaving the capital at nine o'clock on Saturday morning and arriving here at five minutes to three. The special will leave Kingston at eight o'clock Saturday night arriving in Ottawa at five minutes to eleven. Over 300 Ottawa people are coming to Kingston to cheer Queen's on to victory.

Despite the fact that Hamilton is a long way off a good-sized contingent is expected to be on hand for the struggle. They don't forget up Hamilton way that "Pop" Leadley, "Lis" Walker and Awrey are three of the outstanding figures in Queen's football life and they are coming to cheer them on as well as the team in general. Toronto's batch of fans may not measure up to expectations but there will be the largest crowd of the season on hand at any rate to see the big struggle.

The Eskimos are coming to Kingston with a reputation. Those who at first thought that the Eskimos would be easy for Queen's are changing their views after reading some of the feats accomplished by the western aggregation. Eskimos have a real football team, a real live, celebrated coach in Deane White, and despite their long trip the Edmonton team is expected to put up a battle that will make Queen's step all the way. The game on Saturday should be about the best attraction of the season in football though many regret that it will not surpass the game of last Saturday between Argonauts and Queen's. After looking over the past season one can never tell what to expect and it may be even a more gruelling game than that of last Saturday.

Clearing Stadium

The work of clearing the Stadium was completed Tuesday night under the supervision of Mr. H. C. Nickle, and the straw was being placed on the ground following the clearing away of the snow so that the field will be in the best of shape by Saturday. There will be no rain or snow get there if it can, and the teams will have a dry field to work on.

In any event, the game on Saturday is going to be a battle well worth going many miles to see. Queen's have been doing light work so far this week but this afternoon and tomorrow heavy grinds will be in order while on Friday another light workout will be held and Friday night the players will have a good rest so as to be in shape for the great day when they will be seen out in battle to win the Dominionsite or go down fighting hard.

The Eskimos will arrive in the city on Friday and will have a light workout here, it is expected. After a good night's sleep they will be in good shape for the battle. There will be no excuses for either team unless, of course, a couple of star players are knocked out early in the game and it will be a battle from the first to the last whistle.

CENT. ONT. LEAGUE ANNUAL MEETING

Held in Hotel Quinte Friday When Team Will be Presented with Johnson Cup

Tomorrow afternoon, (Friday) the Annual Meeting of the Central Ontario Amateur Baseball Association will be held here at Hotel Quinte. All representatives of the league will be present, and matters of great importance dealing with next year's league, will be settled, one of the most important of which will be the decision upon the residence rule date.

At 7.30 P.M. to-morrow evening, a banquet will be tendered to the officials, and the Grand Trunk baseball team when the Johnson Cup will be presented and the Spalding silver medals to the players.

CONACHER DECIDES TO QUIT HOCKEY

Realizes the Truth—That all Praise for his Athletic Prowess Will Not Get Him Anywhere

Lionel Conacher, ranked as the greatest Rugby player who ever graced a Canadian gridiron, has also been considered by a number of professional hockey teams to make the jump to the moneyed ranks in the winter pastime, is through with hockey, even of the amateur kind. Conacher told Percy Quinn, Managing Committee, Thursday that he is determined to make his new business project go and will give up hockey. Conacher's decision hockey this winter to give all his attention to business. Conacher realizes that all the praise he has received for great athletic prowess will never get him anywhere, and that he must business like and work hard. He cannot do it and take part in sport, because he is not the kind to play on a team on his reputation. He is a faithful standard at practices, and it is these that take most of the time.

Again Will Miss Him

Conacher was being counted on to play hockey with the Argonauts in the O. H. A. senior race this winter. Some time ago he wanted to announce his retirement, but felt that as the Argos counted on him he could hardly drop out. But he has considered the matter thoroughly and will not play this winter. Another thing, "Conny" resented the remarks made last winter around the Arena and decided that he would not play on the Arena ice this winter. He had felt like perhaps playing for the North Toronto intermediate, but now has given up the idea of playing hockey of any kind. The big fellow will be missed, but the public will give him credit for paying first attention to business, and with him on such success there as he has had in athletics. Yesterday he turned down a rich offer from Leo Dandurand, of Canadiens, to play pro. hockey.

CURLERS WIN FROM HELLO TEAM

Last night at the "Y" Alleys, the Curlers defeated the Bell Telephone in three games. Both teams seemed, rusty in the first game, neither rolling very big scores, although the Curlers were handicapped by rolling a John Doe in the first game, as Bob Wray did not put in an appearance until late. Bob Wray had high single with 253 and Tom Hurley was high three string with 576.

There will be three games to-night, first, K.V.A.'s vs. Greenleaf's, at 7 o'clock, and the second game will be Bowlers vs. Grand Trunks, at 9 o'clock.

BILL HUGHES GOT THE BALL

The ball used in Saturday's big game at Toronto, was finally given to "Billy" Hughes, the M.A.A.A. Mentor, who has had charge of the Queen's for the past three weeks. Evans had the oval when the game ended and he immediately handed it over to Captain Johnny McKelvey. The latter then presented the ball to Captain Lionel Conacher of the Argos, but shortly afterwards, Referee Ben Simpson brought the leather into the Queen's dressing room and presented it to Billy Hughes with the compliments of the Argonaut team.

PORT HOPE CLUB ORGANIZES

Hockey Fans Eagerly Await Cold Weather, Ice and Games

Port Hope is one of the best sporting towns in Ontario and when you furnish good sport you need have no worry about your support. Lacrosse, baseball and hockey have all had large followings, but it must be admitted that hockey has commanded the most interest. Men and women will dance about to keep their toes warm at a hockey match but even scro weather would not keep them away. There is something fascinating about watching the fine chasers that you don't find in either baseball or lacrosse. The prospects for a successful hockey season in Port Hope were never brighter than at the present time and the lovers of the good old game should have a big time this winter. About fifty enthusiasts were present at the organization meeting last night and although the first situation in Port Hope is quite serious, every one of the fifty was wishing for cold weather in order to make a start.

The following officers were elected to look after the interests of the Intermediates and every effort will be made to make the coming season a banner one for Port Hope.

President—H. A. Scuthorp.

Vice President—T. J. O'Neill.

Honorary Vice President—

Secretary—Sandy Lockington,

Managing Committee—Mayor Curtis, Percy Quinn, Ed. Hamilton.

The Managing Committee will select a manager later.

Although the organization the officers held a brief meeting when representatives were appointed to secure the services of a trainer. The available training quarters until such times as ice practices can be held. The secretary was appointed a delegate to the Hockey Convention on Saturday and Mr. R. Butler, of Lindsay, will be supported by the local clubs as a member for the Executive.

ST. PATS AFTER DUNC MUNRO

Rumor Says He Has Been Offered $3,500 For the Season

St. Patrick's, of the National Hockey League are anxious to add another defence man of, real experience to their squad. And for that reason they are keen to land "Dunc" Munro, the well known Toronto athletic. Munro last season played wonderful hockey in both series and at the end of the season St. Pat's made him a large offer. But Munro refused. All summer they have been dickering with the player, but he held off. It is now understood that a day or two ago officers of the St. Pats approached Munro with an offer of $3,500 for the coming season and a good contract for seasons to follow. Whether or not Munro will accept is a question, but it is known that he is seriously considering this latest figure.

If "Dunc" does make the plunge amateur sport will lose the most well rounded athletic. His football days will be over and Parkdale would feel his loss. He is a ball player of good calibre and Munro would replace Cameron on the St. Patrick defence and team up with "Red" Stuart.

Cameron, it is known, is not quite satisfied with things in Toronto. Rumblings have it that Harry did not take kindly to Stuart stealing some of the applause he used to get on those sensational dashes down the ice. That hindered his play some. Cameron is temperamental also and "advancing in years, though he still has much good hockey in him.

With Stuart and Munro on the defence, St. Patrick's would present a strong defence and two players who are strong on the attack also.

It is understood also that St. Patrick's are after two more junior players who performed for Toronto teams last season.

AMERICAN GIRLS' HOCKEY TEAM MAY INVADE ENGLAND IN 1923

Philadelphia, Nov. 27.—An American girls' hockey team may compete in England next year, a member of one of the teams of the Philadelphia Inter-Club Hockey League announced today. A meeting of the Women's National Hockey Association will be held at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, Dec. 4, when an invitation recently received from the All-English Women's Hockey Association to send a team to England will probably will be taken up. An American team invaded England two years ago and the British Girls returned the courtesy last year. The All-American team would be chosen by elimination contests which will compete in the inter-city hockey matches starting here Thanksgiving Day. Scores of other organizations, colleges and clubs in many sections of the East and Middle West are entered.

TOR. HOCKEY LEAGUE HOLD ANNUAL MEET.

Fred Waghorne Made Life Member of T.H.L. Upon Retiring From the Presidency

There were several outstanding features of the twelfth annual meeting of the Toronto Hockey League, held last evening in Forresters' Hall, that age street, which was attended by a larger number of delegates than ever before. Fred C. Waghorne, who has been president of the league for the last ten years, retired from office, and as a slight expression of the appreciation of his work in pushing the growth of the orfanization from a league of less than a dozen clubs to the present flourishing hockey league in the world, was unanimously elected a life member of the T.H.L.

In making his annual address, the retiring president stated that last year was the most successful in the history of the league, as over 116 teams competing in the eight different series, and the winners of six of the leading clubs in the Intermediate City championships, while the North Toronto ladies' team defeated all opposition including the Alerts of Ottawa, and so became champions of the province. The winners of the T.H.L. senior title, was Lee, while the list of intermediate O.H.A. race and eliminated St. Helens, who were beaten in the second round to Niagara Falls. The T.H.L. winners last season were: Senior, Aura Lee; intermediate, Rosedale; intermediate, A, Parkdale; junior, Wychwood; juvenile, Thistles; midget, Aura Lee; bantam, Bellefairs; ladies, North Toronto. He pointed out that, while the league had been favored with good weather throughout the season, and no financial embarrassment of any account, much of the success was due to the co-operation of the various officers of the league, and the management and players of the various clubs.

"12" IS LUCKY

QUEEN'S NUMBER

"Twelve" has been Queen's lucky figure this season. In their first game with McGill in Montreal, the score was 12 to 11; with Varsity in Montreal, 12 to 6; and with Argonauts, 12 to 11. Boo-Hoo, the cub bear mascot, will be advised by herself in for the winter. Boo-Hoo has been a big mascot, and the collegians want her for next season. Last year's mascot, Gee-Whiz, died, Boo-Hoo has sucked a bit with the rugby fellogrers from Montreal to Toronto, and performed so well, the Queen's boys and co-eds too, want her to enjoy a winter's snooze.

AND ITS TRUE TOO

E. W. Ferguson, sports writer in the Detroit Free Press, in commenting on the situation under the title "Taking the "Hog" Out Of Hogtown."

Says: Toronto is still clinging to professional and amateur hockey championships, but in Rugby, where the Queen City has enjoyed supreme for a couple of seasons, Baconville got a severe jolt this year. Argonauts lie in a heap at the bottom, and Parkdale the O.R.F.U., but that was not all. Galt made away with the O.B.A. title after the Belleville crowd had stopped the Hillcrests; Varsity was thrown out by Queens; Loyola, the Montreal junior champions, walked into McMaster by eleven to one; and to crown it all, Queen's took the measure of the colored Garnets. Perhaps this is a forerunner of a change of venue in the hockey championships the coming winter. It's hard to tell how the amateurs will fare, but Saints —consistent exceedingly lucky to win from Sparks by four goals

MUSIC and DRAMA

"THE STORM" GREAT AS PLAY, GREATER AS A PHOTOPLAY

The limited number of principals in the cast of "The Storm," the most thrilling love-jealousy production which is the feature attraction at Griffin's tonight to Saturday, with a matinee, Friday and Saturday, gives each of the three featured players an unusual opportunity for making his acting stand out prominently. Rosemary Theby, the star, and Virginia Valli, and Matt Moore make the most of their chances. They give a performance that is far less from an artistic point of view and one hundred per cent. in entertainment value.

The play in all its magnificent action is uncommonly gripping and affords an audience the keenest pleasure and suspense. Virginia Valli as the French-Canadian orphan, loved by both Barry Winston and Dave Stewart, is a lovable type and plays the part with a deep understanding and sympathy that is winning her widespread commendation.

"The Storm" present the struggle between the two lovers to win the girl and the attempt of Massette to play fair with both of them. The denouement is a happy ending—as it is an unusual, but natural way that sends everyone home happy.

The portrayal of the storm and fire scenes are master strokes of stage management and reflect great credit on Director Reginald Barker and his associates. None of the stupendous grandeur of Langdon McCormick's great specialty has been lost in the film, rather it has been enhanced by virtue of the wide latitude afforded by the camera. The forest fire in the picture was enacted under grave dangers to the players and cameramen. The faces of the title are discernable at all times as they pushed forward through the fire swept pass, of the mountains.

New York and other metropolitan critics, have been unanimous in declaring "The Storm" as one of the three really big pictures of the year

A two reel Century Comedy, Pathe News, and Art Accord in the opening chapter of the great adventure play "Buffalo Bill," are being exhibited on the same program.

A tuneful musical score played by a Symphonic orchestra adds to the enjoyment of the entire program.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN IN STORY OF ROMANCE AND ADVENTURE

J. Warren Kerrigan, popular screen idol has the role of a young mining engineer in his latest photoplay production, "The Coast of Opportunity," which is the feature offering at the Regent Theatre, tonight to Saturday Matinee daily.

There is romance and adventure in this screen adaptation of Peter Phillip's novel, and these ingredients, together with a story which possesses an interesting and novel plot, make for very satisfactory photoplay entertainment. Kerrigan has a role that suits him admirably as Dick Bristow the intrepid young adventurer who "strikes it rich" in copper; Frits Brantley, seen as Mr. Kerrigan's leading woman is several of his most recent productions, lends all the charm and grace of her winning personality to the role of his sweetheart and the rest of the cast proved their actors adequate.

A two-reel Comedy, aKinogram, a new Vodevil Movies, and other selected attractions are being exhibited on the same programme.

JETS IMPORTANT POST

Ambrose paull, a distinguished graduate of Queen's University, has taken a position as sales engineer for the Canadian Ingersoll-Rand Company at their plant at Sherbrooke, P. Q. He will assume his new duties on December 1. Mr. Paull graduated in Arts in 1915 and is that year won the Rhodes Scholarship for Prince Edward Island. He removed to Queen's and entered Science, graduating with the degree of B.Sc. in 1922.

Called By Death

A. KELLAR

As the shades of evening were falling on the afternoon of Nov. 4th, 1922 the Grim Messenger, Death visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Kellar, Ormond, and claimed for its victim the husband.

Deceased was born in Prince Edward County over seventy-six years ago, but had resided in Hastings County nearly all his life. About fifteen years ago he moved from Moira to Camilton where his widow and little Marguerite still remain.

Mr. Kellar had been ill just one year from hardening of the arteries and heart trouble.

Deceased was a member of the Standard Church.

After a brief service at the family residence, the funeral was held in the Camilton Methodist Church. Rev. T. A. Seale, Belleville, conducted the service, assisted by Rev. David Parks, Inverary, and Rev. E. Farnsworth, Methodist Minister of Camilton.

The text used for the occasion was 2nd Cor. 5, 10. "For We Must all appear before the Judgment Seat of Christ."

During the service Rev. David Parks ably rendered "The Beautiful City of Gold."

Interment took place in Elmwood Cemetery, Corbyville there to await the resurrection morn when the dead in Christ shall rise first.

MRS. ARTIMISIA KETCHESON

Mrs. Artimisia Ketcheson, widow of the late Mr. W. R. Ketcheson, passed away at an early hour this morning, at her late residence, Roslin. Deceased was in her 88th year, and was born at Rice Lake in 1835. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Williams of Sidney Township. All her life was spent in Hastings County. Mrs. Ketcheson was a member of the Methodist Church. Her husband predeceased her some years ago. One son and five daughters survive. The son John, lives at Roslin. The daughters are Mrs. Armond Johnson, of Belleville, Mrs. M. Sayers of Roslin, Mrs. Annie Irvine, of Tweedle, Mrs. R. Miller, Smith West, and Mrs. Ida Blakely, of Marmora. One brother, Mr. Geo. Williams, and three sisters are living.

EXECUTIONS IN GREECE

ex former ministers, the unhappy Greeky have made their position more worse than it already was. Ever since they achieved independence they have carried political factionism to extreme lengths, even to assassination, but hitherto these crimes have been due to the zeal or folly of individuals.

Unfortunately the present cold-blooded executions bear a different character. The judicial murder of Gounaris has the added horror that the former Prime Minister was gravely ill at the time of typhoid fever. Gounaris was originally a Patriot, and became a party politician of the rather old-fashioned Greek type, intensely partisan in his feelings and pursuing party ends with deplorable wholeheartedness.

He had a good European education, but gave the impression of one using his abilities for narrow ends. It may be doubted whether he ever saw beyond those Greek parliamentary politics in which he was adept.

But he probably did his best for his country, according to his narrow lights and certainly he was not a criminal deserving of the fate of Turkish tragedy. They were pawns rather than players.

M. Stratos struck one as much more clever and shifty than Gounaris. He had a great reputation for diverting sinking navies and was famous for his skill in evading the consequences. To get shot for past mistakes was probably the last fate he can ever have expected.

M. Theotokis belonged to a family which has been distinguished in Greek politics for several generations, though the present man's representative made no special mark.

Baltazis and Protopapadkis were men of second rank, partly henchmen rather than leaders, who should have been saved by their mediocrity if by nothing else.

As for General Hadjianestis, there is little to say about him, except that he was a very bad soldier. He is reported to have been a martinet and there is even a rumor that he was not entirely of sound mind. Certainly his conduct of operations for the evacuation of Anatolia seems to have been fantastic, judging by the evidence brought forward by the court martial.

But if such an officer managed to get to the top, it reflected no credit on him, but upon the standards and traditions of the army to which he belonged, and the country to which the army belonged. The country cannot, with decency make an fatal mistake in electing a man for a responsible important post and then make him suffer a barbarous penalty for his and their combined ineptitude.

The only conclusion possible is that the step is a misfortune for Greece, as well as a crime on the part of the Revolutionary Government; that those men have been made the scapegoats for a failure, the responsibility for which extends over far wider circles.

ALPHONSUS L. MCWILLIAMS

The body of Alphonsus L. McWilliams, who met an untimely death at the Canada Cement Company's plant at Point Anne on Tuesday evening was this morning consigned to the tomb at Rond's Burying ground Tyendinaga Township. At St. Charles Church, Rev. Father McCarthy conducted a service. The church was filled with relatives and friends of the deceased. Many beautiful floral tributes and mass cards were tokens of sympathy. Bearers were F. Bennett, J. Bowler, R. Hopkins, J. Gadney, L. and E. B. Lally.

SMUGGLING OUT OF GERMANY A BATTLE OF WITS

Dresden, Nov. 30.—Fresh industries of ingenuity are brought to light daily in the battle of wits which Germany's border officials are waging against smugglers.

On the Bohemian line, the authorities operated for a time on the principle that every German coat has, or should have, a German lining. They previously had had much time in arguing with travellers as to whether or not the clothing in their possession at departure had been brought in with them, or was of material newly acquired in Germany. These discussions were abrogated finally by stamping the linings of all articles of clothing at the time of entry into the country.

Smugglers were not slow to originate means of identification. They had double linings put into their old wearing apparel. After the top coat had been stamped, it was used for any new article of clothing later purchased in Germany.

CONSERVATIVES EXPECT TO CARRY LANARK

ditions which will make the removal of the embargo valueless.

Mr. Mosher attended the special for votes for Mr. Findlay on the streets of the Crown's Nest Pass Line, legislation passed at the last session of Parliament as "the height of effrontery." That legislation for the benefit of the Canadian Farmers had perpetuated stromely low freight rates on grain and flour, cast-bound of the abortive legislation for the establishment of a Wheat Board.

"That legislation was never operated, but it is a ground on which they ask votes for Mr. Findlay."

Once more the Conservative leader criticized the Government's dealings with the National Railways.

Thornton An Experiment.

"I am not making any attack upon Sir Henry Thornton," he said, "the man is the right man or he may be not. He is simply an experiment at a high price. I am attacking the Government for doing away with the old Board of Directors of the National Railways which was doing well, which was composed of experienced railway and business men, and included Liberals as well as Conservatives. There was no excuse for the change except political reasons and a desire for party vengeance. For political purposes they cast shoes upon President D. B. Hanna for three years. A dishonest campaign was waged against him when they were out of power is the reason they hurled him out of office when they assumed power. Mr. Hanna is dismissed not for his failure, but for his success, by men who had denounced Government ownership and operation of the National Railways."

Dr. R. F. Preston, the Conservative candidate, Dr. R. F. Preston, the Conservative of the Almonte Conservative Association, and President T. A. Thompson of the Clark Conservative Association, a prominent farmer of the country, also contributed addresses.

Eczema Covered Arms of This Healthy Child

Mrs. Alex. Marshall, Sprucedale, Ont., writes:—

"When my little son was three months old he broke out in sores on his chest and arms. We did all we could to heal those terrible sores, but nothing did him much good. Finally I ventured on a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment and kept on using it. At last we were rewarded by the steady healing of the sores, and finally he was completely relieved of them. He is now three years old, and has had no return of the trouble since."

RAILROAD MAKES SECRET OF RECORD RUN

London, Nov. 9.—A record railway train run in England is described in a document kept secret for nearly 20 years, but now published in the Great Western Railway magazine.

On May 9, 1904, one of the Great Western long specials from Plymouth to London attained an overall speed, exclusive of stops, of over 65 miles an hour, and at times during the journey exceeded 102 miles an hour.

The speed was officially recorded, but the engine, for some reason not given, decided not to announce the accomplishment.

GERMANY LACKING FATS TURNS TO SUGAR

Berlin, Nov. 6.—Fat, one of the chief essentials of cooking in Germany, has come to be such a luxury that only persons with "fat" pocket books can afford it. At the end of October, hard fats cost from 2,000 marks a pound, while butter was bringing only 750.

The interest of big-fat eating amount ed to nothing in the days previous to the war, and German farmers complain they cannot fatten their porkers now as formerly, because they no longer get the nourishing Russian barley feed.

Consumption of meat in Germany is now only 43 per cent. of what it was before 1914. In their efforts to find a satisfactory substitute for the high-priced fatty foods, people are turning more and more to sweets. Chocolate candy, particularly, is in growing demand. Fruits and pastries are in high favor, and slices of bread are now spread with preserves or marmalade, where formerly they would have eaten with a thick coating of butter, margarine, or lard.

Goose was a leading meat in the old days, because of its unusually large grease content, but even this favorite has suffered heavily. In pre-war times, 8,000,000 geese were imported every year, as compared with 9,083 during the first two thirds of this year.

Previous to 1914, each year saw an im port of 100,000 double centners of dressed chickens and 22,000 double centners of ducks. From January 1 to September 1, 1922, both imported chickens and ducks, together amount ed to only 507 double centners.

Dairy produce also has been hard hit by the enforced change in appetites. The first eight months of the year registered 10,442 double centners of butter coming in, against 550,000 annually before the war. The former yearly import of milk was 330,000 double centners and of cream 440,000. In the eight months ending September 1, imported milk has amounted to 62,180, and the influx of cream exceeded the ridiculously low figure of 122 double centners.

Eggs formerly came here from abroad at the rate of 1,007,500 double centners, a year, besides the arrival of 57,134 double centners of egg yolks alone. From January 1 to September 1, this year, the position was reversed and there imports stood at 1,305 and 31,575 double centners respectively.

FASHION HAS RAIDED BARNYARD

Paris, Nov. 30.—Fashion, in her ever insistent search for novelty, again has invaded the barnyard. Rooster feathers have come back. They are the latest thing on smart Paris hats, and even on evening gowns. All colors are used, and when the feathers are dyed to match shade, the flyer does. However, natural white or black are the most popular colors.

Rooster feathers probably are about as cheap a material as can be found, but their use on chic hats has not lowered the price of bonnets. One little toque, shop is displaying those "simple but smart" things at 700 francs, while other stores ask 500 and 600 francs.

GOBBLER TO RESCUE; FARMER BADLY HURT

Chatham, Ont., Nov. 30.—Thomas Burke, jr., of the Baldoon Road, near the sixth concession of Dover, was attacked by a turkey gobbler and so badly scratched and torn that the required the services of a surgeon to dress his wounds. Mr. Burke caught one of the turkeys of his flock and was preparing to kill it when the gobbler attacked him, being attracted by the squawking of the doomed bird. The claws of the bird penetrated his eye and there is a chance that he may lose the sight of it.
